J And he said, our organization has to take these reactions into consideration, that we are sometimes so close to the thing that we don't know how other people feel and you know he's always very much affected by other people's viewpoints especially when he thinks that they're, you know, sympathetic to our main purpose (ph.), and so on.

- T Well, why didn't he thing about, for instance, workers people (ph.), like NMU, who are going out and fighting and losing their lives in the thing? I think if you send him, I'd like to clip out from the Daily and send him the statement to STALIN, the dissolution on the second front (all phonetic). I would do that.
- J Well, I just want you to know that I'm pretty sure that it's not going to help and that he's going to take the same attitude. And I don't know just.....
- T Well, people, as I thought, were terribly surprised, you know, so, of course, I told them that the delay was because of certain questions, you know, ROSE was disgusted and so forth and so on and everybody still feels that it's the most propitious time.
- J Yeah.
- T Well, there we are.
- J Yes, well, I just wanted you to know this because when he gets talking to ED he's going to be swayed somewhat too, so we just have a proposition on our hands.
- T Well, it all depends how ED, he ought to talk, you ought to see that he talks to him .....(jumbled, indistinct words). Jimminy Christmas! I mean, all right, so his name is not going to be signed. I mean, he's away, he isn't responsible for everything, you know, after all he's away.
- J Yes, well, that was his attitude before but now is attitude is much more than mutual, he's actively opposed. He may get a slightly different reaction when he sees ED but I don't think so, I don't think it will.....
- T I think ED ought to talk to him and tell him how he, himself was first questioning and how he thought the thing over and how, for instance, he and his NMU resolution, how general reaction, how we ought to lead, you know, and so forth and so on and the significance of the other front and (all phonetic) etc., etc., you see, after all, who else would .....(indistinct).
- J Exactly.
- T Jimminy Christmas!
- J Well, that's what happens when he gets into such surroundings.
- T I know, that's precisely. Now you see the ignorance of liberalism. And he worked too tight (ph.), you know, among these people he'd have worked too tight (ph.).
- J That's right.
- T (laugh) Well, that shows that you fellows have not instilled him long enough, protect him from kind of a shove .....(indistinct).
- J Well, that's something I doubt if we could ever do.
- T I'm afraid so, it's difficult.
- J When we had him here from day to day it's one thing.

- T Well, what shall we do? I think we should go through with it.
 J Well, he may, you know, he has an awfully stubborn streak in him sometimes. He's all out for Democracy and for what everybody else believes up to a certain point and then every once in a while.....
- T That's it, you see it's peculiar enough (ph.), we're considered defeatists (ph.), you know, we're the ones that are supposedly defeatists but if this guy who believes in Democracy insists on their point of view against the whole majority, everybody else is against it but they wouldn't admit it. You're right, it's always that way, by the way, Jimminy Christmas, but I suppose we have to consider that.
- J And I mean if he threatens to resign or something of that kind which he has before on one thing or another, well, his attitude now is I just don't want to get involved in any controversy, I'm doing an important job up here and this is all I can handle and so forth and so on.
- T How many people, by the way, have they got up there, do you know?
 J They finally had about 60. They were a way down, had about 18 registered, and then at the last moment a lot turned up and then they come in from the other sections of the .....(indistinct) .....have about 75. He becomes the all important ....
- T (interrupting) That is the all important. 60, that's precisely it, you see.
 J Well and that, after all, in a sense is his .....(indistinct), he just loves teaching and all that.
- T That's right, I know.
 J He thinks in terms of pure logic rather than reality and so on.
- T Listen, what has to be done is that when this thing is sent to him, at the same time that ED talks to him, not that he should ask him but he should tell him, I mean, give his own reaction to this thing, you see, or he writes a letter to him perhaps, with a copy, so he talks to him rather than the other way around, ask him what he thinks about it but talk to him and tell him that I've always had myself to discuss these things (ph.), and then give the reasons, you know, right off the reel, so they take the offensive that way, I mean, if there is any such way, don't you know, and give all the rest of the reasons and let him read his stuff with that, you see, but after all, coming from him maybe he'll think otherwise (all phonetic and indistinct).
- J Well, I hope that guy feels strongly enough.
- T Well, I think he should, I think he should...Jimminy Christmas, it's very important.

J .....(indistinct) was swayed by his wife, you see, his wife had talked to him and he had been all set until he talked to her, he was afraid he would quote her (ph.), she's not in this field and doesn't know anything about it but.....

T Gee, everybody talks to everybody and MIRIAM, isn't MIRIAM.....
J That's his wife.

T Oh, that's his wife? Oh, I thought, it's just MIRIAM (ph.), I was just wondering.
J She'd be all right.

T Jiminy Christmas, what the hell have we got to do with everybody?
J (laughs heartily)

T Gee whiz, I hear all kinds of things, wife and a lawyer and this and that, My God! We can't overcome everybody, you know.
J Well, I just want you to know it's something we may be faced with, we may have to make a rather tough decision on the thing tomorrow because it's not easy to try to persuade people over the telephone or even in a letter because after all, our arguments are supposed to be in the ad and if we aren't putting them across.....

T That's correct. No, but there are certain problems, I mean ..... should stress particularly how in the labor movement things are .....for example, the NLRB, they are not withstanding (ph.) this whole business, so insist upon that thing (all phonetic). Well, I think we have to prove to him that now is the time when we can do the most service, precisely everybody .....(indistinct), whether the second front business can be launched in the shuffle, you see? Now is the time.....even PM comes out like it did Sunday, you know, and says, this is not the second front. I don't know whether he sees a damn thing there. I mean, that's the important thing, to show him that. I would stress the thing that way and have all the commentators hear it (ph.).

J .....(indistinct) they're planning it, they're on the way.

T That's the same thing was done way before we advertised because people will just think we're on the way, sure, eventually, we know that. Well, I think we have to insist. I think we have to insist because it's very basic.

J Well, then how about .....(inaudible)

T Well, then .....(indistinct) his name might be used in the thing (ph.).

J We haven't got .....(indistinct) argument any more.

T So he isn't going to be responsible?
J There is no question of it.

T Did he call up on his own?
J He called up, yes, he looked in the paper and didn't see it and he wondered what was what and he was very happy.

T Oh, hell, Jimminy Christmas!
J And he's in just one of those states (ph.), you know, there are times when you argue with him and he listens very carefully, there are others where an argument, even if it's good, I mean, if you're doing your part well, and I'm not sure that I did, but even so, it simply crystalizes his own opposition and that was the mood he was in, a feeling that he's so fortified. I suppose he's had long discussions with a lot of different people.

T Yeah, I can just imagine. My God!
J He feels that we are just a little, narrow group that doesn't know how people in the great outside world feel.

T Oh, hell.
J (laughs)

T Yeah, that thing has always been used (ph.) and some now or other the thing comes around our way. There is someone there on the limb and we are still there on the .....(indistinct).
Jimminy Christmas!

J Well, if we get a solid enough front, if ED is enthusiastic about the final copy and helps work it out.

T Well, that's it, and you tell him also, you tell him for me, now it's up to him to do the necessary job, so to speak, to enthusiastically support the idea and support it in such a way that when he reads it he'll feel, well, if everybody's for it and here I am alone against it, I shouldn't stand in the way and that kind of stuff.

J All right, we'll do our best.

T Say, I think I'd like to talk with you and TED perhaps on some of the problems as the result of yesterday perhaps before we get together tonight and some steps that we might be taking now generally.

J Well, I can't, myself I couldn't do it much before because we are going to press and I have to spend some time on the magazine because now we're going to be tied up from 5 o'clock until midnight and I just haven't got much more time to give.

T Yeah, uh-huh. By the way, in the magazine, I am just wondering is it still possible in this issue to do something about, along the lines we discussed, I mean, some material or an article in connection with some of these issues that arose in the discussion. You know what I mean? Either in connection with the question of the meaning of this, that we reinterpret it, you know?

J Well, naturally, .....(indistinct) editorially.

T How's the captain? What does he write?

J No, he only writes about the Soviet angle. He's so disgusted and skeptical about the whole thing.

T Yeah he is.

J I think he is over pessimistic for public consumption. He's done all he can. He's also giving us a review of the WERNER (ph.) book in which he'll bring out a lot of .....

T Oh, he is going? Oh, that's good. I was thinking maybe asking MAX WERNER to write an article.

J That's a good idea. We'll have to do that for the next issue.

T Well, it's too bad. I wish you had thought of it.

J Well, I have been thinking of it, we've been asking MAX WERNER (Ph.) right along and we just haven't been able to get him.

T Oh, is that so? I see. Well, we'll have to talk about it. Maybe begin to think and discuss with certain people, like, for instance, POPE, and other people who are in this thing and get him to feel what's .....(indistinct) about, you know.

J Well, I think we can go over all of these things too, I don't think it's necessary to go over them beforehand.

T Well, also I had in mind about the magazines, begin to build something, you know, educational material along these lines. You know, of a higher grade, not just generally but ask you to bring certain people along, you know what I mean? There's an editorial in the New Republic, for instance. They raise this question....you see, 3 or 4 divisions of the Germans, and the what do you call them, the whole .....Italian campaign and 200 of the divisions on the other front (all phonetic). I mean, you've got to think the conscience of the people, you know. There are a lot of people that will be just misled and then they'll be lost to us, you see. It's one of those things, you start and before you know

T (continuing) it, you find yourself on the other side and just because of ignorance they fail to understand ( h.) so both in the Navy (ph.), they should actually think in terms of organizing some sort of a personal discussion with certain divisions, pick out half a dozen names, you know, of people who are tied up around the council, and so forth (spoken very fast and indistinctly).
 J That's a good idea.

T You know what I mean? So it wouldn't be like a surprise if and when something happens. Do you get the idea? Otherwise too much .....hangs around just one person. After all, we have to think about those things a little ahead of time and be prepared for all kinds of eventualities. So all right, then, we'll discuss the thing again.
 J All right.

T Goodbye

T Hello. Say, I got back this ad, you know, I'm looking it over. I think it's really well done, it absolutely corresponds to everything that everybody else is saying.
 J That's what I think. It's really a stimulating kind of thing, it seems. I think those headings just fit in.

T Everything, that's it. Did you read the editorial in the New Republic?
 J I haven't gotten it yet.

T Listen, they end up saying, it remains true, of course, that what would help Russia most of all would be a full scale invasion of the .....(indistinct), did you get those words (ph.), a full scale invasion of the European continent from the west, you know, and so forth, and they're beginning to hold .....(indistinct) special point of invasion first thing, you know (very fast and indistinct) and the whole thing is.....
 .....(indistinct) doubtful that it's Sicily the second front, you know (all phonetic)
 J I'm just sick as I look at it because it just seems to me that it's just something so needed.

T Absolutely, they never put editorials at the beginning of the page, you know, the main editorials, and they put it against almost 3 pages of editorials and dealing only with this question, showing that this is not the thing, the way to fight Hitler is this and so forth and so on. Jimmy Christmas, I mean, you get to feel sick about this business of having because of either not understanding or because of stubbornness, whatever it would be.

J It wouldn't do any good for the magazine to do this, would it?

T Well, I don't know. We have to do something about it. You know, I'm getting to feel helpless. God help the guys here, you see, you walk in there, a roomful, and for a whole day you have to fight it out, you know what I mean. But the guys here you have to call them on the telephone and you can't talk more than ..... and you know, that kind of stuff and it's sort of a helpless situation, which is absolutely unfair, absolutely unfair. I really don't know what to do about it. I know that if you talk it over with anybody, you see, they will agree with us. I mean, even the New Republic is for us to write special editorials about it.

J Do you think it would be at all effective if the magazine, well for the time I was thinking if we could get a group of good names with us, but to get those names takes time and so on.....

T What I hate to do is to be in the position of helplessness. That's the worst part about it. You know, you're not even defeated by.... or by anything, you know, but defeated maybe by somebody's whim (ph.) almost, you know, and that is the worst thing, if it was a small matter that we didn't give a damn about, all right, so we know.....

J The personal reactions coming in, it seems to me they're such strong reactions. We're not belittling in that ad, we're not belittling anything about this thing.

T Of course, not, of course not, and, you see, the worst part about it is that what he's doing is belittling everybody else. After all, there are a number of people here who don't merely just do things, or think things, what did you fellows for years and years, what kind of .....(indistinct) got. I really just felt too ashamed that I have to deal with a problem where I'm helpless to move.

J Do you think there is any possibility of the magazine doing it?

T I think, of course, the magazine can do it but it will kill the whole effect of the thing. Sure we can do it.

J Well, if it kills the whole effect then there's no point in doing it.

T I mean, it kills the effect of our really getting it across to the people. Of course, we'll do it. I think we'll do it in the magazine if we have to, you know, but the main thing is this.... why shouldn't we get together so to speak and decide? I don't know, I'm just thinking it, whether we could get, for instance, if ED in a hurry sees 2 or 3 people, that is, leading people, shows them this thing, what's their answer to this thing and then consult with them and maybe you get a lot of names signed, people that feel that way on whatever it is. It's a damn shame not to have it. And you know, furthermore, you'll get a lot of gossip, don't worry about it, you'll get a lot of gossip about this business because the papers will set the thing up, you know, we've recalled it, you see, and there will be a lot of gossip, you know, it will percolate. Something, you know, this business because people know it in the papers, they reserve space, they set up copy, people read it, you know, so forth and so on. You know, it's not what you call a cover-up as if you would type a statement (ph.) and sit among yourselves discussing it. See what I mean, and the agencies so forth and so forth and so on. I really am still sick about this god-damn thing and I'd like to see them stop everything else and see the thing when will we ever decide it?

J Well, the only thing is...could we get enough people to make it effective?

T I think we can. I don't care, it is not a question of people that counts, you know, it really doesn't. If half a dozen important names and the meaning of the text, you see, there's absolutely no reason. I mean, anything that might have been in his head that there were certain ways to underestimate this and that, it was met and he has absolutely no reason and no cause unless he is absolutely against it.

J Well, he is against it, I mean, there is no question about that.

T Well, I mean, against us. I mean, he doesn't take anybody else's view into consideration, after all.

J I'm absolutely sure .....(indistinct) first time some how on the same side of the fence, you know what I mean? .....made use of in some way by the.....

T Not a personal situation, yes.

J Yes, well he's been talking to me quite a lot in the last few months, tried to get him to do this and tried to get articles for certain magazines and in a sense they're working together. He feels that he's found a kind of unity at last and I suppose this is a great personal satisfaction to him and so he thought of rationalizing (all phonetic).

- T Well, he should also be honest about it and not try to be in the way of a lot of other people, hell who worked with him all these years.
- J It's only a personal reaction but I just feel pretty sure that that has a good deal to do with it.
- T I think you're right. I think you're right.
- J And then he's also thinking in terms of his position up there. This is something, well, he's doing something he loves to do and yet there's been a lot of criticism of his being there, you know, and the guy who's at the head of the thing and has invested (ph.) interest in this particular project and I'm sure there's just a terrific pressure on him in relation to all his other activities.
- T And I'll bet you that as far as attracting people to go there, perhaps his name was more responsible for attracting people to go there than the other people would have gotten.
- J Why is he there? Why has he taken a conspicuous position so that people thought of him as if the worst has been done to him.
- T Yeah, that's it, you know, because they're sure that the people who went, that it's a free proposition. Well, I say with broad emphasis that it's a most serious position. I don't know what to do about it.
- J Have you talked to our other guys downtown?
- T Frankly, I'm just ashamed of it. You know what those people, after all, I've got to decide, not they, I've got to advise them, you know what I mean.
- J Well, but I mean, as far as a split with this guy at this time?
- T Well, as I said, I don't want to do it on this issue just alone unless there is some deeper things behind it, you see, so I want to find it out and I can't do it by remote control, so to speak. I would sit down myself with him and fight it out, then know, let him come out and say what it is then we'll come to an understanding. You know, friendly enemy business and be done with it. But to start the thing and then be left in the middle (ph.), that's the point that bothers me and to be helpless about it is still worse. Because we ought to be able to find the motive, you see. If he would say, all right, I'll agree but don't use my name, all right you agree, we don't use your name and settle it.
- J It's gone far beyond that because as I pointed out to him, I'm pretty responsible except that I'm sure that he would have come to this same conclusion anyway. In the same instance when we were

J (continuing) trying to get him to use his name, I pointed out, he said he just didn't want to be drawn into the thing and so he'd rather not have his name and so he pointed out that as chairman of the organization if there was any discussion of it, inevitably his name would come in and so naturally he has that in mind.

T Well, as I said, I had to hear several people.....

M Do you want me to come down there right now and have a final discussion about it?

T Well, I'd like to, I think otherwise you are permitting a terrible mistake. I mean, we're just laying down on the job because, as I say, I've been through this New Republic editorial, all right..... the Daily editorial today again speaks about it, you know, but..... first editorial and make that main issue.

J Well, there's nothing, even in the press, there's nothing, there is no way in this ad in which we inject a sour note into the popular attitude.

T I don't think we do.

J No way at all. That's what his feeling is that we do.

T But we do not.

J And I don't feel that way .....(indistinct) we're calloused about American lives and/pertinent to military authority.

T Well, but listen, then the demand should be, after all, it is not only us that have to adopt ourselves to somebody else but somebody else has to adopt themselves to us too (all phonetic) so if that's the case, let him prove to us that there is a sour note.

J Well, just a minute, let me see if TED is here now.
He's on the phone now. We'll either be down there in about 10 minutes or I'll call you back.

T All right.

ES Well, yes, I was planning to.

J        Well, I think it might be a good idea if you'd hold it up for a while. There is an editorial in the New Republic which follows every single argument that we used in our ad even stronger terms, it's a very important element in the whole situation and we are just trying to figure out whether there is some alternative that we might consider in getting some other people to sign and so on so I think that if you'd hold the whole thing up for a while and see if we may have some other alternative to suggest and we'll get in touch with you again in a little while.

ES       All right, now, incidentally, I find out that the NAACP did pass that resolution before.....

J        I see. Well, then, that argument doesn't hold except the whole spirit and their reaction bears proof and so on. In the meantime, I think it would be a very good idea if you'd get ahold of the New Republic and read that too.

ES       It's a very important development.

Summary of Information:

On Tuesday, 22 June 1943, a presentation of the "United States and Soviet Russia at War," commemorating two years of heroic struggle of the Soviet peoples against Fascism, was held under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in the Museum of Science and Industry, Rockefeller Center, New York City, from 2030 to 2300. There were approximately 150 in attendance. Several members of the Armed Forces were viewing the exhibits in the museum but did not interest themselves in the meeting.

The persons participating on the program were H. B. Sherman, chairman of the meeting and of the East Side American-Soviet Council; Councilman Goldberg of New York City; A. Clayton Powell (Negro), New York Councilman; Lisa Sergio, Radio commentator, WQXR; Genevieve Taggard, poet; Ruth Fremont, who sang Russian songs; Eugene Connolly, executive secretary of the American Labor Party; Assemblyman William Andrews, and Assemblyman John J. Amella (phonetic) of New York.

The greater part of the program was devoted to the singing of Russian songs by Miss Fremont and the reading of Russian poetry by Genevieve Taggard. The speakers' remarks were very brief. Tribute was given to Russia on the commemoration of the second anniversary of Russia's entrance into the war, and democracy at home was assailed for some of the undemocratic activity prevalent in the United States. Greater unity with Soviet Russia was urged by the speakers.

Lisa Sergio stated that we must be sure that after winning the war we will also win the peace. We must be friends with other nations if we are to have democracy throughout the entire world, she said. RECORDED & INDEXED

Powell, in an extremely brief talk, dramatized a remorseful attitude toward the world situation. He warned the audience that the same enemies of Negroes are the enemies of Russia.

Andrews stated that we are in a total war, not only abroad but also at home. The total war, he said, is not only to safeguard democracy but also to make democracy work here at home. Director, FBI

RE: COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES IN THE BUFFALO
FIELD DIVISION - INTERNAL SECURITY (R)

Dear Sir:

On June 1, 1943, Special Agent C. RICHARD FULMER attended a meeting held at the Grosvenor Library, 383 Franklin Street, Buffalo, New York, which meeting was jointly sponsored under the following organizations:

Albright Art Gallery
Buffalo Historical Society
Buffalo Museum of Science
Buffalo Public Library
Buffalo Zoological Gardens
Grosvenor Library

In the main entrance of the Grosvenor Library, leading to the auditorium, there were exhibits of Russian Art, Culture, etc.

The program was opened with introductory remarks by Dr. JULIAN PARK, Acting Librarian of the Grosvenor Library, who advised the purpose of the meeting was to acquaint people in this Country with the Country with which we were allied, in order that we might talk more intelligently with our fighting sons when they returned from the battlefields. He introduced Mr. MELVIN H. BAKER who was the Chairman for the Buffalo Committee for Russian War Relief.

Mr. BAKER advised that there was a local organization which was a part of the National Council of Soviet-American relations; that the National Council was located in New York City, and that in Buffalo there had been opened a store which sold articles made by Russian labor, etc., and which also accepted clothing and other items needed by the Russians to prosecute the war. This store is located at 287 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, New York.

Continuing, Mr. BAKER advised that it was our duty as Americans and allies, to keep Russia in the war because Russia was winning the war for us, and that as Americans we should do everything within our power to keep them in the field and to spare American blood.

Further, Mr. BAKER advised that the difference in philosophies that existed between Russia and the United States was immaterial; that we were both fighting the war to accomplish the same end. He advised that he personally had a desire for us to know more about Russia, and for Russia to know more about us. He then introduced Mrs. NILA MADIGOFF, who is the wife of NBC's Moscow representative. Mrs. MADIGOFF has been in the United States approximately one year and left Russia at the request of the Russian government, because she had married an American subject and was not permitted to remain in Russia during the remainder of the war.

Mrs. MADIGOFF advised that we Americans thought the Russians had no freedom, cited several examples to indicate that there was freedom in Russia, and that the Russian people were like the American people. Mrs. MADIGOFF further stated that since Pearl Harbor, the American people have not had the freedom that they previously enjoyed, in view of the fact there was an emergency. She compared this with the fact that there had been an emergency existing in Russia for the last twenty-five years, because they were closely surrounded by other countries. As an illustration to show the restrictions on freedom in the United States, she cited the Censorship laws, and also referred to the FBI. Mrs. MADIGOFF did not elaborate on the part the FBI played in restricting the freedom in the United States. She merely referred to the Censorship laws and the FBI without further comment.

The principal address was delivered by WILLIAM MANDEL, Research Associate in the American-Russian Institute, and formerly consultant on Russian affairs for the United Press.

Mr. MANDEL advised that he had just returned from Canada where he had delivered a speech on Russia. He referred to Vice-President WALLACE's speech wherein he referred to the Four Freedoms, and listed under the Four Freedoms, the types of Democracy. He compared the Russian form of government, which he said was not a true Communistic form of government, with the Socialist, and further stated that many beliefs which are maintained in this country relative to the lack of religion in Russia are erroneous. He cited an example where Russians are permitted to attend the Greek Orthodox Church, which is the church of Russia.

Continuing, Mr. MANDEL advised that we would need Russia after the war is over, because of the prominence she will play in Peace and in post-war development; that Russia will likewise need us; that in view of these facts, there should exist cooperation and understanding between the two nations.

He further advised that Russian soldiers were spilling blood daily to win this war, and that they were winning the war for the United States; that we should do everything to keep the fighting sons of Russia on the battlefields.

Mr. MANDEL indirectly urged the opening of a second front by stating that he doesn't believe the Russian people will trust and believe in us completely until we have landed our soldiers on European soil.

There was then shown the motion picture entitled, "One Day of War -- Russia 1942", a March of Time production.

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to Bureau teletype to all Special Agents in Charge dated October 18, 1941, with reference to the above entitled matter, which teletype advised that THOMAS L. HARRIS was the National Secretary of said organization and which teletype requested that the Bureau be currently advised of any activity on the part of this organization.

Under date of July 15, 1943, this office was advised by Confidential Informant [ ] that the following article had appeared in the SAN DIEGO TRIBUNE-SUN on that date:

Copy of Article Appearing in SAN DIEGO TRIBUNE-SUN
July 15, 1943

"Russia's contribution to the war means that we are going to welcome four or five million young Americans home again who otherwise would be lying where Russian boys are today," Thomas L. Harris told members and guests of the Twelve Ten club at the weekly luncheon meeting held yesterday in San Diego club. Mr. Harris is national secretary of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, which includes among its sponsors the Hon. Joseph E. Davies, Sen. Claude Pepper and Secretary Harold L. Ickes.

"If we could realize that the homes of 77 million Russians are in Nazi hands we could understand better what the Soviet Union is like today," the speaker explained. "Just imagine that every American wearing the uniform today had been killed, incapacitated by wounds or taken prisoner, and that even then we would not quite equal the Russian casualties, and we can see why the Russians fight so bravely. And this number of casualties does not equal the number of Soviet civilians who have been killed in the last two years, mostly by deliberate brutality."

Russia's Contributions

Explaining the returns which the Russians have made for the lend-lease aid which they have received, Mr. Harris said that for two years 80% of the Nazi army had been deployed against the Red army; that even though Russia and Japan are not at war, Japan keeps three-quarters of a million men facing the Red army.

He told of the tank experts sent here by Russia to advise American manufacturers in the construction of heavy tanks and of the placing at our disposal of the Russian experience in the making of synthetic rubber. Russian experts also have come here to help advise the DuPonts in the making of explosives, he said.

Speaking of the siege of Leningrad, Mr. Harris stated that when the siege began, the city had a population about the size of Los Angeles and that when it ended, one-half of the people were dead, mostly of starvation. For five weeks each person subsisted on four and one half slices of black bread and a glass of water and yet, during this time, only 413 surrendered.

War Preparedness

"The Russians saw the war coming and prepared for it, though it meant sacrifice, deliberate sacrifice. You can't beat the axis," he warned, "without making a sacrifice in the standard of living. Even in 1936-37 the Russians were spending a larger percentage of their national income on war preparedness than we are spending this year."

In conclusion Mr. Harris said that from the war he feels we shall take a warmer, more friendly and sympathetic interest in Russia. "

It was ascertained that THOMAS L. HARRIS, the National secretary of the American Council of Soviet Relations, spoke before the Twelve Ten Club of San Diego on Wednesday, July 14, 1943, and again before the High-Hatters Club in San Diego on July 16, 1943.

The following report on the speeches of HARRIS was received from Confidential Informant [ ] on July 20, 1943:

b7D

"                   SUBJECT: TALK BY THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship

This talk was made before the Twelve-Ten Club Wednesday, July 14, 1943, and again before the High-Hatters Club, at the San Diego Club, on Friday, July 16, 1943.

Harris, who looks very much like an American businessman, medium height, bulging in the stomach, and wearing glasses, smart business suit, proved to be a very clever propagandist for Soviet Russia.

The purpose of his talk was to convince the audience that Russia was our friend as well as our ally; that they would never think of endeavoring to promulgate into policies of the Comintern.

Harris toured Russia in 1936 and 1937, and oddly enough was shown through all of Russia's factories, military as well as civilian. This is remarkable, because when the group of Consolidated Engineers went to Russia about that same time to advise the Russian Government as to the making of Consolidated Planes, they were prohibited from going into any of the plants other than those in which they worked. These men indicate a lack of knowledge about Russia's military strength as a result. So, it does seem unusual that a Minister like Dr. Harris, who was nothing more than a so-called World Traveler and Author, should be permitted to see behind the scenes in Soviet Russia.

He found in Russia that people still go to church; that it is a land of paradoxes. On one hand, the Russians are far advanced, for instance in the matter of information on transmitting pictures over telegraph wire; and are very primitive in other respects. Dr. Harris, who now lives in Philadelphia, and whose father is with the Ship Builders in Detroit, said that the Russians have definitely sacrificed comfort for national defense, which is more than the United States is doing. He said that people can still own things in Russia, but they cannot sell them for profit or loss; that this is one of the leading characteristics of the Russian economy. He said that about 3% of the lend-lease materials from this country and England had been going into Russia. He said that the Russians had captured 60,000 trucks of the Nazi in the Battle of Stalingrad. He said further that it was proved of recent date that 80% of America wants to carry on post-war relations with Soviet Russia. Dr. Harris said that the war would end suddenly in Europe, although he could not say when. He advised turning off the lend-lease to Russia rather than stopping it suddenly. He indicated that the Army Jeeps, which would be no longer necessary in this country, would be desirable in Russia, because they have not been reared to demand luxuries that we are compelled to have.

It is Dr. Harris' opinion that the Comintern will remain dissolved because Stalin is a realist and keenly appreciates the fact that if he wishes to do business with his neighbors, and he undoubtedly does, then he knows that any attempt to sow seeds of revolution would react against such a policy; therefore, he would be compelled to keep the Comintern dissolved. It is Harris' opinion that Russia will want to do business with us in order to re-build her territory and factories which have been under Nazi domination. He said that would not interfere with the United States either as to its security or as to its recovery. He said that Russia would rather deal with the rotary international than the third internationale. He pointed out in closing that our security and the security of the world depends upon the Russian people, and we can be grateful to them for keeping the world free, and it will pay us to be on good terms with them in the future.

I am herewith submitting a newspaper article from the Tribune-Sun of July 15th, which contains a report of his talk to the Twelve-Ten Club. "

According to information received by this office no further activity was engaged in by this individual during his stay in San Diego.

Very truly yours,

INTERNAL SECURITY (R)

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent GALE FRANK LINDSEY, dated July 7, 1943, at New York City, in the above entitled matter.

Confidential Informant [ ] reflected information on August 4, 1943, that MARTHA BOLMER, Communist Party member, attempted to contact JAMES A. MURPHY, Executive Secretary of the Communist Party, State of Oregon, concerning the founding of a "new American Soviet Union here in Portland". Subsequently, on August 18, 1943, this same Informant reported that MARTHA BOLMER had a conversation with MURPHY, at which time she stated that she had talked to a Mrs. HELD and a Mr. REECE about the American Soviet Friendship meeting and that Mr. REECE had informed that "we could hold it at his place". She said that Reverend REED and others are interested but Mr. HARRIS is not sure he can come up for the meeting and wants to postpone it until the latter part of September. MARTHA BOLMER said that she would be teaching school then and that Mr. REECE will be gone also. MURPHY advised MARTHA BOLMER that she should send a telegram to HARRIS, advising him that the meeting was being cancelled as there is no object in holding it if HARRIS will not be here as "we have no one to take his place".

It is suggested that the foregoing conversations refer to meetings being sponsored by the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, the chairman of which is CORLISS LAMONT of New York City. It is noted further that THOMAS L. HARRIS is National Secretary of this organization and may be the Mr. HARRIS referred to in the above conversation. No information has been obtained by the Portland Field Office concerning a telegram which may have been sent as above mentioned. It is pointed out further that MARTHA BOLMER, as well as JAMES A. MURPHY, is the subject of a separate individual Communist Party investigation in the Portland Field Division.

It is believed by this office that the Mr. REECE above referred to is possibly identical with WALTER REECE, the subject of a closed Communist Party investigation in this office, who is strongly Communistic, and is alleged to continually discuss Russia, its policy and progressive ideas, and is alleged to have admitted former membership in the I. Reverend REED above noted is believed to be Reverend J. W. REED, Pastor of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church, Portland, Oregon, who is President of the Portland Fellowship for Reconciliation. Reverend REED was a former member and sponsor of the Portland Council for Peace, which is affiliated with the American Peace Mobilization group in Portland. MARTHA BOLMER, along with Reverend REED, was believed to have been in attendance at a meeting on September 14, 1940, of the American Peace Mobilization, Portland, Oregon. Reverend J. W. RE: THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET

INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Dear Sir:

This letter is directed to the attention of Supervisor LISH WHITSON in view of the fact that THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS, National Secretary of the captioned organization, while in San Francisco during the period of September 1 to September 8, 1943, for the purpose of initiating the organization of a local council to be affiliated with the captioned National Council, personally contacted GREGORY KHEIFETS, USSR Vice Consul, STEVE NELSON, and possibly LOUISE BRANSTEN, all of whom are involved in the COMRAP case. HARRIS also made personal contact with several known members of the Communist Party and with individuals known to be closely associated therewith.

No information was developed indicating that HARRIS is involved in the COMRAP case. [However, due to his contact with KHEIFETS, NELSON, and BRANSTEN, the matter is being directed to the Bureau for its consideration.] The activities of HARRIS during his stay in San Francisco are being briefly set out as follows:

A reservation for a Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, 814 Broadway Arcade Building, 541 South Spring Street, Los Angeles, California, was made through the Los Angeles representative of the Mark Hopkins Hotel located at California and Mason Streets in San Francisco. HARRIS registered at the Mark Hopkins at 11:48 A. M. on September 1, 1943, under the name, THOMAS L. HARRIS, 1802 Fairbanks, West Los Angeles, California. He occupied Room No. 1022 at the Mark Hopkins until he checked out on the afternoon of September 8, 1943.

HARRIS, on the date of his arrival in San Francisco, contacted LOUISE TODD LAMBERT, State functionary of the Communist Party, 121 Haight Street, San Francisco, and expressed a desire to get in touch with STEVE NELSON, member of the National Committee of the Communist Party, and present Organizer of the Communist Party of Alameda County. [On this same date, HARRIS contacted GREGORY KHEIFETS, Vice Consul of the USSR Consulate in San Francisco.]

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that HERBERT RESNER of the law firm of ANDERSEN and RESNER, attorneys for the Communist Party, had invited AUBREY GROSSMAN, attorney, associated with the law firm of GLADSTEIN, GROSSMAN, MARGOLIS, and SAWYER, and the present organizer of the Professional Section of the Communist Party in San Francisco, and OLETA O'CONNOR, State functionary of the Communist Party, to a meeting at his office, the purpose of which was an urgent meeting with an individual believed to be THOMAS L. HARRIS, Secretary of the captioned organization. GROSSMAN, O'CONNOR, and RUDIE LAMBERT, also a State functionary of the Communist Party, were observed to depart from the vicinity of 544 Market Street, the location of RESNER's office, by surveilling agents of this office. (4) u

It was further ascertained that HARRIS telephonically contacted STEVE NELSON at the Communist Party Headquarters of Alameda County, ROSE ISAAC, an official of the San Francisco Branch of the AMERICAN-RUSSIAN INSTITUTE, and Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, who is well known to this office for his participation in various Communist Party Front groups. (4) u

On September 4, 1943, HARRIS telephonically contacted HERBERT RESNER at his home, and LOUISE BRANSTEN. It is believed that HARRIS may have visited LOUISE BRANSTEN in her home at 7:30 P. M. on this same evening as a pencilled note among the effects of HARRIS contained the address, 2626 Green Street, the residence of LOUISE BRANSTEN, and the further pencilled notation, "7:30 P.M." (4) u

HARRIS telephonically contacted KHEIFETS at the USSR Consulate on September 6, 1943, and again on September 7, 1943. (4) u

On September 7, 1943, a luncheon under the name of HERBERT RESNER was held in a private dining room, Dining Room D, of the Mark Hopkins Hotel. This luncheon was attended by PAUL SCHNURR, Secretary of the CIO Council and a known member of the Communist Party, AUBREY GROSSMAN, previously mentioned, SOL SILVERMAN, editor of a Jewish newspaper and active in alleged Communist Party Front groups, ROSE ISAAC, previously referred to, Mrs. ROBERT McWILLIAMS, HERRICK LANE, A. F. GAYNOR of the Railroad Clerks, and others whose identities have not as yet been ascertained. It was stated that Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, previously referred to, and FRED M. THOMPSON and his brother, JOSEPH THOMPSON, were invited to attend and were unable to do so, but that they could be counted upon to cooperate in any future activities.

This meeting was addressed by THOMAS L. HARRIS, who urged that San Francisco immediately initiate a local council to be affiliated with the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC. The purpose of this National Council, [as set out from literature found in HARRIS' room] is "to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the War and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace." W

The program of the National Council is designed to carry out the above purpose (1) by meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally, and (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

Relative to this latter point, it is of interest to note that HARRIS emphasized the importance of this particular phase of the program. Specific mention was made of the article by MAX EASTMAN which appeared in a recent issue of the Reader's Digest. The names of WESTBROOK PEGLER, HEARST, and others were also referred to and it was stated that the only way these individuals could be silenced was by "hammering, hammering, hammering..." etc.

One of the individuals present at this meeting, believed to be HERBERT RESNER, asked whether the Working Committee of the Council in writing protests concerning statements made by anti-Soviet writers would have to be circulated among the various sponsors of the Council for their approval. On this point, HARRIS answered, "Absolutely not," that the sponsors of the Council will have explicit confidence in whatever action the Committee might desire to take along such lines.

HARRIS in his talk stated that he had general jurisdiction from San Diego to Seattle. Mention is made of this comment on his part in view of the fact that the literature in his possession indicates that he is the National Secretary of the National Council, and it would appear that his jurisdiction would have wider scope.

Frequent reference was made by HARRIS of high Russian officials who had been contacted in connection with this program, it being intimated by him that the Russian Government itself would furnish the material and the facts to be used for the furtherance of the program outlined above. He indicated that this was one of the few organizations with which the Russian Government had indicated a desire to cooperate. (S) W

It was decided at the meeting that steps would immediately be taken to form a local council in San Francisco. HARRIS advised that one of these four will be available (as a sponsor): Vice President WALLACE, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, HAROLD L. VICKES, and WENDELL WILLKIE. He asked the people in attendance at the meeting their ideas concerning these individuals, and it was ascertained that Vice President WALLACE was first choice among those present with DAVIES second. HARRIS advised that he would advise RESNER, who is to act as Temporary Chairman of the organization, within three weeks whether or not Vice President WALLACE could be used as a sponsor.

Immediately following the adjournment of this meeting, surveilling agents observed the official USSR Consulate automobile pick up HARRIS in front of the Mark Hopkins Hotel and take him directly to the Russian Consulate where he remained for a period of two to three hours. (S) u

Upon HARRIS' return from the Consulate, Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, previously referred to, entered Room 1022 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel and engaged in conversation with HARRIS. This conversation dealt with the medical phase of the Council's work. (S) u

On September 8, 1943, HARRIS boarded a Greyhound Bus at San Francisco and went to Menlo Park, California, [where he contacted ANNA LOUISE STRONG at her home, 872 Partridge Avenue, Menlo Park.] A meeting was later held at this residence, which was attended by EASON MONROE, 469 Landfair Avenue, West Los Angeles, CHARLES H. NIEDERHAUSER, 664 Creek Drive, Menlo Park, HARRIET G. EDDY, 868 Creek Drive, Menlo Park, and LEO SHAPOVALOV, 940 Creek Drive, Menlo Park. (S) u

With reference to the above individuals, it is of interest to note that HARRIET G. EDDY has been in contact with PETER IVANOV, Secretary, USSR Consulate, San Francisco, who is mentioned in San Francisco reports of the COMRAP case. (S) u

At 7:15 P. M. on September 8, 1943, HARRIS was observed to board the Southern Pacific Train for Los Angeles, Car B, at Palo Alto. He was accompanied to the train by ANNA LOUISE STRONG and two men, one of whom is believed to be LEO SHAPOVALOV.

Mrs. CLARK suggested that HARRIS write at once to Bishop MOULTON, his address being Rev. ARTHUR W. MOULTON, 444 East First Street, South Salt Lake City. She advised that she was sure that MOULTON would get sponsors at once and arrange a meeting, and that the Unitarian Church would be available for the meeting. Mrs. CLARK further stated that Dr. RAYMOND COPE would be home from his vacation the following week. The letter further stated that "we are looking forward to your visit in Salt Lake and if you are not too swamped with engagements, my husband and I would be happy to have you call us while you are here." DETAILS:

AT LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA:

According to the Proceedings of the Conference of Local Councils held at New York, March 20 and 21, 1943, a copy of which Proceedings is in the possession of the Los Angeles Office, the American Council on Soviet Relations was merged with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship at this Conference. However, these proceedings also relate that the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was organized January 1, 1943; hence, for all practical purposes it appears that this can be stated as the date of the merger of the American Council on Soviet Relations with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc.

Since some activities of the American Council on Soviet Relations have not yet been reported by the Los Angeles office, the first part of this report will deal with the national organization and local organization of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc.

ACTIVITIES OF AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS

Referenced report of the writer reflected that the Los Angeles Council A.C.S.R. was conducting a series of lecture seminars on life in the U.S.S.R. It further reflected that of the five lectures scheduled, two had been completed, one by FERDINANDA REED, the other by EDWIN JOBE. On April 2 or 3, 1942, Dr. ALEXANDER KAUN, Professor of Slavic literature and Russian languages at the University of California, Berkeley, California, was scheduled to address a public meeting sponsored by the A.C.S.R., the title of his lecture to be "Soviet Life".

On Wednesday, April 22, the Council sponsored a showing of the Russian-made motion picture, "Baltic Deputy". In addition to this motion picture, RICHARD COLLINS gave a lecture on the Soviet film. Special Agents FRANK J. KEESEY and JOHN R. VICARS attended this showing and lecture at the Filmarte Theatre, 1226 N. Vine St. Admission was 55¢, and the theatre was about three-fourths full. Among those recognized by the writer at this meeting were ED ROBBIN, registered Communist, and CHARLES CHAPLIN, screen comedian and a sponsor of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., according to the "People's World" dated April 1, 1943, which contains a picture of him. COLLINS' lecture compared the Soviet film with the American film and, in short, the idea of COLLINS' talk was that despite the fact that the Russian movies were still in the experimental stage, they had started and developed these films more realistically than films had been developed in the United States. His entire speech gave one the impression that the Soviet film, despite all its handicaps, was better basically than the American film. Announcements of this meeting are being retained in the Los Angeles exhibits. RICHARD COLLINS by way of identification is a member of the Los Angeles Section, Los Angeles County Communist Party. He is a screen writer.

of DOROTHY COLINGORE who is also a member of the NW Section.

Also scheduled as part of the group of lecture seminars was an address by Dr. DOUGLAS DRURY which was to be held May 2, 1942. DRURY is a Professor of Physiology at the University of Southern California. There was no notice that DRURY or Dr. KAUN delivered their lectures as scheduled. The "People's World", which generally carries advertisements of lectures of this type, carried no notice that the lectures were to be held.

On Monday, June 22, 1942, the A.C.S.R., Los Angeles Council, in conjunction with the Drawing Room Club of Los Angeles, held a banquet commemorating Russian-American unity at the Ambassador Hotel. Dinner, including the tax, was $2.60 per person. The program furnished this office by Confidential Source A was as follows: (U)

Chairman, JOHN SANFORD, Novelist, "Author of such successes as 'Water Wheel,' 'Old Man's Place,' 'Seventy Times Seven'." JOHN SANFORD, believed to be identical with the above person, is a member of the Writers' Branch, NW Section, according to Source B. A lecture was delivered by Miss DOROTHY COLINGORE entitled "Statement on the Need and Value of American-Soviet Relations". DOROTHY COLINGORE (true name, Mrs. LINDA COLLINS, wife of RICHARD COLLINS) is a member of the NW Section, Los Angeles County Communist Party, according to the records of Confidential Source B. A drama was also presented entitled "The Bear" by Chekhov. This was a one-act play starring Miss GAY WRIGHT and LEONARD BUOTE. A concert featuring Russian songs and a piano solo was also presented as was an opera in two acts with JEROME HINES and ROBERT GORDON. Patrons of this affair were the Los Angeles Council of the American Council on Soviet Relations, who will be named in full later, and the following: (U)

Dr. and Mrs. WILLIS BAKER
Mrs. LULU RUSSELL CLARK
Madame RITA ELANDI
Mrs. DAVID KEITH ESKRIDGE
Mrs. EDITH WAKELAN-HUGHES
Mrs. JAMES L. KENNEDY
Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES LEONARD
Dr. and Mrs. VERNE LASOR

Mr. and Mrs. PHILIP HERIVALE
Miss JANE MEADE
DON and Mme. PHILIPPINI
Mrs. CELESTE RYUS
Mr. and Mrs. ROBERT ROSSEN
Mr. and Mrs. FRANKLIN SPOONER
Mrs. NINA SPALDING STEVENS
Mr. HORATIO CRASEY.

This program is being retained in the Los Angeles file.

Other activities of the American Council on Soviet Relations are as follows:

"A Children's Party and Preview of a Child Life Exhibit". According to the post card announcing this affair, it was to depict "the cultural and educational activities of the children of the Soviet Union. It was held at the American Contemporary Galleries, 530 W. Lacienea, Hollywood, admission 25¢. This announcement is being retained in the file.

The "People's World" dated June 12, 1942, in an article "Soviet Children's Art on View in Los Angeles", announced that "an extraordinary collection of Soviet photographs and art work will be shown here starting June 13, 3:00 p.m. at 1101 S.W. Moreland St., under the auspices of American Council on Soviet Relations.... The collection illustrates nearly every phase of child life in the Soviet Union. It contains 65 original paintings, drawings, and linoleum cuts by children whose ages range from 8 to 15, and more than 200 photographs of the vast Soviet activities for the physical and cultural development of children. There are striking camera shots showing children engaged in the war program on every front - exciting scenes of child patrols guarding the collective farms, of child roof watchers, of children of gorilla fighters, as well as scenes depicting education in the fields of art and science." The admission, according to this announcement, was 65¢ per person.

Another advertisement about the Soviet Child Life Exhibit states: "This exhibit, which recently arrived from the Soviet Union, includes photographs of maternity, infant care, nursery schools, and general photographs on children's educational and cultural activities." This announcement, a mailed circular, is also being retained in the file as an exhibit.

The following movies were also shown publicly by the Council: Wednesday, August 26, 1942, "Lenin in October", Filmarte Theatre, 1228 N. Vine, Hollywood, admission 55¢; "Lenin in 1918", Filmarte Theatre, admission 55¢. Post cards announcing these movies are being retained in the file as exhibits.

According to ERNEST DAWSON, who was contacted under appropriate pretext by the writer on various occasions, the American Council on Soviet Relations ceased public activity in September, 1942, due to its membership being actively interested in the California State elections, and also due to the fact that Mrs. CHARLES LEONARD, its Executive Secretary, took employment in the motion picture studios. Only two council meetings were held in the latter part of 1942, and no public activities were sponsored according to DAWSON. In addition, the writer noted that the "People's World" carried no advertisements of public meetings sponsored by the Council. [Furthermore, Confidential Source C, who is on the mailing list of this organization, advised that he received no notices of any meetings sponsored by the Council.] However, ERNEST DAWSON did advise the writer that the American Council on Soviet Relations, Los Angeles Council, had "participated in" the program entitled "Salute to our Russian Ally" held November 8 the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. This affair, part of a nation-wide program of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held November 7 and 8 in various large cities in the country, was in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic.

On Page 17 of the Proceedings of the Conference of Local Councils held at New York March 20 and 21, 1943, WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr., representative of the Los Angeles Council, stated that the Los Angeles Council was organized about two years ago and on November 7 and 8, 1943, "we had a large two-day Congress patterned after the New York Congress. After the Congress we decided that we wanted to become affiliated with the National Council." MORRIS undoubtedly was referring to the American Council on Soviet Relations, Los Angeles Council, which was formed about October, 1941, when THOMAS LYNNHUIS visited Los Angeles, apparently on a nation-wide organizational tour.

The above speech by MORRIS also indicates that the Los Angeles Council of American Council on Soviet Relations was the sponsor of the program held at the Shrine Auditorium November 8. However, the announcement of this program does not state that the program was under the auspices of the Local A.C.S.R. However, it does state that it was under the auspices of "Conference of American-Soviet Friendship". The committees for this program were as follows:

Chairman: WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr. According to Confidential Source D, MORRIS has long followed the Communist Party line and can be considered a Communist Fellow Traveller. (S)(U)

(S) U

Radio Committee: ORSON WELLS, who has reportedly followed the Communist Party line; OLIVIA de HAVILAND, screen actress, who has been active in behalf of Russian War Relief; IRVING REIS, reported Communist or Fellow Traveller; RICHARD COLLINS, Communist.

Press Committee: JACK PROCTOR.

Patrons: The patrons included various United Nations Consuls and a list of approximately 75 additional people many of whom are reputable people in the Los Angeles metropolitan area. However, among the sponsors are the following who have in the past been associated with a Communist Party or reported front organization: Dr. ALEXIS KALL, SHERIDAN GIBNEY, WILLIAM DIETERLE, JAMES HILTON, and S. WILLENS.

A copy of this announcement is being retained as an exhibit in instant file.

The following is a list of the members of the Los Angeles Council of the American Council on Soviet Relations which was contained in the program for the banquet sponsored by the A.C.S.R. and the Drawing Room Club held June 22, 1942:

Mr. GREGORY AIN, 7964 Willow Glen Road. (Records of Confidential Source F reflect that GREGORY AIN joined the Communist Party in 1937 using the name FRED GRANT. These records reflect that he resided at 1121 W. Kensington Road in 1938, was born in U.S.A., is 28 years of age, male, white, and self-employed. He was a member of the F.A.E.C.T., CIO, and was attached to the Professional Section, Unit 115, where he was Unit Dues Secretary. According to Confidential Source G, RUTH AIN, wife of GREGORY AIN, is also a party member under the name of RUTH LANN. She is presently assigned to the Victory Branch, Midtown Section. GREGORY AIN, according to this informant, is an architect. (S) U

Miss DOROTHY COMINGORE, 1716 N. Stanley. Records of Source B reflect that DOROTHY COMINGORE, also known as LINDA COLLINS, is a member of the NW Section. (S) U

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Sunset Branch. Her husband, RICHARD COLLINS, is a member of the Sunset group, Writers Branch, NW Section. (S)U

Mr. ERNEST DAWSON, 3003 S. Vineyard. (S)U Records of Confidential Source F reflect that ERNEST DAWSON joined the Communist Party in 1938. His records reflect that DAWSON was born in the United States, was 56 years old in 1939, male, white, and an American citizen. DAWSON was assigned to the 16th C.D. Section in 1939, 61-1 A.D. Branch. These records further reflect that DAWSON was a member of the following organizations: "Friends of the Soviet Union", "American League Against War and Fascism", "Labor's Non-Partisan League", "West Adams Methodist Church", "16th Congressional District Democrat Club", "Municipal League", "Sierra Club", "Methodist Social Service Group", "Federation for Political Unity". DAWSON with his brother is the operator of DAWSON's Book Shop, 627 S. Grand Avenue, where he deals in rare books. He was also observed by reporting agent at a meeting of the County Organizational Committee of the Los Angeles County Communist Party, Friday, August 13, 1943, at the Embassy Auditorium, South Hall. (S)U Records of Confidential Source H reflect that ERNEST D. and SADIE D., probably identical with ERNEST DAWSON and his wife SADIE DAWSON, were transferred from 59-4, 16th C.D. Section, to Branch S, NW Section, Los Angeles County Communist Party. There are no dates on these transfers which were obtained June 23, 1943, by the informant, indicating they are recent. ERNEST DAWSON, according to previous information, was Vice Chairman of the American Council on Soviet Relations, and describes himself as "Working Chairman". (S)U

Mrs. HELEN LEONARD, 304 N. La Peer Drive. Records of Source B reflect that HELEN LEONARD is the Chairman of Branch S, NW Section, Los Angeles County Communist Party. Her husband, CHARLES LEONARD, who has appeared on programs of the American Council of Soviet Relations, is believed to be presently in the U.S. Army. Records of Source B reflect that he also is a member of the Communist Party, a member of the Beverly Hills-Westwood Group of the Writers' Branch. (S)U

(S)U Mr. ELLIOT PAUL. PAUL, According to the records of Confidential Source I, was a member of the Initiating Committee which was called to form a Citizen's Committee to Free Earl Browder in May, 1942.

Mr. EDWIN JOBE, 1210 W. Rowland Avenue, Covina, California. JOBE was a former Foreign Security Administrator for the State of California. According to Confidential Source I, who is personally acquainted with JOBE, JOBE has caused considerable dissension in Covina because of his Communistic tendencies. This shows he has been sympathetic towards Socialism for the past 20 years, and within the last ten years he has been active in Communist work. He attends meetings and he has made speeches on behalf of Russia and has been responsible for starting meetings in Covina where speakers spoke disparagingly of Russia and (S)U

Communism. About 1936 JOBE and his wife made a trip to Europe and were gone thirteen months. Much of the time was spent in Russia. Upon his return to the United States, JOBE spoke openly about the advancement of Russia and how much better the educational system was there and how much happier people were there. Recently, according to the informant, JOBE has been making speeches regularly for Russian War Relief and is taking up contributions for the same. This Source advised that JOB has three grown sons who in no way share the sympathies of the father towards Communism. CHARLES JOBE, brother of EDWIN, who also resides in the vicinity of Covina, is thoroughly disgusted with EDWIN's activities. EDWIN JOBE was considered somewhat of an outcast in the community up to the time that Russia became an ally of the United States. He is now coming into prominence again and doing everything he can to boost Russia. JOBE is an orange rancher presently and derives his income from that source. This Source also transmitted a photograph of EDWIN JOBE from the "Covina Argus" dated July 24, 1942, which has been made a serial in instant file.

Dr. GEORGE M. DAY, according to a confidential memorandum dated December 28, 1941, prepared for CORLISA LAMONT by THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, A.C.S.R. is described as follows: "Dr. GEORGE M. DAY is Chairman of the Local Council, and Professor at Oxidental College. He is a quiet unassuming man who was in Russia during the Revolution, and because of his academic position and his own temperament, has been somewhat cautious in his expressions of friendship, but he makes a good chairman and deserves attention."

Dr. DOUGLAS DRURY. This same memorandum describes DRURY as follows: "Dr. DOUGLAS DRURY is a physiologist and a newly elected member of the A.C. on S.R. He is a quiet reserved man with a very high professional standing and quite unmarked."

Dr. LOWELL C. FROST, Dr. PERCIVAL GERSON, Dr. BRUCE GORDON KINGSLEY. Mr. ERNEST DAWSON, whom the writer contacted under pretext, advised that KINGSLEY attended a Workers' School class taught by DAWSON in the spring term of 1943.

Dr. RUDOLPH MARK, Mrs. HARVEY J. NELSON, Dr. DAVID TYLER. [According to Confidential Source J] the true name of DAVID TYLER is DAVID BERNARD TITLEBAUM who has been an instructor at the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, California, for approximately two years. This Source revealed that TITLEBAUM had about two years ago showed one of their informants a program on Communist lectures. Another informant described TITLEBAUM as being liberal but not Communistic. Still another source advised that about 7 or 8 years ago subject had argued with informant in favor of Communism and that at that time TITLEBAUM believed in some of the things the Communists were doing. However, this informant advised [Source J] it was his opinion that any radical tendencies on the part of subject had probably subsided. This source reflected that TITLEBAUM had changed his name in order to get away from a long Jewish name, but he did not believe that his name was legally changed.

Mrs. SUSAN D'USSEAU. (S) According to Source K, SUSAN D'USSEAU is the wife of ARMAUND D'USSEAU, a writer. According to this source, ARMAUND D'USSEAU's father has told this source that subject and his wife believe in Communist policies and the father disagrees and dislikes these tendencies on the part of his son and daughter-in-law.

Mr. SAMUEL WEGMAN. WEGMAN, according to his own admissions in 1942 at a meeting sponsored by the Pasadena Book Panel to which the writer was in attendance, recently returned from a trip to the Soviet Union. At this meeting, which was organized by the Communists in Pasadena, WEGMAN was one of the principal speakers together with ERNEST DAWSON. The entire meeting was devoted to lectures and book reviews on Russia.

Referenced report of the writer reflected that the American Council on Soviet Relations had a post office box only, and no headquarters in Los Angeles. However, on April 24, 1942, it was learned from the U.S. Post Office that on April 23 the American Council on Soviet Relations had furnished change of address from Box 647, Hollywood, California, to 6513 $\frac{1}{2}$  Hollywood Blvd., c/o the S. J. WEGMAN COMPANY. This source furnished the following information on the S. J. WEGMAN COMPANY:

On November 6, 1940, SAMUEL J. WEGMAN rented Box 567, Hollywood Station, at which time he gave his business address as 50 Fifth Avenue, New York City; residence address, 24 Fifth Avenue, New York City. He gave the following references: Central Hanover Bank, New York City; and M. KAUFMAN, 53 W. 23d, New York City. Mail to be placed in this box included that for SAMUEL J. WEGMAN Company, and also the GARGOYLE COMPANY of 75th Avenue, New York City.

Physical observation by the writer at the S. J. WEGMAN Company, 6513 $\frac{1}{2}$  Hollywood Blvd., revealed that it was a retail store selling abdominal supports and other articles of this nature. This informant further advised that the following were the references on Post Office Box 647 rented by Mrs. HELEN LEONARD, Executive Secretary, November 10, 1941: PERCEVAL GERSON, Roosevelt Hotel, 7000 Hollywood Blvd.; Dr. ERNEST DAWSON, Dawson's Book Store, 627 S. Grand Ave., Los Angeles; GEORGE M. DAY, University of Southern California; DOUGLAS DRURY, University of Southern California.

The American Council on Soviet Relations moved to 3871 Wilshire Blvd., telephone EXposition 1944, about May, 1942. While they were in these headquarters they issued a four-page leaflet, copies of which were obtained by Confidential Source L on October 6, 1942, at the CIO Building in the U.E.R.M.W.A. office, 5850 S. Avalon Blvd., Los Angeles, October 6, 1942. This leaflet advocated the immediate opening of a second front, and in question and answer form stated the points why a second front immediately should be opened. A copy of this is being retained in the file and one is being transmitted to the Bureau herewith bearing the stamp of the American Council of Soviet Relations. Also, apparently while this organization was located at this office, the following information was received:

A directive of the Communist Party State Organizational Educational Committee, dated October 12, 1942, reflects that petitions were being forwarded to the Los Angeles County Communist Party to obtain signatures at ten cents per person. These petitions, according to the directive, were furnished and sponsored by the American Council on Soviet Relations, and the purpose of said petitions was to send greetings to the Soviet Union on its 25th anniversary, November 7, 1942. Instructions in this directive were to the effect that all petitions had to be in New York City by November 1, and the party was instructed to make a short intense campaign to obtain a great number of signatures.

A mail cover placed on subject organization April 2, 1943, failed to reflect any pertinent information. The cover placed on ERNEST DAWSON and the Dawson Book Shop have been reported in the subject file on ERNEST DAWSON and are contained as exhibits in instant file. ~~CTU~~

Special Agent ERWIN P. HAIR ascertained from Confidential National Defense Informant, LA 76, on August 17, 1943, that the American Council on Soviet Relations had closed its bank account at the Security First National Bank, Melrose-Fairfax Branch, in May, 1942, at which time Mrs. HELEN LEONARD was the Secretary according to their records. No account was located in this bank on the National Council on American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., or the Los Angeles Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. ~~CU~~

CONFERENCE OF LOCAL COUNCILS

I. PURPOSE OF THE CONFERENCE

Before the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was organized, there existed in different parts of the country the following groups which were interested in developing American-Soviet friendship: Local councils of the American Council on Soviet Relations, local committees of American-Soviet friendship, and committees which had been formed for mass meetings held in various cities simultaneously with the Madison Square Garden Meeting in New York City on November 8th, in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic.

The purpose of these groups was the same as that of the National Council, but because each one was working as a separate unit, it was clear that more effective work could be done if all the groups were part of a national organization. Therefore, in response to repeated requests from these groups for information as to how they could affiliate with the national organization, the National Council extended an invitation to all these local councils and committees to send representatives to a two-day conference in New York City. The object of the Conference was to explain the program of the National Council and to discuss the affiliation of local councils.

The Conference was held on March 20 and 21 at national headquarters, 232 Madison Avenue, New York City. Instead of giving a verbatim report of the proceedings, the Conference has been summarized with a view to giving local councils an understanding of the organization and program of the National Council, and concrete suggestions for organization and affiliation of local councils.

II. ADDRESS OF WELCOME
Corliss Lamont, Chairman

I want to welcome heartily all of you here this morning in behalf of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

As you know, this organization has been only recently formed to carry on the fine work in the field of Soviet-American relations started by the old American Council on Soviet Relations and the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship. Our purpose is to promote friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, both as an essential part of winning the war against the Axis and as a guarantee of the United Nations' building a lasting peace when the war is over. Our program is educational in the broad sense of that word.

There were some optimists last fall who thought that American-Soviet relations would proceed automatically on a happy and cooperative basis. But with the rise of a new anti-Soviet campaign in America, we see clearly that there will always be a need for such an organization as ours. In reference to specific anti-Soviet propaganda, we have the obligation of being a militant, hard-hitting group that will answer and combat in every way possible misstatements and hostile acts in the U.S.A. directed against the Soviet Union.

The calling of this conference over this week-end shows that the National Council is finally going at full blast. For our work cannot be really effective unless there are local groups throughout the United States actively supporting and working for the Council program. We cannot really be a national organization without the cooperation of people like you in this room this morning. And let me add that this is a completely democratic organization and that we desire now and always your full and frank criticism.

I want to say again how very glad I am that you are with us today and that, in my opinion, this gathering marks an important milestone in the Council's progress and constitutes a promise of achieving something tremendously significant in the sphere of American-Soviet Friendship and international relations in general.

The real purpose of this gathering is to discuss in some detail the program and services that our National Council can render to local councils.

III. ORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL COUNCIL

Alice P. Barrows - Executive Secretary

The National Council was organized on January 1, 1943, in response to requests from all parts of the country and from every level of American life for information about the Soviet Union. The purpose of the National Council is to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential for winning the war and establishing an enduring peace.

The program of the National Council is designed to carry out the above purpose (1) by meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally, and (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

Late in December a provisional executive committee was formed to consider organizing a national council. This committee drew up By-laws which later became the By-laws of the incorporated National Council. (1) According to these By-laws, the central body of our organization is a National Council consisting of not more than 250 people. This National Council elects annually an executive committee, the membership of which is limited to 35 people. Because of the necessity of having the membership so located that they can meet frequently, it is necessary to have the larger part of the Executive Committee residents of New York City and nearby areas. However, the National Council, according to the By-laws, must include representatives of local councils and of special interest committees, to which I will refer later, and outstanding individuals in labor, business, the professions, etc.

You will see from the foregoing that the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is not a dues-paying membership organization. The present By-laws do provide for a $5.00 membership from each of the 250 members of the National Council, but this sum is rather in the nature of a contribution. Our organization is not a membership organization and does not contemplate creating a mass membership. The reason for this decision is that we are interested in having the broadest possible participation in this important work of building American-Soviet friendship. We want to bring our program to existing organizations and make it possible for them to participate in any or all of our activities. A membership organization tends to become an organization in which the members talk to themselves. It limits rather than enlarges the scope of the work.

(1) See Appendix B

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The National Council is interested in assisting the establishment of local councils in all the chief cities of the United States. We strongly recommend that these local councils should not be dues-paying membership organizations. (2) The chief purpose of these local councils should be to interest existing organizations in having on their monthly programs an interesting film, or an exhibit, or a speaker on the Soviet Union. Furthermore, in connection with the Activities program, the local councils can make it possible for all existing organizations in their communities to participate in these activities. To this end it is recommended that each local council have special committees on trade unions, youth, women, nationalities, religious groups, professional groups, etc. The National office already has a Trade Union Division, a Youth Division, and a Nationalities Division, and plans to start divisions in the other fields. The directors of these divisions will assist the committees of the local councils in organizing their work.

Local councils are going to need material on the Soviet Union. For that reason, during the past two months, the National Council has been collecting material for distribution to local councils and organizations. This material is made available through our "Educational Services Division." It consists of (1) some very fine photographic exhibits on many phases of Soviet life, (2) a wide variety of sound films, both features and shorts, 16 and 35 mm., (3) a reading list on the Soviet Union selected according to importance, popular price, and availability. There is also in preparation a series of pamphlets under the Council's imprint. Finally, we have a Speakers' Bureau through which we can send authoritative speakers on the Soviet Union to local councils and other organizations. We shall be glad to send this educational material to local councils, but I want to emphasize again that the work of the local councils is effective to the extent that they get existing organizations to use this material.

But friendship is not developed merely by listening and seeing and reading about a person or a nation. It is also necessary to act. For this reason the National Council has a Special Activities division. The purpose of this Division is to develop friendship by giving an opportunity to Americans to express, by acts of friendship, their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally. Mr. Samuel B. Leavin, chairman of the Activities Committee will tell you about the activities we are planning.

- (2) See Appendix C. "Recommendation of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to Local Councils".

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The third point in our program has reference to specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations. When such action is necessary the executive committee of the National Council will decide upon the action it is going to take, and will notify the local councils by letter or wire of the contemplated action. The local councils should then release similar statements exposing anti-Soviet propaganda and enlist support of their local organizations in condemning such anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has a task of the greatest importance both for winning the war and establishing an enduring peace. But the effectiveness of our work will depend upon the extent of active participation of local councils and local organizations. For this reason this conference is the most important step taken by the National Council since its formation. We want not only to serve the local councils through furnishing them with material, but we plan to assist you in the near future by sending you a field organizer who will help you in practical problems of organization. We want you to feel free to call upon us at any time for any help that we can give you, and remember always that the success of the work depends ultimately upon you, for the National organization can be strong only as the local councils develop strength and initiative in their communities.

III A. THE ACTIVITIES DIVISION

Samuel B. Leavin, Chairman of Activities

The purpose of this organization is to do everything possible to promote permanent American-Soviet friendship and to be a mobilizing agency for counteracting anti-Soviet propaganda that is detrimental to that friendship. Because this is its role, I believe the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to be one of the most important organizations today. Mr. Lamont expressed the hope that at our next Conference we would have twice as many delegates as we have here today. I predict that we will have many times more delegates than we have here today. This expansion, however, depends upon our ability to develop an over-all program so vital that it will interest and involve the greatest masses of people.

I would like to break down our general program into two categories: - one, more or less programmatic, and the other mass activities. We want to reach all the existing organizations. We want them to participate in our program. We also want to involve those great numbers of people that we can reach only as individuals. Furthermore, we want our program to be on the highest and broadest educational level in order that it be most effective in promoting American-Soviet friendship. In respect to the more strictly educational parts of our program we have:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

1. Soviet films, documentary, historical, etc. These films, while quite complete today, will be augmented from time to time with the new films as they are released. We have made arrangements whereby the Local Councils or organizations, either through the Local Councils or independently, can rent these Soviet films, paying the same charge as though they rented them directly. We are simply attempting to facilitate obtaining and using these films. The rental is very nominal, from $2.00 for shorts to $20. for a full length film. We strongly recommend that these films be an important part of your educational work.

2. We also have a list of photographic exhibits. These are a series of exhibits illustrating different and specific aspects of Soviet life and are decidedly interesting and educational. The rental ranges from $1.00 a week to $7.50 per week according to the particular exhibit desired.

3. As to speakers, we have a Speakers' Bureau and our task in the National Office is to provide you with good, capable and interesting speakers. I don't think I have to say much about this part of our services because it is obviously so important. Use these speakers as frequently as you can. Try to get them on the programs at meetings of different organizations. Try to have the speaker talk on an aspect of Soviet life particularly interesting to the audience of that particular meeting. There is a charge for these speakers because we have to pay them including their expenses, travelling, etc., but we are trying to hold down the cost to you to the most nominal figure.

4. We are also issuing a Bibliography of Suggested Readings and will from time to time augment this bibliography.

5. We shall publish many of our own pamphlets about which you will be constantly advised. We would suggest that each Local Council organize a literature committee whose primary function would be the ever increasing distribution of our pamphlets to organizations, groups and individuals. At all meetings, large or small, literature should be on hand for sale.

Now, in terms of mass activities, it should always be borne in mind that this part of our program is aimed to involve the greatest number of people and that the success of these activities is evaluated only in proportion to the broadness of the participation.

1. American-Soviet War Exhibit: This exhibit will take place on May 27 at the Museum of Science and Industry, R.C.A. Building, Rockefeller Center. We have received from the Soviet Embassy trophies captured from the Germans on the Eastern Front - uniforms, boots, iron crosses, identification tags of German soldiers, etc. We have also uniforms of the Russian Army, Navy and Air Force, and very fine cartoons and posters. The plan of the exhibit is dramatic. It will include three-dimensional material as well as striking photographic displays. When the exhibit closes in New York, it will be toured throughout the country.

In New York City, we are planning to have a dinner prior to the opening of the exhibit at which we hope to have as speakers important national figures. This will enable us to publicize both the dinner and the exhibit and thus stimulate interest in the exhibit. The same procedure should be followed in other cities. For example, local councils should arrange to have a preview to which important people in the community would be invited together with the press and, on the basis of the publicity attained, insure the greatest possible attendance. I would like to emphasize that you should try at all times to publicize everything that you are doing so as to bring the activities of the Council to as many people as possible in your local community.

2. Another project is our artists' contest for the best insignia symbolizing American-Soviet friendship. We are offering a prize to the artist designing the most appropriate and effective insignia. Their contributions will be exhibited in New York and will be judged by the people of New York as to what symbol is best. That symbol will be made into a pin and our hope is to have hundreds of thousands of people throughout the country wearing that pin as a mass expression of American-Soviet friendship. These pins will afford you an opportunity for introducing the Council to individuals and organizations. The pin will sell for a very small sum, somewhere between 10¢ and 25¢, and we hope that you will make every effort to get everybody to wear them.

3. Another interesting project that we shall launch shortly we call "Tokens of Friendship". While the details of this project have not yet been formulated, generally the project is this: Cities in the United States will adopt cities in the Soviet Union, i.e. New York adopts Moscow, Detroit adopts Stalingrad, etc. Each city will give to the city of adoption a token of friendship. Similarly different groups or organizations in a given city will send tokens of friendship to similar groups or organizations in the city of adoption. These Tokens of Friendship are not to be evaluated in terms of money, but are literally tokens of friendship to the gallant people of the Soviet Union. For instance, Detroit might want to give to Stalingrad a statue in admiration of its epic defense. The musicians in New York could collect a library of records of American music and present them to the Conservatory in Moscow. A trade union in Pittsburgh could present a gift of a particular kind to its brother trade union in the Soviet city of adoption. We think this will be an extremely interesting and exciting activity and that organizations and groups of all kinds will want to participate.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

3. The next project is one that we have already launched and because it is our first mass activity I urge that Local Councils endeavor to make it a really successful one. That is our Correspondence Card Campaign. The purpose of this campaign is to initiate and encourage correspondence between individuals in the USA and the USSR, so that on the basis of this correspondence and the constant exchange of ideas flowing from this correspondence, greater friendship and understanding will be established. As you already know, these cards will be sent to the Soviet Union and will be distributed by the Soviet authorities to individuals within the addressed categories. The contributions will go to help defray the expenses of this campaign and similar campaigns to follow. We should try to bring these cards to all the organizations in our community, to the attention of our friends and to the many individuals that you come in contact with, for the purpose of gathering hundreds of thousands of these correspondence cards. This correspondence between American and Soviet citizens is one of the most effective ways of developing friendship between our two countries.

4. Another project that will be launched shortly is our Essay Contest. This is an activity specifically for youth. The subject of the essay is "Why is American-Soviet friendship important and how can it be maintained and strengthened". The prize is a free trip to the Soviet Union or its equivalent in cash. Definite instructions will be forwarded to you at a later date and we expect that you will bring this contest to the high schools, colleges and youth organizations in your community, getting them to participate because the contest itself has life in proportion to the number of entrants.

To give you an idea of the direction we are following in terms of mass activities, I would like to mention briefly a few of our other contemplated activities:

1. Our Certificate of Award given to an individual or organization for an outstanding contribution to American-Soviet friendship.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

2. The Film Festival of American and Soviet films.
3. A Painting and Fine Arts competition based on the theme of American-Soviet friendship as essential to winning the war and establishing an enduring peace.
4. The encouraging of delegations to the Soviet Union and vice versa.
5. The holding of large public mass meetings.
6. A series of cultural forums, such as dance festivals or music festivals, emphasizing Soviet as well as American culture.

This is a broad program, exciting and significant - a program in which your Local Councils, in almost all cases, can participate. Your activities can and must be constant. They must involve large sections of the people in your community. Something must be going on all the time because it is on the basis of activity that people are involved, and it is through the involvement of people that the work of our Council can grow and be most effective.

Finally, we shall also have activities designed to counteract anti-Soviet propaganda. These activities will be formulated as they become necessary, and you will be advised at that time.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS FOR ORGANIZATION OF LOCAL COUNCILS

The following recommendations for organizing local councils are a summary of the results of the discussions at the luncheon and afternoon session of the Conference held on Saturday, March 20.

The Organization of New Councils:

The following procedure was suggested for setting up a local council. First, an interested group should be called together. This group probably should not exceed 25 people even in the larger cities, and fewer in smaller cities. This group of 25 should elect a provisional chairman, vice-chairman and secretary and a small provisional executive committee. This provisional executive committee, with the help of the others, should immediately approach a certain number of more important and representative people in the community, sincerely interested in promoting the progress and purpose of your program, and invite them to become members of the Council. The Council should not have more than forty or fifty people. We want to emphasize that the members of the Council should represent the community in terms of large groups of organized people in all fields - trade union, women, fraternal, church, nationalities, youth, educators, etc. This Council should then meet and elect a permanent executive committee and officers.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

It is also suggested that the work of the Executive Committee be divided into the divisions for which there are national directors in New York - Trade Union, Women, Professional, Youth, Religious, and Nationalities. The members of your Executive Committee should be responsible for the functioning of these various subdivisions.

The next important step is to invite prominent people in the city to sponsor your local Council. Your sponsors should include prominent individuals as well as prominent representatives of local organizations. They should be people who are sincerely interested in seeing your program brought to the community, although they cannot participate actively.

Therefore, a Council has people on three levels of participation:

1. The Executive Committee - directly responsible for the active functioning of the Council.
2. The Council - The larger and more representative body to which the Executive Committee is responsible and which to a lesser degree helps bring the program to the community.
3. Sponsors - Those people who lend their names and prestige to the Council but cannot function actively.

When you have sponsors, Council members, Executive Committee, Officers, and persons in charge of each of the six divisions, the organization has been completed. The officers and Executive Committee might be as follows:

Chairman
Vice-Chairman
Executive Secretary
Treasurer
Members of the Executive Committee
Professional representative Nationalities       " Womens               " Religious            " Trade Union          "
Youth                 "

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

100928

Special Affairs Committee Chairman
Educational Activities Committee Chairman
Speakers Bureau Chairman
Mass Activities Committee Chairman

The above is merely a suggested list. It should be changed to meet your local needs. However, in forming your Executive Committee, both their place in the community and their ability to handle certain prescribed areas of work for the Council must be taken into consideration if your Council is going to function.

Reorganization of Existing Councils:

In cases where there is already a functioning organization or a small group of ten or fifteen people interested in the work, the following procedure is suggested: These people should have a preliminary meeting, and constitute themselves a provisional committee. They can decide on the number of people that they want both as members of the Council and Executive Committee. The number, using the general pattern given above, will depend on your own needs. They must analyze the situation before adding their new members. If they are weak on trade union contacts, add trade union contacts, etc. In this way they will round out an organization that will have among its members people that can link the entire organized community with their work.

After the existing council has organized itself as a provisional committee for organizing an affiliated council of the National Council, they should take the same steps outlined above for forming a new council.

Affiliation to the National Council

When you have your Executive Committee, officers and Council, the Council should vote to become an affiliate of the National Council. Write to the National Council indicating that you have a Council and wish to become affiliated. When writing, give the names of your officers, Executive Committee and Council with a very brief plan of organization. Wherever possible such groups shall use the name, "_____ Council of American-Soviet Friendship". The National Council will notify you in writing of the acceptance of this affiliation.

Financing of Local Councils - Samuel B. Leavin, Chairman of Finance Committees.

I have been asked to talk to you on the question of finances. Suggestions on organization have already been made. Therefore, I will start at the point where you have the beginning of an organization, that is, your officers, Executive Committee and Council. Organizationally, the chairman, the Executive Committee and the staff secretary should see that sub-committees of groups or individuals are formed and are responsible for bringing our program to the following major categories: youth, nationalities, trade unions, women, professional and religious groups. In our National office there are national directors of these five divisions who will constantly be in touch with Local Councils developing our program in the particular field they are supervising. The directors of the five divisions in the National office are paid workers, but local councils should do this work through the volunteer sub-committees. These sub-committees are responsible both to the Local Council itself and to the respective national directors for effectively carrying out our program in their particular fields.

We believe that the minimum requirements for each Local Council is one full-time secretary, a small office, a telephone. No Council can really work effectively without the minimum beginning. Therefore, every effort should be made to achieve it.

We must assume, and I think it correct to assume, that any sizeable city can support a Council to the extent of approximately $3,000. a year. Surely, $3,000 a year can be raised for an organization of this importance. Suggestions for raising this money in realistic amounts are as follows:

1. There must be individuals sympathetic to the work of the Local Council who would make personal contributions. These people must be sought out, the work of the Council must be explained to them, and contributions obtained from them. ($1,000)
2. An appeal letter asking for contributions should be sent to a broader list of sympathetic individuals in the community. ($500)
3. Individuals should be encouraged to give parties and the revenue derived therefrom to be contributed to the Council. These parties can be not only fund raising in purpose but educational in content. ($250)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

4. Wherever possible, blocks of tickets can be purchased from neighborhood theatres where Russian plays or Russian pictures are being shown and the profits realized by the sale of these tickets would be additional revenue for Local Councils. Here, too, the work is not only fund raising but educational. ($250)

5. Occasionally, a large dinner can be arranged, or a private showing of a Russian film can be arranged to which people of means should be invited and contributions solicited. ($250)

6. Mass meetings if carefully organized can be profitable. For instance, it might cost $100 to run a meeting, and the sale of tickets, assuming that there is a satisfactory attendance, might bring in $200. ($100)

7. Once or twice a year, tying up with a large mass meeting in New York City, a large mass meeting could be held in other cities and a collection made which, if done effectively, usually brings in a very substantial amount. ($500)

8. In every local community there are always sympathetic organizations, sympathetic trades people that would take cans or boxes on which there would be the slogan: "Help Build American-Soviet Friendship". These cans would be for the purpose of collecting funds to help the local organization carry out its work. The New York Council is already using such cans. ($500)

9. Furthermore, from time to time the National Council will launch campaigns from which the Local Councils can derive an income. For example, I cite here our Correspondence Card Campaign. Assuming that a Local Council collected 20,000 of these cards, the resulting contributions would be approximately $5,000, half of which the Local Council retains, sending the other half to the National office. ($1,000)

10. The same will be true of the pins. They may be sold for, say, 25¢, permitting the Local Councils to retain 10¢ on every pin that they sell.

If these sums, amounting to almost $4,500, as enumerated above, are successfully collected, they should cover your minimum requirements plus your contribution to the National office.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

10020

What we are trying to put across is the thought that, with initiative and resourcefulness, a Local Council can and must raise through its activities the necessary money to support the minimum organization necessary to carry on its program.

As the National Office hears of successful means of raising money it will communicate these means to all the Local Councils for their mutual advantage.

Lastly, and of great importance, is the fact that the National Office has no other means of support except through the voluntary contributions made to it by the Local Councils. Inasmuch as the life of the Local Councils depends on the strength of the National Office, and vice versa, it is essential that the Local Councils raise a little more than their actual needs and contribute the surplus toward the organizational expenses of the National Council. For example, each Local Council should endeavor, through every possible means to raise above its actual requirements approximately $1,000 annually for contribution to the National office. The actual amount will depend upon its strength, geographical situation, etc.

To summarize: It is absolutely essential that (1) a Local Council have a minimum organization of one full-time person, an office, telephone, etc., (2) that it be resourceful in maintaining itself financially as a necessary condition for a healthy existence, and (3) that it endeavor to contribute toward the maintenance of the National Office.

Finally, inasmuch as an organization of this kind can only exist on the generosity of its following, it must always be borne in mind that the generosity of its following is directly in proportion to the effectiveness of its program and the significance of its work.

SUMMARY OF REPORTS FROM LOCAL COUNCILS

Milwaukee, Wisconsin - Alice Hendrickson, Executive Secretary

A Council on American-Soviet Relations was started in Milwaukee last summer. The first real activity of the Council was organizing a meeting to greet Pavlichenko when she came to Milwaukee in October. The result of this meeting was that in one week's time the Council became well known. Immediately following was the November 8th mass meeting. In addition, we have had dinner meetings at which Prof. Samuel Harper and Mr. Thomas L. Harris spoke.

The activity that has been most successful is the arrangement we have made for films. We arranged with a downtown theatre to show Art-kino films once a month. We distribute books and other material in the lobby. In communities far from New York, we feel the showing of films is one of the best ways of building American-Soviet Friendship. It is also a means of financing our work. Our Executive Committee does not think we should have a membership organization because then we would spend the large part of our time getting members.

Newark, New Jersey - Marion Hislop

The New Jersey League of American-Soviet Friendship is a state organization with an office in Newark. It was organized during the summer of 1942 with good response, especially from ministers. Since that time we have organized committees in Trenton, Paterson and Elizabeth, and have had an exhibit of literature of the Soviet Union in both Irvington and Bloomfield.

Los Angeles, California - William Morris, Jr.

The Los Angeles Council was organized about two years ago. On November 7th and 8th, we had a large two-day Congress patterned after the New York Congress. After the Congress, we decided that we wanted to become affiliated with the National Council. The Los Angeles Council can be helpful in radio shows as was indicated at the time of the Congress, when a dramatic broadcast about the Congress was put on by Orson Welles. We can be helpful in the picture field, not in producing pictures, but in suggesting particular films that may be used in that respect. We can also send out speakers from Los Angeles as far East as Kansas City or Denver. We would like to be a party to any national campaign such as the Correspondence Card Campaign.

Connecticut - Rose Dworski

The signature campaign of the American Council on Soviet Relations and the November 8th celebration gave impetus to the work, and a state-wide Connecticut Council on American-Soviet Relations was organized with labor, government, education and religion represented. We organized a fine group of people with a good list of sponsors for November 8th meetings in Bridgeport and New Haven. In Hartford the Russian War Relief Committee and the Council had a joint meeting. We have built a reputation for ourselves as a source of speakers and information of American-Soviet friendship and have been called upon from all parts of the state to help with meetings.

Albany, New York - Elias M. Schwarzbart

A small Council was organized early last fall with representatives from the church, trade unions, government, and civic organizations. First, we worked on the signature campaign for November 8th and succeeded in getting 1,400 signatures. Although Albany did not have a November 8th celebration, our local Museum was having an exhibit of Russian icons. The head of the Museum contacted RWR and the Council and a very successful joint meeting was held in connection with the exhibit. Mrs. Lamont also sent us a very good exhibit of Russian photographs and paintings.

We have people in the community who are sufficiently interested to join in the formation of such a council as is projected at this meeting.

Baltimore, Maryland - Mrs. Blank

The Baltimore Council on Soviet-American Relations was organized in July of 1941 and functioned actively until the establishment of RWR. We had two large mass meetings and ran a series of lectures. The Committee again became active in connection with the Nov. 8th Congress. At the present time in our city there is a great interest in this organization.

New York City - Franklin Folsom, Executive Secretary

The New York Council came into existence officially on January 1 as an affiliate of the new National organization. We began with the usual organizational form - a dues-paying membership organization. We had members. They paid dues and we got the work started, but there were obstacles, obstacles which have been noted by the National Executive Committee in the memorandum on dues which you have all heard.(1) We had the immediate problem of doing educational work and financing that work. We established a fundamental policy in regard to our fund-raising. We would not raise funds separate and apart from our educational work. In line with this policy we had the following fund-raising educational activities:

We had a theatre party for THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE and another for COUNTERATTACK.

We had the Roth String Quartet for an evening of Soviet Chamber Music. The Quartet volunteered its services and a large private house was secured.

(1) See Appendix C

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

We had a preview of the MARCH OF TIME Russian Film at no cost to us. Selected people were invited and after they saw the film these people gave sufficient funds to make possible the expansion of our staff.

We thought of work in terms of reaching people in the places where they lived. For instance, we had a meeting at the Ethical Culture Society. 1,300 people attended and we took down their names and addresses, and a permanent committee grew out of this meeting. They have already held a Forum on Soviet Medicine with an audience of 300 people.

We have shown a series of short 16mm films on the Soviet Union at small meetings and at parties in private homes. Almost every Episcopal Church in Brooklyn had at least one of the films, accompanied by a lecture. Not only did Reverend Melish reach several thousand churchgoers but he did so at a financial profit to the Council.

We had a reception for Valentina Orlikova. Two hundred and fifty people, carefully selected on the basis of their importance in organizations, attended. We presented a preview of part of "The Diary of a Nazi" and had a speaker on Women in the USSR. We gave Orlikova a beautiful phonograph and records; Hazel Scott played and Robert Carse spoke briefly.

We consider ourselves an instrument in the hands of the National Council - an instrument through which the educational services of the National Council must reach the largest possible number of New Yorkers. We also hope to become a source of revenue to the National office.

We have divided our work into the six sub-divisions recommended by the National organization and for which they have special directors. These sub-divisions have the specific job of bringing the educational services and program of the Council to the existing organizations in their fields, as well as developing special projects of interest to their particular field.

Additional short reports were given by Adele Margolis of Philadelphia, Mr. Meyendorff of Springfield, Mass. and Mrs. Walter Dewey of Boston, Mass.

SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY
Jessica Smith

Dr. Lamont introduced Miss Jessica Smith, editor of Soviet Russia Today who spoke of the increasing importance of the work of the National Council in connection with the new anti-Soviet campaign. She said that Soviet Russia Today is ready to assist in the work of the National Council both through publicizing its activities and through serving as an educational instrument in developing and strengthening American-Soviet understanding and friendship. She explained that a special rate could be arranged for local groups interested in making use of the magazine.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.

ARTICLE I

OBJECTS

Section 1. The general objects of this corporation as set forth in the certificate of incorporation, are:

(a) To strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics through the promotion of better understanding between them.

(b) To educate the American people to the need for such better understanding and friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as essential to victory in the present war against the Axis Powers and to the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.

(c) To act as a coordinating body and headquarters for organizations and groups of individuals subscribing to the above purposes, and to arrange for the affiliation of such groups.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ARTICLE III

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Section 1. The Board of Directors shall be known as the Executive Board, and shall be elected from the membership.

Section 2. The number of directors shall be not less than 20 nor more than 35, as the Executive Board may from time to time determine.

Section 3. Directors, except as provided for in Section 6 of this article, shall hold office for the term of two years or until their successors are elected.

Section 4. The Executive Board, until the first annual meeting, shall consist of the directors named in the certificate of incorporation and such additional directors as may be elected at the first membership meeting to fill vacancies created by the adoption of these by-laws. If vacancies remain or occur after the first membership meeting, the Executive Board, by a majority vote after notice to Board members, may elect members to fill such vacancies.

Section 5. Thereafter directors shall be elected as follows:

(a) The Executive Board shall elect a nominating committee consisting of five members, not more than two of them being members of the Executive Board.

(b) The nominating committee shall call for and consider suggestions for nominations from members, cooperating organizations and affiliates, and from the Executive Board.

(c) Thereafter the nominating committee shall prepare a slate of candidates which may exceed the number to be elected, giving due consideration to the need for a Board representative of all sections of the people and to the desirability of having a majority of the members within such distance from New York City that their attendance at Board meetings will be reasonably assured.

(d) The Executive Board by a majority vote may add additional nominations.

(e) Ballots shall be sent to the membership under the supervision of the nominating committee at least one month before the date of the annual meeting. The ballot may indicate which nominees are nominating committee nominees and which are Board nominees, and may be accompanied by short statements concerning the qualifications of candidates. The ballot shall indicate the date by which it must be received at the office of the organization. It shall be sent in such manner as to be a secret ballot.

(f) The nominating committee shall receive the ballots and after the balloting is closed shall prepare its report on the election for presentation and ratification at the annual meeting.

(g) The candidates receiving the highest number of votes cast shall be elected.

Section 6. At the first membership meeting the directors shall be divided into two classes. The terms of office of the first class shall expire at the first annual meeting; the term of office of the second class shall expire at the second annual meeting. As far as possible the two classes shall be equalized. As vacancies are filled, directors may be elected to serve in either class.

Section 7. The Executive Board shall meet as follows:

(a) At the call of the chairman or the executive secretary not less than once a month, and more frequently if required.

(b) Within ten days after the annual meeting for the purpose of nominating officers. This meeting shall be in addition to the regular Executive Board meeting for the month in which this meeting is held.

Section 8. Twenty-five percent. of the directors shall constitute a quorum of the Executive Board. Should less than a quorum be present at any meeting the members present may convene and adopt resolutions, but the same shall not be effective until a mail ballot has been taken of the absent members and a majority of the total votes cast shall favor any such resolution.

Section 9. The members of the Executive Board and the officers shall carry on the work of the organization between membership meetings.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Section 10. The Executive Board may refer any matter of policy to the membership by mail ballot. Such referendum shall be held whenever one-third of all the directors shall request the same.

Section 11. The officers and Executive Board shall render quarterly reports to the membership on the activities and business of the organization. In the quarter in which the annual meeting is held and the annual report rendered, no separate quarterly report shall be required.

Section 12. The executive Board may terminate the Board membership of any member who is absent from four successive meetings without sufficient excuse, after notice to such Board member of the Board's intention to do so.

ARTICLE IV

OFFICERS

Section 1. The officers, except honorary officers, shall be elected from the Executive Board and shall consist of the following: Chairman; not more than five vice-chairmen as the Executive Board may from time to time determine; treasurer, national secretary; executive secretary; and such assistant officers as may from time to time be deemed necessary or advisable by the Executive Board.

ARTICLE X

ASSOCIATES

Section 1. Non-members may become associates of this organization by contributing to its support. The Executive Board may from time to time create various classes of associates graduated according to amounts contributed.

APPENDIX C

// Recommendation of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to Local Councils Passed Unanimously at the Executive Committee Meeting, March 17, 1943, at the home of the chairman, 450 Riverside Drive, New York City

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship recommends that Local Councils do not become dues-paying membership organizations.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

We want everybody to participate in our work, not merely those who can afford one or two dollars a year dues or those who, because they are not involved in other organizations, are therefore in a position to join ours.

We want, most of all, to reach people through their existing organizations, and we want to avoid putting obstacles in the way of doing this quickly and effectively. Dues and affiliation fees and the formalities connected therewith are obstacles. It is unrealistic to expect dues from the memberships of many existing dues-collecting organizations. Furthermore, to set up Local Councils as dues-paying membership organizations puts us in the position of wasting good energy by attracting those individuals who are already most interested in our work, and who therefore will join if we call publicly for members. Moreover, if our organization has to spend much time in servicing individual members, then the apparatus will be diverted, in part at least, from doing educational work among organizations that have greater need of our educational services. A membership organization means that there would be membership meetings, organizational bulletins, extra records to keep, various activities irrelevant to the achievement of our aims, all of which are decidedly unproductive in terms of finances and usually very costly in terms of time, energy and money.

Often the argument is brought forward that membership is desirable because dues will help finance the organization. But organizations of the Council's type rarely, if ever, get appreciable help from dues. We can, however, develop self-supporting activities which will involve large masses of people. Also, we should not overlook the fact that a person does not become an effective instrument for developing friendship between the USSR and the USA merely because he pays dues.

People will participate in our work because they believe in our purposes and program. Hundreds of thousands of Americans consider friendship between our country and the Soviet Union vitally important for winning the war. These hundreds of thousands will not take the time and trouble to join a new organization, and it is not important that they should. What is important is that they have the opportunity to express their friendship through active participation in the activities of the National Council.

These proceedings are being retained in instant file as exhibits.

LOCAL ACTIVITIES

The local office of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., has only been recently established. On July 7, 1943, at a meeting sponsored by this organization, which is known in Los Angeles as the Los Angeles Council of American-Soviet Friendship (in accordance with Article 6, Sec. 2, of the By-laws of this organization which states, "Wherever possible such groups shall use the name '_____ Council of American-Soviet Friendship'. There shall be inserted in the blank space an appropriate geographic name, indicating the locality in which the affiliated group functions...."), at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, it was announced that the Los Angeles office would be located in the Broadway Arcade Building, Room 812. Special Agent MARCUS M. BRIGHT visited this office on July 8, 1943, and noted that this office was just opening on that date.

[It was ascertained from Confidential Source N that PAULINE TOWNSEND, maiden name PAULINE SWANSON, whose husband is LEO TOWNSEND, 609 N. Arden Drive, Beverly Hills, telephone BRadshaw 24582, is the Acting Secretary of this organization, working directly under Dr. THOMAS L. MARRIS, the National Executive Secretary, who is temporarily residing in Los Angeles doing the organizational work on the Los Angeles Council. (S) U

[PAULINE SWANSON, according to records of Source B, is a member of the Los Angeles County Communist Party, NW Section. Records of Confidential Source H reflect that one JANET PAULSON, 609 N. Arden Drive, Beverly Hills, is a member of the Communist Party, NW Section. This apparently is the party name of PAULINE SWANSON TOWNSEND. LEO TOWNSEND, husband of PAULINE TOWNSEND, according to the records of Source B, is also a member of the NW Section Writers' Branch, Beverly Hills-Westwood Group.] PAULINE TOWNSEND was interviewed under pretext by the writer July 28, 1943, and she advised that the local council had not yet been formed but that T. PERCEVAL GERSON, Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, and on the Hollywood Bowl Committee, had agreed to act as Chairman. She also advised that the Council would be formed in the near future and its activities would then begin sponsoring lectures, exhibits, movies and other educational features concerning the Soviet Union. She stated the purpose of the group was to combat anti-Soviet propaganda by an educational program. She also furnished the writer with the following propaganda: (S) U

1. A news letter issued by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Vol. I, No. 1, dated July, 1943, which is being forwarded to the Bureau.
2. An open letter to the American people on American-Soviet friendship with an introduction by CORLISS LANONT. This open letter

One copy of this folder is being transmitted to the Bureau, one to the New York Field Office, and one is being retained in instant file.

Special Agents MARCUS M. BRIGHT and ARTHUR M. RYHN attended a meeting at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, Blossom Room, July 7, 1943, sponsored by the Los Angeles Council. THOMAS L. HARRIS was the principal speaker and FRANCHOT TONE, movie actor, was chairman. HARRIS advocated the immediate opening of a second front in Europe and made mention of the commitments of the United States and Great Britain to the Soviet Union and the necessity for them carrying out these commitments. He criticized the United States for failure to deliver all of the materials that they had promised to Russia and criticized Ambassador STANLEY for his speech, stating that the Soviet Government had not admitted all the help which the United States had given them. He stated that Ambassador DAVIES' second trip to the Soviet Union and his visit with STALIN was a significant gesture of friendship. He also stated that the dissolution of the Comintern took away from GOEBELS and HEARST one of their big pieces of propaganda against the Soviet Union and cleared the way for unity among the United Nations. He declared that American-Soviet friendship was of the utmost importance to the United States and that that was the purpose of this organization. This organization also had a meeting [according to Confidential Source (X)] May 6, 1943, at the Screen Cartoonists Guild Hall at which Mr. CHARLES LEONARD (probably Mrs. CHARLES LEONARD since CHARLES LEONARD [according to Source (X)] is in the U.S. Army) was the principal speaker. This was the first of a series of meetings, according to this source, which was planned by the Council.

In connection with the meeting at which THOMAS L. HARRIS spoke, it should be noted that he has also made many other appearances in Los Angeles, among them being one before the Town Hall on June 14 when he spoke on the subject of "Religion of the Soviet Union". The Town Hall Bulletin, Vol. 5, No. 24, dated June 16, 1943, gives two pages to HARRIS's speech and states in part that in the Soviet Union, "although the legal position of religion is clear, it still requires courage to be a professing Christian....." "Admitting the atheism of the government leaders, he attributes this to earlier indifference on the part of the church." "At one time anti-religion was taught in the schools and there were anti-religious museums." Speaking on restraints on religion, this bulletin states that HARRIS said, "another reason for the restraint lies in the fact that the leaders of the government are Marxists, and there is a direct conflict between orthodox Marxism and Christianity. The Marxists have believed that religion should die. It has not, but one must not exaggerate the extent of the changes in Russia. STALIN and the other leaders will almost certainly remain atheists."

In closing HARRIS stated, "we must also recognize that in some respects the Soviet Union constitutes a challenge to our own conduct - especially with respect to race equality and ethnic freedom."

Special Agent DAVID A. MC CULLOCH attended a rally sponsored by the Russian War Relief Association at the Unitarian Church, July 29, 1943, which meeting was called for the two-fold purpose of launching a new program of Russian War Relief, and secondly, to hear THOMAS L. HARRIS. Approximately 160 persons were present, about 90% of them women. The crowd was predominantly Jewish. HARRIS spoke for approximately 30 minutes and stated he had made some 200 speeches in the east on the same or related subjects. His talk concerned chiefly the reasons why the United States should remain a friend and ally of Russia. He explained that Russia was a great deal like the United States and compared various parts of Russia to various states and territories in the United States. He also stated that the United States had the same kind of people as Russia and because of the vastness of the two countries, both peoples had travelled and they were therefore more nearly alike in hospitality, actions, dress, etc., than any other nation. He then lauded Russian War Relief and increasing this likeness and understanding between the two countries and remarked that there was still not enough appreciation in this country of what Russia has done in the war, and added that if every man in the armed forces of this Country at the present time were killed, taken prisoner, or incapacitated from further participation in the war, it would just about equal the sacrifice of the Red Army at the present time. There was no admission charge to this rally, and no collection was taken.

Concerning the reported movie conference which referenced Bureau letter, dated April 1, and referenced report from New York indicated was being planned, very little information has been obtained:

It is noted in the Proceedings of the Conference of Local Councils held at New York March 20 and 21, 1943, under the title The Activities Division, that "the film festival of American and Soviet film" was announced as being a "contemplated" activity. However, no date was set for this festival. It is further noted in the Bureau letter that "Mr. MORRIS was leaving for Hollywood and that an air mail, special delivery letter had been sent to Mr. LILLESTONE who was to furnish the desired information" concerning the film festival. Undoubtedly Mr. MORRIS is identical with WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr. a successful actor's agent in Hollywood, and Mr. LILLESTONE refers to Mr. LEWIS LILESTONE, motion picture director who was one of those responsible for the production of the Russian War Relief documentary short entitled "Our Russian Ally" which was released some time ago. WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr. and LEWIS LILESTONE are both reportedly Fellow Travellers.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

In the New York referenced report on pages 3 and 4 it is noted that a letter was received from a Mr. WANGER (phonetic). This is undoubtedly identical with WALTER WANGER, President of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Hollywood, California. His letter indicates that ALICE BARROWS' letter was discussed at the meeting of the Board of Governors April 7, apparently referring to the Board of Governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. It was noted that WANGER's letter indicated that the Board wished more time to form some definite plans and that he would communicate with BARROWS again. In this connection it was learned from Confidential Source P that ELIZABETH LEACH, Section Organizer of the NW (Movie Industry) Section of the Los Angeles County Communist Party, had indicated to another person early in the summer of 1943 that WANGER had promised to take this matter up again at the next meeting, although the informant advised that it was indefinite exactly what matter LEACH referred to. It appears probable that this related to the film festival. (K)u

Confidential Source Q, who is a close associate of Communists in the movie industry and is well posted on their activities, advised Special Agent JAMES J. FIEDLAY that he had been unable to obtain any information concerning this proposed film festival to date. However, he furnished the following information concerning the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship by written report (referring to the stated purposes of the organization):

"The foregoing statement is issued by a group of persons which before Russia was drawn into the war and forced to become one of the United Nations, sponsored, supported and were active in the American Peace Mobilization and as such did everything in their power to prevent enactment of the Lend-Lease Act aid to Britain and France, enactment of conscription for the armed forces of the United States, and which opposed by every means the National Defense of the United States.

"While pretending to bring about better relations between the United States and Soviet Russia, in reality this organization is the puppet of the Communist Party of the United States and will be used to spread propaganda for Communism throughout the country, and work for the interests of the Soviet Union solely.

"The organization has already drawn to itself an impressive list of sponsors, some of whom are undoubtedly 'innocents', unaware of the real purpose or the real control of the organization.

"The usual formula of setting up a Communist front has been followed, viz.: securing by trickery as broad a representation as possible by using a popular demand, this time the winning of the war, and hiding behind this representation, carrying out the real purposes of the organization by retaining control in the hands of a small highly-disciplined group of zealous Communists willing to do all the work and make any sacrifices to carry out their end.

"A glance at the names of the national officers of the organization and many of those who pose as sponsors immediately betray the real nature of the undertaking." (The report then lists the national officers and sponsors which have been set out previously in this report).

"Each and everyone of the national officers of the organization listed above", the informant continues in his report, "have been long connected with Communist activities in the United States. They have been active in such organizations as American League Against War and Fascism, American League for Peace and Democracy, Friends of the Soviet Union, Emergency Peace Mobilization, American Peace Mobilization, and a number of smaller groups."

The informant also advised that he had been informed that a local branch of the organization was presently in the process of being set up and that it would have a strong tie-in with the motion picture industry. The headquarters and main inspiration for the group will be in the Hollywood Section, according to this informant. Duplicate copies of the informant's report are being made serials in instant file.

THE NEW YORK CITY FIELD DIVISION

At New York, New York, will attempt to secure the brochure of the Proceedings of the Conference of Local Councils of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., held at New York City March 20 and 21, 1943. This brochure is a part of the Proceedings and is listed in the Table of Contents under point 7-a. It was missing from the Proceedings obtained by the Los Angeles office. It is noted in referenced Bureau letter dated April 5, that a Brochure (apparently identical with this Brochure) was to explain the forthcoming film festival.

THE LOS ANGELES FIELD DIVISION

At Los Angeles, California, will conduct further investigation into the background and activities of PAULINE SWANSON TOWNSEND, 609 N. Arden Drive, Beverly Hills. She is the wife of LEO TOWNSEND, a movie writer whom the "People's World" on July 21, 1942, said was employed at Universal Studios. It is believed she is an air raid warden; hence, considerable background may be obtained in the central files of Civilian Defense, City Hall, Los Angeles.

Will ascertain the identity of the local officers, executive board and sponsors of this organization when it is completely formed in Los Angeles.

Will, through [REDACTED] attempt to ascertain more details of the film festival apparently to be held in New York City.

b7D

Will follow the activities of instant organization.

(One copy is being furnished each of the field offices for information purposes because of the information set out herein concerning the organization, purpose and financing of the National and Local Councils.)

PUBLICATION

"It is my belief that the American and Russian people can and will throw their influence on the side of building a new democracy which will be the hope of all the world."

—VICE-PRESIDENT HENRY A. WALLACE

"Without Russia, our common victory would have been seriously jeopardized. Without the cooperation of the Soviet Union, there can be no permanent and durable peace projected."—HON. JOSEPH E. DAVIES

PURPOSE

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., was formed: To promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war, and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.

PROGRAM

The program of the National Council is designed to carry out the above purpose (1) by meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally, and (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

1. Educational Services

To organizations or individuals the National Council can furnish the following:

★ Exhibits

Numerous photographic exhibits on many phases of Soviet life.

★ Films

A wide variety of features and shorts, 16mm, silent and sound.

★ Pamphlets and Books

A reading list selected according to importance, popular price and availability. In preparation: A series of pamphlets under the Council's imprint.

★ Speakers

Authoritative speakers available through a Speakers' Bureau.

NOTE: The Council is not a subsidized organization. We are obliged, except in unusual cases, to charge a nominal fee for the above services.

2. Special Activities

★ American-Soviet War Exhibit

Trophies captured from the Nazis by the Red Army, superb new photographs, cartoons, posters and other graphic material from the war fronts, both American and Soviet, dramatically presented, make this a different exhibit. Opening in New York June First, it will be toured throughout the country.

★ Tokens of Friendship

The people of American communities are invited to send tokens of friendship to people of corresponding Soviet communities. For example, Detroit might select Stalingrad. Different groups in that city—youth, trade unions, professionals, etc.—could send useful or artistic tokens of friendship to similar groups in the city of adoption. It is imperative that the National Council, which will take charge of forwarding the tokens, be consulted about any proposed token before work on the project is begun.

★ Correspondence

The National Council has prepared attractive postcards which American citizens may use for initiating correspondence with Soviet citizens. The National Council will forward these messages to individuals in the Soviet Union.

★ Friendship Pin

Artists throughout the country have been invited to compete for the best design for an insignia symbolizing American-Soviet friendship. The winning design will be made into a pin, available to everyone.

★ Essay Contest

"Why is American-Soviet Friendship Important to the United States and how can it be maintained and strengthened?" Contest open to the young people of America. Prize: A free post war trip to the Soviet Union, or its cash equivalent.

3. How You Can Take Part

Any individual or any organization interested in promoting American-Soviet friendship may participate in this program.

The National Council will assist in establishing councils in all the chief cities of the United States. These local councils, which are not dues-paying membership organizations, will be representative of various sections of the community and will bring the Council's program to existing organizations.

The National Council will set up special interest committees for trade unions, youth, women, nationalities, religious groups, professional groups, etc., which will cooperate with similar committees in councils throughout the country.

If you are interested in any aspect of our national or local work please write for further details.

Since the Council is financially dependent on income from its services and contributions from the general public, whatever you give will enable the National Council to carry out fully the program described in this booklet.

NOW!

*America's Stake in a

1. QUESTION: Why is a Second Front Necessary NOW?

ANSWER: Hitler and the high command have always feared fighting on two fronts. They know that Germany was defeated in the last war and can be defeated in this war by being forced to fight on two fronts. A second land front in Europe would compel the Nazis to divide their forces; it would give the United Nations the initiative; by squeezing the body of the Axis octopus between the Red Army and an Anglo-American expeditionary force the Axis tentacles in Libya, the Atlantic and the Pacific would loose their grip.

A Second Front can mean victory in 1942 if it strikes while Hitler's major forces are engaged in the East, while Western Europe is denuded of troops. But time works on Hitler's side. Today patriots in conquered countries sabotage production, heroically resist slave rule, prepare to rise in support of an invading army. But every day that passes Gestapo terror massacres more anti-fascists and organizes more production for the Hitler war machine. Every day that passes these potential allies grow weaker, hungrier. Delay means facing a Nazi army that grows stronger, not weaker. Delay means sacrificing lives of valued allies in conquered countries, lowering their morale, their faith in allied intervention. Delay condemns Britain's and America's well-armed, well-trained troops to demoralizing inertia.

A Second Front must be opened now not only to relieve the Soviet armies and people who have so magnificently borne the brunt of Hitler's attack for fourteen months and suffered 5,000,000 casualties. It must be opened to save the United Nations from catastrophe.

2. QUESTION: What would Failure to Open a Second Front Mean?

ANSWER: Unless a diversion is created drawing German strategic reserves from the Eastern Front, the Red Army, now outnumbered 3 to 2 in men and much more than that in materiel, may be lost as an offensive power for a long time, even though it will fight on. Until now, Russian resistance has meant quiet nights in Britain, has protected the safety of New York and San Francisco. But if the Nazi summer offensive reaches its goal, the oil of the Caucasus will be used against us. By early fall, the major part of the Nazi-fascist troops and the Luftwaffe will invade either Great Britain, or the middle East and India—making a junction with the Japanese. The United States will then be threatened from all cardinal points but the North.

3. QUESTION: How would a Second Front help the USA against Japan?

ANSWER: Defeat Hitler and you crush the heart of the Axis. A successful Second Front will do just that. This would release the entire military, naval, air and industrial might of the United States and Great Britain against Japan. The embattled Chinese realize this and have been urging a Second Front in Europe. The Soviets would be able to vastly increase their shipments of arms to China. It will be far less costly to defeat Hitler by opening a Second Front in Europe than to expose our Soviet allies and ourselves to the danger of a Second Front in the Far East opened by the Japanese.

4. QUESTION: Isn't a Second Front in the Air Sufficient?

ANSWER: No. Large scale bombing can help prepare for a Second Front but it cannot be a substitute for a land offensive. No major power can be beaten to its knees from the air. The epics of Britain, Malta, Leningrad, and Moscow prove it. Fascist planes rained bombs for years on ill-defended Madrid but aviation alone could not take the city. Even in Crete, air power was used to transport infantry, not to take its place. Look behind the arguments of such people as Seversky for only an aerial second front and you find the supporters of delay, because preparations would require many months. Major military decisions can be attained only by land troops supported, of course, by aviation.

5. QUESTION: Isn't the Second Front a Purely Military Matter?

ANSWER: In announcing the Second Front as part of the official strategy of the United Nations, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have themselves made it a popular issue. The whereabouts and details of the Second Front must of course be settled by the High Command. But morale on the part of the people, the will to fight aggressively, readiness to make sacrifices for victory, are as essential as tanks and planes and military experts. Silence about the Second Front suggests timidity, a Maginot complex or worse. Hitler's friends are loud in their cries against a Second Front. Popular support for a Second Front assures our Commander-in-Chief that the people are prepared for the great sacrifices that will be demanded of them in undertaking a great offensive against the Axis.

6. QUESTION: Won't a Second Front be risky?

ANSWER: Of course. But not half as risky as NOT opening up a Second Front now. This summer America and Britain face in Western Europe a depleted Nazi army in the midst of subject peoples ready to revolt. Next year we would probably have to face the major part of Hitler's war machine. By acting now, our losses in ships, men and supplies will be far less costly than later.

The immediate aim of the Second Front would be to relieve pressure on the main front. If it is attempted with sufficient forces and determination, a major diversion will at the least be created, giving the Russians an indispensable breathing spell on the Eastern Front and a chance, in coordination with the Allied armies, to deal Hitler a knock-out blow. The Western Front operations, moreover, can develop from a major diversion to a major offensive, insuring the speediest victory.

7. QUESTION: Do the United Nations have the ships for a Second Front?

ANSWER: Emphatically "Yes". They have had enough ships to transport 950,000 men on the long voyage to the Middle East, to capture Madagascar, to take huge convoys to India and lost Singapore, to rescue a large army from Dunkirk, to send hundreds of thousands of American troops to the British Isles. And the Second Front in Europe involves no such vast distances, in fact, only the 20 or 25 miles across the English channel in some places. The vessels are available, as trade union leaders in the maritime field have pointed out, if a priority is established for Second Front shipping. Lieut. Gen. Somervell said recently in London that "The United States is ready and able to send men and materiel on a large scale to a European battle front." Furthermore, the Second Front will be able to use effectively barges, rafts, ferries and small boats of all kinds.

8. QUESTION: Who is Delaying the Second Front?

ANSWER: Hitler's agents and tools in the United States and England who are working for an Axis victory; die-hard appeasers who still think in terms of the original Munich plan of having Nazi Germany conquer Soviet Russia and expand to the east; muddle-headed or timorous citizens who honestly believe that a Second Front would be bad military strategy; the over-confident and over-complacent who feel that things are going well enough and why not let the Nazis get entangled in the vast spaces of Russia. All these help the fifth column to promote a "wait-and-see" attitude at a time when "waiting" can only mean "seeing" defeat.

9. QUESTION: Who Supports the Second Front?

ANSWER: The Second Front is official policy for the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. Not only the people of all countries support it, but the governments as well. The Molotov-Roosevelt-Churchill pacts announced June 11 covering a "full understanding on the urgent tasks of creating a Second Front in Europe in 1942" make that clear.

Harry Hopkins, White House spokesman, brought this message from President Roosevelt to a huge Madison Square Garden meeting in New York recently: "A Second Front—Yes! . . . Tell them we mean to give Russia aid on the field of battle."

Trade unionists back the call for a Western Front now. William Green, AFL president, declares: "I think it is imperative that the United Nations open a Second Front in Europe at the earliest possible moment." The United Steelworkers, of which CIO President Philip Murray is president, the United Auto Workers, the United Electrical and Radio Workers and many others have added their call for immediate action in Europe. Senator Pepper says the question is no longer HOW, but NOW and that nothing we can do is so dangerous as to do nothing. Vice-President Wallace, Wendell Willkie, and hosts of other leading Americans, urge action now. Charles Chaplin, the great movie actor, declared: "On the battlefields of Russia, democracy will live or die . . . Can we afford not to open a Second Front?"

In England, a powerful national movement, led by great trade unions, big newspapers, and such figures as Lord Beaverbrook, calls for an offensive in Europe now.

Prime Minister Churchill said he welcomed this militant, aggressive spirit of the British nation. The Soviet leaders, Red Army men and people are urging us to hurry and open the Second Front and American correspondents in Moscow are pleading with us not to let our Allies down.

10. QUESTION: What can YOU do about a Second Front?

ANSWER: You can help in the urgent task of convincing every American of the immediate necessity for a Second Front, of showing President Roosevelt that all patriotic citizens stand firmly behind his pledge to our Soviet allies. We strengthen the hand of our government and weaken the appeasers by calling for a Second Front now. We unite the people of the United States with the peoples of the United Nations by calling for a Second Front now. We encourage the enslaved peoples in the conquered countries who want to know that "the Yanks are coming" by calling for a Second Front now.

THEREFORE, if you are serious about winning this war:

Religion and Anti-Soviet Propaganda

Some of the Causes of Misunderstanding

By WILLIAM HOWARD MELISH

MUCH OF THE hostility which Americans have been evidencing towards the Soviet Union is cloaked in the language of religion. It can be divided into three distinct types.

First, there is the antagonism of those who personally care little or nothing about religion but find in religion a convenient pretext and vehicle for anti-Soviet propaganda. When this is pointed out to really religious people, they are the first to denounce it and to feel a deep resentment at such exploitation of religion by individuals whose motives are political and economic.

Second, there is the antagonism of certain groups who do not believe in the traditional American principle of the separation of church and state. They are fundamentally opposed to the religious policy of the Soviet authorities which is in essence the same as ours. Certainly no religious American should allow himself to be influenced in his attitude towards the Soviet Union by the denunciations and the attacks of such groups as would disavow the traditional American policy in which he believes.

Third, there is the antagonism of those who through sheer ignorance of the truth concerning Soviet religious policy and practice continue to parrot old and out-dated prejudicial statements about persecution and anti-religious activity in the Soviet Union. Fortunately, most of the Americans who express hostility to the Soviet Union on religious grounds belongs to this third type, and I am happy to relate that in my own experience such of them as I have met in public meetings have shown a ready willingness to listen to a fair presentation of the facts. Every one is made more conscious of new global relationships under the pressure of war-time developments, and this is resulting in an eagerness to think things through with candor and even with some cordiality. Almost invariably the result of such discussion is a more friendly attitude and a greater measure of understanding. At this moment I am more optimistic than I have ever been before that the religious antagonism towards the Soviet Union is on the way to being dispelled.

The facts about religion in Russia are clear and straightforward. Freedom of religious worship is guaranteed by the Soviet Constitution, and the Soviet Government in ascribing its signature to the religious freedom clause in the Atlantic Charter was not acting dishonestly or cynically. Religious groups in the Soviet Union today are pursuing their life of faith and worship without interference and without crippling restraints. It is true that the sphere of church activities is circumscribed by the nature of a socialist society, in that such a society has taken over many of the philanthropic and educational functions which have hitherto been associated with religious institutions: that is, hospitals, orphanages, homes for the aged, schools and the like. Surely religious Americans cannot object if a country desires at public expense to make available to all the people the same social services which in other lands the churches have pioneered at private expense. Ought we not acknowledge this as an extension of moral and social principles of religion?

WE Americans have always been suspicious of anything that is different from our own way of doing things. Here in the United States religion is not only free but actually it is afforded preferential treatment in respect to taxation and certain privileges granted to religious institutions and to the clergy. This preferential treatment is the result of the long history of the services to American society which the churches and religious institutions have been rendering. It didn't just happen; it was earned. And we of the churches know that it can be forfeited if we lose the perspective of our true spiritual and ethical function. In the Soviet Union, where, contrary to our American experience, there has been a tragic history of disservice to the people on the part of the churches in the past, it should not surprise or anger us that there should be granted to the churches religious freedom but no privilege and no preferential treatment.

People sometimes say to me, "Let the Soviets grant to the churches the same privileges we have, and then we will be friendly to Russia." What value would such privileges be to churches which had not themselves earned them? Would the granting of such privileges endear the churches to the Russian People? Would world-wide religion benefit by a series of such privileges being granted within Russia because of pressure from without? Isn't this just another polite form of international blackmail? Religious Americans must learn the same lesson of patience which Russian Christians have had to learn. Russian Christians today know that the real clue to the future lies in terms of patient and faithful service. They know that when such privileges come as some day will come, it will be because the people at large recognize they have been deserved.

I have noticed in the religious press in recent months a considerable number of articles grudgingly admitting that there has been a change for the better within Russia between the state and the churches. They go on to state that these changes have been forced upon the Communists by the war. This is a typical religious canard. The truth, insofar as I can get at it, is quite the contrary. The Soviet Government has in no way altered its basic policy toward religion since the war began. This, in my opinion, is to its credit. It might very easily have thrown a few sopas to foreign public opinion. This it has refused to do, because it believes in the essential rightness of its basic religious policy. What has happened since the outbreak of the war is that religious Russians—Christian, Jewish and Mohammedan—have all thrown their whole-hearted support behind the Soviet Government and have backed up the Civilian Defense program, assisted in the War Bond drives and contributed generously in the war relief campaigns. This identification of the life of religion with the life of the people has been having a natural and wholesome response. Such results indicate the real solution to the issue of church and state in every country.

As an American churchman, I do not ask for religion any special privilege—only the opportunity for religion to make its contribution and to win such respect as it deserves. I am convinced that this opportunity is given in the Soviet Union. If American men and women of religious faith desire to make some contribution to the strengthening of religion in Russia, let them do it by avoiding old prejudices and antagonisms and by showing some measure of understanding and sympathy for the real moral and social advances which the Russians have made under the Soviet regime, especially in respect to the elimination of economic exploitation and the establishment of genuine equality for the many racial, cultural and religious minorities in the Soviet Union. We of the churches can find much in Soviet life that is an extension in concrete terms of principles to which we have been giving lip-service. There is between our two countries the basis for a mutual respect and a creative friendship. In the years ahead we shall look back with gratitude that we had the vision to build the foundations of a friendship which has benefited both our lands.

Open Letter to the American People

ON
FRIENDSHIP

Introduction by
CORLISS LAMONT

INTRODUCTION

By CORLISS LAMONT

THE National Council of American-Soviet Friendship initiated this Open Letter to the American People as an answer to those divisive forces in our country who are more concerned with stirring up hatred and fear of the Soviet Union than with strengthening the United Nations coalition and winning the war.

The immediate and whole-hearted response from the eleven hundred individuals who joined with us in issuing this Letter is evidence of the extent to which leading Americans in every field of endeavor and every section of the country are aware of our enormous debt to our Soviet ally and of the mortal danger to our present security and future well-being represented by the anti-Soviet campaign.

The text of the Open Letter, in slightly abridged form, has already appeared as a page advertisement in the New York Times; and its contents were the subject of an impressive meeting held by the National Council in Carnegie Hall, New York City, on May 20, 1943. We are herewith publishing it in full, with as many signatures as space permits, so that its message may reach every section of the country, awakening Americans everywhere to greater vigilance against those groups and individuals who wittingly or unwittingly serve the enemy by undermining American-Soviet cooperation and the unity of the United Nations.

The further development of events since this Letter was drawn up have brought new proofs of the dangers outlined therein.

Our warning that anti-Soviet circles "try to make capital out of the Soviet strategy of avoiding conflict with Japan and urge that America concentrate on the war in the Pacific" has had menacing corroboration on the floor of the United States Senate. On May 17 Senator Chandler attacked the whole United Nations policy of knocking out Hitler first and, asserting that he voiced "the feeling of quite a number of military and naval men," urged that America shift its main fighting strength to the Far East. He was supported by seven Senators: Bridges, Brooks, Clark of Missouri, Tydings, Shipstead, Vandenberg and Wheeler. Later in Chicago Senator Wheeler made a speech demanding that America penalize Russia because of its attitude toward Japan and its war aims, the penalty to be an American offensive in the Pacific instead of an Anglo-American Second Front in Europe.

Our warning that anti-Soviet circles "seek to lay the groundwork for a negotiated peace with Hitler or his successor at the expense of the Soviet Union" takes on new meaning in the light of General Franco's recent peace-feelers and the favorable response they have met among certain elements in the United States. Even professional pacifists like Frederick J. Libby, Executive Secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, come out openly with their anti-Soviet bias. Over a recent national radio hook-up Mr. Libby stated: "A negotiated peace is the best way out of a bad situation, and if we don't want Stalin to win the war."

Our warning that failure to take immediate advantage of the opportunities opened up by our magnificent victories in North Africa will give Hitler "time to launch another offensive" daily grows more urgent. As I write, a new German offensive against our Soviet ally is expected at any moment, with the Nazis ready to throw in more than 200 divisions of troops in their great gamble of 1943. While it may be assumed that the latest Roosevelt-Churchill parleys included the planning of that coordinated land offensive from the West which could insure Hitler's defeat this year, its actual launching is still delayed at this writing. The influence of general anti-Soviet propaganda in the U. S. both in postponing and in limiting the Second Front should not be underestimated.

Our warning that the American people "be on guard against those forces in our midst who would divide us from one another and from our allies" has been given fresh significance by the vicious and widespread campaign against the film version of ex-Ambassador Davies' "Mission to Moscow." This outstanding motion picture produced by Warner Brothers is a most important contribution toward American-Soviet understanding and friendship. Yet precisely because it does tell the truth about the Soviet Union, this film has been subject to continued and organized attacks on the part of anti-Soviet die-hards attempting to create an issue that will damage American-Soviet relations and discredit the Roosevelt administration's friendly policy toward the U.S.S.R.

In contrast to these various new evidences of anti-Soviet activity, the overwhelming advantages to be derived from closer relations with our Soviet ally become ever more apparent. This was shown by the many public comments on the recent anniversary of the twenty-year Anglo-Soviet Mutual Assistance Pact. The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is in full accord with the suggestion advanced editorially by the New York Herald-Tribune that the long term military alliance embodied in the Anglo-Soviet Pact "prompts a thought as to why the United States should not seek to put their own policy on a similarly solid ground with her great allies."

I urge every American whom this pamphlet reaches to bring the message of our Open Letter to his own community and his own circle—business, trade union, church, youth, cultural or whatever it may be. Concrete suggestions for doing this will be found on page 14. We count on you to help build American-Soviet friendship as a vital measure for winning the war and establishing an enduring peace.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

EVERY patriotic American has reason to be alarmed over the new wave of anti-Soviet propaganda that has arisen in the United States during the first part of 1943. This campaign against Soviet Russia, reviving old fears and prejudices, threatens to undermine American-Soviet friendship, and to divide us from our great Russian ally in war and in peace.

Soviet Russia's severance of relations with the Polish Government-in-Exile, due to Polish encouragement of Nazi slanders against the Russians, plainly showed the danger to the United Nations and the advantage to Hitler of anti-Soviet calumnies wherever and whenever they appear. According to reliable news dispatches from abroad, the widespread support which the Poles received from anti-Soviet sources in America was a leading factor in precipitating the Soviet-Polish crisis. But the national interests of our country demand a halt to all actions that may bring disunity among the United Nations, especially now as the conflict against the Axis nears its climax.

The historic decisions reached at Casablanca by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill called for "fighting hard on all fronts and ending the war as quickly as we can on the uncompromising terms of unconditional surrender." According to the Roosevelt-Churchill statement, the prime object of the Anglo-American strategy for 1943 is "to draw as much weight as possible off the Russian armies by engaging the enemy as heavily as possible at the best selected points."

Following our magnificent victory in Africa the next move in Allied strategy is the invasion of Europe. The whole world is awaiting this action, the opening of the long-expected Second Front on the European continent.

Conquered Europe Awaits Invasion Signal

All of conquered Europe seethes with anti-Nazi patriots harassing the foe through passive resistance, through acts of sabotage, through guerrilla fighting. Everywhere from France to Poland, Norway to Yugoslavia, the people watch for the invasion signal to spring into a mighty army in Hitler's rear.

In the East our Soviet ally, still engaging the overwhelming bulk of the Nazi forces, consolidates the positions won back following the epic defense of Stalingrad and during the great winter offensive that liberated 185,000 square miles of territory and put over a million enemy soldiers out of action.

Failure to take immediate advantage of the opportunities created by these events will return the initiative to Hitler and give him time to launch another offensive. It will lead to demoralization and despair among the long-suffering people of the occupied countries, allow Hitler to decimate their leaders and rob us of millions of fighting allies.

To prevent such failure, unity and understanding among the United Nations is the paramount necessity. But in direct proportion to the mounting Soviet successes and the possibilities of a general Allied offensive, leading to early victory, the anti-Soviet forces have increased their divisive activities.

These forces have never abandoned the disastrous and discredited policy that culminated at Munich. They include all those elements whose hatred of Soviet Russia is greater than their hatred of fascism. These circles are willing to prolong the war indefinitely, even to risk our own ultimate defeat, in the hope that Hitler will bleed to death the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. At the same time and for the same reason they seek to lay the groundwork for a negotiated peace with Hitler or his successor at the expense of the Soviet Union.

Danger to American-Soviet Friendship

These forces have utilized every pretext to disrupt American-Soviet friendship and to stir up suspicion of our Soviet ally. They express fear that the Red Army will march to Berlin but express equal fear that it will stop at the border and conclude a separate peace with Germany.

They magnify disputes over post-war boundaries with the purpose of arousing distrust of the Soviet Union and embroiling it with its allies. They invoke the Atlantic Charter against the U.S.S.R., while seeking to subvert it themselves by creating states hostile to Russia along its borders.

They prejudice and play up every new accusation levelled at the Soviet Government by the diehard Russophobes among the Polish emigrés, deliberately provoking disunity over such issues as the Ehrlich-Alter case and the Nazi-inspired charge that the Russians murdered 10,000 Polish officers.

They have consistently opposed any strong measures against Hitler's satellite, Finland, whose troops are fighting the Russians and whose soil provides a base for Nazi bombers which destroy American ships and men carrying supplies to Murmansk.

They try to make capital out of the Soviet strategy of avoiding conflict with Japan and urge that America concentrate on the war in the Pacific. Yet a two-front Soviet war or such a concentration of American forces would be in direct contravention of the announced United Nations policy of defeating Hitler first as the prerequisite for final victory over all the Axis powers.

Dividing America from England

The anti-Soviet campaign is also used in an attempt to divide the United States from England, which has cemented its Soviet alliance with a twenty-year treaty of mutual assistance. An editorial in the London Times urging a greater realization on America's part of the need for close cooperation with the Soviet Union was utilized for attacks on both England and Russia, and for hampering Anthony Eden's efforts to strengthen the Anglo-American-Soviet coalition.

Most scandalous of all, while millions of Russians are fighting and dying in our common cause, a widespread whispering campaign, now finally noted in the public prints, is carried on in the United States to the effect that America must go to war with the Soviet Union after Hitler is beaten.

Since the declared policy of our government is that "the defense of the Soviet Union is vital to the defense of the United States," this anti-Soviet movement is also an anti-American movement, threatening our national safety and our successful conduct of the war.

This anti-Soviet movement has its representatives in both houses of Congress and even in some departments of our government. It is strong in the anti-administration forces within the Democratic Party and in the isolationist sections of the Republican Party. It includes, of course, the Christian Front and fascist circles represented by Father Coughlin, Gerald Smith and the like. It finds constant support and encouragement in many large newspapers throughout the United States, especially in the Hearst and McCormick-Patterson press.

American-Soviet Collaboration Essential

A number of sincere and earnest citizens unconsciously give aid and comfort to the groups undermining American-Soviet friendship by letting disapproval of Soviet economic or political policies shape their attitude toward the U.S.S.R. Such persons should realize that everything they hold most dear, be it the Christian faith or racial freedom or democratic institutions, depends on a military victory and enduring peace which can only be obtained through collaboration with Soviet Russia.

Against all the divisive elements mentioned are ranged the great healthy mass of the American people, and the leaders of our country, who truly express the popular will. The American people have confidence in our Commander-in-Chief, President Roosevelt, and in the other men in high government position who are dedicated to the policy of strengthening the United Nations coalition and carrying through uncompromisingly the great 1943 offensive.

Beside them stand the patriotic forces in both major parties, the great majority of Democrats who loyally support the administration, the section of the Republicans represented by Wendell Willkie, Thomas W. Lamont, and others who take the realistic attitude voiced in the New York Herald Tribune and that part of the press which urges close cooperation with the Soviet Union and a speedy opening of the Second Front.

American People Ready for Sacrifice

The people of America have shown their readiness for any sacrifice to smash the Axis by their bravery on our fighting fronts, by their production efforts in the factories and farms and the entire economic life of our nation. Through their civic, trade union, church, fraternal and other organizations they have demonstrated overwhelmingly their conviction that our national interests demand the fullest measure of American-Soviet cooperation, now and in the future.

So it is that we urge the American people to be on guard against those forces in our midst who would divide us from one another and from our Allies. We appeal to the American people to be vigilant in identifying these elements, in exposing them, combating them, depriving them of influence and power by building an indestructible unity for the winning of the war and the peace.

Millions of Americans, millions of people everywhere, will live and breathe again the air of a free world because the Soviet Union has poured out its life and treasure so unstintingly in our common cause. Its military casualties already reach 6,000,000. Its civilian deaths in the occupied regions reach perhaps 10,000,000. Millions more are enduring the horrors of German occupation or have been shipped away into hideous slavery. It is to the great Soviet people that we so largely owe our chance of victory. Only in union with them is victory sure.

Let us do everything in our power to cement our alliance with the Soviet Union, and in cooperation with Great Britain and China to further the great coalition of the United Nations. Let us strengthen every joint action needed to win the war and in this process lay the lasting foundations of post-war peace.

With our country's own freedom and security at stake in these vital issues, we believe that every patriotic American will join us in calling for enduring American-Soviet friendship; the defeat of every attempt to disrupt Allied unity; the earliest possible invasion of Europe; the speedy victory of the United Nations over the Axis.

How YOU can further American-Soviet Friendship

THE facts as set forth in our Open Letter, and their complete substantiation by subsequent developments, emphasize the vital importance of the work of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The Council was organized for the following purpose:—

To promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.

The Council carries out this purpose through the following main methods:

- 1) By meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life.
- 2) By giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian ally, and
- 3) By taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

Our Open Letter is an expression of Point 3 of our program. Here are our suggestions for further steps to make the Open Letter an effective instrument for greater unity in our war effort:

1) Arrange for a meeting in your locality to discuss the importance of American-Soviet Friendship and the dangers of anti-Soviet agitation. Arrange to have these issues discussed from the platform of organizations or groups to which you belong. (The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship will be glad to assist insofar as possible, in supplying an appropriate speaker.)

2) Get your organization to pass a resolution embodying the main points in our Open Letter. Send copies to President Roosevelt, your Congressmen and Senators, the State Department, the press.

3) Write or wire President Roosevelt fully supporting the Administration policy of the closest possible American-Soviet relations and urging an immediate full-scale invasion of Europe to speed victory over the Axis.

4) Write or wire your Congressmen and Senators urging action against every anti-Soviet move in Congress (i.e., the "Beat Japan First" campaign) and support of every move for closer American-Soviet cooperation.

5) Answer any local manifestation of anti-Soviet activity through letters to the press.

6) Make sure that your local motion picture house is planning to show the great Warner Brothers' picture "Mission to Moscow" based on former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies' book, one of the most important contributions yet made toward building a real understanding of our Soviet ally among the American people and strengthening American-Soviet Friendship.

Where a local branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship exists, we suggest the use of any or all of these methods to awaken the people of your community to the dangerous divisive effects of anti-Soviet propaganda, and to make known to our leaders and representatives in Washington where the American people stand.

If no such group exists, write us for suggestions as to how to organize one. Any individual or organization interested in promoting American-Soviet friendship may participate in our program and make use of our publications, exhibits, films and other educational services.

The National Council is happy to cooperate in establishing Councils throughout the United States. These local councils should be representative of various sections of the community and operate by bringing the Council's program to existing organizations.

The National Council is setting up special interest committees for trade unions, youth, women, nationalities, religious groups, professional groups, etc., which will cooperate with similar committees throughout the country.

PLEASE KEEP US INFORMED

We urge that you send us immediately full accounts of any of the above actions taken in your community. In this way you can secure national publicity for your efforts, the interchange of experience of groups in different parts of the country, and the added effectiveness of joining your efforts with those of like-minded patriotic Americans in all parts of the country, thus contributing to national morale and unity.

The cost of this pamphlet and other publications, exhibits and all the varied activities of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship are being met by contributions. As one who wishes to see American-Soviet friendship furthered by every means, we hope you will make your contribution to the maintenance and expansion of the Council's work. Use the coupon below to secure an allotment of pamphlets for free distribution in your community, and also, if possible, to send in a contribution.

National Council of American-Soviet Friendship

Vol. 1, No. 1

232 MADISON AVE., NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

ANNOUNCING THE FIRST EDITION OF OUR NEWS LETTER

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has been in existence a little more than half a year. We think it is fair to say that during these few months we have made substantial contributions to that increased understanding of our ally which is the basis for enduring American-Soviet friendship.

This News-Letter, which we propose to issue regularly and at least once a month, has several purposes. It is a medium through which the local councils can become acquainted with each other's work as well as with the activities of the National Council. Secondly, in its columns the National Council will set forth important news regarding manifestations of American-Soviet friendship and of propaganda efforts which are intended to disrupt that friendship. Finally, the News-Letter can be of use as a medium in which the Council expresses editorially its ideas on specific aspects of relations between this country and the U.S.S.R. Through such editorials we can keep the local councils abreast of what the national body is thinking. Also they will serve the purpose of indicating to local councils and other organizations activities in which we think they can usefully cooperate, as when in this first issue we urge support of Mission to Moscow.

This first number is necessarily of an experimental nature. Whether and in what form it continues will depend on the response to this issue. We welcome your suggestions for change and improvement.

"The Russian Story"—A Success Story

As we go to press, the Stanley Theater in New York reports it is registering record-breaking attendance at its showings of "The Russian Story," the film cavalcade of Russian history produced by Joseph Burstyn and sponsored by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The film, which is compiled from the greatest Russian films of the last twenty years, with a background of music by Russia's outstanding composers, drew the highest praise from New York's movie critics at its premiere on June 8th. We quote a few comments:

"An experience you should not miss!"—New York Post.

"As history, as drama, or as cinematography, 'The Russian Story' is as inspiring as a great symphony."—PM, New York City.

"A fascinating film . . ."—New York Times.

"Highly dramatic . . ."—New York Sun.

The film will soon be shown in hundreds of communities from coast to coast.

Anniversary Greetings to Stalin

Corliss Lamont, Chairman of the National Council, sent the following telegram to Premier Stalin on June 22:

"National Council of American-Soviet Friendship greets heroic Soviet people on second war anniversary. We count on victory in 1943 through combined United Nations action against Nazis including speedy opening of Second Front."

The American-Soviet War Exhibit

Thousands of New Yorkers are pouring into the American-Soviet War Exhibit which the National Council launched on June 1st at the Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center. So successful is the exhibit, and so large the attendance, that the directors of the Museum have asked the Council to extend the closing date from July 16th to September 15th.

Interest in the exhibit has been heightened by the "Special Events" program for the exhibit announced by the New York Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Speakers and other entertainment of special interest to the groups sponsoring these "Special Events" will be featured on those evenings.

The life-size American and Soviet kitchens on display at the Exhibit were the setting for an unusual demonstration of war-time rationing in the two countries on the afternoon of June 24th. Ida Bailey Allen, nationally known home economist, conducted the demonstration before several hundred leaders of women's clubs, women's page editors of newspapers, representatives of women's magazines, and radio commentators.

These special activities, coupled with the exciting displays on view at the exhibit, have made the Museum of Science and Industry a major summer-time attraction for the people of New York City.

Build United Nations Unity!

Canada Launches Friendship Council

"All Canada Hails Plan to Advance Soviet Amity!" This is the bold headline across the 8-column page of the Toronto Daily Star, one of Toronto's leading newspapers.

The National Council of Canadian-Soviet Friendship was launched at a mass meeting in Maple Leaf Gardens on June 22nd, the second anniversary of the Nazi attack on the Soviet Union. Prime Minister MacKenzie King was the Chairman of the meeting, and Major Raymond Massey, famous Canadian actor, and equally well known in the United States, was the Master of Ceremonies. Hon. Joseph E. Davies, just returned from delivering President Roosevelt's confidential message to Premier Stalin, was one of the chief speakers.

Among those participating as speakers or patrons were Vice-Regal Representatives, Heads of Provincial Governments, Chief Justices, and distinguished public men from every province of Canada and from every walk of life.

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship enthusiastically welcomes the establishment of a similar organization in our neighbor country in the family of the United Nations. The following telegram was sent to Premier MacKenzie King, Chairman of the Rally:

"The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship greets the National Council of Canadian-Soviet Friendship on the occasion of its first public appearance. The desire for friendly and cooperative relations with the Soviet people has become a vital patriotic expression for both Americans and Canadians. We wish the National Council of Canadian-Soviet Friendship all success in its endeavors to express to the people of the Soviet Union the admiration which Canadians justly feel for the heroic war effort of the Soviet armed forces against the Nazis and the equally heroic sacrifices of the Soviet citizens behind the lines. The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship will be pleased to cooperate in any way in furthering your program."

Doctors Form American-Soviet Society

Six hundred persons, most of them physicians, gathered at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York City, on June 18th to do honor to Dr. Vladimir V. Lebedenko, leading Russian surgeon and representative of the Russian Red Cross, who is now in this country, and to launch formally the American-Soviet Medical Society.

This Society owes its origin to the long interest in Soviet medicine and in American-Soviet relations of such men as Dr. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard University, and Dr. Henry E. Sigerist of Johns Hopkins University, both of them sponsors of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The Society is publishing a journal to be known as the American Review of Soviet Medicine, beginning with a first issue in September.

Speakers at the dinner included representatives of the American Red Cross, the Office of the Surgeon General of the United States, and the New York City Department of Health.

The purpose of the Society will be to make available through its magazine latest important developments in Soviet medicine which doctors unfamiliar with the Russian language would not otherwise know about. This purpose, of course, as all speakers stressed, has a special and vital significance during the war.

The National Council believes the creation of this Society is a step forward in bettering American-Soviet relations. The more doctors and other professional people organize to achieve understanding of the Soviet Union in their own technical fields, the easier becomes the task of establishing lasting friendship between people in the U.S.A. and in the U.S.S.R.

Local councils of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship should bring the American-Soviet Medical Society to the attention of doctors in their communities and urge them to join.

The president of the Society is Dr. Walter B. Cannon, the eminent physiologist, member of the National Academy of Sciences of the U. S. and of the Academy of Science of the U.S.S.R. The secretary is Dr. Abraham Stone, 30 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The editor of the journal is Dr. Henry E. Sigerist, 1900 East Monument Street, Baltimore, Maryland. Annual dues of the Society are $5.00.

The Society has a very attractive brochure giving its constitution, purposes, etc. Copies of this brochure can be obtained by writing the secretary, Dr. Stone.

THOMAS L. HARRIS ON WEST COAST

Dr. Thomas L. Harris, our National Secretary, is now in Los Angeles and will be on the West Coast until the middle of August, including in his tour San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle. This is an organizing and speaking tour and on his return to the East he will be available for speaking engagements and organization meetings in the following cities: Butte, Salt Lake City, Denver, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Cleveland. We would be glad to have our readers in the above cities communicate with us if they wish to arrange special meetings for Mr. Harris or if they can arrange speaking engagements for him before other organizations in the community. Dr. Harris is a very effective speaker, gifted in adapting himself to his immediate audience, has been to the Soviet Union, and is well qualified to speak on many aspects of Soviet life.

"Correspondence for Friendship"

The National Council's "Correspondence for Friendship" campaign, launched early in May with the signing of a card by New York's Mayor LaGuardia addressed to V. P. Pronin, chairman of the Moscow Soviet, has caught the imagination of America. Ethel Ellis, director of the campaign, reports that requests for correspondence cards have come to her from every one of the 48 states in our Union, and that signed greetings are pouring into headquarters by the thousands.

Correspondents represent a true cross-section of American life. Messages have come from the Governors of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Wyoming, and South Dakota, and from prominent officials of the Federal Government, as well as from workers in America's war plants, farmers, students, housewives, etc.

The first batch of cards, Miss Ellis reports, are on their way to the Soviet Union now. On the afternoon of June 21st they were presented to Captain Vladimir N. Izoto of the U.S.S.R. Merchant Marine, recently decorated by King George VI for heroic action at sea, when the captain visited the offices of the National Council. Captain Izoto will take a large number of cards back to the Soviet Union with him, where they will be distributed to Soviet citizens to be answered by them.

Editorial

This Council exists for the purpose of fostering friendship and understanding between ourselves and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war and the establishment of enduring peace. We are devoting this, our first editorial, to the film Mission to Moscow because we believe it is a solid and outstanding contribution to American understanding of the Soviet Union. The National Council has tried in every way to promote this film and to answer its detractors.

Dr. Arthur Upham Pope, Vice-Chairman of the Council, has written two notable letters to the New York Times in which the shallow and partisan criticisms of John Dewey and Suzanne La Folette are thoroughly exposed.

The film deserves all the backing that patriotic well-wishers of closer American-Soviet relations can muster. The anti-Soviet forces in this country have lost no time in making this film a rallying point, masking their real motives by specious "historical criticisms" of the picture. They exhibit through such "criticisms" merely their unending determination to disparage the Soviet Union. This anti-Soviet campaign is being pushed with reckless disregard of its result on the war and on our future international relations. It flies directly in the face of the Administration's policy of cultivating good will toward the Soviet Union.

Mission to Moscow exhibits American democracy's deep and farsighted approbation of the Soviet's long-pursued policy of promoting world peace. This screen version of Ambassador Davies' book raises a great art form to an adult level hitherto untouched in American movies. It is the level of conscientious and conscious interpretation of the spirit of our peoples' democratic striving for a world free from the menace of recurring wars. Mission to Moscow renders the United Nations, the cause of victory over the Axis, and the cause of lasting peace, a service of as great significance as a military victory.

Every friend of American-Soviet friendship, every person who is filled with a patriotic desire to win the war, should support Mission to Moscow by any means he can. The National Council feels that a real obligation rests on its local councils to try to promote this picture in their communities. Arouse public opinion in support of this film. Insist that your local exhibitors show it. Write letters to the newspapers commending the film and condemning its detractors. When the picture comes to your city, organize a record-breaking attendance. Support of Mission to Moscow is a real win-the-war MUST.

Toward Allied Trade Union Unity

The following instances of the growing desire for allied trade union unity have appeared in recent issues of Allied Labor News:

The proposal that Australian labor join the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee will be introduced by the Sheet Metal Workers Union of Australia at the National Congress of the Australian Council of Trade Unions which meets in Melbourne on June 21, it was announced recently.

A majority of the fourteen national labor groups affiliated with the Confederation of Latin American Workers (CTAL) have expressed themselves as favoring immediate application by the CTAL to join the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee, Lombardo Tolédano, CTAL president, announced recently.

At their recent annual convention, Britain's two largest unions of government employees—the Civil Service Clerical Association with 120,000 members and the Post Office Workers Union with 80,000 members—endorsed a proposal to set up a Civil Service Anglo-Soviet Committee "for the purpose of establishing closer relations with our fellow-workers in the U.S.S.R."

A dispatch to the Allied Labor News from Kuibyshev dated June 10 says in part: "All obstacles to international trade union cooperation can be overcome, a spokesman for the All-Union Council of Trade Unions declared this week, if the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee, scheduled to meet in the near future in Moscow, demonstrates to labor in the United Nations that it is actively and energetically carrying out its principal job—increasing the production of airplanes, tanks and guns for victory over Hitler."

In an important article in the first issue of War and the Working Class, official bi-monthly organ of the AUCTU, E. Danilov, editor of the magazine and chairman of the central committee of the College and University Teachers Union, wrote: "The more actively the committee works, the more influence it will have with the mass of democratic factory and office workers. Only by active work can the committee show the unions of the democratic countries, including the United States, the need for joining with it to achieve victory over the enemy and solve the tasks that will confront the labor movement after the war."

"Soviet workers are greatly interested in the life and struggles of working people in other countries, particularly in Great Britain and the United States," he writes. "Our workers regard every act of fraternal solidarity on the parts of workers in other countries as a means of consolidating all our forces for the struggle against the common enemy."

Edwin Smith Named Executive Director

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is pleased to announce the appointment of Edwin S. Smith as Vice-Chairman and Executive Director. Edwin Smith was for six years a member of the National Labor Relations Board, appointed by President Roosevelt. He also served as a member of the first National Labor Relations Board which administered Section 7A of the N.I.R.A. Previous to his term of office with the federal government, Mr. Smith was for three years Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the State of Massachusetts. After leaving government service, Mr. Smith was for a year and a half in charge of the C.I.O. campaign to organize the workers in Standard Oil.

Highlights on Local Councils

Chicago

The Professional Committee of the Chicago Council had a very successful preview showing of Our Russian Ally (One Day in Fighting Russia, 1943). In addition to the movie, they had a program of speakers. To celebrate two years of Russia's heroic fight against the Nazis, a very attractive ad appeared in the Chicago Sun on June 22nd entitled "Let's Be Good Friends with Our Good Neighbor." The ad quotes from Mr. Thomas W. Lamont's famous letter to the New York Times: "Let us be friends with our friends and do our fighting against our enemies." For additional information and copies of the ad, write to Mrs. Lucille Sharer, Executive Secretary, Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 135 So. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

Philadelphia

Following publication of the Open Letter in the New York Times a quarter page ad was published in The Evening Bulletin as an effective means of combatting the anti-Soviet propaganda of the National Committee of Americans of Polish Descent, Inc. Chairman of the Philadelphia Council is Elizabeth P. Frazier. Mrs. Joseph Gottlieb is Executive Secretary and the office of the Council is located at 1831 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Los Angeles

Council office has just been opened at 542 South Broadway, Room 812.

New York City

Night after night at the National Council's American-Soviet War Exhibit in the Rockefeller Center Museum of Science and Industry special events go on, special groups do things—Armenians, Spanish-Americans, C.I.O. Women's Auxiliaries, the National Maritime Union, Russian groups, white collar workers, Boy Scouts, teachers, Red Cross workers, etc. . . . The Flatbush Committee held a successful street corner meeting on the subject of American-Soviet friendship and recommends this form of activity to Councils everywhere during the hot summer months.

Boston

The Massachusetts Council commemorated the second anniversary of the Nazi attack on the Soviet Union at a large mass rally on June 27th at Arlington Street Church. Speakers were: Sir Ellsworth Flavelle, Chairman of the National Council of Canadian-Soviet Friendship; Vilhjalmur Stefansson; and Edwin S. Smith, Executive Director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Bishop Oxnam is Chairman of the Massachusetts Council and Prof. Dirk J. Struik is Secretary. He can be reached at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

Jacksonville

General Victor Yakhontoff was the main speaker at a Mass Meeting on June 22nd.

Baltimore

A luncheon meeting with representatives of church, trade unions, professional, community and civic organizations met at the Hotel Stafford, Baltimore, on June 9th, and formed a Baltimore Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

Confidential informants report that THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the subject organization, was a speaker at the annual conference of the Connecticut Conference on Social and Labor Legislation held at New Haven 5/1/43. It is reported that Communist Party leaders do not desire the subject organization to become active in Connecticut because it might conflict with the work of the Russian War Relief in the educational field. Mrs. L. DWORSKI is not active since she recently moved to Bridgeport, Conn.

DETAILS:

Confidential Informant CNH-T1 reported on 4/28/43 that ETHEL "BOBBIE" FAUST, the Secretary to DAVID HEDLEY, contacted her brother, LUKE FAUST, who is a reporter for the "Bridgeport Herald." "BOBBIE" FAUST suggested that LUKE FAUST arrange to carry a story in the "Bridgeport Herald" concerning the annual conference of the Connecticut Conference on Social and Labor Legislation scheduled to be held in New Haven at the New Haven Teachers' College May 1, 1943. "BOBBIE" explained to LUKE FAUST that the principal speaker at the conference would be THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Informant stated that LUKE FAUST informed "BOBBIE" FAUST that because of the fact that this information came to his attention so late in the week it would probably be impossible for him to arrange for a news story for the current issue of the "Bridgeport Sunday Herald."

The information that THOMAS L. HARRIS was scheduled to speak at the 5/1/43 conference was forwarded to the Bureau by letter dated 5/7/43.

Confidential Informant CNH-T2 advised that on 5/8/43 RHODA CAHN discussed the speech of THOMAS L. HARRIS given 5/1/43 with ISADORE WOFSY. RHODA CAHN stated that she was somewhat disappointed in HARRIS' talk because of the fact that he did not mention the Second Front, nor did he stress the youth movement in connection with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The same informant advised that ISADORE WOFSY on 5/14/43 discussed the subject organization and stated substantially with respect to the subject organization in Connecticut as follows: WOFSY said that in Russian War Relief in Connecticut "we" are getting more or less a free hand on education. For this reason it would be well to keep the Council on Soviet-American Friendship out of Connecticut at least for the time being. "We" want no conflict here.

Confidential Informants CNH-T1 and T-3 advised that since Mrs. L. DWORSKI is no longer in New Haven, Connecticut, there is no indication that she is active in doing the work in Connecticut for the subject organization. This office is informed by these informants that Mrs. DWORSKI is presently employed in Bridgeport, Connecticut and is residing there.

In view of the above, this case is being considered referred upon completion to the office of origin.

Dear Sir:

Appearing in the September 29, 1943, issue of the Daily Worker there is an extensive write-up of the congress to be held by the instant organization at the Hotel New Yorker on November 6 and 7, 1943. It is the Bureau's desire that you make the necessary arrangements to have an appropriate and complete coverage of this congress with the view in mind of securing all details reflecting Communist Party influence and control in the affair. (c) (U)

It is also desired that from the time you receive this letter until the congress is held that you scrutinize various logs maintained in your Office carefully for all information pertaining to pre-congress maneuverings of Party members with respect to the function. Close attention should be given in this matter for information pertaining to international affairs not only as they involve the country's international affiliations with Russia but also as they are made the subject of propaganda activities in this country. (c) (U)

In view of the important nature of this matter, it is desired that you afford it your careful attention. All pertinent information should be reported promptly to the Bureau as it is received by you.

Nationwide Rallies to Mark U.S.-Soviet Amity

Garden Meeting To Climax 3-Day Congress Here

The tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations will be celebrated with meetings throughout the country and with a huge Congress of American-Soviet Friendship to be held here on Nov. 6 and 7 at the Hotel New Yorker culminating with a dramatic mass meeting at Madison Square Garden on the evening of Nov. 8, it is announced by Corliss Lamont, chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

(The full list of the sponsors including a number of Governors, U. S. Senators, Bishops, labor leaders and publicists appears on page 5.)

"Now, more than ever, with Germany's propagandists, in the face of certain ultimate defeat, frantically seeking to divide the allied nations, such a demonstration of friendship and unity with the Soviet Union as the forthcoming Congress will be a real blow against the Nazis," Mr. Lamont said.

A call to the Congress, issued by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, outlining the purposes of the meeting says: "The democratic nations have learned at terrible cost that only in the closest possible unity with the Soviet Union is victory assured, and that without such unity there can be no peaceful and stable world. Today that unity must be fulfilled and consolidated in the development of full coalition warfare, the only road to early victory for the United States.

"Full collaboration for victory must be followed by full collaboration for peace. Only thus can mankind's long struggle for freedom be transferred from the realm of war and bloodshed to that of peaceful construction and the great goal of a life of security and abundance for the common man be realized. In cementing American-Soviet friendship, we help to create the foundation for the abiding friendship of all free people on which such a life must rest."

3-DAY MEETING

The program for the three-day meeting in New York City will open with a luncheon at the Hotel New Yorker at which American-Soviet cooperation in war and peace will be discussed. Following the luncheon there will be panel discussions on public health and wartime medicine in the USSR under the sponsorship of the American-Soviet Medical Society; Soviet science and technology and a general session on planning and post-war reconstruction in the USSR. These will take place on Saturday, November 6, at the New Yorker with leading scientific organizations and scientists participating.

On the same afternoon, a panel on education and youth in wartime in the USA and the USSR will also be held.

On Sunday, Nov. 7, at the Hotel New Yorker, there will be panel discussions on "Soviet Trade Unions and the War," and "Women and Child Care in the USA and the USSR." On Sunday evening, Nov. 7, outstanding American musicians will give a concert of Soviet music in the grand ballroom of the New Yorker.

The three-day Congress will culminate with a dramatic mass meeting at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 8 at which leaders in government, labor and other fields will speak.

Re: <sup>6</sup> NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET

INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

On September 28, 1943 Confidential Informant [ ] of Toledo, Ohio, reported that EDWARD THEODORE LAMB (Toledo Attorney and reported Party sympathizer) had notified JOSEPH FRIEDMAN, (Toledo Section Secretary of the Communist Party) that a Mrs. --- BUDD, "of the American Soviet Council" was in Toledo. FRIEDMAN suggested to LAMB that he have Mrs. BUDD get in touch with MYRA MURRAY WHEELER (Party Member and Executive Secretary, Toledo Chapter of Russian War Relief).

b7D

The informant later advised that WHEELER told FRIEDMAN that Mrs. BUDD had told her that she, (BUDD) had seen ARNOLD (SAMUEL) JOHNSON, (Ohio State Communist Party Secretary) in Cleveland and that BUDD had told her that, "things were soon going to get under way."

This office has no information which would reflect the identity of Mrs. BUDD, but on the supposition that the, "American Soviet Council" refers to the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, Inc., of which case New York is the office of origin, this letter is being directed to the Bureau with copies to the office of origin to advise of contacts made by representatives of the N.C.A.S.F. with known Party Members and Party Functionaries.

This office has no information which would reflect the nature of the conferences between WHEELER and BUDD.

Very truly yours

headquarters of subject organization and to volunteer her services, explaining that she could not give financial aid but was able to give her time and effort to the furtherances of relations between this country and the Soviet Union.

On September 24, 1943, she received an answer to her letter under date of September 22, thanking her for her offer to help and stating that Miss EVE BUDD "of our field division who is now on her way to Detroit, will probably get in touch with you, but in the mean time we suggest that you call Mrs. MINNA AGINS, Secretary of the Detroit Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 17388 San Juan Drive, Detroit.

"I am enclosing copies of our September News Letter which is just off the press." This letter was signed by SYLVIA COLBERT of the Field Division. In response to the suggestion contained in this letter, informant telephonically contacted Mrs. AGINS and explained her desires. Mrs. AGINS advised that the organization had not been active in Detroit and had had no office in this locality but that plans were under way to open an office in the Fox Theater Building on Woodward Avenue in the immediate future.

Informant explained that Mrs. AGINS would not furnish any information until she had inquired as to informant's background and motive for wishing to help but that the fact that informant explained to Mrs. AGINS that she had relatives in the Soviet Union made a very deep impression. Mrs. AGINS explained that the organization has meetings every third Friday of each month at the Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth, Detroit, the next meeting being scheduled for October 15, which meeting informant was invited to attend.

Regarding the contemplated office in the Fox Theater Building, Mrs. AGINS stated that they plan to have a full-time person in charge and that this person would be MARY PARINSKY. MARY PARINSKY is known to be the wife of GEORGE PARINSKY, who is Executive Secretary of the Michigan Committee of the American Slav Congress and who is described by informants of this office as the leader of the Bulgarian Macedonian Communists in the United States. MARY is the former secretary of the Ohio Committee of the American Slav Congress and is presently engaged in assisting THOMAS X. DOMBROWSKI, Daily Worker correspondent and organizer for the COMMUNIST PARTY in Hamtramck, Michigan.

Regarding his Communist activities, there was recovered from a highly confidential source credentials issued to Hamtramck members of the Communist Party in attendance at the Michigan State Convention of the Communist Party held February 26, 27 and 28 in the Mirror Ballroom, Detroit. One credential was made out in the name of MARY PARINSKY and she signed the credentials of others in the blank marked, "counter-sign." She is just now recovering from a serious illness and is the subject of a pending security matter investigation in the Detroit Field Division. She has also been reported as a very active member of the Communist Party of Ohio before coming to Detroit. Mrs. AGINS advised that Professor JOHN F. SHEPARD, President of the Civil Rights Federation of Michigan, a known Communist front organization, would give a lecture at the October 15th meeting of subject organization. He is to be contacted by EVE BUDD when she arrives in Detroit as is Mrs. AGINS.

Mrs. AGINS further stated to informant that ANN ~~HEIS-~~ WENGER and MARION ~~ELDER~~, both known Communists, would be in attendance at the meeting and promises to have MARY PARINSKY get in touch with informant in the very near future.

At the Midwest Conference of the National Negro Congress held in Detroit during January, 1943, literature of the American Council on Soviet Relations was laid on each chair during recess. This consisted of a bulletin of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., pointing out the purpose and program of the organization and soliciting contributions, together with an announcement to the war workers of Detroit in which it was stated that "our working brothers and sisters in the Soviet Union look to us with the same whole-hearted support that they are giving to us in this common struggle against our Fascist enemies." Closer and more friendly relations between workers of the United States and the Soviet Union were advocated and the workers were cautioned to beware of those who seek to sow distrust and suspicion of the Soviet Union, "our strongest Ally." It ended with the statement that the Casablanca decisions will soon be put into effect "for a united struggle, a united victory, and a secure peace in the century of the common man."

This was put out over the printed heading of the Detroit Chapter of American Council on Soviet Relations but no local address was given.

A highly confidential source disclosed that the apartment of JANE MAYER, Communist wife of MAURICE SUGAR, general counsel of the United Automobile Workers, contained literature of subject organization, including a letter from the New York Headquarters transmitting in accordance with Miss MAYER's request, a packet of solicitation post cards used to transmit money and a message to, "To _____, fighting for our common victory somewhere on the war front in the Soviet Union." The material pointed out that the purpose was to promote American-Soviet Friendship "by these hundreds of thousands of messages and to encourage correspondence between individuals of the U. S. A. and the U. S. S. R."

There was also a printed postcard self-addressed to the National Council in New York by which the sender could request additional envelopes containing five correspondence cards.

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on May 24th reported that EVE BUDD was in conference with JACK RASKIN, Communist Executive Secretary of the Civil Rights Federation during which conference she advised him that she was in Detroit on behalf of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and would remain here for a few days.

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished a handwritten note on October 2, 1942 addressed to PAT (PAT TOOHEY, Secretary of the Michigan Communist Party) and signed JOHN (JOHN LITTLE, District Organizational Director) in which LITTLE pointed out that T. E. SMITH (Doctor TREADWELL SMITH) from the Council of Soviet Relations "was here and presented a series of plans in connection with future activities. I told him to come back on Tuesday at 1:00 p.m., at which time you would be here. The nature of the plans are such that it is indispensable for you to be present."

From the same source there was also received a mimeographed copy of a letter dated October 7, 1942 addressed to the district organizers pointing out that 350 copies of pages from the book of friendship were being prepared by the American Council for Soviet Relations for presentation to the Soviet people on the 25th Anniversary of the U.S.S.R. and were being forwarded to Detroit so that signatures might be collected. This was described as an important project and it was pointed out that the Young Communists League should extend its full cooperation. The letter was signed by CARL ROSS.

Mr. ROY J. BROWN, Assistant Manager of the Masonic Temple, 500 Temple Street, Detroit, telephonically advised on March 24, 1943 that subject organization had requested the use of the hall for Friday, April 9th or Sunday, April 11th for a lecture. He stated that a Mrs. GRUNZIT, whose telephone number was NIagara 2466, had contacted him and had advised that the lecture was to be given by a Madam MAGODOFF, whom she stated was the wife of ROBERT MAY, NBC News Commentator. She further stated to Mr. BROWN that MADAM MAGODOFF had just returned from Russia and was to tell of her experiences there and was also scheduled to speak at Ann Arbor, Michigan on April 10, 1943.

A highly confidential source on August 19, 1942 furnished a copy of a letter dated August 7, 1942 in the handwriting of JOHN

(De 100-2891)

F. SHEPARD addressed to JACK RASKIN, Secretary of the Civil Rights Federation, in which SHEPARD discussed the reasons why he could not continue as President of the Civil Rights Federation, stating, "in the second place, we are organizing a group of the American Council on Soviet Relations in Ann Arbor and I think it is very important, perhaps especially so here as there are so many students. There will be very few of us to do the work and I want to help so far as I can."

On May 11, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] advised that an unidentified woman attempted to contact PAT TOOHEY at Communist Party Headquarters, explaining that there was someone coming to Detroit from New York on important business and that this person would be a woman who was on a field trip throughout the country for the Council of Soviet-American Relations.

The following information is available regarding MINNA AGINS, Secretary of the Detroit group of subject organization:

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that Mrs. AGINS is an active member of the Executive Board of Russian War Relief, Inc., and is also active in the leadership of the Detroit chapter of the A. C. S. R. [ ] was of the opinion that Mrs. AGINS is definitely a Communist sympathizer if not an actual member of the Party, in view of the following circumstances:

b7D

(1) The meetings of the officers of Russian War Relief have been attended by her and she has insisted that Russian War Relief can and should take a stand for the opening of a second front in Europe. (2) She has urged that Russian War Relief should be closely affiliated with the A. C. S. R. (3) At a meeting of the Executive Board of Russian War Relief about a year ago, she and Mrs. OSWOLD GRUHZIT, who share the leadership of the A. C. S. R. demanded the resignation of a Mrs. DE WEERD, who at that time was secretary of Russian War Relief. The present secretary is MYRTLE POWELL, alleged Communist and Security Matter subject of this field division, and apparently is entirely satisfactory to Mrs. AGINS. (4) In the Fall of 1942 after the visit of the United Nations' heroes to Detroit, Mrs. AGINS was discussing with informant a large Jewish meeting which the heroes attended. Mrs. AGINS was present at this meeting and she related to informant in substance the following:

"My heart simply melted when the Soviet hero, VLADIMIR PCHELINSTEV, turned to those of us (Jews) who have suffered and to whom the old Russia meant discrimination but who have never lost our love for

(De 100-2891)

"what we consider the essence of our homeland--Russia--and said, 'Tovarish Judenski' (Comrade Jews). I simply broke down and wept."

Informant stated that Mrs. AGINS had advised him that she has relatives in Russia.

On November 24, 1942 there was received from a highly confidential source a sheet of paper in the handwriting of JACK RASKIN which contained a memorandum of events and under the heading, "Forum," MINNA AGINS' name was listed as a member, along with a group of known Communists and fellow-travelers. At the Midwest Conference on Problems of the War and the Negro People held by the National Negro Congress at the Masonic Temple, 275 East Ferry Street, Detroit, Mrs. AGINS made a remark that this war was capitalism's last trick. At this conference there was distributed a four-page printed folder announcing the State-wide Michigan Youth Conference called by the Negro Youth Council for victory and democracy for June 12 and 13, 1943. The program indicates that panel sessions would revolve around discussions of "All-American Youth Congress in the Armed Forces," as well as "The Production Battle," "For Civil Rights," "In the Community" and "In the World of Tomorrow." Listed on the reverse side of this folder was a partial list of sponsors which included Mrs. MINNA AGINS.

From a highly confidential source there was recovered a list of proposed contributors to the Civil rights rederation as of April, 1942 and the first name on this list read, "Doctor and Mrs. AGINS--University 2-3600." From the same source there was received a two-page typewritten list entitled, "Detroit Committee of 56" on which Mrs. AGINS' name appeared at the top in pencil.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on December 16, 1942, MINNA AGINS advised JACK RASKIN that the delegation from the STANLEY NOWAK Defense Committee had made an appointment with Attorney General ~~BIDWELL~~ for noon on the coming Friday. At this time RASKIN invited Mrs. AGINS to a conference to be held in his office that night on the NOWAK case.

On January 7, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] stated that JACK RASKIN advised one CARL HEFNER that at the meeting of the NOWAK Committee on the preceding night Judge PATRICK O'BRIEN acted as chairman and MINNA AGINS acted as secretary. The same informant stated that MINNA AGINS, in discussing the Nowak defense committee with RASKIN, requested him to bring 300 petitions which were to be distributed by her at an unnamed banquet.

It is known that the COMMUNIST PARTY and its members were most active in condemning the indictment of STANLEY NOWAK, who was charged with falsifying his naturalization papers and that he did not disclose that he was a member of the Communist Party at the time he filed his petition.

On November 20, 1942, Confidential Informant [ ] furnished an original letter addressed to ANN BEISWENGER on Daily Worker stationery, which letter under date of June 28, 1942 pointed out that the subscription which MINNA AGINS desired would be taken care of soon.

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on November 6, 1942 Mrs. AGINS advised JOHN LITTLE, District Organizational Director of District 7 of the Communist Party that they were leaving that afternoon and wanted to know what to do with the checks. She said that she had received two wires from them and they very anxious. She requested LITTLE to send the money to her in care of the hotel New Yorker, New York City. The name of MINNA AGINS is contained on a list of Communist Party suspects furnished this office by Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau.

b7D

On June 1, 1943 Confidential Informant [ ] advised that an individual identified only as VERNE, who was believed to be Doctor VERNE PIAZZA, communist physician who is active in Italian affairs in Detroit, requested JACK RASKIN to sponsor a meeting of the Italian section of the International Workers Order. RASKIN suggested to PIAZZA that he consult MINNA AGINS.

b7D

On August 10, 1943 the records of Local Draft Board 42, Detroit, were consulted for information concerning Mrs. AGINS' husband and it was ascertained that he was registered there under the name of "Doctor JACOB AGINS." He indicated that he was born on March 16, 1898 at Slutsk, Russia. He was married in Detroit, Michigan, September 1, 1931 and has three children, [ ]. He owns his own home at 17388 San Juan Drive which he values at $10,000.00 and reported an income of $14,000.00 for the calendar year preceding the filing of his questionnaire. He claimed United States citizenship and stated that he was in the United States Army from September 12, 1918 to December 12, 1918, at which time he received an honorable discharge. He applied for a commission in the United States Army as disclosed by a letter dated September 10, 1942 from the United States Army Medical Department, 320 Federal Building, which pointed out that he was rejected because of his physical condition.

b7C

On August 9, 1943, Mr. WILLIAM H. VAN TIFFLIN of 17357 San Juan Drive, who is an accountant in the Book building, Detroit, advised that the AGINS did not have any friends in the neighborhood but that Mrs.

(De 100-2891)

AGINS was active in civilian defense and was an air raid warden. On August 10, 1943, HAROLD W. HANLON, who resides at 17385 San Juan Drive, and who is an attorney in the Dime Bank Building, Detroit, advised that the AGINS had lived at their present address for about four years and that at the time they first moved there one of HANLON's friends, Doctor NATHANIEL GATES, described AGINS to HANLON as a Russian Communist. Mrs. HANLON stated that she had noticed the American Express Company delivering many parcels to the AGINS' residence.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on July 31, 1943 the Reverend CLAUDE WILLIAMS had a conference with JACK RASKIN and during this conference they were discussing an individual named THOMAS BEN JONES. They were endeavoring to place the identity of JONES and WILLIAMS stated that "MINNA's husband was checking this matter for him."

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised on August 21, 1943 that Mrs. AGINS was a member of the Executive Committee of the Senator STANLEY NOWAK Defense Committee and in an article printed in the "Redford Record", a Detroit community newspaper, in the March 25, 1943 issue, she was mentioned as being behind the Communist front. This article attempted to show how the Communists work and the positions of power and influence which they work into, and pertained to the activities of the Communists in their attempts to surpress the indictment of State Senator STANLEY NOWAK.

Inspector DENSTEDT of the Detroit Police Radio Station advised that he had attempted to check the Office of Civilian Defense records and was able to discover only that Mrs. AGINS was an air raid warden of Area 4, Detroit, number 10673. The O. C. D. records show that she was certified but Inspector DENSTEDT regarded it as significant that background information was not available on Mrs. AGINS nor had a fingerprint card been submitted to the Detroit Bureau of Identification in accordance with standard practice.

Mrs. AGINS is described by Confidential Informant [ ] as follows:

Age	About 40 years
Height	5 feet 7 inches
Weight	145 - 150 pounds
Hair	Dark Brown
Eyes	Brown
Complexion	Dark
Racial descent	Jewish
Dress	Neat

(De 100-2891)

Speech	Soft; slight accent
Posture	Erect
Demeanor	Agreeable, charming

A description of her husband, JACOB AGINS, is contained on his Selective Service file and is as follows:

Age	45 years
Height	5 feet 7 inches
Weight	170 pounds
Eyes	Blue
Hair	Brown
Complexion	Light
Nationality	Russian
Citizen ship Status	Naturalized citizen

National Council of American-Soviet Friendship,
Inc.

M. I. D.

October 7, 1943.

(Date)

Subject: National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc.

Summary of Information:

Corliss Lamont, Chairman of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC., 232 Madison Avenue, New York, New York, signed the following form letter dated September 21, 1943, concerning distribution of copies of the Constitution of the Soviet Union and soliciting funds for such activity. The number of copies distributed reportedly is unknown.

"Please read the enclosed copy of the Constitution of the Soviet Union as soon as possible.

You will find it a vital, living document - the concrete foundation which underlies the epic achievements of the Soviet Union's Red Army and people.

We have published it because we believe Americans who read it will want to aid in welding unity and closer cooperation - in war and in peace - between the United States and the Soviet Union. We hope to print and reprint this Constitution until the total runs into hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of copies.

But we need financial help to do the job thoroughly. Will you contribute? A dollar will enable us to print 17 more copies. Five dollars, 85 copies. Ten dollars, 170 copies.

President Roosevelt said recently, "With a nation which, in saving itself, is thereby helping to save all the world from the Nazi menace, this country of ours should always be glad to be a good neighbor and a sincere friend in the world of the future."

Your contribution will effectively aid in the realization of that aim. Please send it today. Contributions to our organization are tax-except.

INTERNAL SECURITY - C.

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to your letter of October 14, 1943, in the captioned matter. It is desired that you ascertain immediately those places where congresses of "American-Soviet friendship" will be sponsored by the subject organization. As soon as this information is obtained, the interested Field Offices should be immediately instructed to have an appropriate coverage of the congresses. These Offices are also to be instructed that an immediate report should be made to the Bureau upon the completion of the congresses containing all pertinent information developed.

With regard to the congress to be held in New York City, it is desired, as stated in the Bureau's letter of October 6, 1943, that the necessary arrangements be made for an appropriate coverage.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to your letter of October 6th, 1943 requesting appropriate and complete coverage of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship to be sponsored by the subject organization in New York City next month.

In this connection your attention is called to an article which appeared in the October 1943 issue of "Soviet Russia Today", which sets forth substantially the same information announced in the "Daily Worker" article mentioned in the reference letter. The "Soviet Russia Today" article further states:

"Delegates to the New York Congress are expected chiefly from nearby Cities. Congresses in other parts of the country, as well as many local meetings and affairs will afford people in all parts of the country an opportunity to participate. Over fifty Cities have already instituted plans. All interested organizations should take steps for the election of delegates to the Congress Session to be held in their vicinity. Local communities are urged to make plans for affairs."

If the Bureau has not already done so, it is believed desirable that all other Field Division Offices be advised of the national extent of this Congress in the event that nation-wide coverage of the activities of the subject organization in this connection is desired.

100-146964 90

Accordingly it is requested that the New York Field Division be advised of the Bureau's intention in this respect.

A: Hello?
J: Hello TRACHTY?

A: Yeah. Hello.
J: I hear you called me.

A: Yeah. Well let's see I - are you going tonight to that MERICUS (ph) place?
J: No, I'm not.

A: Oh, you are not going. I see. That's not so good.
J: I try to get out of as many banquets as I can.

A: Oh well I agree with you. As a matter of fact I didn't respond and they called me several times and I finally had to agree. One of those things. Well there are a couple of things I have got to check up with you, because you have got to help me out in connection with the things that I took up the other day, you know, with the other friends and I think a certain checkup is required, because I looked into the situation and find it one thing and the best thing is to take some little measures ahead of time, you know, particularly middle western places there, because I couldn't wait until you had, you visited, you see?
J: Hunh? I didn't get that last part?

A: I say I don't want to wait until you make your visits, you know, see? So I would like to see you and we can look over the situation and see what we can do in, you know, a couple of -
J: I'll tell you what, TRACHTY. MORRIS CHILDS is in town.

A: Oh good!!
J: Maybe you should see him, so -

A: Oh, that's fine!
J: I'll tell him to get in touch with you tomorrow.

A: Well how about - When will you be there tomorrow?

J: Well I have meetings a good part of the day.

A: Meetings eh?

J: Starting at 9:30 I have one set of meetings and at one o'clock, - -
I don't know what the hell time in the afternoon, I think it's two o'clock in the afternoon.

A: I have an appointment at 2:30 with, - upstairs there your place.

J: Well then I'll see - -

A: Could I be there at 2 o'clock?

J: Well I won't be here. I'll be, the meeting at 2 o'clock I have is out of the office.

A: Oh! When will you leave the place for that meeting? When will you come back from that meeting?

J: About 4.

A: Oh 4. Well I could, wait for you eh? Will probably be busy maybe up to that time.

J: Yeah. O. K.

A: Can you - - - at 4 o'clock and talk it over, because - - - and then if you see what's his name will you tell him that it's very important for me to see him about this thing.

J: Yes. I will.

A: So maybe I could arrange to meet him at 2 o'clock. All right?

J: Well I'll see what we can do.

A: Something like that, because it's very important. I would like to check up with him, because he is supposed to have gotten that letter, you know, which he wrote for you.

J: Well I'll see that he gets in touch with you.

A: Will you do that? I think it's very important, JOHN.

J: Yes. Surely. A suggestion was made about us getting together for lunch one of these days; the people that were up in the mountains, but I haven't heard anything further about it.

A: Yeah, yeah. This fellow has made me sell the points - - - - -

J: I haven't seen him except once since he came back, but I understand he proposed to MAY (ph) about he and ESTHER and you and MAY and I getting together for lunch one of these days.

A: Well I have no objection. That's a good idea and so, you know, maybe do a little ..... while we are still at it. Just to renew acquaintances.

J: O. K. Then we'll have to figure it out.

A: Yeah. Sure.

J: Now listen just one second. Here is somebody that I think here you will want to speak to. Just a second. Here's ~~PAT~~ TOOHEY.

A: Of course. Of course.

P: (Double talk)

A: Hello.

P: How are you?

A: Hello, PAT. How are you?

P: Where you are?

A: Nice. Listen old man how long are you going to stay here?

P: Well I'm going out at 11:30.

A: Oh tonight!! Oh I see. You are going out tonight.

P: Well I have been here since yesterday, ALEX.

A: Oh is that so. Gee wiz. Well you know, I'm not so often down below there. So busy these days. Though yesterday I was around there for a little while. Gee. I wish they told me about it. You doing big work?

P: No. Self critical to ..... as long as I may. A little confused on some things, but getting straightened out.

A: Listen, on the November thing. I was very anxious to check up with you. How are things going out? Are they doing well there?

J: Very good.

A: Very good?

J: Very good!

A: In Detroit?

J: Yeah. Here's what we did.

A: Is that the only place, by the way, where - any other city?

J: No. There are a number of smaller meetings.

JMG:FS

A: Yeah, well as long as small ones get through, I mean as long as they have --

P: But in Detroit we have the following setup. There is a character there, very famous person who is the head of the Community War Chest Drive and he was the Chairman of the Arrangements Committee and the Chairman of the WALLACE meeting, LINERT (ph) ABNER ~~LINERT~~.

A: Oh yes.

P: And he became the initiator of a sponsoring group.

A: Oh fine.

P: Including the, including MARTEL and QUINN of the C. I. O. and a whole series of big shots in the City and we are expecting the Governor, the Mayor and everybody else.

A: That's the stuff. That's the stuff.

P: It will be a very big business.

A: Fine. Fine. I'm glad to hear it.

P: I'll drop you a note on it.

A: Oh fine. We are -- to know about it.

P: I thought you knew of it here. I thought you knew of it here.

A: Well in the details, no.

P: This office here knows all about it.

A: Who knows?

P: This, you know, this office.

A: Oh, that office.

P: Yeah. They had a girl out there.

A: I know the girl was there, but you see though, you have a little information you get somewhere --

P: Well she knows the whole details.

A: Good.

P: No. We'll have a very good business here.

A: Well as long as you know about it, and as long as you are looking after it, it's all right by me.

P: Thanks. Fine.

-5-

A: Otherwise how are you making out?
P: Good.

A: And now that, what's his name, left you, you have good assistants?
P: No. No.

A: No? Oh gee, too bad.
P: I have to work harder now that JOHN (ph) is gone.

A: Well you got a good vote all right.
P: Because we got a good vote, but not enough for election.

A: I know. I know. That's an old story. We always make it up to a point and never go any further.
P: O. K. ALEX. I'll see you when I come back again.

A: Yeah. All right.
P: So long.

A: Yeah. Good luck. Bye, bye.

RE: HERBERT RESNER
 INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Summary of Information, August 30 to September 5, 1943
Confidential Informant SF 1333

Dear Sir:

This informant learned that RESNER was active during this period in promoting the plans for a San Francisco Chapter of the American-Soviet Friendship Society. In his many contacts he played up the presence in San Francisco of TOM HARRIS and stated that HARRIS was a big English shipping magnate from New York. The purpose of the Friendship Society is to acquaint people with the existing problems which face the United States and Russia in making a lasting peace.

Informant determined that RESNER discussed plans for the San Francisco Chapter of this organization with RUDY LAMBERT, OLETA O'CONNOR and AUBREY CROSSMAN, all known Communist Party members. They, as well as RESNER, were elated over the prospects offered by this organization and appeared to be very anxious to get things started.

Informant will keep the San Francisco Office advised of developments along this line.

Very truly yours,

N. J. L. FIEBER

Report of Special Agent Peter J. Cattaneo, dated October 21, 1943, at New York City.

DETAILS:

According to reference letter dated April 6, 1943, it was ascertained from a highly confidential source of the Washington Field Division that SOPHIA R. AMES, Assistant Executive Secretary of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, had corresponded with Mr. VLADIMIR BAZYKIN, First Secretary of the Russian Embassy at Washington, D. C., and had enclosed copies of three messages which she had received for International Woman's Day.

One of these letters, it was reported, was postmarked Westport, New York, March 4, 1943, from MARY E. WOOLEY, sending her warm admirations for the courage and character of Soviet women. Another letter was dated at Baltimore, Maryland, March 4, 1943, written by Mrs. FREDA BLANK, 7014 Park Heights Avenue, on behalf of the Baltimore Committee, American Council on Soviet Relations (the former name of the subject organization), sending greetings to anti-Fascist women of the Soviet Union. This letter states that because of these women the destruction of Fascism is nearer and that together they must destroy Hitlerism in 1943. The letter also stated that messages would follow from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Marine and Shipbuilding workers, from the CIO Ladies' Auxiliary, and from the National Maritime Union Ladies' Auxiliary.

The third letter also dated March 4, 1943, came from Mrs. EDWARD P. CARTER, President of the Women's Division, Russian War Relief, Inc., which in substance offered admiration for the heroism of the Women's Anti-Fascist Committee and saluted the women of the Soviet Union on International Woman's Day.

The New York Field Division was advised by the Bureau on April 19, 1943, according to a highly confidential source of the Washington Field Division that Miss ALICE BARROWS, who is known to be the Director of Activities of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, had again contacted First Secretary BAZYKIN of the Soviet Embassy concerning several matters. Miss BARROWS, according to this source, advised BAZYKIN that she had not heard from a Mr. RANGER (phonetic), and that she had written to CHAPMAN and was hoping that a WILLIAM MORRIS would bring pressure to bear on some unknown subject matter or individual. This source further reported that Miss BARROWS further informed BAZYKIN that a brochure on an unknown subject matter had been prepared, and that space had been obtained at Rockefeller Center for the exhibition scheduled for May 26, 1943. This undoubtedly refers to the American-Soviet War Exhibit currently on display at Rockefeller Center as reported in the reference report of Special Agent Peter J. Cattaneo, dated October 21, 1943, at New York City.

BAZYKIN in turn reportedly advised that that would be fine (apparently referring to the arrangements mentioned), and further added that the Russian doctors, LEBEDENKO and SARKISOV, had arrived. ALICE BARROWS then agreed, according to this source, to arrange an extensive tour for the two doctors and advised that she expected to be in Washington, D. C. on April 7, 1943, at which time she would discuss the matter with BAZYKIN.

On July 22, 1943, Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, reported information concerning [redacted] EDWIN S. SMITH, formerly a member of the National Labor Relations Board and presently Vice Chairman and Executive Director of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, [redacted]. According to Informant [redacted] SMITH [redacted] had received a request from the Philadelphia Council of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, to arrange a reception for a group of Russian students who were studying at Columbia University. [redacted] the reception would involve the youth groups of Philadelphia. Mr. SMITH then pointed out that if it were possible to arrange such a reception, similar affairs he felt certain would be planned for them at Boston and Springfield. [redacted] if such an idea was practical, [redacted] according to the Informant, stated that he considered the plan quite possible, particularly since Philadelphia was not far distant from New York and would not seriously interfere with the students' studies. SMITH [redacted] then discussed the manner in which they could formally bring about such arrangements and it was agreed that SMITH should write a special letter [redacted] setting forth the wishes of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S Philadelphia Council which would then be answered [redacted] so that SMITH in turn could advise the Philadelphia Council.

Confidential Informant [redacted] said that SMITH [redacted] then discussed a matter involving "record making", which [redacted] thought very desirable and concerning which he wished to discuss further with SMITH at an early date.

As reported by the San Francisco Field Division in reference letter of September 10, 1943, THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary or Director of Field Work of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET

FRIENDSHIP, while in San Francisco from September 1, 1943 to September 8, 1943 for the purpose of initiating the organization of a local council for the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, personally contacted GREGORY KHEIFETS, USSR Vice Consul; STEVE NELSON, National Committee member of the Communist Party, and possibly LOUISE BRANSTEN, all of whom are involved in the COMRAP case. It was further reported that HARRIS telephonically contacted KHEIFETS at the USSR Consulate on September 6, 1943 and again on September 7, 1943.

At a luncheon meeting at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, mentioned in the referenced report of agent Cattaneo, held for the purpose of discussing the foundation of a local council (in San Francisco) of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, frequent reference was made by HARRIS in his address to those present which included a number of prominent Communists, and two high Russian officials who had been contacted in connection with the subject organization's program. It was further intimated by HARRIS on the occasion that the Russian government itself would furnish the material and the facts to be used for the furtherance of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S plans. He also indicated that this was one of the few organizations with which the Russian government had indicated a desire to cooperate.

Following adjournment of this meeting, surveilling agents observed the official USSR Consulate automobile pick up HARRIS in front of the Mark Hopkins Hotel and take him directly to the Russian Consulate where he remained for a period of two to three hours.

On September 8, 1943, the reference letter also reports that HARRIS attended a meeting at the home of ANNA LOUISE STRONG, prominent authoress on Soviet subjects and a reported Communist. This meeting was known to have been attended by, among others, HARRIET G. EDDY, also of Menlo Park. Miss EDDY was mentioned since she has been in contact with PETER IVANOV, Secretary of the USSR Consulate at San Francisco, who is mentioned in San Francisco reports of the COMRAP case.

The Bureau again advised on September 28, 1943 that the Washington Field Division had received further information concerning the subject organization from a highly confidential and reliable source. This source advised that on August 4, 1943, SEMEN A. GONIONSKI, a translator for the Russian Embassy had requested another employee to mail five hundred copies of a supplement<sup>to pg</sup> used in the bulletin prepared by the Russian Embassy to EDWIN SMITH of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

The Washington Field Division reporting by letter to the Bureau, advised that it had secured the further information concerning the subject organization through a highly confidential source. This source advised that EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had corresponded with Mr. S. GONIONSKY, press division of the Russian Embassy at Washington, D. C., and had enclosed a list of names of persons who requested that the Information Bulletin be mailed to them individually, since they are all sponsors of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP or speakers for that organization.

The list was set out as follows:

"Prof. LEROY WATERMAN, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.
Dr. SOPHONISBA BRECKENRIDGE, University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. W. RUSSELL BOWIE, 99 Claremont Avenue, New York, N.Y.-
Mrs. OLGA SHAPIRO, 55 E. 10 Street, New York, N.Y.
Mr. ROBERT NORTON, 2033 McGraw Avenue, New York 62, N.Y.
Rt. Rev. ARTHUR W. MOULTON, Bishop of Utah, 444 East First South Street, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Dr. VLADIMIR K. ZWORYKIN, Director, Research Laboratories,
RCA Manufacturing Co. Inc., Princeton, N.J.
Dr. A. D. HENDERSON, President, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.
Prof. WILLIAM ERNEST HOCKING, Madison, New Hampshire.
Mr. WILLIAM F. COCHRAN, 411 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Md.
Dr. EMILY M. PIERSON, Cromwell, Conn.
Dr. SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY, Boston Symphony Orchestra, Symphony Hall, Boston, Mass.
Dr. C. A. KYKSTRA, President, The University of Wisconsin, Madison 6, Wis.
Prof. ROBERT H. NICHOLS, 99 Claremont Avenue, New York 27, N.Y.
Mr. EARL PARKER HANSON, 3904 49 Street, Long Island City 4, N.Y.
Dr. CHARLES F. WISHART, President, The College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio."

It is believed that the Information Bulletin referred to is the official publication of the Russian Embassy, issues of which were also available to the public at the New York War Exhibit of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

approval. The eliminated paragraph, according to the amendment read, "The purposes of this corporation shall not include the conducting of any school giving courses for which tuition fees will be charged, examinations held and diplomas of any kind awarded".

At this point it may be noted a pamphlet published by the subject organization and secured as one of the exhibits, sets forth the purpose of the organization in substantially the same language as contained in Section 1 and 2 of the above quoted Certificate of Incorporation. This pamphlet which has been made part of the New York file of this case, further stated that the program of the National Council is designed to carry out the avowed purpose of strengthening American-Soviet friendship by (1) meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally, and (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations. The pamphlet states that the National Council can furnish exhibits, films, pamphlets, books and speakers. It refers to special activities of the subject organization, including an American-Soviet War Exhibit opening June 1, 1943 in New York City. It also mentioned "Tokens of Friendship" which might be sent by American communities to Soviet communities. The pamphlet here reads, "It is imperative that the National Council, which will take charge of forwarding the tokens, be consulted about any proposed token before work on the project is begun". The pamphlet states that the National Council is prepared to assist in initiating correspondence with Soviet citizens. Also mentioned are contests sponsored by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP among artists and writers for the purpose of securing the best design for an insignia symbolizing American-Soviet friendship, and for obtaining the best essay to be written on the subject, "Why is American-Soviet Friendship Important to the United States and how can it be maintained and strengthened?" The pamphlet announces a free post war trip to the Soviet Union, or its cash equivalent to the winner of the essay contest open to the young people of America. The pamphlet further mentioned that anyone or any organization interested in promoting American-Soviet Friendship may participate in the program of the subject organization. The National Council was stated as prepared to assist in establishing councils in all the chief cities of the United States, and special interest committees for trade unions, youth, women, nationalities, religious groups, professional groups, etc., which will cooperate with similar committees in councils throughout the country.

The pamphlet also listed the organization's officers and sponsors referred to below by Confidential Informant   whose identity is known to the Bureau.

"PETERS, Prof. Henry W. POPE, Wallingford RIEGGER, Joseph A. ROSEN, Miles M. SHEROVER, Rt. Rev. Henry K. SHERRILL, Raymond P. SLOAN, Leopold STOKOWSKI, Charles E. STEWART, Raymond Gram SWING, Mills TEN EYCK, Senator Elbert D. THOMAS, Dr. Max THOREK, Dr. Richard C. TOLMAN, S. A. TRONE, Rt. Rev. Henry St. George TUCKER, Bishop W. J. WALLS, Prof. Leroy WATERMAN, Dr. Mary E. WOOLLEY, Dean Mary YOST, Dr. J. F. ZIMMERMAN, Prof. J. J. ZMRHAL.

Also prominent among the sponsors are Joseph CURRAN, President of the Communist controlled National Maritime Union and the Metropolitan Benjamin of the Russian Orthodox Church. An Informant describes Metropolitan Benjamin as 'completely communist' and states that it is highly probable that he is 'in the pay of the Soviet Union'.

The publicity release will state that the purpose of subject organization is to 'promote better understanding and to strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential for winning the war and for establishing world-wide democracy and an enduring peace. To this end the Council will take action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations'.

The release will further state that subject organization 'is initiating a nation-wide program to meet the demand of the American people for reliable information of all aspects of Soviet life and to give them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for their Soviet ally'.

At a dinner tendered to Valentina ORLIKOVA, woman Soviet Merchant Marine officer on March 20, 1943 by the New York Council of subject organization, Alice BARROWS, Executive Secretary, stated that: 'The organization would have no regular membership rolls or dues but would be loosely knit groups whose sole purpose would be the dissemination of information on the Soviet Union and its people to promote the friendship of the two peoples.'

Included in the release will be the statement that subject organization is an outgrowth of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held at Madison Square Garden last November and that its work will approximate the accomplishments of that Congress.

N.Y. 100-7518

"It is also stated that subject organization will sponsor, sometime in May, an 'American War Exhibit' which will feature 'trophies captured by the Red Army' including German 'Iron Crosses prepared by the Nazis to commemorate the fall of Moscow.'"

[Confidential Informant T-1 on March 22, 1943 mentioned that NETTIE BRENNER of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had conferred with an employee of the National Maritime Union relative to the forwarding of a check for $20.00 by the latter organization to the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP in connection with an affair sponsored by them at that time.

The New York Left Wing newspaper, PM on April 6, 1943, announced that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP would stage an American-Soviet War Exhibit in New York City in May. It set forth briefly the information already furnished concerning this exhibit, by Informant [ ] It also quoted the organization's President, CORLISS LAMONT as stating that a nation-wide program to give the American people reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life would be undertaken by the subject organization.

On April 29, 1943, the Daily Worker reported that a statement had been issued by CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP from the Council's office. LAMONT was quoted as stating in part that "the open break between the Soviet and Polish governments over the 'Nazi inspired' charge that the Russians murdered ten thousand Polish officers, shows clearly the danger to the United Nations of the splitting tactics engineered by Hitler and fostered by the general campaign of anti-Soviet propaganda which has been carried on in recent months in Britain and America".

The balance of the statement follows the Communist Party line in defending Russia in the Soviet-Polish crisis, and concludes with the declaration that "the acts of the Polish government have not been such as to warrant our confidence".

The Daily Worker for May 2, 1943 carried a half page column advertisement over the name of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, announcing its "Correspondence For Friendship". The advertisement related that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP would sponsor hundreds of thousands of messages between Americans and Soviet citizens in order to stimulate correspondence between the people of the United States of America and the U.S.S.R. The advertisement asked "which would you like to hear from?" 1) a Red Army man, 2) a Red Navy man, 3) a Red Army nurse, 4) a guerrilla fighter, 5) a collective farmer, 6) a Soviet student, 7) a Donbas coal miner, 8) a steel worker, 9) a woman factory worker, 10) a Soviet school teacher, etc.

The bottom of the advertisement consisted of a coupon which could be sent to the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC., requesting that they forward envelopes, each containing five such "friendship" cards.

The Daily Mirror on May 4, 1943 under the headline, "PLAN TO SWAP MAIL WITH RUSSIANS GETS SCRUTINY OF ARMY", published an article claiming that the plan of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC. for the exchange of correspondence between Americans and Russians had drawn the attention of the United States Army Military Intelligence and was being investigated by them. CORLISS LAMONT was referred to as "radical son of banker THOMAS W. LAMONT". The article set forth in essence the contents of the advertisement above mentioned, spoke of the two contests being sponsored by the subject organization to obtain appropriate essays and pin designs as previously noted. The article further alleged that the plan had been approved by the Soviet Embassy, but that the Embassy did not discuss the proposal with the United States State Department. The article, written by WILLIAM HENDERSON, stated that LAMONT had been asked how American soldiers can be prevented from engaging in correspondence through the plan, in violation of orders forbidding them to write to strangers. According to HENDERSON, LAMONT replied, "We're not sending the cards to soldiers and sailors. If one of them should get a card, of course it's up to him to follow his orders". HENDERSON further stated, "LAMONT, like several of the 140 persons named as officers or sponsors of the organization, has been prominent in groups defined by Representative Martin Dies and others as 'Communist-fronts,' having once been head of the defunct Friends of the Soviet Union. Head of the New York Council, which shares the office of the National Council, is Professor Henry Pratt Fairchild, head of the sociology department of NYU and six-time president of the Town Hall Club."

The New York Daily Mirror on May 5, 1943, announced that on the previous day Mayor LaGUARDIA of New York City had inaugurated the "correspondence for friendship" drive of the COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP in a ceremony at City Hall, in the presence of CORLISS LAMONT, radical head of the Council, and DMITRI ZIAKIN, acting Soviet Consul General. According to the Daily Mirror's article, the Mayor wrote on one of the special cards provided by the Council, to V. P. PRONIN, chairman of the Moscow Soviet, whose position in Russia was described as closest to LaGUARDIA'S.

The newspaper PM on May 10, 1943 contained a short article concerning the Russian War Relief's campaign for 5,000,000 letters of friendship to individual citizens of the U.S.S.R., a campaign apparently of the same nature as that sponsored by the subject organization.

On May 13, 1943, the Daily Worker carried a three, half column advertisement which bore the name of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and was headed "BUILD ALLIED UNITY!" "PROTEST ANTI-SOVIET PROPAGANDA!" It announced a meeting to be held at Carnegie Hall, New York City on May 20, 1943 under the auspices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, to protest a new wave of "anti-Soviet propaganda" involving incidents such as "Polish intrigues, the Alter-Ehrlich conspiracy, the ten thousand murdered Polish officers, and the campaign against Mission to Moscow which threatened Allied unity". The advertisement scheduled the following speakers for the meeting for which tickets were offered at prices of 55¢, 83¢ and $1.10.

Honorable CLAUDE D. PEPPER, Senator from Florida.
Honorable JOSEPH CLARK BALDWIN, Congressman from New York.
Professor OSCAR LANGE, Professor at the University of Chicago and University of Cracow, Poland.

Dr. ARTHUR UPHAM POPE, Chairman of the Committee for National Morale - and other speakers to be announced.

The New York Journal-American on May 10, 1943 contained an article headlined, "PRO-SOVIET POLE BOLTS UNITY RALLY". It stated that "Last-minute attempts to inject the Alter-Ehrlich case into the 'Allied Unity Rally' at Carnegie Hall tomorrow night boomeranged today on the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP". The article went on to state that one of the rally's most advertised speakers, Professor OSCAR LANGE, eminent Polish scholar and advocate of better relations with the Soviet Union, had withdrawn in protest. The article also declared that Congressman JOSEPH CLARK BALDWIN, another featured speaker, declared in Washington that he was investigating "what looks like an effort to drag the Alter-Ehrlich case in by the heels". He added that he will probably not be on the platform tomorrow night.

The Journal-American continued, "Meanwhile speakers and sponsors of the rally, such as Senator CLAUDE D. PEPPER, ALBERT EINSTEIN, THOMAS MANN, Mrs. LOUIS D. BRANDEIS, and Miss HELEN KELLER, today found themselves in a position of backing a charge that the prominent persons who protested the Soviet executions of the two Polish labor leaders are engaging in a 'conspiracy' to 'disrupt American-Soviet friendship'".

Among the protesters (against whom the conspiracy charge has been raised by the organizers of the rally) continues the article, "are Mayor LaGUARDIA, Senator JAMES M. MEAD, WILLIAM GREEN, AFL president; JAMES CAREY, CIO secretary-treasurer, and DAVID DUBINSKY, garment workers' president". In the article Dr. CORLISS LAMONT was referred to as one of the "Communists' principal apologists in this country".

Another section of the article reads, "Professor LANGE who is teaching at Columbia and Chicago universities, did not learn until yesterday that the rally was to be aimed at the 'Alter-Ehrlich conspiracy'. Being an old friend of the two executed Jewish labor leaders he withdrew from the meeting".

The article concludes, "The Communist Party and its press in this country has been charging right along that those who protested (the Alter-Ehrlich conspiracy) were carrying out a Goebbels-inspired plot against the war effort.

"The Communists' expression, 'Alter-Ehrlich conspiracy' began to appear in the National Council's advertisements of the rally in recent issues of the Daily Worker."

On May 14, 1943, in Confidential Informant [ ]'s report on the Correspondence for Friendship campaign sponsored by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, it was mentioned that this letter writing campaign was highly encouraged by the Daily Worker.

On May 18, 1943, the New York Times carried a seven column advertisement entitled, "AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, AN OPEN LETTER TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE". The opening paragraph of the advertisement signed by CORLISS LAMONT referred to an open letter initiated to promote home unity "against those who would divide us."

The advertisement reads in part, "Every patriotic American has reason to be alarmed over the new wave of anti-Soviet propaganda that has arisen in the United States during the first part of 1943. This campaign against Soviet Russia reviving old fears and prejudices threatens to undermine American-Soviet friendship and to divide us from our great Russian ally in war and in peace.....the severance of Soviet Russian relations with the Polish government in exile plainly showed the danger to the United Nations and the advantage to Hitler of anti-Soviet calumnies wherever and whenever they appear."

The advertisement in substance referred to the need for a Second Front and the alleged divisive activities of anti-Soviet forces in the United States to stir up suspicion of our Soviet ally. It mentioned a whispering campaign to spread the contention that the United States must battle Russia after this war. It stated that the alleged anti-Soviet movement has representatives in both Houses of Congress, some departments of the government, sections of the Democratic Republican parties and in the "Christian Front" and Fascist circles. The advertisement sets forth the appeal to "let us do everything in our power to cement our alliance with the Soviet Union and in cooperation with Great Britain and China, to further the great coalition of the United Nations". The announcement was signed by approximately 85 individuals, many of whom have been previously identified with other Communist Front organizations, including JOSEPH CURRAN, ALBERT EINSTEIN, KATHERINE HEPBURN, JO DAVIDSON, CLIFFORD ODETS, Reverend F. M. ELIOT, WILLIAM SEABROOK, UPTON SINCLAIR, VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON, DONALD OGDON STEWART, Admiral H. E. ARNOLD (retired), and CARL VAN DURAN.

The advertisement further mentioned the Allied united rally reported above and included a coupon addressed to the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, which read, "I would like to see the message of this advertisement brought to the attention of as many Americans as possible. I would like to help build a permanent American-Soviet friendship. I am enclosing a contribution of _____ dollars to be used for that purpose." A line at the bottom of the advertisement stated that it had been paid for by contributors.

Confidential Informant T-12 advised that on May 18, 1943, MICKY HOROWITZ, who is known to be director of the Speakers Bureau of the New York State Communist Party had sought information from the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP regarding the exhibits they might have that could be shown at various Communist Party centers. (S) (U)

On May 20, 1943, the New York Times referred to Professor LANGE'S withdrawal from the Carnegie Hall meeting, which action had been taken because "efforts had been made to represent the meeting as an attack on the memory of HENRYK EHRLICH and VICTOR ALTER, Polish labor leaders executed by the Soviet government". According to the Times, Professor LANGE had attributed such efforts to the Communist Party and particularly to advertisements in the Daily Worker.

On May 21, 1943, the New York Times reporting on the Allied United Rally sponsored by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, which had been held on the previous evening, stated that CORLISS LAMONT had awarded certificates of approval to Warner Brothers Pictures, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, and WALTER HOUSTON for their part in the production of "Mission to Moscow". The remarks of LAMONT at the meeting, according to this article followed the line of the subject organization's advertisement published on May 18, 1943. ARTHUR UPHAM POPE criticized the then current criticism of "Mission to Moscow" stirred up by the statements of DOROTHY THOMPSON, EUGENE LYONS, JOHN DEWEY and others. [REDACTED] was quoted previously as claiming that "there was no Red menace after the war". EDWIN S. SMITH, the article stated had also spoke on United States - U.S.S.R. unity, together with Great Britain and China as being the only hope of the world. The Time stated that Senator PEPPER had been unable to attend the rally and had wired message of encouragement.

On May 29, 1943, the Daily Worker contained an article referring to "The opportunity for American people to express their friendship for the people of Soviet Russia" which discussed the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S correspondence for friendship campaign. It announced that a corps of approximately five thousand volunteer canvassers were prepared to flood the streets of the five boroughs of New York with correspondence cards issued by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. The article said that some of these canvassers would be dressed in Russian costumes, some would wear appropriate arm bands, and others would wear the colorful "mail box" especially designed for the campaign. It was claimed that a half million such cards have already been sent through various organizations and an appeal was made for more volunteers.

The Daily Worker on May 31, 1943 contained an article apparently based on a press release in which CORLISS LAMONT as chairman of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, announced the opening of a motion picture film, "The Russian Story" on June 8, 1943 under the sponsorship of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

The article stated that the following were scheduled to be present at this opening:

EUGENE KISSELEV, Consul-General of the U.S.S.R.
Vice-Consuls PAVEL KLARIN, VASSILY ZUBILIN, and MIKHAIL VAVILOV, and JURII OKOV, Secretary to the Consulate.

The article announced that the opening would also entail a special Russian stage program. It stated that "The Russian Story" was a film released by Artkino, and that it was an epic which covered a thousand years of Russian heroism and explained the psychology of the Red Army and the Russian people.

The New York Times on June 2, 1943 announced the opening on the previous night of an American-Soviet War Exhibit at the New York Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Plaza in the presence of Madam MAXIM M. LITVINOFF, wife of the then Russian Ambassador to the United States. The New York Times reported that on this occasion, talks praising the Red Army and the Russian people had been made by LOY HENDERSON, Assistant Chief of the Division of European Affairs of the State Department, and that Major-General SANDERFORD JANNAN, Chief of the Anti-Aircraft Artillery Command, EDC; GARDNER COWLES, JR., Director of the Domestic Division of the OWI; PHILIP YOUNG, Deputy Administrator of the Lend-lease Administration. It mentioned that CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP presided at this affair.

This exhibit was visited by the writer on September 4, 1943. It is to be noted that the exhibit occupied the fore part and most prominent section of the New York Museum of Science and Industry so that persons visiting the museum, which museum contains industrial and scientific exhibits, a United States Army Air Force display, and a Canadian government exhibit, would be compelled to review the subject organization's section first. It consists of exceptionally large photographic murals revealing various phases of Russian life, war equipment of various kinds, war trophies, Russian agricultural exhibits, and related material. A placard at the entrance reads, "The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship presents the American-Soviet War Exhibit with the cooperation of United States War Department, United States Lend-lease Administration, United States OWI.

The agriculture part of the exhibit included two kitchen tables, one showing a typical American meal under the present rationing system, and the other what is available on the average Russian table in contrast.

In the main part of the exhibit there was a table attended to by a woman who spoke with a Russian accent, which was covered with various pamphlets, books and Correspondence for Friendship cards which were on sale at a cost of 25¢ each. The writer observed that the woman attendant was employing two children not over twelve years of age as "shills". These youngsters would pretend to come up to the table, proffer a quarter and purchase one of the cards, attempting to induce interested spectators to do likewise. They would move on to another part of the show and return later to repeat the operation.

The following pieces of literature were obtained at this stand and have been made part of the New York file in this case:

Pamphlet entitled, "Hear About the U.S.S.R.", published by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. It explains and offers the Speakers Bureau of the subject organization, and is addressed particularly to organizations who may be interested in securing a speaker on various Russian topics. It states that the charges made by the speakers vary and asks that groups inquiring about the service, state the amount they can afford to pay. The pamphlet states that the fees for such speakers range from $10.00 to $200.00 plus expenses, but that in certain cases the speakers require only their expenses in which case the Bureau makes a service charge of $5.00.

The following speakers were listed as available for such engagements:

A pamphlet also prepared by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, entitled, "See the Soviet Union in Exhibits and Films", consisting of twelve pages, and offering various moving picture films, photographs, posters, cartoons and prints on a host of Russian subjects. Most of the moving pictures offered have evidently been produced in Russia. Typical titles listed are:

Alexander Nevsky (91 minutes)

Peter the Great (95 minutes)

N.Y. 100-7518

Soviet Women at War (8 minutes)
General Suvorov (90 minutes)

All of the material offered involves fees of various amounts ranging from a dollar to $25.00.

A pamphlet entitled, "Our Backing of Russia regarded as All-Important".

Correspondence for Friendship card.

A reprint from the New York Times of September 20, 1942 of a letter from THOMAS W. LAMONT to the editor. THOMAS W. LAMONT, who is Chairman of the Executive Committee of J. P. Morgan, Inc., and the father of CORLISS LAMONT, states in this eleven page article his views on the need for maintenance of Russia's stand against Germany, which transcends "any and all considerations of politics or religion".

A booklet entitled, "Soviet Russia and the Post War World", by CORLISS LAMONT, price 5¢, published by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. In this booklet of twenty-four pages, LAMONT reviews the strength of the USSR as an asset for world peace, which he claims is the aim of Russia as essential to its reconstruction. The publication reviews the history of Soviet foreign policy, the principle of collective security, Russia's support of the League of Nations' covenant, hostility towards the Soviet Union and its preparation for the Nazi attack. LAMONT discusses the self-determination of peoples and international democracy within the USSR, reviews the problem of the Baltic states in Eastern Poland, and Russia's relation with Bessarabia and Finland, and ends on the note of Soviet Russia's influence abroad, its position in international trade and the denial of a Russian menace in Europe. The booklet follows a very strong pro-Soviet theme.

A paper-bound book entitled, "Salute to our Russian Ally", published by the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, 131 pages, price 35¢. This book, which contains a foreword by CORLISS LAMONT contains a report of the Congress sponsored by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP on November 7 and 8, 1943. The book sets forth all of the speeches and talks given at the several sessions of the Congress, previously reported and lists the sponsors of the Convention. It is noted in the book that additional copies of the report may be ordered by writing to Miss ALICE BARROWS, Room 805, 232 Madison Avenue, New York City, who is the director of activities of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

"Hitler's Slave Markets"

"The Molotov Note", by JESSICA SMITH, published by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP at 5¢ per copy.

"For World Peace and Freedom", another NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP publication by ALEXANDER TROYANOVSKY.

"Behind the Polish-Soviet Break" by ALTER BRODI, with an introduction by Dr. CORLISS LAMONT, sold at 3¢ per copy.

On June 9, 1943, Confidential Informant T-2 reported that EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had conferred with ROY HUDSON, who is known to be a member of the National Council of the Communist Party. According to Informant T-2, SMITH advised HUDSON that "they" were prepared for a convention, and that before the officers' report was written, "they" would likely talk it over with HUDSON. (S) (u)

(u) (S) [On June 14, 1943, Confidential Informant T-1 advised that ANN PROSTEN, who is employed in the office of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, had discussed with SPERO GALANOPULO, acting editor of the National Maritime Union publication "Pilot" tentative plans for an NMU night at the American-Soviet War Exhibit on June 28, 1943. According to Informant T-1, Mrs. PROSTEN said that it was the idea of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP to set aside in addition auxiliary "night" for the wives of torpedoed seamen as guests of honor at the exhibit. Informant T-1 also advised that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF

(u) AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP was planning a CIO auxiliary night, and that Mrs. PROSTEN thought it would be a good idea to announce such an occasion in the "Pilot". Confidential Informant T-1 also reported that Mrs. PROSTEN had discussed these plans with LEO HUBERMAN, Director of Public Relations of the NMU and also identified with Communist activities. Also discussed on this occasion, according to Confidential Informant T-1, was a plan for a combined women's auxiliaries of New York City night. (u)

On June 25, 1943, the New York Times reported a demonstration at the American-Soviet War Exhibit showing the amount of food wasted by Americans. The article which appeared to be based on a press release, discussed the Russian food situation and shipment of food to Russia by this country on the Lend-lease plan.

On June 26, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on the evening of June 22, 1943 a presentation termed, "The United States and Soviet Russia at War" commemorating two years of "heroic struggle of the Soviet people against Fascism" had been given under the auspices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP at their exhibit in the Museum of Science and Industry at Rockefeller Center. Approximately 150 persons attended this ceremony including several members of the armed forces, who appeared to be viewing the exhibits, but not interested in the presentation. b7D

The following, according to Informant [ ] participated in the program: b7D

H. B. SHERMAN, Chairman of the meeting and of the East Side American-Soviet Council.

Councilman GOLDBERG of New York City.

A. CLAYTON POWELL (negro), New York councilman.

LISA SERGIO, radio commentator at station WQXR.

GENEVIEVE TAGGARD, poet.

RUTH FREMONT, who sang Russian songs

EUGENE CONNOLLY, Executive Secretary, American Labor Party.

Assemblyman WILLIAM ANDREWS of New York.

Assemblyman JOHN J. TAMMULA of New York.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that the greater part of the program was devoted to the singing of Russian songs by Miss FREMONT, and the reading of Russian poetry by GENEVIEVE TAGGARD. The speaker's remarks were very brief and tribute was given to Russia on the commemoration of the Second Anniversary of Russia's entrance into the war. Democracy b7D at home was assailed for some of the undemocratic activity prevalent in the United States, and greater unity with Soviet Russia was urged by the speakers.

Informant ☐ said that LISA SERGIO stated that "We must be sure that after winning the war we will also win the peace. We must be friends with other nations if we are to have democracy throughout the entire world". POWELL was reported to have dramatized in an extremely brief talk a remorseful attitude toward the world situation, and to have warned the audience that the same enemies of negroes are the enemies of Russia.

b7D

LAMULIA stated that the greatest tribute to Russia would be the opening of a Second Front in Russia. He urged a Second Front at home so that "simultaneously slavery will be liberated all over the world".

ANDREWS, according to Informant ☐ stated that we are in a total war not only abroad but also at home. The total war, he said, is not only to save guard democracy but also to make democracy work here at home. He stated that if we do not make democracy work at home we will lose the respect of other nations and there will be no friendship between other nations and the United States.

b7D

It may be noted here that LAMULIA has been seen at other affairs associated with Communist Party activities.

The Daily Worker on July 5, 1943 under the headline reading "Leading Americans Denounce Disruptive Attacks on 'Mission'", published an article which stated that 266 "prominent Americans representing all fields of endeavor" had issued a statement through the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP charging that the criticism by a committee of 66 against the film "Mission to Moscow" was a "distinct disservice to the cause of American-Soviet unity during the war and afterwards". The statement was quoted by the Daily Worker as reading as follows:

"The production of the film 'Mission to Moscow' based on ex-Ambassador JOSEPH E. DAVIES' book is an epic making event for America. This picture will be shown to millions of our citizens. Its tremendous importance lies in the fact that the film produced under American auspices expresses wholeheartedly and unreservedly the faith of America in the courage, integrity and the devotion of the cause of all people of our great Soviet ally.

"A statement signed by 66 Americans takes exception to this film on the grounds of alleged historical inaccuracies. A number of "prominent individuals who have seen the film have made similar criticism."

The statement continues in praise of "Mission to Moscow", and sets forth an apologia of the signers for the contents of the film.

Again it is to be noted that the signers of this statement included many individuals previously identified with Communist Front organizations, including DONALD OGDON STEWART, THEODORE DREISER, ROCKWELL KENT, GENEVIEVE TABOUIS, JOSEPH CURRAN and others.

On the same date the New York Times also mentioned the above indicated statement which deplored criticism of "Mission to Moscow". It quoted the statement as did the Daily Worker as saying that "Mission to Moscow" was more than a motion picture, that it was "a gesture of international friendship....with the object of promoting trust instead of distrust in the Soviet Union".

On July 10, 1943 information was received from Confidential Informant T-3 that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had sent out over the signature of CORLISS LAMONT, letters soliciting signers to an open letter to the American people. Included with the request was a copy of this open letter which will be referred to below, and a leaflet listing the purposes of the subject organization.

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on July 12, 1943, ANN PROSTEN, employed in the offices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had conferred with SPERO GALANOPULO again, who is acting editor of the NMU "Pilot", concerning her disappointment in the failure of the "Pilot" photographers to secure photographs at another event sponsored at the American-Soviet War Exhibit for the presentation of an honorary membership from the NMU to a Soviet seaman. According to Informant T-1, plans to secure publicity photographs for the "Pilot" in this instance had gone awry and PROSTEN was so concerned over this failure that she suggested that the seaman involved be contacted for the purpose of having him pose for such a photograph. Informant T-1 advised concerning the presentation that it had been made by RALPH ROGERS, Pacific Coast director of the National Maritime Union. Informant T-1 said that Mrs. PROSTEN stated that LEO HUBERMAN and FERDINAND SMITH, both of the NMU and both prominently associated with Communist activities, had made the preliminary arrangement for the occasion which involved securing a Soviet seaman "through the Consulate" and "anything at all that would make news". Informant T-1 reported that great concern was expressed by both PROSTEN and GALANOPULO over the failure to secure much desired publicity in this instance.

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that on July 12, 1943 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, who is known to be director of publications and chairman of the Literature Committee of the Communist Party, USA, had conferred with JESSICA SMITH, editor of "Soviet Russia Today", and also identified with Communist activities. (S)(u)

Concerning CORLISS LAMONT, Miss SMITH said that "they" anticipated having a "very tough time" with LAMONT. The conference between TRACHTENBERG and Miss SMITH, according to T-4, had to do with LAMONT'S objection to a projected newspaper advertisement to be released by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, because LAMONT felt it was too strongly worded and believed that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP should wait for some new anti-Soviet campaign to develop to justify a release of this nature. Miss SMITH, according to Informant T-4 stressed the difficulty experienced with LAMONT despite attempts to rewrite certain lines in the advertisement. The discussion that transpired between TRACHTENBERG and Miss SMITH, according to Informant T-4 was in the nature of determining the best manner of handling LAMONT and his reconcilable attitude. (S)(u)

Confidential Informant T-4 reported that on July 14, 1943, JESSICA SMITH had discussed with EDWIN SMITH, Executive Director of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP concerning the advisability of holding up the advertisement above referred to because of an editorial in the New Republic which followed every single argument that had been set forth in the advertisement, and furthermore in stronger terms. (S)(u)

Confidential Informant T-4 also reported that on the previous day, July 13, 1943, TRACHTENBERG and THEODORE BEYER of the "Soviet Russia Today" staff had likewise discussed the advertisement planned for the newspapers by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, and that although SMITH (believed to be EDWIN S. SMITH) had written what BEYER considered to be a very excellent letter, LAMONT was none the less very strongly opposed to it. According to BEYER, LAMONT believed such an advertisement superfluous in view of impending military acts. According to Informant T-4, BEYER consulted TRACHTENBERG as to the possibility of LAMONT vetoing publication of the advertisement and his stubborn stand in the matter. (S)(u)

[On July 15, 1943, Confidential Informant T-1 reported that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had invited FREDERICK NELSON (BLACKIE) MEYERS, Vice President of the National Maritime Union to attend another affair to be held at the American-Soviet War Exhibit (S)(u)]

under the auspices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP on July 16, 1943. MEYERS, known to be associated with the Russian War Relief movement is another reported Communist.

Also on July 15, 1943, the Daily Worker carried verbatim the speech of ARTHUR UPHAM POPE, referred to as a national officer of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, in behalf of this organization. The speech which consisted of praise for the Jewish race, was given on the occasion of a rally at the Polo Grounds in New York in honor of Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS and ITZIK FEEFER, an official Soviet delegation, according to the Daily Worker of July 8, 1943, sent here "to bind the knot of international Jewish solidarity against the greatest enemy of all time". The affair at which POPE spoke was sponsored by the Jewish Council of Russian War Relief, Inc., and the Committee of Jewish Writers and Artists.

The much referred to advertisement of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP appeared in the New York Times on July 23, 1943, taking up more than a quarter of a page. The advertisement was headed, "A Full Scale Invasion of Europe - Now. This is the Time to Strike".

Appropriate quotations from various statements made with reference to a Second Front in Europe were set forth and included remarks by President ROOSEVELT, Prime Minister CHURCHILL, Premier STALIN, General GEORGE MARSHALL, and Lieutenant General JACOB L. DEVERS. Also quoted in this connection were ELIOT HANSON BALDWIN and MAX WERNER. The readers of the advertisement were urged to write or wire President ROOSEVELT expressing support of the closest possible American, British, Soviet, Chinese unity for an early victory. An appeal was also made to write or wire members of Congress to back an invasion of Europe. A coupon was also included in this advertisement, this time directed to EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, affording the user an opportunity to send funds in support of the organization's program. This advertisement also stated that it had been paid for by contributors.

Confidential Informant T-5 reported that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG had conferred with ROY HUDSON, national committee member of the Communist Party, on July 27, 1943 regarding the qualities of EDWIN S. SMITH as a speaker and as an executive. The discussion between TRACHTENBERG and HUDSON, according to Confidential Informant T-5 indicated that SMITH might replace CORLISS LAMONT as head of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. (S) (u)

[Confidential Informant T-1 reported on August 5, 1943 that JOSEPH CURRAN of the National Maritime Union planned to be present at another meeting at the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S War Exhibit, at which EDWIN S. SMITH was to give a talk and present a scroll to a Soviet girl. (u)]

[Confidential Informant T-6 reported receipt of information indicating that on several occasions in August 1943 MARTHA BOLMER, a Communist Party member, and JAMES A. MURPHY, Executive Secretary of the Communist Party in Oregon, had discussed the founding of "a new American-Soviet union" in Portland. Informant T-6 indicated that a Mr. HARRIS (believed to be THOMAS L. HARRIS, Director of Field Work of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP) had planned to be in Portland for the purpose of holding a meeting in this connection. Other parties believed interested in this movement in Portland were reported to be Reverend J. W. REED, identified with Communist Front movements in Portland, and WALTER REECE, allegedly a former member of the IWW and strongly pro-Communist. (u)]

[Confidential Informant T-7 advised that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S director of Field Work, THOMAS L. HARRIS, had been in San Francisco on September 1, 1943 and had contacted LOUIS TODD LAMBERT, a functionary of the Communist Party in California, and later conferred with STEVE NELSON, a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party and present organizer of the Communist Party of Alameda County, California. (u)]

[Confidential Informant T-7 further reported a meeting believed to have been attended by HARRIS and several Communist Party officials including AUBREY GROSSMAN, organizer of the professional section of the Communist Party in San Francisco; OLETA O'CONNOR, and RUDIE LAMBERT. It was further determined by this Informant that HARRIS while in San Francisco had also conferred with ROSE ISAAK, an official of the San Francisco branch of the American-Russian Institute, and Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, well known for his participation in various Communist Party Front organizations. (u)]

[Also reported by Confidential Informant T-7 was a contact between HARRIS and HERBERT RESNER of the firm of Andersen and Resner, attorneys for the Communist Party. (u)]

[Also reported by Confidential Informant T-7 was a luncheon held on September 7, 1943 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, and attended by PAUL SCHNURR, Secretary of the CIO Council (presumably in San Francisco), and a known member of the Communist Party; AUBREY GROSSMAN, (u)]

previously mentioned; SOL SILVERMAN, editor of a Jewish newspaper and active in alleged Communist Party Front groups; ROSE ISAAK, previously referred to; Mrs. ROBERT McWILLIAMS; HERRICK LANE; A. F. GAYNOR of the Railroad Clerks, and others whose identities have not as yet been ascertained. This luncheon meeting was addressed by THOMAS L. HARRIS, who urged that San Francisco immediately initiate a local council to be affiliated with the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC. HARRIS discussed the usual purported purposes of the organization, namely, the furnishing of reliable information to the American people on all aspects of Soviet life, giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for their Russian ally, and taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations. In this latter connection, specific mention was made of MAX EASTMAN'S recent article in the Reader's Digest in recitation of Communism. The names of WESTBROOK PEGLER, HEARTS, and others were also referred to and it was stated that the only way these individuals could be silenced was by "hammering, ~~(u)~~ hammering, hammering...." etc.

One of the individuals present at this meeting, believed to be HERBERT RESNER, asked whether the Working Committee of the Council in writing protests concerning statements made by anti-Soviet writers would have to be circulated among the various sponsors of the Council for their approval. On this point, HARRIS answered, "Absolutely not," that the sponsors of the Council will have explicit confidence in whatever action the Committee might desire to take along such lines. ~~(u)~~

HARRIS in his talk, According to Confidential Informant T-6, ~~(u)~~ stated that he had general jurisdiction from San Diego to Seattle. This, it is noted, contradicts his position with the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, which according to literature of the organization appears to be of national rather than sectional scope. Steps were taken at this meeting to form immediately a local council in San Francisco. HARRIS advised that one of these four would be available as a sponsor: Vice President WALLACE, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, HAROLD L. ICKES, and WENDELL WILLKIE. Opinions expressed at the meeting generally indicated that Vice President WALLACE was the first choice among those mentioned with DAVIES second. HARRIS advised that he would inform RESNER, who is to act as temporary chairman of the organization, within three weeks whether or not Vice President WALLACE could be used as a sponsor. ~~(u)~~

Confidential Informant T-7 Further reported that on the same day HARRIS had discussed the medical phase of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S work with Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, mentioned above. ~~(u)~~

On September 8, 1943, HARRIS was reported by this Informant to have contacted ANNA LOUISE STRONG, prominent authoress on Soviet matters, and a reported Communist Party member, at her home in Menlo Park, California. It was further learned by Informant T-7 that plans were underway for HARRIS to direct a meeting at Salt Lake City, Utah, with the active assistance in the securing of sponsors of Bishop ARTHUR W. MOULTON, whose name is associated with other Communist Front groups. (u)

(u) [Confidential Informant T-1 reported that on September 23, 1943, GERTRUDE ROBBINS, employed at the offices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, had conferred with LOUIS OGULL, Assistant Public Relations Director of the NMU and an alleged Communist, with reference to locating MADELINE CARROLL since the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP was interested in contacting her.

The Daily Worker on September 29, 1943 in an article running two-thirds of a column, announced that a huge Congress of American-Soviet Friendship is to be held at the Hotel New Yorker on November 6 and 7, 1943, and is to culminate with a dramatic mass meeting at Madison Square Garden on the evening of November 8, 1943. CORLISS LAMONT was quoted in this connection by the Daily Worker as saying, "Now more than ever with Germany's propagandists in the face of certain ultimate defeat frantically seeking to divide the Allied nations, such a demonstration of friendship and unity with the Soviet Union as the forthcoming congress will be a real blow against the Nazis". It was stated that this Congress and other meetings to be celebrated throughout the country would mark the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations. The balance of the article detailed the various sessions to be held as part of the New York Congress.

On page 5 of the same issue of the Daily Worker, there was listed some of the more prominent sponsors of the Congress which are named in a four page announcement, a copy of which is contained in the New York file of this case and another copy of which is enclosed herewith for the information of the Bureau. This announcement entitled, "Call to the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship", and issued by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, sets forth the fact that ten years ago this November, the United States had established diplomatic relations with the USSR. It points out the great need for unity among the democracies, and that the "recent outpouring of anti-Soviet propaganda is the work of our enemies and represents the greatest single danger to our early victory". It mentioned a recent speech by Secretary of State CORDELL HULL reaffirming the need for increasing collaboration with the USSR, and stressed the the urgency of American good-will towards our "great Soviet ally". It recalls the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held in November, 1942 as being an expression of this popular will, and that the subject organization grew out of that Congress, stating that the message of that Congress which has been carried "deep into the minds and hearts of the American people by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP grows more urgent daily". It announces that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP has set aside the period from November 6 to 16, 1943 to mark both the anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic and the tenth anniversary of the American-Soviet diplomatic relations.

Announced also is a second congress of the American-Soviet Friendship to be held in New York City from November 6 to 8, 1943, and other regional congresses and meetings to be held in all parts of the country "to increase America's understanding of our Soviet ally and to express the determination of all sections of our people to weld our nations into an indissoluble unity".

The program of the Congress is set forth and indicates sessions to be held at the Hotel New Yorker on November 6 and 7, 1943, including a luncheon, at which will be discussed "American-Soviet Cooperation in War and Peace", panels on "Public Health and Wartime Medicine in the U.S.S.R.", sponsored by the American-Soviet Medical Society; "Soviet Science and Technology"; "Education and Youth in Wartime in the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.", and general session on "Planning and Post-War Reconstruction in the U.S.S.R."; panels on "The Soviet Union: a Family of Nations in the War"; "Women and Child Care in the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R."; panel on "Soviet Trade Unions and the War"; "Concert of Soviet Music".

The announcement states that the panels on scientific matters are part of a scientific congress sponsored by leading American scientists in cooperation with the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. A mass meeting at Madison Square Garden is announced for November 8, 1943.

Again it is to be noted that the sponsors of the Congress listed on page four of this announcement and numbering approximately 225 include many names of individuals associated with Communist activities and groups in this country, such as the Metropolitan Benjamin, Wanda Gag, Paul Robeson, Rockwell Kent, Joseph A. Salerno, Dr. Max Yergan, etc.

Confidential Informant ☐ on September 30, 1943 furnished a copy of a letter, dated September 21, 1943, signed by CORLISS LAMONT, which was apparently from its contents issued for general distribution. It reads as follows:

"Please read the enclosed copy of the Constitution of the Soviet Union as soon as possible.

"You will find it a vital, living document - the concrete foundation which underlies the epic achievements of the Soviet Union's Red Army and people.

"We have published it because we believe Americans who read it will want to aid in welding unity and closer cooperation - in war and in peace - between the United States and the Soviet Union. We hope to print and reprint this Constitution until the total runs into hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of copies.

"But we need financial help to do the job thoroughly. Will you contribute? A dollar will enable us to print 17 more copies. Five dollars, 85 copies. Ten dollars, 170 copies.

"President Roosevelt said recently, 'With a nation which, in saving itself, is thereby helping to save all the world from the Nazi menace, this country of ours should always be glad to be a good neighbor and a sincere friend in the world of the future.'

"Your contribution will effectively aid in the realization of that aim. Please send it today. Contributions to our organization are tax-exempt.

"Yours sincerely,

/s/ Corliss Lamont
Chairman

"P. S. I am enclosing a complimentary copy for your own use."

Confidential Informant ☐ advised that it was not know how wide a distribution this letter had received.

N.Y. 100-7516

The October, 1943 issue of "Soviet Russia Today" carried a one page article entitled, "Call to the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship" and set forth essentially the same information available in the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP'S four page announcement of this affair. It also states, "Delegates to the New York Congress are expected chiefly from near by states. Congresses in other parts of the country as well as many local meetings and affairs will afford people in all parts of the country an opportunity to participate. Over fifty cities have already initiated plans. All interested organizations should take steps for the election of delegates to the Congress session to be held in their vicinity".

[On October 4, 1943, Confidential Informant T-8 advised that relations between the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and the New York Museum of Science and Industry were continuous to maintain their war exhibit, have been cordial, and have involved no difficulties.

[Confidential Informant T-8 stated that the Museum's management had agreed to accept establishment of the exhibit in June, 1943 as part of the American War effort, having further learned that the Office of War Information was collaborating in the preparation of the huge photo murals which are on display at the show. [Informant T-8 advised that] the cost of these murals which have been estimated as high as $12,000.00, a figure believed exaggerated, was underwritten by the OWI. [Informant T-8 stated that ex-Ambassador MAXIM LITVINOV had been present at one of the opening celebrations held at the exhibit. He also said that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP has sponsored a number of special "evenings for various industrial and labor organizations" whereby the group or union involved would guarantee the admission fees of a group of its members which in turn were guaranteed by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP to the Museum. [Informant T-8 explained that in some instances the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP would charge the visiting organization up to 50¢ per capita for such occasions, although the Museum entrance fee is 28¢, and that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP kept the difference, he believed to help offset the maintenance cost of the exhibit. The groups which attended in this manner included the CIO, a Federal employees union, a New York State employees union, Hungarian-Americans, Rumanian-Americans, German-Americans, and Italian-Americans.

[Confidential Informant T-8] said that he had witnessed a number of these occasions and had received the impression that "Union Square had moved to Rockefeller Center", mentioning that many of the visitors "look like Reds and Communists". [It was Informant T-8's] further impression that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP may be a "pink" organization. (S) (u)

[Confidential Informant T-8 advised that] the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had arranged for Paramount Pictures, Inc. to crate and remove several sections of this exhibit and had given this firm permission to display the material secured in conjunction with showings throughout the country of the motion picture "The City that Stopped Hitler - Heroic Stalingrad". He also advised that attempts had been made by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP to interest various department stores in renting the balance of the exhibit in conjunction with the war effort. He said he had learned that a number of the department stores so contacted had objected to the cost of such a display and that some of them were reticent to have any connection with the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and the exhibit for fear that their customers might resent its "Red" implications and thus cease to patronize their stores. (S) (u)

[Confidential Informant T-8] made available a copy of a letter which was issued by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP on August 27, 1943 to members of a department store organization, explaining the war exhibit and its availability at a cost of approximately $550.00 for three weeks, plus freight and insurance charges. It was stated by [Informant T-8] that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP has not been able to secure any engagements for their show to date. (S) (u)

Two photostatic copies of the letter mentioned have been included in the New York file of this case.

[Confidential Informant T-9 on October 6, 1943 reported] that a Mrs. BUDD "of the American-Soviet Council" had lately been in Toledo, Ohio, and that EDWARD THEODORE LAMB, a Toledo lawyer and a reported Party sympathizer had been advised by JOSEPH FRIEDMAN, Toledo Section Secretary of the Communist Party to have Mrs. BUDD communicate with MYRA MURRAY WHEELER, Communist Party member and Executive Secretary of the Toledo chapter of Russian War Relief. (S) (u)

For the purposes of determining the owners of the building, the writer visited 232 Madison Avenue, Manhattan, New York, and observed that on the lobby directory the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP is listed as occupying Room #305. This number is also given on the directory for THOMAS L. HARRIS and CORLISS LAMONT.

At the office of the building owners, Cross and Brown Company, 270 Madison Avenue, it was learned that the subject organization occupies rooms 804 and 805, and also rooms 1100 and 1101 at the address above mentioned. An examination of the leases for these offices reveals that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP is paying a yearly rent of $2,820.00 for the two rooms on the 8th floor, which it has contract rent to April 30, 1945. The lease for rooms 1100 and 1101 shows that the yearly rent from May 1, 1943 to April 30, 1944 is to be $2100.00 and $2200.00 for the following year ending April 30, 1945.

[Confidential Informant T-10 advised that the subject organization maintains an average monthly bank balance of approximately $2,500.00 and that its checks, drafts and other instruments for the payment of money must have two of the following signatures thereon:

CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman; EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director, SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, Secretary-Treasury.

[Confidential Informant T-10 advised that the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP had maintained a separate bank account for the Congress which it sponsored in November, 1942, and that it was understood that its balances would run to possibly $10,000.00. The residual balance of this account was transferred to the organization's account in June, 1943. It was also learned from this source that an account bearing the name NEW YORK COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP was opened on February 15, 1943 and continues in an active status with an average monthly balance of approximately $2800.00. It was also learned either the name of FREDERICK V. FIELD, Treasurer, or FRANKLIN FOLSOM, Executive Secretary, must appear on the checks of this latter group, together with either the name of Dr. M. B. SHERMAN or Professor HENRY PRATT FAIRCHILD, both members of the group's Executive Committee.

As noted by this Informant, and in the New York Telephone Directory, the New York Council is located in the same offices as the National Council, and it would appear to be an arbitrary and convenient distinction for the purpose of handling local affairs of the subject organization in the New York area.

The New York Times on October 13, 1943 carried a small boldface type, namely, announcing the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship mentioned above.

Confidential Informant T-11 furnished a two page mimeographed outline published by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, dated August, 1943. This memorandum outlines procedure and suggestions recommended for appropriate celebration of the period, November 6 to 16, 1943, in conjunction with the American-Soviet Friendship Congress. It sets forth procedure for the formation of a special committee, suggested events for the week including a city-wide mass meeting, proclamation by the local mayor of an American-Soviet Friendship week for that period, the showing of a Soviet film, an exhibit of photographs on the Soviet Union at the local library, cooperation with other local organizations, a concert of Russian and American music, contacts with local clergymen for the purpose of including a discussion of this subject in their Sunday sermons. The outline suggests for the organization a meeting, briefs, basic details concerning dates and meeting places, the desirability of obtaining a list of prominent sponsors, arrangement of speakers and entertainment program, printing and distribution of leaflets, sale of tickets, admission charges, or if more advisable, a collection and prominent display to be given at the meeting of literature of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and books on the Soviet Union. (C) (u)

It was indicated by Confidential Informant T-11 that this memorandum was sent together with a film and exhibit list, a speakers' list, and a reading list to all who responded favorably to a questionnaire issued by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. This outline has been made part of the New York file together with a copy of the questionnaire mentioned and the letter accompanying it, dated August 31, 1943, both of which were furnished by Informant T-11. This letter sent out on the letterhead of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP discusses Russia's part in the present war and the significance of November 16, 1943 which marks the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations. It invites participation by the recipient in the formation of a special committee to plan an appropriate event during the period of November 6 to 16, 1943, and refers to an attached questionnaire. The questionnaire involved is a mimeographed one page form allowing space for name and address and occupation of the interested party, and for answers to questions relating to interest in the proposal and willingness to participate in the program by sponsoring and activating a local celebration. Attached to the letter and questionnaire is a copy of the pamphlet described at the beginning of this report which lists the aims, purposes and sponsors of the subject organization. (C) (u)

The following pamphlets are being forwarded to the Bureau as enclosures in instant report:

When You Want A Speaker

The charges made by speakers vary. Please state the amount your organization can afford to pay. Specific information should also be given on the size, date, time of meeting and the preferred topic.

Since wartime conditions affect many of our speakers' schedules, we should appreciate notice of your requirements as far in advance of the date of the event as possible (at least three to four weeks). Organizations will often secure speedier service if they also indicate in order of preference four or five acceptable speakers chosen from the available list.

Fees range from $10 to $200 plus expenses. Some of the speakers included in this list require only their expenses. In such cases, however, the Speakers Bureau makes a service charge of $5.00.

We Can Serve Your Organization Too

The Speakers Bureau supplies forums, churches, colleges, trade unions, luncheon clubs and other organizations with informed speakers on the Soviet Union.

Organizations that have already made use of our Speakers Bureau include:

There is transmitted herewith the original and 3 copies of a two page log regarding a conference between MISS WAT of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship and LEW HUBBARD, public relations director of the National Maritime Union. This conference took place on October 1, 1943 according to Confidential Informant WIT-52.

It is believed that the EDWARD SMITH mentioned in the log refers to EDWIN S. SMITH of the National Council of America-Soviet Friendship. It should be noted that busquenhanna 7-5139, is the telephone number of ROBERT E. LEBMAN, 251 West 71st Street, New York City.

K: Hello?
H: This is LEO HUBERMAN.

K: Yes Mr. HUBERMAN?
H: Did you call me?

K: Yes. Mr. Smith, Mr. EDWARD SMITH of the National Council of American - Soviet Friendship asked me to call you to find out if you had HARRY BRIDGES' address here on the - in New York or wherever he is on the East Coast.

H: Well I'll give you his 'phone number and you had better try him very frequently because -

K: Hard to get him?
H: He is leaving today.

K: Oh he's leaving? Do you know where he is leaving for?
H: Yes. San Francisco.

K: Oh, I see. Well if you will give me the 'phone number I'll call him.
H: SU 7-

K: SU 7-
H: 5139.

K: 5139. Now, is there any particular time?
H: Now here's the difficulty. That is an apartment of a friend who has moved into the same house so whether or not they have got any things there still, I don't know. But I will probably see him some time during the day and tell him to get in touch with EDWARD SMITH.

K: Yeah, now this is it, Mr. HUBERMAN. We are sending him an invitation for our congress here in November and I was thinking - - it might - if he is going back to San Francisco -
H: What date?

K: It's in November.
H: What date?

K: It's November 8th. Sunday morning.

H: Well he will be in the East for the C. I. O. Convention.

K: That's November first, isn't it?

H: Yes, but it lasts a week.

K: It lasts a week? Well then, of course, if I send him the letter of invitation to the West Coast - I think that would be best, don't you?

H: That's right. That's the thing to do.

she advised that she was sending him a copy of the by-laws of the subject organization. This informant also furnished a photographic copy of these by-laws and, in view of the fact that in several instances they differ from the by-laws set out in both reference reports, these by-laws are being furnished to the New York Field Division inasmuch as that office may have additional information at this time which is unknown to the Washington Field Division.

This informant further advised that on April 2, 1943, ALICE BARROWS directed a letter to Mr. BAZYKIN in which she stated that she tried to contact him that afternoon to let him know that she had not yet heard from Mr. WANGER (undoubtedly WALTER WANGER of the film industry) with regard to the film festival and that she was sending him a special delivery letter and was telephoning to Mr. LEWIS MILESTONE that evening. She further advised him that she was enclosing a copy of the brochure of the National Council which had just been published, and the informant furnished this office with a copy of the brochure, which is also being forwarded to the New York Field Division.

The informant further stated that the organization had arranged to have the American-Soviet War Exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry Rockefeller Center on May 26th and that Mr. ROSSKAM of the Office of War Information was in New York working on the exhibit.

The informant also advised that ALICE BARROWS also furnished Mr. BAZYKIN with a copy of a radiogram which had been received the previous week from the Women's Anti-Fascist Organization in Moscow, and asked whether it would be possible for the subject organization to receive a report of that meeting, which was a meeting of mothers and wives of Red army men held in Moscow on April 11th to demonstrate the part played by Soviet women in the defense of the homeland against German Fascist occupationists and to stimulate greater practical aid to children. She then advised him that the organization was planning to send greetings to the meeting but would be particularly glad to have a full report which the organization could print to answer the many questions they received as to the role of women and the care of children in the Soviet Union during wartime.

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on April 29, 1943, EDITH HALPREN and another woman member of the subject organization attended a meeting of the Party leaders in Washington, D. C. for the purpose of discussing the possibility of organizing a chapter in Washington, D. C. MARTIN CHANCEY, at that time secretary of the Communist Party for the District of Columbia, was the only Party leader present at the beginning of the meeting and EDITH HALPREN advised him that she had to be in Baltimore that evening, that they had a good set-up in Chicago where she was going for two weeks, that she had been with the subject organization for three weeks, and that she enjoyed the field work very much. She advised CHANCEY that ALICE BARROWS was Executive Secretary and CORLISS LAMONT was Chairman. EDITH stated to CHANCEY that it was not as bad having LAMONT as Chairman as the narrow-minded Executive Committee. She said that, although he does not move around to small meetings, he does have a lot of authority and prestige and therefore gets much publicity regardless of what he does and she complained to CHANCEY that local people don't seem to be getting any place and that she had discussed this matter with JESSICA SMITH and it was their opinion that the sponsorship of the national organization was too broad. She stated, however, that she thought the sponsors were very good and that the organization was based on a political basis and must be militant, and she showed CHANCEY a release and a letter which the organization had gotten out recently. She stated that WILLIAM BATT, Dr. MORTIMER GRAVES, and HAROLD DICKENS (ph) were sponsors from Washington and that Senator ALBERT D. THOMAS and JOHN FRED LEWIS, JR. from Philadelphia were also sponsors. She further advised CHANCEY that the Vice President of the Martin Street National Bank in Philadelphia is connected with the subject organization and also with Russian war relief and that she had seen him that morning but she does not want a full time office and secretary in Philadelphia. She further advised CHANCEY that they had no trade union sponsorship but that JOSEPH CURRAN was the only one representing labor but that they hoped to get PHILIP MURRAY and WILLIAM GREEN and thereby get many other unions to follow.

According to [ ] EDITH HALPREN further told CHANCEY that there was a lot of friction in Russian War Relief and stated that the Russian War Relief would take the June 22nd date nationally and that local chapters of the subject organization would take that date in those cities where there were no chapters of the Russian War Relief. (She was apparently referring to the anniversary of the German invasion of Russia). She further stated that there was no longer any question of the political stand of the subject organization and again referred to the letter and release she had shown CHANCEY previously.

EDITH HALPREN and CHANCEY then discussed organizing a chapter in Washington, D. C. and suggested that it should have a full time office and secretary and that EDITH [ ] had discussed the problem with JESSICA SMITH and had come to the conclusion that each local would have to decide on its own policy in this respect. They did decide that locals must have extremely active Executive Secretaries and HALPREN suggested to CHANCEY the possibility of having MORDECAI JOHNSON on the local chapter and a Mr. BRETT and MORTIMER GRAVES as Executive Vice-Chairmen. She further suggested that perhaps they could obtain Senator MURRAY as Chairman and that she planned on asking Senator MURRAY to speak at some meeting in the near future.

The informant advised that at this point Dr. ALBERT BLUMBERG, then Secretary of District #34 of the Communist Party, entered the meeting and shortly thereafter Dr. ALPHEUS HUNTON, on the staff of Howard University and a member of the Communist Party, also arrived. The informant advised that, shortly thereafter, a person known only to him as EDITH (not HALPREN) entered the meeting and that at this point HALPREN again started to explain the same matters to the group that she had previously explained to CHANCEY. HALPREN stated further that the letter and release which she had mentioned would be circulated for signatures and put in pamphlet form, and she again stressed the need for live chapters in Baltimore and Washington. HALPREN further explained that the New York division has four break-downs in the organization, each with a full time director, and enumerated these break-downs as follows:

1. Youth
2. Trade unions
3. Nationalities
4. Professional

The individuals at the meeting then talked about the fact that it was their opinion that Russian War Relief was not active enough until something good came around and then Russian War Relief locals insisted on getting into the situation, and that this would cause difficulty where there were local chapters of the subject organization.

At this point Dr. BLUMBERG stated that when FRIEDA BLACK was in Baltimore recently she had become discouraged as someone in New York had told her not to contact national sponsors and for this reason she could not make any headway. BLUMBERG stated that she could not see WILLIAM F. COCHRAN in Baltimore because he was a national sponsor and HALPREN stated that the reason for this was to save the national sponsors for "big things."

HALPREN then discussed the possibility of BLUMBERG, FRIEDA BLACK and herself seeing COCHRAN tomorrow and mentioned the possibility of also seeing BILL DRURY and CEDRUS (ph) in Baltimore. BLUMBERG said that last Fall the mayor of Baltimore had appointed a Stalingrad Committee at the suggestion of DRURY and BLUMBERG further stated that he believed BILL BLACK would be a good secretary in Baltimore. HALPREN then stated that the Vice-President of the Martin Street National Bank in Philadelphia is treasurer of the new organization and is also treasurer of the Russian War Relief.

The group then discussed the possibility of people for the local chapter and mentioned SOPHIA WINTERBOTTOM, whose husband is going into the army and who lives in Virginia, RUTH ROEMER, and HAROLD LUND. EDITH _____ stated that SOPHIA had been Executive Secretary of the Hollywood Picture Democratic Committee. They also mentioned the possibility of BETTY ANDERSON serving locally. The informant advised that at this point JAMES W. FORD of the National Committee of the Communist Party joined the meeting. Shortly thereafter EDITH HALPREN and EDITH _____ left the meeting.

This informant advised that on May 20, 1943, EDITH _____ again called upon MARTIN CHANCEY and discussed the possibility of starting a chapter in Washington, D. C. She stated that MORTIMER GRAVES was helping a little bit but that he might be leaving for China shortly. She asked CHANCEY how to get in touch with a Professor BENJAMIN but CHANCEY stated he did not know him and EDITH _____ said that BLUMBERG knew him and that he was at Maryland University. They then discussed the problem of getting someone to serve as Executive Secretary and she then told CHANCEY that they had started their letter regarding the campaign but had very foolishly started at the same time Russian War Relief started one.

EDITH _____ discussed the possibility of getting a girl by the name of DROMA (ph) as Executive Secretary because everybody had told her that she would do a good job and CHANCEY stated that he would see BEATRICE ADELE SMITH about her. (BEATRICE ADELE SMITH is a member of the Party and is in charge of the White Collar units in the District of Columbia.) -EDITH _____ also told CHANCEY to ask ADELE about MARJORIE POLAND, who is the new secretary of Russian War Relief and whom she thought was very good.

Confidential Informant C-309, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that BEATRICE ADELE SMITH subsequently told CHANCEY that MARJORIE POLAND was friendly with people that she, ADELE, did not like, and this informant also advised that he has been informed that EDITH _____ contacted SMITH about a girl by the name of MILLIE KLEIN but did not know the results of this discussion.

CHANCEY and EDITH _____ then discussed the possibility of setting up an information bureau similar to the British Information Bureau and stated that they might be able to get the help of the Jewish people in trade unions. In this connection, CHANCEY suggested that she contact HYMAN COLODNY, who is known to be a member of the Party. Confidential Informant C-309 subsequently advised that EDITH _____ discussed the raising of money with COLODNY and that COLODNY had suggested she contact an individual by the name of CHAP, who is believed to be TITMAN CHAP, an alleged Communist.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that they then discussed the Council in Baltimore and EDITH [ ] said that AL GOODMAN (ph) was not doing much in that he promised a lot but did nothing. She also discussed the possibility of using FRANCES SAYLOR and FRANCES WHEELER and CHANCEY suggested that she talk to BEATRICE ADELE SMITH about them. She suggested that the Council might be able to obtain MAXINE WOLF, who is now Educational Director for the International Workers Order, and discussed the organizing of a foreign language speaking club. EDITH [ ] said that she works from 4:00 to 11:00 with the USO and has the duty of supervising the social workers in the various army camps, improving their recreational programs. She further stated that she is considering accepting a position as secretary with the Soviet Military Mission and that she could not get a government job because she would be unable to get by the investigation. She further stated that she has a Master's degree in sociology and that her husband is Executive Secretary of the Civilian Supply Committee of the War Production Board. The informant stated that EDITH made the remark that WILLIAM GREEN would be a good speaker and the assembled group laughed at her and suggested she read the Daily Worker. EDITH further stated that she had instructions from New York not to do anything to antagonize Russian War Relief and not to contact any unions that Russian War Relief was contacting. She also mentioned the fact that they could not obtain SOPHIA WINTERBOTTOM because she was working.

The informant advised that during this meeting various members of the Party came in at intervals and that subsequent to the discussion of the subject organization the discussion dealt with local Party matters and that the entire group left practically in a body.

Confidential Informants [ ] whose identities are known to the Bureau, have advised that no local of the subject organization has as yet been organized in Washington, D. C. and, in the event one is organized, they will so advise this office.

b7D

In view of the fact that there is no local of this organization in Washington, D. C., this case is being referred upon completion to the office of origin.

RE: THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF

INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the letter to the Bureau from the San Francisco Field Division dated September 10, 1943 relative to the captioned organization, which contained information relative to the activities of THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS, National Secretary of this organization, while in San Francisco during the period September 1 to September 8, 1943.

A report concerning the captioned organization and the activities of HARRIS has recently been prepared by this office. It is pointed out that HARRIS, during his stay in San Francisco was in contact with GREGORI KHEIFETS, Vice Consul of the USSR, stationed at San Francisco, LOUISE BRANSTEN, and STEVE NELSON all of whom are believed to be involved in the COMRAP investigation.

In view of these associations, it is thought that HARRIS may deserve some consideration in connection with the COMRAP investigation. It is suggested that HARRIS, by virtue of his connection with the subject organization, could very readily use this organization as a vehicle through which much valuable information could be transmitted to the Russian government in the guise of personal letters and so on, from Sponsors and Council members to various individuals in the USSR, it being indicated that correspondence once being placed in the hands of the officials of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., is then handed to officials of the Russian government for delivery.

As an aid to any future investigation concerning HARRIS and his possible involvement in the COMRAP case, there is being transmitted herewith the following described items:

1. Seven plain pages of white bond paper  $8\frac{1}{2}$  x 11, which were secured through a highly confidential and reliable source from the personal effects of HARRIS. The first sheet of this paper bears a portion of the wrapping paper in which the paper was contained and identifies it as radio bond number 1611.
2. Three pages of specimens obtained from the typewriter which was in the possession of HARRIS during his stay in San Francisco. For the information of the Technical Laboratory, these specimens, one of which is a carbon specimen, were obtained from a Remington noiseless portable typewriter, serial #N96286, on 9/7/43.
3. Two pages of MultiKopy carbon which were used in securing the typewriter specimens mentioned. It is pointed out that this carbon paper was also in the possession of HARRIS and was made available by the highly confidential source referred to above.
4. A single sheet of scratch paper which contains notes on both sides in what is believed to be the handwriting of THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS.

The Technical Laboratory is requested to make comparisons of the handwriting of HARRIS and the known typewriter specimens against any unknown handwriting or typewriting specimens which may be available for identification in the COMRAP investigation and advise this office of the results.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

CONFIDENTIAL

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, Director of publications of CPUSA is known to be actively concerned with promotion of Subject and has in his possession detailed reports on its past accomplishments, and complete advance plans and schedules of forthcoming American Soviet Congress sponsored by NCASF. These plans evidence elaborate preparations of well organized staff to propagandize for "American Soviet Understanding" in fields of trade unions, education, science, Russia's "contiguous" nations, etc. Prominent CP members and sympathizers feature frequently in NCASF activity and contacts. American Soviet Congress to feature Secretary of Interior HAROLD L. IOWA, Senator CLAUD D. PEPPER, Soviet Ambassador ANDREI A. GROMYKO, and LOUIS ADAMIC and DOROTHY THOMPSON, and CIO leader JOSEPH SALERNO and others. National plans include rallies, with outstanding speakers at Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, and other cities. Soviet American exhibit scheduled through November, 1943, at New York Metropolitan Museum of Art. NCASF continues to furnish Russian Embassy names of individuals to receive Embassy's information bulletin. (U)

Report of Special Agent PETER J. CATTANEO dated October 22, 1943, at New York City.

Letter to the Bureau from the Washington Field Division dated October 21, 1943.

DETAILS:

At New York City

Photographic copies of the various exhibits which will be herewith were furnished to Special Agents JEROME M. GARLAND, FREDRICK C. ZINCK, EDWARD F. HUMMER, and J. LEWIS AMES by a confidential and reliable source, which had access to the office of ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, President of International Publishers, Inc., 381 Fourth Avenue, New York City, on October 16, 1943. It is to be especially noted that this material was found in the office of TRACHTENBERG, who is known to be Director of publications of the Communist Party, USA, and a member of its literature committee. A copy of these exhibits is available in the New York file of this case, and a copy is herewith enclosed for the information of the Bureau. The exhibits furnished are as follows: (U)

REPORTS OF WORK ON NCASF (U)

Exhibit A

A five page report of the NCASF's work in 1941, made in January, 1942. The first paragraph has been crossed out, but attention is called to its significance in that it states that the work of the subject had to be expanded "to meet the new situation after the Nazi attack on the Soviet Union after June 22."

The extent of the organizations scope and work accomplished may be seen here in the details of national tours by ANNA LOUISE STRONG, THOMAS L. HARRIS, and CORLISS LAMONT, all well known leaders in the organization. (U)

To be noted is the activity of the Speakers Bureau, and the establishment of local councils in other large cities, the activities of which have been previously reported. The report states, "Whereas formerly we were limited to pro-

NY 100-7518

"gressive groups, we now find that many different types of groups are coming to us for speakers - the Foreign Policy Association, Rotary Clubs, Church Forums, and so on". The Speakers Bureau is referred to as a source of small income, but it is hoped that eventually, according to the report, that it may be a real source of support to the Council.

Special campaigns are mentioned in connection with appeals to be sent out from the Women's, Youth and Scientists' Anti-Nazi meetings in Moscow.

Listed are the various publications and quantities which it is believed were the number of copies printed of the various pamphlets and bulletins. Mention is made of the sale of 15,000 copies of a tabloid edition of the Dean of Canterbury's "The Soviet Power", a great many copies of "Soviet Russia Today" and the bulletin of the American Russian Institute.

The details of the meetings in and around New York are given showing places, speakers, and the number of people present, varying from 100 to 12,000. Familiar Communist Front names such as THEODORE DREISER, THEODORE BAYER, PAUL ROBESON, Capt. KOURKINOFF, GENEVIEVE TAGGARD, and numerous others are included on the speakers list.

(C) (U) The report's conclusion mentions that if the time comes when the Russian War Relief, Inc. had to cease functioning, the Subject should be in a position to carry on a big organizational campaign among many of the people who formerly worked with them.

It further mentions the advisability of much closer cooperation with the American Russian Institute and possible eventual merger of the two organizations as a satisfactory solution to obtaining the utmost from both groups.

It states finally that "we reach largely middle class groups. We believe we can greatly extend our appeal and our planning on one hand to get before many more conservative groups than has been possible in the past, and on the other, to get speakers and literature before labor and mass organizations much more extensively."

Exhibit B

A three page resume dated February 19, 1942 of the NCASF's scope branch development, Speakers Bureau publications, and personal notes on officers. These notes are very interesting in their evaluation of the NCASF's personnel individual qualifications and lack of them as viewed by someone apparently within the organization. The report is unsigned, but is notated in pencil "Please return to J.S." who may be JESSICA SMITH of "Soviet Russia Today", who is known to work closely with the Subjects staff.

An example of these notes are those on National Secretary THOMAS L. HARRIS, "former clergyman. Very confused politically and somewhat opportunistic in his approach. However, he is sincerely devoted to the Soviet Union and an unusually good speaker."

Item seven of this report is of interest in that it states that there is no regular membership in the Council. It relates: "It is definitely not a membership organization, but operates through the formation of local committees of anywhere from five to fifty members. The National Council has now about 35 members which it is adding to from time to time."

Item eight again mentions the question of merging the NCASF and the ARI is still under consideration.

(U)
(C) Exhibit C

A one page report of the Subject's activities dated June 3, 1942, which reports work accomplished since the attached report (referring to exhibit B).

To be noted here is the NCASF's infiltration into trade unions through speakers and circulating exhibits obtained from the American Russian Institute.

This report also mentions arrangements for the Second Front dinner sponsored by the NCASF in 1942, and notes plans for the publication of additional pamphlets.

Exhibit D

An NCASF office memorandum for S. COLBERT to ALICE P. BARROWS dated May 11, 1943, on the subject of the open letter which was publicized by the Subject and has been previously reported. The memorandum to which is attached a list of sponsors who had signed the "revised" open letter is attached.

Memorandum also notes that in addition to the 73 sponsors, 600 individuals had signed the letter on May 13, 1943.

Exhibit E

A four page copy of "An Open Letter to the American People" initiated by the NCASF, and which was mentioned in the reference report of Special Agent PETER J. CATTANEO dated October 21, 1943.

Exhibit F

A three page detailed description of the American Soviet War Exhibit plan for the New York Museum of Science and Industry, which has been on display since June, 1943, and has also been previously reported.

It may be noted that the description substantially agrees with the exhibit actually constructed, and attention is called to the care with which the details of this show had been planned.

Exhibit G

A two page memorandum from JAE CLEMENS to ISIDORE BEGUN. ISIDORE BEGUN is a member of the New York State Committee of the Communist Party, and JAE CLEMENS is active in the direction of Russian War Relief, Inc.

(C) (U)

CLEMENS' memorandum discusses "the converging and conflicting activities and policies of Russian War Relief and the NCASF." This exhibit is one of the most significant among those furnished, in view of the contents of the last paragraph, which reads as follows:

"It seems to me and to others in RWR, and to some of our comrades in the Council, that we simply must be called together under Party auspices IMMEDIATELY to straighten out our programs. We feel that the Party must intervene because the question involved is political rather than merely mechanical. The issue involves committees of both organizations

"throughout the United States and the approach that shall be made, in the field of our work, to many other organizations."

The memorandum bears a pencilled notation to "Izzy", indicating the writer's concern over "Izzy's" failure to furnish a reply to the memorandum on a situation which has become "more nearly unremediable each day". No date is mentioned, but the contents of the memorandum indicate it was written in the Spring of 1943.

Exhibit H

A four page updated memorandum over the typewritten signature of [REDACTED] whose name and address, [REDACTED] appears at the head of the memorandum entitled "For the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship". This document, which sets forth the writer's observations on the NCASF's work "An Open Letter", discloses that significant analysis of the Council's purported purpose of further friendship between people of Russia and the United States, and its task—"essentially one of education and the publicity".

The writer recommends greater use of the medium of films, radio, and reading material, and gives specific examples for furtherance of the NCASF's program. As an instance of the writer's recommendations, he suggests "animated shorts on Russian guerrillas, nurses, or fighters by the Disney or Fleischman studios", and states that "Charles Chaplin may be helpful here."

The last paragraph contains the notable comment:

"What we need most now is an honest Goebbels, or a progressive Ivy Lee. And we must get it into the mass consciousness that a serious effort is being made to promote friendship with the U.S.S.R. -- and why. That in itself would be the best means of insuring the success of our programme."

[REDACTED] is known to have been treasurer of the League of American Writers, and has been identified with other Communist Front movements, including Russian War Relief, Inc.

Exhibit I

A letter dated September 21, 1943, from the NCASF to Contemporary Publishers, 165 Selkirk Avenue, Winnipeg, Canada, requesting more copies and prices on greater quantities of their publication, "Russia's Secret Weapon".

Exhibit J

An outline for an exhibit of the NCASF scheduled for the Metropolitan Museum of Art during November, 1943. The several media to be employed are listed, and the outline indicates intention to use the Museums facilities to advertise the forthcoming Congress.

ADVANCE REPORTS ON AMERICAN SOVIET CONGRESS
November 6, 7, 8, 1943, at New York City

Exhibit K

A seven page outline of the publicity program for the Congress. Attention is called to the ambitious promotion scheduled to include practically every recognized advertising medium from subway advertisements to resolutions by members of the United States House of the Senate.

Also worthy of consideration are the care and details with which all phases of the Congress have been considered. Specific attention is called to page 7 of this outline, on which is broached the idea of launching a "token of friendship campaign" at the Congress by having the trade unions present a torpedo, an artists' committee a plaque, etc.

The comment is made, "There are several ways in which this campaign can bring in not only actual tokens, but revenue for the Council as well."

Exhibit L

A two page record of the minutes of a meeting held at the NCASF's office on September 11, 1943, and attended by EDWARD S. SMITH, Executive Director, JESSICA SMITH, and THEODORE BAYER of "Soviet Russia Today", FRANKLIN FOLSOM, and NAN GOLDEN, sub-executives of the NCASF.

The minutes disclose that the purpose of the meeting was to delegate responsibility, as shown by the assignment of various duties and for the consideration of tentative admission fees to the to the several panels and meetings of the Congress.

Exhibit M

A three page announcement recognized as the call to the 1942 Congress. It is noted that increases in the admission fee have been pencilled in, and which are known to have been put into effect, and that several names on last years patron list have been underlined and one crossed out.

Exhibit N

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 2, 1943, to D. H. AHREND, which lists some of the organizations to which the Congress Call was mailed.

Exhibit O

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 4, 1943, to D. H. AHREND, listing additional organizations and individuals to whom the Congress Call was sent.

Exhibit P

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from NAN GOLDEN to SAM LEAVIN stating that 25,000 Congress Calls were printed, and over 22,000 have been mailed.

Exhibit Q

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from HANNAH DORNER, who is directing the publicity for the Congress to NAN GOLDEN, one of the joint supervisors with FRANKLIN FOLSOM, of all panels.

This memorandum itemizes the accomplishments to date in publicizing the Congress, and mentions a possible radio broadcast at Hollywood, California, featuring ORSON WELLES, and OLIVIA DeHAVILAND.

Exhibit R

A four page initial plan for delegation quotas dated September 14, 1943, outlining the proposed distribution of delegates to the Congress.

Noteworthy is the geographic planning and economic groups which it is planned to reach, including trade unions, middle class groups, negroes, women's clubs, fraternal and other organizations.

Also to be noted is the careful consideration given to the types and sizes of these organizations, and the address lists obtained or to be secured for all spheres of activity.

Exhibit S A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from GERTRUDE ROBBINS to NAN GOLDEN, reporting the names of the first few to register for the Congress.

Exhibit T A revised Congress schedule dated October 8, 1943, showing the time periods and hotel rooms for the several phases of the first two days of the Congress.

Exhibit U A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from SYLVIA ENGEL to NAN GOLDEN, indicating plans to invite almost 2,000 outstanding individuals to the Congress luncheon.

MEMORANDUM ON EDUCATIONAL PANEL

(U)

Exhibit V A four page memorandum dated September 9, 1943, from ELIZABETH MOOS to EDWIN S. SMITH, on the subject of the Educational Panel at the Congress. This memorandum sets forth three alternative plans and gives Miss MOOS' opinion on a special Youth Panel. "...there is no one at present in charge of work with youth and youth leaders and no plan for engaging such a person in the immediate future. I do not feel that it would be possible to do a satisfactory job on the Youth Panel, obtaining the delegates we wish, without having some additional assistance in this field. I believe, also, that work on such a Panel would not be worthwhile unless we had someone to follow up after the Congress. Since we are working on a long-range program, it seems to me very important that we use the Congress in this field.....and I respectfully suggest that you consider adding someone to our staff who can carry out this work...."

NY 100-7518

Exhibit W

A two page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from ELIZABETH MOOS to NAN GOLDEN, setting forth the program of the Educational Panel.

To be noted is the extensive coverage by mail of school and college officials throughout the country.

REPORT ON SCIENCE PANEL

Exhibit X

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from SAM KAISER to NAN GOLDEN, which gives a brief interim report on the projected Science Panel.

The Doctor GRUNDFEST who is mentioned is one of the founder directors of the NCASF.

REPORTS ON TRADE UNION PANEL

Exhibit X

A two page outline dated September 10, 1943, of the proposed program for the Trade Union Panel.

Attention is called to the proposed speakers for this session, which include CURRAN, QUILL, and HARRY BRIDGES, all prominently identified with Communist movements in union circles.

Of interest is the fact that resolutions to be suggested for adoption at the Trade Union Panel of the Congress have been planned two months in advance.

Exhibit Z

A two page progress report on the Trade Union Panel dated October 11, 1943, from ANN PROSTEN. Once again the comprehensiveness of the NCASF's plans is evidenced in the work done on this part of the Congress.

All significant groups such as the Transport Workers Union, The United Auto Workers, CIO, A.F. of L., and others have been thoroughly canvassed and the report mentions that follow-up calls are being made in the New York area, together with meetings of key unionists.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

REPORT ON NATIONALITIES PANEL

Exhibit AA

A three page memorandum dated September 9, 1943, from ELIZABETH MOOS to EDWIN S. SMITH, offering three alternative plans for the Nationalities Panel.

Miss SMITH states, "The Panel should be planned to clearly show implications for post-war relations between the U.S.S.R. and contiguous nations." The plans which follow reveal emphasis on the nations which adjoin Soviet Russia, and there is no mention of the rest of the world, despite the name of the panel.

Exhibit BB

A one page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from ELIZABETH MOOS, to NAN GOLDEN, reporting progress made in the development of the Nationalities Panel, with reference to speakers who have refused and accepted invitations.

It is indicated that HARRY MONSKY, who had been invited to speak on "The Jew and the U.S.S.R.", and a Catholic priest Reverend S. ORLEMANSKY of Springfield, Massachusetts, have refused to speak.

REPORT ON WOMEN'S PANEL

(C) Exhibit CC

(U) A three page proposal on the Women's Panel dated September 8, 1943, by ELEANOR GIMBEL, J. SMITH (probably JESSICA SMITH), ROSE RUBIN, G. ROBBINS, and ETHEL ELLIS (believed to be the wife of FRED ELLIS, Daily Worker cartoonist). Various speakers recommended have been listed, and notable among them are Mrs. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, HINDUS (probably MAURICE HINDUS), and ANNA L. STRONG (presumably ANNA LOUISE STRONG).

Worthy of attention in the additional suggestions appended are items 5 and 7.

Item 5 reads, "Papers are to be submitted to Council for approval in advance of Congress."

Item 7 reads, "Mrs. GIMBEL prefers not to have ELLA WINTER as speaker because she has been away from the Soviet Union too long."

REPORT ON MADISON SQUARE GARDEN MASS MEETING

Exhibit DD

A four page NCASF office memorandum dated October 11, 1943, from YOLA MILLER to NAN GOLDEN, setting forth a proposed program and plans for the Congress mass meeting to be held on November 8, 1943, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Nationally known figures including EDWARD R. STETTINIUS, JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Brig. General PHILIP I. PAYMONVILLE, and JOSEPH E. DAVIES, are proposed in the memorandum, and subsequent information has established that a number of those listed have accepted.

The memorandum states that, "To date the only logical suggestion for a collection speaker is DONALD OGDEN STEWART. We still have not decided upon the person or device for introducing him." DONALD OGDEN STEWART's affiliations with the Communist Front organizations are well known.

Included is a chart showing the consignment of tickets for the mass meeting among neighborhood groups, book shops, individuals, and unions, totalling 5,983.

MISCELLANEOUS EXHIBITS

Exhibit EE

A six page list of names, undated and unsigned. However, the names are recognized as among those appearing on various sponsor lists of the NCASF.

(U)

Exhibit FF

An envelope addressed to Mr. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, P.O. Box 311, Bethlehem, New Hampshire, postmarked August 25, 1943, by P.B.Meter #70385, New York City. This envelope enclosed a four page letter addressed "Dear Alex" and signed "Sam".

It has been determined by Special Agent JEROME M. GARLAND that P.B.Meter #70385 is assigned to HAMTDEN SALES CORPORATION, New York City, with which firm SAMUEL B. LEVIN, Treasurer of the NCASF, is known to be associated.

Consequently, "SAM", the writer of the letter, is believed to be LEAVIN.

Particular attention is called to the following passage in this letter, in which progress of the NCASF's Congress is reported to TRACHTENBERG: "Organizational efforts for the Congress were moving slowly so I called a meeting of staff plus ED and TED (probably EDWIN S. SMITH and THEODORE BAYER), and believe we got ball started. Assigned individual responsibilities - going after special people we need etc. Worked on Garden meeting, luncheon, and panels. Meeting every week which will start tying things up and will help considerably--aggressive leadership essential at this stage. Senator Pepper accepted today to speak at Garden. Panels we decided as basic ones are - Trade unions - Nationalities - Women in wartime - Education and Youth - Writers and the war - Council organization - plus luncheon musical concert Sunday night. Staff glad to finally get its teeth into the job and last few days everybody is starting to move. Meeting tomorrow night to commence plugging the field.

I spoke to ED today and he said he would write you along the lines of your request. Urge you emphasize the urgency of fast action.

Other activities projected - no use mentioning now."

The forepart of this letter treats of other matters which have been appropriately reported in other cases by the New York Field Division.

(C) Exhibit GG

(U) A one page typewritten statement otherwise unidentified, but recognized as a transcript or a very close equivalent of part of a recent radio broadcast by DREW PEARSON, on whether or not under Secretary of State STETTINIUS would accept the NCASF invitation to speak at the American Soviet Congress. PEARSON had forecast that Senator PEPPER of Florida would snub the State Department and address the New York meeting regardless of its advice.

NY 100-7518

(U) (S) [ It is recalled that in exhibit FF, TRACHTENBERG had been advised of Senator PEPPER's acceptance as early as August 25, 1943. X ]

Further indications of TRACHTENBERG's active interest in the success of the Congress are set forth in the reports which follow. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-26, whose identity is known to the Bureau, reported a conference on October 12, 1943, which included ALEX TRACHTENBERG, JOHN WILLIAMSON, and PAT TOOHEY, well known Communist leaders. NYT-26 advised that the conversation which transpired indicated TRACHTENBERG's anxiousness to learn of progress made in the field in connection with what was believed to be the American Soviet Congress. X (S) (U)

WILLIAMSON reported satisfactory plans in Detroit under the direction of ABNER E. LARNAD. He also advised TRACHTENBERG that MARTEL and QUINN of the CIO and many prominent public officials were expected to take part in the Detroit affair. X (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3 reported contact between TRACHTENBERG and the man believed to be SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, on October 14, 1943. LEAVIN reported to TRACHTENBERG that "the people" in Boston had been contacted, and that the "friend" in Washington should be advised by wire of these contacts. The conversation developed that Secretary of the Interior, ICKES, was being considered as a possible speaker for the Congress for the NCASF. It further appeared that the "people" in Philadelphia had already printed tickets with ICKES name on them, and "they" were raising "blue murder." (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3, whose identity is known to the Bureau, reported another contact between TRACHTENBERG and a man who may have been LEAVIN, on the same day, in which the individual said to TRACHTENBERG, "You know who this is for" and then read the contents of an intended telegram which stated, "This November marks the tenth anniversary of establishment of American Soviet diplomatic relations. The Congress of American Soviet Friendship will celebrate the event at Madison Square Garden Monday evening, November 8. We herewith cordially invite you to participate in this great event by speaking at this meeting. Secretary 'so and so' and armed forces as well as the Ambassador will speak at the meeting. You will no doubt recall that last year at the first congress of American Soviet Friendship, you made a notable contribution to the development of American Soviet Friendship. We believe that your appearance this year will very materially contribute to the cooperation of the two countries in the war against our common foe, and to post war collaboration necessary for the building of the peace of the world." (S) (U)

TRACHTENBERG then suggested that "You will no doubt recall" be changed to "We recall". (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3 advised that the conversation had to do with the proper wording of the final telegram to be sent, but that at no time was the name of the recipients mentioned. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3 advised of a conference between TRACHTENBERG and THEODORE BAYER of "Soviet Russia Today" on October 18, 1943, in which BAYER reported to TRACHTENBERG concerning the "very bad situation" which existed in Philadelphia. Confusion over arrangements to have Secretary of Interior ICKES speak either in Philadelphia or in New York or at both places on the occasion of the Congress was discussed, and TRACHTENBERG's concern over the matter was apparent, according to this source. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3 also reported a conference between TRACHTENBERG and THEODORE BAYER on October 19, 1943, in which the aggravated situation at Philadelphia was again discussed, and which threatened to result in resignations. (S) (U)

Also discussed was an appropriate person to replace Secretary ICKES in the event that he would not appear, and invitations to the Nationalities Panel involving Italians, South Slavs, Poles and other groups. It was agreed that an attempt would be made to have a brother of THOMAS MANN come from California to participate in this particular panel which will be shared by LOUIS ADAMIC. (S) (U)

Later, on the same day, NYT-3 reported that TRACHTENBERG had again talked over further plans for the presentation of a Polish speaker, one to represent the Ukrainians, and one to speak for the Jews, which later was termed to be "recalcitrant". (S) (U)

Again on October 19, 1943, NYT-3 advised that TRACHTENBERG had further discussed plans for the Congress with AVROM LANDY, an executive at Communist Party Headquarters in New York City. TRACHTENBERG, according to the informant, wanted to know if BELLANCA would speak for the Italian people. Still to be solved was the problem of securing a Jewish speaker. (S) (U)

Also on the same day, NYT-3 reported that TRACHTENBERG had asked JESSICA SMITH (of "Soviet Russia Today") if she had anything (S) (U) available on the subject of the tenth anniversary of American Soviet relations for a "magazine interested in these subjects." Miss SMITH advised that she did have an article that was more or less official. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3 further reported that on the same day TRACHTENBERG and ABRAHAM CHAPMAN, executive of the Communist controlled newspaper "Jewish Freyheit" had discussed Rabbi STEPHEN WISE and SOLOM ASCH as proposed speakers for the Nationalities Panel. CHAPMAN reported to TRACHTENBERG that WISE is LANDY's first choice and ASCH second choice. Considerable discussion followed regarding the relative merits of each, despite TRACHTENBERG's claim that ASCH has declined an invitation to speak. It appeared that TRACHTENBERG felt ASCH could be persuaded to attend the Congress if adequately impressed with its importance, pointing out that with other racial groups represented, it was important that they have a Jew. As a last resort, TRACHTENBERG suggested that if ASCH does go South as he plans to, that he send in material for someone else to read at the Panel. (S) (U)

Other minor details of the Congress were also gone over, and then TRACHTENBERG, according to the Informant, expressed the importance of the Nationalities and Trade Union Panels as transcending that of the less important Medicine, Science, and Educational Panels. (S) (U)

Informant NYT-22, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that ROY HUDSON, well-known member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party, had been contacted by a man believed to be EDWIN S. SMITH, who stated that he was very anxious to see HUDSON concerning a meeting to be held later that day. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-52, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that EDWIN S. SMITH of the NCASF had conferred with the secretary of JOSEPH CURRAN of the National Maritime Union, and expressed his desire to discuss certain important affairs in connection with the NCASF's Congress with Mr. CURRAN.

This Informant also related that on October 26, 1943, ANN PROSTEN of the NCASF office had discussed with LOU OGULL of the National Maritime Union Headquarters, the advisability of presenting a NMU color guard at the Congress mass meeting on November 8. OGULL told Miss PROSTEN, who is in the Trade Unions Department of the NCASF, that he might get a story concerning the affair into his paper (presumably the NMU "Pilot").

NY 100-7518

Confidential Informant NYT-3, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on October 27, 1943, SAMUEL LEAVIN, Treasurer of the NCASF, had told TRACHTENBERG that SMITH was coming to his office, but was a little reluctant about coming. LEAVIN reported to TRACHTENBERG that SMITH has a statement he wanted to talk over with the latter. The Informant quoted LEAVIN as saying that if the statement was considered good and permission was given to use it, they would want to release it immediately. He also told TRACHTENBERG that Mayor La Guardia would open the Congress luncheon. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant NYT-3, later on the same day, advised that EDWIN S. SMITH had called his office from TRACHTENBERG's office, and requested a secretary to advise OURADVSKY of the U.S.S.R. Consulate that he would be a bit late for his appointment. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant ☐ whose identity is known to the Bureau, on October 17, 1943, called attention to the fact that in a very recent publication of the NCASF, a booklet entitled "Constitution of the U.S.S.R." a map of the U.S.S.R. is included which shows the boundary of Soviet Russia as including Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and a part of Finland designated as the Karelo Finnish Union Republic.

Also noted was the peculiar fact that while each of the adjacent countries is named on the map, the name of Poland, part of which country appears to be included within the Russian boundary, is conspicuously omitted.

Informant also noted that the booklet bears the union label of "The Prompt Press" which is engaged almost exclusively in printing the publications of the Workers Library Publishers, Inc., in effect, the Literature Department of the CPUSA.

It was pointed out by Informant that the facts as given would indicate that the pamphlet and its map are part of the Communist Party's present campaign on behalf of the Soviet Union, and would serve to condition the minds of the readers towards the idea that Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and parts of Poland and Finland are part of the Soviet Union.

The New York World Telegram featured an article on October 21, 1943, entitled "Cornell Course on Russia is staffed with Red Apostles". Among the instructors in a course on contemporary Russian civilization for members of the Army, Navy, and Marines at Cornell University, was listed CORLISS LAMONT, "widely known as probably the leading figure in the movement to sell Russian Communism to the American people". As previously reported, LAMONT is the Chairman of the NCAST.

On October 23, 1943, the first public announcement of speakers for the Congress appeared in the Daily Worker. It was announced that the Secretary of the Interior, HAROLD L. ICKES, would be the principal speaker at the November 8 mass meeting. Also mentioned as speakers were the new Soviet ambassador ANDREI A. GROMYKO, Senator CLAUD D. PEPPER, and others.

The Daily Worker continued, "Leaders in government, education, labor, science, prominent representatives of nationalities groups, and experts on women and child care will participate in the three day Congress. Among those who will speak are: LOUIS ADAMIC, famous author and head of United Committee of South Slavic Americans; Mrs. ELEANOR S. GIMBEL; DONALD DU SHANE; The National Education Association; DOROTHY THOMPSON, noted columnist; Mrs. NORMAN/de R. WHITEHOUSE, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. VLADIMIR I. LEBEDENKO, Russian Red Cross representative in the United States; Dr. FRANK B. JEWETT, president of the National Academy of Sciences; Dr. V. K. ZWORYKIN, head of the RCA laboratories; Professor C. E. A. WINSLOW of Yale University; Dr. L. C. DUNN, executive officer of the Zoology Department, Columbia University; Dr. WALTER B. CANNON of Harvard University; Professor HAROLD UREY, Nobel prize winner and discoverer of the heavy hydrogen atom; JOSEPH A. DAVIES and ORSON WELLES.

The Daily Worker on October 26, 1943, announced that LOUIS ADAMIC would be chairman of the Panel discussion entitled "Soviet Union - A Family of Nations", and stated that papers would be presented by the following speakers:

ANATOLY YAKOVLEV of the U.S.S.R. Consulate, who will discuss "The National Policy of the Soviet Union"; Mrs. CATHERINE STANBLOW, prominent Lithuanian leader who will discuss the "Voice of the Newest Republic"; Dr. E. FRANKLIN FRAZIER of Harvard University, who will talk on "A Negro Looks at the Soviet Union"; JOSEPH A. SALEHNO, president of the Massachusetts State CIO, who will talk on "Italy and the Soviet Union".

Also expected, the article stated, was a talk by a prominent Armenian on "The Family of Nations by a Former Member of the Family", as well as "The Jew and the U.S.S.R.". It is interesting to note that at this late date, the NCAST has apparently been unsuccessful in its attempts to secure a prominent Jew to speak at the Congress.

(U)
[Confidential Informant] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that the Daily Worker on October 31, 1943, would carry a featured article setting forth the essential details of the Congress, and pertinent information concerning similar rallies at Chicago, Detroit, and Philadelphia. [Informant] said that the article would refer to a proclamation issued by Mayor EDWARD J. KELLY of Chicago, calling upon the people of Chicago to express in appropriate ways their friendly feelings towards the people of Soviet Russia, "with special attention to the efforts of the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship to give expression to these feelings through their friendship anniversary meeting in Orchestra Hall on November 7, 1943." The article will state that ABNER E. LARNARD will be chairman of a similar meeting to be held in Detroit on November 14.

At Philadelphia, CIO president PHILLIP MURRAY, Senator CLAUD D. PEPPER, and WALTER DURANTY will be the main speakers at the tenth anniversary celebration of American Soviet Friendship to be held on Thursday, November 4, under the auspices of the Philadelphia Council, according to the article.

In the October 26, 1943 issue of "New Masses" a bold faced advertisement appeared announcing the featured speakers and prices for the Congress mass meeting.

On October 23, 1943, the "Peoples Voice", Communist influenced Negro newspaper, announced the opening of a Soviet exhibit at a New York Public Library branch in the Harlem district for a weeks period. The opening of the show was marked with a program featuring speakers and singing of Russian songs. From the speeches made, the "Peoples Voice" quoted as follows Dr. MARGARET SCHLAUCH of New York University who spoke on education in the U.S.S.R.: "Everywhere you go in the Soviet Union you find intelligence, brilliance, beauty, and world citizenship."

Reverend SHELBY ROOKS, Pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church, speaking on religion in the U.S.S.R., said "We will not be misled by the cry of irreligion in the U.S.S.R."

Miss VIVIEN FRANCE spoke on the subject of national minorities in the U.S.S.R., and said, "Negro people of the United States and all over the world--those of us who have been oppressed-- had better look to the U.S.S.R. and study their system well."

NY 100-7519

This same issue of the "Peoples Voice" announced that Dr. MARK McLEDO BETHUNE, president of the National Council of Negro women, would speak at the NCASF Congress.

The September 1943 issue of "Soviet Russia Today" contained an article "Ten Years of American Soviet Amity" by EDWIN S.
SMITH. This article, which is available in the New York file of this case, follows the organizations usual pro-Russian line. It refers to last year's Congress and plans for this year's affair. SMITH states in part in this article: "There is not the slightest warrant for (the) oft repeated assertion that the Soviet Union will try to establish Communism by force of arms throughout Europe. Those who propagate this false conception are merely trading on Hitler's discredited and disasterous doctrine of the Communist bogey which was a factor in creating the present war.

On October 20 and 21, 1943, the Washington Field Division furnished two lists of names which it had learned from a highly confidential source had been sent by EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director of the NCASF to Mr. S. GONIONSKY, of the Russian Embassy at Washington, on September 3 and 16, 1943. In the letters which accompanied the main lists, SMITH stated that all persons listed were either sponsors or speakers for the NCASF, and had requested that the Russian Embassy's information bulletin be mailed to them individually. (U)

From the Confidential Source mentioned at the beginning of this report, there was also secured a copy of the subject organization's publication entitled "The Soviet People at War" by ALVAH BESSIE, which has also been placed in the New York file on this case. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 furnished a letter dated October 27, 1943, mimeographed on the stationery of the NCASF, which carries the "Science Congress" Committee and sponsoring committee.
It gives the details of the Science Panel, the scheduled speakers, including Sir HUBERT WILKINS, internationally famous explorer, and is signed by WALTER B. CANNON, one of the honorary chairmen of the Science Congress.

This informant also furnished an earlier letter dated

NY 100-7518

October 13, 1943, similarly printed with the committees names, and likewise signed by WALTER B. CANNON, which had from its content been prepared for a selected group of individuals interested in the Science Panel of the Congress.

It is to be noted that WALTER B. CANNON is President of the American Soviet Medical Society which is the current subject of investigation by the New York Field Division.

poor attendance many of these scheduled meetings have been called off.

[ ] advised that most of the persons attending these meetings were either members of the Communist Party in Jacksonville or members of the International Workers Order of which KNOCHE is Chairman. He further advised that on one or two occasions General VICTOR A. YAKHONTOFF, formerly a member of the White Russian Army, has been guest speaker at Dr. KNOCHE's meetings and on these occasions the meetings have been fairly well attended due to prior newspaper publicity.

b7D

On April 1, 1943, a meeting of the Jacksonville Council of subject organization was held in the lobby of the Roosevelt Hotel and among the few persons present, besides Dr. KNOCHE, was his wife, ELIZABETH KNOCHE, SARAH BASSETT, Secretary to this organization; Mr. and Mrs. BUDDY PETERS, and Dr. MAX SHONE. This meeting lasted about one hour and Dr. KNOCHE spoke on the morale of the Russian people.

On May 13, 1943, a meeting of subject organization was held at the Roosevelt Hotel at which time among those present were Mr. and Mrs. BUDDY PETERS, MARY KNOCHE, MANIE GORDON and NAT GORDON, all known Communist members.

On June 23, 1943, Dr. KNOCHE together with General VICTOR A. YAKHONTOFF gave a radio broadcast over WJAX at 4:30 P.M. A copy of this radio script was turned over to the writer by the office of War Information, which had authorized the broadcast, and it is quoted as follows:

"(Variations from script are in caps, as monitored on broadcast.
Asterisks denote words deleted in actual broadcast.)

"Doctor K: Friends, this program is being presented by the Jacksonville Branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. All over the United Nations the anniversary of Germany's attack on Russia, June 22, 1941, is being commemorated AS *in a tribute to the Soviet Union -- our valiant ally. Governors and mayors of most of our states and cities have proclaimed either that day or the entire week as 'Tribute to Russia' Week or Day. Last night Jacksonville paid honor to the courageous Soviet Red Army, the people, OF THE SOVIET, and their leaders in a meeting addressed by General Victor A. Yakhontoff, a recognized authority on Russia and the Far East. Those who attended were thrilled by his lecture and the answers to many questions. We have General Yakhontoff with us here in the studio. He will answer a few questions THAT I will NOW put to him.

"What is the outlook on the Russian-German front at this moment, General Yakhontoff?

"Yak:

It seems to me that the situation on the Russian Front is anything but pleasant for Herr Hitler. After the second winter on the Russian front the Germans are no longer confident of their success, to say the least. There are reports that Hitler realizes already that he has not a chance to defeat the Russians. According to the 'Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung', quoted this morning by the Florida Times Union, Germany suffered the greatest defeat in its history, on the Russian front. The Russian communique issued on the occasion of the Second Anniversary of the Russo-German War, stated that the German losses on the Russian front amounted already to six million, two hundred thousand men killed or captured, AND BESIDES, OF COURSE, THE WOUNDED, fifty-six thousand five hundred guns of various calibres, forty-two thousand four hundred tanks and forty-three thousand aircraft. With such losses naturally, the Germans are weaker today than they were at that fateful day on June 22, 1941 when making his worst miscalculation, Hitler decided to attack Russia. On the other hand our ally, Russia, today is stronger than before, and not only materially, but what is much more important she is much stronger mentally and morally after the brilliant successes at Stalingrad, THE EPIC OF THIS WAR, and elsewhere on her gigantic front.

"At this moment there is not exactly a 'lull' on the front, but a period of 'jockeying' before the next step. It does not look as the Germans will attack in force just now, for they have to be careful, in expectation of the opening of action by the Allies on the other side of Europe. It is also not very likely that the Russians will start an all out offensive before the situation on the West and South of Europe would justify this. They have to accumulate the largest possible striking force and keep it for the final, FOR THE decisive, blow. It does not mean, of course, that Hitler's intuition may not prompt him to undertake in despair, a large-scale operation, but, I doubt very much that, even if he would be able to achieve certain initial success, it would amount to anything of real importance. In other words, I would expect a rather prolonged period of small-scale operations by the Russians and by the Germans. ALIKE

"Doctor K:

THANK YOU, General *Yakhontoff, would you comment on the so-called Second Front; what really do people mean by asking the opening of a 'second' front?

"Yak:

Of course, it is a misnomer, to talk about a second front, when there are already not two but even several active fronts. There is the oldest one, in China, where our heroic Chinese Allies are resisting the Japanese already for almost six years. There are the fronts in the South Seas, around Australia and the Solomons, there is one in our own Aleutian Islands, where the Japanese were exterminated recently on the Island of Attu. There is a European fighting front, in the South, where the Yugoslav guerrillas are doing a remarkably effective job in fighting the invaders. There is a front on the Mediterranean where after the brilliant success of our troops, acting together with the British and the French, succeeded in eliminating the Axis forces from the continent of Africa. There is the Russian front, SOON the most important *so *far, and there are the British and American bombers active over Germany and German held territories.

"When people are asking for the opening of a second front, they mean the Second (after the Russian) active front on the continent of Europe, not the guerrilla war, not the bombing from the air, which cannot achieve what we need, namely the defeat of the axis and their unconditional surrender, but a real fighting front on the land of Europe, for this and only this is the way to win this war.

"At Casablanca our President, together with Winston Churchill reiterated what was agreed upon in June last year, that action in Europe must be undertaken by the Allied forces. Churchill told his parliament after his return to London in February, that invasion of Europe will be started within nine months (*the WHICH period *expiring EXPIRES in September) and our own Elmer Davis said recently that opening of the second front in Europe is a matter of days or weeks, for he stated: I QUOTE, 'It will be open this Summer by all means'.

"(The following was adlibbed at the end of the script)

Doctor K:

*Thank *you, General Yakhotoff, WE HAVE A MOMENT OR TWO MORE AND I WOULD LIKE TO ASK AN EXTemporaneous QUESTION. 'IS IT RATHER TO SUPPOSE THAT HAD WE UNDERSTOOD RUSSIA BETTER IN THE YEARS GONE BY, WE MIGHT NOT NOW BE FIGHTING A WAR?'

MM 100-2164

"Yak:

THERE WAS AN EDITORIAL IN THE NEW YORK TIMES LAST SUNDAY WHERE THEY SAID VERY DEFINITELY IF A COMBINATION OF FORCES -- RUSSIA, ENGLAND, U. S., CHINA, et c. -- HAD EXISTED AT THAT TIME, CERTAINLY THERE WOULD BE NO WAR AT THIS MOMENT.

"Doctor K:

Friends, this program is another 'Tribute to Russia' contribution on the anniversary of the treacherous attack by the Fascist Nazi Hordes. The broadcast is sponsored by the Jacksonville Branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Those wishing to know more about Russia are invited to attend the next regular meeting of the Council, July first, 8:00 PM in the Roosevelt Hotel.

"Tonight, we are gathering together a small group of friends for a very informal meeting with General Yakhontoff in the Roosevelt Hotel, Parlor C., at 8:15. THAT'S THIS EVENING. Anyone who might be interested and those who unfortunately missed last night's meeting are cordially invited to attend *this *meeting tonight.

Thank you..... "

****

Confidential Informant [redacted] advised that very few meetings, if any, have been held since the meeting following the above referred to broadcast. He stated further that so far as he knows there is no regular membership so far established in Jacksonville.

Report of Special Agent GALE FRANK LINDSEY dated 7/7/43 at New York City.

DETAILS: AT SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA

This is a joint report prepared by Special Agent CHARLES BELL RICE and the writer.

Tom Harris

The investigation of THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS and his efforts to initiate a local affiliate of the subject organization was commenced by this office upon receipt of information from Confidential Informants and sources of information later designated, to the effect that an individual identified as TOM or THOMAS HARRIS had arrived in San Francisco and had contacted individuals known to be active as members or officials of the Communist Party in this area. The information concerning HARRIS and the subject organization which was secured during the time HARRIS was in San Francisco and subsequent to that time, is being set out in detail below:

As a matter of interest relative to HARRIS, this office received information on June 1, 1943 from (Source A) that a conversation was had between BERNADETTE DOYLE and STEVE NELSON, both Communist Party, Alameda County, officials in which they mentioned a meeting to be had on June 22, to which one HARRIS was to be the principal speaker. STEVE mentioned that the city council, Admiral GREENSLADE, and other dignitaries would be invited to act as drawing cards. From the conversation, this source advised that it was indicated that HARRIS's speech would be a salute to the Soviet Union. STEVE then explained to BERNADETTE that HARRIS was a minister having a church in Philadelphia at one time; that he was a good speaker, and during the Munich Conference HARRIS is known to have "blasted the Nazis". STEVE continued that HARRIS is a naturalized citizen having been born in England, was the National Secretary of the Americal League, has written a book about the Soviet Union from his travels through Russia several years ago, and was formerly "like a liberal" but now has "grown a lot since then." (S) (U)

(Confidential Source B) advised on September 3, 1943, that TOM HARRIS, Room 1022 of the Mark Hopkins Hotel, San Francisco, contacted LOUISE TODD LAMBERT, functionary of the Communist Party at which time he advised her that he desired to get in touch with STEVE NELSON, who is a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party and present organizer of the Communist Party, Alameda County. It was later advised by this source that LOUISE TODD LAMBERT subsequently contacted STEVE NELSON advising him that HARRIS was in town.

(S) (U)
[Source C] was contacted and upon interview advised that a reservation for HARRIS was made through the Hotel's Los Angeles representatives, GLEN W. FAWCETT and Associates, 510 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, telephone TR 3671. This source further stated that the reservation memorandum was signed by RUTH WOLF and was dated August 9, 1943. This memorandum bore the notation that HARRIS expected to stay about six nights and was in the name of Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, 814 Broadway Arcade Building 541 South Spring Street, Los Angeles.

HARRIS registered at the Mark Hopkins Hotel at 11:48 A.M. September 1, 1943 as THOMAS L. HARRIS, 802 Fairbanks, West Los Angeles, California; he was assigned room 1022 at the rate of $7.00 per night his account being number 154742.

(S) (U)
[Source C] furnished a list of the toll calls made by HARRIS on September 1, 1943 which reflected the following:

Walnut 9240 -listed to the USSR Consul General, Divisadero and Broadway Streets, San Francisco.
Prospect 4700 -listed to the Clift Hotel, 495 Geary Street, San Francisco
Underhill 9355-listed to Communist Party state office, 121 Haight Street San Francisco

On September 2, 1943 the following toll calls were made by HARRIS:

Douglas 3846 -listed to the Lafranchi Printing Company, 400 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco.
Prospect 4700 -listed to the Clift Hotel mentioned above.

It was also reflected that the subject made a long distance call to Arizona 3-2559, Los Angeles, California, which lasted four minutes.

(S) (U)
[Source A] advised that LOUISE TODD LAMBERT contacted STEVE NELSON on September 2, 1943 at which time she advised NELSON that a guy named HARRIS was at Headquarters and had expressed a desire to see STEVE NELSON.

On September 3, 1943, LOUISE TODD LAMBERT advised [Source D] (S) (U) and STEVE NELSON that TOM HARRIS was staying at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco; later on this same date [Source D] advised that STEVE NELSON (S) (U) had attempted to contact TOM HARRIS at the Mark Hopkins Hotel and upon finding the latter out, left word with the hotel for HARRIS to call him.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

According to the informant, TOM HARRIS, upon receiving NELSON's note, contacted the latter at which time arrangements were made for them to have lunch together on September 4, 1943. An arrangement was made whereby TOM HARRIS was to contact NELSON on the morning of September 4, 1943, and advise him when he was leaving San Francisco for Oakland.

It was later ascertained through surveillance that STEVE NELSON, previously referred to, and BERNADETTE DOYLE, Organizational Secretary of the Communist Party, Alameda County, came to San Francisco on the morning of September 4, 1943, where they met TOM HARRIS. Once together, these three individuals were observed to go to Mannings' Cafeteria on Market Street, San Francisco, where they had lunch together. Immediately after lunch, NELSON and DOYLE were observed to depart from HARRIS and the latter returned to his hotel.

Source E advised that TOM HARRIS attempted to contact HERB RESNER, attorney associated with the firm, ANDERSEN and RESNER, on September 3, 1943. It was further advised that HARRIS contacted ROSE ISAAC of the American-Russian Institute and Dr. THOMAS ADDIS of 2160 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco. According to information subsequently furnished by Source E, it was indicated that HARRIS had requested RESNER to make arrangements for a meeting to be attended by various individuals sympathetic with the (Communist) cause, to discuss the organizing of an affiliate to the subject organization. According to this informant, HERBERT RESNER contacted the following individuals requesting them to attend a luncheon at the Mark Hopkins Hotel on September 7, 1943: SOL SILVERMAN, A. F. (GUS) GAYNOR, JOE THOMPSON, FRED M. THOMPSON, DR. THOMAS ADDIS, Mrs. ROBERT McWILLIAMS, PAUL SCHNUR, BETTY GORDON, DICK LINDEN, Dr. HERRICK LANE and SIMONTON. The last mentioned individual, according to Source E, is a San Francisco dentist, who, upon invitation, declined, but offered his assistance in this movement and suggested that Dr. ADDIS, Dr. SAM GOLDMAN, Dr. ESSEN, or Dr. HERWITZ attend in his stead. It was then revealed by the informant that RESNER would have HARRIS call on Dr. SIMONTON before HARRIS left town. (U)

On September 3, 1943, Source F advised that HERB RESNER had invited AUBREY GROSSMAN and OLETA O'CONNOR YATES to a meeting scheduled at his office, 544 Market Street, San Francisco. According to this Source, a meeting was being called in connection with the visit of a national official of the American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. It is believed that this meeting was held with THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS for the purpose of working out details of the luncheon planned later in the week to be held at the Mark Hopkins Hotel. (U)

Special Agents JAMES G. SHORT and WILLIAM P. GARVEY conducted a surveillance in the vicinity of 544 Market Street, the location of RESNER's office, upon receipt of the above information. (U)

-4- ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

At 12:25 P.M. AUBREY GROSSMAN was observed to enter 544 Market Street and at 1:30 P.M. AUBREY GROSSMAN, OLETA O'CONNOR YATES, RUDIE LAMBERT, were observed to leave this address and enter the Lucerne Cafe, 550 Market Street, where they had lunch. The identity of the individual who was supposed to be present at this meeting was not ascertained. However, it is believed that this individual of whom RESNER spoke is identical with HARRIS, inasmuch as RESNER had attempted to contact HARRIS at the Mark Hopkins Hotel earlier in the day. It is thought that following the departure of GROSSMAN, O'CONNOR and LAMBERT from this meeting at 544 Market Street, HARRIS and RESNER remained behind for a discussion concerning the details of the luncheon and the part that RESNER was to play in initiating a local organization. This appears to be borne out in view of information subsequently received which indicates that RESNER assumed a leading role in the discussions had concerning the local organization, at the Mark Hopkins Hotel luncheon. (S) (U)

b7D

(U) (S) Confidential Informant [ ] advised that HARRIS contacted HERB RESNER again on September 4, 1943. It was further ascertained that on this date, HARRIS contacted LOUISE BRANSTEN at which time, according to (S) Source G, she invited HARRIS to come out to her home at 2626 Green Street, San Francisco, for dinner. HARRIS accepted this invitation and advised that he would be at the home of LOUISE BRANSTEN at 7:30 P.M.

It will be noted in connection with this, that a highly reliable and confidential source furnished a page of scrap paper from the effects of HARRIS which bore the notation "2626 Green 7 P.M."

(S) (U) Subsequent to the receipt of the information furnished by (S) Source G, (S) Source H advised that the following individuals appeared in the home of LOUISE BRANSTEN for dinner at the same time as did HARRIS: DAVE HEDLEY, RUTH WILSON and JOHN PITTMAN. It is pointed out that JOHN PITTMAN is a negro foreign editor for the People's World, alleged Communist newspaper published at 583 Market Street, San Francisco.

On September 5, 1943, informants reported no activity on the part of HARRIS with the exception that he did contact the Greyhound Bus Lines relative to schedules to Palo Alto, California.

On September 6, 1943, TOM HARRIS, according to (S) Source C, contacted the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, 65 Market Street, San Francisco, at which time he advised that he had a reservation on the Southern Pacific train going to Los Angeles and advised that he would catch this train at Palo Alto on the evening of September 8, 1943. HARRIS was advised that this train stopped in Palo Alto at 7:15 P.M. for a few minutes and that he could board the train at that point. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

(S) (U) Source C advised that HARRIS subsequently attempted to contact GREGORY KHEIFETS at the USSR Consulate, San Francisco.

On the morning of September 7, 1943, Source I advised that TOM HARRIS was contacted by GREGORY KHEIFETS at which time KHEIFETS asked him to come to the Russian Consulate at 3:00 P.M. HARRIS accepted the invitation and KHEIFETS replied that he would have the consulate car pick him up at the Mark Hopkins Hotel for which HARRIS manifested great appreciation. (S) (U)

At 10:10 A.M. HARRIS, according to Source C, contacted Dr. MICHAEL ADDIS at which time he advised ADDIS that he was TOM HARRIS of New York City and asked ADDIS if it would be convenient to see him during the day or early tomorrow. It was indicated by this source that TOM HARRIS and ADDIS had previously met. ADDIS advised HARRIS that he would drop by to see him on his way home. HARRIS then, according to this source, advised ADDIS that he was staying at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, Room 1022 and that he would be very glad to see ADDIS again. The informant indicated that at one point in the conversation, HARRIS made reference to something that was dangerous to do; however, the informant was unable to secure the details of this. (S) (U)

At 11:27 A.M. Source C advised that TOM HARRIS made a long distance call to Menlo Park 2-5630 which according to Confidential Informant [ ] is listed to ANNA LOUISE STRONG, 872 Partridge, Menlo Park. At this time HARRIS advised ANNA LOUISE STRONG that he would attempt to leave San Francisco on the following day at 2 P.M. and catch a greyhound bus for Menlo Park for a visit with her. He advised that he would probably be at her house at 3 or 3:30 but would have to catch a train at about 7 or 7:15 at Palo Alto. The possibility of having a meeting with ANNA LOUISE STRONG and others concerning the subject organization was briefly discussed and HARRIS advised STRONG that she should invite to the meeting any others that she could think of. ANNA LOUISE STRONG indicated that she would be glad to come to San Francisco to pick him up or else have a friend do so, but HARRIS insisted that he would prefer the bus as he had to catch the train in Palo Alto. b7D

Source J made available to this office the following information obtained during the luncheon held at the Mark Hopkins Hotel on September 7, 1943. It will be recalled that this luncheon was arranged by HARRIS with the cooperation of KHEIFETS. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

S. F. FILE 100-18377

The informant advised that HARRIS opened the discussion and explained the organization of new councils to be organized locally as affiliates of the National Council. This explanation followed rather closely the procedure and recommendations set out on page 20 of the reference report dated September 4, 1943 at Los Angeles. HARRIS pointed out the necessity of obtaining the assistance of church figures, professional people, and so on. He pointed out that the local affiliates were not organized on a geographical basis and explained that each city has its own complexion and problems and the work of organizing local affiliates in the various cities is to be approached on that basis. It was pointed out, as in referenced report, that the latest information on Soviet experiences in various fields will be available to each of the local councils. At this point, HARRIS made reference to high Russian officials who had at various times been contacted in connection with this program and indicated that this was one of the few organizations formed in America which was receiving the full cooperation of the Russian government through their local representatives. (S) (U)

Reference was made to the Los Angeles Council and it was stated that through the Los Angeles Council and the San Francisco Council it was believed that information could be successfully disseminated to build up good will. Mention was made of exhibits which would be made available to the local councils as well as movies depicting the Soviet War Time production. HARRIS pointed out that some of these movies would be available to commercial war outfits. (S) (U)

At this point HERB RESNER interjected with an inquiry as to whether these motion pictures had already been shown in the United States. He received an affirmative answer from HARRIS. HARRIS then stated that there were three things to receive attention in the immediate future. First, he pointed out that someone representing the Red Army is coming to California and is expected to arrive in the middle of October. It was indicated that this individual was to meet with medical men or "body of surgeons." At this point, HARRIS stated that Dr. THOMAS EDWARDS could be of great assistance in handling an affair in San Francisco where the medical profession was involved. HARRIS stated that in Los Angeles the college of surgeons will give this Red Army man a dinner and will be assisted by the Los Angeles local council of the subject organization. In connection with HARRIS's statements above he made reference to the name "RUDOLPH" (S) (U)

As to the second thing requiring attention in the immediate future, reference was made to Radio City, New York, it being stated that "the Soviet Union had sent to us _____" It was not known to the informant what HARRIS referred to here but it was believed that Radio City, New York was to handle some type of broadcast or programs prepared in Russia. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

HARRIS referred to a second conference which was to be held in New York. He stated that delegations would be sent there from local councils. Further, he advised that meetings in connection with this would be held all over the country. HARRIS indicated that it would be well if the council in San Francisco could be organized in time to have a meeting by November 15. (C) (U)

Following a statement by ROSE ISAAX, HERBERT RESNER, according to the informant stated that the institute, believed to be a reference to the American-Russian Institute, could not propagandize as effectively as the proposed council could. RESNER pointed out that the purpose of the American Russian Institute was to better relations and to have information available concerning Russia; that by the nature of the organization, it was necessary for them to exert caution in regard to the information and material available to them as it was furnished officially by the USSR to the ARI which was described as an American organization. (C) (U)

It was indicated elsewhere during this meeting that the USSR would also furnish all of the propaganda material including pictures, exhibits, and so on to any local council of the subject organization. (C) (U)

RESNER, continuing, mentioned the name of MAX ELSTMAN and pointed out that the council can go after him and other individuals who write anti-Russian articles including HEARST, FUGLER, and MCCORMICK. The informant advised that RESNER and the others present were very bitter toward MAX ELSTMAN and indicated that much of the work of the council would be devoted to discrediting articles written by him. It was pointed out that the American Russian Institute could not go to trade unions, ministers, professional people, and so on, and for this reason, it was felt that there is a place for three organizations in San Francisco, the same as in New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia. RESNER stated that we need something like the council to throw out propaganda and which is organized in such a way that it can take some kind of action directly against individuals and organizations at the time the need for such arises. (C) (U)

At this point HERBERT RESNER suggested "Let's go around the table and see what each person here thinks about the organization." It is noted here that HARRIS had finished his explanation concerning the local organization and how it can be organized, purpose, and so on, and following his explanation RESNER takes the lead to draw out the other individuals present. (C) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The first individual was identified as a man, whose name was not known to the informant, who stated that in his opinion the capitalist people were changing their attitude. He made reference to some individual he recently saw in Sacramento who had indicated that he was going in to see some Russian exhibit. This surprised him very much and indicated to him that people were in a mood now to accept information favorable to Russia. He advised that in some ways he was disturbed because of the statements made by the American Legion and those of HEARST, MCCORMICK, and RESNER which he described as being anti-Russian, British, Chinese, etc. (S) (U)

It was indicated that all of the people present at the meeting were in favor of a local organization to be affiliated with the subject organization. RESNER then stated that in view of their desires to initiate the organization, it would be necessary to see which of them have time to do the work. HARRIS at this point stated that "I went to see the Soviet authorities" which, he indicated were in hearty accord with the work of the council. HARRIS pointed out that the council has had a very real influence in getting people to understand the Russian point of view. He pointed out that the British published a paper in the Soviet Union without censorship, but that HEARST, MCCORMICK and so on, had prevented the United States from doing so. (S) (U)

HARRIS pointed out that in most instances, similar councils were being set up in the USSR as for example, he explained that where a council consisting of musicians had been set up in the United States a similar organization had been set up in the USSR and that through the council, it was possible for the musicians here and the musicians in the USSR to exchange ideas. In connection with this, he advised that in Hollywood a motion picture group had organized some sort of local group. (S) (U)

RESNER pointed out that "it is a 'must' that we have sincere people in this organization; those who we know to be thoroughly in sympathy with this organization." RESNER then asked, "What must be done first? What are the mechanics for setting up the organization?" (S) (U)

HARRIS advised that the first step was to set up a provisional committee and second to look around for people to serve as sponsors; that in connection with this the provisional committee should arrange and have at least one successful meeting which could produce a few hundred dollars to see them through. In connection with this several little meetings should be planned. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

RESNER advised that it might be possible for them to secure some Russian film now available to the Council and show it at the Veterans Auditorium; that it could be arranged to have the local community leaders present there as drawing cards. It was pointed out that the film he had in mind had not been shown in America. RESNER indicated that an attempt would be made to organize this meeting and show the picture one month from now and in the meantime, to proceed with the selection of the sponsors. RESNER stated that ten or fifteen people are needed now to help with the plans for the organization for the next few months, and that a good person is needed for secretary. He suggested that "we designate ourselves as the provisional committee". ROSE ISAAC mentioned some international center; the meaning of this was not clear to the informant; however, this informant, Source J, advised that during the meeting frequent reference was made to the Church, University people from Stanford, and the University of California with a specific reference being made to SPROUL, who it was suggested would be willing to help. Reference was made to judges, doctors and civic leaders. Here reference was made to JAMES K. MOFFETT. It was advised that men like MOFFETT "won't do a stick of work but that their names as sponsors would help the organization in its work." RESNER pointed out that in order to do the work of serving on the provisional committee "I need people of heart; a team of workers who will toil day and night." (C) (U)

At this point SOL SILVERMAN broke in with his hearty approval of the above statement and advised "We put out a leaflet on the Readers' Digest". SILVERMAN pointed out that this was a great deal of work, required much time and so on. HARRIS suggested that they could start out on the basis of securing sponsorship for one meeting and urged that these sponsors serve as sponsors for the whole council. It was pointed out that the dramatic position of the USSR during the war time should be urged in contacting individuals for sponsors and that they should be approached on the basis of serving as permanent sponsors. (C) (U)

It was pointed out that the Soviet position at this time offered the psychological moment which should lend impetus to the early and successful organization of the local council. (C) (U)

RESNER then indicated that plans would be made for a meeting in October and November for the showing of the Russian film; in the meantime he stated "We will (1) need an office, (2) get a girl to serve as secretary and give her all it is thought she will require for organizational purposes, and (3) get a list of sponsors, set up the provisional committee, and go to work." (C) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

RESNER pointed out that the meetings contemplated for October and November will dramatize the organization and enable them to get more members. (C) (U)

Reference was here made to the Irish group, it being indicated that the Irish in some quarters had been anti-Russian. RESNER then advised that the purpose of the council was to "smoke out some of these people who are hostile." He added that in order to do this you have to "hammer, hammer and hammer and eventually smoke them out." (C) (U)

RESNER then advised that they would have to have some full time person in the office and the name of HELEN PELL who formerly served as the local secretary to the A.P.A., was brought forth. With reference to HELEN PELL, ROSE ISMAN stated that she, HELEN PELL was with the Joint Anti-Fascist League at 68 Post Street but that this league had dissolved recently as its work had been achieved. At this point the informant advised that AUBREY GROSSMAN, attorney for the law firm, GLADSTEIN, GROSSMAN, BERGOLIS, and SAMER, was present. (C) (U)

The informant advised that GROSSMAN suggested that "what we need for a secretary is an Irish Catholic with contacts." Reference was next made to administration and labor chiefs and the question was asked "Could labor bring pressure on the administration, and tell them what we want to know concerning what is going on?" The inference here was that it was desired to be known what the State Department policy was towards certain countries; specifically, Russia. Nothing further was said relative to this as RESNER immediately following this advised that in the next few days he would attempt to find a girl to serve as secretary and that he had an idea now. (C) (U)

He then suggested that RITA BODLE whose husband was an attorney for the War Man Power Commission, would be a good person and that she has done this type of work before. RESNER suggested that doubtlessly she could be gotten as secretary at least temporarily and that it would not be necessary to pay her now. HARRIS at this point asked RESNER if he would act as secretary until it was possible to secure a definite person for the job and RESNER advised that he would. (C) (U)

HARRIS advised that he would like to get the names and addresses of the people attending the luncheon and the names and addresses of others whose services might be secured in connection with a local organization. RESNER named the following as being present at instant meeting or who were otherwise available: (C) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

GWINDELL PHILLIPS (phonetic), JOE THOMPSON, Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, Mrs. MOSS ERSKINE, Dr. ANSELY (phonetic), and DOROTHY ERSKINE were named. It was indicated that they are representatives of national groups or of other groups. (S) (U)

Following this it was stated that the local council or committee would sponsor a medical group on October 10 or 29, and it was stated that Dr. THOMAS ADDIS would be responsible for the medical group. (S) (U)

It was stated that they would show some film to the Veterans; that the film was one hour and fifteen minutes long and all in Russian; and that it showed the real pictures of the siege of Leningrad. Further, that on the occasion of showing this picture, individuals would be invited to come without charge but that a collection would be taken up. It was indicated that the local council would start off its work with this film. (S) (U)

THOMAS HARRIS advised that he would contact HERBERT RESNER later that same afternoon concerning further plans for the council and that at the present time he could promise them that they could have as sponsors, one of the four following individuals: Vice-President HENRY WALLACE, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, HAROLD L. ICKES, or WENDELL WILLKIE. The informant advised that all of these individuals had tentatively promised either to serve as sponsors for the organization or as speakers. (S) (U)

Following the naming of these individuals, HARRIS then asked those present at the luncheon for their ideas as to which of these individuals would be the choice. A brief discussion followed after which it was announced that WALLACE was first choice, DAVIES second, and ICKES and WILLKIE were third and fourth choice, respectively. (S) (U)

HARRIS stated that within the next month or so there would be several distinguished USSR visitors in the United States for whom meetings would be planned in the various cities through the local council in cooperation with the subject organization. The names of CHESTER KOVITZ and SHORNIN, both phonetic, were mentioned. (S) (U)

ROSE ISAAK then inquired whether these various Russian visitors would speak in Russian, stating that a short time ago two speakers came here to San Francisco, that the people who came to the meeting had to sit through fifteen to thirty minutes of "Yidish", that few people understood what the speakers were discussing, and that as a result the meeting was not too successful. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

It was asked whether the local council could secure JOHN GARFIELD or OLIVIA DEHAVILLAND to address a meeting in San Francisco; no definite answer was given to this question. HERB RESNER then advised that the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco was available on November 7 and November 16, if speakers and entertainers would be available on those days. HARRIS advised that his headquarters would be in Los Angeles and that when the provisional committee here secured the names and addresses of all individuals serving as sponsors and so on of the local affiliate that the list should be sent to him. (S) (U)

At this point he explained that under the by-laws of the organization, the local affiliate was to turn in to the national council 25% of all the monies received. This figure, 25%, was that reported by the informant; however, he was unable to confirm this. (S) (U)

HARRIS at this point advised that recently in Los Angeles he had had a long talk with the past-president of the Chamber of Commerce. It was indicated that this might be some Russian-American Chamber of Commerce past-president. (S) (U)

HARRIS then stated that he would drop by the City of Paris and confer with the man in charge there concerning a Russian exhibit which he hoped they would display. ROSE ISAAC then advised that he (the man at the City of Paris) works with her all the time and has been very helpful; that the City of Paris and the Moore Dry Dock Company are the only large companies which have helped. With reference to the latter company, ROSE ISAAC advised that TOM MOORE and JOSEPH MOORE, officials of that company, had been very cooperative in taking ads in various publications. HARRIS, according to the informant, then stated that a local organization or affiliate form was not to become involved with business. He explained that the business crowd as a whole are selfish and that they usually did not become involved except when it would aid them. At this point the business for which the meeting was called was completed and one of the male individuals, believed to be PAUL SCHNUR, who is secretary of the San Francisco CIO Council, advised that he would like to have the individuals present at the luncheon as guests of the CIO indicating that he paid the bill. (S) (U)

At 2:35 P.M. ROSE ISAAC and other individuals departed, leaving PAUL SCHNUR, HERB RESNER, and TOM HARRIS. RESNER stated that the names of various individuals would have to be assigned for the purpose of contact. He mentioned the name of WILBUR and MOFFETT, and advised that it will be necessary to explain the purpose of the local affiliate to them. RESNER stated that they would attend at once to the matter of stationery, secure flags of various countries, and so on. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

He then referred to WILBUR who is believed to be RAY LYMAN WILBUR and to HAROLD CHAPMAN BROWN. The latter is a professor at the University of Stanford. (S) (U)

RESNER asked HARRIS if "when you feel it necessary that the provisional committee prepare a reply or a statement concerning an article prepared by some anti-Russian individual, for instance MAX EASTMAN, is it necessary for you to circulate the statement prepared among the various sponsors in order to secure their permission before releasing such a statement?" In answer to this, HARRIS emphatically stated, "No, your sponsors should have explicit confidence in the committee which is set up to take such action." (S) (U)

HERB RESNER mentioned CHARLIE CHAPLIN, stating that on one occasion, CHAPLIN, with only three or four days notice, substituted for JOSEPH E. DAVIES as speaker here when DAVIES had to cancel his engagement. CHAPLIN, according to RESNER, made a great speech and a very successful meeting was had. It was suggested that perhaps CHAPLIN could be secured for another meeting here and WALTER DURANTE was also mentioned in this connection. (S) (U)

It was indicated that the best policy was to sell the tickets at a very low cost and to take up a collection, depending largely on the latter means for revenue. (S) (U)

HARRIS asked RESNER questions concerning SOL, believed to be SOL SILVERMAN, and HERB advised that SOL was a WILLKIE Republican, pointing out there were a lot of Democrats that way here. RESNER further advised that SOL runs a Jewish newspaper here and that he had been to these types of meetings many times before. (S) (U)

RESNER then furnished to HARRIS a list containing the names of the individuals who were in attendance at the luncheon. This list contained the following names: AUBREY GROSSMAN; A. F. (GUS) GAYNOR who was identified as being with the railway clerks and who had been in politics for a while; SOL SILVERMAN previously referred to; Mrs. ROBERT McWILLIAMS, whose husband, RESNER advised, was judge of the superior court; PAUL SCHNUR, secretary of the San Francisco CIO Council, 150 Golden Gate; J. HERRICK LANE; and ROSE ISAAK. The informant advised that there may have been or two other names on this list but he was unable to obtain them. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

It will be noted elsewhere in this report that additional individuals were contacted by RESNER and invited to attend this meeting. RESNER advised HARRIS that FRED H. THOMPSON, who had been invited to attend but was unable to do so, could be counted upon to aid in any way. RESNER advised that THOMPSON was a very fine man and had always been extremely helpful. Further that JOSEPH THOMPSON had also been invited but that he too was unable to attend; he was referred to as president of the Russian War Relief. (S) (U)

RESNER advised HARRIS in departing that they would immediately get started with the organization and that in a few days he hoped to be able to advise HARRIS that they had secured the services of a full time secretary to take charge of the office and that at this time, he believed that person would be Mrs. RITA BODIE. (S) (U)

No further information concerning the meeting was available; however, in view of the information furnished by confidential informants as previously set out, it is believed that HERB RESNER and HARRIS had worked out the details of this meeting during the conference at RESNER's office on September 3, 1943, which was attended by OLETA O'CONNOR, JUDY LAMBERT, and other known members of the Communist Party. Due to the difficulties encountered by Source J, it was impossible to obtain any further details of the meeting at the Mark Hopkins Hotel. (S) (U)

The informant advised that this was a rather informal discussion and as will be noted in the above report furnished by source J the conversation was not correlated and organized. It is set out in the report in the form furnished to this office by source J. (S) (U)

It is pointed out here that HARRIS, on at least two occasions made reference to the fact that he had been assigned to the West Coast and had jurisdiction from San Diego to Seattle. It will be noted, in connection with this so called jurisdiction, that various literature in the possession of HARRIS indicated that he is the National Secretary of the National Council and it would appear that his jurisdiction in connection with this organization would have a wider scope. (S) (U)

RESNER and HARRIS finished their conversation at approximately three P.M. and immediately thereafter HARRIS was observed to have been picked up at the Mark Hopkins Hotel by the Russian Consulate Car and was taken to the Russian Consulate at the corner of Divisadero and Broadway, San Francisco where it is believed he met GEORGE KESTERS, Vice Consul. It is pointed out that the official Consulate Car bears license number Cons. Serv. 191. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

(S) (U) [Source K] advised that HARRIS was in telephonic contact with a woman, possibly his secretary at Los Angeles telephone, Michigan 4937, on September 7, 1943; that he was scheduled to speak in Salt Lake City on September 15, 1943, having been advised by telegram to Salt Lake City from Los Angeles signed DOLOLOHISH (phonetic); that GEORGE THOMAS of the Salt Lake City Council on Foreign Relations had requested this appearance; that a message from HATTAN STERN was to the effect that he was to be placed on the Los Angeles pay roll and would therefore not receive further pay from the national organization; that an appointment was awaiting him from a Mr. COATS (phonetic) and another appointment with EILDRED BORTON of the Daily News which was made for him by PAULINE SAMSON; that he was to attend a provisional committee at Wilders and was expected at the opening of a motion picture premier at which Madame TOLTZOFF would be present; that an appointment had been arranged for Thursday with a Mr. TANNIN (phonetic) and appointments were also arranged for Friday with HICKSON, Dr. BELL and COACH (all phonetic, the latter possibly being COATS); also that an appointment was made by a Miss TORRES with a Mr. TUTTLE.

This Source advised that HARRIS indicated that he would return to Los Angeles at 10:30 A.M. on the following Thursday.

It was further advised by this source, that HARRIS was in telephonic contact with one "DOTTIE" at Los Angeles, telephone Arizona 3-2559 Extension, 3434; that from this conversation, HARRIS was to attend the showing of a film "Russian Story" on the following Friday and one Madame KORCDOZO (phonetic) would be present; that he had an appointment on the following Saturday with the HASEBURGS (phonetic). It was also ascertained through this source, that HARRIS had been requested to advise the publication, "New Masses" New York City, as to whether he desired to be on the Special Speakers Bureau.

Source L advised that at approximately 5:50 P.M. on September 7, 1943, an individual believed to be Dr. THOMAS ADDIS, entered room 1022 at the Clark Hopkins Hotel and engaged in conversation with TOM HARRIS. The informant advised that HARRIS commenced the conversation by asking ADDIS if he could speak or understand Russian. The informant was unable to advise as to ADDIS's answer to this question but stated that HARRIS indicated that he could understand Russian. (S) (U)

The informant stated that at one point during the conversation between ADDIS and HARRIS, it was thought that ADDIS was referred to as "PETE" at least according to the informant, some reference was made to an individual by this name. (S) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

HARRIS furnished ADDIS with his Los Angeles address and advised ADDIS that he, HARRIS, had jurisdiction from San Diego to Seattle; further, according to the report of this source, HARRIS referred to an individual named LUNDKO (phonetic), whom he identified as an official representative of the Soviet Red Cross who was an assistant to _____. It was indicated that this individual would be on the West Coast in approximately a week, and that the local council either in San Francisco or in Los Angeles was to form a committee for a reception, it being indicated that this committee would be formed in the main by the medical profession. (S) (U)

It appeared from the report of the informant which was very sketchy in parts, that HARRIS requested ADDIS to aid on any medical committee which may be formed and that ADDIS indicated his desire to cooperate. Reference was also made to ROSE ISRAK mentioned elsewhere in this report. (S) (U)

ADDIS departed from Room 1022 at approximately 6:30 P.M. after which Special Agent THEODORE S. CRUISE observed the individual who departed from HARRIS's room to enter a DeSoto cab number 61. In subsequent surveillance, Special Agent CRUISE observed the cab to park in front of 2160 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco where the individual believed to be ADDIS stepped out of the cab and entered this address. Agent CRUISE advised that the name DR. THOMAS ADDIS was listed on the directory plate at this address. (S) (U)

The following description of this individual was obtained by Special Agent THEODORE S. CRUISE:

AGE:	58 to 60
HEIGHT:	6'1" to 6'2"
WEIGHT:	165
HAIR:	Gray and thick
BUILD:	Thin
CHARACTERISTICS:	Very thin face and awkward looking in his manner of walk

It was advised that this individual carried a pincenez in his pocket, that he wore a gray suit and carried a brown brief case.

On the last day of HARRIS's stay in San Francisco, September 8, 1943, he made no contacts of any significance and departed from his hotel. He boarded a Greyhound Bus destined for Palo Alto and Menlo Park California where he got off at approximately 1:30 P.M. He then went to the home of MRS. LOUISE STRONG, 872 Partridge, Menlo Park.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Through surveillance of this residence by Special Agents GEORGE MUNCY LANGDON and CHARLES BELL RICE, the following were identified as attending the meeting at this residence with HARRIS through registration of automobile licenses:

EASON ~~MONROE~~ and wife,
469 Landfair Avenue,
West Los Angeles, California (former address 547 Barron Ave.
Palo Alto).

Mrs. CHARLES H. ~~NEIDERHAUSER~~

Menlo Park, California

~~LEO SHAPOVALOV~~
740 Creek Drive
Menlo Park, California

F. W. ~~WEYMOUTH~~
P. O. Box 96
Stanford University

At approximately 7 P.M. HARRIS was observed leaving the STRONG residence to be driven to the Palo Alto Station by ~~LEO SHAPOVALOV~~ in company with ANNA LOUISE STRONG and one unidentified man.

At 7:15 P.M. HARRIS was observed by reporting agent to board the Southern Pacific Train for Los Angeles, Car "B" at Palo Alto

(S) (U)
[Source M] made available copies of the following correspondence relating to HARRIS' trip to San Francisco:

A letter dated August 3, 1943 addressed to Mr. HERBERT RESNER, c/o ANDERSEN and RESNER, 544 Market Street, San Francisco. This letter advised as follows: "Our National Secretary, Mr. THOMAS L. HARRIS has asked me to let you know that he has postponed his trip to San Francisco but will be there definitely between September 1 and September 7, during which he expects to be registered at the Clift Hotel but if there is any change in plans I will let you know." This letter was signed by FAULINE SWANSON, Secretary.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

It is believed that HARRIS retained copies of these letters in his possession together with the notation set out immediately preceding in order to assist him in making contacts in San Francisco and Palo Alto. It may be that Miss GERTRUDE LERNING and HOLLAND D. ROBERTS were in attendance at the meeting held at the home of ARNA LOUISE STRONG in Palo Alto inasmuch as it is indicated that these individuals reside there and have been in correspondence with HARRIS. JK

Of interest in connection with HARRIS's efforts to organize a local affiliate of subject organization in San Francisco is a copy of a letter dated September 2, which was written by HARRIS to an individual whose name appears as EVE, which is being set out in detail below:

"THE MARK HOPKINS
San Francisco      Sept. 2nd

Dear Eve,

Frisco is proving a very tough nut to crack for these reasons.

- a/ The SRI under Rose Isaak has been in the field many years and though verbally Rose and her cohorts now admit the need for a Council they quite naturally have a protective and jealous attitude toward their own work; and furthermore they have succeeded in labeling a number of people who otherwise would be available for us. The situation is nothing like as bad as it was when I first came out to the Coast but it is still to be recond with.
- b/ SRI is far less well developed here than in the East and consequently with a somewhat less clearly defined and well organized field of work there is need for us to watch very carefully for any overlapping. I had a good talk with Betty Gordon just before coming up here so I hope we shall be spared organisational conflicts that otherwise might have been serious.
- c/ The major obstacle is the very nasty taste left in evrybodys mouth by the Councils meeting last year. All kinds of extravagant promises were made as to the name speaker who might be available and none of them came through with the result that the local sponsorship which was excellent looks upon us as a lot of fourflushers who left them organisationally and financially in the lurch. Of course there is no use crying over spilt milk but we must be able to guarantee and deliver a name speaker if we are to recover lost ground.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The names already suggested are Wallace Davies Ickes, possibly Wilkie though the local situation of the New Deal makes Wilkie a doubtful choice, though I understand there is some possibility more than with the others of getting him as he is considering making a stab at California and the brighter Republicans here in the state know that they have got to whitewash the Republican elephant.

I can hear you and the speakers bureau groan at the thought of getting Wallace or Davies or Ickes. If they or someone like them are out let me know and I will see what can be done on a much more modest scale but stop gaps definitely won't do after last years letdown. In view of the crucial importance of California in the political scene it does occur to me that perhaps some leading administration figure (and for many reasons I think Ickes might be best as he is highly respected here) might consent to come preferable for a double header at Los Angeles and Frisco, though I'm not worried about L.A. If such a top figure will come I can assure excellent sponsorship in sliding important political figures in the state.

I've only just got going in Frisco. Things may move faster than I think as there is good union support around but both financial and organisational support for the Council received a serious set back from last years fiasco.

Salt Lake City and Denver are all set.

Cordially,"

Further with regard to the difficulties experienced by HARRIS, there is set out a letter dated September 2nd to "Dear Ed.":

"The Mark Hopkins
San Francisco
September 2nd

Dear Ed, (Edwin S. Smith)

I enclose a letter from Rosenfeld to me with a copy is for Corliss in regard to the business men. Unfortunately Rosenfeld is not very clear in expressing himself on paper; so I will supplement what he has written by what he told me just as I was leaving Los Angeles and also by what I have just heard from miss Swenson over long distance.

Rosenfeld tells me that there is growing interest in the idea of a Chamber of Commerce to encourage trade with SC and he is very much concerned about two points;

- a/ the slowness with which things are moving
- b/ the tendency to revive the old American Russian Chamber of Commerce which in his opinion was in the hands of the big fellows who tended to make trade with the SU a monopoly and so deprived the Chamber of its major political effect as an agency for creating widespread good will among business men.

A letter dated August 3, 1943 to Mr. HOLLAND D. ROBERTS, Stanford University, School of Education, Palo Alto, California. This letter signed by THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, contained substantially the same information as did the previous letter.

A letter dated August 1, 1943 to JAMES BLODGETT, CIO Building, 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. This letter advised in part: "TOM HARRIS, who is running around Los Angeles like a wild man, speaking two or three times a day for the council, has asked me to drop you a note....." This letter contained the same information set out in the above letter and added that he (HARRIS) "has jotted down your phone number and will get in touch with you when he gets to town." This letter is signed PAULINE SWANSON.

A letter dated July 31, 1943 addressed to Mr. MORRIS HATSON, CIO Building, 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. This letter advised: "This is to let you know that our National Secretary, TOM HARRIS, whom you may remember from the old days, will be in San Francisco for a week beginning September 1, speaking and organizing for the council of American Soviet Friendship. I know he will want to see you during his stay....." This was signed by PAULINE SWANSON, Executive Secretary.

Jacob Lomakin

A letter dated July 7, 1943 addressed to Miss GERTRUDE LUSHNING, 1590 California Avenue, Palo Alto, California. This letter was signed by VIRGINIA GARDNER, Executive Secretary, American Council on Soviet Relations, 112 East 19th Street, New York City. The letter acknowledged receipt of a letter of July 3, 1943 from Miss LUSHNING relative to literature for display at the National Convention of the American Federation of Teachers in Gary to be held August 17 to 21. Miss GARDNER suggested to Miss LUSHNING that she write to the American Russian Institute, 56 E. 45th Street, New York City, to see if any original material from the Soviet Union had been received by the Institute along the lines suggested by Miss LUSHNING. In this letter Miss GARDNER further suggested that various exhibits and so on could be obtained through the subject organization on a loan basis, at a fee of $5.00 a week and express charges both ways. Miss GARDNER pointed out that an exhibit which she had in mind is now being shown in Los Angeles. Attached to this letter which was furnished by Source M was a note which contained the following names and addresses:

(U)

MAURICE HARRISON, Big San Francisco Democratic Leader; Consul General: JACOB LOMAKIN; Dr. ALEX K. UFF, S. F. Professor, U. C. BERKELEY, 1431 LeRoy Avenue, Berkeley; Professor LINSLEY, Mills College, knows LINDY (CORLISS LINDY).

For both these reasons and on account of the support he claims to be receiving he is somewhat inclined to go it alone and set about organizing on the widest basis.

Swanson has just reported by long distance that Mersday the local representative of the US Dept of Commerce supports Rosenfield on both contentions but I am not sure what she had before her a direct communication from Mersday or only a quote from Rosenfield who, as you can see from the enclosed letter, is sometimes inclined to let his enthusiasm color his understanding of what others are saying. Swanson also reported that the group who met about a month ago are anxious to enlarge themselves and meet again with a representative from Amtorg. I told her that I would make no move to help them until I heard from you as I think there is some danger of our locally getting at cross purposes with the National.

Frisco is proving a very tough nut for reasons that I am writing DVS. Cordially "

[Source ] made available to this office a piece of paper torn from a scratch pad on which he advised were some notes made by HARRIS. The notes were as follows:

- (1) "Call Resner" (believed to be HERBERT RESNER)
- (2) "Call Steve" (believed to be STEVE NELSON)
- (3) "ARI at 2" (This is believed to pertain to an appointment with ROSE ISRAK of the American Russian Institute.

Beneath the above notations there appeared the notation "404 Roxbury" and beneath this the notation "2626 Green Street at 7 P.M." As previously pointed out , 2626 Green Street, San Francisco, is the residence of LOUISE BRANSTEN with whom the subject had dinner on September 3, 1943.

The same source advised that HARRIS had received a communication from HAZEL MURRAY CLARK (Mrs. RICHARD J. CLARK), 2461 Highland Drive, Salt Lake City dated September 1, in which she advised that she had contacted Reverend ARTHUR MOULTEN, 444 East First, South Salt Lake who is head of the Russian War Relief, relative to HARRIS's visit to Salt Lake. She further related that MOULTEN was aware of HARRIS's anticipated visit and had taken the matter up with the committee but was awaiting further information from HARRIS. She related further that the Unitarian Church would be available for HARRIS's meeting and that MOULTEN would have the sponsors available on his(HARRIS's) arrival.

- (1) "Call Addis" (believed to be identical with Dr. THOMAS ADDIS)
- (2) "Call E C SM" (it is not known to what or to whom these initials refer)
- (3) "Call Oleta" (believed identical with OLET. O'CONNOR YATES, functionary of the CP, San Francisco)
- (4) "Prepare speech"
- (5) "City of Paris" (with reference to this, it is believed that HARRIS intended to contact this store located in San Francisco for arrangements for setting up an exhibit.
- (6) "Helen and Charlie" (the identity of these individuals is not known)

It is of interest to note the following letter addressed to Mr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, Los Angeles Council of American Soviet Friendship, 542 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California, dated August 25, 1943. This letter signed by WILLIAM MORRIS and written on the stationery of the WILLIAM MORRIS AGENTS, INC., Rockefeller Center, 1270 6th Avenue, telephone Circle 7-2160, is quoted as follows:

"Dear Tom,

I am very pleased to hear that the reception was successful.

I am lending you $500, check is enclosed herewith. Needless to say I would appreciate return of this at the earliest possible moment.

(Signed) Sincerely,

The above source also made available a letter believed to be a form letter which was addressed as a memorandum to speakers for the National Council of American Soviet Friendship. It was written on the letterhead of the National Council, 232 Madison, New York, 61, New York, Murray Hill 3-2082. The letter was dated August 23, 1943 and signed by LEONAR SARRON, Educational Services Department.

Briefly, this letter advised that copies of the "Constitution of the USSR" were being enclosed and that it was a new edition published by the National Council which was published because "We believe that Americans who read the "Constitution of the USSR" will want to aid in welding unity and close cooperation ..... in war and in peace between the United States and the Soviet Union." Cooperation is requested "on every occasion that you speak about the Soviet Union....stress the necessity of the reading and understanding of the constitution of the USSR. Wherever there is the type of meeting in which war speech makes it possible, will you suggest that copies be ordered for every member of a club, a church group, and so on? Will you inform the program chairman that copies are available at six cents each or six dollars per hundred copies?"

(S) (U)
Confidential Source M made available a letter from the Treasury Department addressed to THOMAS LEONARD HARRIS and DOROTHY GALANT HARRIS, 97 St. Mark's Place, New York City. This letter address was scratched through and the address 232 Madison Avenue appeared.

(S) (U)
(Source M) in addition made available two original letters to TON HARRIS from his mother who resides at Thatched Cottage, Clive Road, Surrey, England. One of the letter states: "I am waiting quite anxiously for the copy of your booklet written in collaboration with Father FLETCHER on 'Religion and Soviet Union' of which you have promised us a copy."

With further reference to this book, among the notations appearing on various scraps of paper furnished by (Source M) there appeared a pencil notation made by HARRIS which read "I have made innumerable attempts to write this book." It appears from this and information furnished by other sources that HARRIS has contemplated this book for some time.

This same source furnished this office for photostating a group of photographs which HARRIS had received from GEOFFREY LESTER, 1487 North Vine Street, Hollywood, California. These photographs were made by TOMMY KUBER, 137 East 45 Street, New York, Telephone Eldorado 5-6761.

One photograph is that of a poster depicting vandalism used in the "This is the Enemy" section of the American-Soviet War Exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center in which the character of the enemy and his methods are shown.

A second photograph shows a gun mounting factory in the Soviet Union showing the final touches being put on the mighty Soviet tanks, is part of the war production panel in the American-Soviet War Exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center.

A third photograph is that of a shell factory somewhere in the United States with thousands of shells ready to be shipped for use against the enemy, is part of the war production panel in the American-Soviet War Exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

A fourth photograph displays a section of the American-Soviet War Exhibit.

A fifth photograph shows Madame ~~LITVINOV~~ and Major General JARMAN, commanding General Air Craft Artillery Command Eastern Defense, with CORLISS ~~LAMONT~~ in the center. In this picture MADAME LITVINOV and Major General JARMAN are playing checkers.

A sixth photograph is that of five individuals, three of them identified as CORLISS LAMONT, Madame LITVINOV and Major General JARMAN.

A seventh photograph shows American soldiers on some battle front being entertained by movie star Cary Grant and demonstrates the theater in the war effort in a display at the American-Soviet War Exhibit now on view at the Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center.

An eighth photograph shows Madame LITVINOV standing before a microphone and by an anti-tank gun apparently delivering a speech.

One photostatic copy of each of the above mentioned photographs is being furnished to the Bureau and to the New York Office,

(S) (U)
[Source] made available copies of various literature in the possession of HARRIS. This literature in part contains statements attributed to vice president HENRY W. WALLACE, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, and others and sets forth the officers and sponsors of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., 232 Madison Avenue, New York 16, New York; also it sets out in concise form the purpose and program of the organization.

The National Officers of the subject organization are being listed immediately below inasmuch as it appears that they differ in some respects from the officers set out in the referenced report dated July 7, 1943 at New York City.

Chairman . . . . .	CORLISS LAMONT
Vice-Chairman and Executive Director . . . . .	EDWIN S. SMITH
Vice-Chairmen . . . . .	ARTHUR UPHAM POPE
	WILLIAM MORRIS, jr.
Treasurer . . . . .	SAMUEL B. LEAVIN
National Secretary . . . . .	THOMAS L. HARRIS
Director of Activities . . . . .	ALICE PRENTICE BARROWS

The purpose of the National Council, according to the literature obtained, is "To promote better understanding and strong friendly relations between the United States and Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war and establishment of world wide Democracy and enduring peace." The program of the National Council is designed to carry out the above purpose (1) by meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for their Russian ally, (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda.

Relative to this latter point in the program, it is of interest to note that HARRIS, during the luncheon at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, previously mentioned, emphasized the importance of this particular phase of the program. Specific mention was made of the article of MAX EASTMAN, which appeared in a recent issue of the Readers Digest. The names of HEARST, WESTBROOK PEGLER, McCORMICK and others were also referred to and it was stated that the only way these individuals could be silenced was by "hammering, hammering and hammering at them."

In connection with this, it will be recalled that HARRIS advised that the provisional council would not be required to circulate statements against the writings of such individuals or statements made by them, among the various sponsors of the council for their approval, but could act independently inasmuch as sponsors of the council would have explicit confidence in whatever action the committee would desire to take along such lines.

The pamphlets contain information concerning the services offered by the subject organization.

No further information is being set out in this report concerning this; however, one copy of each pamphlet is being directed to the Bureau and the New York Office.

At this point, there is being set out for the information of the Bureau and offices receiving copies of this report, a brief statement concerning the background of the individuals mentioned in this report as having been in contact with HARRIS, it being noted in connection therewith, that a large number of them are known to be members or officials of the Communist Party in this area and that others of them, if not actual Party members, have been allied for some time with various front organizations alleged to be front groups for the Communist Party.

His address as of 1942 was reflected as 530 Birch Street, Palo Alto, California.

On October 7, 1943, Source E advised this office that HERBERT RESNER, when in a recent contact with KHEIFETS advised him that he had received a communication from HARRIS dated October 6 from Los Angeles in which HARRIS stated that SHOSTAKOVICH was en route to the USA and HARRIS requested RESNER to contact KHEIFETS FOR INFORMATION relative to SHOSTAKOVICH's date of arrival. RESNER explained that he was interested in this date of arrival in connection with the San Francisco Soviet American Friendship Council which would celebrate ten years of U. S. - Soviet diplomatic relations on November 12th at the Scottish Rite Auditorium. (S)(A) (U)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

KHEIFETS advised RESNER that he had information that SHOSTAKOVICH was coming to America but had no information relative to his definite date of arrival. KHEIFETS then asked RESNER if he had a speaker for the occasion to which RESNER replied that if SHOSTAKOVICH would make his presence at the celebration he had enough of a drawing power without a speaker but otherwise they would have to get someone like DAVIES or someone from Los Angeles. RESNER then mentioned as possibilities some local talent such as Attorney General ROBERT KENNY or BARTLEY CRUM. (S) (C) (U)

On this same date the same source made available to this office, information relative to a contact between RESNER and ROSE ISAAK in which he advised her that he had talked to KHEIFETS and KHEIFETS was unable to furnish any further information concerning SHOSTAKOVICH and explained that KHEIFETS' information relative to SHOSTAKOVICH's visit to America was furnished to him by THOMAS L. HARRIS. RESNER then advised ISAAK that he had rented the auditorium for November 12 and that he had learned from KHEIFETS that the Russian Consul in San Francisco was putting on a big affair at the Scottish Rite Temple on November 7, celebrating the 26th anniversary of the revolution. ISAAK then expressed the opinion that the Consul affair should be the only big affair and that the council's affair should not be so big inasmuch as the same people would have to do the work for both. ISAAK then suggested that the council put on a Soviet Educational Seminar to last for one week. RESNER then suggested that Attorney General KENNY or BARTLEY CRUM would probably be the best local speakers for the council affair but that they would probably have to send to Hollywood to get OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND, JOHN GARFIELD, JAMES CAGNEY, as an additional drawing card. (S) (C) (U)

On the same date the same source furnished this office with further information relative to a contact between RESNER and Attorney General KENNY in which RESNER invited KENNY to speak for the council's affair but KENNY declined with the excuse that he would be in Chicago on that date. KENNY then suggested BARTLEY CRUM or CHESTER ROWELL to be invited to speak for the occasion and explained that he was suggesting ROWELL inasmuch as ROWELL seemed to be behaving himself at the present time. (S) (C) (U)

Inasmuch as this case is being actively investigated by the New York Field Division and the Los Angeles Field Division, no leads are being set out as it is believed that they may have been covered by these offices. This report contains all of the information available in this office at the present time. Future activities will be closely followed and reported. This case is being considered referred upon completion to the office of origin.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED
DATE 8/3/85 BY SP4 [signature]

I wanted to bring to your attention available information received from confidential sources relative to the Congress of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, which took place at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City, on November 6 and 7, 1943. Several confidential sources have described this organization as Communist controlled.

The Congress was attended by almost two thousand delegates and individuals representing trade unions. It was said that the Congress was well organized, consisting of luncheons, panels on woman and child care, education, science, nationalities, trade unions and medicine, general session and Sunday concerts. During the Congress publications of the International Publishers, Incorporated, the American-Russian Institute and others were on sale.

The general theme of the Congress stressed the great advance of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in the fields mentioned above. The speakers lavished praise upon the Soviet progress and urged to emulate the Soviets and further American-Soviet cooperation.

Prominent leaders and reported members of the Communist Party who were present included Alexander Trachtenberg, Roy Hudson, Avran Landy, Theodore Bayer, Louis Weinstock, Art Shields, Jessica Smith and many lesser figures.

The resolutions adopted by the Congress, and which confidential sources reported had been previously prepared, included:

1. Plans for the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship's divisions of women's education, science and trade unions to exchange information, students, teachers, doctors and scientific data with similar organizations in the Soviet Union.
2. The promotion of international trade unity.
3. The transmission of numerous congratulatory messages to "anti-Fascist" and other groups in the Soviet Union.

At the luncheon which was opened by Mayor La Guardia, Sir Hubert Wilkins reportedly forecasted the day when the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics would tower above the United States in material and economic magnitude. Wilkins stated this was a matter for pleasant contemplation provided the United States encourages and maintains cooperation.

Foreign correspondent Edgar Snow reportedly stated that since nothing could stop the Soviet Union from becoming the greatest power in Europe and Asia, the United States should welcome the Soviet Union's cooperation. Other prominent speakers in their addresses covered the general theme of "Greater American-Soviet Friendship". Among these speakers were Eugene D. Kisselov, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' Consul General at New York City;

Professor Vladimir Lebedenko, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' representative of the Red Cross and Red Crescent in the United States; and Joseph Salerno, President of the Massachusetts CIO Council. Salerno in his address called for a Peoples Republic in Italy, and Louis Adamic, author, a reported member of the Communist Party and President of the United Americans of South Slavic Origin, recommended the formation of a multi-national federation of countries through social revolution as the only solution to the Balkans' problem.

The trade unions' panel of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated was presided over by William McPetridge, President of the Building Service Employees International Union, A.F. of L., and was addressed by Edwin S. Smith, Executive Director of the instant organization. This trade unions' panel was composed of Michael Ouraevsky, Soviet Engineer and Secretary of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' Consulate at New York City; Reid Robinson of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers; William Feinberg, Secretary of Local 802, Associated Musicians of Greater New York, A.F. of L.; Philip Van Gelder, Vice President of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO; Lewis Merrill of the United Office and Professional Workers of America; Joseph Curran, President of the National Maritime Union; Rose Schneideman, President of the National Women's Trade Union League; Michael Quill, President of the Transport Workers Union; one Silverstein, Secretary to Mayor Vincent Murphy of Newark, New Jersey; and Michael Obermeier of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees, A.F. of L.

The resolutions adopted by the trade unions' panel were:

1. A pledged vote of appreciation to President Roosevelt for the establishment of relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.
2. The endorsement of the call by the British Trade Union Council for international representation at the World Trade Union Congress to be held next Spring in London, England.
3. The expression of the greatest respect to the membership of Soviet trade unions for their backing of the Red Army's fight for victory.

The trade unions' panel was attended by approximately 1,000 representatives of whom 487 were members of the American Federation of Labor, the Railroad Brotherhood of America and the CIO.

A mass rally which was held in Madison Square Garden on the evening of November 8, 1943, closed the convention.

I thought you would be interested in the information received in this matter.

Respectfully,

Washington, D. C.

Dear General Strong:

I wanted to bring to your attention available information received from confidential sources relative to the Congress of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, which took place at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City, on November 6 and 7, 1943. Several confidential sources have described this organization as Communist controlled.

The Congress was attended by almost two thousand delegates and individuals representing trade unions. It was said that the Congress was well organized, consisting of luncheons, panels on woman and child care, education, science, nationalities, trade unions and medicine, general session and Sunday concerts. During the Congress publications of the International Publishers, Incorporated, the American-Russian Institute and others were on sale.

The general theme of the Congress stressed the great advance of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in the fields mentioned above. The speakers lavished praise upon the Soviet progress and urged to emulate the Soviets and further American-Soviet cooperation.

Prominent leaders and reported members of the Communist Party who were present included Alexander Trachtenberg, Roy Hudson, Avram Landy, Theodore Bayer, Louis Weinstock, Art Shields, Jessica Smith and many lesser figures.

The resolutions adopted by the Congress, and which confidential sources reported had been previously prepared, included:

1. Plans for the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship's divisions of women's education, science and trade unions to exchange information, students, teachers, doctors and scientific data with similar organizations in the Soviet Union.
2. The promotion of international trade unity.
3. The transmission of numerous congratulatory messages to anti-fascist and other groups in the Soviet Union.

Foreign correspondent Edgar Snow reportedly stated that since nothing could stop the Soviet Union from becoming the greatest power in Europe and Asia, the United States should welcome the Soviet Union's cooperation. Other prominent speakers in their addresses covered the general theme of "Greater American-Soviet Friendship". Among these speakers were Eugene D. Kisselev, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' Consul General at New York City; Professor Vladimir Lebedenko, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' representative of the Red Cross and Red Crescent in the United States; and Joseph Salerno, President of the Massachusetts CIO Council. Salerno in his address called for a Peoples Republic in Italy, and Louis Adamic, author, a reported member of the Communist Party and President of the United Americans of South Slavic Origin, recommended the formation of a multi-national federation of countries through social revolution as the only solution to the Balkans' problem.

The trade unions' panel of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated was presided over by William McPetridge, President of the Building Service Employees International Union, A.F. of L., and was addressed by Edwin S. Smith, Executive Director of the instant organization. This trade unions' panel was composed of Michael Osravsky, Soviet Engineer and Secretary of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics' Consulate at New York City; Reid Robinson of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers; William Feinberg, Secretary of Local 802, Associated Musicians of Greater New York, A.F. of L.; Philip Van Gelder, Vice President of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO; Lewis Merrill of the United Office and Professional Workers of America; Joseph Curran, President of the National Maritime Union; Rose Schneiderman, President of the National Women's Trade Union League; Michael Quill, President of the Transport Workers Union; one Silverstein, Secretary to Mayor Vincent Murphy of Newark, New Jersey; and Michael Obermaier of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees, A.F. of L.

The resolutions adopted by the trade unions' panel were:

1. A pledged vote of appreciation to President Roosevelt for the establishment of relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.
2. The endorsement of the call by the British Trade Union Council for international representation at the World Trade Union Congress to be held next Spring in London, England.
3. The expression of the greatest respect to the membership of Soviet trade unions for their backing of the Red Army's fight for victory.

The trade unions' panel was attended by approximately 1,000 representatives of whom 487 were members of the American Federation of Labor, the Railroad Brotherhood of America and the CIO.

A mass rally which was held in Madison Square Garden on the evening of November 8, 1943, closed the convention.

Dear Sir:

The letter set forth below was supplied to Special Agents Frederick C. Zinsk, Edward F. Hummer, Lewis Ames and Jerome M. Garland by a reliable and confidential source which had access to the office of ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, INTERNATIONAL PUBLISHERS, INC., 381 Fourth Avenue, New York City, on October 18, 1943.

"Your scorn of my fishing seems to be bringing me good fortune. My catches are mounting in size and number. Keep it up and I'll probably land a giant marlin.

"Fire Island has been lovelier than ever. The weather is perfect and a good time is being had by all. GERT is fine and sends her love. (She insists that I put that in)

"I don't know the density of the pollen on the Island—I've run across a few veterans. They seem to be holding up well. The relief is evident and unquestionable but I don't know if it is sufficient. I will keep checking because it is early yet and let you have a further communique at a later date.

"Glad you've been comfortable lately and hope weather improves. Hope you can get another few days at Fire Island before we leave. I now know the very best beds of poison ivy on the island.

"Re the building—nothing suitable yet. I have an appointment Friday for lunch with the fellow from the GEORGE SCHOOL. Will try hard and see what can be done & let you know. Meanwhile we are sticking to it and hope something good pops up.

"Feel much better about the financial plan we discussed. Had several meetings with that organization with TED. Told TED we must insist they handle advertising and told them we would not take no for an answer. We built it up and fortunately one of them was an old friend and admirer of mine in RWR (Russian War Relief). Said our goal was $100,000 advertising and that we needed to make 35 to 50M in order to carry out our program. They believe this possible, in fact, had we said less they might not, I believe, have been interested because it would mean only pennies for them. Today TED called me and told me they had decided to go ahead with us—the last hurdle is to get the approval of AMTORG which TED believes he can get. Is this correct? Don't want anything to hold it up now. Can you help? This changes the complexion for obvious reasons. We will supplement their efforts by our forces. We are aiming for a beautiful and effective publication. Details we will give you when you get back.

"Organisational efforts for the Congress were moving slowly so I called a meeting of staff plus ED & TED—and believe we got ball started. Assigned individual responsibilities. Going after special people we need, etc. Worked on garden meeting, luncheon and panels. Meeting every week which will start tying things up & will help considerably. Aggressive leadership essential at this stage. Senator PEPPER accepted today to speak at Garden. Panels we decided as basic ones are trade union—nationalities—women in wartime—education and youth—writers and the war—council organization plus luncheon and musical concert Sunday night. Staff glad to finally get its teeth into the job and last few days everybody is starting to move. Meeting tomorrow night to commence plugging the field.

"I spoke to ED today—and he said he would write you along the lines of your request. Urge you emphasize the urgency of fast action.

"Other activities projected—no use mentioning now.

"I miss you. I have no one to argue with—and much more important no one from whom I can learn as much as I do from you.

"Regards -

"Sam."

An examination of the envelope used in directing the above letter to "Mr. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, P. O. Box 311, Bethlehem, New Hampshire," a resort where TRACHTENBERG is known to have spent his summer vacation, indicates that the letter was mailed on August 25, 1943. The portion of the envelope normally used to reflect the name of the addressor was torn out. However, the envelope bears a meter postmark No. 70385. A check of this meter number with the Post Office Department discloses that the meter machine used in the operation is owned by the PITNEY-BOWES MANUFACTURING COMPANY, and leased by that firm to the HAMPDEN SALES ASSOCIATION, INC., of 251 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

According to the Manhattan address-name telephone directory of current date, the HAMPDEN SALES ASSOCIATION, INC., is located at 251 Fifth Avenue, New York City, telephone number CAledonia 5-6282, and is a cosmetic firm. The directory further reveals S. B. LEAVIN as being connected with this firm and the subscriber to the same telephone number.

In view of the above, it is believed that the writer of the letter to TRACHTENBERG is SAMUEL LEAVIN, treasurer of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, as well as being identical with S. B. LEAVIN, of the HAMPDEN SALES ASSOCIATION. This conclusion is substantiated by a review of the material submitted by Confidential Informant NYT-3, which indicates several conferences between LEAVIN and TRACHTENBERG, as well as A. A. HELLER, concerning the purchase of a building.

Returning to the subject matter of the letter, the following observations and opinions are offered for the Bureau's assistance in analyzing this material.

It is noted that the writer apparently divided the context of the letter into three parts by drawing a short line between paragraphs when the general idea was changed. The verbatim copy of this letter has been prepared to reflect these divisions. The first division deals with personal matters.

The second section of the letter is concerned with the purchase of a building, financial problems and advertising. With regard to this, it is noted that the writer refers to the GEORGE SCHOOL. It is believed that this school is identical with the HENRY GEORGE SCHOOL, 30 East 29th Street, New York City. This assumption is borne out by information recently afforded the Bureau concerning the interest of TRACHTENBERG, et al, in the building located at 30-32 East 29th Street, New York City. In fact, it has also been ascertained that an offer of purchase has been tendered in connection with this property. The person mentioned as "TED" is probably THEODORE BAYER, secretary-treasurer of the Soviet RUSSIA TODAY PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC. It is possible that a publicity campaign is contemplated through the medium of SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY.

Director, FBI

October 30, 1943

It is interesting to note that the final decision in the culmination of the financial plans rests upon the approval of AMTORG, which is believed to refer to the AMTORG TRADING CORP.

The final portion of the letter appears to deal with plans for the congress of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, which is scheduled to be held in New York City on November 6, 7 and 8, 1943.

The individual referred to as "ED" is probably identical with EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the Council.

Additional information obtained from an informant concerning the proposed congress of the Council is being afforded the Bureau through an investigative report. Extra copies of this communication are being supplied to the Bureau in the event they are needed in files for which the normal number of copies would not suffice.

The Bureau will be kept informed concerning any additional developments relative to the institution of a school similar to the MARXIST INSTITUTE.

Very truly yours,

15, 1943, from JACK KLING, Educational Director of District 8 of the Communist Party. A copy of this letter is being made an enclosure to the Bureau. The letter called attention to the fact that November 7 marks the Twenty-sixth Anniversary of the Soviet Union. Very pertinent to this investigation, however, was the following two paragraphs which are quoted:

"We understand that the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, with the support of prominent Chicagoans, is preparing to celebrate these two important occasions. From a statement released by the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, we learn that they are developing the following activities during this week:

- 1) At the request of the Council, Mayor Kelly will proclaim the period of November 6th to 16th American-Soviet Friendship Anniversary.
- 2) The Council is staging a FRIENDSHIP ANNIVERSARY MEETING at ORCHESTRA HALL on the afternoon of SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7th, at which there will be speakers of national and local prominence, including representatives of the government and the Soviet embassy.
- 3) They are making a serious effort to obtain messages of friendship from outstanding Chicagoans as well as various organizations, labor groups, etc., etc. These messages undoubtedly will help strengthen the friendship spirit between the peoples of the Soviet Union and America.

"We feel that all of the undertakings of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship merit the support of all citizens. Therefore we urge full support to these undertakings, particularly to the Orchestra Hall meeting."

In addition to recommending that the activities of the Chicago Council in regard to these celebrations be supported, the letter went on to state that there would be certain independent activities undertaken by the party itself. It is noted that the three words, "Certain independent activities" was set out in capital letters in the Communist Party memorandum. A copy of this memorandum is being designated for the 1A Serial of instant file.

In a letter dated October 1, 1943, under the signature of WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director of subject organization, reference was made to the choice of seats for the celebration at Orchestra Hall and the letter urged that the occasion deserved a distinguished audience. A space in the letter which was directed to the sponsors was made for a block to use for making ticket reservations. This letter was received through Confidential Informant

This same informant made available a letter dated October 12, 1943 to all CIO Locals over the signature of WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director. This letter called the attention to the fact that November 6th to 16th was being proclaimed American-Soviet Friendship Anniversary. Two requests were made of the union locals in this letter. The first was a request that the local draft a message of friendly greeting to a labor union in the same industry in Soviet Russia. The letter advised that the council would transmit it to the proper union. It is further noted that it called attention of the union the fact that the two subjects which concern the people of the Soviet Union are the establishment of a "second front in Western Europe and the formation of a national labor unit organization". It went on to state that perhaps the locals would wish to mention something on these topics in the message.

The second request was that the locals "popularize and support our friendship anniversary meeting in Orchestra Hall the afternoon of Sunday November 7."

The letter went on to advise that the council still would supply the union locals with correspondence cards for individual members who wished to open up personal correspondence with someone in the Soviet Union.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that during the past several weeks leaders attached to the subject organization have worked to make the friendship anniversary meeting the success which, according to the Informant, it turned out to be.

b7D

Just prior to the meeting as held by the subject council, Confidential Informant [ ] furnished several handbills advertising the American-Soviet Friendship Anniversary. A copy of this handbill is also being forwarded to the Bureau as an enclosure and the remaining copies are to be designated for the 1A Serial of this file.

According to Confidential Informant [ ] Orchestra Hall, 216 South Michigan, where the affair was held, was sold out and he reported that several hundred people were unable to purchase seats. It was noted by Informants T-1 and T-2 that the hall was filled to capacity. According to [ ] three thousand people were present.

b7D

The following is the program as given at the Anniversary Celebration with the comments of the Informants.

Informant T-1 advised that the meeting was opened by the singing of the National Anthem. OLGA DUBINETZ led the singing which was followed by the singing of the Soviet Anthem.

Acting Chairman, Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that Chairman HARLAND H. ALLEN confined his remarks mostly to the reasons for holding the affair. In addition to this it was noted by Informants T-1 and T-2 that ALLEN stressed the fact that business after the war must be on the basis of friendship between America and Russia. As a businessman he felt that the development of this friendship would lead to a great many advantages so far as business on a general scale was concerned. He then introduced

b7D

CAPTAIN MARGARET STEWART
Women's Army Corps

It is noted by T-1 and T-2 that her remarks were mainly in the line of a recruiting talk regarding the need for more Wacs. Informant [ ] reported that in addition to this Captain STEWART paid Marshal JOSEPH STALIN and the Red Army a high tribute for the manner in which the USSR has been able to carry on and push back the Hitler and Italian Armies. He described her speech as being brief and fitting into the Friendship Anniversary Program.

b7D

REV. H. B. HAWKINS
President

Interdenominational Council of Negro Churches

T-1 revealed that this talk was devoted mostly to the racial minority problem. Significant was the fact that he gave "Stalin credit for being further ahead on the racial minority problem than the United States." He also stressed a negro friendship for the USSR due to the viewpoint concerning minority factions.

Informant [ ] reported that the introduction of this speaker was followed by rousing applause by the audience. He praised the USSR and Marshal STALIN and pledged the support of his race to do their bit in winning the war against the Axis Powers. He was applauded time and again and his remarks were all for the support of cooperation and friendship with Russia.

ANTON JOHANSEN, vice president
Chicago Federation of Labor

Informant [ ] reported that the introduction of this speaker was a signal for the audience to applaud and show their feeling for organized labor and its representative MR. JOHANNSEN, who according to this informant, has repeatedly appeared at affairs of this type. MR. JOHANNSEN, according to the informant, made his position clear. He said that he did not represent the Chicago Federation of Labor. He made one remark about organized labor in relation to the LaSalle Street Broker (referring to HARLAND H. ALLEN) and also injected a remark concerning the "Reds." The audience applauded this remark with great vigor.

In addition to this information it was noted by the Informant, T-1 and T-2 that the rest of his speech was in recognition of the present relations between the USSR and the United States and praise for President ROOSEVELT for accomplishing this. It was also noted by T-1 that during the course of this talk, JOHANNSEN made the analogy concerning the fact that STALIN had hired American and other foreign engineers to help build the USSR and went on with the remark that certain people had accused the president of the United States of hiring Communists within the Government. He then stated that he could see where it made very little difference if the president hired people who could properly handle the job whether or not they were Communists.

ALBERT E. GLENN, Vice President
Illinois State Industrial Union Council

[ ] reported that GLENN paid tribute to JOHANNSEN for his comments regarding President ROOSEVELT and the recognition of the USSR ten years ago. He pointed out that JOHANNSEN had repeatedly over the years preferred unpopularity in order to take a stand for the betterment of American-Soviet Friendship. He advised that he had just returned from the CIO National Convention where the CIO had started a movement toward unity of labor between the nations as the next step to world peace and postwar work. b7D

DR. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director,
Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship

T-1 advised that CARD told of the plans of the organization to continue its work and reiterated the fact that the purpose was to disseminate factual information about Russia. He told of the moving pictures and books which were available through the council and solicited visits to the office by anyone in the audience for the presentation of helpful ideas. He said he believed that most of the audience realized that it was a "fact" that most of the information which had reached the United States in the past years concerning the USSR was false.

According to [ ] DR. CARD is a very outstanding exponent of the USSR and its socialist form of Government. Inasmuch as this report is designed mostly to cover this meeting and due to the fact that a summary of CARD'S b7D activities was previously set forth, it is not being repeated at this time.

DEAN CHARLES W. ~~GILKEY~~
University of Chicago Chapel

[ ] advised that this man was a well-known figure in Communist Party affairs. He made the collection appeal following an explanation of the religious status of the USSR. b7D

According to T-1 the main theme of his talk was to throw the proper light on religious conditions as they are at present in Russia, giving both the good and bad points. The collections efforts which were made following GILKEY'S speech netted $1,005, not counting the collection which was passed through the audience at this time.

AUSTIN L. WYMAN, Chairman
Chicago Committee of Russian War Relief Incorporated

It was noted that both T-1, T-2 and [ ] reported that this speaker confined his talk to a request for the support of the audience in the coming drive beginning November 8 to obtain two million pieces of clothing for Russian War Relief. b7D

COLONEL FEODORE I. BELOV, Representative
Embassy of the USSR

According to a clipping from the Chicago Sun, dated November 8, the Russian Colonel predicted continued United States-Soviet Friendship. This paper advised that COLONEL BELOV was the director of the radio electric department of the Soviet Purchasing Commission in Washington, D. C. He applauded the success of the recent council in Moscow and according to the Sun "scotched any hint of a separate peace with Germany." This clipping is being retained in the 1A Serial of this file. A picture of COLONEL BELOV, together with representative A. B. SABATH, United States Congressman, which was taken from the Chicago Times November 8, 1943, is being placed in the 1A Serial of this file.

According to T-1, T-2, and [ ], COLONEL BELOV responded to the introduction and applause. Here it is noted that the audience stood and applauded in honor of the distinguished guest. b7D

HONORABLE ADOLPH J. ~~SABATH~~
Congressman of the United States

According to the report of T-1, aside from paying great tribute to Marshal STALIN, the speech was mostly a story of how the congressman had always fought Facist forces in this country and outlined his standing over a period of years.

According to [redacted], MR. SABATH is well known for his Socialistic way of life and is definitely 100 per cent for the USSR and Marshal STALIN. He touched on the wide discrepancy of reports on the subject of religious prosecution and of the intentions to Communize America and the whole European continent. He pointed out, according to the informant, that the Russian policies now demonstrated toward the world showed that there is not a "shred of truth to be found in these charges."

b7D

According to the Chicago Times of November 8, 1943, Representative SABATH urged that the "unity of the Russian People today is an example to be followed by other nations."

The Chicago Tribune of November 8, 1943, reported that Representative A. J. SABATH had stated that "no government enjoys the whole-hearted support of its people as does the Russian Government." It reported that he also stated, "I wish to God we had the unity the Russians enjoy." According to the Tribune, SABATH last June 4 won front page publicity in the Communist newspapers when he praised that publication with the words, "It is my candid opinion that they, the Daily Worker and the Worker, have rendered valuable service to the country in urging harmony and united action."

According to the Tribune, demands by other speakers for an immediate second front in Europe brought cheers from the audience. This was also reported by [redacted] and Informants T-1 and T-2.

b7D

All clippings which have been quoted are being placed in the 1A Serial of this file in the Chicago Office.

The other events which were listed on the program, a copy of which is being made an enclosure for the Bureau, were in the line of entertainment and it is not believed pertinent to this report. It is noted, however, that NINA FEROVA who sang Russian songs is presently on the cast of "The Waltz King," which was written and directed by BORIS MORROS.

Informant T-1 delivered to this office a copy of the pamphlet "America and Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT. This is published by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, New York, and was distributed with the programs. It is being made an enclosure for the Bureau.

Informant T-1 also purchased a copy of the pamphlet "Soviet Russia Today." The address of this magazine is 114 East 32nd Street, New York, New York. This is being made an enclosure to the bureau.

Chicago File 100-3810

In addition it was noted that at the close of the program the pamphlets advertising the Abraham Lincoln School, a Communist Front Organization, were passed out. This pamphlet is being designated for the proper file.

WHAT ABOUT SOVIET TRADE UNIONS?

We commend the enclosed pamphlet "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union" to your attention. In it are answers to questions which many American trade unionists have asked. The answers are based on authentic sources and are the results of careful research. They cover such matters as the following:

QUESTION: Are the Soviet trade unions free organizations or creatures of the state?

The Soviet trade unions have officers democratically elected by the workers who can be recalled if the membership is dissatisfied with their performance.

They have locals, central bodies, regional and national organizations.

They operate under constitutions.

They hold conventions.

They pay dues.

They have extensive rank-and-file participation in their numerous activities and committees.

QUESTION: Do the Soviet trade unions bargain collectively?

They do. They have contracts with management.

They have grievance committees and grievance procedures.

QUESTION: Do they as trade unions through their democratically elected representatives discharge any functions which in other countries are handled by government?

Yes. Since 1933, when the Department of Labor was abolished, they administer the U.S.S.R.'s vast program of social insurance.

They appoint inspectors who enforce safety and health regulations.

They have specific responsibilities in respect to rent control and retail prices.

QUESTION: What about the Soviet trade unions contribution to the war?

Like American trade unions, they buy bonds, donate blood, grow victory gardens and perform numerous other patriotic services.

They constantly strive, in peace as well as in war, to increase production through labor-management committees. They do this primarily to defeat the enemy in war time, and in peace time in order to raise their own standard of living and that of the people as a whole.

These are generalized answers to important questions. Detailed answers are to be found in the pamphlet "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union", published by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. You will find in this pamphlet an index which will enable you to look readily for answers to particular questions.

THE ANGLO-SOVIET TRADE UNION COMMITTEE PUBLICATION FILE

What is the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee?

It is a committee consisting of representatives of the British Trades Union Congress, headed by Sir Walter Citrine, and the All-Union Council of Soviet Trade Unions, headed by Nikolai Shvernik, which was formed in October, 1941, for the purpose of establishing closer cooperation between the workers of both countries.

The Committee was formed as the result of a resolution adopted by the British Trades Union Congress in September, 1941, calling for its establishment. The Soviet trade unions accepted the invitation that same month.

How often has the Committee met, and where has it met?

The Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee held its first meeting in October, 1941, in Moscow. It has since then met in London, in January, 1942, and in Moscow again in July of this year.

What has the Committee accomplished?

At the time of the London meeting in January, 1942, a Soviet delegation of 13 trade unionists visited 60 factories, mines, shipyards, etc., and addressed many meetings, giving their experiences in war production and asking for close cooperation between British, Soviet and other United Nations' workers in the interests of speedy victory.

At this meeting of the Committee the idea of exchange of production experiences took concrete form and the committee proved itself to be very effective in increasing production in both countries.

Upon return to the Soviet Union, the Soviet delegates addressed meetings of Soviet workers organized by Soviet trade unions, at which their reports of the London visit were enthusiastically received.

At the time of the third meeting of the Committee in Moscow in July of this year, a British delegation toured Soviet plants, and Sir Walter Citrine, completing a five-weeks tour of war plants in the Soviet Union, said: "We saw everything we wanted and were met everywhere with the utmost friendliness and utter lack of reserve. We were surprised at the uniformly high standards; at one place I saw the most highly mechanized shell factory I had ever seen. We saw 3,000 heavy machines which were evacuated from Moscow in 1941 and were told that 28 days after their evacuation production was in full swing. The delegation found that the working day consisted of 11 hours, 8 in the ordinary shift and 3 overtime, the latter at time and a half pay."

Writing in the Soviet trade union paper in the same month, Citrine said: "As the hour of victory draws near, British trade unionists want to achieve fullest collaboration between Britain, the Soviet Union and the U.S.A. to build the foundations for lasting peace. The British workers want the Soviet people to have peace and security in which to develop to the fullest extent the vast resources of their great land."

Has the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee invited American labor's participation?

Yes. At its meeting in London in 1942 the Committee voted to invite the AFL to affiliate. This invitation was taken over personally by Citrine in May, 1942, but was not accepted by the AFL Executive Council, which suggested instead the formation of an Anglo-American (TUC-AFL) Committee, the British members of which would act as liaison between the AFL and Soviet trade unions. This proposal was accepted by the TUC, but rejected by the Soviet trade unions.

At the July, 1943 meeting of the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee, the Soviet representatives proposed that the committee be extended "to include the trade unions of North and South America and of all countries fighting with the United Nations against Hitler Germany." This extension, they said, "would not only assist and strengthen the war effort of the United Nations but would also render more active assistance to the people in the enslaved countries in their struggles against the fascist tyranny."

This proposal was rejected by Sir Walter Citrine on behalf of the General Council of the TUC.

What labor movements have gone on record supporting United Nations trade union collaboration?

The Australian Trades Union Congress, with 1,000,000 members, representing 1/7 of Australia's population; the Confederation of Latin-American Workers (CTAL), representing 4½ million members; the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, representing a quarter million AFL workers; the Canadian Congress of Labor (CIO and national unions); the Congress of Industrial Organizations of the United States; leaders of the Railroad Brotherhoods in the United States - have all gone on record for international trade union cooperation, to include the labor movements of all the United Nations.

November 7th marks the 26th Anniversary of the Soviet Union. November 16th marks ten years of American Soviet friendship. These are, of course, two very important occasions for the people of our country. It is needless to speak to you about the importance of the struggle that is taking place now on the Eastern Front, or the need of strengthening the friendship between the American and Soviet people in this crucial period.

We understand that the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, with the support of prominent Chicagoans, is preparing to celebrate these two important occasions. From a statement released by the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, we learn that they are developing the following activities during this week: 1) At the request of the Council, Mayor Kelly will proclaim the period of November 6th to 16th American-Soviet Friendship Anniversary. 2) The Council is staging a FRIENDSHIP ANNIVERSARY MEETING at ORCHESTRA HALL on the afternoon of SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7th, at which there will be speakers of national and local prominence, including representatives of the government and the Soviet embassy. 3) They are making a serious effort to obtain messages of friendship from outstanding Chicagoans as well as various organizations, labor groups, etc., etc. These messages undoubtedly will help strengthen the friendship spirit between the peoples of the Soviet Union and America.

We feel that all of the undertakings of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship merit the support of all citizens. Therefore we urge full support to these undertakings, particularly to the Orchestra Hall meeting.

Our PARTY can propose to undertake CERTAIN INDEPENDENT ACTIVITIES on this very important occasion. On November 3rd we are going to have a meeting which will be addressed by Comrade Childs. The meeting will be on WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 3rd, at the HAMILTON HOTEL. We feel that this meeting should receive full support, and we want to make a particular effort to get all of the active forces in the party branches to this meeting. Comrade CHILDS will deal in a very fundamental manner on the HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION and we feel sure that the meeting will be of tremendous educational value to all of the active forces. We particularly want to invite, in addition to the members of your executive committee and other functionaries, active trade unionists to this meeting.

We also propose that during this month all of our BRANCHES ARRANGE SPECIAL OPEN MEETINGS where we can have serious discussion on the occasion of the 26th Anniversary of the Russian Revolution as well as ten years of American-Soviet friendship. Wherever necessary, we will be willing to supply the speaker for such a meeting. We hope that you will make preparations for this.

There is going to be out a NEW PAMPHLET BY COMRADE MINOR on this important occasion which should receive widespread support. Feeling sure that you will give all of these matters your serious consideration, I remain,

Comradely yours,

Jack Kling

Ten years ago this November

under the wise guidance of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the United States of America established diplomatic relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Today our two countries are engaged with the other United Nations in a great peoples' war, on whose outcome the whole future of humanity depends.

The cooperation entered into ten years ago between the two nations was demanded by our deep-rooted common interests and has brought mutual advantages. Today, ripened into a fighting alliance, that cooperation has become the keystone of victory itself.

The aggressor nations have always known that the greatest threat to their plans for world domination lay in complete unity among the democracies. As their military power grows weaker, they increase their efforts to divide the United Nations, staking everything on prolonging the war and winning a negotiated peace. The recent outpouring of anti-Soviet propaganda is the work of our enemies and represents the greatest single danger to our early victory.

Only through full collaboration for victory, followed by full collaboration for peace, can mankind's long struggle for freedom be transferred from the realm of war and bloodshed to that of peaceful construction; only thus can the great goal of a life of security and abundance for the common man be realized. In cementing American-Soviet friendship we help to set the keystone for the abiding friendship of all free peoples.

We call upon the people of Chicago and their organizations to celebrate the period November 6 to 16 as AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP ANNIVERSARY

The Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship calls upon all Chicago to open the ten-day celebration of American-Soviet Friendship Anniversary with a rousing meeting at Orchestra Hall on Sunday afternoon at 2:30, November 7.

Dear Friend:

You will find in this envelope material which we feel sure will interest you.

The purpose of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is one which every patriotic American will approve -- to increase friendship and understanding of Soviet Russia so that our two countries, in company with the other United Nations, can move forward to speedy victory over Hitler and the establishment of enduring peace.

There is included in this envelope a copy of the Call to the Congress in New York City, November 6-8, which will commemorate the Tenth Anniversary of diplomatic relations between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. We hope that those of you who can will find opportunity to attend.

We wish you all success in your Convention deliberations.

Sincerely yours,

232 MADISON AVENUE

NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

TO THE DELEGATES AND OFFICERS AT THE 63rd ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

Greetings and Good Wishes:

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship presents you with this folder in the hope that its contents will contribute to greater understanding of the Soviet Union.

President William Green speaking at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship in New York City, November 8, 1942, said:

"We salute the matchless and unconquerable men and women of Russia who are fighting in defense of their homeland and fighting, at the same time, in defense of the free people of the entire world. Their victory is our victory and, by the same token, every victory for the United Nations is a victory for Russia. We are inseparable in a common cause, fighting and dying together for the destruction of tyranny and the triumph of freedom, liberty and justice."

CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.S.R.

The cornerstone of Soviet life

Today we fight side by side with the Soviet Union to destroy fascism. Tomorrow we shall work side by side to build peace. In celebration of the ten years of American-Soviet diplomatic relations (Nov. 1933-Nov. 1943), the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has published a special edition of the Constitution of the U.S.S.R.—Now available in a special edition at only 10c.

The Constitution of the U.S.S.R. is your first-hand source of answers to these vital questions. Read it, so that you may know your 180,000,000 Soviet allies better. Through mutual understanding our joint efforts will surely yield the fruits of victory. Get your copy today!

Here is the blueprint and guidepost for the Soviet way of life. It answers questions many Americans are asking:

- How is democracy guaranteed to Soviet citizens?
- Can the Soviet citizen own and inherit personal property? Does he enjoy freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, the right to worship as he chooses?
- Does the Soviet worker have the right to join a trade union?

REFERENCE: Report of Special Agent GALE FRANK LINDSEY, dated 7-7-43 at New York.

DETAILS: The identities of all confidential informants mentioned in this report are known to the Bureau.

As set forth elsewhere in this report, the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship was formerly known as the Chicago Society of American-Soviet Relations. In view of this, reference is made during the report to both the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship and the Chicago Society of American-Soviet Relations. The initials CCASF and CSASR represent in each instance the name by which the organization was currently designated.

AT CHICAGO, ILLINOIS:

FORMATION AND AIMS; AFFILIATION WITH NATIONAL COUNCIL

Confidential informant [REDACTED] on February 5, 1943 advised that MORRIS CHILDS, Secretary of the Communist Party, District #8, had in a conversation with a Dr. RICHTER, discussed a new organization under the sponsorship of Mrs. HENRIETTA MOORE, who is Secretary of the National Committee, Russian War Relief, Inc., New York City. She is attempting to form a Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations.

CHILDS admitted he knew nothing about the aims or purposes of the Society, but indicated that he had urged Dr. RICHTER to attend organization meetings in an attempt to ascertain the exact nature of the organization.

On March 9, 1943 confidential informant [ ] reported that the Committee b7D for the Defense of HARRY BRIDGES met at the offices of the Longshoremen's Union, 166 West Jackson Blvd. ABE FEINGLIASS reported that MORRIS CHILDS, Secretary of District 8 of the Party, had given orders to rejuvenate the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations, which Professor SAMUEL N. HARPER had founded. Informant concluded that since the death of Professor HARPER it had been inactive.

Confidential informant [ ] on March 19, 1943 learned from C. H. COYLE b7D that a luncheon was being planned under the sponsorship of the Chicago Committee for American-Soviet Relations, at which a donation would be taken for the School. It was planned to invite financially able persons to give donations of $10 each.

On May 22, 1943 confidential informant [ ] learned that LUCILLE SHARER b7D at that time Executive Director of the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations, had told JOE VAN NORDSTRAND that she was having organizational trouble in connection with the CSASR.

The following information was received by reporting Agent from confidential informants T-1, T-2 and T-3:

These informants advised that they had been able to ascertain that a man named ALFRED F. REUBEN had made the rental arrangements for Room 1120 of the Field Bldg., 135 S. LaSalle, where the organization is presently located. These rental arrangements were first made in December of 1942, and they extended to January 1, 1943. A lease was executed in his name from January 1, 1943 to January 31, 1943. The final arrangements were made on February 1, 1943, on a permanent basis, with a lease extending to January 31, 1944. This lease was executed by the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations, and signed by C. H. COYLE, Treasurer. The lease is for $1500 a year or $125 per month.

Informant T-3 made available a copy of a communication regarding the original rental arrangements which was directed to the Field Bldg. by ALFRED F. REUBEN. This letter, copies of which have been photostated and are presently on file in the 1-A section of this file, were written on a letterhead entitled "All-Chicago Committee for Salute to Our Russian Ally." The names of SAMUEL N. HARPER, Chairman, ALFRED F. REUBEN, Treasurer, and EDWARD E. CLARK, Secretary, also appeared on this letterhead. Excerpts from this letter are as follows:

"The purpose of the permanent organization will be the furtherance of cultural relations with our Russian allies by establishing a clearing point of information of the latest developments in science, medicine, literature, art and music in the United States and Russia.

"It will make available to accredited universities and other educational institutions, facts and data about Russian affairs which may be of interest to the people of the middle-west.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Chicago file No. 100-3810

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"The organization will be non-sectarian and non-political, and its sponsorship will include leading business and professional people."

It is noted that previous reports advised that SAMUEL N. HARPER was the founder of the Chicago Society for American Soviet Relations. It would appear that the All-Chicago Committee was a forerunner of this Society.

An un-dated communication to the sponsors of the CSASR was obtained by informant [ ] and is set forth as follows:

b7D

"The Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations was projected by the late Professor SAMUEL N. HARPER late last year for the purpose of broadening the bond of friendship between America and Soviet Russia by the broadest possible exchange of information about the culture, science, medical research, industrial production and business relations of the two countries. The benefits to both countries resulting from such exchange can be very important both for winning the war and establishing a lasting peace.

"The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was established about the same time as the Chicago Society with similar aims and purposes. Among the sponsors of the National Council are Hon. HAROLD L. ICKES, Hon. JOSEPH E. DAVIES, Sen. CLAUDE D. PEPPER, CORLISS LAMONT, Dr. ALES HRDLICKA, CHARLES CHAPLIN, and JOSEPH CURRAN. The National Council is prepared to render important services to affiliated organizations such as speakers of national note, films, the American-Soviet War Exhibit, and other educational projects.

"The Chicago Society recently voted to affiliate with the National Council and change its name to that of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, with the understanding that our local council retains full autonomy of action. The educational aims of the new Chicago Council will remain the same as the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations.

"We trust that you will continue to lend your name as a sponsor, and for convenience we shall assume this unless we are advised to the contrary.

"A growing number of significant activities sponsored by the Chicago Council will be described in a forthcoming bulletin."

This letter was signed by LUCILLE SHARER as Executive Director. This letter also listed several of the sponsors of the organization. This information will be set forth in the report.

b7D

Informant [ ] further obtained a letter dated June 10, 1943, which emphasized the fact that Russia had become a power and that American people must understand and prepare to do business with Russia. After stressing the importance of Russia, concerning its relation to the rest of the world, this letter requested a check of $100 to $5 to cover the cost of a publication which was to be published on June 22nd in the Chicago newspapers. This letter was written on the letterhead of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship and listed a partial sponsor list.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Chicago file No. 100-3810

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

This same informant later produced a letter dated August 4, 1943 addressed to "Dear Sponsor of American-Soviet Friendship:" which called the attention of the sponsors to the editorial policy of the Reader's Digest and described it as being increasingly hostile to American-Soviet Friendship. It severely criticized the recent article by MAX EASTMAN and accused him of being a Trotskyite.

It also pointed out two other articles published by the Reader's Digest which were harmful to American-Soviet Relations.

[ ] furnished a letter dated July 21, 1943 addressed to "All Locals affiliated to the Chicago Industrial Union Council:" This letter advised that at the last meeting of the Council the Executive Board had approved the endorsement of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship and granted a request to mail certain material. This material was also furnished to this Field Office and it consisted of an appeal which sent for correspondence requesting the local to correspond with a worker in Russia or a Red Army soldier by using the enclosed card.

b7D

Also enclosed was a folder describing moving pictures about Russia which would be made available through the CSASR for the educational committees of the various unions. It requested the desire that the unions use the services of this organization in supplying movies and speakers and information about Soviet Russia whenever needed.

All the previously mentioned exhibits are being placed in the 1-A file of the related file.

In the previously mentioned letters it was also noted that the Chicago Society had recently voted to affiliate with the National Council and change its name to that of the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship. It was to be understood, however, that the Local council retain full autonomy of action. The educational aims of the new council were to remain the same as the CSASR.

ACTIVITIES:

Informant [ ] furnished a notice of a meeting where Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, the National Secretary of the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations, was to speak on "Tunisia and Kharkov: Their Relation to Victory." This was held on Friday March 26 at 8:00 p.m. at the Hotel Hamilton, 20 South Dearborn. Dr. BENJAMIN MILLER of the University of Chicago was chairman.

b7D

Informants T-1, T-2 and T-3 advised that on August 13, 1943 a speaker named Dr. V. V. LEBEDENKO, who was the Russian Red Cross representative in America, and outstanding in medical circles in Russia, was to speak on "Medicine and Surgery at the Russian Front." CCASF made arrangements to hold this in Room 1554 of the Field Building, 120 West Adams St.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Chicago file No. 100-3810

A copy of this announcement was also furnished to this office by informant [ ]

b7D

It was noted in the August 14th issue of the Chicago Sun that the Dr. LEBEDENKO, mentioned above, was welcomed to Chicago by Judge JOHN GUTKNECHT, representing Mayor KELLY and a delegation of Russian War Relief officials.

On March 20, 1943 informant [ ] reported that on Saturday, March 27th, there was to be a meeting for the CSASR in the Balta Bar Room of the Hotel Sherman. This meeting was to be a luncheon in honor of Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, the man who revamped this organization.

Informant went on to advise this group had been dead for some time. He also stated that it is a Communist Party front and that HARRIS is secretary of the National Council for American Soviet Friendship.

Informant [ ] advised that on May 12, 1943 LUCILLE SHARER, Executive Director of the CCASR, had advised WILLIAM PATTERSON of the Abraham Lincoln School that Dr. M. B. SHERMAN would be in town on the next Monday and Tuesday. He has been in the Soviet Union at various times and has a movie taken on his trips. He gives talks to the public and charges no fees on the subjects of science or other subjects.

b7D

Informant [ ] as of June 27, 1943 had on record an open letter to the American people on "American Soviet Friendship." This informant also advised that in a summary of the outstanding excerpts in the Daily Worker of May 18, 1943, this letter states that it is vigorously protesting the current wave of anti-Soviet slanders and calling for a complete national unity to win the war. This informant advised that seven hundred leading citizens signed the letter. The letter went on to say: "Indirect proportion to the mounting Soviet success and the possibilities of a general allied offensive leading to early victory, the anti-Soviet forces have increased their devisive activities."

b7D

"They include all those elements whose hatred of Soviet Russia is greater than their hatred of Fascists. These circles are willing to prolong the war indefinitely even to risk our own ultimate defeat, in the hope that HITLER will bleed to death the union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"Since the declared policy of our government is that 'the defense of the Soviet Union is vital to the defense of the United States,' this anti-Soviet movement is also an anti-American movement threatening our national safety and the successful conduct of the war."

Among the signers the following names were noted: Professors GEORGE E. AXTELL, E. H. G. MERRIAM, J. J. ZMRAHL, ROBERT C. TRAVIS, and A. D. WINDSPEAR.

Chicago file No. 100-3810

Informant [ ] on August 24, 1943 advised that JOHN SCHMIES, a Communist Party organizer, was at the office of subject organization on August 21, 1943. b7D

Informant [ ] on September 8, 1943 advised that WILLIAM PATTERSON had contacted WILLIAM CARD, the Executive Director of the CCASF, requesting a promise for helping to obtain a job for a woman who had just come in from New York. b7D

The following are the results of a mail cover extending from August 13, 1943 to September 13, 1943, on the mail of the CCASF, 135 South LaSalle. The following communications were received by this organization from the following parties: (U)

OFFICERS, ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS:

HARLAND H. ALLEN, Acting Chairman.

~~1~~ Bureau informant [ ] described ALLEN as a LaSalle Street businessman and a person well-known for his contribution to various progressive organizations and a free speaker at Communist affairs. He was leading supporter of an almost unanimous movement to continue the Union for Democratic Action at a meeting held at the Mullenbach Institute, 1613 West Washington Blvd., on May 29, 1943. b7D

On June 12, 1943 he was head of a committee conducting "City Affairs" discussion at a meeting for the Union for Democratic Action. His theme was the installation of a workable labor program with a Democratic form of government.

Dr. BENJAMIN MILLER, M. D., Vice Chairman.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
Dr. BENJAMIN MILLER is Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Chicago. He was listed by [ ] on January 15, 1942 as a sponsor of the Chicago Committee of Russian War Relief, Inc. This was verified by [ ] in May, 1942. Other information furnished by this informant indicates that he is still on the Executive Board of the Central Committee of Russian War Relief, Inc. and has been actively participating in their functions. b7D

J. J. ZMRAHL, Vice Chairman.

Bureau informant [ ] on May 29, 1943 advised that ZMRAHL attended the meeting of the Union for Democratic Action which was also attended by HARLAND ALLEN as set forth previously. This informant, on June 12, 1943, advised that ZMRAHL b7D was a speaker at the Ukrainian Cultural Club, located at the Ukrainian Labor Home, 2457 West Chicago Avenue, under the auspices of the Young Communist League. He is an honorary member of the Committee of American Slav Congress, member of the Citizen's Sponsoring Committee, and of the Executive Board of the Union for Democratic Action. According to this informant, he was also a guest speaker and lecturer of the Abraham Lincoln School.

At the above-mentioned meeting he gave what the informant described as a patriotic talk, endorsing the program of the Worker and the Daily Worker, and the Abraham Lincoln School, as necessary to give the working man a good working knowledge of political events.

FULLERTON FULTON, Vice Chairman.

FULTON is the Secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union Council, CIO. He is a regional director of the CIO. His name appeared in the Chicago Sun on July 31, 1942 as an endorser of "Second Front Policy" sponsored by the Chicago Industrial Union Council, CIO. Informant [ ] advised on December 15, 1942 that he was a guest speaker at TOM MOONEY Memorial with GURLIE FLYNN and again with MORRIS CHILDS, Secretary of District #8 of the Communist Party at a Communist Party affair. He was reported by [ ] to be a fellow traveler of the Communist Party. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

b7D

CHARLES H. COYLE, Treasurer.

Informants of this office have advised that CHARLES H. COYLE is one of the principal financial backers of the Abraham Lincoln School, 30 West Washington St. He is engaged in the lumber business in Berwyn, Illinois, and reportedly of considerable means.

Informant T-4 advised that he had heard from COYLE's neighbors that he has often expressed his sympathy for Communist ideals. He has received reliable information that he has had Communistic meetings in his house and in his yard. The Daily Worker has been sold and Communistic subjects discussed at these meetings.

Informant T-5 advised that in February of 1943 COYLE had been appointed coordinator of Civilian Defense by the city of Berwyn, Illinois.

The Oklahoma City Field Office furnished from a highly confidential source a letter indicating that COYLE had mailed a check for $25 to ALAN SHAW, the State Secretary of the Communist Party in Oklahoma.

WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director.

Dr. WILLIAM MARTIN CARD is a member of the faculty of the Chicago City Teachers College and is president of the Chicago College Teachers Local of the

He is presently teaching one of the main courses at the Abraham Lincoln School, which is reported to be a Communist front organization. He was discharged from the faculty of the University of Wisconsin due to participation in Communist activities some years ago.

LUCILLE SHARER, formerly Executive Director of the CCASR.

Informant [ ] advised on May 12, 1943 that LUCILLE SHARER was listed in a handbill as a sponsor of the National Negro Congress from the State of Illinois. ENA LUCILLE SHARER, 239 Elm St., Elmhurst, Ill., was reported by [ ] to have been included in a list of students at the summer session of the First Moscow University (Anglo-American Section) in 1935. b7D

On June 1, 1943 and June 9, 1943 informant [ ] reported that LUCILLE SHARER contacted the Modern Book Store, requesting information regarding the books that she had ordered for a meeting which was to be held on June 22, 1943. It is noted in recent weeks that there has been no mention of LUCILLE SHARER from any of the informants reporting concerning subject organization. She is presently reported to be working on the Daily Worker Campaign. (u)

RE: ROY BANNERMAN HUDSON
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Dear Sir:

During the past week some information of value was supplied by Confidential Informant NYT-22.

On November 11 this informant advised that ROY HUDSON talked with EDWIN S. SMITH of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, at which time they arranged a meeting at SMITH's place at five o'clock that day. HUDSON stated that the meeting was arranged so that SMITH could meet the fellow whom he had been asking to meet. HUDSON also suggested to SMITH that he plan a meeting of the Labor Advisory Committee before he saw HUDSON again on Friday.

In view of the type of information being furnished by Confidential Informant NYT-22 it is suggested that his services be continued.

REPORT MADE AT NEW YORK, N. Y.	DATE WHEN MADE NOV 19 1943	PERIOD FOR WHICH MADE 11/4-10/43	REPORT MADE BY PETER J. CATTANEO
TITLE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.			CHARACTER OF CASE INTERNAL SECURITY - C ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED DATE 9/18/80 BY 3684
SYNOPSIS OF FACTS: Second American-Soviet Friendship Congress sponsored by N.C.A.S.F. held at Hotel New Yorker and Madison Square Garden 11/6,7,8/43. General theme of Congress stressed greater US-USSR cooperation and praise of Soviet accomplishments in all fields. Communist officials, leaders and sympathizers prominent in promotion and activity of Congress. Communist Party National Committee members ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and ROY HUDSON, MAX BEDACHT, General Secretary I.V.O. THEODORE BAYER and JESSICA SMITH of "Soviet Russia Today" and other significant figures in attendance at various panels. Almost 2000 organization and trade union delegates and individuals registered for Congress sessions which included luncheon addressed by NYC Mayor LAGUARDIA, Sir HUBERT WILKINS, who forecast day when USSR would tower above US, EDGAR SNOW, DOROTHY THOMPSON, and others. Panels attended by 500 to 1000 persons, dealt with Soviet women and child care, education, nationalities, science, medicine and trade unions, with emphasis on Soviet achievements by prominent authorities, who urged emulation of Soviet example. Several negro speakers added emphasis to remarks of others who praised racial equality in USSR. Among speakers at trade union panel were NMU's JOSEPH CURRAN, PHILIP VAN GELDER of I.U.M.S.W.A. and T.W.U. MICHAEL J. QUILL, who called for second front. Nationalities Panel heard JOSEPH SALERNO, President, Mass. CIO, who called for People's Republic in Italy, Dr. FELIX BOENHEIM, who voiced need for reorganization of Germany by Germans, LOUIS ADAMIC, who recommended confederation of Balkan countries through social revolution, and others. Resolutions adopted by Congress panels endorsed work of N.C.A.S.F. and called for its establishment of several committees to disseminate information and combat "mis-information" about USSR, to exchange with similar Soviet groups scientific data, students and teachers, and to foster international trade unity. Large quantities of literature published by N.C.A.S.F., International Publishers and similar groups on sale at all sessions. Congress closed on third night with mass rally attended by approximately 20,000 and addressed by DONALD M. NELSON, ANDREI A. GROMYKO, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, CLAUDE D. PEPPER, ORSON WELLES, PAUL ROBESON.

DETAILS:

AT NEW YORK CITY

PRE-CONGRESS ACTIVITY

During the period preceding the Congress, numerous reports were received from confidential informants indicating the active interests of various persons identified with the Communist Party movement in the promotion of the second American-Soviet Congress as planned by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. For example, on October 25, 1943, Informant T-1 reported a conference that had taken place on that day between ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and an unidentified man concerning details of the mass meeting held in conjunction with the Congress. TRACHTENBERG was advised that THOMAS had been secured (probably referring to R. J. THOMAS, President of the United Automobile Workers of America), which news elicited his approval and the statement that GREEN (believed to be WILLIAM GREEN, President of the A.F. of L) would have to be discussed. TRACHTENBERG, according to this informant, stated that he wanted JOHN D (believed to be JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR. since his name conjured international significance. He was advised that SCHLEIGH (phonetic) could be secured if necessary and was told that SCHLEIGH is the President of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce and also a Vice-President of Chase (National Bank). The man unidentified by the informant then told TRACHTENBERG that he would furnish him with a list of the publicity scheme whereupon TRACHTENBERG said that he would check on the main thing, a new panel and related matters. (S)(C)(U)

On October 26, 1943 this same informant reported that TRACHTENBERG had spoken with MAX YERGAN, well known for his pro-Communist activities, and suggested that someone (probably referring to PAUL ROBESON) be secured to appear as a preliminary attraction at the mass meeting. TRACHTENBERG told YERGAN that Senator PEPPER and some Supreme Court Justices would be present at the meeting which would be attended by a tremendous crowd. (S)(C)(U)

Informant T-1 reported that later on the same day TRACHTENBERG and

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

THEODORE BAYER, Manager of the magazine "Soviet Russia Today", had talked about the failure to secure a Justice for the meeting and the probabilities of securing another one, provided he could serve the purpose. (S)(C)(U)

Informant T-2 reported that on October 30, 1943 ANDY PROSTEN of the N.C.A.S.F. Office had conferred with MAE ZIMMERMAN, Secretary to GIL GREEN, National Committee member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., on the subject of a letter from AL LANNON received by Miss ZIMMERMAN referring to the week of November 14th having been declared American-Soviet Friendship Week by the Mayor of Baltimore, and the activities that had been planned for that period. The AL LANNON referred to is the Communist Party leader at Baltimore, Maryland, who, in his letter, reported his efforts to organize a body of trade union delegates in the Maryland-Washington area to be sent to the American-Soviet Congress and his favorable results in this direction. However, the informant explained that according to LANNON'S letter, difficulty was being experienced in securing the cooperation of the A.F. of L. locals since many of them had not received a "call" to the Congress. In an effort to expedite the matter, it was agreed by Miss PROSTEN and Miss ZIMMERMAN that the former would ship a bundle of "calls" (printed Congress announcements) to LANNON'S home address, 453 South Hornell Street, Baltimore, 24, Maryland. (S)(C)(U)

Informant T-3 reported that on November 1, 1943 GRETTEL SPIRO had conferred with several employees and officials of the National Maritime Union. The subject of the conference, which besides Miss SPIRO included JOE STACK, ANNE KASALOFF, BELLE FORMAN and LOUIS OGULL, the NMU Assistant Public Relations Director, was the number of NMU delegates to be sent to the American-Soviet Friendship Congress from outside New York City and which cities would be represented. Miss SPIRO also requested of Mr. OGULL that he make arrangements to secure a seaman who had been torpedoed on his way to or from Murmansk who could take part in a ceremony planned for the trade union panel of the Congress. Miss SPIRO asked that the individual selected wear his working clothes and "torpedoed button", for the ceremony, which would involve presentation of a certificate which the seaman in turn would present to the National Maritime Union. (S)(U)

Informant T-3 related that OGULL cooperated with Miss SPIRO in this matter and worked out the minor details of this arrangement. (S)(U)

This same informant also advised that on the same day GERTRUDE ROBBINS, another employee of the N.C.A.S.F. Office had conferred with ALICE BARRETT of the National Maritime Union Office in New York City. Miss BARRETT made arrangements with Miss ROBBINS to secure a quantity of the "beautiful" calls (Congress announcements) which she had seen while at Buffalo. According to Informant T-3, Miss BARRETT requested these calls to send to the Women's Auxiliaries (presumably of the NMU) which, Miss ROBBINS agreed should be represented at the Congress. (X)(U)

Informant T-2 reported that on the same day a request had been received at the New York State Headquarters of the Communist Party for help to assist in the mass meeting to be held at the Madison Square Garden on November 8, 1943. (X)(U)

Confidential Informant T-1 reported a conference on November 2, 1943 between ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, Treasurer of the N.C.A.S.F. According to the informant, LEAVIN reported to TRACHTENBERG that DONALD (undoubtedly DONALD NELSON) had given a wonderful pro-Soviet talk and suggested that he be invited to the affair. (As later known, NELSON did speak) (X)(U)

TRACHTENBERG was again reported in conference with LEAVIN on the following day by Informant T-3. On this occasion LEAVIN reported financial progress for the Congress and stated that on the previous day $109. had been received. TRACHTENBERG indicated that he knew $565. had been previously received and further said that he wanted $1500. by Saturday (the opening date of the Congress). LEAVIN, after TRACHTENBERG had asked for that, then gave him details of the type of delegates who would be at the Congress and the number of trade unions and organizations represented, which at the time approximated 260. TRACHTENBERG declared that they would have to get a minimum of 500 or 600. LEAVIN advised that 530 tickets had already been sold for the luncheon, 45 more for the concert, for a current total of 250 against an expected total of 1000 for the music event. LEAVIN reported that they were all out of $2.20, $1.65, $1.10 and 83¢ tickets for the Madison Square Garden rally. TRACHTENBERG wanted to know how many had been paid for and LEAVIN said that $1900. had been taken in in the previous two days. TRACHTENBERG recommended to LEAVIN that the meeting be "plugged" particularly in the book shop (probably referring to the Workers' Book Shop in New York). He also expressed his anxiousness to secure representation at the rally from the Harlem district of New York since he had learned of the many negroes who would attend the Congress. He advised LEAVIN to have someone go up to Harlem and push the sale of the cheaper tickets as much as possible since they could only afford to pay less in that district. TRACHTENBERG also told LEAVIN that having talked with MAX (probably MAX YERGAN), he could now announce PAUL (undoubtedly PAUL ROBESON) among the speakers but that he must go on at 7:45 (no doubt because of ROBESON'S current New York appearance in OTHELLO). [Informant T-1 also advised that ROBESON had evidently been secured for a similar gathering at Boston.] (X)(U)

TRACHTENBERG also advised LEAVIN that he had learned that GREEN (no doubt WILLIAM GREEN, President of the A.F. of L.) had telephoned GORWICZ (phonetic) from Washington and complained strongly that he had only been allotted five minutes. TRACHTENBERG said if GREEN were given ten minutes then THOMAS (U)(X)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

(R. J. THOMAS) would also have to be given ten minutes. (X)(u)

Informant T-1 said that a discussion resulted concerning the advisability of eliminating ORSON WELLES from the program. This in turn was followed by TRACHTENBERG'S statement that as far as the women were concerned it was agreed that Mrs. BROWN (Dr. CHARLOTTE HAWKINS BROWN) should be the one to speak at Madison Square Garden. He then instructed LEAVIN to have JESSICA (presumably JESSICA SMITH) write Mrs. BROWN suggesting that she speak not only at the Women's Panel, but at the mass rally. TRACHTENBERG said that "We" wanted to have a negro speaker and a woman and indicated that Dr. BROWN would solve both requirements. TRACHTENBERG stressed to LEAVIN the importance of selling tickets in Harlem, stating that 100 tickets sold there would be equivalent to 1000 tickets sold downtown. (X)(X)(u)

According to Informant T-1 TRACHTENBERG then went over with LEAVIN the details of the collection speech to be made by the person already selected (WILLIAM S. GAILMOR, as later known) and emphasized that he was fighting for dignity and that the collection speech which followed that of DAVIES would have to be "up to the mark with dignity" even at the sacrifice of time on the program. (X)(X)(u)

Informant T-3 reported that Miss NAN GOLDEN, an employee at the N.C.A.S.F. Office had conferred with Miss WEINERMAN of the New York Office of the National Maritime Union about the possibility of the latter securing work at Miss GOLDEN'S office in connection with extra work entailed by the Congress. While discussing the matter of wages, Miss GOLDEN stated that the Congress was being run on borrowed money in the amount of $30,000 and that everyone in the N.C.A.S.F. was donating his services since the Congress was something very special. (X)(u)

In connection with the presentation of a certificate to the NMU, Informant T-3 reported he had learned that Mr. OGULL had advised Miss PROSTEN of the N.C.A.S.F. Office that the seaman selected for the occasion, one STANLEY POSTAK, was a charter member and also a veteran of the Lincoln Brigade, as were thousands of other members of the NMU. Mr. OGULL having been advised that that fact "could not be played up" asked that the NMU angle be publicized. The Brigade referred to is probably the Communist ABRAHAM LINCOLN BRIGADE of Spanish Revolution fame. This conference, according to Informant T-3, took place on November 3, 1943 and was followed on the next day by another between Miss NAN GOLDEN and Mr. OGULL in which plans were made for three seamen to help dismantle the N.C.A.S.F. exhibit at the New York Museum of Science and Industry and set it up at the Hotel New Yorker. (X)(u)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Also reported were arrangements made by Mr. OGULL and Miss YOLA MILLER, as previously reported one of the committee in charge of the mass meeting, for thirty men to be furnished by OGULL for the mass meeting. (X)(u)

Informant T-1 said that TRACHTENBERG and LEAVIN again conferred on November 5, 1943 because of a situation that had arisen affecting their mass rally plans. LEAVIN said that he had been advised that ICKES would not be able to speak at the time proposed and would have to be given time at 10:15 or 10:30 P.M. and be the last speaker or not at all. Informant T-1 advised that TRACHTENBERG was very upset over this information, saying that it would not be possible to give in to ICKES and further discussing the problem with LEAVIN. (X)(u) (U)

Informant T-1 reported further contact between TRACHTENBERG and LEAVIN on November 8, 1943, at which time LEAVIN reported that "both" telegrams had been sent out on the previous night. TRACHTENBERG further suggested that another telegram be sent to the President setting forth greetings, thanks for his foresightedness, etcetera. (X)(u) (U)

THE SOVIET ART EXHIBIT

On the evening of November 3, 1943 the writer having secured an invitation under an appropriate pretext, inasmuch as admission was restricted to the membership of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and friends of the N.C.A.S.F., attended a program at the Museum, 5th Avenue and 82nd Street, attendant to the opening of a Soviet Art Exhibit. The affair was attended by well over a thousand persons who crowded the Great Hall of the Museum and who heard addresses by VLADIMIR I. BAZYKIN, First Secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, WILLIAM CHURCH OSBORN, President of the Metropolitan Museum, FRANCIS HENRY TAYLOR, Director of the Museum, and CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the N.C.A.S.F. Mr. BAZYKIN pointed out that the opening of the exhibition coincided not only with the successful conclusion of the Moscow Conference and the tenth anniversary of the resumption of diplomatic relations between this country and Russia, but also with the irresistible offensive of the Red Army currently in progress.

LAMONT referred to the series of events to be held in conjunction with the anniversary of the founding of the Soviet nation and of the resumption of American-Soviet diplomatic relations.

A program of songs was given by the Ukrainian Leontovich Chorus. It may be noted that LAMONT told the audience of the N.C.A.S.F.'s work, announced the formation of an artists' committee under the direction of PAUL MANSHIP, the sculptor, a musicians' committee to be chaired by SERGE KOUSSEVITSKY, a dance committee under the leadership of AGNES DE MILLE, and an architects' committee still in the formative stage. The exhibit itself, which is on display for the month of November and was opened to the general public on the following day, consists of a series of war posters, cartoons, and photographs relating to the Soviet war effort and produced by Soviet artists. It received a measure of publicity in the newspapers, including an article by EMILY GENAUER, in the New York WORLD TELEGRAM on November 6, 1943, which praised the technical proficiency and imagination displayed in the works on exhibition. Two copies of the program issued at the preview are available in the New York file of this case.

CONGRESS OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP--1943

The Congress was attended by Special Agent FREDERICK C. ZINCK and the writer, having secured tickets and registration cards for the various functions under an appropriate pretext. A section of the mezzanine lobby at the Hotel New Yorker was given over to the registration tables and literature displays that had been set up. This led to the foyer of the north ball room and grand ball room in which the Congress was held. In this foyer a number of tables and signs had been set up for the registration of delegates. Signs indicated that separate registration was to be made by CIO delegates, representatives of the A.F. of L., and of other organizations and individuals. The tickets used by Agent ZINCK and the writer were checked against a registration index and were then "rubber stamped registered" inasmuch as they had been previously paid for. A large staff of women was on hand to tend to the needs of the crowd already milling about a half hour before the stated opening time of the first panel. At several tables, particularly a long one in the lobby, was a large quantity of literature on sale. Publications of ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG'S firm, INTERNATIONAL PUBLISHERS, INC., the INSTITUTE OF PACIFIC RELATIONS, SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY, and of the N.C.A.S.F. were conspicuously displayed. "Russia's Secret Weapon" by DYSON CARTER and published by Contemporary Publishers of Winnipeg, Canada, was on sale and a copy of this publication is enclosed herewith for the use of the Bureau and one has been placed in the New York file of this case. A forty-one page pamphlet entitled "Organized Labor In the Soviet Union" by EDWIN SY SMITH, Executive Director of the N.C.A.S.F. and published by this organization was on sale at the main literature table and given particular display at the trade union panel. A copy is herewith enclosed and another copy has been retained by the New York Office. Another recent publication of the N.C.A.S.F. entitled "A Family Of Nations", a thirty-two page booklet, was also secured and is likewise being made available to the Bureau and the New York Office. It is to be noted that this booklet contains an illustrated map which indicates Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and part of Finland as Soviet Republics within the USSR. There is no section marked "Poland" on the map inasmuch as the Western border of Russia is drawn to coincide with the Eastern boundary of Germany. This booklet is of particular significance in that it sets out a justification of Soviet rule on the Baltic.

Other enclosures for the Bureau and for the New York Office include the following: "The Constitution Of The USSR", a forty-page booklet previously reported as showing a map of Russia similar to that described above and published by the N.C.A.S.F.; "America And Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT, a fifteen page booklet published by the N.C.A.S.F.; "Know The USSR", a fifteen page catalogue of books and other publications recommended by the N.C.A.S.F.; "Hear About The USSR", a recent issue of the N.C.A.S.F., listing the speakers and speakers' bureau facilities; a mimeographed price list of various publications on the USSR available through the N.C.A.S.F.; a three page list of sources of material on the USSR suggested by the N.C.A.S.F. Also placed in the New York file are copies of order blanks for the purchase of "The Constitution of the USSR", "Organized Labor In The Soviet Union" and "Soviet Union Today". This latter publication is a study outline issued by the American-Russian Institute at the Congress, whose publications were also on sale at the Congress.

The attendants were appropriately distinguished with various badges and buttons and all the proceedings of the Congress evidenced careful preparation for its smooth continuity.

WOMEN'S PANEL

This panel, which was held in the north ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker from 10:00 A. M. to 12:30 P. M., was attended by approximately 500 persons, most of them being women. The Chairman, Mrs. ELEANOR S. GIMBEL, Chairman of the "Committee For The Care of Young Children In War Time", (the subject of investigation by the New York Office for Communist activity), opened the panel with a few appropriate remarks and a display of a souvenir red scarf which bore the Soviet hammer and sickle and drew considerable applause. The first speaker, Mrs. NORMAN DE R. WHITEHOUSE, President of the "Women's Action Committee For Victory And Lasting Peace", spoke on the subject of "The Role of American and Soviet Women For Victory And Lasting Peace". Mrs. WHITEHOUSE spoke of the great sacrifices of the Russian women in this war and praised their stamina and courage. She contrasted the thousands of women in Russia sitting in Parliament and in various governmental committees and commissions with the "pitifully small number of women in similar American bodies", stating that women in this country were not given such opportunity.

Dr. MARY McLEOD BETHUNE, a negress, and President of the National Council of Negro Women, spoke on "The Stake of Women In American-Soviet Friendship". She spoke of racial discrimination and its absence in the USSR and ended with the thought that "collective action was the cornerstone of lasting peace".

Dr. BETHUNE was followed by Dr. FANNINA HALLE, author of "Women In Soviet Russia" and "Women In The Soviet East". Dr. HALLE'S subject was

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"Soviet Women And The War" and she spoke of the revolution of the Russian women and named such examples as LUDMILLA PAVLICHENKO and ZOYA KOSMODEMYANSKAYA as only symbols of innumerable Soviet women of today. Dr. HALL further praised the USSR as one of the first countries in the world following the October Revolution where men and women had been granted equal rights, and how women today are running the factories, mills and mines of Russia, while their men fight at the front. She glorified the mass heroism of the Russians, which she said was a common-place occurrence "in this secret Russian epic".

The Director of the Department of Sociology, <sup>Bryn Mawr College,</sup> /Professor MILDRED FAIRCHILD, was the next speaker and enlarged upon the subject of "Soviet Women in Industry". Dr. FAIRCHILD added to the praise of the Soviet women and Russia's efforts to utilize men and women and the special protection in legal limitations of women from hazards of industrial disease or accidents. She also mentioned how children were cared for in Russia while their mothers worked in the heavy and light industries, the mines, and the railroads of the Soviet Union.

At this point Mrs. GIMBEL commented that the great achievements of Russian women referred to by Dr. FAIRCHILD was no miracle, that it had all been planned by the "management" of the USSR and that it was up to us to do the same, not in words, but through such media as the N.C.A.S.F.

The next speaker was RUTH YOUNG, Executive Secretary of the United Electrical Radio Machine Workers of America, who discussed "Women's Role In Trade Union Relations in the USA And The USSR". Miss YOUNG spoke of the 13,000,000 Russian women engaged in war plants and of the total of 18,000,000 women working in Russian industry. She set forth statistics on the U.E.R.M.W.A. and spoke of its need of members that it might be an active trade union. She urged greater participation by labor in the affairs of the nation and called for more women in the government of the United States, pointing to the USSR as an example. She lauded the action of the British Trade Unions Council in calling for an international labor union congress next year and stressed the importance of women in international labor movements.

The audience then heard from Miss TAISSA ISOTOVA, a Soviet student at Columbia University, who entitled her talk "The Role of Soviet Women In War And Industry", a departure from her announced topic "What Family Life Means to Soviet Youth". Miss ISOTOVA continued the theme of praise for what Russia has done for women and what women have done for Russia. She referred to a statement of LENIN that "Every kitchen maid must learn how to run the State". She too mentioned the thousands of women who take part in the public councils of Russia.

The next speaker, ROSE MAURER, was announced by Mrs. GIMBEL

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

as the author of "Soviet Health in Peace and War". Miss MAURER, who explained she had spent much time in the USSR, further eulogized the clinics, nurseries, and kindergartens of Russia. She explained various details of the Russian educational system whereby students were given the opportunity to follow higher learning and how juvenile delinquency, so prevalent in this country, had been eliminated before the war in Russia by adequate provision for children through appropriate theaters, movies and other diversions. Orphans, she said, were properly provided for through adoption by families and granted support through government and individual sources and from contributions of trade unions.

Another negress on the program, Dr. CHARLOTTE HAWKINS BROWN, listed as Director of the Palmer Memorial Institute, spoke on the subject "The U.S.S.R. And Racial Equality". Dr. BROWN said that Americans, in effect, had remained aloof from the USSR because they had subscribed to the Christian principle of brotherhood of man. Dr. BROWN also launched into praise of Russian progress and success which she said did not have to be stopped to settle the racial problem. She said the Reds, the whites and the blacks were tired of the old methods employed to hold them down and that they will rise up to adjust any differences. It may be said that Dr. BROWN was easily the best speaker before the panel and like her fellow speakers, received enthusiastic applause, particularly when Russia's alleged treatment of racial and sex equality was mentioned.

Miss MARY ANDERSON, Director, Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, did not appear as scheduled and her paper entitled "Women On the Home Front" was read by JESSICA SMITH, Editor of "Soviet Russia Today", and an alleged Communist. Miss ANDERSON'S comments were of a general nature and touched on the subject of American-Soviet Friendship and the contribution of woman-kind to the war effort. Her paper, however, did include the suggestion that "As women we must take immediate steps to build up close consultation and true friendship between members of women's organizations in the United States and Soviet Russia".

At various times during the course of the panel, congratulatory messages and telegrams were announced and read by Mrs. GIMBEL from various organizations and individuals including A. B. LAMONT, President of the National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People, ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN, President of the N.W.T.U.L.A., LUCY MILLIGAN of the National Council of Women In America, MARGARET WEBSTER, theatrical producer, Colonel OVETTA CULP HOBBS, Mrs. ARTHUR HAYES SULZBERGER, New York TIMES, Mrs. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, who expressed her regrets for her inability to attend and sent her greetings, HELEN BLANCH of the W.T.U.L., MARY WOOLEY, Lieutenant Colonel McAFEE of the Personnel Department of U.S.N.R., MARY ANDERSON, Mrs. BERNARD GIMBEL, ELLA WINTERS, and many others. Mrs. GIMBEL proposed that a message of greeting and cooperation be sent to the

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

"Women's Anti-Fascist Committee" at Moscow on the occasion of the tenth and twenty-sixth anniversary being celebrated, which proposal was promptly endorsed by the panel attendants. A general discussion period which followed gave Mrs. GIMBEL an opportunity (apparently through a questioner planted in the audience) to enumerate literature, movies and speakers available through the N.C.A.S.F. on women and child care in Russia.

A Mrs. MARY SINKOVITCH remarked concerning the relatively small number of women in the American Government in contrast with a large proportion in the Russian State.

GERTRUDE LANE, an alleged Communist and general business organizer of Local No. 6, Hotel and Club Employees Union, and wife of JAY RUBIN (both of whom are key figures in the New York Office) delivered an impassioned speech from the floor and in forceful language stressed how the workers of the USSR had solved their problems. She said that she and the other women of the American Federation of Labor wanted to work hand in hand with those of the CIO so that together they might work with the women of Great Britain and in turn with the women of the USSR. Miss LANE'S remarks evidenced preparation and were also warmly received.

An un-named delegate from the U.E.R.M.W.A. Local at Schenectady, New York, suggested that child care centers be organized in the important industrial centers of the country and said that there had been enough general sentiment and education in this direction. He urged the practical application of such plans without waiting for the government to do anything about it.

Mrs. GIMBEL in closing the panel announced a convention of the Committee For The Care Of Young Children In War Time to start December 11, 1943. Also announced were plans for a Women's Committee of the N.C.A.S.F. while cards reading "I am interested in plans for the Women's committee of the Council. Please keep me informed", with space for name and address, were circulated, throughout the audience. One of these cards is available in the New York file of this case.

LUNCHEON

The Congress luncheon was staged in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker and was attended by approximately 750 persons. Each table had a large red star placed in the center and huge American and Soviet flags were hung behind the speakers' table. The Congress was then officially opened by the Honorable FIORELLO H LAGUARDIA, Mayor of New York City, who reminded the audience it was he, who twenty-four years ago, introduced a resolution in Congress for diplomatic recognition of Russia. LAGUARDIA said that had a similar celebration been held then, he was sure far less people would have attended it than were now present. He declared the American people were very happy "that our Tennessee mountaineer got along so well with the Volga boatman", referring to the recent Moscow Pact.

The speakers who followed, introduced by EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the N.C.A.S.F., all followed the key note of praise for Russia and urged greater cooperation with that country.

Professor ERNEST SIMMONS of Cornell University, spoke of the mis-information prevalent in this country concerning Russia and evidenced that people still believed that all women are held in common in Russia, that priests are killed on sight, and that all Russians are ready at any moment to throw bombs for world revolution. He decried the fear of the Soviet Union as something insidious and hostile. He gave examples of Russia's effort to understand America and how Russians listen to our music, read our literature, and teach English as one of three foreign "must" languages in their schools. He declared that there were not nearly enough courses in the Russian language in American schools. He also said that Russian source material is not easy to obtain in the United States since Russia's principal book shop in America was still unable to send Soviet books through the mail in the ordinary way without incurring the risk of legal action for disseminating propaganda. He emphasized that we must speed up our education on Russia and get rid of the political isolationism that is a positive reflection of our intellectual isolationism. He said also that the intolerance often manifested toward the people of Russia as well as toward other foreign people was born of ignorance, prejudices and national antagonisms that led to war.

It is to be noted here that it is <sup>at</sup> the Cornell University where CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the N.C.A.S.F., has been lecturing to classes under the program called "An Intensive Study of Contemporary Russian Civilization". Mr. SMITH then called upon the Reverend JOHN HOWARD MELISH, D.D., Director, Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, N. Y. to speak on the "Future Relations Between The United States and the U.S.S.R. As Seen From the Viewpoint of a Churchman".

Dr. MELISH urged tolerance, repentance and humility and said the church men were no less hopeful than Ambassadors and diplomats for the future of American-Soviet friendship. He commented that Americans had some deeds in their treatment of Russia for which they should be sorry, mentioning American support of DENIKIN, KOLCHAK, WRANGEL and the like. He ended by saying that through sincere cooperation and intelligent understanding we can be victorious allies today and good neighbors tomorrow.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

An announcement was made by Mr. SMITH that on the same evening Congressman GEORGE E. OUTLAND and ALBERT RHYE WILLIAMS would broadcast over radio station WABC at 10:45 P.M. on the subject, "Should Americans Still Trust The Russians?".

The next speaker, E. C. ROPES of the United States Department of Commerce, spoke on "Trade Relations Between The U.S.A. And The U.S.S.R." Mr. ROPES itemized the Lend Lease aid which the United States is sending Russia, quoted staggering figures on the various articles being moved to Russia, and spoke of the potential market available to American producers in Russia in the post-war period. Mr. ROPES reminded his audience of the competition of other countries for this market, mentioning as an example the Russian Institute at the University of Stockholm established to study the USSR and estimate its probable needs and recommended that American manufacturers pay particular attention to the commercial and manufacturing fields.

DOROTHY THOMPSON, noted columnist and commentator, who had been scheduled to speak on "Woman's Role In International Relations" instead held forth on the theme that the present war has revealed the false evaluation of the powers involved. She discussed the over-estimation of France, Poland and Germany and the under-estimation of Great Britain and Russia, who, she said, had been looked to as a "colossus with clay feet" but had been disorganized by the October Revolution, and that could claim enormous industrial output only on paper. She said that the progress of the war had revealed Russia has the strongest military power in Europe and that its Army was the most brilliantly officered. She said the Russian people were the most stubborn on the earth; that the Russian brain has demonstrated coldness and discipline and that the war would be won by them in a masterly fashion because it had been planned while Germany's war had been improvised. Miss THOMPSON declared that there is no nation in the world in a geographical position to defeat Russia; that no nation, including Russia, could defeat the United States inside her own natural area of operations. Consequently, she urged American-Russian friendship as the greatest contribution possible to posterity since both nations together could control the world.

The N.C.A.F.'s Chairman, CORLISS LAMONT then drew the applause of the gathering by referring to the Senate's vote of eighty-five to five on the amended CONNALLY resolution for collective security. He hailed the recent Russian victories, mentioning the anniversaries being celebrated by the Congress, explaining that the N.C.A.S.F. had sprung from the first Congress in 1942. He claimed that the N.C.A.S.F. now has twenty branches throughout the country and was sponsoring fifty similar meetings in other American cities. He referred to the art exhibit above reported and said that youth, nationalities, music, dance, artists and publications committees were organized under the sponsorship of the

NY 100-7518

N.C.A.S.F. for the furtherance of its work in different fields. He expressed the hope that the United States and the USSR, geographically so close, would support each other steadfastly to prevent another world war and the hope that the N.C.A.F.'s Congress would contribute to such an understanding.

Sir HUBERT WILKINS, scientist and explorer, joined the others in the chorus of praise for the USSR and spoke of the support given explorers and other scientific research projects by the Soviet Government. He pointed out that through progress in geography and mechanics, Russia had taken tremendous advantage of the northern section of her country, mentioning the winterizing of planes and tractors used in such work. A significant remark by Sir WILKINS which received particular attention in the New York press was the statement that it would not be long as world time is measured before the USSR with her multitudinous and tremendous resources would tower high above the United States in material and economic magnitude. He said this was a matter for pleasant contemplation, "provided we encourage and maintain the cooperation that is greatly to be desired".

EDGAR SNOW, war correspondent and introduced as the author of "Red Star Over China", and articles in the SATURDAY EVENING POST, who was eminently fitted to speak at the luncheon because he had so recently returned from the USSR, related some of his experiences while in that country and other theaters of war. His statements were interspersed with much praise for Russia and her military achievements and he referred to Stalingrad as the salvation of mankind. He stressed the population of Russian cities as a result of the war and the huge casualties the Russian Army has had. He said that the success and the help of Russia justified the success of the Soviet Government, in Russia. He developed possibilities that might have resulted from an agreement for common action with the Soviet Union ten years ago after officially recognizing its existence. Among these he said that we could have given aid to the democratically elected Spanish Republic Government. This drew heavy applause from the audience. He also said that as a consequence we might now have the Siberian bases which were then suggested by Russia. He declared that corporation with Russia did not mean we had to accept Communism as a way of life in America any more than corporation with Britain means accepting the King Emperor of Britain or the cockney way of life. "Whatever happens", he said, "absolutely nothing could stop the Russian people from becoming the mightiest power in Europe or Asia". He said "Sooner or later we must reconcile ourselves to that enormous historic fact and either work with it or against it. We should be glad that the Russians today want us to work with them". He declared himself not competent to advocate the charter or the machinery by which an American-Soviet partnership could work. It is "rather the all-important task" of this Congress of American Soviet Friendship to hammer out such details on the broad angle of honest democratic discussion", said SNOW.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Another speaker at the conference was the Honorable EUGENE D. KISSELEV, Consul-General of the USSR at New York City, who delivered a diplomatically proper address for the occasion involved, heralded the accomplishments of the Russian Army, announced the fall of Kiev, and wished success to the N.C.A.S.F. Congress.

JESSICA SMITH was introduced by EDWIN S. SMITH as the editor of "Soviet Russia Today" and as one who had spent five years in Russia. She stated that Russian women could not be over-praised, spoke of their great contribution to the present war, and gave such examples as the fighter PAVLICHENKO, a wood-chopping ballerina, and the women who operate Russia's mines. Miss SMITH referred to the speech made by Vice-President HENRY A. WALLACE at the N.C.A.S.F. Congress in 1942 in which he had referred to the democracies of education, sexes and races. She pointed out how much the USSR has done to develop these democracies and also announced the formation of a women's panel at the morning session.

EDUCATION PANEL

The next session of the Congress took place in the north ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker on the same day, November 6, 1943, from 3:30 P. M. until 6:15 P. M. Approximately 600 filled the room to overflowing, and an additional 200 persons who clamored for admission were accommodated in the grand ballroom where they heard the proceedings by means of the public address system. The Chairman of this panel was Dr. C. O. ARNDT of the United States Office of Education. He first introduced Dr. DONALD DU SHANE of the National Education Association who spoke on the subject of "The Basis of Education in the United States and its Contribution to the War". Dr. DU SHANE called for universal education without prejudices or discrimination. He proposed an international office of education for the encouragement of education, the international exchange of ideas, methods and objectives and for the protection of education from propaganda and political domination.

The next speaker was Dr. JOHN W. SOMERVILLE, instructor of Philosophy at Hunter College, New York City, whose topic was "The Philosophy Of Education In The U.S.S.R.". Dr. SOMERVILLE discussed the Soviet democracy of education in relation to the underlying democratic idea of the Soviet Union. He stated that democracy must be applied to all facets of social life including education and that the USSR had been the pioneer in this respect. He declared that the Soviet Union was the first to offer its citizens education without economic barrier beginning with the nursery and on up to the university. He praised the scholarships and stipends available in Russia for advanced study and hoped that the United States would some day outstrip the USSR in this connection. He too pointed out there was no discrimination or prejudice to race, sex or color in the educational system of the Soviet Union and that while he was in Russia, he saw for himself that women were not barred from any field. He said that to understand Soviet education one must examine it as part of the principles underlying other social institutions in Russia. He explained how the Soviet Union was now gearing education for boys and girls at different rates of progress as they progressed mentally at varying rates at different ages. He spoke of the great advantages of a social system where segregation and discrimination were criminal offenses. He gave instances of the rapid advance of literacy in Russia and generally called for American praise for and cooperation with the Soviet Union.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

[Informant T-1] (X)(u) calls attention to the fact that he believes Dr. SOMERVILLE to be the same JOHN SOMERVILLE who lives with ROSE MAURER at 100 East 87th Street, New York City. MAURER is referred to above and may be SOMERVILLE'S wife.

A soviet student at Columbia University, Miss MELITINA FEDUKENA, next addressed the audience on "The Schools of the Soviet Union". Miss FEDUKENA explained the various types of schools in use in the educational system of Russia and how boys and girls were separated in the schools since July, 1943 since Soviet educators had determined that their mental pace varies during their formative years. She discussed the various subjects taught in Russian schools, told of the interest of Russian pupils in the English language and literature and referred to the mass education efforts to produce qualified factory workers.

Following Miss FEDUKENA, Dr. ALONZO GRACE, Commissioner of Education for the State of Connecticut, spoke on "The Role Of Education In Promoting International Cooperation And Friendship". Dr. GRACE, as the previous speakers had, lauded Russian education and then called attention to the initiative taken by the University of Rochester and Cornell in offering courses on Soviet Russia. He proposed an international exchange of students of all countries, a similar program for the exchange of teachers, particularly in the languages, and gave other instances where international exchange would benefit the world, such as exhibits of art and handicraft, motion pictures, radio broadcasts, etcetera. He recommended the instruction of visitors and tourists to foreign countries lest they become ambassadors of ill will, and careful selection of representatives of industry and labor before going abroad.

The panel was then addressed by JOHN DARR, JR., a student at the Union Theological Seminary, who discussed "The Role Of Youth In Promoting American-Soviet Understanding". DARR stated that the youth of the world should admire the struggle and sacrifice made by the youth of Russia. He demanded "Why didn't we know before now about this Stalin youth in Russia?", which drew heavy applause. He said he represented the youth born in one war and raised to the present war but that this youth accepted the challenge since their eyes have been opened. He said that changes in education were welcome but that they were insufficient. He said that knowledge of Soviet Russia was a blind spot, a knowledge most necessary for world peace and understanding. He said that Russia was the most significant nation in the world and deplored the lack of education on this subject and the mis-information and mis-representation that exists. He said it was the task of educators to enlighten all the readers of WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST and the READERS' DIGEST. This statement was enthusiastically received by the panel. He emphasized that students must be given the truth about Russia and its opportunities and suggested exchange of correspondence and tokens with the youth of that country and that preparations be made for the exchange of students, mentioning the invaluable aid that American trained Chinese have given their native country.

Another Russian student at Columbia University, Miss EUGENA TESSMAN, made further reference to what Russia has done for its youth and how their education was continuing in spite of war and destruction. She said that Soviet youth wants to know more about the youth in other countries and explained how the youths' Anti-Fascist Committee in the USSR had exchanged letters with the younger generation of England. She hoped that American youth would follow the example of their English friends.

There followed an open discussion period directed by Professor HENRY PRATT FAIRCHILD, Professor of Sociology at New York University, and Co-Chairman of the panel. Dr. FAIRCHILD, it will be recalled, is an Executive Committee member of the New York Council of the N.O.A.S.F. Dr. FAIRCHILD read several telegrams received from CHRISTIAN GAUSS of Princeton University, J. G. SHEPHERD and others. The discussion forum speakers had been previously listed in the Congress program and included Miss ROMA GANZ of the Teachers College at Columbia University. She expressed the hope that Americans would emulate the Soviets in their reality, vision and honesty in education. She declared that Americans have not yet attained their level since we are still trying to placate and are confused. She asked that "God Save Us from the N.A.M." and that "we" must act in the next few months, certainly not more than within a year. Fervent applause was accorded Miss GANZ for this last statement.

Next on the program was Mr. JAMES P. MITCHELL of the American-Russian Institute. MITCHELL said that he had been in Russia, explained how students in that country studied American history and sarcastically declared how unthinkable it was that Russian history should be taught in American schools. However, said he, "We" must not yield and said that work must continue to enlighten the American people. He enumerated various subjects that could be of help in this respect and mentioned "The Land of the Soviets", "Timur And His Gang", "Struggle Is Our Brother", "Peace Is Where The Tempest Blows", and the many Soviet 16 mm films available through the N.C.A.S.P. and English publications, which, he said, were hard to secure. He told his audience that the American-Russian Institute was likewise concerned with the problem of American-Soviet relations and that the Institute soon hoped to have pictorial information available. He recommended the purchase of the syllabus entitled "The Soviet Union Today", mentioned above.

RUTH WEST of the National Negro Congress and an alleged Communist, praised Russian youth, referred to the youth congress held in Mexico, spoke of PAUL ROBESON'S contribution to Russian friendship and stated that negroes and youths must work harder to promote understanding of the Soviet Union and its people.

Mr. TREADWELL SMITH of the Dalton Schools, made mention of the booklet packets prepared by the United States Office of Education on other foreign countries and said it was time that they issue a similar packet on the Soviet Union. He said it was time to end the attitude of the American people whose knowledge of Russia was based on the selection of one hundred odd persons and that as a consequence they know more about Russia than any other country "that is not so".

Miss ELEANOR FRENCH of the Student Division of the Y.W.C.A., spoke for several minutes on the general theme of youth organizations and what they can do to promote the future of the world and the friendship of nations. She said that the work of the future would be done by those who learn to work together.

The next speaker was HARCOURT FYNES of the Association of the Study of Negro Life and History, (a negro). He said that we teach our children how to live together but that we need to do "a little house cleaning in this connection". He declared it was strange that our great leaders speak of democracy but leave out certain groups of people. "If we are going to be pioneers in cooperative living", he said, "Americans must understand the negro problem and adjust it when they meet the Soviet people". FYNES stated that "we" must sweep away the reactionary forces.

Another to appear before the panel was Mrs. WILLIAM FRANCIS

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

GIBBS of the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York, who spoke briefly on the contribution of Girl Scouts for the help of children in foreign countries, including Russia.

Following the discussion a resolution was proposed and adopted endorsing the Moscow Pact, the work of the N.C.A.S.F., and called for the establishment of a committee of education by the N.C.A.S.F. to formulate plans for the inter-change of educators with the USSR. The resolution had been typed out and was obviously prepared in advance; also evidencing previous planning was a message of greetings to the teachers of the Soviet Union from the teachers of New York City, proposed by an un-named member of the audience who had been noticed constantly in conference with the girls in attendance.

A youth of high school age then arose and read a message of greetings from the high school students of New York to the high school students of Russia. The education panel closed with the adoption of another resolution which had been proposed and was patently given previous consideration. This resolution called for the N.C.A.S.F. to arrange a nation-wide committee to examine and review material available and used on the subject of the USSR, which would "vigorously" recommend changes, improvements and enlargements of such material. As the audience left the north ballroom, their attention was called to many books on Soviet topics on sale at the rear of the room, and distributed gratis were copies of the American-Russian Institute's bulletin "Russia At War". The issues circulated were No. 24 of February 5, 1942, which contains an article on "Soviet Schools And Defense Preparedness", and No. 30 of April 30, 1942, which consists of a four page article on "Youth In The Soviet War Effort". Copies of these bulletins are available in the New York file of this case.

Further evidence of the N.C.A.S.F.'s plans to organize a committee of educators were printed cards distributed to the audience which read "I am interested in hearing further about the plans for forming a committee of educators to work for closer relations between the teachers and students of the United States and the Soviet Union". The card contains space for the signer's name and address and organization representative. A copy of this card is also available at the New York Office in the file of this case.

NATIONALITIES PANEL

This panel was held on the following day, Sunday, November 7, 1943, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, beginning at 11:00 A.M.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

and continuing until shortly after 1:30 P. M. This panel, attended by approximately 600 people, was chaired by LOUIS ADAMIC, listed on the program as President of the United Committee of South Slavic Americans. Mr. ADAMIC opened the panel on the note that only the United States, the USSR, and India were countries composed of so many different racial groups and that the United States, in a sense, is an experiment in developing and interpreting the expression of so many racial groups. He praised Russia's handling of the question of race and sex equality, referring to Article No. 123 of the Soviet Constitution which calls for the equality of the rights of citizens of the USSR, irrespective of their nationality or race in all spheres of economic, state, cultural, social and political life. He declared there was no conflict between the United States and Russia since their common objective was the equalization of all opportunities. He then introduced ANATOLY YAKOVLOV as a Soviet engineer and a graduate of the University of Moscow.

YAKOVLOV also referred to the motley array of nations incorporated in the Soviet Union and Russia's masterful handling of racial and national equality. He told how in order to raise its level to that of other nations, Russia had developed her own engineers, artists, writers, etcetera. He explained the opportunities given the natives of the minority Soviet Republics to further their education in universities and colleges of their own without discrimination. YAKOVLOV quoted statistics on the progress of the Republic of Kirghizia as an example. He figuratively unfurled the banner of Russia against the Nazi horrors and called for the equality of all nations and the brotherhood of man.

The next speaker was Professor D. H. KABAKJIAN of the University of Pennsylvania. Professor KABAKJIAN entitled his talk "Comments On The Family Of Nations By An Armenian" and traced his advancement in this country, attributing it to the opportunities available. He said he has been for twenty years a friend of the Soviet Union and that his friendship and love for it was based on its treatment of Armenia. He launched into a justification of Russia's "acceptance" of Armenia into the Soviet Union following her devastation in the First World War and subsequent horror. He assured the audience that Armenia had been invited to join the Soviet Union as a full member and not as a protectorate, and that its prosperity today springs from the help that was given by the USSR. He denied that any attempt had been made to absorb Armenia as a cultural nation and said that she had been allowed to develop her own culture and language. He closed by saying that the United States stood for the equality of all men and that the USSR stood for the equality of all nations and that they would fight until all nations admitted this.

A negro, Dr. E. FRANKLIN FRAZIER of Howard University, the

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

next on the program, spoke on "A Negro Looked At The Soviet Union". Dr. FRAZIER mentioned the way in which all of Russia's "children" had been cared for instead of only "the favored child". He declared that the winning of the war would mean nothing if there continued the competition of capitalistic nations for world markets and the exploitation of the colored races. The thirteen million negroes in the United States, he said, were an outgrowth of the ones originally brought here to improve the efficiency of this country, and that whereas they are a problem here, there is none in Latin America where there has been mingled the blood of the Indian with that of the negro. He said that the negro problem was based on an attempt to maintain the caste system; that negroes do not want autonomy and that neither do they wish to be returned to Africa. Dr. FRAZIER declared that the failure of Southern white newspapers to publicize STALIN'S announcement that one of the aims of the present war was to abolish racial exclusiveness seems to confirm the viewpoint that reactionary whites in the South want to keep this aspect of the Soviet system from the negro masses rather than its economic philosophy. The hope of the negro, said Dr. FRAZIER, rests on Russia's stand in the present war. He further stated that if Russia is to be left out of "any holy alliance", it would still continue to be the hope of the negro. He quoted the Dean of Canterbury's statement in his book "The Soviet Power" to the effect that the Soviet Union is the moral impulse of the new order and that its human consequences constitute the greatest attraction and present the widest appeal.

Mr. JAMES N. ROSENBERG, honorary chairman, Executive Committee, Joint Distribution Committee and honorary chairman, American-Jewish Joint Agricultural Committee, next spoke on "The Jew And The USSR". Mr. ROSENBERG discussed his work as Chairman of "Agro-Joint" in providing for the Jewish people in Russia following the last war and what Russia had done for the Jews in the Ukraine and the Crimea, offering them many millions of fertile acres and unexpected opportunities. ROSENBERG said he could vouch for the truth of these statements as he had visited Russia and seen the advance of the Jew with his own eyes. He hoped that the USSR's treatment of her minority groups would be a pattern for the united nations' treatment of other nations in the post-war period. He also made reference to Article No. 123 of the Soviet Constitution, which treats of equality, and read a message from his collaborator on "Agro-Joint", Dr. ROSEN, which similarly lauded Russian treatment of the Jew as a result of the Soviet Union's enlightened vision. Several references to STALIN by ROSENBERG were enthusiastically applauded.

The next speaker on the program was JOSEPH A. SALERNO, President of the Massachusetts State CIO and the subject of investigation for pro-Communist activities by various offices of the Bureau. SALERNO, an able speaker, heralded the coming "People's republic of Italy" and drew heavy applause from the panel attendants who were reminded by SALERNO that Italy was one of the first nations to establish diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia. Italy's downfall, he said, subsequently came because the "Tories" had insisted on peddling their gains for sale or rent. He held up the USSR, which he said, did not do this as an example for the future Italy. He called for the surrender of the Italian monarchy to be replaced by a free, progressive republic and spoke of the workers of Italy who have come forward "to help the American soldiers there and in consequence marked themselves for HITLER'S assassins". SALERNO said we should look to the inspiration of Russia and that some day the flag of universal brotherhood would fly in the free republic of Italy.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"The Voice Of The Newest Soviet Republics" was the topic of the next speaker, Mrs. CATHERINE STANELOW, (Secretary of the Waterbury, Connecticut Branch of Russian War Relief). Mrs. STANELOW said she was speaking for the Lithuanian minority of Russia, covered "The historic surfdom of the Baltic countries" and briefed their economic advantages. Following this, Mrs. STANELOW proceeded to denounce SMETONA and the Lithuanian Parliament which, she said, had betrayed its people under SMETONA'S dictatorship. The Lithuanians were grateful to the USSR, according to Mrs. STANELOW, for the garrison of Russian troops which assisted them in completing their bloodless revolution against SMETONA and his henchmen. She said that the Baltic nations had asked to be accepted into the Russian family and that they had been received willingly and given the many benefits of the USSR. She declared that with the nationalization of their lands, banks and forests, and the emancipation of their women, the Baltic people were now a free and elevated people. She also said the United States must not give in to the Fascists and recognize the governments in exile of these countries and must accept their Soviet representatives.

At this point, Mr. ADAMIC read several telegrams, including one from the American-Slovenian Representatives Council. He also read several resolutions which he said had been drawn up by various elements attending the Congress. He read one from the Polish Americans, another from the Czechoslovakians, still another from the German-American delegates, all of them calling for transmission of greetings to the Red Army and the Soviet people. Mr. ADAMIC also read greetings from the United Slovene Societies of Greater New York and a message from the Czechoslovak Women's Club, which commended the N.C.A.S.F. for its efforts to enlighten the United States on the nationalities program of the USSR. ADAMIC, before throwing the discussion open to the audience declared that the only solution of the Balkan problem was a multinational federation of countries that must come into being through a social revolution. The Yugoslavian problem, he said, could best be solved by the formation of a People's State which might be the answer for all of Eastern Europe and perhaps all of Europe itself.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Professor JOSEPH HANO, Professor of the Fletcher School of Diplomacy at Cambridge, Massachusetts, who was listed as speaking for the Czechoslovakian groups, praised Russia, said that the October Revolution was the most profitable of all revolutions and looked to a strong Eastern Europe based on Soviet consent and assistance as presenting the best bulwark against another German conquest, which would surely come again if Germany were given the chance.

ADAMIC read telegrams of greeting from JAN MASARYK and THOMAS MANN, auguring success to the Congress and he then introduced Dr. FELIX BOENHEIM, Secretary of the German-American Emergency Conference, who spoke for the German-American groups. Dr. BOENHEIM mentioned his experiences in a German concentration camp and how he was ashamed of the atrocities perpetrated by his people. He spoke intensely and fervently on the thesis that the education and rehabilitation of Germany must be placed in the hands of Germans and that this work was to be done from within and not by outside nations. He said this would not violate Point 8 of the Atlantic Charter and further, that the "famous" Manifesto of free Germans in Moscow was misunderstood partly because some persons distrust anything coming from Moscow. He said he was happy to see that Russia distinguished between the HITLERITE Germany and the German people and he said that the democratic forces in Germany were given strong help by Russia, permitting the Free German Movement to start. BOENHEIM said that permanent peace can not be made with the Junkers, that it can be made only with the anti-Nazi workers and liberal bourgeoisie.

ADAMIC followed BOENHEIM'S speech by reading several other congratulatory messages including one from OSCAR LANGE. It will be recalled that Professor LANGE had withdrawn from a mass rally sponsored by the N.C.A.S.F. in May, 1943, because, as he pointed out at the time, the N.C.A.S.F. had injected the ALTER-EHRICH Case into the agenda of the meeting. Professor LANGE'S message said that anti-Soviet propaganda hurts Poland which has everything to gain from American-Soviet and Anglo-Soviet friendship and that anyone who attempts to drive a wedge into these alliances does so to the injury of Poland.

The next speaker was Mr. EBO KRZYCKI, Chairman of the American-Slav Congress and Vice-President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. KRZYCKI said that the USSR was the world's inspiration and that it was saving civilization from destruction. He asked that Russia be trusted, that it had never broken any agreement with another nation and had always been ready to defend those oppressed against their aggressors and cited Russia's willingness to aid Czechoslovakia as proof of this. ADAMIC closed the discussion session with comments on the Yugoslavian situation and referred to MIKHAILOVICH as a counter-revolutionist, saying that Yugoslavia's problem was not fully understood in Washington and London. A significant gesture at the close of the panel was made by a gray-bearded negro, who arose and stated he was a disabled seaman and represented the Pioneer Negroes Of America, Inc. He addressed his remarks to Dr. FRAZIER and asked him if he were speaking only for the intellectuals, while he instead was speaking for the negroes of the sidewalk. He asked if this would not be the time now for the negroes to rise up along with the March of the USSR and insist on freedom and equality. This speaker's remarks were dramatically delivered and received the approval of the audience.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Under pretext the writer engaged this individual in a moment of conversation and learned that his name is ~~GEORGE A. WESTON~~. Further inquiry is being made to determine his identity and that of the organization he claims to represent.

MEDICINE PANEL

This panel was held at the Hotel New Yorker in the North Ballroom on Sunday, November 7th, from 3:00 P. M. to 6:00 P. M. It was attended by approximately 800 persons, including a large representation from the medical profession as indicated by conversations overheard at the gathering. All available space in the ballroom was taken up and the overflow had to be transferred to several public parlors on the next floor, where the addresses were broadcast over the public address system. It was evident that a far greater crowd than anticipated had come to attend this panel and after several requests that those representing organizations and trade unions leave for the trade union panel currently being held, an appeal was made that only doctors remain in the ballroom to make room for other doctors who were waiting outside. The panel was held under the direction of Chairman Dr. ~~WALTER B. CANNON~~, Professor of Physiology, Harvard University, who announced that the subject for discussion would be "Public Health And War-time Medicine In The USSR". He stated as previously announced that the panel was under the joint sponsorship of the N.C.A.S.F. and the American-Soviet Medical Society.

Dr. CANNON spoke of the wonderful work being done in the Soviet Union and the economic and medical wonders he had seen on his trip to Russia. Dr. CANNON then introduced as the first speaker Dr. HUGH CABOT, listed on the Congress program as a noted Boston surgeon who spoke on "Russian Medicine Organized for War". Dr. CABOT likewise voiced praise for Russia and said that what they were doing in war was only possible because of what they had accomplished in peace. He read off a body of statistics on the increase in the number of students, doctors and women in medicine in the USSR and generally discussed achievements of the Soviets in the field of medicine.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

Next on the program was Professor VLADIMIR LEBEDENKO, representative of the Red Cross and Red Crescent of the USSR in the United States. Professor LEBEDENKO, speaking in Russian, expressed the greetings of his nation to the Congress and his pleasure in addressing and explaining the work of his country to friends who would be more receptive than others. His remarks were translated by a Dr. ZILBERICK (phonetic) and his paper entitled "Russian advances in military medicine" was translated and read by Dr. ABRAHAM STONE, National Secretary of the American-Soviet Medical Society. Dr. LEBEDENKO's paper treated of the various advances of Russian medicine, the methods of transportation, the care of soldiers, the improvement of hospitals, and the work of nurses in the Soviet Union.

"Public Health In The Soviet Union" was the topic of the next speaker, Dr. O. P. A. WINSLOW, Professor of Public Health at Yale University. Dr. WINSLOW referred to his visit to Russia a few years ago and by anecdote, illustrated the rapid advance of Russia, particularly in the medical field. He recounted a number of instances to show what the USSR is doing along the lines of public health to provide for its women and its workers. He declared that Russia was very far ahead in the field of medical research in which they have lavishly equipped institutions with which to guide progress in the fields of maternity and infancy, and in industrial hygiene. He further stated that the Soviet Union is dedicated to the physical, emotional and social health of its people and that it has advanced on the road of that ideal on an almost unparalleled rate, drawing no line of distinction between prevention and cure.

The next speaker on the program was to have been Dr. THOMAS PARRAN, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service. Dr. CANNON announced his inability to be present and a statement by Dr. PARRAN was read by Lieutenant V. CHIMKIN (phonetic), U.S.N. The statement simply stated that common effort was required to rebuild the post-war world, that the Congress of the N.C.A.S.F. was one more step in the realization that no nation alone can attain good health for its people and that it was only by planning and working together that the "third freedom" defined by the President of the United States as the security to every nation of a healthy peace-time life for its inhabitants, could be attained. Unusually light applause was accorded Dr. PARRAN'S statement by the audience, which appeared to be disappointed in his absence and the brevity of his statement.

The following scholarly address by Dr. W. M. STANLEY of the

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Rockefeller Institute For Medical Research on "Soviet Studies On Viruses". Dr. STANLEY hailed Dr. IWANOWSKI for his experiments with viruses dating back to 1892 and said he might be termed the father of the new science of Virology. He paid tribute to other Russian men of the medical profession in professional language and hoped for still greater results from the research work going on in the USSR.

Dr. ALICE HAMILTON, Medical Consultant to the Federal Department of Labor, next spoke on "Industrial Medicine In The USSR". She related that in contrast to the previous speakers who had recently visited Russia, she had not been there since 1924 but that even then, she had noted progress in medicine and other fields that we do not yet have today in the United States. She spoke of the great advance in the USSR in the branch of Occupational Medicine and said that the world's only Occupational Disease hospital is to be found in Russia; that we have only clinics. She referred to the failure of lawyers and doctors in this country to see eye to eye in matters of truth and evidence and to the obstacles she had encountered in providing for the treatment and prevention of occupational disease in this country. She also decried the failure to provide for the children of women workers in this country in the present war although they were urged to secure employment in war industry. She declared that all considered there was still much to be done in the United States that was an accomplished fact in Russia.

The next speaker was introduced as Dr. WILDER PENFIELD, Professor of Neurology and Neuro-Surgery at McGill University. Dr. PENFIELD spoke on "The Recent Surgical Mission To The USSR" which was sent to Russia in July of this year. Dr. PENFIELD enumerated some of his observations of Russian war-front hospitals and surgery under fire. Except for a passing criticism that Russian surgical technique could be more improved today, his remarks followed the general line of praise for Russian doctors and scientists and also suggested that they were doing much that could be emulated by American physicians. The general discussion which followed was conducted by the Co-Chairman of the panel, Dr. ABRAHAM STONE.

As time was limited there were few remarks made from the floor and a resolution was introduced and adopted calling for the exchange of medical information with Russia through a Science Committee to be formed under the sponsorship of the N.C.A.S.F. The resolution was offered by Dr. HARRY GRUNDFEST who, it will be recalled, was one of the founder directors of the N.C.A.S.F. A moving picture was then shown entitled "Experiments In The Revival of Organisms", a scientific film produced by the Soviet Film Agency, and according to the sub-title, released through the courtesy of the N.C.A.S.F. and the American-Soviet Medical Society. The film showed experiments conducted in 1940 at the Soviet-Institute of Experimental Biology at Moscow. The audience saw a dog's heart and lung kept alive independent of the animal's body together with resuscitation of a dog after its blood had been withdrawn for a period of ten minutes.

As the audience left the ballroom following this, announcements describing the work and constitution of the American-Soviet Medical Society and membership blanks were circulated among the audience and the initial issue of the Society's Journal was offered for sale at $1.00 per copy. Also distributed were bulletins of the Russian Embassy and the American-Russian Institute, the former containing a message from the Second Anti-Fascist meeting of Soviet scientists held in Moscow July 11th, addressed to the scientists of the world, and the latter containing a four page article entitled "Soviet Science Fights For Victory". Copies of these pamphlets are available in the New York file of this case.

SCIENCE PANEL

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent Frederick C. Zinck:

The science panel which dealt with Soviet science and technology, was held in the north ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker on November 7, 1943 from 11:00 A. M. to 2:00 P. M. This session was attended by approximately 600 people. The proceedings of the panel were directed by Chairman, Dr. HAROLD C. UREY, Professor of Chemistry at Columbia University, New York City, who confined his remarks to the introduction of the various speakers. He did state, however, that it was difficult to obtain leading scientists for discussions of this type since all of them were engaged in war work. He stated that if any of the audience knew of any good scientists who were free to make such speeches, he would be glad to know of them and immediately assign them to pertinent war work.

The first speaker, Sir HUBERT WILKINS, noted explorer, spoke on "Soviet Exploration and Geography". During his speech he stated that the Soviet Union is in possession of a great number of detailed maps on Arctic areas which maps are much better than those of the United States. He stated that the Soviet Union selected very carefully the men whom it sent to the Arctic. He stated that the Soviet Union was not keeping its progress to itself and as an example, stated that Canada's development of its North prairies was largely done with the aid and the use of the experience of the Soviet Union. Sir WILKINS made the statement that he does not believe it will be long until the USSR will have the possibilities of an economic power and cultural development far above that of the United States. He stated that we could look forward to this development and be pleased with it provided we maintained good relations with the Soviet Union.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Dr. CARL O. DUNBAR, Director, Peabody Museum, Yale University, spoke on "Advances In Soviet Geology And Mineralogy". In his speech Dr. DUNBAR praised the Red Army and said that its showing was a tribute to the present leadership of the Soviet people. DUNBAR stated that in 1937 he attended the National Geological Society Congress in Moscow. He praised the five-year plans of the Soviet Union and showed by figures the development due to these plans. He mentioned that the Soviet Union is the largest producer of manganese and the third largest producer of pig iron. He advocated closer cooperation between the United States and Soviet geologists.

The following speaker, Dr. CHARLES E. KELLOGG, soil scientist of the Department of Agriculture, spoke on "Soviet Soil Technology And Agriculture". Dr. KELLOGG stated that in 1920 the United States began to recognize the work of the soil scientists of the Soviet Union, which were at that time more advanced than those of the United States. He mentioned the similarities between soil in the United States and that in the USSR, and stated that many of the needs of the two countries were very similar due to climatic conditions. See LF Serial //

Dr. AUSTIN W. CURTIS, JR. (negro), Director of the Agricultural Research Station, Tuskegee Institute, was introduced as the successor of Dr. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER. He stated that the Soviet Union makes no discrimination of color, race or creed in the field of science and advocated that the United States should do likewise.

Dr. L. O. DUNN, Professor of Zoology, Columbia University, New York City, spoke on "Soviet Research In The Biological Sciences". Dr. DUNN stated that the USSR and the United States lead in the study of genetics, stating that the USSR is the greatest subscriber of the United States publications on science. He advised that the biological research in the USSR has taught us that this work can go on even during war. He advocated closer collaboration between the USSR and the United States in the field of biological sciences and stated that we biologists should use all of our efforts to see that the barrier which separates Soviet biology and biologists from us should never again be allowed to prevent a free flow of persons and ideas, both scientific and social, on which the progress of science and of society depends.

Dr. SELMAN WAKSMAN, Professor of Microbiology at Rutgers University spoke on "Bacteriology in the Soviet Union". Dr. WAKSMAN stated he had visited the Soviet Union on several occasions and had lectured there. He commented on the great development in the USSR in the field of Bacteriology. He stated that the industrial microbiology reached a high state of development never dreamed of before in Russia.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

It was announced that Dr. V. K. ZWORYKIN, Research Director of R.C.A. Laboratories, was unable to attend the science panel and a Dr. LICKMAN (phonetic) read the paper of Dr. ZWORYKIN on "Soviet Developments In Electronics". Dr. LICKMAN mentioned the great development of radio in the USSR in the early 1920's. He stated that television service was quite extensive in the USSR before the present war and stated that important recent advances in the field of electronics originated in the Soviet Union.

During the science panel cards were distributed among the audience, which card stated "I hereby express my desire and willingness to participate in the activities of the Science Committee of the N.C.A.S.F. and to contribute to its program of more effective cooperation in science between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R." This was to be signed and returned to the registration table or sent to the office of the N.C.A.S.F.

TRADE UNION PANEL

The information set forth on this panel was also secured by Special Agent Frederick C. Zinck:

This panel was held from 2:30 P. M. to 5:30 P. M., November 7, 1943, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, and was scheduled, according to the program, for the discussion of "Labor movements in the United States and the Soviet Union and for contribution to victory". Approximately 1000 delegates and individuals attended this session of which 487 were delegates of the CIO, AF of L and Railroad Brotherhoods.

WILLIAM McFETRIDGE, National President of the Building Service Employees International Union, A.F. of L., acted as chairman of this panel. During his introduction he pledged the support of the A.F. of L. to the unity of trade unionists of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. The first speaker, EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, spoke on the topic "Labor's Stake in American-Soviet Friendship". SMITH stated that the war has tended to unite the USSR and the United States. He stated that American friendship for the Soviet Union must include what is called coalition warfare against the common enemy; that is, a combination of men and materials of war in a common strategy designed to achieve the quickest possible victory over HITLER. He stated we must use our joint resources of manpower and weapons together with those of Britain to hit HITLER hardest and quickest at the places where it will hurt most. He advised that that is exactly what the second front proposal means, to strike by all the means at the command of ourselves and our allies with the greatest possible number of fighting men at the most vital spots, in the shortest possible time. He stated this is the only kind of friendship in the military field which amounts to anything, otherwise there is only a pretense of friendship, words without deeds.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

SMITH stated that the conclusion of the agreements in Moscow both as to the prosecution of the war and the steps to insure peace when our common enemy has been defeated, have caused the deepest satisfaction throughout the united nations. He stated that they are a final and complete answer to the anti-democratic forces in this country such as the HEARST-PATTERSON-Mc CORMICK Axis which has been trying to divide us from our Soviet ally. He stated American labor can play a tremendous role in voicing approval of these agreements and insisting upon their fulfillment. He stated every trade unionist in the room will feel a definite personal responsibility for giving this kind of support to the agreements through his own trade union connections.

He stated further that the nations after the war must stand together to maintain the peace by joint application of force, if necessary; that this has now become a generally accepted conviction in this country and that is why the HEARSTS, the McCORMICKS, the isolationists and pro-Fascists and the rest of the evil-minded crew have been screaming so loudly against the Soviet Union. He said that since the Moscow agreements have been concluded, their disruptive efforts will be intensified and that they realize that once the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain and China are united in a program of preserving peace, we will enter into an era of democratic development such as the world has never imagined. SMITH stated that this kind of a program does not suit HEARST or any other anti-democrats in our midst but it does suit the great bulk of Americans and it suits labor "right to a T". He said labor hates war and desires the advance of democracy above any other goal, and that the labor movement and the trade unions of the world were founded because the workers demanded democracy, political and economic democracy for themselves and their fellow men. He further related that if labor is to be for friendship with the Soviet Union, it can't say "We believe in the Soviet Union as a force for peace and democracy but we don't like the way its industrial workers run their affairs so we will have nothing to do with them". He stated that if you read Russian trade union literature, you will find some pretty vigorous criticism of certain aspects of American trade unionism, but that this doesn't mean that the Russian workers turn a cold shoulder to their American trade union brethren.

SMITH advocated that American trade unionists should wholeheartedly support the proposal of the General Council of the British Trades Union Congress for a world conference of the labor movements of the united nations to speed the war and to win the peace. In answer to the question as to what American labor can accomplish by cooperating with the Soviet Trade Unions, SMITH stated that for the immediate period just ahead of us, it will be an obvious help to speed up production to win the war by an inter-change of information and delegations. He stated that is what the British and Soviet trade unions have done with excellent results for both countries and bad results for HITLER. SMITH mentioned his pamphlet "Organized Labor In The Soviet Union" published by the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship and briefly summarized certain points brought out in this pamphlet to the effect that the Soviet Unions are democratically elected bodies and their officers are elected by the rank and file and are removable by them. They pay dues and initiation fees, and have locals, city, regional, and national bodies; also, they have grievance committees. They enter into collective agreements with management and perform a great many other functions familiar to American and British trade unions.

SMITH stated that the N.C.A.S.F. can not tell the American trade unions how to bring about cooperation with the Soviet trade unions and that it is for the American unions--A.F. of L, CIO and Railroad Brotherhoods, and all their individual affiliates to find the way. He stated, however, that the Council would be derelicted in its duty to the cause of American-Soviet friendship and all that this friendship means now and in the future if it failed to state that American labor means work towards the fullest kind of collaboration with the Soviet trade unions. He stated there is one thing which the Council can do and which it proposes to do to bring about closer relations between the unions of the two countries, stating that whatever else American unions may do about Soviet unions, they will at least want to know more about them and to tell the Soviet trade unions more about themselves. The Council proposes to promote and assist such an inter-change of information and, therefore, it has prepared a list of the principal Soviet trade unions so that the delegates may know with whom to communicate in order to learn more about the war effort of the particular unions whose jurisdiction most closely corresponds with their own. He stated that he is sure that if the delegates initiate correspondence with the Soviet Unions, they will be glad to reply and he stated that such sharing of information will not only aid the war effort, but will develop a mutual interest, respect and understanding which will help build the kind of future relations between America and her Soviet ally and the rest of the democratic world which everyone--every sane, patriotic and democratically-minded American, ardently desires.

SMITH proposed for the consideration of the meeting the following suggestions:

1. That the delegates and guests at the trade union panel

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

support in their communities the program of the N.C.A.S.F. and help to bring its activities to the favorable attention of their fellow workers and friends.

2. The launching of a campaign by the N.C.A.S.F. to stimulate correspondence between the trade unions of the United States and corresponding Soviet trade unions as a means of cementing friendly relations and furthering cooperation between the labor movements of both countries for the purpose of intensifying the war effort and working towards a just and lasting peace.

3. That those in attendance at the panel support the request already made by numerous members of the trade unions that there be created within the N.C.A.S.F. a trade union division whose purpose would be to facilitate the correspondence project between American and Soviet Unions described above, to promote the distribution and sale of literature of particular interest to trade unionists in the field of American-Soviet relations, such as the pamphlet "Organized Labor In The Soviet Union", and to initiate from time to time special projects with the aim of bringing about closer understanding and cooperation between the American and the Soviet trade unions.

The second speaker was MICHAEL CURAEVSKY, Soviet engineer and secretary to the Soviet Consul General in New York City, who spoke on "The Role Of The Soviet Trade Unions In The War". At the beginning of his speech CURAEVSKY stated that although he is a young man, he has spent fifteen years in trade union work in the USSR. He stated that after the war the USSR will emerge as a more powerful nation. In speaking of the Soviet trade unions, he stated that differences in language and customs do not prevent the Soviet people from close, energetic work at factories, plants, in mines and on transport. He stated millions of these people are members of the one hundred and eighty Soviet trade unions. He mentioned the membership in Soviet trade unions as having increased rapidly until in 1941 the membership totalled 28,000,000 persons. He stated due to the unions the average annual wage of a worker increased from 700 roubles in 1928 to 3000 in 1940. He stated that the Soviet people fervently greeted the creation of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition and that the Soviet trade unions have made strong attempts to unite forces of the working class in democratic countries.

The next speaker, REID ROBINSON, of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers of America, CIO, was not listed as a regular speaker on the program. He stated that the trade union panel was one of the most important meetings in the United States that day. He also stated the foremost, important events of the past week could be listed in the following order:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

1. Red Army advance
2. Moscow conference
3. The CIO Convention
4. The election of MICHAEL QUILL to the New York City Council.

ROBINSON stated we should be grateful to the USSR for what it has done and that the Soviets are today writing the history of the world in blood. He stated we should be talking of gratitude rather than friendship and pledged his union to do everything possible for the war effort.

WILLIAM FEINBERG, Secretary of Local No. 802, Associated Musicians of Greater New York, A.F. of L., spoke briefly and stated it is now time for us to extend the hand of solidarity to the unions of the USSR.

PHILIP V. VAN GELDER, Vice-President of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO, announced the respect he had for Soviet trade unions, stating that the problems in unions such as education, recreation, proper facilities and so forth, were met in the Soviet Union and solved over a period of years, and that we in the United States can learn much, including wisdom and strength by close relationship with the trade unions of the USSR.

LEWIS MERRILL, President of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, was not listed as a regular speaker on the program, but stated that the results of the recent CIO conference were very fine. He stated that the CIO had pledged itself to the support of President ROOSEVELT in the war effort. He said that it was the patriotic duty of every trade union member to see that a friendly relationship with the Soviet trade unions was established.

JOSEPH CURRAN, President of the National Maritime Union of America, CIO, stated that in 1930 and 1931 he had made many trips to the Soviet Union while employed as a seaman and while there had attended many union meetings, having been made honorary member of one of the Soviet unions, which, he stated, was reported by the Dies Committee. He stated that in the Soviet Union he saw conditions which were entirely different from the conditions as reported by the United States press. He stated that no people that are not friendly could have done what the Soviet people did in this war. CURRAN stated the Moscow Pact was one of the greatest ever written and that the Pact does away with the last barrier hindering unity with the Soviet trade unions. In mentioning the labor movement had already made progress towards unity, he referred to the General Council of British Trades Union Congress and how it had invited all nations to participate in a world conference in London in May. CURRAN stated the stand of the Red Army shows that the statements made in the American press in regard to famine and hardships in the Soviet Union were false.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Mrs. BETTY HAWLEY DONNELLEY, Vice-Chairman of the New York State Federation of Labor, A.F. of L., was unable to attend this meeting and sent her wishes of support to the Congress. In her place Mrs. ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN, President of the National Women's Trade Union League, spoke. She made a plea for international solidarity. She stated she was proud of the part that women were playing in the war in the Soviet Union. She stated that her League pledged to do all possible for friendly relations with the USSR, stating that these relations should be brotherly and not only friendly. Mrs. SCHNEIDERMAN stated she advocates a Department of Peace to be established in every country after the war with a woman at the head of this department.

GEORGE BALDANZI, Vice-President of the United Textile Workers of America, CIO, who was a scheduled speaker on the program, sent a message that he could not attend but sent his greetings to the meeting.

MICHAEL J. QUILL, President of the Transport Workers Union, CIO, and recently elected to the New York City Council, received pronounced and continued applause as he stood to speak. QUILL thanked all the people present for their support in his campaign. He stated that he had helped to wipe out the old Democratic machine in the Bronx. He said that three of his opponents started to "Red-bait" and that all three of them had already been eliminated. He stated that organized labor was responsible for breaking the old democratic machine and also had stopped the "Red-baiting". He stated we need international labor unity now and that we are ready for it now. He stated Congressman MARTIN DIES and HERBERT HOOVER are against international trade unity. QUILL stated we should be for international unity if for no other reason than to defeat the "Bums" who are against it. He further stated we must "raise hell" now for international labor unity in order to save American lives. He asked the audience how many more Nazis must be killed by the Red Army before they convince us that they are sincere. QUILL ended his speech by stating "Let us have international labor unity and a second front in Europe at one time".

A Mr. SILVERSTEIN (phonetic), who was introduced as the Secretary to Mayor VINCENT MURPHY of Newark, N. J., stated that Mayor MURPHY was resting after a vigorous election campaign and, therefore, could not attend the panel. He stated that although MURPHY did not win, one-half million people showed their approval of him.

MORRIS MUSTER of the United Furniture Workers of America, CIO, read a resolution which was unanimously adopted, pledging full support to President ROOSEVELT in strengthening relationship with the USSR. In addition to reading the resolution, MUSTER made a short speech, at which time he praised PHILIP MURRAY, President of the CIO, in his achievement in getting unity of labor. He further stated that this trade union panel was a challenge to the fifth columnists and isolationists.

LOUIS WEINSTOCK, Secretary of District No. 9, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America, A.F. of L., read a resolution which was unanimously adopted, approving the call of the General Council of British Trades Union Council for international attendance at a world conference to be held in London next spring. WEINSTOCK asked that the United States trade unions urge that the world conference be held as soon as possible.

JOHN GOODMAN of Local 144, Hotel and Restaurant Employees of America, A. F. of L., read a resolution which was unanimously adopted, which expressed greatest respect for the membership of the Soviet trade unions for the manner in which they backed the Red Army in its fight for victory.

MICHAEL OBERMEIER of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees of America, A. F. of L., spoke a few words at which time he stated that the rank and file of the A. F. of L. were for unity with the Soviet trade unions even though the leadership of the A. F. of L. had voted against it. He also praised the Soviet trade unions and urged closer cooperation with them.

CLIFFORD MC AVOY of the Greater New York Industrial Union Council, gave a brief talk at which time he urged the delegates to the trade union panel to take messages back to their unions to promote greater cooperation with Soviet trade unions. He urged that each delegate present order sufficient copies of the pamphlet written by EDWIN S. SMITH, namely "Organized Labor In The Soviet Union".

At various times during the panel discussions, messages of greeting were read by EDWIN S. SMITH. One of these messages was from WILLIAM GREEN, President of the A.F. of L., in which he congratulated the N.C.A.S.F. on its Congress and stated he endorsed heartily the work of the Congress. In another message PHILIP MURRAY, President of the CIO, endorsed the Congress and asked for unity and friendship between the United States and the USSR. A telegram of greeting was received from V. O. GARDNER of the Railroad Telegraphers; also a message of greeting from DANIEL J. TOBIN of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. In addition to the above, messages of greeting were read from HARVEY W. BROWN of the International Association of Machinists and LEWIS J. CLARK, President of the United Pipe Packers of America.

In addition to the speakers the following individuals sat on the speakers' dais and were introduced to the audience: JAY HUBIN, President of the New York Hotel Trades Council, A.F. of L.; HARRY VAN ARSDALE of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, A.F. of L.; THOMAS YOUNG and DAVE SULLIVAN of the Building Service Employees International Union, A.F. of L.; PETER CONNOLLY, President of the California State Council, CIO, and STANLEY ISAACS of the New York City Council.

Other guests presented to the audience were PAT QUINN of the Industrial Union of Michigan; Mr. SCHAEFER of the Farm Equipment Workers; Mrs. MARY ROUSH (phonetic) of the A.F. of L.; Mrs. FAY STEPHENSON of the CIO Women's Auxiliary and Reverend JOSEPH WHITE (negro), President of the Restaurant Workers of Washington, D. C.

During this meeting certificates of honor were presented to the following representatives of unions for their work in the war effort:

JOAN HEWLETTSON (phonetic) of the Union of Industrial Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO.

MORRIS GAINOR of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers of America, A.F. of L.

TROY SNIPES (phonetic) of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, CIO.

JOSEPH COLOGNE (phonetic) of Local 1663, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, A.F. of L.

STANLEY POSTEK of the National Maritime Union of America, CIO.

TOM WHITTELSY (phonetic) of the United Furniture Workers of America, CIO.

It was noted that ROY HUDSON and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, both of the National Committee of the Communist Party were present at this panel. At the close of the session ROY HUDSON was seen directly in front of the speakers' platform conferring with JAY RUBIN and MICHAEL OBERMEIER and was also seen to shake hands with WILLIAM MC PETRIDGE, Chairman of the panel. As he left the room ROY HUDSON met FREDERICK NELSON MYERS, Vice-President of the NMU and the two of them conferred with TRACHTENBERG in the lobby outside of the main ballroom. Subsequent thereto MYERS and HUDSON left the room and went to the hotel bar.

A copy of the list of Soviet trade unions as well as a copy of the resolutions proposed for adoption and the two cards which all delegates were asked to fill out at the trade union panel are being retained in the New York file and copies of the same are being forwarded to the Bureau. The cards which the delegates were asked to fill out were:

1. A card stating approval of the set-up of a permanent trade union department in the N.C.A.S.F. to promote friendship and cooperation between the labor movements of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.
2. A card upon which the delegate could state the kind of Soviet trade union with which he desires to correspond and asked that information about this union be sent to him.

GENERAL SESSION

This session, held from 5:30 P.M. to 6:30 P.M. in the grand ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, was attended by approximately 500 delegates and individuals. EDWIN S. SMITH was in charge. He gave the following statistics:

1943 registered Congress attendance:	1883
(1942 attendance:	600 plus)

1943 attendance broken down as follows:

434 delegates representing 167 trade unions of which 301 were CIO, 133-A.F. of L.

389 delegates representing 235 miscellaneous church, civic, Russian War Relief, youth and other organizations.

1060 individuals.

Total.....1883

Mr. SMITH then gave the audience a resume of the various resolutions that had been adopted at the several panels and expressed pleasure at the thought that the work of the N.C.A.S.F. would be continued and extended.

SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, the Treasurer of the N.C.A.S.F., then spoke of the fifty-six other meetings, similar to the Congress, being held in other parts of the country, and gave what might be termed a "sales talk" on the various facilities offered by the N.C.A.S.F. for the further understanding of Russia. He mentioned some of the actions of the N.C.A.S.F. in the recent past including open letters such as those published in May of this year, various mass meetings, efforts to stop the attacks of the HEARST newspapers, sponsorship of Russian films, and the exhibit at the New York Museum of Science and Industry. The material at this latter, he said, had been prepared in four units for showings throughout the country. He said that an architectural exhibit sponsored by the N.C.A.S.F. would open on November 15, 1943 at the Architects' League in New York City. He stated that the N.C.A.S.F. was planning to adopt a devastated city in Russia, that it would help to replace destroyed books in Russia through a book committee, and spoke of a theatre committee which was also in the process of formation.

LEAVIN then outlined various organizational steps that might be taken in forming local councils of the N.C.A.S.F. in other cities of this country and urged that the work of local councils be appointed to the eventual involvement of everyone in its activities. Various questions relating to the furtherance of the N.C.A.S.F.'s work were answered for the delegates and several extemporaneous speeches were made from the floor, paying tribute to Russia, referred to as a much misunderstood country. A delegate, who said he was a Vice-President of the U.E.R.M.U.A. in Canada, and was speaking for the National Council of Canadian-Soviet Friendship of which he is a member, urged extensive enlargement of the N.C.A.S.F.'s work.

GEORGE A. WESTON, who had spoken from the floor at the Nationalities Panel in the morning, again arose and declared that we have yet among us what Russia has already destroyed, namely the obstacle of the reactionary who asks: 1. Is he a Communist--If so, he is to be liquidated; 2. Is he a Jew--If so, he is to be circumvented; 3. Is he a negro--If so, he is to be limited and otherwise restricted. WESTON further said that not until the work of the Council was resolved into local, state and eventually national laws, could there be racial equality in this country. Several other questions were answered and the panel was then closed.

CONCERT

A concert was held on Sunday evening, November 7, 1943, at 9:00

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

P. M. in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker. The Congress program stated that it was presented by the Musicians Committee of the N.C.A.S.F., Dr. SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY being the Chairman. The Budapest String Quartet and VRONSKY and BABIN, pianists, offered selections of Russian music. From conversations overheard at the ticket counter, it is believed that this concert was well attended.

MASS MEETING

The mass meeting, which closed the Congress and had been well advertised, drew a capacity attendance to Madison Square Garden, New York City, and it was estimated that approximately 20,000 people were present. Speakers included DONALD M. NELSON, HAROLD L. ICKES, CLAUDE D. PEPPER, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, Major General JAMES A. ULIO, Adjutant General of the United States Army, WILLIAM GREEN, President of the American Federation of Labor, R. J. THOMAS, President of the United Automobile Workers of America, ORSON WELLES, ANDREI A. GROMYKO, Dr. CHARLOTTE HAWKINS BROWN, Director of the Palmer Memorial Institute, WILLIAM S. GAILMOR, radio commentator, and PAUL ROBESON.

An address was also made by CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the N.C.A.S.F. and the Right Reverend J. R. BLAIR LARNED, D. D., Suffragan Bishop of Long Island, was called upon to offer a blessing. Entertainment was furnished by ROBESON, NADINE CONNOR of the Metropolitan Opera Company, JACOB BEN AMI and MORTON GOULD and his orchestra.

Greetings and congratulatory messages were announced and read from VICENTE TOLEDANO, (Communist Party leader in Mexico), FULGENCIO BATISTA of Cuba, JAN MASARYK, FRANCISCO NAJERO, the Mexican Ambassador, VLADIMIR KEMENOV, Director of Cultural Societies of the USSR, HENRY A. WALLACE, EDWARD R. STETTINUS, JR., PHILIP MURRAY, DMITRI SHOSTAKOVITCH, and others.

The general theme of the speakers consisted of lavish praise for the Soviet people, for the progress of the Red Army, and in general how much depends on American-Soviet corporation. Several pageants dramatized the significance of the destruction of the Dnieperstroi Dam to the Russian people and how they looked forward to its rebuilding. Also dramatically presented were American and Soviet flags, each marking a battle won or lost by the American and Russian troops. It was noted that the bearers of the Soviet flags were men wearing the insignia of the NMU on their white jerseys. The meeting was chaired partly by Mr. DAVIES, former Ambassador to Russia, who was honorary Chairman on the occasion and the earlier part by one MARTIN GABLES (phonetic) who was introduced as a theatrical producer. GAILMOR delivered the "collection" speech. As a result of his exhortations and the efforts of a small army of girls who at a signal arose in various parts of the auditorium with appropriate badges and collection boxes, a sum estimated by the newspaper PM at $15,000 was gathered up in contributions for the furtherance of the N.C.A.S.F.'s work.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The highlight of the meeting was a vigorous attack by Secretary of the Interior, HAROLD L. ICKES, on the HEARST-PATTERSON-MC CORMICK newspapers which he termed the "New York-Washington-Chicago Axis". ICKES said "We do not like Communism? Well, the Russians do not like Capitalism. Communism has faults? Capitalism has plenty of them too. We had better not start this kind of an argument or somebody will be sure to say something about the pot and the kettle". ICKES declared that the continued relations of the United States and the Soviet Union were endangered by these newspapers, who rivaled HITLER, the world's greatest liar, in disregarding the truth while they attacked Russia. The audience was most enthusiastic in its reception of all pro-Soviet remarks during the evening and gave particular applause to references to STALIN and the address of ICKES. It was also noted that the bulk of the audience appeared to be Russian-Jewish trade union type, and that they joined in and cheered the ~~INTERNATIONALE~~ when it was played more than THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

The speeches of Mr. DAVIES and Mr. ICKES were known to have been broadcast over a national radio hook-up.

Circulated at the meeting were petitions for the release of political prisoners in Spain on forms bearing the name of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee. Seen by Special Agent ZINCK and the writer at the meeting were ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and FREDERICK (BLACKIE) MYERS.

POST-CONGRESS OBSERVATIONS

The Congress received considerable attention in the New York press. All the larger newspapers and particularly the ~~DAILY WORKER~~ devoted notices varying in size up to full page reports (in PM) on the activities of and the speeches delivered at various sessions of the Congress. ICKES' statement was given particular attention and his speech was printed in full in PM, and the NEW YORK TIMES printed the bulk of his remarks and those of DONALD NELSON. A number of articles appeared in the NEW YORK JOURNAL AMERICAN with such headings as "Reds revealed in friendship council", "New York Reds back Soviet amity convention" and "Rally speakers cheered by Reds". These articles generally delineated the Communist background and inspiration of the N.C.A.S.F. and named such figures as MAX BEDACHT, JESSICA SMITH, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, ROY HUDSON and numerous others present at the Congress as indication of its Communist connections. Clippings from the several newspapers which reported the affairs of the Congress have been placed in the New York file of this case.

[Confidential Informant T-4] advised that the girl who appeared to be the official recording secretary at the panel sessions of the Congress was known to him to have been the personal secretary of EARL BROWDER several years ago, at which time she was in charge of the girls employed at the National Committee headquarters of the Communist Party. He said her first name was ELSIE, but could not remember her family name. He advised that also in attendance at the Congress sessions at the Hotel New Yorker was MATTHEW HALL, formerly director of the WO-CHI-KA Children's Camp, a Communist Party project. [Informant T-4] advised that THEODORE BAYER was busily directing the functioning of the Congress behind scenes as he had at the first Congress in 1942 and that he was often in conference with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, also at the Congress, who was giving BAYER his orders. [Informant T-4] further revealed the presence at the Congress of ROBERT RAVEN, a former officer of the ABRAHAM LINCOLN BRIGADE, who was blinded in the Spanish Revolution and returned to New York City to be made a functionary of the Communist Party. GRACE GRANICH, in charge of "Inter-Continent News", the current subject of investigation by this office for evidence of Communist influence, was also in attendance at the panel sessions. [Informant T-4] referred to "Inter-Continent News" as a "stooge" directly controlled by Tass Agency, the Soviet News Bureau.

[Informant T-4] also advised that present at the Congress were ROY HUDSON, above referred to, AVRAN LANDRY, whom he described as National Educational Director of the Communist Party, and one MAX, whose last name he believed to be WEISS. [Informant T-4] declared that this individual was a Comintern representative assigned by Moscow seven or eight years ago to run the Young Communist League in this country and was known to have given GIL GREEN, Director of Young Communist League at the time, his orders. [Informant T-4] in addition, mentioned the presence of LOUIS WEINSTOCK, whom he described as a former member of the National Committee of the Communist Party. He advised there were a number of Communists among the panel audiences and at least three of the N.C.A.S.F.'s Congress staff who were members of the Young Communist League (now known as the American Youth For Democracy). He stated that ART SHIELDS and ANN RIVINGTON of the DAILY WORKER and A. B. MC GILL of NEW MASSES were on hand at the Congress, and that one of the NMU color bearers at the mass rally was a former "Red builder" who had taken part in the drives to build up the circulation of the DAILY WORKER.

(X)(u)
[Informant T-4] advised there was no question about the Communist stripe of the Congress in its entirety. This informant made available press releases for most of the speeches delivered during the Congress and these have been placed in the New York file of this case.

Monday, November 8, 1943.

I attended a rally to celebrate the 10th Anniversary of American Soviet relations and the 26th Anniversary of the Russian Revolution at Madison Square Gardens, 50th St. and 8th Avenue. This rally was sponsored by the National Council of American Soviet Friendship. There were about 22,000 people present. The chairman for this rally was former Ambassador to the Soviet Union, Joseph P. Davis.

The speakers were: Corliss Lamont, William Green, President of the A.F. of L., R.J. Thomas of the United Automobile Workers, C.I.O. who spoke for Phil Murray, President of the C.I.O., Orson Welles, Senator Claude Pepper, Donald Nelson, William S. Gailmore, and Andre A. Gromyko, Russian Ambassador, and Harold L. Ickes.

Though Mr. Ickes was the last speaker to be introduced, his speech brought the audience to it's feet many times. He immediately launched an attack on the Hearst, Patterson-McCormick(Axis) Press who he said hates Stalin and President Roosevelt so much that they would rather see Hitler win this war. He said that these men rival Hitler who is known to the world as the greatest liar. He said that there are powerful and active forces in this country preaching ill-will towards Russia. It is absolutely necessary he said of continuing these diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. He then said that we in this country do not like Communism. Well the Russians do not like Capitalism. There are plenty of faults in Communism but Capitalism also has plenty of faults. There are forces in this country he said, that keep on whispering that some day we must fight the Soviet Union. Such an unthinkable conflict would be about the greatest tragedy that could befall our two great nations.

ENCLOSURE

Monday, November 8, 1943.

The words that Mr. Ickes used in his speech are exactly what the Communist Party has been preaching for several months. This speech in my opinion will be quoted thousands of times by Communist leaders in addressing audiences.

The highlights of R. J. Thomas's speech was when he called for an international labor union between the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union. He said that such an alliance with Great Britain and the Soviet Union is now in the making. This statement brought cheers from the audience.

Then Donald Nelson spoke and gave his views as a business man who recently visited the Soviet Union. He said that he has faith in the future of the Soviet Union and in the benefits that the future will bring to the entire world derived from the Soviet Union.

Lt. General Ulio who said that he spoke for the War Department, heaped praises on the Red Army and said that the entire course of the war has been changed by the hammer blows inflicted to the German Army by the armed forces of the Soviet Union.

The speech of Ambassador Gromyko were broadcast over the radio. He said that the bonds of friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union has already yielded great benefits to the people of both countries. But still greater possibilities exist, he added, as they have existed in the past for the further strengthening of the bonds of friendship and co-operation between the United States and the Soviet Union.

There were messages sent to the rally and read to the audiences from Vice-President Wallace, Under Secretary of State E. R. Stettinius, Sam Rayburn, and Philip Murray, President of the C.I.O.

Monday, November 8, 1943.

When the massing of the colors of the United States and the Soviet Union were presented, the American flags were carried by American soldiers and the Russian flags were carried by seamen who were dressed in white jersey sweaters carrying the insignia of the National Maritime Union.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. LADD

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-
SOVIET FRIENDSHIP;
INTERNAL SECURITY - C.

The Washington Field Division Office recently furnished information obtained from a highly confidential and reliable source to the effect that the Executive Secretary of the captioned organization, Edwin S. Smith, [redacted] [redacted] at which time Smith informed that the Office of Censorship was holding "cards" and wanted shipping instructions. [redacted] in turn said the "15,000 cards" should be forwarded [redacted] included with which should be a letter of approval from the Office of Censorship.

It is believed that the "cards" referred to pertain to a program of the instant organization whereby citizens in this country write semi-personal messages to unknown individuals in the Soviet Union in some particular category of work such as war work, etc. Considerable effort is reported to have been given to this program by the organization and the "cards" or pieces of paper to be filled out by citizens in this country were collected by various local units of the subject organization. Concerning this program, confidential informants have advised the use of the names and the current addresses might be profitable to the Soviet Union in that a list of persons sympathetic to that government residing in this country thereby will be available.

ACTION:

It is suggested that you may wish to have the Liaison supervisors of this Bureau discreetly furnish the observations of the informants verbally to their contact in the Office of Censorship. It is also suggested that any information in the possession of the Office of Censorship relative to this matter be obtained from the Bureau's contacts in that agency.

Respectfully,

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
INTERNAL SECURITY (C)

Dear Sir:

The Bureau has been advised by Censorship at the Seat of Government that Edwin S. Smith, Executive Secretary of the instant organization, made arrangements with Censorship for the wrapping and sealing of approximately 15,000 cards destined for the Soviet Union. (These cards are undoubtedly those distributed by the instant organization for persons in this country to fill in with personal greetings and messages to citizens of the Soviet Union).

The Bureau has been further advised that these cards were delivered by the instant organization to the New York Postal Censorship Station for processing, and the handling of them was thereafter left in the hands of the New York Postal Censorship Station.

It has been further stated that Smith was introduced to Censorship by some member of Congress. It was later reported that Senator Pepper assisted Smith in making arrangements with Censorship.

The foregoing is submitted for your information.

Very truly yours,

John Edgar Hoover

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. D. L. LADD

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-
SOVIET FRIENDSHIP;
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Reference is made to the memorandum to you from Mr. F. L. Miss Beahm Welch dated October 28, 1943, containing information received from Miss Gandy a highly confidential source to the effect that the Executive Secretary of the captioned organization, Edwin S. Smith, [redacted] WELCH

[redacted] Smith informed that the Office of Censorship was holding "cards" for shipping instructions. b3 b7E

These cards referred to pertained to a program of the instant organization whereby citizens in this country wrote semi-personal messages to unknown individuals in the Soviet Union. Confidential informants have advised the use of the names and the current addresses might be profitable to the Soviet Union.

While handling other matters, the content of referenced memorandum was discreetly discussed with Colonel Carlson, Chief Postal Censor, and Mr. Wolgemuth, Executive Liaison Officer of the United States Office of Censorship. It was ascertained from the Censorship representatives that Edwin S. Smith of 232 Madison Avenue, New York City, made arrangements with Censorship for the wrapping and sealing of approximately 15,000 cards destined for the Soviet Union. These cards were delivered by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to the New York Postal Censorship Station for pre-censorship, and the handling of them was thereafter left in the hands of Mr. Spinney of the New York Postal Censorship Station. Mr. Wolgemuth also said that it was his information that each individual writer of a card was charged 25¢ for the privilege.

Colonel Carlson also remarked that he understood that Smith was introduced to Censorship by some member of Congress. It was later ascertained through Wolgemuth that Senator Pepper assisted Smith in making the arrangements with Censorship.

The cards will undoubtedly be forwarded to their destination after Censorship looks them over in New York City.

ACTION: It is recommended that the instant memorandum be furnished Mr. Welch for his information.

Respectfully,

66PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIALMEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

As of assistance to this Bureau in conducting an investigation of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, it is deemed advisable to establish a technical surveillance on the telephones of this organization's headquarters, 232 Madison Avenue, New York City, telephone numbers, Murray Hill 3-2059, 3-2060, 3-2062.

The National Council of American Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, is known to be guided by officers and executives either having known or reported Communist affiliations. It is engaged actively in propagandizing on a widespread basis the Soviet Union. To do this it distributes very large quantities of literature, stages large mass meetings and engages in other propaganda techniques. A highly confidential and most reliable source has advised that at least three of its officers, Edwin S. Smith, Executive Director; Thomas L. Harris, National Secretary; and Alice Prentiss-Barrows, Activities Director, [redacted]

Two other highly confidential and reliable sources have advised that executive officers of this organization seek advice and receive instructions from national functionaries of the Communist Party, such as Steve Nelse and Alexander Trachtenberg. It is also known that the Communist Party in various localities where this organization has established branches has assisted in the arrangements and supplied known Communists to lead the local units.

On the dates November 7 and 8, 1943, this organization sponsored a series of American-Soviet Friendship Congresses throughout the country. Various panel forums were held on subjects pertinent to the Soviet Union. Relative to these Congresses, it is reported that Alexander Trachtenberg, Director of Publications and of Education of the Communist Party in this country, actively concerned himself with the promotion thereof. A reliable informant has stated that Trachtenberg has in his possession detailed reports on the organization's past accomplishments and complete advance plans and schedules for future activities of the organization.

Relative to the background of this organization, information in the files of this Bureau reflects that it traces its origin back to the group known as Friends of Soviet Russia, which was formed in 1921 by the then

Executive Committee of the Communist Party. In the spring of 1929 the name of the organization was changed to Friends of the Soviet Union, the United States Section. This organization actively propagandized for the Soviet Union as well as the Communist Party in the United States. It published during the years 1932 through 1937 "Soviet Russia Today," presently published by the SRT Publications Company. This organ propagandized as it does now the Soviet Union and had as its publishers and writers known Communists. In 1938 the organization had another change in name to that of the American Council on Soviet Relations, which continued in existence until the spring of 1942 when it again changed its name to the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

In view of the foregoing information and inasmuch as a technical surveillance on the offices of the instant organization would undoubtedly produce vital information relative to Communist and Russian propaganda in this country, I strongly urge that you authorize the establishment of this surveillance.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS: COLORADO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP organized in Denver as part of the National Council. Officers and patrons of Subject chiefly composes of more prominent Denver residents. Communist interest in and support of subject apparent but no substantial infiltration of its membership affected. THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, in Denver briefly during September on speaking tour giving great impetus to small organization which existed at that time. Celebration of tenth anniversary of Soviet American diplomatic relations held in City Auditorium December 2, 1943, attended by approximately 2,000 people, addressed by THOMAS L. HARRIS, among others, and consisted chiefly of speeches designed to pep up or add enthusiasm to organization. Meeting of officers, patrons and THOMAS L. HARRIS later indicates that organization is well integrated and strong in Denver at present time with plans for regular meetings, luncheons, educational groups and general continued and strong activity in the future. Information about officers and patrons and summary of speeches set out.

Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that WILLIAM DEITRICH, member of the Communist party in Denver and operator of the Auditorium Book Store, Denver, Colorado had contacted Mrs. EDGAR M. WAHLBERG who had told Mr. DEITRICH that THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of Subject organization was staying at her home during his stay in Denver and that HARRIS had talked at the Grace Church during the evening of September 26, 1943, was to speak at a luncheon at the Denver Y.W.C.A. on September 27, 1943, would speak over radio station KOA at 6:15, September 28, 1943, would speak later during the same evening to a forum group composed of the "Citizens for Victory" in a private home, would speak to the Denver City Civic Club on September 29, 1943 and would then make speeches in Colorado Springs, Boulder, and Greeley, all of Colorado.

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] further advised that Mr. DEITRICH had made known to the officers of Subject organization the appreciation of the Communist party at their handling such a meritorious undertaking as the organization of Subject organization.

b7D

Reporting Agent attended the above-mentioned meeting which was to be held at the Y.W.C.A. The meeting was attended by about thirty-five persons, mostly members of the Y.W.C.A. and was presided over by Miss LORNA TUTTLE, one of the sponsors of Subject organization and Secretary of the Denver Y.W.C.A. A summary of the content of Mr. HARRIS' speech, which he made at that time, has been previously furnished the Bureau by letter dated September 28, 1943. His speech consisted chiefly of a declaration that Russia was reaching the pre-eminent position of being the number one power in the world, that the United States and Great Britain had not yet given her all the aid they could, condemned them for their failure to open a second front, observed that Russia was nearing her own borders in the expulsion of the Germans and that, unless a firm friendship between her and the United States, based on concrete cooperation, were reached before her military might was felt on the soil of the European nations, a third World War would become a real threat. He stated that Russia had the alternative of either acquiring buffer states along her borders backed by continued military might or of baring her internal security from invasion in a firm friendship with England and the United States. Whether this firm friendship was to be achieved would be up to us. He advocated a continuance of lend lease to Russia during her period of reconstruction after the war.

Reporting Agent listened to his talk over radio station KOA, Denver, on the following evening, which contained about the same content as his talk at the Y.W.C.A.

By letters dated November 15 and 26, 1943, Mrs. HERBERT D. ULMER, local secretary of the Colorado Council of Subject organization, advised the writer that her home address, 591 South Downing Street, Denver, Colorado would be the mail headquarters of the organization and that the organization was sponsoring a celebration of the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations on December 2, 1943 in the City Auditorium. She stated that THOMAS L. HARRIS would be the chief speaker, flanked by speakers, WILLIAM L. BATT, President of SKF Industries Inc. and Vice Chairman of the War Production Board and ALBERT DEKKER, Hollywood screen actor. She said that funds would be used to cover expenses and to initiate an organization to carry on the important educational work of Subject organization. She stated "That there is vital need for this work, we are sure you are agreed. Certainly to win the war, and to win an enduring peace, it is imperative that we do our utmost to promote better understanding between the people of the United States and the people of our heroic Soviet ally. This understanding must be based on truth..."

Reporting Agent and Special Agent JOSEPH JOHNSON attended this anniversary meeting. Tickets sold for 25¢, 50¢ and $1.00 and the celebration was attended by approximately 2000 people. Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau had advised us earlier in the day that the local members of the Communist party were enthusiastic about the celebration and would attend. This Confidential Informant advised of no active Communist participation in the undertaking.

S. ARTHUR HENRY, one of the Board of Governors of Subject and a prominent Denver Attorney, acted as chairman and the celebration seemed to consist more of being a pep rally than an educational meeting.

Rev. SCOTT MC MUNN, one of the organization's sponsors, gave the invocation which consisted of a thanksgiving for the great work of our great ally, Russia, and a prayer for continued cooperation and understanding between Russia and the United States. Several community leaders were introduced to say a few words and among them were BEN F. STAPLETON, Mayor of Denver, GEORGE W. BRAYFIELD, President of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, CHARLES BINNA, Office of the Denver CIO Council and a member of the Communist party who read a greeting from his superior REED ROBINSON, and Dr. R. G. GUSTAVSON, President of the University of Colorado. Their talks were very short and consisted of felicitations to the newborn organization.

ALBERT DEKKER, Hollywood screen actor, gave a talk which consisted more of humorous quips interspersed with exclamations about the relative smallness of the world as compared with years past, necessity of brotherhood among peoples and nations and a prayer that his children would have a peaceful world to live in. Such organizations as Subject organization, he said, are among the few who are making a sincere and spirited effort to make such ideals reality.

THOMAS L. HARRIS gave a speech which, in contrast to other talks he has given, was evidently not intended to inform the audience about Russian aims and world prospects but rather to make an emotional appeal to them resulting in new and better membership in Subject organization. He discussed the identity of the ideals the various united nations were fighting for and the difficulty encountered in attempting to distinguish the valor and virtue of martyred American soldiers from their Russian counterparts and, in fact, compatriots. He climaxed his talk with a plea that we at home bend our efforts to the wheel so that those soldiers will not have died in vain and so that the ideals for which they fought and are fighting for will be realized. He wound up his talk by managing a collection which was taken from the audience. He introduced the collection by formally accepting a $200.00 donation from J. L. ROBBINS, one of Subject's sponsors and then, in succession, called for hundred, twenty, ten, five and one dollar bills and finally for the coin boxes to be passed.

The final speech of the evening was given by WILLIAM L. BATT, Vice Chairman of the War Production Board, President of S.K.F. Industries, Inc. This speech consisted of an economic argument for world peace after the war which contained an implicit advocacy of free trade and payment of war debts in kind rather than in money.

By letter dated December 10, 1943, Mrs. HERBERT D. ULMER, Secretary of the local council (such letter having been mimeographed to all names on her mailing list) advised reporting Agent that over two thousand people had attended the above reported organization and, in addition to gate receipts, contributed nearly $700.00. She stated that the Council needed cooperation, finances, and a central downtown office. She announced a meeting to be held at the Y.W.C.A., December 18, 1943, 7:30 PM and invited attendance.

On December 14, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that Mr. FRANK MUNRO, a member of the Communist party in Denver, had been invited by Mrs. HERBERT D. ULMER to attend the last mentioned meeting where his name would be among twenty-five others presented by the nominating committee for membership on the executive committee.

b7D

Enclosed with the last mentioned letter from Mrs. ULMER to reporting Agent was a "REPORT ON AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP LUNCHEON DECEMBER 4TH FOR MR. HARRIS TO OUTLINE FUTURE ACTIVITIES OF THE DENVER COUNCIL". Following is a summary of that report:

Mr. HARRIS presided and thought that the December 2 celebration was a success because it had a program that clicked and even surpassed their Los Angeles "show", a large representative audience made up of all types of people, a good publicity campaign and a good financial report.

Mr. HARRIS had attended and had reports about many of the other 56 similar meetings held throughout the country. He rated Denver among the best.

Since the organization set up for the Celebration was formulated hurriedly and was temporary, Mr. HARRIS initiated the first official plans to draw up a permanent organization. It was moved, seconded, and passed that a Denver Council be established. Mr. HARRIS suggested that the following be a nominating committee to select an executive committee: Mr. RAYMOND WASER, Mr. I. WEINER, Mr. STANFORD FELLERS, Mrs. HERBERT D. ULMER. These were then appointed.

The following thoughts for future projects were presented:

1. Programs of activity that meet every type or group of interests in the community.
2. Affiliation with the national association though retaining local autonomy.
3. No affiliation with any political party or group. "It may be expected that anti-Soviet forces will do Red and Communistic labeling, but such are the tactics of aiding the enemy and Hitler; they are not statements of fact. The workers in American Soviet Councils are not mainly Communists. It was reported that locally the Communists have done practically no work in promoting the Denver Celebration".

DVR. 100-940

4. The purpose of the Council is to promote friendship with and understanding of the Soviet Union and to expose the dangers of Anti-Soviet propaganda.

5. Mr. HARRIS suggested, as possible avenues of work, dinner meetings once a month, a radio program, a spring seminar, downtown headquarters, stocking of literature.

Mr. HARRIS advised against a long list of permanent sponsors, suggested a standing committee of 100 to 150 in number.

The following are the current officers, sponsors, etc. Data about each are from the city directory, the Denver Retail Credit Men's Association and, where indicated, from the files of the Denver Field Office.

Miss LORNA TUTTLE: [ ] Denver. General Secretary of the Denver Y.W.C.A.

Rev. EDGAR M. WAHLBERG: [ ] Pastor of Grace Community Church. Denver File No. [ ] lists him as a member of the Local Board of Directors of the American Civil Liberties Union during July 1941. [ ] lists him as a subscriber to the People's Daily Worker in 1940. [ ] lists him as being one of a sponsoring committee of the America First Committee during 1941. [ ] and other references in the Denver Field Office indicates a rather continued activity on his part in the above and similar organization.

Dr. EDWIN R. WALKER: [ ] Boulder, Colorado. Professor of Religion at the University of Colorado.

STANLEY T. WALLBANK: 170 Downing, Denver, Colorado. Local Attorney and apparently active in civic organizations and activities.

On December 16, 1945, the writer attended the organization meeting of the standing committee of subject organization which was held at the YWCA. The meeting was attended by 19 people. All of these people were either known to be or appeared to be from the upper class in Denver except for FRANK MUNRO and an ANDREW JACKSON, who attended and sat together. As aforesaid, MUNRO is a member of the Communist Party and JACKSON, during the course of the meeting, told the chairman how he had been distributing Browder leaflets to members of Local 47, AF of L of the Machinists Union, which leaflets he had obtained from BILL DEITRICH, proprietor of the Auditorium Book Store, Denver, Colorado, and, according to the Denver Field Office files and Confidential Informant reports, one of the most active Communists in Denver.

The meeting was presided over by I. WEINER. The first order of business was the recommendation and election in a group of an executive committee. The new executive committee was composed of names of very prominent Denver residents and numbered about twenty. Among them, however, are the names of CHARLES BINNA and HAROLD SANDERSON.

CHARLES BINNA is the Denver Secretary of the C.I.O. Council, a University graduate and, according to Denver File No. [ ] numerous other field office references and reports from Confidential Informants, an active member of the Communist Party. HAROLD SANDERSON is the private secretary of REED ROBINSON, one of the sponsors of subject organization and the president of the Mine Mill and Smelter Worker's Union. SANDERSON, according to numerous references in Denver Field Office files and current reports of Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, is one of the most active members of the Denver Communist Party at the present time.

It should be pointed out, however, that there is no evidence of deliberate appointment and election of Communist Party members to positions as officers and committee members of subject organization. Rather, as I. WEINER explained, the point was to get several "members of labor" into the executive committee and the names of BINNA and SANDERSON were chosen because they had not refused to be members and because their superiors had.

Mr. WEINER explained further that the purpose of the meeting was to "activate the organization" which was still riding the crest of its triumph in having one of the most successful celebrations in the United States on December 2, 1943. He pointed out that it was now necessary to establish a well organized and permanent organization which would function effectively, though less spectacularly, through the coming months. This organization would have outstanding speakers, regular meetings, paid membership and popular appeal.

During the course of the evening Mr. THOMAS MCKEE, news editor of Denver radio station KFEL was elected Director of the "new" organization. He initiated plans to have a public meeting during the last part of January which would be addressed by some Russian diplomat.

Dear Sir:

The following pertinent activities of the Toledo, Ohio Section of the Communist Party were reported by Confidential Informant [redacted] for the period November 12th through November 18, 1943. (No headquarters are maintained by this Section of the Communist Party, all business being conducted in Apartment [redacted] Toledo, Ohio, which is the residence of JOSEPH FRIEDMAN, Toledo Section Executive Secretary.)

JOSEPH FRIEDMAN told EDWARD J. FALKOWSKI (Party Member and Publicity Chairman of the Toledo Chapter of Russian War Relief, Inc.) that a collection should be taken up at the American Soviet Friendship Rally to be held in Toledo on December 15, 1943, in connection with American Soviet Friendship Week. FRIEDMAN said that money will be needed to keep the Permanent Committee on American Soviet Friendship functioning after the celebration.

In connection with the above-mentioned meeting, FRIEDMAN requested MIRIAM STOVER DAHLMANN (Party Member and Librarian for the Toledo Industrial Union Council -- the CIO governing body) to sell literature at the American Soviet Friendship Rally because she is not known as a Party Member, and that if FRIEDMAN attempted to sell the literature people might recognize him "and know that we were back of all this".

JOE FRIEDMAN told NICHOLAS SZABO (Party Member and nominee for TIUC Sergeant at Arms) that he is going to Cleveland on November 20, 1943, to meet a National Communist Party Committeeman (ROY BANNERMAN HUDSON) and receive instructions on what action the Party Members should take at the Ohio State CIO Convention at Columbus, Ohio starting November 22, 1943.

FRIEDMAN planned to take with him to Cleveland several Toledo Party Members who would likewise receive instructions from HUDSON and be told the names of other Party Members whom they are "supposed to team up with" at the State CIO Convention.

In addition to the foregoing information, [ ] has reported the names of several persons as definitely being members of the Communist Party in Toledo.

TITLE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, formerly known as AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS			CHARA

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

The Milwaukee Council of American Soviet continuing to operate as a Communist front organization with its activities. NED SPARKS, State Secretary of the Co State of Wisconsin. This organization ship of ALICE HENDRICKSON, Executive known CP member, sponsored a rally in 1943, advertised as a meeting to honor goodwill representatives sent to the United States by Russia which was primarily planned by the local Council as a means of combatting anti-Semitic sentiment and to solicit funds for Soviet Russia. Approximately 2000 persons attended and nearly $5000 was collected for a hospital in Leningrad. In conformity with the National Council program, the local Council staged a meeting November 13, 1943, in Milwaukee to commemorate the 10th Anniversary of American Soviet Friendship and the 26th Anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union. ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH were the featured attractions. The drive was planned to collect $25,000 for the purpose of a tank to be given to Russia which was timed to tie in with the November 13th Meeting. This latter endeavor was unsuccessful. An organization identified as the Madison Council of American Soviet Friendship has taken root at Madison, Wisconsin, and commenced activities. Dr. MENDELHALL is Honorary Chairman; EDWARD N. DOAN, President and Mrs. FRANK RENT (JOSEPHINE), a Communist Party member, is the Secretary.

Confidential Informants [ ] advised that subject organization is continuing to operate as a front organization for the Communist Party under the direction of ALICE HENDRICKSON, Executive Secretary, along plans laid down by NED SPARKS, State Secretary of the Communist Party. The Council maintains its office at 221 East Wisconsin Avenue and ALICE HENDRICKSON is assisted in her work with the Council by MARY E. KEITH, an active Communist Party member of this district, as well as other additional help on the part of Communist Party members when she is able to obtain same. The local organization is presently operating under the title, "Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship."

b7D

Informant [ ] advised as November 29, 1943, that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, Executive Secretary of the Wisconsin State Conference on Social Legislation, in a conversation with ESTHER EISENSCHER, the bookkeeper for the Communist Party Headquarters, ELIZABETH BLAIR and several other individuals stated that she and ALICE WARD are at odds with ALICE HENDRICKSON because ALICE wants to use AGNES JESSEN, BECKY WILLIAMS, EVELYN GENDELMAN and other Party standbys in the American Council work. NORDSTRAND stated that in her opinion this would put the public wise as to the true nature of American Council of Soviet Friendship. NORDSTRAND stated that at the present time ALICE is using MARY KEITH, DOLORES BURZGINSKI and MRS. GOLDSMITH to assist her in the work of the ACSF.

I. Reception for Professor Solomon Michaels and Lieutenant-Colonel Itzik Jeffer

MRS. A. STOLLENWERK, who is in charge of the banquet department of the Hotel Schroeder, advised that she received a telephone call from an individual who gave her name was HENDRICKSON approximately one week prior to July 30th, inquiring about the use of a room for an afternoon tea. This individual advised that a room was reserved for July 30. Following this conversation, Mrs. HENDRICKSON called personally at the hotel a day prior to the meeting to complete arrangements. Informant stated that at this time she first talked to HENDRICKSON it was next to impossible to obtain any definite information about the meeting and that HENDRICKSON gave evasive and indirect answers to all inquiries. Informant stated they had to "pump" everything out of her which aroused her suspicions as to the nature of this affair. HENDRICKSON stated that the meeting was not sponsored by any organization but was being given by two ladies. She stated that it was a reception for Judge ANNA KROSS. The day prior to the meeting HENDRICKSON called and mentioned that she would supply their own cakes and cookies which again made informant suspicious and angry, as the contract specifically provides against such action and union rules prohibit this, plus the fact that a letter advising HENDRICKSON of this fact had been sent to her. The arrangements called for accommodations suitable for approximately 40 persons and the meeting was to be held in one of the hotel clubrooms. The reception was set for July 30th. Informant stated that on the day of the meeting Mr. M. F. JACOBS of the B'nai B'rith Jewish Society inquired of her as to where the meeting for the Russians was being held, at which time informant said she never heard of any meeting of that nature. Informant advised there was a reception being held for a Judge ANNA KROSS and suggested he try that group. JACOBS then said that he knew of Judge ANNA KROSS who was very popular in New York. Informant stated that in her opinion the meeting had a Red tinge and JACOBS said that if there were any Communists in it they would be tossed right out. He promised to return immediately and tell her the results of his findings in this respect, but failed to return. Informant said that when the meeting was over she happened to see JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND and ALICE HENDRICKSON coming down the stairs of the hotel together and then as if that wasn't enough to disclose the true identity of these individuals, informant noticed that they were joined by Mr. WILLIAM HUBIN, a Communist well known in this district, and entered a car with him. Informant stated that Mr. JACOBS had made mention of the fact that the meeting had something to do with the plan of bringing two Russian aviators to Milwaukee and to stage a rally in their honor. It is to be noted that a meeting had been contemplated in honor of 2 Russians by the name of Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS and Lieutenant Colonel ITZIK FEFFER, on the part of the American Council and the Communist Party, but in view of the fact that these individuals were Jewish in nationality, it was decided that this meeting should be an anti-Semitic Rally and one designed to encourage the cooperation of the Jewish people. This meeting is evidently a first step in that direction. Informant stated that the address of Mr. M. F. JACOBS was [redacted] [redacted] telephone number Hopkins 3320, in the event additional information was desired.

Informant stated that ALICE HENDRICKSON listed her address as [redacted] Milwaukee, Wisconsin, telephone Lakeside 0328. This informant advised as of a later date that another meeting was held at the Schroeder Hotel by this same group and that the meeting was sponsored by the Friends of Soviet Union and that the object of the meeting was to make arrangements for a rally to be held for the Russian delegation from the U.S.S.R., FEFFER and MICHOELS. The Milwaukee Sentinel in article dated August 13, 1943, entitled, "Reception September 9 for Russians Planned," reads:

"Representatives from Milwaukee civic groups met Thursday night at the Schroeder hotel to formulate plans for the reception of Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer, Russian poet, and Prof. Solomon Michoels, Russian educator and actor, at the Auditorium Sept. 9."

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated August 14, 1943, entitled, "Civic Reception Slated Here for Two Russians" read: "About 70 representatives of Milwaukee civic groups met Thursday night to further plans for the civic reception Sept. 9 at the Auditorium for Lieut. Col. Itzik

"Feffer, Russian poet, and Professor Solomon Michaels, Russian Educator and actor, More than 6,000 tickets to the reception were distributed Thursday night for redistribution among members of the organizations represented. Another block of 450 was reserved.

"The reception will be in the main hall of the Auditorium."

The Milwaukee Journal in article dated September 1, 1943, titled, "Plan Civic Welcome for Russian Leaders", reads in part:

"Arrangements for the civic reception September 9 at the Auditorium for Lieut. Col. Itzik Feffer and Prof. Solomon Michaels, Soviet leaders who have been touring in Mexico, Canada and this country, will be completed at a luncheon Thursday at the Schroeder Hotel.

"Prof. Michaels, founder of the Moscow Jewish Art Theater and Chairman of the USSR Jewish Anti-Fascist committee, and Col. Feffer, a Jewish poet, are both holders of the order of Lenin, highest Soviet honor. They will come here from Toronto, Ontario. Tickets for the reception are available at the Boston Store, Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 221 W. Wisconsin Avenue, the YWCA and other places."

A Milwaukee Sentinel article dated 9/3/43 entitled, "Russ Leaders To Be Feted", subheaded, "Officials and Civic Figures to be Invited" reads in part:

"Government officials, military and naval officers and civic leaders are among the dignitaries invited to speak at the civic reception to be given for Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer and Prof. Solomon Michaels, Soviet leaders, it was announced at a luncheon meeting of 40 representatives of various groups in the Schroeder Hotel Thursday. The Rev. HALE E. NORTON, pastor of Roundy Memorial Baptist church, Whitefish Bay, presided.

"Invitations to extend greetings at the reception to be held in the Auditorium Sept. 9 have been sent to Mayor Bohn, Gov. Goodland, Col. William H. McCarty, commander of district 2 of the 5th service command; Capt. Dallas Dupre, commander of the naval ROTC at Marquette University; Lt. Cecil Lane of the WAC Recruiting Office; Ensign Patricia Conville, head of the WAVES Recruiting Office; Rev. HOWARD McMURRAY, WILLIAM GEORGE BRUCE, civic leader; Dr. JOHN LEWIS, Chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, and representatives from the CIO and AFL. The group will be escorted to the stage by a color guard from Billy Mitchell Field."

According to the article, many of the 15,000 tickets have been sold according to Mrs. Alice Hendrickson, Executive Secretary of the Council of American Soviet Friendship which is assisting the Reception Committee headed by Mayor Bohn as honorary chairman. The two Russians will fly here from Toronto, Canada.

On September 1, 1943, Miss A. STELLENWERK of the Schroeder Hotel advised that a meeting was to be held in the Marquette Room of the Schroeder Hotel. The meeting was to be held at 12:30 p.m. on 9/2/43. The dinner was to be in the name of the Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee of the Russian delegation. This informant stated that a Miss A. HENDRICKSON of 221 East Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was sponsoring this meeting. Informant further stated that Miss HENDRICKSON requested that the name, Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee of the Russian delegation, be withheld from the hotel bulletin board. It is to be noted at this point that the American Council of Soviet Friendship has decided to drop into the background in connection with this meeting and it organized in its stead a group which was called the Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee of the Russian Delegation which carried out all of the original plans of this affair and had the advantage of making several Jewish organizations feel that they were actively participating in the organization of this rally and yet accomplishing the objectives desired by the Council.

Exhibit #1 is a one-page flyer advertising the September 9th Rally. The flyer contains the pictures of Itzik Feffer and Professor Solomon Michaels advertising the rally to be held in the Milwaukee Auditorium September 9th, 8 p.m. The rally is entitled "Welcome Reception in Honor of Official Delegation from the U.S.S.R." The admission charged is 55¢ and the name, "Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee - Mayor John L. Bohn, Honorary Chairman" is listed, giving the impression that the rally is sponsored by this Reception Committee alone. Honorary Co-Chairmen are also listed as follows:

Judge F. Ryan Duffy
Milton C. Potter
George Ettenheim
Reverend John Lewis

Reverend M. A. Simonsen
Rabbi Samuel Hirschberg
Dr. Elston Belknap
William George Bruce

Informant [ ] advised that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, in a conversation with ALICE HENDRICKSON, FANNE SILBER and several other individuals, stated that the Wisconsin Conference on Social Legislation had taken 50 tickets to the Feffer-Michaels Meeting and that she expected to sell personally approximately 15. This informant further advised that a representative of the Reception Committee for the Russian Jewish Delegation, which was in charge of the Feffer-Michaels Meeting, had advised ALICE

b7D

HENDRICKSON that she would receive $35 a week for her work in connection with arranging the Feffer-Michols Meeting in Milwaukee and that 10% of the proceeds of the meeting in Milwaukee would be given to the local chapter of the ACSR. 15,000 tickets for this meeting were printed and distributed. This informant further advised that ALICE HENDRICKSON, in a conversation with NED SPARKS, FRED BLAIR and several others, advised SPARKS that MOSES FINKELSTEIN, a Communist Party member, is handling the arrangements for the nationwide tour of Lt. ITZIK FEFFER and Prof. SOLOMON MICHOELS and that the organization sponsoring this tour is known as the National Reception Committee for the Soviet Delegation and is located in New York City.

ALICE HENDRICKSON in a conversation with NORDSTRAND, FANNE SILBER and several others, advised NORDSTRAND that MILTON POTTER, former Chairman of the Milwaukee County School Board, had agreed to serve as an honorary chairman for this meeting in honor of Lieutenant Colonel ITZIK FEFFER and Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS.

This informant further advised that as of August 13, 1943, NATHAN GARFIELD, a key figure of this Field Division, advised ALICE HENDRICKSON and JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND and several other individuals that a certain amount of opposition had developed among Jewish organizations to the holding of the Feffer-Michols Meeting. He mentioned the Jewish National Alliance as the most active in this respect.

Exhibit #2, is a form letter furnished to this Field Division by Informant [ ] who advised that a number of these letters were mimeographed in the WSCSL located at 3125 Plankinton Building, September 2, 1943. This form letter is entitled, "Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee to the Soviet Delegation". The address is given as 221 East Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Broadway 4486.

b7D

It is to be noted that this address and phone number constitute the office of the American Council of Soviet Friendship. Across the top of this form letter appears, "In Honor of Professor Solomon Michoels, and Lieutenant Colonel Itzik Feffer, Official Delegates of U.S.S.R." On the side portion of the letter is set forth the members of the Reception Committee. The Reception Committee members consist of Mayor John L. Bohy as Honorary Chairman, and the Honorary Co-Chairmen are the same as have been set forth as listed on the bottom portion of the flyer previously described. The National Reception Committee lists Prof. ALBERT EINSTEIN as Honorary Chairman. A number of Honorary co-Chairmen are set forth. The honorary co-chairmen include many prominent individuals, most of whom are active in Jewish circles such as EDDIE CANTOR, Judge ANNA M. KROSS, PAUL MUNI, PAUL ROBESON, UPTON SINCLAIR, and a number of others. The letter is dated August 27, 1943, addressed to "Dear Friend:" It reads in part:

"Fresh from the scorched battlefields of the Eastern Front, a Soviet Delegation will greet the people of Milwaukee in the name of their embattled countrymen at a great public reception at the Milwaukee Auditorium, Thursday, September 9th, at 8 o'clock.

"A welcoming committee headed by acting Mayor John L. Bohn, and supported by an imposing list of prominent Milwaukee leaders, is planning a reception for two Soviet visitors, Prof. Solomon Michaels and Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer, that will duplicate in enthusiasm the welcome being accorded them in all parts of the country."

The letter sets forth the accomplishments of these individuals and then makes a plea for helping make the reception a tremendous success. The letter states, "We expect that this meeting will be even more exciting and magnificent than the notable reception for Lieut. Luidmilla Pavlichenko who was visiting our city last October."

The letter is signed Mrs. H. J. BRODY and ALICE MOORE HENDRICKSON, (Co-Executive Secretaries).

On the back portion of this form letter is printed the members of the Milwaukee Reception Committee, the Mayors of Cudahy, City of South Milwaukee, City of Wauwatosa, City of West Allis and the President of the Villages of Fox Point, Greendale, Shorewood and West Milwaukee and Whitefish Bay are listed. Congressman HOWARD MC MURRAY and Congressman THADDEUS WASILEWSKI are listed. There are also listed 252 names of other individuals, most of whom are prominent in Milwaukee and vicinity as members of this Milwaukee Reception Committee.

The Milwaukee Sentinel in an article dated 9/6/43 entitled, "Russian Cultural Aids to Talk Here Thursday", states in part:

"EUGENE D. KISSELEV, Consul-General of the USSR in New York, will be a featured speaker at the civic reception planned for Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer and Prof. Solomon Michaels, cultural emissaries from the Soviet, in the Auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

"The two, who have been accorded large public welcomes in all cities they have visited, also will speak. William George Bruce, leading Catholic layman of Milwaukee, will be a fourth speaker.

"Both Jewish cultural leaders in Russia have been in the Red army but were taken out to play roles as morale builders. They have received the highest Soviet award, the Order of Lenin."

Dr. Frank E. Baker, President of Milwaukee State Teachers College, has been designated to preside at the reception.

Governor Walter S. Goodland, Mayor Bohn, honorary chairman of the civic committee, military and naval officers, government officials and representatives of nationality and labor groups will extend greetings.

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated 9/8/43 entitled, "Russians Will Be Here on Thursday" contains the additional information to the effect that the Russian representatives plan to arrive in Milwaukee on schedule and will fly from Toronto, Ontario, to Chicago and then come to Milwaukee by train. Upon arrival in Milwaukee they will go directly to the Mayor's office for official greetings and to inscribe their names on the city's guest book for notables. The article lists Colonel WILLIAM MC CARTY and Captain DALLAS D. DUPRE as additional speakers. Governor Goodland has advised that he is unable to attend the reception and sent his regrets to the committee in charge.

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated 9/9/43, entitled "Soviet Delegates Will Discuss War", sets out a brief background history of these Russian representatives and further states that the program will include addresses by EUGENE D. KISSELEV, Soviet Consul General in New York. Music will be furnished through the courtesy of Local 8, American Federation of Musicians (AFL).

Exhibit #3 is a program of the reception given for the Russian representatives September 9, 1943, at the Milwaukee Auditorium. The program is a two-page folder, the exterior of which contains a small picture of MICHOELS and FEFFER and states, "Russia's Fighting People Sent them to You." The reception is described as in honor of Professor Solomon Michoels and Lieutenant Colonel Itzik Feffer.

The first inside page of the program reads that the affair was arranged by Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee to the Soviet Delegation. It then sets forth the members of the reception committee, as previously described. The program reads:

It is to be noted at this point that MEYER ADELMAN is a member of the Industrial Union Council and a very active CP member.

The program continues:

Milwaukee Salutes the Heroic People of the U.S.S.R.:

REVEREND JOHN LEWIS
WILLIAM GEORGE BRUCE
BERT BROUDE

The program contains a short resume of the background of Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS and Lieutenant Colonel ITZIK FEFFER.

On the back portion of the program is printed, "To Lieutenant Colonel Feffer and Professor Michoels:

"The Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship warmly greets you - the honored emissaries of your country to ours. Today we and the entire world salute your people and your government for literally saving all civilization from slavery and destruction. Long over a year ago our General MacArthur stated, "The hopes of civilization rest upon the worthy banners of the mighty Red Army."

The article continues praising the Russian Army for its mighty accomplishments and then states that the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, chapter of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, launched November 7, 1942, at a National Congress held in New York City, is doing its utmost to bring our two nations closer together for a speedy victory and a lasting people's peace.

It is then printed, "We invite all who are interested in the work of the Council to visit our office at 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue at any time." There are then blanks to be filled out soliciting membership in the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship. This blank reads:

"Chairman -- Reverend John Lewis

I am interested in receiving notices of the activities of the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

NAME .....

ADDRESS ....."

It is stated that the program was donated by the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship.

The Milwaukee Sentinel in an article dated 9/9/43 entitled, "Nazis Past Their Peak, Says Ex-Red Army Man", describes the aforementioned meeting. The article reads in part:

"Nazi forces have passed the peak of their strength and are now on the decline."

"That is what Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer, former member of the Red Army, who, with Prof. Solomon Michoels, will come to Milwaukee Thursday as a representative of the Soviet, told A. S. Ginnes, national field director of the Council of American-Soviet Friendship, in a telephone conversation from Montreal Wednesday. Ginnes is in Milwaukee assisting the local reception committee with arrangements."

The article indicates that a 2nd front is going to be requested and quoting Lt. Col. Feffer, "As much as we appreciate the military and medical supplies sent to us by the American people, we would be far happier to see these tanks driven by American soldiers in increasing numbers in western Europe. We must not fail to take advantage of the setbacks being suffered by the Fascist forces on the eastern front."

The article states that a public reception will be held in the Auditorium and that approximately 2,750 tickets have been sold as of Wednesday night.

Milwaukee Sentinel article dated September 10, 1943, describes the reception given in honor of the Russian Emmissaries. The article contains pictures of Prof. Solomon Michoels and Lt. Col. Itzik Feffer. The article reads in part:

"The hope for peace this year and the destruction of Fascism was voiced by three representatives of Soviet Russia at the civic reception for them Thursday night by more than 2,000 Milwaukeeans, including public officials, representatives of the army and navy, the WACS and the WAVES, community leaders and CIO and AFL officials.

"Eugene Kisselev, the Soviet Union's consul general at New York, stressed the fact that the initiative is now in the hands of the United Nations on all fronts and he asked for an Anglo-Soviet-American drive upon "the Fascist beast" to bring victory this year."

The article states that Professor SOLOMON MICHUELS and FEFFER both spoke in Yiddish, yet referring to MICHUELS stated that "his powerful gestures and resonant, impassioned voice were convincing enough as he thundered his final plea for "peace this year and death to fascism."

Lt. Col. ITZIK FEFFER stressed that a quicker victory would come from a full scale offensive on the European continent. Although the Russians referred to the Italian surrender, they centered more attention on the battle still to come against the common foe - Nazi Germany.

MEYER ADELMAN, Secretary of the Milwaukee County Industrial Union Council, specifically called for a "second front." He said the CIO workers would continue vigorously to remind the President of the United States and his military advisors that "we workers have a stake in this war and we believe the sooner a second front is opened in Western Europe, the quicker the war will be won."

Lavish tributes to the Red Army were paid by Mayor Bohn and all the other speakers. Colonel SCHARDT spoke of the "miracle of Russia's astonishing victories" which gave Britain and America a breathing spell before they launched their armies against Europe.

Prof. Michoels told of the life of the Russian Jews under the czar, when they were confined to certain communities, restricted to certain trades and completely disfranchised. In the Soviet, the Jews now have full citizenship and are tilling the land, and working in crafts once forbidden to them.

Dr. Frank E. Baker, President of Milwaukee State Teachers College, presided at the meeting, sponsored by a civic reception committee named to welcome the Soviet representatives. Attorney Robert A. Hess took charge of a drive which netted about $4,000 from individuals and organizations represented in the audience for a military hospital in Leningrad.

Milwaukee Journal, in an article dated September 10, 1943, carried an article entitled, "West Europe Front is Asked", in which it set forth the results of the Michoels-Feffer Meeting. The article contains a picture of the three Russian individuals and the article reflects that approximately 2500 individuals attended. The article states in part that "most of Michoels' address was devoted to an impassioned description of the freedom of life permitted Jews in Russia since the fall of the czar, in contrast to "Nazi bestiality." His highly dramatic description of Jewish executions by the Germans - '56,000 in Kiev alone' - brought tears from many."

Colonel FEFFER described the prowess of the Red Army and closed his address with "Death to Hitler! Victory in 1943!"

The article states that a drive conducted by ROBERT HESS, Attorney, on behalf of the Milwaukee Council on Soviet Friendship netted $5,250, from the audience for purchase of needed equipment for a military hospital in Leningrad.

The Daily Worker dated 9/15/43 entitled, "Milwaukee Turns Out for Michaels and Feffer" carries a two-column article describing this meeting. The article reads in part:

"Over 2,500 people gathered in the Auditorium here on Sept. 9 to hear and enthusiastically applaud Professor Solomon Michaels and Lt. Colonel Itzik Feffer, on one of their last appearances in the United States.

"A sponsoring committee, including hundreds of prominent Milwaukee names and headed, as honorary chairman, by Mayor John L. Bohp was largely responsible for the successful meeting."

This article states that the meeting was arranged by the Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee to the Soviet delegation assisted by the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship. The article also states that a sum of $5,200 was collected to help outfit a Leningrad factory, this amount coming from organizations and individuals.

It is noted that this article refers to a Leningrad factory, whereas the actual donations were requested for a Leningrad hospital. It is not known whether this is in error or not.

The article states that the Milwaukee County Industrial Union Council gave $100, a sum which was matched by District 32, United Steelworkers of America; the Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America contributed $25.

A confidential informant -  supplied this office with a report dated September 9, 1943, pertaining to the Feffer-Michaels Civic Reception previously referred to. This informant states that there were approximately 2800 people in attendance and lists the following individuals, well known to informant and to this office, as in attendance:

The majority of these individuals are known to this Field Division as active Communist Party members. According to this informant, the meeting was called to order at 8:20 p.m. by Dr. FRANK E. BAKER, who acted as Chairman. There was a presentation of colors. The "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Internationale" were sung, led by one ELEANOR RASKIN GERMAN. Each of the speakers listed on the program made a short speech in praise of the Red Army in Russia and of the Allies in general. The speakers, plus civic and fraternal union leaders, were on the stage with the members of the armed forces. All the speakers urged unity between the United Nations for the successful prosecution of the war. Dr. BAKER especially emphasized that we should forget or put aside our prejudices such as racial, religious, national or political. MEYER ADELMAN was the only speaker who mentioned that the 2nd front must be opened soon. However, according to informant, MEYER ADELMAN did not use his usual arrogant dictatorial attitude in mentioning this question. ROBERT A. HESS made a plea for contributions toward the construction of the Leningrad Hospital and at the end of the plea, donations were made by many IWO organizations, Jewish organizations and other individuals. In the opinion of the informant, approximately $4000 was raised in this way. This informant states that the Jewish people were the most generous contributors. Many of them gave $1 or more. Such names as LUBOTSKY, KAGAN, MRS. ADELMAN, BARKIN, BRAGARNICK, GARFIELD, FRANKLIN, GROSSMAN, HORWITZ, RASKIN Family Circle, SHAPIRO, etc., were some of the names mentioned.

Informant states that the Russian representatives, MICHOELS and FEFFER, spoke in Yiddish and that Professor MICHOELS was the most popular speaker. His main topic was that there was no anti-Semitism in Russia and the Jew was highly regarded there. According to informant, the conspicuous thing about this gathering was the fact that the known Communists remained in the background. The girl ushers were all strangers to informant. A word of thanks was extended to ALICE HENDRICKSON and her staff for helping to make the meeting a success. Before the meeting started, EVELYN MURRAY and a few others sold copies of "Soviet Russia Today."

The Milwaukee Police Department as of September 14, 1943, furnished this Field Division with their report on the Michaels-Feffer Meeting. Acting Detective Arthur W. Zeltner and Ernst Hahn of that department were assigned to attend the reception and to report the facts. According to this report, the People's Book Shop, 722 West Wisconsin Avenue, conducted a sales table to the right entrance for the sale of Russian and Communistic literature, books and recordings, which was carried on by ALICE WARD and GRACE EISENSCHER. The sales at the bookstand were brisk and a large number of cheaper books and literature were sold. The only literature sold to the audience in the main hall was the magazine, "Soviet Russia Today" and this was sold at 15¢ per copy.

The report reflects that the south half of the main hall of the Auditorium was used and that a temporary stage was placed at the north end of the south section of the hall on which chairs were arranged for the committee and speakers. A large U. S. Flag was hanging from the division curtain at the rear of the stage. Three large signs were fixed to the walls which read in one instance, "United Nations unit to Defeat Fascism Completely and Forever." Another sign read, "American Soviet Friendship to Guarantee a Speedy Victory and Lasting Peace." A third sign read, "Milwaukee Hails the Soviet Cultural Delegation, Lieutenant Colonel ITZIK FEFER, Professor SOMOMON MICHOELS." Approximately 25 usherettes were assisting in seating the audience. They wore red, white and blue arm bands. Several admission price was 55¢, $1 for reserved section and $2 for the box. Audience consisted of approximately 2000 persons of both sexes.

Chairman; following the session was called to order by DR. FRANK E. BAKER, as Stars and Stripes Forever," victory remarks, the band played a march, "The from the Air Corps quartered at Milwaukee. A color guard, consisting of 32 soldiers Allied Nations from the main entrance down the main aisle to the stage. The United States flag was carried to the right and the flag of U.S.S.R. to the left at the front of the procession.

The invocation was given by Rev. MELVIN A. SIMONSEN, President of the Milwaukee Council of Churches, and pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1118 W. Brown Street.

DR. FRANK E. BAKER, Chairman, then introduced Acting Mayor John L. Bohn of the city of Milwaukee, who welcomed the Russian delegation to the city, reading a brief address from a transcript praising the Russian Ally for its magnificent stand in this war.

Colonel A. A. SCHARDT, United States Army, represented Colonel W. H. MC CARTY, commanding officer of the District #2, and praised the Russian war efforts to the Allied cause which gave the United States and Great Britain a breathing spell to prepare their armed forces for the present offensive against the Axis powers.

Captain DALLAS D. DRYER, Commander of the Marquette University Naval Reserve, representing the Navy at the reception was the next speaker. He praised Russia's war effort and stated, "Russian successes are our successes, and our successes Russian successes." He also stated that if it were not for America supplying war materials, Russia would not be where it is today. Russia supplied the man power and with United States materials have forged ahead.

EUGENE KISSELEV, Soviet Consul General at New York in his speech stated, "The moment now has arisen for a blow at the enemy on the continent in Western Europe! It would mean the saving of millions of lives and would bring victory in 1943."

Dr. FRANK BAKER then introduced individuals previously mentioned.

MEYER ADELMAN, Secretary of the Congress of Industrial Organization in Milwaukee County, spoke and praised the Russian war effort very highly and expressed the fact that the CIO is 100% behind the nation's war effort. He stated that the organization would produce war materials to their fullest capacity without hindrance in order to win this war against fascism. He also stated, "We workers have a stake in this war and we believe the sooner the second front is opened in western Europe, the quicker the war will be won." He stated that after the war is won, the workers would be active in the manufacture of farm equipment and help restore the grain belt of the Ukraine.

JACOB F. FRIEDRICH, general organizer, Milwaukee Federated Trades Council (AFL), spoke praising the heroism of Russian workers and complimenting them for sticking to their jobs despite incessant air raids and trying conditions. He stated that the American Federation of Labor has fought fascism at the beginning and has warned labor of its dangers.

Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS, President of the Jewish anti-Fascist Committee, U.S.S.R., spoke in Yiddish; although the speech was not understood, he appeared to be a forceful dramatic speaker, making use of the power of gestures. The speech seemed to impress the Jewish audience which made up approximately 90% of the total attendance.

ROBERT A. HESS, Attorney, spoke about the pitiful conditions in the hospitals in Russia and of the needs of hospital equipment and appealed for funds for this purpose. He stated that many Russians required wheel chairs and each $100 donated would purchase a wheel chair, and whoever donated such amount would have his name inscribed on the back of a wheel chair in the Leningrad Hospital No. 1117. He stated that if any contributor ever visited Leningrad Hospital No. 1117 and saw his name inscribed on a wheel chair, he or she would be greatly honored. He also stated if the people of the city of Milwaukee raised the sum of $10,000 for the Leningrad Hospital #1117 fund, a ward in the hospital would be named after Milwaukee. The usherettes collected the funds in envelopes given to the contributors for their contributions. During the course of the collection many contributors gave the sums of $325 down to $1.00. The total collected was approximately $5,250.00.

Lieutenant Colonel Itzik Feffer spoke in Yiddish and the substance of his speech was unintelligible. The following persons known to be active Communists, were observed at the reception:

b7D

It is to be noted that although the report describes all these individuals as Communists, it is believed that JOHN LEWIS and DR. ELSTON BELKNAP should not be so classified, although they cooperate closely with Communist organizations. According to this report, ALFRED G. NICOU D was interviewed and stated that he resides at [redacted] and that his occupation is Assistant Manager of the Milwaukee Auditorium. He stated that Dr. JOHN LEWIS, chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, and ALICE HENDRICKSON, Executive Secretary, made arrangements on August 10, 1943, for the rental of the south hall of the Main Hall of the Auditorium for the use of a reception to be conducted on September 1, 1943. A contract was drawn up and signed by Rev. JOHN LEWIS under the organization name of the Milwaukee Reception Committee for Soviet Delegates. Rental price was $275/ Service charges, $25.00; total cost $300.00. The reception date was changed sometime later to read September 9, 1943.

NICOU stated after the original dealings had terminated and all arrangements were made, Dr. LEWIS and ALICE HENDRICKSON dropped out of the picture and Mr. GOLDSMITH made all later arrangements. He stated that on September 9, 1943, when the reception was to take place, some person on the committee asked for two tables to be used for the sale of tickets but it was later learned that the tables were used for the sale of Russian literature, books and recordings.

Mr. MERWIN MEYER, Vice-President and Cashier of the State Bank of Milwaukee, advised that the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship has an account at that bank. An examination of the signature card revealed that the card was made out in the name of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship and that the authorized individual in connection with this account was listed as HENRY H. ALPERT, Treasurer. The card was dated April 24, 1943, and a first deposit of $155.20 is noted. There is also a notation that this account has been transferred from the West Allis State Bank. According to the statement regarding this account as of August 31, 1943, a balance of $95.87 is reflected. The statement shows deposits of $221.20 as of September 3, 1943, and of $364.95 as of September 9. A balance in this account as of September 9th is $632.02.

Mr. MEYER advised that an Account had been opened under the name of the Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee and an examination of the account card revealed it was dated August 30, 1943, and was listed under the name, "Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee." The Chairman of this committee is listed as Mr. F. GOLDSMITH and the Treasurer, MR. F. A. ROSS. Mr. ROSS is President of the State Bank of Milwaukee. ALICE HENDRICKSON is listed as a member of the Milwaukee Civic Reception Committee. The statement in connection with this account reveals as of August 14, 1943, a balance of $60 and then a deposit of $225 as of this date. From August 14th to September 10th, checks were written in the amount of $165, $140, $122, $52.90, $2.90, leaving a balance as of September 10 of $22.10. It was noted that checks were drawn as of August 31, 1943, to the American Council in amount of $25; August 31st, to Mil. Wochenbalt, $40; August 31st, American Writing Machine Co., amount not stated; September 3rd, $50.

An examination of the deposit slips and checks given to the bank for deposit in the account of the Civic Reception Committee following the MICHOELS-FETTER Rally revealed the following information:

These deposit slips represented the money collected at the Civic Reception and the deposit slips were dated 9/10/43. These slips reflected that donations had been made in amounts ranging from $300 down to $1.00, and that the total amount of money reflected by these deposit slips was $4,4855.02. It is to be noted at this point that these receipts were as of the morning following the rally and that at the rally there were many pledges made by donors who agreed to supply their money a date several days in the future, which would undoubtedly increase this figure several hundred dollars.

An examination of the checks that were given as donations revealed that they were from the following individuals:

1. Mr. JOHN BENTLEY, Niola & Son, drawn on the Wisconsin State Bank, Amount, $10.
2. Mr. I. UWN, in amount of $10 drawn on the First Wisconsin National Bank.
3. Morris Manpearl, amount $5, drawn on Northern Bank, Milwaukee

24. SAM RADTCLLOT (phonetic) in amount of $25 drawn on Wisconsin State Bank.
25. The Milwaukee Soviet Recreation Committee, signed by PARLEY BROTHERS and MORRIS PALEY in amount of $10, drawn on the North Side Branch of the 1st Wisconsin Bank.
26. SAM BENDER, in amount of $10, drawn on the Old National Bank, Beaver Dam, Wisconsin.
27. J. JOSEPH, in amount of $25, drawn on North Milwaukee Bank, 3519 North Wellon, in amount of $25.
28. COHN BROTHERS, signed SAM COHN in amount of $10, on the Waukesha National Bank.
29. J. B. FRANKLIN, in amount of $10, check drawn on State Bank of Wisconsin.
30. MAX KUEHL, in amount of $50 drawn on the Teutonia Avenue State Bank.
31. M. N. FRANKLIN, in the amount of $10 drawn on State Bank, Waukegan Recreation Center.
32. MEYER ADELMAN, in amount of $100, check written to Cash drawn on State Bank.
33. MEYER ADELMAN, in amount of $100, check written to Cash drawn on State Bank.

It is to be noted that one or both of these checks were given by ADELMAN and stated to be from the CIO Industrial Union Council at the time they were donated.

24. JOE FREE, $100, First Wisconsin National Bank.
25. B. ROBINOVITZ, amount $5, Bank of Madison.
26. May Jewelers, Inc., signed by S. L. NEUMAN IN amount of $100, check drawn on the City Bank and Trust Company.
27. Cream City Liquor Store, 205 West Wells Street. Signature illegible but appeared to be JOSEPH BAWIN LIE. Check in amount of $211, drawn on City Bank and Trust Company.

A breakdown of the money collected revealed that $2,352 was taken in by checks; $2,008 by currency and $125.22 in silver, making a total of $4485.22.

Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that the Communist Party held a State Committee Meeting as of September 19, 1943, in Milwaukee. At this meeting ALICE HENDRICKSON gave a talk which was based mainly on the Feffer-Michols Meeting. She stated that Mayor Bohn had made a statement favorable to Russia at a reception for Feffer and Michoels in the Mayor's office. The Mayor emphasized the necessity for increased friendship with Russia. ALICE stated that this would be included on the report given to the Daily Worker. She commented frequently on the broadness of the meeting and the favorable response to MEYER ADELMAN'S call for a Second Front. She said that in her opinion the meeting did a lot to break down anti-Semitism. She then said that the size of the collection, which amounted to $5,250, was evidence of the growing feeling of friendship toward Russia.

Exhibits #4 and 5, are two tickets to the Michoels Feffer Reception at the Milwaukee Auditorium. These were furnished by the Milwaukee Police Department.

II. Celebration of the 10th Anniversary of American Soviet Friendship and of the 26th Anniversary of the Founding of the Soviet Union

Informant [ ] as of September 21, 1943, advised that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND in the course of conversation with FANNE SILBER and several other individuals, announced that the American Council of Soviet Friendship is planning to hold another mass meeting on or about 11/16/43 and that the present plans call for the appearance of JAN KIEPORA to be in attendance. It is hoped that KIEPORA will develop a favorable attitude among the Polish people in Milwaukee toward the Soviet Russian people.

b7D

Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that an Enlarged State Committee Meeting was held in Milwaukee October 31, 1943. ALICE HENDRICKSON attended this meeting and gave a speech in which she spoke about the work of the Council for American Soviet Friendship. She stated that the Council was planning to celebrate the 26th Anniversary of the U.S.S.R. on November 14th. She stated that the Council was also circulating a declaration of American Soviet Friendship among Mayors and has asked that the Mayors set aside a day or a week for the celebration of the 26th Anniversary of the U.S.S.R. She stated that the November 13th Meeting would be held at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church. She outlined the plans of the Council to have the unions pledge to buy $25,000 worth of war bonds in order to purchase a Lend Lease tank which was to be sent to Russia. She said that letters were being sent to all organizations and language groups, urging them to aid in the purchase of the tank. She pointed out that the year of 1943 offered great opportunities to dramatize the importance of Soviet Friendship.

Informant [ ] advised that a Communist Party Meeting was held as of October 19, 1943, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. JACOB GENDELMAN, [ ] where the East Side Branch of the Party usually meets. ALICE HENDRICKSON mentioned at this meeting that the American Council will hold special meetings in the next week or so celebrating the 10th Anniversary of diplomatic relations between the two nations.

b7D

b7C

Informant [ ] advised that an additional phase of the celebration of the 26th Anniversary of the Soviet Union was to be the presentation of a scroll to President Roosevelt and to former Ambassador DAVIES, the text of which was to be a greeting to Russia on the Anniversary of the Soviet Union. It is intended that fifty signatures should be secured to this scroll in Wisconsin. ALICE HENDRICKSON has secured the signature of Governor Goodland, Justice Rosenberg of the Wisconsin State Supreme Court, Mayor Bohn of Milwaukee, and 15 other Mayors throughout the State of Wisconsin.

This informant further stated that a nationwide celebration has been scheduled for November 16th, the anniversary date of the U.S.S.R. The Local Council celebration is to be held on November 13th. JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND is assisting ALICE HENDRICKSON with a press release or preamble to the greeting.

Exhibit 7 is a form letter written on the stationery of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship dated October 30, 1943, pertaining to the celebration planned for November 13th and the scroll which is being circulated. The letter reads in part:

"The Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship is initiating a public celebration commemorating the Tenth Anniversary of Diplomatic Relations between our country and the USSR AND THE Twenty-Sixth Anniversary of the Soviet State at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church on November 13, at 8:00 p.m. Wisconsin's part in the war effort of the United Nations will be brilliantly dramatized by the presentation of lend-lease tanks and war materials made by Wisconsin management and labor. The cost of these articles will be covered by bond subscription.

"A beautifully inscribed scroll signed by the people of our state, will be presented to our Commander-in-Chief and to Wisconsin's chief statesman, the Honorable Joseph E. Davies, former Ambassador to the Soviet Union, honoring them for their service in establishing and improving working cooperation with our gallant ally. We are enclosing a fascimile and ask that you help us in getting thousands of signatures in our state.

"Civic and national leaders and representatives of labor and management and of the armed forces of our country and the Soviet Union will take part in the dedication of the honor scroll and of the tanks. Johannes Steel, world traveller, author of "Men Behind the War" and celebrated radio commentator from New York, now broadcasting daily from WMCA, New York, will speak on the past ten years of crisis."

The letter points out that this meeting should be of particular interest to labor, for it will dramatically show labor's strategic importance in the war effort - "the rear guard." The letter also points out that the meeting is to be a salute to the Russian people for the tremendous role they are playing in defeating fascism, labor's arch enemy, the value of full military collaboration for victory and cooperation at the peace table especially concerns American Union Members.

The letterhead contains the members of the Executive Board of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship which have not previously been listed and are therefore being set forth at this point.

The letter also lists several hundred names as sponsors of the 10th Anniversary Congress. Most of the names are prominent individuals in civic and political life of our nation. This letter is written on two pages, on the 2nd page of which is contained a suggestion to the effect that "it would be a valuable expression of friendship if your union would greet the Russian Army and people for this occasion. Greetings should be directed through the Embassy of the USSR at Washington, D.C. and a copy sent to this office."

The letter requests that individuals arrange to have the members of their unions and friends immediately sign the enclosed pages as marked, one to President Roosevelt and one to Mr. Davies, heading each page with the name of their union and returning to the American Council by November 10th. The letter also requests that they plan to cooperate in the purchase of bonds as effectively as possible. The cost of one tank is listed as $25,000 and "we hope that labor itself can purchase an entire tank to be appropriately dedicated on the occasion."

The letter is signed JOHN LEWIS as Chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship.

Exhibit #8 is rather a large flyer advertising the November 13th Rally. The flyer states that the American Soviet Friendship Anniversary Meeting is to be held on that date and that ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH WELLES and others will be in attendance. It is headed, "Victory - for Peace." The location of this affair is given as the Grand Avenue Congregational Church located at 2133 West Wisconsin Avenue.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised as of 11/3/43 that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND in conversation with NADA HUDSON, FANNE SILBER and several others, stated that news had been received to the effect that

b7D

ORSON WELLES is going to be in Milwaukee for the November 13th Meeting which is to be held at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church and which is being sponsored by the American Council of Soviet Friendship. NORDSTRAND stated that ALICE HENDRICKSON had arranged for ORSON WELLES to be present at this rally. This informant advised that in a discussion between NORDSTRAND, ELIZABETH BLAIR and NED SPARKS, and several others, NED SPARKS advised that he was considerably disgusted to think that ORSON WELLES' appearance in Milwaukee was scheduled to be held in such a small place as that of the Grand Avenue Congregational Church.

According to informant, JOHANNES STEEL'S appearance in Milwaukee is very doubtful due to complications in connection with his appearance. According to informant, ORSON WELLES' appearance in Milwaukee was arranged through contacts with ROBERT HESS of the American Council of Soviet Friendship and in turn through his connections with EDDIE CANTOR. This informant further stated as of 11/6/43 that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, NED SPARKS, FRED BLAIR and several other individuals in general conversation agreed that there presently existed a more friendly feeling toward Russia than was formerly present. The conversation drifted to the November 13th Meeting and NED stated that it was very urgent that they have a good speaker for this rally which would give the "correct line." NED pointed out that ORSON WELLES was non-political in his approach.

He stated that ALICE HENDRICKSON was going to try to get JOSEPH PADWAY, AFL Attorney, to speak at the November 13th Meeting and at first expressed considerable consternation about this fact and then later realized that this might lead to better relations between the CIO and AFL. SPARKS then stated, "Let her (ALICE) get a chairman who knows what the USSR really means." (FRANK BAKER was unsatisfactory at this post at the Feffer-Michaels Meeting.)

In a subsequent conversation between these individuals, it was stated that REV. JOHN LEWIS had been selected as the person to act as Chairman of the November 13th Meeting. It was also reflected from this conversation that SPARKS and NORDSTRAND were afraid that people would stay away from the November 13th Meeting because they would assume that they would not be able to get in. The necessity of proper advertising in connection with this rally was discussed and SPARKS and NORDSTRAND felt that a leaflet on the November 13th Meeting should be got out in the very near future. NORDSTRAND stated that HENDRICKSON intended to get out 500 posters advertising the rally and have them placed in appropriate spots throughout the city. It was pointed out in referring to Exhibit #8 that this rally was advertised with the names ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH WELLES listed as prominent speakers. According to this informant, it was learned that SPARKS was very angry with HENDRICKSON advertising the meeting in this manner and SPARKS stated, "What the h___ is she afraid of - the Mann Act? So long as she (Rita Hayworth) has that face and figure she is RITA HAYWORTH and should be advertised as such."

SPARKS then stated that the trouble with this rally was the fact that women were organizing it and they do not appreciate RITA HAYWORTH. According to informant, it was learned that NORDSTRAND subsequent to the above conversation contacted MARY KEITH at the American Council Office and instructed MARY to immediately call the printer and be sure that RITA HAYWORTH'S name is equally displayed on the postal.

According to this informant, SPARKS, JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, FANNE SILBER and several other individuals at a subsequent discussion pertaining to this rally decided that it was quite imperative that a collection be taken at the meeting in order to defray costs.

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated November 4, 1943, entitled, "Orson Welles to visit Here", it is stated that ORSON WELLES and his wife RITA HAYWORTH will be at rally sponsored by Soviet Friendship. The article displays a picture of ORSON WELLES and his wife, RITA HAYWORTH, and reads in part:

"ORSON WELLES, actor, director, playwright and native of Kenosha, and his actress wife, RITA HAYWORTH, will be in Milwaukee November 13th & 14th to participate in the rally which will be held at 8 p.m. November 13th in the Grand Avenue Congregational Church to help cement American Soviet Friendship. Announcement that the two stars would be in Milwaukee was made Thursday by Mrs. ALICE MOORE HENDRICKSON, Executive Secretary of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship. JOHANNES STEEL, broadcaster and newspaper writer will also be here to take part in the rally. In support of the rally Mayor Bohn Thursday issued a proclamation urging Milwaukee people to set aside the period of November 7 to 16th to commemorate American Friendship with the Soviet Union by appropriate exercises."

A newspaper article appearing in the Milwaukee Journal dated 11/11/43 headed, "Orson and Rita happy to come to Milwaukee", reads in part:

"It was a familiar, booming voice coming in over the long distance telephone, and a couple of his Milwaukee admirers were getting the thrill of their lives hearing it.

"'You bet I'm glad to be coming back to Wisconsin and to Milwaukee', Orson Welles was saying. 'It's been a long time, hasn't it. I think the last time I was with you was when I was playing in Katharine Cornell's 'Romeo and Juliet' company.

"I'm coming to Milwaukee to help do a job I think needs to be done by us civilians. I want to help win this war. I want to sell war bonds, and I want to sell friendship with Russia. If we're going to win this war and win it right, we'll have to do both of those things. See you Saturday, then. It ought to be a big day for Rita and me."

".....The rapt Milwaukee listeners were Mrs. ALICE MOORE HENDRICKSON, secretary of the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship, and BEN BARKIN of the United States Treasury's War Bond Sales Staff."

"Orson Welles is famous for his energy as actor, writer, director and producer in virtually every known medium of show business. How he finds the time to devote himself to other matters is a mystery to his fans and his friends. But he does. For years he has been preaching the gospel of better understanding between America and Russia. In speech after speech throughout the nation he has backed up Vice-President Wallace's conception of a free world, he has urged postwar planning and international cooperation, and has spent months in Mexico and South America with the idea of winning friends and influencing people for such projects. Not long ago he helped to set up in Los Angeles a council for the exchange of motion pictures between Russia and America. He is, definitely, a chap who thinks, and thinks hard, on other things than the theater."

Welles is quoted as saying, "I know you've been doing good work in Milwaukee on building friendship with Russia. Your programs of Russian pictures, your receptions for Luidmilla Pavlichenko and the other famous visitors from Russia - that's all right. Keep it up."

The November 13th Rally received considerable publicity in Milwaukee due to the fact that a bond selling rally was sponsored in connection with the visit of RITA HAYWORTH and ORSON WELLES in Milwaukee on the same date as this rally. The Journal as of 11/12/43 carried a fair-sized advertisement headed, "Boston Store. Be sure to attend the 10th Anniversary Celebration sponsored by the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, featuring JOHANNES STEEL, ORSON WELLES, RITA HAYWORTH, Sinfionetta orchestra."

The Journal in issue dated 11/12/43 carried a large advertisement pertaining to this rally using the pictures of ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH as center pieces and featuring, "Wisconsin's own ORSON WELLES, RITA HAYWORTH and others." The article states, "Commemorating the 10th Anniversary of diplomatic relations between our country and the Soviet Union, this celebration will dramatize the presentation of lend-lease war materials made by

"Wisconsin management and labor. Civic and national leaders, representatives of labor and management and of the armed forces of our country and of the Soviet Union will participate. Plan now to attend this patriotic meeting at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, 2133 West Wisconsin Avenue." The article states it is sponsored by the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship.

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated 11/14/43 carries an article ~~concerning~~ the rally. It is headed, "Russia-U.S. Unity Needed," subheading, "Moscow Pact Saluted by Chicago Speaker." The article reads in part:

"Hailing the recent Moscow Agreement as an important step toward a lasting peace, Dr. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director of the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship said Saturday night there could never be a durable peace without close cooperation between the United States and Russia. The Rev. John Lewis, Chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, which sponsored the gathering, read anniversary greetings from JOSEPH DAVIES, former Ambassador to Moscow, Vice-President HENRY A. WALLACE, E. R. STETTINIUS, under-Secretary of State, HENRY W. MORGENTHAU, Secretary of the Treasury, SAM RAYBURN, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Mayor JOHN L. BOHN. JOHN PANEK, Vice-President of the American Slav Council of Milwaukee County, told the audience that the small Slav nations set great hopes upon the clause of the Moscow Agreement guaranteeing the restoration of their freedom." The article lists the other speakers as BEN BARKIN, Chairman of the Community Finance Drive, MEL HEINRITZ, Secretary and Treasurer of the State CIO, ANTHONY J. KING, Representative of the Federated Trades Council AFL, and DR. ELSTON BELKNAP, Chairman of the United Nations Committee. Music was provided by the Milwaukee Sinfionetta and WILLIAM JOHNSON, singer.

The Milwaukee Journal in an article dated 11/15/43 headed, "U.S.-Russian Links Praised", subheading, "2500 Sign Manuscript", reads in part:

"Illuminated manuscripts, signed by more than 2,500 prominent Wisconsin citizens, will be mailed to President Roosevelt and Joseph E. Davis Tuesday. They are commendations for leadership in American-Soviet friendship during the last 10 years of crisis. Among the signers are Gov. Walter S. Goodland, Clarence Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, Marvin B. Rosenberry, chief justice of the state supreme court, and 30 mayors of Wisconsin cities.

"The tenth anniversary of amicable relations between the United States and the Soviet was marked locally by a meeting Saturday night at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church."

The article points out quoting from the speech made by Dr. WILLIAM CARD, executive director of the Chicago Council on American-Soviet Friendship, "The laurels of this war will not necessarily go to the winners of the foot race to Berlin. We all win, no matter who gets there first."

In his speech he stated that Hitler was attempting to prolong the war and bring about a negotiated peace. Dr. CARD stated, "We must not let that happen. We must remain friends with Russia at any cost." The article states that ORSON WELLES spoke as Director of the Free World Association and not as a famed Hollywood Director and star. The article states that he pointed out that friendship with Russia is a moral problem, because it depends on the friendship of individual for individual - and not on written alliances of governments. He stated, "We need the old-time evangelism of early Christianity. We must convert each other to the cause." He further stated, "Our Constitution gives us a fifth freedom, the freedom to renounce freedom."

The Milwaukee Journal as of November 14, 1943, carried an article pertaining to this rally which pictured ORSON WELLES and RITA HAY-WORTH and the article was headed, "In Wild Race Against Time, Orson, Rita Keep Bond Date". The article reflects that ORSON and RITA made a last minute dash to Milwaukee to keep their engagement in this city and reads in part:

"After a bit, and with the howling help of another police convoy, Welles bore Rita off to the Schroeder Hotel, where she rested while he planned his talk for Saturday night. Meanwhile, aided by members of the American-Soviet Friendship group - F. W. GOLDSMITH, DR. WILLIAM CARD of Chicago, and ALICE HENDRICKSON - the versatile Welles drew a verbal picture of Milwaukeeans' mental development, talked with friends over the phone and gave an interview to a frightened young lady from the Custer High School Chronicle - all in 15 minutes, which included, he said, "portal to portal service."

The article continues, "He told his audience, an eager capacity crowd this time, that they are "organizers in the American revolution which is not yet completed.

"Exhorting them to be intolerant of intolerance, militant missionaries and students of world politics, he said: 'Only if the United States and the Soviet Union stand together will there be peace in the next generation.'"

Exhibit #9, is a four-page program distributed at this rally and was secured by WILBUR W. ZELTNER, Acting Detective of the Milwaukee Police Department. The exterior page of the program states that it is commemorating the Tenth Anniversary of the American-Soviet Friendship and the 26th Anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union. A proclamation is set forth on this front sheet signed by JOHN L. BOHN, Acting Mayor in Milw. Wisconsin, in which it is stated the week of November 7th to November 17th is being set aside to commemorate American Soviet Friendship by appropriate ceremonies and exercises, and in that connection call the attention of the people of our community to the invitation of the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship to the Commemoration meeting to be held on November 13th at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church.

On the inner page of this program is set forth excerpts from the Moscow agreements. It is stated,

"Washington, Nov. 1 (UP) - Following is the text of a joint communique of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union announcing results of the Moscow Conference:" This text occupies approximately 2/3 of the page. The bottom portion of the page lists the text of a Declaration in which the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and China pledge joint prosecution of the war and organization for maintenance of peace. It is called the "Joint Four-National Declaration." The seven points of this declaration are set forth:

The program reflects a Rev. JOHN LEWIS as Chairman and he is listed as Chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The National Anthem and the Russian National Anthem were played, invocation was given by Rev. FRANK SHELDON, greetings on the 10th Anniversary were given as previously recited, speech was given by Mayor John L. Bohn. GUSTAV P. UTKE, President Milwaukee Civic Alliance, spoke. Dr. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, is listed as speaker. Under the heading of "Presentation of Lend-Lease Equipment" is listed BEN BARKIN, U. S. Treasury Dept., W. K. HYSLOP, Gen. Mgr. Massey-Harris Co., Racine, MEL HEINRITZ, Sec'y.-Treas. of State CIO, ANTHONY JO KING, Rep. of Federated Trades Council, AFL. Address - ORSON WELLES, RITA HAYWORTH.

A portion of this program is partitioned off with a notation, "Presentation of Memorial Scrolls to: President Roosevelt, Honorable Joseph E. Davies." The text of this scroll is set forth which reads in part:

"This November, as the whole nation celebrates the growing friendship between our country and the Soviet Union on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations, we in Wisconsin honor our Commander-in-Chief and our own statesman, JOSEPH E. DAVIES, for their great wisdom and service in strengthening the understanding and working cooperation between our own country and our most powerful ally, the Soviet Union, for victory in the war and for the establishment of a lasting peace."

It is pointed out that besides the weapons of war, our enemies made sly use of the weapons of propaganda. "Divide and Conquer" was their major weapon in creating distrust and controversy among nations that, united, could bar the path to power. In particular, by deliberate slander and distortion they fostered suspicion and fear of the Soviet Union.

Some of the more prominent signers of this scroll are set forth. At the bottom portion of the program in very small print it is stated, "Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship expresses its deep appreciation to Dr. Julius Ehrlich, the members of the Milwaukee Sinfonietta to Mr. Johnson and Mr. Eisler and Local 8, American Federation of Musicians for their patriotic service."

The back portion of this program is fully utilized as a means of publicizing Soviet propaganda and reads in part: "The Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship has aided in this clarification for the past year. By public meetings, lectures, movies, brochures, press stories; by the maintenance of a local office closely in touch with its national office, it has fostered an essential education of the community and helped awaken the desire-to-know. It has consistently supported and popularized the stated foreign policy of our government's collaboration with the United Nations and Friendly relationship with our strongest fighting ally, Russia."

"This month that policy bore fruit in the Moscow conferences and the agreement consummated there by Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States, with its assurance of united military effort to shorten the war, with its guarantees of the independence of all nations, large and small, and with its proposals for an enduring peace. We realize that only upon that sort of an agreement, based upon an understanding of all peoples as to what that agreement portends, can a workable plan for peace be constructed. The basis for this understanding is what Americans have long designated as common sense and this, in turn, must be directed to the common good and be based on the facts in-so-far as these facts are available."

It is further indicated that for the purposes of improving relationships between Russia and America, the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship has established a downtown headquarters and developed a lending library of some 100 volumes, including Soviet music on records and also has available reels of movie films, showing industry, education and life in the Soviet Union. The council has a fine collection of pictures, posters, and a large supply of literature, pamphlets, etc., for public distribution. Among the specific projects carried out by the Council during the past year are:

"Salute to Our Russian Ally" - Nov. 8, 1942 - Pabst Theatre (in connection with the First Congress of American-Soviet Friendship)

"Lieut. Luidmilla Pavlichenko" - The Girl Sniper -
Oct. 15, 1942

"Gerhard Schacher - Judge John Gutknecht" -
July 10, 1943

"Reception - Prof. Solomon Michaels and Lieut. Col.
Itzik Teffer - Sept. 10, 1943

TWO DINNER RECEPTIONS - CITY CLUB

"Dr. Samuel N. Harper" (University of Chicago)
"Rev. Thomas L. Harris (Nat'l. Sec'y. of the Council)
Six Movies - Fabst Theater
Two Previews of "Mission to Moscow"
Sent Greetings to Russian communities and groups.
State Fair Booth and other exhibits.
A number of educational programs at Council Headquarters

It is also stated that the Council conceives similar activities for the coming year and in addition has established a service bureau through which those interested may secure recommended speakers, exhibits, research material, books and pamphlets on the Soviet Union and other information which may be desired.

Quotations are bracketed of the Honorable Joseph E. Davis in which it is stated, "There can be no permanent and durable peace without cooperation with Soviet Russia." A quotation by Vice President Henry Wallace is in regard to the building of a new democracy by American and Russian people.

The bottom portion of the program contains the name, "Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship" and the Executive Board, National Council and National Sponsors (partial list) are set forth.

The Milwaukee Police Department in a report dated November 24, 1943, supplied this Field Division with information pertaining to the meeting of November 13, 1943, the investigation of which was conducted by ARTHUR ZELTNER of that department. The following pertinent information is reflected by this report.

The People's Book Shop, located at 722 West Wisconsin Avenue, had a large table arranged at the rear of the church, where they conducted the sale of books and literature pertaining to Russia. (This rally was held at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, Milwaukee, Wisconsin). The sales were conducted by Mrs. GRACE EISENSCHER, ALICE WARD and SIGMUND EISENSCHER. Several young women sold copies of the booklet, "Russia's Secret Weapon" among the audience before the meeting was called to order. The "Worker," a Communist paper, was sold outside of the entrance of the church by MORTIMER ALTMAN, key figure of this Field Division. Mrs. JOSEPHINE NORD-STRAND, key figure in this Field Division, was very active in arranging for ushers and gave each usher a plate or church collection box for the purpose of making a collection later in the evening. Decorations in the church consisted of a large U. S. flag which was hung at the organ pipes at the front of the church. Under the U. S. Flag, a 3' x 5' Four Freedoms flag was hung on the organ pipes. Two U. S. flags on standards were displayed at the right front corner of the choir loft, which is to the right of the speaker's rostrum, and the Soviet Russia flag and the Congregational Church flag were set in standards at the left front corner of the choir loft and to the left of the rostrum. As the audience entered the meeting hall, they were given programs and contribution envelopes. Each set had a copy of the pamphlet "America and Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT and an announcement of Cultural Programs of Russian Film Classics, which will be held at the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship headquarters, located at 221 East Wisconsin Avenue.

The speakers for the evening were seated on the speaker's platform in the following order: Dr. ELSTON BELKNAP, Chairman of the United Nations Committee; Dr. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director of the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship; Rev. FRANK SHELDON, pastor of the Grand Avenue Congregational Church; a woman whose name was not learned but who was a cousin of the Hon. Joseph E. Davies; Rev. JOHN LEWIS, Chairman of the Meeting and also chairman of the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship; Mrs. ALICE MOORE HENDRICKSON, executive secretary of the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship; BEN BARKIN, representing the U. S. Treasury Department in charge of War Bond Sales; MEL HEINRITZ, Secretary and Treasurer of the Wisconsin State CIO; ANTHONY JO KING, representative of the Federated Trades Council, AFL, and JOHN PANAK, Vice-President of the American Slavic Congress.

The report reflects that notes of all the speeches were taken by WILLIAM MITCHELL 3625 North 41st Street, with a stenotype machine. He was retained by the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship for that purpose. He was contacted by Acting Detective WILLIAM MISSING and arranged to furnish the Police Department with a transcript.

The report reflects that DR. WILLIAM CARD spoke and he is described as being very colorful and seemed to be impressive and had the audience very much interested in his information and assertions.

Rev. JOHN LEWIS introduced Dr. ELSTON BELKNAP, Chairman of the United Nations Committee, who was praised highly for his wonderful work. Dr. BELKNAP explained the origin and creation of the Four Freedoms flag which was displayed at the meeting, and explained the manner in which it should be displayed. After a lengthy introduction given by Rev. LEWIS, ORSON WELLES gave his speech. The audience was very attentive as he spoke and seemed to be deeply interested in the content of his speech. He displayed his Acting ability which seemed to help him keep the attention and interest of his audience. After WELLES completed his speech, Rev. JOHN LEWIS made an appeal for donations and had the ushers pass plates and collection boxes through the audience which had grown fairly small. The ushers collected from practically every person in the audience.

A scroll was then presented by Miss ALICE HENDRICKSON to Rev. JOHN LEWIS, who represented President Roosevelt for the purpose of receiving the President's copy of the scroll. Another scroll was presented to a woman cousin of Hon. Joseph E. Davies, who acted as Joseph Davies' representative. The scrolls contained the names of more than 2500 prominent Wisconsin people and many commendations for leadership in American-Soviet Friendship. Mrs. ALICE HENDRICKSON stated that the scrolls had been made at the Milwaukee State Teachers College by art students.

The following known Communists and liberals were noticed to be present in the crowd, according to this report:

NED SPARKS	EMIL COSTELLO
HARRY VIRGIL	THOMAS E. CASEY
BEATRICE WEISBERG	ALFRED HIRSCH
F. W. GOLDSMITH	CORA GOLDSMITH
MAX GELINE	NATHAN GARFIELD

According to Acting Detective WILLIAM WISSING, about 9:30 p.m. Mr. ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH arrived at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, 2133 West Wisconsin Avenue, to take part in the meeting. They were immediately ushered to a large lounge room in the rear of the church, where several members of the American-Soviet Friendship were congregated. A number of other people from the organization came into the room to meet and talk to the celebrities, a Mrs. ALICE HENDRICKSON, Executive Director of the organization, and Rev. FRANK SHELDON being among them. Mr. and Mrs. WELLES autographed several programs for those present, and the conversation was confined to generalities. After a time, most of the people left except Mr. and Mrs. Welles, Mr. F. W. Goldsmith and his wife, Mr. William Card, Miss Beatrice Weisberg, another married couple who apparently knew Mr. Welles from Kenosha, Wisconsin, and three young women, names unknown, one of whom was Jewish and all of whom were connected with the evening's activities. Patrolman Michael Barrow and the investigator.

Miss WEISBERG turned the conversation to Communism by stating to Mr. Welles, "You would be surprised the way the people in Milwaukee feel about Communism and Russia. They are really afraid of it, and consider it dangerous." Mr. Welles replied, "That's hard to believe. Don't they realize how good it is, and what it means to them. I always thought the middle west was well aware of its possibilities. I know in Chicago, people are solidly behind friendship with Russia." Mrs. GOLDSMITH then said, "Chicago is different than Milwaukee, which is really an overgrown small town. You will always find that when you have a city composed of a couple large nationality groups. It's pretty hard to convince the Germans here on anything."

Miss Weisberg then said, "We are having a difficult time convincing the people of Milwaukee that friendship with Russia is necessary, but we are slowly but surely making progress and getting followers." Mr. Welles then said, "Maybe I ought to change my speech, and tell them of the good Russia is doing," a remark which was heartily agreed upon by all. Mr. Welles then went on to praise Russia's part in the war, the indebtedness of the United States to the part Russia is playing in the war, and he stated, "Why the good meal I had tonight was made possible by the part Russia is playing in the war." The topic of anti-Semitism was brought up by Miss Weisberg and all present, including Mr. Welles, voiced the opinion that it was wrong, implying that it originated from Hitler, and the people in this country, instead of rejecting it, were following his beliefs blindly. Dr. CARD then suggested that Mr. Welles bear him out on statements he had made to the audience present regarding the United States not giving Russia sufficient aid, both in material and aggressiveness in the war. Dr. Card also suggested that Mr. Welles advocate opening of a second front, more action in Italy, and a general stepping up of action to relieve the German pressure on Russia. Mr. Welles heartily agreed with Dr. Card and stated that we should increase our aggressiveness in the war to divert Germany's pressure on Russia and he also implied by his remarks that the United States wasn't doing her share in the present conflict. Mr. Wells also advocated our diplomats seeking Russia's friendship and stated, "The sooner we get over our antagonism toward Russia, the better it will be for us." The principal participants in the conversation were in order named: Mr. Welles, Miss Weisberg, Dr. Card, Mr. Goldsmith, and Mrs. Goldsmith. The others present kept in the background.

Conversation between these individuals lasted fully twenty minutes, dealing entirely with the praise of Russia and Communism and Mr. Welles indicated by his remarks that he agreed with everything said by the others, and made statements to that effect. It was impossible for the investigator to take notes and though all of the above remarks may not be exact quotations, the gist of the remarks are contained therein.

It will be pointed out subsequently that the speech as delivered by Mr. WELLES by his own admission had been changed prior to his talk because of information he had received regarding the adverse attitude of the people of Milwaukee toward Russia. He concluded his speech by reading his original intended speech which was quite brief and he admitted that it was much milder than the speech he delivered. The report reflects that the meeting was attended by 900 to 1000 persons and the admission price was 55¢. The following literature was obtained by investigators at this rally.

Copies of "America and Russia"

"Stop Hearst's Seditious Attack on our Soviet Ally"

"Russia's Secret Weapon"

"An Atlas of the U.S.S.R."

"Soviet Russia vs. Nazi Germany"

A copy of the speeches made at this rally, as previously referred to, is listed as Exhibit #10. The pertinent portions taken from the speeches of the various speakers are being briefly set forth:

Mr. JOHN PANEK, Vice-President of the Milwaukee Slav Concoul gave a short speech, the pertinent portions of which are -

"The smallest Slav nations of Europe are deeply gratified and have great hopes for the Four-Power Agreement that was signed a few days ago at Moscow, as it guarantees the restoration of their freedom and independence.

"We may not all agree with the political ideology of the Soviet Union, but whether we do or not we must express our greatest admiration and respect for the brave Russian men and women who are fighting and dying on the battle field not only for their own freedom but for the liberation and freedom of all nations now under the German oppression. The Russian army is fighting our war as much as their own, and I sincerely hope that the Allied nations will not make the same mistake they made twentyfive years ago by winning the war and losing the peace.

"We must do everything in our power to prevent another war in the next twentyfive years, and there is one point I want to emphasize: there will not be any lasting peace in Europe without the cooperation of the Russians."

In the speech of Dr. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director, Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship, the following pertinent excerpts reflect the contents of his speech:

"Just twentysix years ago this month the old tyranny of the Czars of Russia was overthrown, and there was opened up under the leadership of the Russian Bolsheviks a patent opportunity for cultural development, for industrial expansion, for increase of democratic rights; and the famed dark masses of the old Czarist Russians have turned into the enlightened, valiant, courageous, intelligent, quick-acting Russians of today. It is proper that we should also celebrate this occasion.

"Further, we celebrate by happy chance another occasion. It was just a few weeks ago that, continuing their tremendous counter-attack upon the Germans, the Red Army freed the third largest city of Russia, encircled German forces at Kiev, and opened up a pathway which may well split the German armies in the south and open a broad path to the heart of the German Nazi power.

"And finally, by even happier chance, we celebrate tonight the successful conclusion -- the happy and auspicious conclusion -- of the Moscow conferences; and our celebration of the Moscow conferences is not the least of the occasions that we celebrate. ....

"I think there are a number of people who have grown so intensely worried about winning the peace that they have forgotten that they must first digest the war. They want to put the dessert on their plate before they have eaten their potatoes and gravy. The fact of the matter is, however, that only when the war is won can we decide the post-war questions, and those people who want to draw now the exact line of the Polish border while Poland is still held by the German armies, -- well, I think their eyes are a little bigger than their bellies." ....

"Of course, there is a meaning to every one of the points in the Moscow statements. I am sorry that there isn't time tonight to enter into an exhaustive discussion of all of them, but let me take some of the outstanding ones. For instance, in the Joint Four-Nation Declaration, which is printed in the program, a number of points are made, and in the second paragraph it is indicated that the powers were united in their determination to continue the hostilities against the Axis powers until those powers "have laid down their arms on the basis of unconditional surrender." Now, the importance of this point, or one importance of it as I see it, is that it destroys the theory which some journalists were very fond of in the days before the Moscow conference. It destroys the theory that the Russians are going to sign a separate peace with the Germans and let down the rest of the world. I think the Moscow conference makes it clear that such an event is no longer to be feared and that the fear of it was never justified.

"In the second place I would point to the joint declaration that "United action pledged for the prosecution of the war .. will be "continued for the organization and maintenance of peace and security.' This destroys the theory that has been bruited about in some circles -- which used to be more popular than it is today -- that when this war is over and we have beaten the German army and we have beaten Japan, then we will have to lick Russia." .....

"In Paragraph 6 is the significant declaration that when the war is over there will be no use of the military forces of the several powers within the territories of conquered states except for the common purposes and after joint consultation." .....

"I think one thing that we can all, however, come to as a result of these is that we must reconsider the whole question of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in the world alignment of powers. Hitler's favorite theory which he tried to foist upon the rest of the world, that the Axis was combined for the purpose of fighting Communism has turned out to mean the destruction of all that humanity holds dear. Our failure to get together with Communist Russia at an early enough date, the failure of our country and other countries to get together with Communist Russia at an early enough date, meant that Hitler was permitted to choose his own battle fields and fight in his own style for world conquest.

"The profound movements of history drew us together with Communist Russia almost too late -- almost too late to save civilization. I think we have to learn something from this historic movement. We need to know more about this country with whom we fight side by side, and we don't know it. That is the fact: the American people do not know Russia. We know we don't know Russia because we have heard so many things that have been proved to be false.

"We heard they couldn't use machinery, and now they lick the German craftsmen in the German tanks. We heard that they were an illiterate and backward people, and we see now that they have a technical proficiency which in some respects (according to Mr. Donald Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board) exceeds our own ability to plan the flow of raw materials through the factory.

"We were told many other things about the Russian people that the war, itself, has shown to be false, and it is time that we found out the truth. Truth by itself is a powerful thing. It may move slowly but it moves inexorably, and the minds of millions of people are beginning to change about the role that Soviet Russia has played and will play in the history of the world. The truth is strong but the truth organized is ten times stronger, and I am happy to know that there is such an able and diligent group of people working in the City of Milwaukee as are constituted "In the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship under its very able leadership, because the task of the Milwaukee Council is to give the facts about the Soviet Union, to place reliable information before people so that they can draw their own valid conclusions, and upon this basis of fact there can be arrived at judgment which will lead not to error, not to mistake, and not almost to catastrophe as it did once, but will lead steadily forward to increasing welfare for all mankind. ....

"I think the Senator has got a little out of step with the people because the people know what they want. They knew that if the United States and the Soviet Union stand together the Fascist warmakers will be smashed. They know that if the United States and the Soviet Union stand together there will be peace for the next generation of mankind. They may not wholly know, but they are learning and it is true, that only if the United States and the Soviet Union stand together will there be peace for the coming generations of mankind.

"This is the lesson of the bitter history of the last ten years. Ladies and gentlemen, let us hearken to it."

Mr. BEN BARKIN of the U. S. Treasury Department gave a speech which was primarily concerned with the purchase of war bonds and the importance thereof.

Mr. MEL HEINRITZ, Secretary-Treasurer of the CIO, spoke and the pertinent excerpts are set forth:

"Mr. Chairman, distinguished guests and friends, I am certainly happy to be here as a representative of the CIO tonight on this Tenth Anniversary of the diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union because we in the labor movement have felt for a long time that a greater solidarity of the peoples of the world was needed, so that people like Hitler and those of the Axis powers would not force us into destructive wars such as this, and in a death struggle for freedom every twentyfive years.

"It is certainly fitting that tonight we also celebrate, as Dr. Card has put it, the Moscow conference and its results, because we know that the results of the Moscow conferences would not have been obtained if it hadn't been for the foresight of our President ten years ago, if he hadn't realized at that time that we needed the assistance and the friendship of Russia to be a bulwark against Fascism and Fascist aggression all over the world.

"We in the labor movement are concerned now with carrying out some of the work that has already been started in the Moscow conferences

"through a call that was sent out approximately two to three weeks before the statement was given out by our Government as a result of the conference, too, to know that the money that has been pledged in the bonds that were bought in the last five days are buying tanks from a local union of the United Automobile Workers, which is affiliated to the C.I.O. I know that those tanks are going to be very well put to use by our ally and one of our United Nations, the Soviet Union."

Mr. ANTHONY JO KING, representative of the Federated Trades Council, AFL, gave a short speech in which he praised the allied effort and promised the support of his labor organization, Keeping his remarks very neutral in respect to Russia.

In the speech made by ORSON WELLES, it is interesting to note that the speech as delivered, represents approximately 15 or 16 type-written pages, whereas the speech originally prepared and intended to be given by ORSON WELLES, prior to his discussion with members of the American Council of Soviet Friendship, consists of approximately two and one-half pages. It is also interesting to note the change in the texture of the two speeches. The pertinent portions of each are set out as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen, distinguished guests, we are all of us facing so many tremendous problems at this moment that one doesn't have to prepare words for a meeting which celebrates the friendship of our great democracy with the U.S.S.R. There is so much to say about Russia and so much to say about the friendship of governments that I don't wonder how to begin. I know all kinds of ways to begin and all kinds of places, but I have been talking to a lot of people since I came to Milwaukee this afternoon and the more I have talked to them the more I have changed my mind about what I think I ought to talk to you about tonight.

"I know that you are here because you feel there is good reason to celebrate this friendship. I know that I don't have to be very evangelical with you on the subject. I am sure that I don't have to persuade you that you are not doing a very naughty thing to admit that Russia is a brave and progressive country, but from what I understand you have some friends in Milwaukee who need to be persuaded. Maybe what we ought to do is talk about how to persuade them.

"In other words, we don't have to convince each other and let's not have one of those political revival meetings where we just tell each other things we know. I think that is a fault of liberals anyway. I think we have outgrown that kind of liberalism. The logic of history will catch up with us and there won't be any more liberals.

"It is a fact, and I think you will agree with me, that no political argument is ever won by a liberal. The only people who ever win a political argument are vigorous people who don't get together and tell each other things they already know but go out and do something about it. Well, if there are in Milwaukee as many people as people in Milwaukee tell me there are who are afraid of Russians and the Reds, then we are all going to have to go out and start doing something about it, or else I am going to have to call you a lot of liberals and I wouldn't do that for anything in the world. ....

"The present Russian government, and that highly successful Russian government -- and I don't think there is anybody who can't call it successful. I remember when the big argument against the Russian Soviet was that they were so inefficient. Do you remember? They couldn't do anything for themselves. You sent them American machinery and it fell apart. Do you remember that argument? Don't you remember when everybody told you that and you used to read it in the Hearst papers all the time?

"The big argument was that the Russians were brutes and beasts, and that only American engineers saved them from chaos, and of course that was, to begin with, a lie. But it was a much more serious lie, and a much more serious libel, than any argument against the Communist system would have been, because these people said at this time not that Communism was a bad idea because it destroyed individual opportunity, and other perfectly good moral arguments of that kind. What they did was to tie onto Communism a lack of confidence in a certain race. This is not surprising since the people who were the propagandists of this argument were the Fascists. They had a different name then and maybe ten years from now we will have a different name for them but they are the same people. We fought them in 1776. ....

"I am sure we are all agreed here that Russia and the people of the U.S.S.R. have stood bravely against the Fascist aggressor and have done more than any single people have ever done in any military combat in all the history of the world. ....

"Their real argument was that since Communism gave so many Russians an opportunity it couldn't be any good, since the great masses of the Russians were bearded "Musicks" and incapable of reason. This line has been exposed and now we are faced with a whole new series of lies.

"Let us discuss those lies, because each and everyone of you, I hope, is engaged in and will continue to be engaged in even more militantly overthrowing them. Everyone of you knows somebody you are willing to eat a meal with or share a car with, or ride in a trolley with, who thinks that the "Reds want to overthrow the world and that would be the most terrible thing on earth, and that they have made secret deals with Germany — it doesn't matter about the Moscow conference. You know all the lies.

"We have to start thinking about what to do about these lies, because no matter how great our diplomatic successes are, people like Mr. McCormick are going to find ways to betray those successes.

"I started to say that the government of this Russian people whom we so admire, to whom we are so in debt — this Communist government — successfully overthrew a slave dictatorship, a despotism almost unmatched in the world, because they knew how to organize, because the members of the revolutionary party in Russia participated in the revolution. There was nobody who thought the Czar should not continue on the throne who just applauded in a church when somebody made a nice speech.

"Unless all of you, until all of us, until every person who thinks that Col. Bert McCormick is a liar, unless all of us do something, unless we apply not the revolutionary thinking of the proletariat revolution but the revolutionary tactic to our present problem — and it is enormous in our present crisis, and it is grave — we will be faced with the sort of liberal failure which participated in the success of Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini and the overthrow of Republican Spain. I am not suggesting that anyone of you move to the left of your present political convictions. I am suggesting that all of us take from the left — and from the extreme left — its tradition of participation in social change. That does not mean revolution. It means participation in terms of organization; it means everybody who believes something gets on the 'phone tomorrow, everybody who believes something good, all of us together, start writing and writing and writing again to the Senators who are determining the world our children are going to inherit. ....

"I think our governmental ideal, our political ideal, is more sophisticated in the best sense of the word, is older, is wiser, is more adapted to the needs of our people on this continent, but I believe that the Russians have much to teach us, and I believe that this is a good night to thank them for what they have taught us.

"They have taught us that woman's place is not in the home and nowhere else. They have taught us — and we have followed suit — that a woman can run almost any kind of a thing that a man can. She just has an added responsibility, which is to bring children into the world. She certainly can do everything we can. We followed Russia and have already put into active practice that ridiculous notion. Remember how that aggravated everybody, all that freedom for women that the Russians were giving? That is something they taught us.

"I think we should thank the Russian people, above all, for the lesson they have taught us in terms of solidarity in time of war. I think we should thank the Russian people for what they have achieved in terms of total war, because if you go to Russia tonight you will not find one single living person, who is not lying ill in a hospital, who is not fighting the Russian war. Because this is so they are beating Hitler. Now, this is so because their country's revolutionary tradition is a tradition of active participation.

"Before the government became an authority, even when it was only a plot, the people who helped to make it an authority were very active people, but after they set up their government they did not forget their revolutionary tradition of participation. It was assumed that everyone privileged to be a member of the Russian Soviet had to do something to earn that right. It was not assumed that because you happened to be born in the country that the country owed something to you and you owed nothing in return.....

"If reaction succeeds in America, and it may -- don't ever think it may not -- never think you can sit here and shake your heads and say, "I see bad things from the election. I see injustice in the south and growing anti-Semitism. I see the possibility of returning soldiers, of disaffected war workers, of cynical liberals, of people disappointed in the things the world has given them." Never think that you can see all of these things and expect some mystic pendulum to swing back and give us back our liberties because that is the way it will happen.

"It is in the nature of our Constitution that our democratic way may be overthrown. Our Constitution protects the right of revolution and revolution may be counterrevolution. We have a fifth freedom, which is the freedom to take away freedom. It is the friend of the Fifth Column. Never believe that that freedom may not be invoked. Never believe that you may not live yourselves to see the day when this will be a Fascist country. Please don't think these words are too strong. If you do think they are too strong, you will live to see a Fascist country. If you are willing to accept these things as serious and solemn declarations we can fight back the Fascist beast, we can realize the dream of Lincoln and Jefferson and we can assume our place in a prosperous and abundant and friendly and law-abiding world. ....

"I want to tell you that Russia can become just as dangerous as Col. Bert McCormick says it is unless we make friends with it, not because Russia is that dangerous but because if we set up and if England sets up in the world an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust Russia will move further and further to the right, farther and farther in the direction of power "politics and manipulated diplomacy and a new regime. A regime in Russia will rise up based on blind nationalist pride, and Russia will become a great island of "Russia first." A kind of isolationism will be born in the eastern world which will be just as dangerous as any we make. So we have a responsibility not only to our democratic dream, not only to the children of our country -- our children -- but we have a responsibility to Russia because we can betray the Communist revolution.

"Now this is an enormous and extraordinary thing to say to many people, the sort of people who wouldn't come here, but it is true. We have no right to betray the Communist revolution, but if we connive at counterrevolution in Europe, if we forbid the right of Europe to determine its own free course of things in the world, we will stand with counter-revolution and Russia -- realistic, self-protective -- will be forced into a position which will not make it the brave and marching thing that it now is, because no nation is independent of any other nation in the world. There is no government which does not depend on every other government.

".....So we have something else to do but to celebrate the greatness of Russia tonight. We have to call a halt and think very solemnly and soberly about our responsibility to Russia not only as allies -- because we are meeting that responsibility and have met it gloriously in Moscow at the conference, and we will meet it more and more on the field of battle -- but we have a responsibility to the nations of freedom which Russia, along with the other governments of free men in the world, is helping to maintain.

".....I think it is an important thing to remember, and an important thing for us to tell our friends who are afraid of the Reds, that if we are afraid of Russia we have reason to be, that if any government born in revolution is afraid of another revolutionary government, then its revolution is in danger. I think that is self-evident but basic enough to bear repeating. ....

"We haven't even started to win the peace. We have just made a wonderful promise. We have just embarrassed a lot of boobs but we haven't started yet. So I think it is important not only that we acknowledge our debts to Russia and to the Soviet, and our thanks to Russia and the Soviet. But my main point here is to tell you that we have a big lesson to learn from them, and if we don't apply it right away we are in big trouble.

"....Everyone of you is an organizer in the American revolution, which is not yet completed. Never leave a person free to think that Fascism is all right. That isn't freedom. Never leave a man in chains if you can help it.

"If somebody, some friend of yours, says he just won't have anything to do with it, reason with him. If he won't listen please don't keep him as your friend. Please don't tolerate any form of race hatred. Let's not be tolerant about intolerance. Let's not live and let live: Hitler didn't! Let's be intolerant about intolerance. Let's be militant. Let's all consider that we have each of us a job to do, and that that job includes missionary work. It means that everyone of us has the responsibility to learn more about what is going on in the world, the better to assume the duties of our citizenship.

"...I believe we are going to create on earth a new international to match this new radicalism that I have invoked. It will be a popular front of all the peoples of the world.

* * *

"And now because many of my words have been badly chosen and my speech has been poorly organized, I would like to read to you just a few pages of the speech I wrote for you. This is a good deal more official and polite, and may be a little less evangelical, and I hope less presumptuous, I promise you no less sincere.

".....Our gift of friendship for the Soviet Union, then, is better than respect or gratitude -- more practical. It is an investment in the maintenance of our own liberty, our proud democracy, a proclamation of the goodness and greatness of all men."

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that ALICE FENDRICKSON in a conversation with JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, NED SPARKS and several other individuals, stated that she took in $193 on the collection at the November 13th American Council Rally. She stated that with this collection she expected to go approximately $200 into the red. NORDSTRAND stated that she knew at the time the collection was made that ALICE was making the mistake not to take up the collection before WELLES spoke. She argued that since WELLES did not sit on the stage at the American Council Meeting there was no reason why the collection could not have been taken up before he spoke.

b7D

The Milwaukee Journal dated 11/23/43 contained a letter written by MRS. KARL SCHLAEPFER, headed, "Orson Welles, Norman Cousins". The letter is a criticism of the Journal for its failure to report the complete text of WELLES' speech. It reads in part:

"I wish to express my disappointment at the inadequate reporting done by The Milwaukee Journal representative covering the Orson Welles speech at the tenth anniversary celebration of the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States of America."

This individual describes Mr. WELLES' talk as one of the "finest and most important I have heard in these parts for some time." WELLES is described as a man with farsighted brilliance. The writer admits that WELLES did urge a new type of radicalism which aimed to "put our Constitution and Bill of Rights into effect as our astute forefathers meant them to be used." The writer points out that the crux of the whole speech was the continued reluctance of a large part of the American people to understand Russia and the reluctance to cooperate for a world peace which might lead to a Russia intensely suspicious of our motives, highly nationalistic and isolated from us. This would be a hazardous factor for world peace.

"The warning is worth noting, for we now stand at the crossroads and may still choose the path to lasting peace."

A review of the speeches made at this rally, plus the comments just referred to, reflect one outstanding characteristic. Each speaker stated in some manner or form that unless complete cooperation was afforded Russia, dire consequences to this country would result. All the speeches echoed the remarks of JOSEPH E. DAVIES, "Without the cooperation of the Soviet Union, there can be no permanent and durable peace projected."

The Daily Worker in issue dated October 30, 1943, carried an article pertaining to the Congress of American Soviet Friendship described as the "Second Congress of American Soviet Friendship to be held in New York November 6 to 8. The Call to the Congress, issued by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is reprinted in full."

The Daily Worker, in issue dated 11/8/43, carried an article entitled, "Soviet Multi-National State Example to World, Says Adamic". The article reads in part:

"American writers, scholars and trade union leaders hailed the Soviet Union yesterday at the Nationalities Panel of the Congress of American Soviet Friendship at the Hotel New Yorker as the greatest unifying force for humanity in the world today.

"Louis Adamic presided."

The Daily Worker issue dated November 10, 1943, contained a large picture taken at the Soviet American Unity Celebration held in New York. Sub-heading to the picture reads in part:

"Scene of the greatest Soviet-American demonstration of 22,000 men and women at Madison Square Garden, taken from behind the speakers' platform, shows, in foreground two giant Victory-V streams announcing the Tenth Anniversary of American-Soviet Relations."

Exerpts from HAROLD L. ICKES' speech are contained in this issue.

[ ] advised as of 11/27/43, that NED SPARKS in a conversation with NORDSTRAND, FANIE SILBER and several others severely criticized NORDSTRAND for sending out the text of the Moscow Conference Agreement as part of the November 13th Rally sponsored by the American Council and for making it part of the program of the American Council. SPARKS stated that the tie-up between the Wisconsin Conference on Social Legislation and the American Council of Soviet Friendship will raise the question as to what kind of organization the Wisconsin Conference is, when it publicly commemorates the 10th Anniversary of the Soviet American relations. It was pointed out in connection with Exhibit #9 that one page of the program contained the Moscow Agreements.

Exhibit #11 is a flyer entitled, "For American Soviet Friendship November 1943, Commemorating the Tenth Anniversary of American Soviet Friendship." The flyer is a copy of the scroll presented to Chairman LEWIS to be given to President Roosevelt and Honorable JOSEPH E. DAVIES as described in the program. It was obtained at this rally by WILLIAM MISSING of the Milwaukee Police Department.

Exhibit #12 is a folded flyer entitled, "Stop Hearst's Seditious Attack on our Soviet Ally"; stamped on the bottom portion of this is written, "Council of American Soviet Friendship, 221 East Wisconsin Avenue. The pamphlet attacks the Hearst paper for its attitude in connection with Soviet Russia. It also sets out advertising material pertaining to the American Council of Soviet Friendship. This was secured by Arthur W. Zeltner at the November 13th Rally.

Exhibit #13 is a 15-page pamphlet entitled, "America and Russia" written by CORLISS LAMONT, published by the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, New York. This was furnished by ARTHUR ZELTNER, Detective, at the November 13th Rally. This pamphlet was placed on the seats at this rally. The pamphlet points out the similarity and interest of Russia and America in this present struggle and points out the many advantages of cooperation on the part of these two powers.

Exhibit #14 is a one-page flyer folded into three folds entitled, "The Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship presents a Cultural Program of Russian film classics." This also was furnished at the November 13th Rally. This pamphlet announces that the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship is proud to bring Milwaukee a series of Russia's greatest film classics. It describes these pictures as highly artistic and dramatic and beautifully filmed. "We urge you to see them every other Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue, 2nd Floor. Season tickets - $2.00. Individual Admissions.. .40 plus 04¢ tax - $.44. These filmed classics are listed for the dates November 14, 28; December 12, 26; January 9 and January 23, and they will pertain to some portion of Russian political life.

Exhibit #15 is a petition utilized in the circulation of signatures for the scroll which was to be presented to President Roosevelt at the November 13th Rally. It too was supplied from the source as the previous exhibits.

Exhibit #16 is a return envelope address to the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship designed for the payment of contributions. It was secured at this rally.

Exhibit #17 is a return envelope addressed to the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship, 221 East Wisconsin Avenue, which again was secured at this rally.

Exhibit #18 is a photograph taken at this rally showing ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that ALICE HENDRICKSON had attempted to organize a campaign whereby the CIO locals would contribute $25,000 in war bonds for the purpose of financing a tank which would be turned over to Russia as part of the Lend-Lease Program. This campaign was to be a prelude to the celebration of the 26th Anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union to be held in Milwaukee on the 12th of November and it was intended that the tank be exhibited outside the Grand Avenue Congregational Church on this date. This meeting was to be sponsored by the American Council of Soviet Friendship in celebration of this Soviet Union Anniversary.

Informant further stated that in connection with the planning of this bond purchasing campaign, that the appearance of ORSON WELLES in Milwaukee on a bond selling drive was to be utilized. Informant stated that ORSON WELLES' appearance at the November 13th Celebration sponsored by the American Council of Soviet Friendship was arranged by RUSSELL HESS of the National Committee of American Soviet Friendship who made the arrangements to contact EDDIE CANTOR.

Informant further stated that in connection with this campaign to raise money for the purchase of a tank to be contributed to Russia, HENDRICKSON wanted to collect 25¢ each from every CIO Union member, in order to get the ball rolling.

Informant stated that complications developed in the course of this tank purchasing campaign and it was finally decided to temporarily let the matter drop.

Informant [ ] stated as of 11/6/43 that ROY SPETH had taken an interest in raising of the $25,000 in bonds needed for a tank which it had been hoped would be able to be given to Russia and it was thought that he could encourage the support of the UAW behind this movement.

b7D

Informant further advised that all bond sales in connection with this tank sales drive were to be credited to American Council of Soviet Friendship and then to be allocated to the credit of supplies to be sent to Russia including the tank when and if this program is completed. It was agreed that BEN BARKIN was to show the picture, "Battle for Russia" at the Wisconsin Theater on the date that ORSON WELLES and RITA HAYWORTH were in Milwaukee and that ORSON and RITA were to make a personal appearance at the theater to sell bonds. Informant stated that NED SPARKS was skeptical of the program and inquired as to how labor might fit into the purchase of the tank.

III. A Chapter of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has been Established at Madison, Wisconsin

The Capital Times in an issued dated 11/8/43, in an article headed, "American Soviet Council Plans Reception Here; Sir Pares to be Speaker", it is reflected that a chapter of the American Council of Soviet Friendship has been established in Madison, Wisconsin, and has planned its initial activities to commemorate the celebration of Russia's 26th Anniversary as December 9, 1943. The article reads in part:

"Soviet Diplomatic relations in the light of the recent declarations of the Moscow conference will be discussed by Sir Bernard Pares, former director of the University of London school for Slavonic studies at a reception at the home of Dr. Dorothy Reed Mendenhall, 205 N. Prospect Ave., Thursday night.

"Invitations have been sent to approximately 100 Madisonians representing local labor, professional and study groups.

"Planned to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the establishment of American-Soviet diplomatic relations, the reception also marks the beginning of activities of the Madison Council for American-Soviet Friendship."

The article reflects that Sir Pares is an authority on the U.S.S.R., served on the staff of the British embassy in Czarist Russia before World War I, and spent much time in the U.S.S.R. subsequently studying events and personalities.

The officers of the Madison Council are set forth, in addition to Dr. Mendenhall are Edward N. Doan, president, and Mrs. Frank Renz, secretary. A list of sponsors are set forth which, as is a characteristic of this group, includes many prominent individuals in the vicinity of this chapter.

In view of the fact that this is the initial appearance of this organization, the sponsors are being set forth:

The Capital Times in issue dated 10/22/43 contains an article entitled, "Friendly U. S., Soviet Relations Are Supported", sub-heading, "Prominent Madisonians Sign 'Open Letter'". The article reads in part:

"A number of prominent Madisonians have endorsed an 'Open Letter to the American People' which advocates close and friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union during and after the war, according to Edward N. Doan, chairman of the Madison Council on Soviet-American Friendship, which is circulating the letter."

The article reflects that the Madison Council plans a series of observances beginning November 6th to commemorate the 10th Anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Soviet Russia. The letter advised that the organization will meet at the University Club to complete plans for the commemoration program. The signers of this letter are as follows:

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent CALVIN B. HOWARD at Madison, Wisconsin, on November 17 and 18, 1943 and December 27, and 28, 1943:

The Capitol Times, a local newspaper at Madison, in its October 22nd, 1943 issue, contained an article entitled "Friendly United States, Soviet Relations are Supported, Prominent Madisonians Signed Open Letter." The article stated in substance that a number of prominent Madisonians had endorsed an open letter to the American people which advocated close and friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union during and after the War. Signatures of many prominent Madisonians were listed, among which were MRS. C. H. DYKSTRA, wife of the President of the University of Wisconsin; WILLIAM T. EVJUN, Editor of the Capitol Times; DEAN and MRS. F. O. HOLT of the University of Wisconsin; Professor PAUL KNAPLUND of the University of Wisconsin; CURTIS MERRIMAN, Registrar of the University of Wisconsin. Additional names were listed, mostly members of the faculty at the University with some being prominent business men in Madison. MR. EDWARD H. DOAN was said to be Chairman of the Madison Council on Soviet-American Friendship, which organization had instigated the open letter.

DEAN F. O. HOLT, University of Wisconsin, advised that around the middle of October, 1943, MR. FRIEDRICK ROETTER of [redacted] approached him as he was crossing the campus at the University, and displayed to him what purported to be an open letter bearing the signatures of various members of the faculty at the University and of prominent business men in Madison. The letter in substance advocated more friendly relationships between the United States and the Soviet Union. MR. ROETTER inquired as to whether or not DEAN HOLT would sign such open letter indicating his sympathy for such cause. DEAN HOLT, noticing the signature of the wife of the President in addition to several reliable professors at the University and in addition to being in accord with the desire to advocate more friendly relations with the Soviet Union, attested his signature to the open letter. DEAN HOLT knew nothing more about the incident, saying he was unaware of the Madison Council on Soviet-American Friendship. DEAN HOLT was approached no more and was requested to attend no meetings.

MR. CURTIS MERRIMAN, Registrar, University of Wisconsin, said MR. ROETTER called at his office sometime during the month of October, 1943 and requested that he sign an open letter advocating more friendly relationships between the Soviet Union and the United States. MR. MERRIMAN, noting the signatures of fellow members of the faculty as well as the wife of the President, while also being in accord with the plan to bring about more friendly relationships with the Russians in view of their tremendous assistance being afforded the Allies, gave his signature at the time. The only additional contacts MR. MERRIMAN had with the organization advocating the letter, was to receive a request or invitation to attend a gathering at the home of MRS.

MERRIMAN, the widow of a former University of Wisconsin faculty member. This invitation was accepted by MR. MERRIMAN and on November 11, 1943 at 8:00 P.M. he attended the gathering at MRS. MERRIMAN'S residence at [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] At this gathering SIR BERNARD PAKES, one of the greatest living authorities on Russia, who happened to be visiting on the University of Wisconsin Campus, was present and was the guest of honor. The gathering was entirely a social affair with many members of the University of Wisconsin faculty in attendance. At the gathering, SIR BERNARD PAKES spoke on Russia emphasizing the historical background of Siberia, pointing out its possibilities for expansion and exploration as a post-war undertaking. MR. MERRIMAN understood SIR BERNARD PAKES was considered one of the greatest living authorities on Russia, having served as a newspaperman in Russia for many years during the last War. He was said to be an Englishman, having previously held the title of Director of the School of Slavonic Studies at the University of London. He was said to be a noted lecturer, with an international reputation.

MR. MERRIMAN understood the gathering had been more or less sponsored by the Madison Council on Soviet-American Friendship, but was not necessarily a meeting of such organization. MR. MERRIMAN knew of no meetings held by such organization and had received no invitation or request to attend a meeting. As to MR. DOAN, who was said to be Chairman of the organization, MR. MERRIMAN knew him to be merely a member of the faculty in the School of Journalism.

Professor PAUL KNAPLUND, Chairman of the History Department at the University of Wisconsin, said MR. BOWTTER had called upon him personally some time in October of 1943 requesting that he attach his signature to the open letter which he had at the time. To the best of Professor KNAPLUND'S recollection, the open letter contained signatures of approximately eighteen or twenty individuals, many of them being members of the faculty at the University. Professor KNAPLUND, who felt any movement to create more favorable and friendly relationships between the United States and the Soviet nations would be advisable and advantageous to the United States, signed the open letter and thought very little more about it. Professor KNAPLUND had received no request to attend any meetings held by the Madison Council on Soviet-American Friendship, but did recall receiving an invitation to attend the social gathering at MRS. MERRIMAN'S home. Professor KNAPLUND, however, did not attend such gathering.

MISS ANNIE KIRCH, produced the employment record for MR. EDWARD W. DOAN, who had been employed as a Graduate Assistant in the Journalism Department at the University since September, 1941. Such record disclosed MR. DOAN was born October 8, 1904 at West Carrollton, Ohio. He received an A.B. Degree in 1926 from Ohio Wesleyan University and an M. A. Degree in 1928 from the University of Wisconsin. His previous employment was listed as an instructor in English at the University of Puerto Rico from 1928 to 1929; as Assistant Professor of English at Bradley Polytech Institute from 1929 to 1930; and as Professor of English at that institution from 1930 to 1935. He served as Assistant Professor of Journalism at the University of Kansas from 1935 to 1938 and was an Assistant Professor of Journalism at Ohio State University from 1938 to 1941.

Professor GRANT M. HYDE, Chairman of the Journalism Department at the University, advised he was very well acquainted with MR. DOAN, recalling him as a student at the University, and also as a present member of the Journalism staff. Professor HYDE admitted he had heard indirectly of MR. DOAN'S activities as Chairman of the Madison Council of Soviet-American Friendship, but had given it very little thought. Professor HYDE is a reliable contact of the writer and known to be anti-Communist in every regard. Professor HYDE spoke very favorably of MR. DOAN and questioned his connection with any organization that would be Communistically dominated or controlled. Professor HYDE admitted an organization could well be commenced with the ultimate purpose of creating a front organization of Communist activities and, while disguising its purpose, obtain the services of MR. DOAN, but he definitely doubted MR. DOAN'S association with an organization which was known to be Communist. Professor HYDE said MR. DOAN was a rather young man and because of his great interest in journalism probably had readily accepted an opportunity to serve as publicity agent and general chairman of the organization. Professor HYDE agreed to undertake to determine more definitely the ultimate aims and purposes of the organization as he expressed great interest in the fact that a member of his Department was actively engaged in an organization with a possible Communist tinge.

It should be noted MR. ROETTER is a German refugee, whose wife writes a column with the Wisconsin State Journal, a Madison newspaper. MR. ROETTER, while in Germany, gained fame by defending the individuals charged with the responsibility of the Reichstag fire.

IV. The American Council Utilizes Various Methods to Combat Anti-Soviet Propaganda

In order to combat anti-Soviet sentiment and to combat the effect of articles written with this objective, the American Council occasionally writes letters to the Journal to be published in the editorial column answering or explaining certain previous letters or comments appearing in the local papers.

The Milwaukee Journal in issue dated 8/6/43 contains an article entitled, "Free Germany Text," written by the REV. JOHN LEWIS, Chairman Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship. Although this article is signed by Rev. JOHN LEWIS, it is probable that it was composed by individuals prominent in the Communist Party. The article reads in part:

"Last week the newspapers published a news item about a Free Germany National Committee organized in Russia among German war prisoners and refugees with the purpose of getting Germany out of the war and helping to overthrow the Nazi regime. The interpretation, given chiefly by Senator Nye and Congressman Dies, was an adverse one, stressing the danger of militant Russian communism or the possibility of a separate peace move by the Soviets."

The article attempts to answer these accusations. It states, "Anglo-American troops are at the gates of Europe. The day is approaching when Germany will collapse under the impact of simultaneous blows from all sides. Unless the Germans overthrow their present rulers and sue for peace, Germany will be destroyed, because the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition will not consider peace with Hitler."

"Our aim is a free Germany. This means a democracy that will mercilessly suppress any attempt of any new conspirators against the rights of the free people, or against European peace; full abolition of all laws based on national or racial hatred, of all institutions of the Hitlerite regime that are degrading our people. ....

"Surely the right to own acquired property lawfully is not evidence of red hat communism. In fact, the ideals and principles laid down are ideals and principles to which we, as Americans, have long been devoted."

The article makes a plea for unbiased information.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised as of August 7, 1943, that in connection with anti-Russian comments pertaining to the Free German Committee, NORDSTRAND requested AL HIRSCH of the CIO to write an article for the Daily Worker concerning the Journal editorial attacking the Peace Manifesto of the National Committee of Free Germany, and the answer to this editorial which was sent to the Journal by REV. JOHN LEWIS at the request of ALICE HENDRICKSON.

The Journal in an article dated 11/7/43 contains information pertaining to Russian and American relationships. The article again is published under the name of REV. JOHN LEWIS. The article points out that events of 15 or 20 years ago are allowed to decide our judgments in the present. It states, "The almost incredible strides that Russia has made in the meantime - politically, socially - religiously - do not count. The sins of the past must be remembered, the accomplishments of the present ignored! The present constitution of the U.S.S.R. reads thus: "Equality of rights of citizens of the USSR irrespective of their nationality or race, in all spheres of economic, state, cultural, social and political life, is an infeasible law." The article is a criticism of anti-Russian propaganda to the effect that Communism opposes religion. The article states, "There is a growing spirit of tolerance toward religion and respect for the part it has played in the history of the nation. This is reflected in the Russian cinema and stage. The ridiculing of religion is increasingly regarded as bad form and is discouraged."

The article further points out that the Council of American and Soviet Friendship at 122 E. Wisconsin Avenue, has already accomplished great things. Not by propaganda, but by presentation of facts it has facilitated the coming of two great nations into full mutual understanding to win the war and to win the peace.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised as of 11/29/43 that ALICE HENDRICKSON, JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, FANNE SILBER and several others in the course of conversation stated that the pamphlets on the Moscow Agreements would have to be got out. NORDSTRAND reminded ALICE HENDRICKSON that she was supposed to get out a number of printed pamphlets on this Moscow Agreement to which ALICE replied, that she was working on it.

b7D

Exhibit #20 is a copy of the Moscow Agreements referred to by JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND which is evidently publicized by the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship as this organization's name is attached to the bottom portion of these agreements. This exhibit was supplied by informant [ ] as of November 30, 1943, and this informant stated that 2,000 of these exhibits were purchased by ALICE HENDRICKSON at a price of $19.75 and another method of combating anti-Russian propaganda is through the medium of the moving picture.

Informant [ ] advised as of September 18, 1943, that ALICE HENDRICKSON, in a conversation with NORDSTRAND and SPARKS and several others, stated that she had been giving some consideration to the establishment of a new theater in Milwaukee business section. SPARKS suggested that ALICE, during her visit to New York, should investigate the possibilities for the establishment of a contact through which she could obtain pictures. SPARKS said that she should be sure that she did not transmit her plans for a new theatre to any individual who might take it over for the Trotskyites. SPARKS instructed ALICE HENDRICKSON to conceal her CP affiliations from certain individuals whom ALICE had referred to as Roman Catholics in connection with her plans pertaining to this theater project.

In a memorandum to the file written by Special Agent Frank M. Fudali as of September 24, 1943, it is reflected that on September 22, 1943, ROBERT RUMPEL of the Better Business Bureau, supplied the writer of this memorandum with the following pertinent information:

He stated that while talking to Mr. M. J. ASENBAUER of the Warner Theaters he learned that ALICE HENDRICKSON, representing the above organization, had made arrangements with the Warner Theaters to sell tickets for the presenting of "Mission to Moscow." This ticket sale covered the showing at three neighborhood theaters during the month of August. RUMPEL learned that the contract which was drawn up between the Council and Warner Theaters was signed by ALICE HENDRICKSON, that the Council agreed to sell 10,000 tickets and that the Council was to receive a commission of 25% thereon. This informant learned that the Council had sold a total of 1,164 tickets, but that only 455 had been actually collected at the theater. This would leave 709 tickets which were not used. It was pointed out by the informant that in making a return on the entire transaction, ALICE HENDRICKSON sent Warner Brothers a check for $242.26, which in the opinion of informant was drawn on the 1st Wisconsin Bank and was in payment of the following items:

- $153.56 - return on tickets used
- $22.75 - tax on 455 admissions
- 35.45 - tax on the $709 tickets sold but not used
- 30.40 - for printing the tickets

In view of the fact that Warner Brothers were not interested in tickets that were not sold, this transaction would net the Council approximately $380 profit.

MI FILE 100-2990

ASENBauer advised Mr. RUMPEL that ALICE was at this time attempting to make another deal with Warner Brothers for the showing of other pictures.

[redacted] as of 11/3/43 advised that NED SPARKS, in conversation with HENDRICKSON, NORDSTRAND and several others, expressed considerable feeling about the lack of publicity given to certain recent activities of the American Council, mainly the exhibition of Russian pictures which are being shown in the library of the Council. He was also critical of publicity given to special book reviews sponsored by the Council.

SPARKS asked ALICE when the "Battle of Stalingrad" movie is going to be shown in Milwaukee. ALICE says that the representative of Paramount pictures told her that the Fox Theater through whom Paramount pictures are shown in Milwaukee did not care to exhibit the picture. The head of the Fox Theaters told ALICE that Paramount wanted too much money for the picture. NED says he does not believe the Fox man when this individual states that the Catholic Church prevented the showing of the picture. ALICE stated that Paramount pictures in New York wrote the American Council in Milwaukee asking them to push this particular picture.

This informant advised as of 11/15/43 that ALICE HENDRICKSON has stated on one occasion that the picture, "Battle for Stalingrad" is going to be shown at a theater in Appleton, Wisconsin. ALICE stated that she was going to go there prior to the showing of the picture to see the manager of the theater and arrange a reception in connection with the first showing of the picture.

Informant advised as of 11/17/43 that NORDSTRAND in the course of conversation with FANNE SILBER, NED SPARKS and several others, stated that the American Council is having a preview of the picture, "Battle for Russia" at the Varsity Theater on this date and is inviting numerous club women to attend.

Exhibit #21 is a folded flyer on the same order as Exhibit #14, which is advertising Russian films that are being exhibited at the offices of the American Council of Soviet Friendship. This pamphlet reflects that the so-called film classics, "General Suvorov", "Peter The First", "Chapayev", "Lenin in October", "The Youth of Maxim" are being displayed by the Council at the Council offices during the period of December 1 to January 6, 1944.

Exhibit #22 is a one page flyer advertising Warners' "Mission to Moscow" and states that tickets can be purchased for this thrilling drama through the Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship.

Informant [ ] advised as of 11/19/43 that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND in a conversation with NED SPARKS, FANNIE SILBER and several others stated that the Milwaukee Council of Soviet Friendship had a booth at the American Slaw Council Bazaar which was held 11/18/43. NORDSTRAND in referring to the activities of this bazaar, stated that contrary to its previous position, the United Nations Committee Booth Bazaar was distributing Polish literature attacking Russia and at this point NED SPARKS entered the conversation. He stated that either ALICE HENDRICKSON or the American Council, or NORDSTRAND should straighten Dr. BELKNAP out on this point.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

The Milwaukee Council of American Soviet Friendship is continuing to operate as a Communist Party dominated front organization with its activities supervised by SAM S. ALEX, State Secretary of the Communist Party, State of Wisconsin. This organization, under the leadership of ALICE KRESZYNSKA, Executive Secretary and well known K member, sponsored a rally in Milwaukee September 9, 1943, advertised as a meeting to honor two American Jewish goodwill representatives sent to the United States by Russia which was primarily planned by the Local Council as a means of combating anti-Semitic sentiment and to solicit funds for Soviet Russia. Approximately 2000 persons attended and nearly $5000 was collected for a hospital in Leningrad. In conformity with the National Council program, the local Council staged a meeting November 13, 1943, in Milwaukee to commemorate the 10th Anniversary of American Soviet Friendship and the 15th Anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union. SAM S. ALEX and ALICE KRESZYNSKA were the featured attractions. The drive was planned to collect $25,000 for the purpose of a tank to be given to Russia which was timed to tie in with the November 15th Meeting. This latter endeavor was unsuccessful. An organization identified as the Madison Council of American Soviet Friendship has taken root at Madison, Wisconsin, and commenced activities. W. F. S. S. is Honorary Chairman, EDWARD J. DASH, President and Wm. F. S. S. (JOE CHICK), a Communist Party member, is the Secretary.

Re: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF
AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

Subject organization in its Council Bulletin dated December 1, 1943 has indicated that nation-wide celebrations such as dinners and special ceremonies are contemplated being held February 23, 1944 to pay tribute to the 26th Anniversary of the founding of the Red Army. The subject organization has also prepared a press release for "Red Army Day February 23, 1944."

Subject organization has announced plans to hold a meeting on March 6, 1944 at Carnegie Hall, New York which will pay tribute to the Soviet women's contribution to the war. The meeting is being planned by the National Women's Committee of the subject organization and will parallel a celebration of March 8, 1944 by the women of the Soviet Union as International Women's Day. The subject organization is suggesting that similar events be held on a local scale by the local Council.

This information, together with other facts concerning the subject organization, will be submitted to the Bureau by report on or about February 15, 1944.

Very truly yours,

Synopsis:

Subject organization sponsored celebrations during November 1943 in New Haven, Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn. in commemoration of 10th Anniversary of the U.S. - Soviet Diplomatic relations. At these affairs, Russian films were shown and the program included speeches and entertainment. EDWIN S. SMITH, National Executive Director of NCASF, spoke at New Haven. Arrangements for these celebrations, according to Informants, were made by members of Communist Party, and tickets were sold at branch meetings of the Communist Party. Local chapter of the subject organization is not as yet completely organized by ROSE DWORSKI, Communist Party member who is acting as local Secretary - Treasurer, assisted by BENJAMIN KEEN who is also a member of the Communist Party. Communist Party member, FRANCES FELDMAN, is reported to be active in subject organization. The names of the members of the State Committee of the National Council on Soviet relations, fore-runner of subject organization as of 12/22/42, secured and set out.

The following portion of the report was dictated by the writer. u

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Confidential Informant T-1 furnished the following information by letter concerning the subject organization. T-1 stated that it would appear that the purpose of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. is to combat efforts allegedly being made in the United States to arouse hate and suspicion for the Soviet Union. CORLISS LAMONT who has been accused of sympathizing with various Communist or radical causes in the past, is chairman of the organization, and a number of other individuals who have had some radical connections in the past, are also identified with it. u

The organization held a Rally in New York on May 20, 1943 for the stated purpose of building an allied unity and protesting against anti-Soviet propaganda. A number of prominent individuals were speakers although one of those listed as a speaker, Dr. OSCAR R. LANGE, withdrew his name from the list of speakers because of alleged efforts by the Daily Worker to "misrepresent the purpose of the Rally". The Informant furnished in addition the following information taken from the New York Herald Tribune for October, 1942: u

"Speakers at mass meeting of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship on Sunday, November 8, in Madison Square Garden, will include Vice-President Henry A. Wallace; Maxim Litvinov, Russian Ambassador to the United States; Joseph E. Davies, former American Ambassador to Russia; Governor Herbert H. Lehman, Mayor F.H. LaGuardia and Thomas W. Lamont, of J.P. Morgan & Company. Corliss Lamont, son of the banker and chairman of the congress, announced yesterday." u

"The Congress which will last two days, will begin Nov. 7 with a series of panel discussions at the Hotel New Yorker and will be the first of its kind in this country, according to Mr. Lamont. Its goal, he said, is 'simply American-Soviet cooperation and understanding to win the war and peace.'" u

T-1 stated that shortly after this article appeared, on two occasions, T-1 tried to secure information concerning the subject organization but these requests were ignored. u

ACTIVITIES OF CONNECTICUT INDIVIDUALS IN NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

By letter from the New York Field Division dated November 20 it is stated that the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held in New York City November 6, 7, 8, 1943, was under the sponsorship of the Communist influenced subject organization. CHRISTINA W. STANESLOW addressed the Nationalities Panel of the Congress. Introduced as the secretary of the Waterbury, Conn. Branch of Russian War Relief, Inc., 1943 Mrs. STANESLOW was stated to be speaking for the Lithuanian Americans of this country. She then launched into a vigorous explanation and defense of the Russian position in the Baltic states, hailing the beneficent reforms that had taken place in those nations following their "acceptance" by the Soviet Union at their "request". u

Mrs. STANESLOW declared that the United States must not give in to the Fascist elements and should rescind its recognition of the present governments in exile of the Baltic nations and extend full recognition to their Soviet representatives. u

Mrs. STANESLOW'S address was warmly received by the audience which heard on the same panel LOUIS ADAMIO, author; JOSEPH A. SALERNO, president of the Massachusetts CIO, and other pro-Soviet speakers. u
Congress Industrial Organization

A photostatic copy of a press release of Mrs. STANESLOW's speech was furnished by the New York Field Division and is being retained in the files of the New Haven Field Division. According to the New York letter, Mrs. STANESLOW was listed on the Congress Program as Mrs. CATHERINE STANESLOW, and that the title of her speech was "The Voice of the Newest Soviet Republics". u

It should be noted that CHRISTINA STANESLOW, aka Mrs. JOEN S. STANESLOW, is the Subject of a separate file in the New Haven Field Division. u

Confidential Informant   advised that on November 10, 1943, FRANCES FELDMAN, known Communist Party member in New Haven, u

100-1904

contacted RUTH ONDA, wife of ANDREW ONDA, leader of the Communist Party in New Haven. During the ensuing conversation, FRANCES FELDMAN said that she went to the Congress of the subject organization in New York last week and that it was "terrific". FRANCES FELDMAN stated that Connecticut was well represented in the trade union panels. Commissioner of Education ALONZO GRACE was on the Educational Panel; C.E.A. WINSLOW was on the Medical Panel; Dr. CARL DUNBAR, (Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of Russian War Relief in New Haven) was on the Science Panel; CHRISTINA STANESLOW from Waterbury was on the National Panel, and LOUIS ADAMIC was Chairman. u

FRANCES FELDMAN reported to RUTH ONDA that she was full of enthusiasm after her trip and stated that "every Red Baiter" was on the speakers stand. u

CONF. INFT. [ ] advised that FRANCES FELDMAN contacted PAUL BLOOM, City Secretary of the Communist Party in New Haven, to inquire as to the date of the next scheduled city council meeting of the Communist Party in New Haven. When BLOOM told her that the next meeting will be held on November 22, FRANCES FELDMAN expressed regret because of the fact that she was just back from the Congress in New York and is "chuck full" of things to discuss at the next city council meeting. FRANCES FELDMAN told BLOOM that she heard the trade union panel in New York and described it as "terrific". She further stated that the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship would be the program from now on and that Russian War Relief would fall into the background. u

FRANCES FELDMAN went on to say that she went to the Metropolitan Museum of Art and would like to discuss it in New Haven. She stated that she was so inspired by the Congress that she expected everyone to be singing the "Internationale" when she got off the train in New Haven. BLOOM promised to try to arrange for her to report on her trip at the next meeting of the City Council of the Communist Party in New Haven. u

MALLOY, Dr. EMILY PIERSON and Mrs. GEORGE SELDES. According to the New Haven files, others are known Communist Party sympathizers such as LEE DANNENBERG and HARRY J. NEWTON. 4

NEW HAVEN ACTIVITIES

Preparations for New Haven Celebrations

Confidential Informant T-1 furnished a letter received by T-1 on November 11, 1943 from the New Haven Committee of American-Soviet Friendship, 87 Orange Street, New Haven, Conn. 4

100-1904

This letter was under the letterhead of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. which listed the national officers., in addition gave the address of the New Haven Committee of American Soviet Friendship as 87 Orange Street. This letter read as follows:

"Dear Sir:

Ten years ago this November, under the wise guidance of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the United States of America established diplomatic relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Today our two countries are engaged with the other United Nations in a great peoples' war, on whose outcome the whole future of humanity depends. The recent Moscow Conference has registered the firm determination of the peoples and governments of the United States and the Soviet Union to continue this collaboration into the post-war period for the winning of an enduring peace. U

In order to commemorate the Tenth Anniversary of the historic resumption of diplomatic relations with our Russian ally, the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is holding celebrations in more than fifty cities throughout the United States. New Haveners will have an opportunity to demonstrate their feelings of sympathy and admiration for our heroic Russian allies by attending the celebration at the Dixwell Playhouse on the evening of Wednesday, November 24. The Soviet Film, "Lad From Our Town," will be shown; the distinguished Broadway artists, Al Moss and Laura Duncan, will perform; the speaker of the evening will be Mr. Edwin C. Smith, Executive Director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. U

We take the liberty of enclosing herewith two patron tickets for this affair and cordially invite your attendance. Checks should be made out to the undersigned. A stamped and self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience. U

Sincerely yours, 1

/s/ Rose Dworski 4

Secretary-Treasurer 1

The letter, together with the tickets enclosed, are being made a part of the New Haven file.

1443 / Confidential Informant [ ] advised that he was present at a meeting of the State Committee of the Communist Party held October 22. At this meeting MICHAEL RUSSO state Chairman of the Communist Party of Connecticut, stated that concerning the subject organization, meetings had been planned for Bridgeport, Hartford and New Haven, and it was decided by the committee that all possible effort would be made to insure a good attendance at these meetings, particularly from trade union groups. u

b7D

CONF. INET- On October 25, [ ] advised this office that PAUL BLOOM asked BENJAMIN KEEN, Communist Party member, to give BETTY KEEN, his wife, a full report on the activities of the Council of American-Soviet Friendship, so that BETTY KEEN would be able to give this information at the City Council meeting of the Communist Party scheduled for that evening. u

b7D

The same Informant advised that on October 26, PAUL BLOOM told BETTY KEEN that he was disappointed in that she did not attend the City Council meeting held the previous evening as he had expected her to give a full account on the activities of the American-Soviet Friendship. BETTY KEEN stated, according to the Informant, that she had been unable to go because she was not well. The same Informant advised that on the same day, FRANCES FELDMAN contacted PAUL BLOOM and asked for a report on last night's city council meeting. PAUL BLOOM stated that he had heard concerning the subject organization that there would be a theatre available and a speaker would come from New York. FRANCES FELDMAN stated that she thought it was terrible that BETTY KEEN failed to show up at the council meeting. Concerning the celebrations, BLOOM stated that in his opinion a Russian film would draw a good crowd. u

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that at the regular meeting of the Hamden Professional Branch of the Communist Party held on November 2, ALLEN HICKERSON spoke on the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, and stated that the organization is a very delicate one and referred to it as a "ghost organization" in which the party would not become openly active until after the war when the need for Russian War Relief are over. At this meeting, according to the Informant, HICKERSON stated that he, DAVID

GOLDBERG and BENJAMIN KEEN, of the New Haven Professional Branch, are busy in preparation for the coming celebrations in New Haven scheduled for November 24. At this meeting, TICKERSON distributed tickets to the various members with instructions to sell them to friends and use them themselves. All the members present took at least 2 tickets to the celebration and DAVID GOLDBERG took 50. u

Confidential Informant T-3 advised on November 10 that letters and leaflets advertising the New Haven celebration as sponsored by the subject organized, were mailed from 87 Orange Street, Room 306. Persons selected to receive this literature were secured from the mailing list at the Russian War Relief. The same Informant advised that concerning the subject organization, FRANCES FELDMAN was careful that no connection would be alleged between Russian War Relief and the subject organization. According to T-3, in spite of this, much of the work in preparation for the New Haven celebration was actually done at the Russian War Relief Office. u

[ ] advised that on November 11 PAUL BLOOM again contacted BENJAMIN KEEN and asked if the New Haven meeting for the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship is coming along satisfactory. In reply, KEEN stated that he now had over 1,000 tickets out. BLOOM asked who the speaker was to be and KEEN replied that it would be SMITH from the National Office. BLOOM expressed satisfaction with the speaker and stated that SMITH had put out a good pamphlet on Soviet Trade Unions. u

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that at a regular meeting of the Howe Street Club of the Communist Party held November 18, 1943, it was announced that on November 24 an affair sponsored by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship would be held at the Dixwell Theatre in New Haven. It was announced that members are expected to attend and that a Russian film would be shown and there would be speakers and entertainment. J. A. WRAZEN of the Howe Street Club was designated as the person in charge of selling tickets to the members of this Branch. u

b7D

[ ] advised that on November 19 ROSE DWORSKI told PAUL BLOOM that she is having 2 negro singers for the meeting of November 24 and that she needs some help in making contacts. ROSE

b7D

**National Association for the Advancement of Colored People*

DWORSKI stated that the NAACP had already been contacted. BLOOM told ROSE DWORSKI to see BENJAMIN KEEN about it and asked if it were not true that BENJAMIN KEEN is in charge of this meeting. ROSE stated that he is but that she wished BLOOM to suggest someone to contact the trade union people. BLOOM thought that it was too late to do anything more than had been done up to this time. u

On the same date, [ ] advised that PAUL BLOOM contacted BENJAMIN KEEN and explained that ROSE DWORSKI had contacted BLOOM because of some discussion in the Dixwell Avenue area concerning the negro population problem. BENJAMIN KEEN stated that what ROSE DWORSKI must have meant was the problem of publicity among the negroes for the November 24th meeting. Concerning publicity, KEEN stated that so far they have trolley posters out and have arranged for 3 day adds in the Yale News, the Union Times, and the New Haven Register. KEEN described the publicity as good and said that the returns so far show that they received 29 letters yesterday, 30 with checks for tickets, and 50 returning tickets. KEEN stated that ticket sales among the Russians are not moving so well and they must have another meeting concerning this problem on the evening of this day. u

Concerning the negroes, KEEN volunteered to work up a pamphlet, and BLOOM suggested that it be printed in time for distribution in the Dixwell Avenue area by the following Monday. u

On November 22, [ ] advised that RUTH ONDA contacted BETTY KEEN and discussed the November 24th meeting. During this conversation, BETTY KEEN told RUTH ONDA that AL MOSS, the negro singer, would be there. She also stated that about $100 had been received from the sponsors but that otherwise the meeting was not progressing very well and that there was a chance of loss on the convention since the expenses would amount to about $450. u

b7D

On the same date, [ ] advised that BLOOM asked FRANCES FELDMAN what arrangement had been made for the distribution of literature at the November 24th meeting. FRANCES FELDMAN said they planned to have a lot of literature there but they were going to get it from the Russian War Relief Headquarters. BLOOM stated that he would like to get rid of some of the literature from the Communist Party Headquarters and FRANCES FELDMAN suggested that he get in touch with ROSE DWORSKI and BENJAMIN KEEN. u

NEW HAVEN CELEBRATION

The writer attended the celebration sponsored by the New Haven Committee of American-Soviet Friendship at the Dixwell Playhouse on Dixwell Avenue November 24 at 8 PM. This celebration consisted of showing of several short Russian films, and the showing of the principal film of the evening "The Lad From Our Town". The dialogue was in Russian with English sub-titles. At the conclusion of the film the principal address of the evening was given by EDWIN S. SMITH, National Executive Director of the NCSAF, who spoke at some length. u

Persons attending the celebration were handed a pamphlet entitled "America and Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT, published by the NCSAF, 20% of which has been placed in the New Haven files. u

[ ] was also in attendance at this meeting and the following resume of SMITH's speech is the combined observations of Informant and the writer. According to SMITH, the purpose of the NCSAF is to exchange information between Russia and the United States through committees which are in the state of formation. These committees are as follows: An Art Committee, Music Committee, Trade Union Committee, Dance Committee and Architectural Committee. Through these committees, American and Russian artists, musicians, dancers, architects and trade unionists will urge ideas of a cultural nature. u

EDWIN S. SMITH spoke at length concerning the history of Russia and incidently the Communist Party in Russia. He stated that Russia helped us in the United States win our freedom from the Tories. SMITH mentioned TIM PAINE and ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and that our interests and Russia's interests are really one and the same. According to SMITH, reactionaries have raised Bogies about Russia to prevent Russia-United States friendship. He stated that these bogies are fascist lies., Russia saved this country from Hitler; that we are not now doing enough to help Russia. A second front would show our friendship for Russia. 26 years ago the Soviet Union was founded and 10 years ago the President wisely gave diplomatic recognition to that great country. u

SMITH went on to say that it is to the best interests of the United States to have Russia for our friend, and that in fact it would be just as well to have such a powerful country on our side. If we want Russia's friendship, we must earn it, and we better start earning it before it is too late. SMITH mentioned the Patterson-Compton-Hearst "Fascists" who are spreading lies about Russia to prevent a friendship between the 2 countries. SMITH spoke for about 35 minutes, after which LAURA DUNCAN and AL MOSS, negro singers, sang several numbers including the song of the United Nations. u

The writer noticed on a table in the lobby of the Dixwell Avenue Theatre a quantity of literature among which was "Soviet-Russia Today" and the Constitution of the USSR. ~~All persons~~ Union Socialist Soviet Republic attending this affair were handed a program entitled "Tenth Anniversary Celebration of American-Soviet Diplomatic Relations", New Haven Committee on American-Soviet Friendship. This program listed the following persons as patrons:

RESULTS OF THE NEW HAVEN CELEBRATION

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ Informant [ ] advised that at a regular meeting of the Hamden Professional Branch of the Communist Party held December 6, DAVID GOLDBERG reported on the November 24th meeting at the Dixwell Theatre. GOLDBERG stated that the affair had not been too successful and that a loss of $150 might be sustained on the evening's meeting. u

~~CONF. INFT~~
On December 12, [ ] advised that BENJAMIN KEEN contacted DAVID STAHL and discussed the results of the November 24th meeting. BEN stated he had drafted a letter, the substance of which was the thanking of the patrons of the American-Soviet Friendship meeting in celebration of the 10th Anniversary of the American-Soviet relations and calling for the organization of the New Haven chapter of the National Council. Sponsors of the committee in New Haven were said to be Dr. JOHN C. PETERS, Roscoe STEFFEN, Professor ELSWORTH HUNTINGTON and others. A meeting was proposed to elect officers and the recipients of the letter are to be invited to attend. u

b7D

Another letter, according to BENJAMIN KEEN, is to be sent to the heads of organizations soliciting their cooperation and support. STAHL would like to have this letter as soon as possible in order to get HAROLD FEINMARK, head of the New Haven AF of L working on it. According to the Informant, one of the tasks of the New Haven chapter is to secure a meeting place, and another is to secure a proper person to sign the letters as chairman. u

[ ] advised that on December 17, ROSE DWORSKI contacted BEN KEEN and discussed the financial results of the November 24th meeting. It was decided that after all returns are in they would just about break even on the New Haven affair. ROSE DWORSKI told KEEN that Mr. HAMILTON may permit his name to be used as a signer of the letters. The same Informant advised that ROSE DWORSKI contacted BENJAMIN KEEN on January 5, 1944 and in a conference concerning the New Haven chapter of the Subject organization, ROSE DWORSKI stated that she plans to draw up a complete list of patrons after which she will send BENJAMIN KEEN a financial statement. According to ROSE, this must be done at once since the New York Office is asking her what is being done. In this connection, ROSE DWORSKI will see PAUL BLOOM at an early date. u

BRIDGEPORT ACTIVITIES

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent RICHARD M. McMAHON at Bridgeport, Connecticut:

Confidential Informant [ ] was contacted and furnished the following information concerning the subject organization: He stated that as part of the National Program to celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of American Soviet Diplomatic Relations, arrangements were made to show the moving picture the "City that Stopped Hitler—Heroic Stalingrad" at the Warner Brothers Theater in Bridgeport, Conn., on Tuesday, November 16, 1943. u

This Informant advised that he had received information from a reliable source that Communist Party meetings scheduled for that date were called off in order to enable Communist Party members to attend this testimonial of American-Soviet friendship. This informant stated that he had received information that ANDREW ONDA, the Executive Secretary of the Communist Party, 15th District, had attended this testimonial on November 14, 1943. u

In an article appearing in the "Bridgeport Sunday Herald" on November 21, 1943, it was pointed out that the movie "The City That Stopped Hitler—Heroic Stalingrad" had been shown the previous Tuesday evening at the Warner Theater for the purpose of celebrating the Anniversary of the Foundation of the Soviet Union and the 10th Anniversary of the American-Russian diplomatic relations. u

This article related that the Russian Holy Ghost church choir under the direction of Co. LUKE T. BAKOOLA, sang at this ceremony. Governor RAYMOND E. BALDWIN of Connecticut also spoke at this ceremony. u

HARTFORD ACTIVITIES

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent EUGENE F. ENDICOTT on December 1, 1943 at Hartford, Conn.

A clipping from the "Hartford Courant" dated November 15, 1943 reflected that a demonstration of friendship between the U.S. and its ally, Soviet Russia, was to be presented on the evening of November 15, 1943 at Bushnell Memorial Auditorium, Hartford, Conn. in observance of the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between the two members of the United Nations. Speakers were to include EDGAR ANSELL HOWSER, Foreign Correspondent; ROCKWELL KENT, American Artist and Liberal, and M.S. TAVILOV, Vice-Consul of the Soviet Union. The meeting was sponsored by a committee of Hartford citizens headed by WALTER PATTERSON in collaboration with the Hartford Committee of Russian War Relief and the Hartford War Chest. u

A clipping from the "Hartford Times" dated November 16, 1943 stated that EDGAR A. HOWSER, speaking at a meeting to celebrate the tenth anniversary of U.S.-Russia diplomatic relations and the twenty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Russian Soviet, scored the refusal of democratic powers to heed Foreign Minister LITVINOV's plea for collective security before 1939, and declared that the Moscow Conference is the final attempt to make collective security work with common sense. u

WALTER B. PATTERSON, former Mayor of Hartford, opened the meeting with a plea to inculcate faith in Russia, Britain and its equals. u

Professor ODELL SHEPARD read the proclamation of Mayor O'CONNOR setting aside the week of November 15 as "American-Soviet Friendship Week" and introduced Soviet Vice-Consul M.S. TAVILOV who praised the meeting as evidence that understanding between the countries is growing directly through the broad channel of the people, and said the Moscow pact will be the final defeat of the German Fascist barbarians. u

ROCKWELL KENT, terming himself a workman and a labor-unionist to the core, warned against racial discrimination and anti-Semitism as the first symptoms of Fascism. u

SHEPARD announced that a cablegram containing a salute to the Red Army and a promise to carry out the ideals of the Moscow Conference was sent to Premier STALIN by the committee sponsoring the meeting. u

Informant [ ] advised that NORA BRESHMAN, Secretary of Russian War Relief at Hartford and a member of the City Council of the Communist Party at Hartford representing the West Hartford Branch, was in frequent consultation with ROY LEIB, Secretary of the Communist Party at Hartford in connection with the plans for the Soviet-American Friendship meeting. The Informant reported that ROY LEIB suggested that ROCKWELL KENT, who was speaking in Boston in October, would be glad to stop at Hartford for the meeting. LEIB also requested that he be notified of the names of the sponsors and be advised of the progress made. NORA BRESHMAN later reported to ROY LEIB, according to the informant, that ROCKWELL KENT had accepted her invitation to speak and that BEATRICE AUERBACH had agreed to serve on a sponsoring committee. She requested the help of ROY LEIB in getting blocks of tickets in all the union shops and in getting the unions behind this meeting. LEIB agreed to do this and stressed the importance of getting the support of the Negroes and the IWO. u

The informant further advised that ROY LEIB told her that in his opinion the proceeds of the meeting should go for work on Russian-American Friendship, but since they were using Russian War Relief and the Hartford War Chest as sponsors, it would not be possible to do so. He stated that since no collection was to be taken at the meeting they should have twenty-five or thirty Party members selling literature at the doors and inside the meeting. LEIB advised the informant that an American-Soviet Relations Committee had been formed at the South End Branch of the Communist Party at Hartford headed by EYE MINER and including ROSE KAPLAN, MARY SHARSHON and AMELIA SILVESTRI. All of these persons have been previously identified as active Party members. u

The informant also stated that the City Council of the Communist Party discussed the results of the American-Soviet Friendship meeting at a meeting held on November 22, 1943 at the office of the Communist Party, 647 Main Street, Hartford, Connecticut. ROY LEIB stated that he thought the quality of the meeting was excellent but was surprised at the small crowd attending. NATALIE GOWLING, a key figure in the Communist Party at Hartford, stated that she had made $98 on sale of literature at the door. LEIB stated that if future meetings of that kind are held, they must have an extra good speaker. He also suggested the possibility of giving out slips at another meeting asking those present who are interested in learning more about the Soviet Union to fill in the card. In that way he thought they would get the names of quite a few people who could be interested in going further. He reported to the Council that in his opinion a new organization would have to be formed at Hartford to promote Soviet-American u

LEIB stated that Party members could not always be in Russian War Relief and do all the work, but it was necessary to have other than Party members interested in the Soviet Union to get information on the Soviet Union across to the people. He stated that EDWIN SMITH should come to Hartford to make a survey and a motion was passed at the Council meeting to invite SMITH to come and make a survey of the situation looking to the formation of a Soviet-American Council. NORA BRESHEMAN said that there were as many liberal people on Russian War Relief as there could be on a Council of Soviet-American Friendship and stated that in her opinion Russian War Relief was perfectly able to do the job. u

CLAIRE ARBITMAN, a key figure of the Communist Party at Hartford, stated that there was throughout the United States a deep feeling of the people toward Russia and the reason that the friendship meeting of the 15th did not turn out better was their own fault, as they approached the problem from a mechanical rather than a political viewpoint. u

Synopsis of facts:

Subject organization formed in Baltimore in August of 1941 as Council on Soviet Relations and became dormant in 1942. Present organization reformed in the spring of 1943 with many of the same sponsors of the former organization. Baltimore Chapter maintains headquarters at 1622 North Bentalou Street which is the home of the Secretary, EVELYN OSOVITZ. Most active Communists on committee of organization are JAMES DRURY, FLORENCE SCHWARTZ, Doctor HENRY SINGERIST. Informants reveal that few delegates attended Congress in New York on November 6, 1943 from industrial trade unions. Activities of organization have been a conference on October 3, 1943, American-Soviet Friendship Week, November 14 through November 21, 1943, and a mass rally on November 18, 1943. Activities were emphasized considerably by the Communist Party and FLORENCE SCHWARTZ took an active charge of the sale and distribution of tickets for the rally, the bulk of which were distributed largely by the Party.

- I. History and Organization
  - A. History

Subject organization first came to the attention of the Baltimore Field Division in August of 1941, when publicity was released concerning a "Stop Hitler Meeting," to be held at the Coliseum, 220 North Monroe Street on August 27, 1941, featuring COBLISS JAMONT, National Vice-Chairman, and THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, as planned speakers, Under the auspices of the Baltimore Committee of the American Council on Soviet Relations.

The next and last event held by the Council in Baltimore was on December 11, 1941 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, at which Captain SERGEY KOURNAKOFF and CLIFFORD McVVOY (New York Industrial Union Council) and ANN LOUISE STRONG were featured speakers.

At the time of the first mass meeting, above mentioned, the following were officers and sponsors of subject organization:

4. Origin in Baltimore

It was reported by the Washington Field Division that, from a highly confidential source, that SOPHIA R. ~~JAMES~~, Assistant Secretary of the National Council of ASF, corresponded with VLADIMIR ~~B. ZYKIN~~, first Secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C. and enclosed a message which she received for International Womens Day from Mrs. FRIEDA ~~BLANK~~, [redacted] dated March 4, 1943, on behalf of the Baltimore Committee. In the communication Mrs. BLANK stated that, because of these women, the destruction of fascism is nearer and that, together they must destroy Hitlerism in 1943 and that messages would follow from the Ladies Auxiliary of the IUMSWA and NMU Ladies Auxiliary.

Baltimore #100-2275

The Baltimore News Post, dated September 26, 1943, carried articles announcing that ASF recently held a meeting in Baltimore to formulate a chapter of the organization and that the above listed chairman and vice-chairman had been selected as set forth. Information received from the Washington Field Division advised that on September 9, 1943 EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the National Council of ASF corresponded with M. S. KONIONSKY, Press Division of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C. and enclosed a list of names of persons who have requested that the information bulletin published by the Embassy be mailed to them individually inasmuch as they were sponsors of ASF or speakers for that organization. Appearing thereon was WILLIAM F. COCHRAN, [redacted] Treasurer of Russian War Relief.

b7D

~~Confidential~~ Informant [redacted] advised the Washington Field Division that, when the possibilities of the establishment of a branch of ASF in Washington was being discussed at a meeting, Doctor ALBERT E. BLUMBERG, National Legislative Director for the Communist Party, stated that FRIEDA BIANK (Phonetic, undoubtedly BIANK) was discouraged with her attempt to thoroughly organize the Baltimore Chapter due to the fact that an unknown person in New York had instructed her not to contact the National sponsors and that, for that reason, she could make no headway. However, Doctor ALBERT E. BLUMBERG advised her not to contact WILLIAM F. COCHRAN, National sponsor in Baltimore. At that time a third individual (person known to Informant as EDITH) explained that the policy of not contacting National sponsors had been set forth due to the fact that they intended saving them for "big things."

Informant was advised EDITH stated that AD GOODMAN (phonetic, possibly AD LANNON), Secretary of the Communist Party, USA, District #4) was not fulfilling the promises he had made with regard to assisting the Baltimore Council with their organization.

See File #100-2275

EDITH then discussed the possibility of Doctor BLUMBERG, FRIEDA BIANK and herself meeting with WILLIAM F. COCHRAN and also a possibility of seeing BILL DRURY, which is undoubtedly JAMES DRURY, President of the Baltimore Industrial Union Council and CEDRUS (phonetic, undoubtedly Doctor HENRY E. SINGERIST). In Doctor BLUMBERG's opinion BILL BIANK (probably BIANK) would be a good secretary for the Baltimore Chapter. However, information received in this office has not indicated that BIANK was considered for the position nor does he appear as a sponsor of the organization. It was then related by Doctor BLUMBERG that Mayor McKELDIN of Baltimore had recently appointed a Stalingrad Committee to plan an American-Soviet Friendship Week in Baltimore at the suggestion of DRURY.

Informant T-1 related that he had been approached by the Baltimore Council of ASF by letter to affiliate the ~~Workingmen's~~ circle Lyceum as a sponsor of subject organization but had paid no heed to the request in view of the fact that he had learned from sources available to him that the organization had gained too much support from Communist infiltration unions as well as Communist Party members.

According to Informant the usual procedure followed in establishing an organization such as the ASF is for the party to select either a member or an ardent fellow traveler to fill the office of secretary in order to serve as a buffer for derogatory correspondence and to sign checks in the absence of the treasurer who is usually too busy to follow the activities of his organization. By so doing, the Party is in a position to tape off funds of the organization for their benefit.

C. Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, November 6, 7, 8, 1943 in New York

It was reported to this office that many civic, social and language group organizations received correspondence regarding the Congress of ASF, held in New York City. Some copies of the communications were made available to the writer and are being retained in the file of the Baltimore Field Division. The gist of the information contained in letters, dated October 5, and 27, dealt with the military advancement of the Soviet Army and emphasized the fact that Russia would be a large factor in the construction of an enduring peace. The correspondence also stressed the need for a closer understanding between the United States and the United States of Soviet Russia. Pamphlets enclosed with the above mentioned correspondence were registration blanks submitted if an organization desired to send delegates to the Congress in New York. Also contained therein was a printed pamphlet criticizing HEARST for his attacks on the Soviet union. After attacking HEARST as a fascist and defeatist and as a spokesman for the un-Democratic forces in this country seeking to divide the United States from the Soviet Union, it was suggested that letters be written to the HEARST paper condemning them on their tactics as well as to write letters to the "Win the War" papers criticizing anti-Soviet utterances of the HEARST paper. The pamphlet also urged that pamphlets be written to the Attorney General, urging that HEARST be prosecuted for sedition.

~~Confidential~~ Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, exhibited to the writer a copy of a note maintained in the files of AL IANNON, Secretary of the Communist Party, District #4, from a person, known only to Informant as M.E. The letter advised that the writer was busy with the American ASF Congress and, as of the time of writing, there had been no delegates from Baltimore. As an enclosure with the note M.E. attached a copy of the pamphlet, "Call to the Congress of ASF." At the bottom of the letter was a notation, "M.E., [redacted] New York City, Fifth Floor and District of Columbia AF of L Union did not receive 'Call to Congress.'" b6

Baltimore #100-2275

Informant T-2 advised this office that, on October 21, 1943, FLORENCE SCHWARTZ (previously identified) visited with AL LANNON and discussed the question of sending delegates to the above mentioned Congress. At this time FLORENCE SCHWARTZ revealed that her union (the NMU) was sending two delegates. However, she did not reveal their identity to Informant.

Informant T-3 related he was present at Communist Party Headquarters, 201 West Franklin Street, when HARRY MANN, Educational Director for the Communist Party of Baltimore, and a person unknown to Informant, other than by admission that he was a collector of funds for Russian War Relief, discussed the Congress to be held in New York. It was suggested by HARRY MANN that this unknown individual be a delegate to the Congress. However, it was not definitely decided at that time.

Informant was again present when AL LANNON and FLORENCE SCHWARTZ again discussed the Congress in New York and AL LANNON advised that he had met with a number of Communist Party members in the steel branches and had instructed them to send delegates to the Congress.

It is to be noted that AL LANNON, at this time, particularly emphasized and impressed the sending of delegates upon Local 2610, in which his brother-in-law, FRANK PINTER, is Recording Secretary. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ was apparently pleased with AL LANNON's interest in the organization in view of the fact that, as of that time, October 24, there were only four trade union delegates planning to attend the Congress. As a matter of suggestion AL LANNON offered that CLARK ELLIS, Trade Builders Union, and SCHNEIDER (phonetic) of the Meat Cutters Union be designated to attend the Congress. AL LANNON also made it known at that time that he intended having a delegate from the Window Trimmers Union also attend the conference. However, Mrs. SCHWARTZ advised that she had already been in contact with CLARK ELLIS who preferred to attend the Congress as a representative of his union, rather than as an individual and it would require that this be brought up at the next union meeting, while she had been advised not to contact SCHNEIDER. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ also made it known that it was her intention to appear presently before Local 43, IUMSW., in an attempt to secure delegates, in view of the fact that the Party was having an organizational problem with Local 43 at that time and it would not jeopardize the situation.

Informant T-4, who attended a City Executive Committee meeting of the Communist Party at 201 West Franklin Street on October 29, 1943, reported that AL LANNON took the floor and announced that the trade unions in Baltimore were falling down on the job in participating in the broadest movement of its kind around the Soviet Union. He referred to this movement of ASF as the broadest that has been seen in the history of Baltimore and said that it was a typical situation of trade unionism failing to cooperate. He further related that not less than a week remained for the selection of delegates to the Congress and it was the responsibility of the Party in Baltimore to see that the Congress was well attended.

Handwritten note:
*Substantial Union of Workers & Building Workers of America, Local 43

Baltimore #100-2275

Informant T-5 was present at a meeting of FRANK PINTER, known Communist, Recording Secretary of Local 2610, USWA, and MANNY (IMMANUEL) NEUMARK, known Communist, former editor of the steel workers official publication, Local 2610, at which time they discussed issues to be presented at a union meeting on November 1. FRANK PINTER made it known to the Informant at this time that he would make a recommendation or see that one would be made at the meeting to send two delegates to the Congress of ASF on November 6, 7, 8, 1943.

Subsequently Informant advised this office that the two delegates chosen at the above mentioned union meeting were JERRY SCHIMMICK, otherwise unknown, and THOMAS WOODRIDGE, colored; and that FRANK PINTER prepared the necessary forms to be filed with the Congress concerning the attendance of the delegates. It was also revealed by Informant that Local 2609, United Steelworkers of America, also sent two unknown delegates to the Congress.

Informant also reported that, after the return of the two delegates, above mentioned, of Local 2610, they did not make a report on the Congress as was originally scheduled. In addition, it was also made known to Informant by NEUMARK that SCHIMMICK had given a non-committal answer when asked by other union members concerning his impression of the New York Congress but, when approached by NEUMARK in private, he had declared he was greatly impressed with the speeches of DONALD NELSON, WPL, and Secretary of Interior, HAROLD ICKES but was afraid of making this known generally inasmuch as may become branded as a Communist. It was also ascertained by Informant that the per diem allowed delegates from Local 2610 to the union meeting was $10.

Informant T-6 was present at a city council meeting of the Communist Party of Baltimore at the Club Convoy, 1630 Bank Street, on October 4, at which time it was proposed that every organization, particularly trade unions, send a full delegation to the Congress. It was also announced at this meeting that the Party intended sending letters to Rear Admiral EMORY S. LAND, United States Maritime Service, requesting that his ship be named, "City of Stalingrad." It was later learned by other sources of this office that the above mentioned request had been refused by the Maritime Service.

II. Activities of Organization in Baltimore
A. Planning Conference, October 3, 1943

It was revealed by Informant T-2 on September 28, 1943 that FLORENCE SCHWARTZ had been designated to supervise the program of ASF which included contacting all social, civic trade union and language group organizations in Baltimore on behalf of subject organization in an effort to procure delegates to a planning conference to be held on October 3, at the Greek Center, Cathedral and Preston Streets. The job of the above mentioned conference was to plan a mass rally to climax American-Soviet Friendship Week, proclaimed by Mayor McKELDIN to include the period November 14 through November 21, inclusive.

At the same time Informant reported that ELVA ~~X~~ANNON, wife of AL IANNON, Secretary of the Communist Party, USA, District #4, and ELLEN ~~X~~PINTER, her sister and Vice-Chairman of the Twenty-Sixth Ward Club of the Communist Party of Baltimore, received a list of organizations to be contacted from FLORENCE SCHWARTZ and proceeded to contact the above mentioned organizations. Among those contacted were the NAACP ~~X~~, Total War Employment Council, the ~~X~~Baltimore Urban League and the ~~X~~Baltimore Afro-American newspaper where their requests for delegates were received enthusiastically.

It is noteworthy to mention that Informant revealed that Mrs. PINTER and Mrs. ANNON identified themselves to people as representatives of ASF but in all instances, when the occasion arose, they gave fictitious names and declined to leave addresses where they could be contacted.

Informant T-3 was present at a meeting of the city committee of the Communist Party of Baltimore, at which time it was urged that as many members as possible attend the planning conference mentioned above. At this time a call for volunteers to assist FLORENCE SCHWARTZ in contacting individuals as well as organizations for the purpose of soliciting representatives was made by AL IANNON. At this meeting RUTH (thought to be RUTH ~~X~~FOX) was designated by the Party as one of the representatives to attend the conference.

Informant T-5 related that Local 2610, United Steelworkers of America, sent three delegates to the planning conference. However, their identities were unknown to him. According to the Informant, the influence in bringing about the sending of representatives to the planning conference was brought about by FRANK PINTER, Recording Secretary and MANNY NEUMARK with the cooperation of JOHN ~~X~~KLAUSENBERG, President of the Local.

The Baltimore Sun, under date of September 26, 1943 announced the coming planning conference for the purpose of planning a mass rally to celebrate the establishment of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union. The article also alleged that representatives of five hundred local organizations would be represented at the meeting.

It is to be noted that it has been ascertained that this figure was greatly exaggerated.

The Baltimore Sun, under date of October 2, 1943 announced that two Russian girls, students at Columbia University, NINA EFREMOVA and TAISIA VASILIEVNA ISOTOVA, were to be guests at the conference. In addition, the article said further that a reception would be given for the girls on that date at the International Center, Y. W. C. A., 26 South Broadway.

It is to be noted that HELEN GARVIN, sponsor of ASF in Baltimore, is secretary of the above mentioned Y. W. C. A.

It was also made known to this office that a large number of post cards were sent by the Baltimore Council of ASF, inviting recipients to attend the reception.

~~Confidential~~ Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, was present at the planning conference held on October 3 between the hours of 1:15 and 3:30 p.m. under the auspices of the Baltimore Council of ASF at the Greek Center and reported that there were approximately one hundred people in attendance, five of whom were colored.

According to Informant, Doctor H. C. LANCASTER, presided and confined his introductory remarks to the Congress of ASF to be held in New York City on November 6, 7, 8. Doctor LANCASTER also related that the organization had made plans to sponsor between eighty and one hundred meetings throughout the United States, previous to November 16, 1943, to celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries. In concluding Doctor LANCASTER dealt briefly with the plans now about to be put into motion for the organization of a mass rally in Baltimore at the Lyric Theater on November 18.

EDWARD S. SMITH, Vice-Chairman and Executive Director, announced that the National organization has on hand a number of speakers, as well as a number of motion picture films which may be obtained for public gatherings for a nominal sum. At the conclusion of his remarks, EDWIN S. SMITH raised the plea for financial assistance for the meeting to be sponsored on November 18, as well as the need for funds for the continuing of activities of the organization.

The two Russian students at Columbia University were introduced at the meeting, according to Informant, as having taught school in Russia and continuing their education at Columbia at the expense of the Russian Government. It was the impression of the Informant that, when the two Russian girls were called upon for remarks, they appeared to be highly complimentary to the United States but at the same time they were extraordinarily complimentary about their native land.

Informant continued that the discussion from the floor, following the speeches, was dominated by FLORENCE SCHWARTZ, Doctor IAN CASTER and Mrs. McCONNELL (Phonetic). It was announced that Mayor McKELDIN would assume the responsibilities of master of ceremonies at the meeting on November 18. It was also brought forth that an active publicity campaign be carried on concerning the above mentioned meeting. Suggestions were also offered as to the methods of soliciting funds to finance the meeting on November 18, although the results or decisions were not made known to the Informant at that time.

Mrs. McCONNELL, briefly compared the United States and the Soviet Union from the standpoint of advancements in medical sciences with the ultimate conclusion that the Soviet Union was a great deal more advanced in this respect.

Members of the committee to arrange for the November 18th meeting as selected at the conference are set forth as given by Confidential Informant

Baltimore #100-2275

As a result of physical surveillance of the premises a number of known Communists were observed entering the meeting, among whom, it was noted a number of Young Communist League leaders, as well as a number of old time Party members.

It is noteworthy to mention that the following individuals, representing their language organizations, were observed entering the meeting:

JOHN ~~DILNY~~, MICHAEL ~~SHEK~~, both officials of the Ukrainian branch of the ~~International Workers Order~~; ELLEN ~~PINTER~~, member of the Finnish Federation; ~~EDITH~~ ~~SERKES~~, Lithuanian International Workers Order.

In view of the total number of people present at the above meeting and those identified as members of the Communist Party in attendance, in addition to the group of ~~Young Communist League~~ members, presently ~~American Youth for Democracy~~, it is to be noted that Communist elements constitute a large percentage of the attending audience which does indicate that both the Party and the Young Communist League were interested in the organization.

Informant T-7 was also present at the above mentioned conference and reported that EDWIN S. SMITH explained to the audience that the council intended to work through sources such as architectural, musical, classical and popular, and trade unions in order to set up branches which would compose a cross section of the nation. At this time SMITH indicated that there were eighty-eight branches (chapters) in existence. According to Informant T-7 SMITH also played HEARST for the propaganda he was printing which divided the United Nations.

The Baltimore Sun, dated October 4, 1943, advised that the above mentioned meeting completed the discussion of the plans for the preparation of the mass rally to be held on November 18, 1943 at the Lyric Theater which purported to be a part of a nation wide observance of the ~~Tenth Anniversary~~ of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Informant T-4 was present at a city committee meeting at Communist Party Headquarters on September 11, 1943 and it was revealed that, during the week of November 14, the main topic of discussion in the various branches should be on American-Soviet relations in order to better acquaint Party members with the Soviet Union. At this time it was announced by one of the members present, (unknown to Informant), that he was a member of the committee of American-Soviet Friendship and that that organization would sponsor a mass rally at the Lyric Theater during the above mentioned week which should well serve the purpose to strengthen American-Soviet ties although up to that time the organization had been functioning very quietly since its recent formation. Informant again attended a meeting of the city committee of the Communist Party on October 15, at which time it was announced by DOROTHY ROSE BLUMBERG that the Baltimore Council of ASF had been working very hard and that Mayor THEODORE R. MCKELDIN had set aside the week of November 14 through November 21 as American-Soviet Friendship Week. Mrs. BLUMBERG also related that the committee was trying to get HAROLD ICKES, Secretary of Interior, to speak during that week and, if successful, would attempt to obtain the services of Senator MURRAY or some other senator. In discussing the entertainment aspect of the above mentioned rally, Mrs. BLUMBERG stated that the committee was trying to get BOB HOPE, EDDIE CANTOR or a well-known comedian. It was also announced at this time that tickets for the rally were for sale at $2.20 for box seats and $.55 in the balcony and that, as of that date, 1500 tickets had been distributed among various organizations for sale. Mrs. BLUMBERG advised that several groups in Baltimore have displayed a great deal of interest and even the churches were cooperating very well. In continuing, Mrs. BLUMBERG brought forth that Mayor THEODORE R. MCKELDIN had appointed a committee and that they were to meet on October 20 to further discuss the plans for the rally to be held on November 18. It was suggested at this time that the Sons of Italy be contacted to further the distribution of tickets. With regard to publicizing the rally, it was announced that streetcar advertising was too expensive a procedure to be used and it was decided that the publicity would be confined to emphasizing the Mayor's proclamation. At this time it was likewise decided that both the Free State Bookshop and the Frederick Douglass Bookshop would handle the sale of tickets for the rally, as well as the American Youth for Democracy.

Informant was again present at a meeting of the city executive meeting of the Communist Party on October 29, 1943 when it was announced by AL LANNON that subject organization intended publishing a scroll containing the Mayor's proclamation thereon which would be signed by a number of civic leaders which we have had appointed on the committee to plan the November 18th rally." It was also brought forth at this time that the Party had planned that this scroll would serve a good end in effecting relations, due to the fact that official connection had not been established between the leadership of the trade union movement and the committee of A.F. AL LANNON also announced at this time that it was the duty of the Party to see that all members were made cognizant of the rally on November 18 so that the indifference and lack of action by trade union officials would be overcome and one in turn would guarantee the commemoration of this meeting, which he termed was so politically important to the people of Baltimore. It was also suggested at this meeting that SINCH O'HAR, City Secretary of the Communist Party, give a short speech at the above mentioned rally on the 18th of November. However, it was decided that this would be too glaring and consequently the suggestion was over-ruled.

Informant reported that the city executive committee of the Communist Party again convened at Party headquarters on November 12, 1943, at which time it was made known that the following publicity would be given the coming meeting at the Lyric Theater. Three Baltimore radio stations had consented to allow free time for speakers to give a brief outline of the activities of the organization and the following schedule of speakers was set forth:

\ Radio Station*
WFBR - November 13, 1943, 9:00 p.m.; Speaker, I. DUKE
AVNET whose topic would be the "Three Power Conference and American-Soviet Friendship"

\ "*
WCAO - November 16, 1943, Speaker, Reverend HAROLD ARROWSMITH whose topic would be "Religious Freedom in the United States of Soviet Russia"

\ "*
WITH - November 14, 1943, 7:15 p.m., Speaker, JAMES DRURY, whose topic would be "International Labor Unity and American-Soviet Friendship."

AL IANNON expressed the hope that the Party would sell all the tickets in their possession and would pack the theater. It was suggested by GEORGE POWERS, prominent Communist in Local 43, IUMSWA, that special invitations be sent to editors of labor newspapers in an effort to have them report the results of the rally and thereby bringing it to the attention of the laboring people. It was revealed by DOROTHY ROSE BLUMBERG, at this time, that the Fifteenth Ward Club of the Communist Party of Baltimore, had sold its quota of tickets allotted to it for the rally. It was also announced at this time by HARRY MANN, Educational Director, that he would inform FLORENCE SCHWARTZ to make certain that an ad for the workers would appear on the program.

Informant T-2 was present at the home of AL IANNON when he informed Mrs. IANNON that Mayor THEODORE R. MCKELDIN had appointed the committee, above named, to handle Stanlingrad week and Reverend JOHN P. CRONIN, nationally known labor leader against the Communist element in trade unions, was one of the committeemen appointed. It was also stated at this time by AL IANNON that "our committee proposed the appointed committee to the Mayor." AL IANNON intimated at this time that he had been instrumental in appointing Rev. CRONIN on the committee and that it was through the influence of FLORENCE SCHWARTZ and JAMES DRURY who had connections in the Mayor's office which served to form the chain between the office of the Mayor and the Baltimore Council of ASF.

Informant T-2 was present at a meeting of the Twenty-Sixth Ward Branch of the Communist Party of Baltimore, at which time it was brought forth by Mrs. IANNON that the Party would conduct a Stalingrad week during the week of November 18. Mrs. IANNON also announced that the Party would make an attempt to have a Victory ship launched and christened, "STALINGRAD."

Subsequently AL IANNON visited with FLORENCE SCHWARTZ, at which time she advised that the committee of ASF, at a poorly attended meeting on October 19, decided to endorse the Mayor's proclamation for a Stalingrad Week. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ apparently was disgusted with the committee for its inability to function and, upon IANNON's suggestion that she use WHITEY (BERNARD GOODFRIEND, prominent Communist and active AYD leader) as a promoter, she advised that he was away during that period when he was needed most and, therefore, did not fulfill the capacity she would expect him to. Mrs. SCHWARTZ also reported that JAMES DRURY was consulting with the Mayor regarding the program, with regard to ASF Week but that, as of that time, a speaker had not been definitely obtained, although Senator CLAUDE E. PEPPER was available. Mrs. SCHWARTZ went on to state that the committee had not received a definite answer on the naming of a ship, "STALINGRAD," but the suggestion was almost assuredly out. Mrs. SCHWARTZ likewise revealed BOB ROSEN, known Communist in Local 43, IUMSVA, was supposed to send in a comment to the "Daily Worker" regarding the activities of the Baltimore organization and had failed to do so. It was also made known by Mrs. SCHWARTZ that approximately 5,000 tickets had been printed for the rally and that several of the "reactionary groups" were demanding tickets although the American-Jewish Congress had not asked to purchase any.

Informant T-2 was again present at a meeting between FLORENCE SCHWARTZ and AL IANNON, at which time they discussed the coming rally of ASF on November 18. It was revealed at this meeting that IANNON had independently made plans for the Communist Party of Baltimore to sponsor a rally on November 19, featuring WILLIAM Z. FOSSE as the principal speaker and was then in the process of attempting to obtain the services of AL MOSS and

LAURA DUNCAN, colored entertainers for the occasion. However, when FLORENCE SCHWARTZ made it known to him that MOSS and DUNCAN had already consented to appear at the Lyric Theater on November 18 for the ASF rally, LANNON immediately recalled that the Baltimore committee of ASF had already made plans to sponsor a rally at that time, and made it known to FLORENCE SCHWARTZ that he would cancel the plans for publicizing Party activities during that period and would postpone the FOSTER meeting until the early part of December and would release no publicity on that meeting until after the ASF rally. At this time LANNON re-assured FLORENCE SCHWARTZ that the Party would cooperate to the utmost in pushing the sale of tickets for the ASF rally and that the Window Trimmers Union was preparing to accept a quota of tickets for the event.

Informant T-2 was again present when ALEXANDER E. O. MUNSELL, Treasurer of the Communist Party of Baltimore and his wife, LOUISE, Chairman of the Eleventh Ward Club of the Communist Party of Baltimore, visited at the LANNON's home. MUNSELL expressed his desire to LANNON to be appointed to the position of committeeman on the Baltimore Council of ASF as he had ambitions to function in a political manner for the Party. However, it is known that LANNON's regard for MUNSELL's ability is none too high and he coyly advised him that there were too many Communists on the committee to make it workable at the present time. On November 18 AL LANNON contacted SINCH O'HAR at Communist Party Headquarters in an effort to ascertain whether or not the Party had received tickets for the mass rally on that date. It was later reported by Informant that FLORENCE SCHWARTZ sent eight complimentary box seat tickets on behalf of the ASF to LANNON for his use.

Informant also revealed that during American-Soviet Friendship Week the Free State Bookshop featured a display for the purpose of advertising the rally.

Informant also reported that AL LANNON informed SINCH O'HAR to have EVELYN SCHNEIDER, City Office Staff of the Communist Party, send in the receipts for the money the Party had collected for the Baltimore Council of American-Soviet Friendship, as well as for the tickets for the WILLIAM Z. FOSTER meeting on December 3 which were sold by the Eleventh Ward Branch of the Communist Party of Baltimore.

Informant T-3 reported that during a discussion between AL LANNON and FLORENCE SCHWARTZ regarding the sale and distribution of tickets which FLORENCE SCHWARTZ intimated were lagging about three weeks before the November 18th rally but that the steel branches of the Communist Party had taken a number of tickets. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ revealed that JOHN KLAUSENBURG, President of Local 2610, United Steel Workers of America, had taken the bulk of tickets, thus far distributed. At this time LANNON related that he had a meeting with a few of the steel branch members on October 25 and had instructed them, not just to take the tickets but to get busy and sell them and he had also encouraged them to appoint delegates to attend the various meetings of the council. IANNON also suggested that EDWIN S. SMITH's pamphlet, "Soviet Trade Union" be publicized and that FLORENCE SCHWARTZ communicate with trade unions in Baltimore in an effort to obtain orders for the pamphlet. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ related that the council already had 1,000 pamphlets on hand for distribution at the mass meeting on November 18th. However, IANNON related that the Free State Bookshop was going to distribute and publicize the pamphlet but that he desired that the Baltimore Council of ASF start the distribution of the pamphlet first. He also informed FLORENCE SCHWARTZ to attempt to arrange a contract with the Free State Bookshop for the purchase of literature that could be used by the committee and offered a small discount for copies purchased. It was likewise revealed at this time that the Party was selling tickets for the meeting, as well as soliciting contributions for the ASF, which they turned over to FLORENCE SCHWARTZ who in turn remitted the money to the council.

Informant T-3 was present when DOROTHY ROSE BLUMBERG, Administrative Secretary of the city committee of the Communist Party of Baltimore, and an unknown individual discussed the coming meeting on November 18. Mrs. DOROTHY ROSE BLUMBERG related that the Lyric Theater had five aisles on the first floor, exclusive of the box seats so that there should be thirty-seven ushers on the ground floor and sixteen ushers for the balcony. It was later made known to this office that the ushers were composed of members of American Youth for Democracy.

On November 9, 1943 DOXEY A. WILKERSON, colored, Vice-Chairman of the Communist Party, USA, District #4, and HARRY MANN discussed a folder to be prepared for the meeting which would be four or five pages in length showing the sponsors of the group and carrying advertisements. MANN related that he had already informed FLORENCE SCHWARTZ that the Party would like two ads on the folder, one for the "Daily Worker" and one publicizing the two Party book shops.

Informant T-5 was present when FRANK PINTER and MANNY NEUMARK discussed a meeting of the Industrial Union Council, CIO, held on November 10. It was revealed by NEUMARK that FLORENCE SCHWARTZ had appeared at the union meeting with a number of tickets for the ASF rally and informed the group that locals taking a block of tickets could get them for $.55 instead of the regular $1.10 fee. PINTER opined that this procedure would serve to overstock the union locals in view of the fact that the smaller locals could not distribute as many tickets as the larger. However, NEUMARK related that smaller locals were allotted smaller blocks, dependent upon their membership but that JOHN KILUSENBERG had taken a number of tickets for sale by local 2610.

Informant also made it known that SELMA WEISS, Acting Secretary of American Youth for Democracy, contacted FLORENCE SCHWARTZ and advised her that the American Youth for Democracy had sold a number of the $.55 tickets for the mass rally.

It was reported by Informant T-8 that the Communist Party of Baltimore published Newsletter leaflets advising branches that meetings scheduled for November 18th would be canceled due to the fact that the Baltimore Council of ASF were holding a rally at the Lyric Theater. Informant likewise furnished a number of hand bills given to him at Communist Party headquarters, advertising American-Soviet Friendship Week and the meeting on November 18.

It is to be noted that on these hand bills it was mentioned that tickets would be purchased for the event at 1700 Fleet Street, which is known to be the National Maritime Union Hall where FLORENCE SCHWARTZ is employed.

A letter received from subject organization, dated October 19, 1943, advised that, in addition to the mass meeting, above mentioned, the council was also sponsoring an art exhibit of Russian Art at the Baltimore Museum of Art on November 19, 1943, at which Professor IAYMAN HAUPT of Columbia University, would be the featured speaker. In addition the letter advised that the movie, "The Russian Story," would be brought to Baltimore in the near future. It was also set forth in the letter that the council had a great deal of literature which they sold and distributed free of charge in order to combat anti-Russian propaganda, in order to better educate the public concerning Russia.

The ~~W~~Daily Worker," dated November 3, 1943 carried a report from Baltimore, advertising the ASF rally on November 18.

The Baltimore Sun, dated November 12, 1943 reflected that HARRY MANN, Educational Director of the Communist Party of Baltimore, would speak on the Moscow conference on November 16, 1943 in observance of America-Soviet Friendship Week.

It was subsequently ascertained that HARRY MANN also prepared a lengthy pamphlet entitled, ~~X~~"American-Soviet Coalition," containing excerpts from EARL BROWDER's works and various other Party periodicals for distribution among Party members during the week designated for America-Soviet Friendship.

From articles in the November 13, 1943 issue of the Baltimore News Post, it was learned that the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra under the direction of REGINALD STEWART (sponsor of the Baltimore Council of the ASF) presented two Russian numbers at a concert in observance of the above occasion. The Sunday American, dated November 14, 1943, carried an article relating that the business and professional women's club would hold a friendship dinner on November 16, at which time IAN ROSS MACFARLENE, radio commentator, would speak on "American-Soviet Friendship." On November 13, 1943 I. DUKE AVNET spoke over Station WFBR at 9:00 p.m. on behalf of American-Soviet friendship for a fifteen minute interval. The gist of the above mentioned speech is being set forth herewith, while a copy of his address is being maintained in his file.

I. DUKE AVNET stated that the people of the world, desiring freedom from fear, want and of speech and worship, have come to realize that the Soviet Union is needed to attain these aims. He further stated that we must come to know the Soviet Union with the warmth of understanding of friends and must remove the smoke of Hitler's secret weapon "The Red Bogey" from our eyes.

In continuing, AVNET brought out that the formation of the democratic form of government in the United States had time and time again been subject to severe blows but that staunch men, like ANDREW JACKSON, THOMAS PLANE and ABRAHAM LINCOLN had preserved it in spite of the "tories" and "copperheads."

AVNET paralleled the Russian revolution to that of the American Revolution. He brought out the fact that it, too, had been subjected to criticism from reactionary forces. He also brought out that historical blindness and prejudice had isolated the two governments, as well as America's being the victim of "The Red Neurosis."

AVNET continued that, though it seemed this propaganda would infect the world, President ROOSEVELT, Prime Minister CHURCHILL and leaders of labor saw the real danger to democracy through the anti-Bolshevism of Hitler and took steps to remedy the situation. In concluding, AVNET commented on the recent three power conference and announced that the conference had been greeted by great claim by all forces which made it a stunning blow to the Axis.

Informant  , whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that Doctor H. C. LANCASTER requested Station WITH to grant a period of time to publicize the November 18th rally and that the radio station consented to allow them fifteen minutes broadcasting time. On November 14, 1943 JAMES DRURY, known Communist and President of the Baltimore Council Industrial Union, IIO, spoke on behalf of trade unions in the Soviet Union and on behalf of American-Soviet friendship.

It is to be noted that the script for the address was not submitted to the radio station in time to be censored and the station felt that, a -

The greatest statement made by a trade union leader on the role of the trade unions in the Soviet Union was made by JACK TANNER, fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress to the 1942 Convention of the A. F. of L. in Toronto. Mr. TANNER is the President of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, the largest of the British Trade Unions. Mr. TANNER stated; "To say that the trade unions of Russia are nothing but appendages to the state machinery is to leave out of account the nature of the State and those interests its activities foster and serve. In our two countries, we cannot pretend that it is the workers' interests which will triumph in any issue, unless we put up a strong and organized fight. But there is no evidence to support the idea that in the Soviet Union, such a fight is necessary if the matter is one which concerns the well being of the workers and, if it is not necessary, the organizations which in other countries and conditions would conduct such fights naturally assume a different character and take on different activities... There has been no time and effort wasted in having to reconcile the conflicts between private and national interests; there have been no practices which hinder output and, as was demonstrated by the moving of great industries to new areas behind the Urals, as also by the heroic scorched earth policy, nothing has stood in the way of the Soviet war effort for which every man and woman feels 100 per cent responsible. It is not easy for workers who have themselves fought for or have been brought up in a tradition which has known what it is to fight for trade union recognition, to accept without some suspicion the conception of a trade union movement which is recognized as a vital part of the social differentiated, from other activities tending to greater productivity and greater enjoyment of the wealth so produced by the community as a whole... In 1924, 1927 and again in 1933, delegations of trade unionists from Britain visited Soviet Russia, and on returning, all reported that the workers were owners controllers of their country... It is only by realizing the full weight of that fact---the ownership of the means of production by the workers---that we can understand the relations of the trade union movement to the Soviet State."

In making this statement Mr. <sup>4</sup>TANNER, I believe, made a real contribution to the movement for growing friendship with the Soviet Union. There are those who tried to sell the Soviet Union on the basis that that nation is discarding many of its Socialist theories and therefore should be more acceptable to a Nation having a Capitalist economy. While this may sell the Soviet Union to some sections of our people for a short time, it is no doubt but that in the future, near or far, these people would be rudely awakened from some pleasant thought they may have entertained. I think it is a safe statement to make that the Socialist ownership of property in the Soviet Union is no more being changed at this time that is the Capitalist economy of our Nation being changed. With this understanding, we can appreciate the role of the trade union movement in the Soviet Union and be able to talk intelligently with anyone who may have some theories that the trade union in the Soviet Union are not free union. Some figures on this question show that on the eve of the war 25,500,000 workers belonged to the Soviet Union. This represented 84% of the number eligible to belong. This means that 16% of the workers in the Soviet Union remain unorganized, indicating that membership in the trade unions are a matter of choice. The Constitution of the Soviet Union guarantees the right to organize. It is a fair question to ask that if the ownership of property in the Soviet Union rests with the workers, there is nothing that the trade unions can do for the workers. From a study of a pamphlet, "ORGANIZED LABOR IN THE SOVIET UNION" issued by EDWIN S. SMITH, former member of the National Labor Relations Board and at present Executive Secretary of the National Council for American Soviet Friendship, he indicates some of the things that the trade unions in the Soviet Union do. They concern themselves first, with the Wages and Rates and general working conditions in the plants. Each local union has a wage committee in each plant and takes up with the management of the plant all questions of classification and scale. Then there is a labor protection committee in each local that sees to the enforcement of all regulations governing hours, health and safety. The good example on how the committees work in this question is contained in a report made by the Director for the Institute for Labor Hygiene and Occupational Diseases situated in Moscow. Professor S. S. SMELYANSKY, Director of the Institute stated: "A good example is the case of one Moscow plant in which workers engaged in a certain industrial process were found to suffer from a liver ailment. We took this matter up with the plant management and now about 70% of the operations in that department have been mechanized. The workers have been placed under medical observation and are receiving prophylactic treatment as well as special food."

In addition to the question of wages and working conditions on the job, the Union also undertakes responsibility for seeing that the prices these wages buy, such as food, clothing and shelter, are maintained and are kept on a par with the wages. In addition the Unions in the Soviet Union handle the whole question of social security, sickness, housing, disability benefits, education and recreation. There is another fair question to ask. What weapons do the Soviet Trade Unions have to compel the representatives of plant management to abide by collective bargaining contracts or wages and conditions? The answer to this is contained in Article 126 of the USSR which guarantees that the printing press, stock of paper, public building, the streets, communication facilities and other material requisites for the exercise of these (civil) rights." (Article 125) In actual fact, that AUCCTU publishes one of the most influential daily newspapers in the USSR, as well as the fortnightly "War and the Working Class," whose articles on foreign affairs are widely quoted abroad. In addition to these general workers' papers, there are of course, papers published by the separate unions and the famous "Wall Newspapers" posted everywhere in the factories.

The three power conference is already being attacked. The interest of the whole nation depends on the carrying out of the three power pact, especially labor. Therefore, Baltimore labor has to give wholehearted support for the establishment of close working relations between all the United Nations and especially the Soviet Union. I want to urge all of you to attend a meeting which is being held at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday November 18th, where Senator CLAUDE PEPPER and others will speak on the necessity for unity between the Soviet Union and the United States. This meeting is being held under the auspices of the Baltimore Council for American Soviet Friendship. Don't forget, Thursday November 18th at the Lyric."

Baltimore #100-2275

On November 19, 1943 an exhibit of Russian Art at the Baltimore Museum of Art was sponsored by the Baltimore Council of ASF which was attended by the writer. Approximately fifty persons were in attendance at the meeting, at which Doctor H. C. LANCASTER introduced Professor HELLMUT LEHMANN-~~HAUPT~~ of Columbia University as the principle speaker. Professor HAUPT confined his discussion chiefly to Russian Art and the aspects of Russian culture, dealing with writings and painting by famous Russian novelists and artists. Of those in attendance no Communist Party members were identified.

C. Mass Rally, November 18, 1943.

The climax of the American-Soviet Friendship Week was a rally held at the Lyric Theatre, at which time Special Agents ALEXANDER H. GRAHAM and DAVID H. SHAPIRO and the writer were in attendance. Literature on display for sales purposes in the lobby included, "America and Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT; "Soviet Russia, United States, Nazi Germany," by CORLISS LAMONT; "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union," by EDWIN L. SMITH; informant bulletin dated November 7, 1943, issued by the Embassy of the Union of Socialist Republics.

It was noted that appearing on a program obtained at the meeting it was set forth that the ushers were members of Alpha Gamma Delta (Goucher College) and the Junior League. However, it was ascertained at the meeting that several of the ushers are active members of American Youth for Democracy.

Approximately 1500 people were in attendance, approximately fifty of which were colored, at the rally among which were a number of known and prominent Communist Party members.

It is noteworthy to mention that the boxes reserved by FLORENCE SCHWARTZ and given to AL LANNON for his use by the committee of ASF were occupied by the following party functionaries:

AL LANNON, Secretary of the Communist Party, District #4

ELVA LANNON, Membership Director, Twenty-Sixth Ward Branch, (Communist Party of Baltimore)

SINCE CHER, City Secretary and his wife, REBA

HARRY MANN, Educational Director, Communist Party of Baltimore

DOROTHY ROSE BAUMBERG, Administrative Secretary

Mrs. VERA ~~HATCHETT~~, colored, Literature Director, assigned to the Frederick Douglass Bookshop

Baltimore #100-2275

A composite of information concerning the various speeches at the affair is being set forth:

The invocation for the meeting was given by Reverend HAROLD N. ARROWSMITH and Mayor THEODORE R. McKELDIN presided at the meeting from a platform, made colorful by the flags of the United Nations and by the uniforms of an American and Soviet Commanding officer, a WAVE, a WAC, a woman Marine and a SPAR. The United States Coast Guard band furnished a musical interlude and Mayor THEODORE R. McKELDIN was joined on the platform by Senator GEORGE L. RADCLIFFE and Representatives DANIEL ELLISON and THOMAS D'ALESSANDRO.

Participating in the program, all with warm tributes to American-Soviet Friendship, were Doctor H. C. LANCASTER, Chairman of the Committee and Lieutenant Colonel RICHARD C. CONNELL, representing Major General RECKORD of the Third Service Command, IRVING KOHN, President of the Baltimore Association of Commerce, Doctor LOUIS KAPLAN, President of the American-Jewish Congress. Commander NICOLAI A. SKRIAGIN, Assistant Naval Attache, Soviet Embassy, for whom the band played the "Internationale." IRWIN ELIOT, News Editor, Station WFBZ, Miss EVE BUDD, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, also appeared on the program.

Cultural highlights on the program, in addition to the music by the Coast Guard band, were songs by AL MOSS and LAURA DUNCAN, colored, who rendered several Russian folk songs and other popular spirituals. In addition, piano renditions by ALEXANDER SKIAREVSKI, pianist, Peabody Institute. A group of numbers by ESTELLE DENNIS, Dance Group, and the Holy Trinity Russian Church Choir, directed by ANATOLE GROSHEFF, furnished the balance of the entertainment. Appearing also on the program was JAMES DRURY, President, Baltimore Industrial Union Council, CIO, who advocated the immediate opening of the Second Front and paid tribute to Premier STALIN, asserting that the Moscow Pact is an indication of an early invasion of Western Europe. The highlight of DRURY's speech was brought about when he referred to the defeatists in this country that were causing disunity and disruption from within and forcefully demanded that the HEARSTs and the McCORMICKs, along with their ilk, should be run out of the country.

Dean GEORGE C. GRANI, colored, of Morgan State College, told his audience that the present war demanded tolerance and understanding among all groups, of the humanistic virtues each possesses.

"An occasion of this kind," he said, "seems to be concrete evidence that the American people are coming to a full realization of the moral crisis which faces us as a nation. There is an increased awareness that intolerance and misunderstanding contain seeds of social degeneration.

He further stated, "We must see that the moral corruption values which we abhor in our enemies do not take hold on our way of life. Unless there is a universal regard for the individual human being, wherever he may be, and an abiding sense of right and wrong, there can be no world peace."

Baltimore #100-2275

At the conclusion of his address, Dean ~~GRANT~~ stated, "May the motives which initiated this meeting permeate throughout all nations until mutuality and fraternity with our heroic Russian allies shall become the watchword of the day."

Senator CLAUDE PEPPER, the featured speaker of the evening, called, "one of the greatest of our allies, one of the greatest of all peoples--the people of the Soviet Union." Senator PEPPER attacked the Senate two-thirds treaty-ratification rule which permitted "a little clique of Senators" to keep our country out of the League of Nations and which now raises serious question as to whether the United States will be able to live up to its international obligations after this war.

Characterizing the recent Moscow Pact as a great victory which promises a better world, Senator PEPPER declared, "We've got to remove every obstacle to carry out the agreement reached at Moscow."

Senator PEPPER told his audience that without Russia the United Nations could not win the war nor keep the peace and that Russia has saved millions of American lives in hurling back the Nazi military machine; thereby through their heroic sacrifices have broken the Axis scheme to conquer the world.

Senator PEPPER also declared that it was Russia who suggested, when the ownership of the Hawaiian Islands were in question, that they should belong to the United States. Senator PEPPER also related that Russia freely sold us her only possession in the Western Hemisphere--Alaska, and has cooperated with us in respect to commerce and conservation in the North Pacific.

In conclusion Senator PEPPER said that no nation's credit has been better with our businessmen than Russia's and that Russia, like the United States, is a great land power, needing not territory, but peace and a chance to work and trade to prosper.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was observed by the agents in attendance that, as the audience filed out the exit, they were met by members of the Communist Party, passing out handbills advertising the WILLIAM Z. FOSTER meeting, sponsored by the Party on December 3, 1943 at Ridgely Hall.

X Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that it had been reported from other sources than personal knowledge that the afore-mentioned rally had 1100 paid admissions whereas the cost of publicity for American-Soviet Friendship Week and those incurred with the rally total approximately $1200 which would indicate that the committee did not clear a great deal of money on the above rally.

The results of a mail cover on Communist Party Headquarters, 201 West Franklin Street, reflected that subject organization addressed correspondence to SELMA WEISS on September 16, 23, 26, 1943.

Title: BALTIMORE CHAPTER OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INCORPORATED, formerly known as; American Council of Soviet Relations			INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Synopsis of facts:

Subject organization formed in Baltimore in August of 1941 as Council on Soviet Relations and became dormant in 1942. Present organization reformed in the spring of 1943 with many of the same sponsors of the former organization. Baltimore Chapter maintains headquarters at 1622 North Bentalou Street which is the home of the Secretary, EVELYN OSOVITZ. Most active Communists on committee of organization are JAMES DRURY, FLORENCE SCHWARTZ, Doctor HENRY SIGERIST. Informants reveal that few delegates attended Congress in New York on November 6, 1943 from industrial trade unions. Activities of organization have been a conference on October 3, 1943, American-Soviet Friendship Week, November 14 through November 21, 1943, and a mass rally on November 18, 1943. Activities were emphasized considerably by the Communist Party and FLORENCE SCHWARTZ took an active charge of the sale and distribution of tickets for the rally, the bulk of which were distributed largely by the Party.

Report of Special Agent WILLIAM F. MORTON, Jr., dated January 31, 1944, at New York, New York.

Through a highly confidential source, the following material was obtained:

A memorandum dated October 28, 1944, dealing with the establishment of a permanent organization for American-Soviet cooperation. This memorandum reflected that JOSEPH W. DAVIS, as Honorary Chairman of the National Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, had no responsibility for any permanent organization. It was planned to form a Committee for American-Soviet cooperation, the main function of which would be to look over an outline of American-Soviet relations and to make suggestions for the more effective of furthering American-Soviet cooperation, and understanding. This Committee was to decide the necessity for establishing a fairly permanent organization and also of naming it. It was proposed to make a committee of [REDACTED] draw in precisely the kind of people who had backed the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship. The organizational set up was discussed with various Departments, such as Research; Economic Collaboration; Publications; Speakers Bureau; Pictorial Exhibits and Posters; Local Branches and Special Meetings. Local chapters were proposed not only in cities but in organizations such as colleges, church groups and trade unions. (u)

Through the same previously mentioned highly confidential source, a memorandum of a meeting held November 7, 1942 at the Hotel New Yorker was obtained. This meeting was part of the Congress of American Soviet Friendship. The memorandum stated the proceedings to be as follows: (u)

3 "CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the meeting explained the purpose of this discussion.

Mr. SHERMAN referred to the success of newly-formed doctors' group. Suggested similar groups, doctors, scientists, etc.

New Jersey representative (believed to be ABRAHAM BLANKO) told of success of newly-formed League of American-Soviet Friendship. Dr. LEOFF, of Philadelphia, referred to success of R.R.R. (Russian War Relief) going into war chest.

BLACKY MYERS (FREDERICK N. MYERS, Vice President N.M.U.) possibilities for labor movement to extend work of Councils and Councils to extend work of the trade unions. NATIONAL MARITIME UNION (u)

PHILIP JAFFE success of relief organizations in dividing organization in sections, medical, trade union, etc. Suggest this a desirable organizational form.

JESSIE SMITH response to Congress shows this is now a national movement, can reach into every possible group in the community. Two reasons: (1) Now on a Government basis; (2) Reaction to Russia's great fight. Congress is an event and does not continue. Each panel elected a committee to publish panel reports. These committees could explore further cooperation and educational work in each field doctors, women, trade unions, etc. Local discussions could be held in every community and results reported to Mr. LAMONT and panel committees.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ELIXSCHWARTZ Albany, great success of R.W.R. (Russian War Relief) and newly-formed local council and particularly significant campaign shows great possibilities among varied groups. Suggests local business men's committees, an important group not yet reached. Moderators of the panels could be called together to serve as basis for national committee in the future. Name of American Council might be changed.

Miss BARROWS' response to Congress comes from groups of every possible type. Shows possibilities almost unlimited; organization should be built from the roots up, local groups explaining possibilities of their own communities.

Mrs. AGINS of Detroit. (MINNA AGINS) American Council excellent; Very contented with it. Do not wish new organization to duplicate it.

CLIFFORD MC AVOY We have national organization we want already. Does not approve of a new organization.

MAX YERGAN knows there exists new possibilities for work among negro people. Says the most effective possible means to reach negroes and others.

Mr. LAMONT summed up the sense of the meeting as having raised the following points;

- (1) There should not be duplication of the American Council and other existing organizations.
- (2) Question of a new form for American Council in the future.
- (3) Possibility of new name retaining many of same people.
- (4) _____
- (5) Everyone here and others also should call local conferences in their communities to explain possibilities.
- (6) The American Council for present will serve as a clearing house.
- (7) The proceedings of the Congress will be published by the panels' committees, which can discuss further the results of discussions in other cities.

From the aforementioned highly confidential source, a list was obtained of the persons invited to the Conference on the proposed organization of a Council of American Soviet Friendship.

A committee report dated December 2, 1942, with penciled notations and corrections was obtained, and it reads as follows:

COMMITTEE REPORT

The Committee appointed by Mr. LAMONT to facilitate discussion at the meeting on December 5th, called by him in response to the request of an informal gathering at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship agrees that:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

- 1: New organizational problems summarized below should be the basis for discussion and action.
- 2: The basic proposals made below deserve discussion and action.

(I) Organizational problems requiring action:

- a. Partly under the impetus of the Congress and the stimulus of the American Council on Soviet Relations, but also partly from quite independent and spontaneous activity, a large number of unaffiliated, independent organizations have arisen in the field of American-Soviet Relations. Sometimes as in Alameda County and in Connecticut and in Elizabeth (New Jersey), these organizations use, without authorization, the name of the Congress; in other instances they have devised names of their own.

Most of these new independent organizations have really excellent local sponsorship (notably in Connecticut, Boston and Chicago) of a caliber definitely superior to that of most of our local Councils and indeed often on a par with the Board of the A.C. on S.R. (American Council on Soviet Relations). Most of these independent or very loosely affiliated organizations have applied very haphazardly to the Council or the Congress or even to the American Russian Institute and Russian War Relief for assistance in securing sponsors and in organizing their programs.

- b. Local chapters of the Council are faced with new opportunities for which many of them are quite inadequate because they were organized in a very different and far less feasible situation; For example, Minneapolis, which was established before the Nazi-Soviet War, has a Council composed of loyal but quite un-influential people. Even those Councils organized a year ago when Russian War Relief was in full stride of organization and hampered in much the same way. It is imperative to reorganize almost all the local Councils. Even those that are relatively strong have been surprised and overwhelmed by the response and demands made upon them.

Russian War Relief in recent months has been undergoing a profound change in many communities. Where it has entered the War Chest, Russian War Relief's activities are usually drastically curtailed and this leads many, many individuals and groups to seek for new avenues of activity and expression. Even in those cities where Russian War Relief is not in the War Chest, there is a general shift from a philanthropic to a political interest in the Soviet Union. This means that there is an enormous potential source of new interest and new persons.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

4730

The demand for service is becoming more and more urgent and more and more varied. For example, in the last month, the American Legion, a number of trade unions, schools, colleges, churches and nationality and professional groups have applied to the Council, not only for speakers and literature but for films, radio programs, syllabuses for discussion and for specific technical and professional information relative to the Soviet Union. The above factors certainly require a more representative organization, a more flexible organization and a much more varied program than the Council has hitherto had.

In conclusion, the American Council on Soviet Relations, as at present constituted, is nationally and locally inadequate, chiefly because it was organized solely upon the basis of enlisting interested individuals, rather than on the basis of securing organizational representation.

II. PROPOSALS FOR DISCUSSION ON SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5

In order to enlarge and extend work in the field of American Soviet Friendship and in order to secure maximum cooperation with independent and newly-formed groups, it would be desirable in the opinion of this committee:

- a. To form a new organization with a name chosen to suggest its double origin in the Council and the Congress.
- b. The name proposed is 'Council of American Soviet Friendship.'
- c. The basic fixture.
- d. It is suggested that a provisional executive committee, with CORLISS LAMONT as chairman be carefully chosen on these lines.
  1. Of securing people with representative standing, who are willing to work in their respective organizations and individuals active in their field.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

2. This executive committee shall have power to enlarge itself and form a national council.
3. This executive committee shall have as its immediate tasks the drawing up of by-laws and constitution, the setting up of committees, of activities, enlisting the active participation of all present on December 5th, and many others, and the drawing up of an organizational scheme, including personnel.
4. To report as soon as possible to interested organizations in the field, asking their cooperation.

III.

AGENDA

- The following agenda is proposed for the meeting of December 5th:
1. CORLISS L' MONT should outline the major political reasons for proposing an enlarged activity.
  2. TOM HARRIS outline the organizational steps.
  3. ALICE BARROWS outline a program of activities.
  4. TED BAYER report on the financial situation and prospects.

NOTES ON LUNCHEON MEETING 12/5/42

CORLISS LAMONT opened meeting.

THOMAS L. HARRIS presented proposals for reorganizing.

ALICE BARROWS cited reasons for expansion and outlined program for expansion, naming specific types of service and the organizations that can be reached with such services.

JESSICA SMITH suggested that each panel should form the basis in their fields for good basic information. A series of study in outline should be furnished in these fields.

~~*SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY~~ could be helpful in this work.

Rev. FLETCHER spoke in favor of an organization being formed along the lines suggested by the previous speakers and said if it were not done the people in the Middle west would feel let down.

CAPTAIN KOURNAKOFF suggested a pamphlet on the BALTIC Countries, to be written soon.

Prof. FAIRCHILD said one of the most important things before the Council is correcting wrong impressions about the Soviet Union.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CLIFFORD MC AVOY We could not intensify our work in the trade union field. There is a general impression that trade unionists are more appreciative of the Soviet Union than other citizens, but this is not true and a really widely representative committee should be set up.

Mrs. ALINE HAYES asked if the Arts Panel had voted to continue as a committee.

ALICE BARROWS replied that they were undecided and wanted advice as to whether they have one committee or several.

WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr. one of the things that I wanted to do on this trip is to find just such an organization, we are anxious to participate.

Prof. STRUIK we in business are also looking for such an organization. The possibilities of an organization are considerable. I have been sending out letters on my own letter heads and have received several encouraging answers. It will be quite difficult to form an organization of the Council. I would like to see among the leading names in the organization some names that are not connected with the Council. I would suggest a pamphlet on the best policy of the Soviet Union with "From STALIN and LITVINOFF."

If approached in the right way we can get support where you least expect it. we should have pamphlets on the Baltic Countries and Poland. I find my most sympathetic audience when I talk on Soviet Science. We should have a newspaper man write a pamphlet on scientific suggestions.

Dr. HARRY GRUNDFEST I agree that we should have material on Soviet Science and Soviet Technology. American scientists are ignorant of what is going on but in the past two years they have doubled an interest. Our association is planning just such a book on Soviet Science. This should be something the proposed council could sponsor with profit. We should have a continuing committee on medicine affiliated with other existing organizations to consolidate such work. This has been done in Britain and Soviet Union. Mr. ANDERSON spoke about a mutual understanding and the divine right of criticism and said the job to be done was one of making people understand, not to inform them.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Mrs. GRUDER arrangements should be made to publish the new book by SIDNEY and BEATRICE WEBB, prefaced by SHAW. It is written simply enough for people with little understanding and might be put out in pamphlet form by the Council for 10¢.

Mrs. RANSAN We should have Ministers, Catholic Priests and colored people on our sponsor list. The poor groups of people should have leadership they respect because they are afraid otherwise.

Rev. MELISH About half of the people of the United States are in religious groups. The Church and state in the Soviet Union is difficult to understand. It would be of considerable help to have material for church circulars on what the correct situation is.

JOHN DARR asked for Youth Committee, pointing out that there was no other organization existing that covers the field.

Mrs. BRIENES High schools are considering a change in curriculum. The Russian language is going to be taught.

FREDERICK NELSON MYERS, The Council should meet the problem of getting into the trade unions, they need this apparatus.

Mr. RANSON There should be a pamphlet on the attitude of the Soviet Union toward Races with "From ST. LIN" in getting out material for White Americans. The Race question should be considered.

Mr. V. N. GELDER There is a tremendous amount of prejudice that must be broken down. Workers particularly should be educated on what is going on in the Soviet Union. We have to meet the propaganda of HERBERT HOOVER and WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Mr. DANENBERG wondered what was to be done after the meetings were over and seemed to support the idea of a continuing organization.

M. B. SHERMAN When the New York Council was formed we anticipated many of the needs expressed here today. He then went on to describe the activities of the New York Council.

Mr. RANSON suggested Press Department.

Mr. HARRIS Motion number one "This gathering of interested persons at the Hotel WOODSTOCK in New York City on Saturday, December 5th approves the formation of an organization with the name "Council of American Soviet Friendship" and with the purpose; to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential for the winning of the War and the establishment of world wide democracy and enduring peace."

M. B. SHERMAN Is the aim of this motion to incorporate the American-Russian Institute and other existing organizations:

Mr. HARRIS This provisional committee would report to the organizations in the field.

The motion was adopted unanimously.

Mr. HARRIS second resolution "It also designates as a provisional committee to form a National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, the following:

MINUTES OF THE MEETING OF THE PROVISIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, NEW YORK CITY
DECEMBER 19, 1942

PRESENT: CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman, THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, ALICE BARROWS, Executive Secretary, Professor DOROTHY DOUGLAS, Professor H. P. FAIRCHILD, Hon. STANLEY ISAACS, THEODOR BAYER, Dr. HARRY GUNDFEST, JESSICA SMITH, JOHN DARR, FREDERICK N. MYERS. The Chairman reported that offices had just been secured at 232 Madison Avenue on the corner of 37th Street.

The "Statement of Purpose and Program" prepared by the organizing committee was read and approved, after the rewording of the last sentence of paragraph one, page two. The approved copy is enclosed.

There was general discussion of the items to be included in a Constitution and By-laws but a decision on these matters was postponed until after the question of incorporation was settled.

The following nominations for additions to the Provisional Executive Committee were approved:

Mrs. ALINE HAYS, Miss HARRIETT MOORE, Dr. RUSSELL BOWIE, Dr. LEO DAVIDOFF, Dr. KIRTLIN MATHER.

The following nominations for Vice Chairman were approved:

Professor RALPH BARTON PERRY, Right Reverend HENRY W. HOBSON, Professor SAMUEL N. HOPPER, Miss HELEN HAYES, Dr. WALTER B. GANNON.

The following nominations for Honorary Chairman were approved:

Honorable JOSEPH E. DAVIES, Professor GILBERT N. LEWIS, OWEN D. YOUNG, MARSHALL FIELD, A. F. WHITNEY, FREDERICK MARCH.

The following names were suggested by the Provisional Committee for consideration for some committee or office:

CHANNING TOBIAS, M. ROBERT WEBSTER, DOROTHY MAYNOR, a lawyer, ROBERT KENNY, President National Lawyers' Guild, Mr. THOMAS L. HARRIS. The National Secretary submitted twenty-six names as suggested members of the National Council. (See inclosed list).

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

He suggested that the composition of the National Committee should be approximately as follows:

- One-third from local councils
- One-third from special interest groups, such as sciences, health, etc,
- One-third from individuals

After some discussion in regard to the names submitted for the National Council it was moved and carried that the list be sent to the members of the Executive Committee for consideration and expression of approval or disapproval of any name. It was understood that if no replies were received from the members of the Executive Committee, Tuesday, December 29, 1942, with regard to the nominations for the National Committee, then the names would stand approved.

A list of suggested names of sponsors was submitted by the Executive Secretary. After some discussion it was decided that this list should also be sent to the Executive Committee for consideration and expression of approval or disapproval of any name. It was understood that if no replies were received from the members of the Executive Committee by Tuesday, December 29, 1942, with respect to the nominations for the Patrons list, then the names would stand approved.

There was discussion in regard to the name of the organization and suggestions for various names were submitted but no decision was reached.

It was decided that the next meeting of the Executive Committee be held Tuesday evening, December 29, 1942.

REPORT OF MEETING CALLED BY DR. CORLISS LAMONT ON SATURDAY
DECEMBER 5, 1942 - NEW YORK CITY

The Chairman opened the meeting and called upon Mr. HARRIS, who outlined the problems as follows:

There is a vast number of Americans keenly interested in American-Soviet friendship. This interest is largely unorganized or else vaguely attached to a number of local and national organizations with consequent duplication of effort. There is an urgent demand for services in terms of publications, radio meetings, information, organizational assistance, far beyond the capacity of any organization now in the field.

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

In a word, there is an immediate pressing need for a more representative organization, a more flexible organization with a much more varied program of activities than any now available. He outlined the proposed form of organization to be discussed as follows:

- (1) A National Council of fifty to one hundred persons representing all sections of the country and all sections of the population.
- (2) A group of sponsors whose responsibility would be confined to general endorsement of the purposes and activity of the organization.
- (3) This Council to furnish:
  - a. Through local committees, many already existing in the field as local chapters of the ~~AMERICAN~~ COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONSHIP, or as independent committees.
  - b. Through committees in specific fields, medicine, science, trade unions, youth, Church, etc., already appearing as a result of a Congress.

Mr. HARRIS then suggested as an immediate procedure to bring such organization about, that this gathering should:

- (A) Form a new organization with the name "COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP" with the basic purpose:
To promote better understanding and to strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential for the winning of the war and the establishment of world wide democracy and enduring peace.
- (B) Elect a provisional committee of not more than twenty-five persons to form a National Council; approach sponsors and volunteer committees in various fields; discuss by-laws and report as soon as possible a program of activity and organization to the various organizations in the field, both locally and nationally.

AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE MEETING MOTIONS COVERING BOTH ABOVE POINTS WERE UNANIMOUSLY PASSED.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

Miss ALICE BAPRO S cited the experience of the Congress as showing the need and possibilities of expansion. She outlined a program for supplying specific services to groups in the field and to organizations of all types who are anxious for such services.

Miss JESSICA SMITH suggested that each panel of the Congress should form the basis in his field for the gathering of basic information. A series of studies in outline should be furnished in these fields. Soviet Russia Today could be helpful in this work.

A full discussion followed. A few of the subjects and ideas are briefly quoted below:

It was suggested that we should intensify our work in the trade union field. A widely representative trade union committee should be set up. The demand for information on the Soviet Union already exists in the trade unions but no organization at present has services to meet this demand.

It was stated that American scientists have recently developed considerable interest in Soviet science. A continuing committee on medicine affiliated with other existing organizations should do valuable work in this field;

It was suggested that it was of great importance to include ministers on the sponspr list.

The youth delegates felt that no organization at present was supplying adequate material and programs for their use. Groups in colleges and schools would welcome and make good use of the services of the proposed organization.

It was stated that some schools are considering adding Russian to their curriculum. This should be urged. A pamphlet was suggested on the solution of Racial problems in the Soviet Union which would be particularly valuable among the negro people and also a pamphlet on religion. (Such a pamphlet is in preparation by the AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS).

Those representing committees in Bridgeport, Connecticut, Los Angeles, New Jersey and Boston welcome these plans for a new organization as meeting a need felt in their communities. There were present at the meeting the following;

Extremely liberal and forward looking, great friend and admirer of HENRY WALLACE. Very strong scrapper who puts his own money into things he believes in. Strong friend of MARSHALL FIELD.

Should just be looked into now, considered, and perhaps asked in later."

Item Number 11 was obtained which is a copy of the Minutes of the Provisional Executive Committee held December 9, 1942, at the Hotel WOODSTOCK.

Present: CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman
ALICE BURROWS

JOHN DARR
DOROTHY DOUGLAS
Dr. HARRY GRUNDFEST
THOMAS L. HARRIS
Honorable STANLEY ISACCS

JESSICA SMITH.

Mr. LAMONT called upon Mr. HARRIS to outline the basic program of the organization. Mr. HARRIS reported on the chapters of the AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS and on new independent organizations in the Field, such as Chicago, Boston, and others. He raised the question of Russian War Relief, which in many communities has gone into the Community Chest and left active groups unorganized. He spoke of the American Russian Institute.

He outlined as the chief needs of the local groups, names for sponsorship and programs of activities.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Mr. HARRIS listed as the immediate problems to be met by the organization, the assembling of names for national sponsorship; increasing the provisional executive committee; assisting local groups in gathering new sponsorship; setting up special interest committees in various provisional fields; working out programs for these special committees and for local groups.

Miss BARROWS described the first steps of the new organization — the securing of sponsors and the setting up of committees in special fields such as science, trade union, youth, etc. She said that the work of the organization would fall into three groups;

- (1) Field Work: That the national organization should be a clearing house for supplying information to local committees. The committee should be made up of people connected with organizations in and on communities, so that they could function in conjunction with existing groups such as, Rotary, Kiwanis, etc. setting up such groups in schools, etc, in addition to running a few affairs in their own name.

The work of the national office would be to service these local committees; to supply additional programs flexible enough to meet their needs — speakers, pamphlets, movies, radio programs, etc.

In addition to the local committees connected with the national office would be speech committees in various professional fields, the arts, science, schools, etc. This would defer new activities in accordance with their character; a youth committee for instance would carry on activity with programs supplied by the organization; the science committee would be more concerned with assembling information.

The following motions were passed at the meeting:

MOVED: That the basic program of the Council of American-Soviet Friendship should include three fields;

- 1: Field work
- 2: Educational programs .
- 3: Special interest committees

The Chairman recommended that the Provisional Executive Committee should be sub-divided into sub-committees and he appointed the following persons to the following sub-committees:

1. Organization and finance; ALICE BARROWS, THOMAS L. HARRIS, THEODORE BAYER, GEORGE MARSHALL, M. B. SHERMAN, JESSICA SMITH, CORLISS L. MONT, Chairman.
2. Labor; JOSEPHINE TIMMS, FREDERICK N. MYERS, J. RUBIN.
3. YOUTH: JOHN DARR, Chairman
4. SCIENCE: Dr. HARRY GRUNDFEST, EARL HANSON, VILHJOLMUR STEFANSSON.
5. MEDICINE: Dr. HENRY J. SIGERIST.
6. FRATERNAL AND SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS: Dr. MAX YERGAN, JOHN E. MIDDLETON.
7. SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES: Professor DOROTHY DOUGLAS, H. P. FAIRCHILD (Mrs. DOUGLAS stated that she would be glad to serve on this committee but not to chair it.)
8. ARTS: WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr.,
9. LEGAL: Honorable STANLEY ISAACS. (Mr. ISAACS stated he would be glad to help organize such a committee but the time he could devote to it would be limited).

Various suggestions were made in subjects with these committees.

- 1; that these committees should be temporary
- 2; that they are rather committees to explore possibilities for work in these fields, than permanent committees to carry out such programs.

Items number 12, 13 and 14 were obtained, which are the Minutes of the Provisional Executive Committee held on January 13, 1943 and contain the following information:

That a meeting of the Executive Committee was held on January 13, 1943 at 8:00 P.M. at the home of the chairman, Mr. CORLISS LAMONT, with the following persons present:

CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman

The Articles of Incorporation were read by Mr. ABRAHAM ~~ISS~~SEMAN and discussion and direction for certain changes, were approved. The Executive Secretary, Miss BARROWS, reported that new offices had been secured at 232 Madison Avenue and that a committee on educational activities had been organized consisting of the following:

Mrs. FRANCES ~~BER~~CONICI
 RICHARD O. ~~B~~'YER
 THOMAS ~~ABR~~NDON
 FRANKLIN FOLSON
 ALICE D. HAYS
 LEO HUBERMAN
 LEO HURWITZ
 ROCKWELL KENT
 MARGARET I. LAMONT
 GEORGE MARSHALL

The Committee would have charge of radio material and moving picture material, would also prepare broadcasts, movie shorts and renting of other films. Miss B. BROWNS reported that there would be a full report of the plans of this Committee at the next Executive Committee meeting. It was also reported that arrangements have been made with the American-Russian Institute to supply the National Council with research material as a basis for pamphlets.

The following persons were stated to have accepted the invitation to serve as members of the Executive Committee:

Miss HARRIET MOORE

Doctor LEO DAVIDOFF

Doctor W. RUSSELL BOWIE

Miss MAXINE WOOD, who would take the place of Mr. MIDDLETON, of the I.W.O. (International Workers' Order), as he is not able to attend meetings.

Mrs. AILENE HAYS preferred to spend the time which she had available in working on the educational activities committee instead of on the Executive Committee.

It was reported that the sponsors and Vice Chairman can now be invited since offices and stationery have been secured.

The budget for the National Council was submitted, discussed and approved. It was pointed out by the Chairman that the budget is tentative and subject to change as the development of the work requires.

- Dr. GRUNDFEST, Chairman of the Science Committee, reported that the Science Committee is planning a book on Soviet Science. They have consulted with the American-Russian Institute and will get a number of contributions. It was suggested that a commercial publisher will afford the best means of distributing the book but that a foreword should explain that the book was prepared by the Science Committee. It was suggested that chapters might be published in magazines and reprints circulated.

Mr. JOHN DARR gave a brief report on the Executive Committee and stated he wished to submit names of persons to be invited to form the Committee. He further suggested that the Committee should be composed of members from other organizations.

It was suggested that the next meeting of the executive committee should take place after the Articles of Incorporation had been approved at Albany, New York. On motion the meeting adjourned.

Item Number 15 was obtained which is a corrected and uncorrected list of the executive committee of the Council as of February 27, 1943.

Item Number 16 is a copy of the Minutes of the meeting of the National Council held in March, 1943 and reads as follows:

The meeting of the members of the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship, Incorporated, was opened at 1:30 P.M., Mr. CORLISS LAMONT presiding. Motions were duly made and seconded, unanimously electing Mr. LAMONT as temporary Chairman and Miss LICE BARROWS as temporary Secretary. CORLISS LAMONT spoke as follows:

This meeting, as you know, has been called for various purposes. Some of them are technical and legal. In the first place, the situation as regards the Soviet Union has already altered to some extent since our Provisional Executive Committee last met. At one time various people were coming to me and saying that they did not see the need of such an organization since relations between America and the Soviet Union were excellent. Now there is a new wave of anti-Soviet Union propaganda and it is now quite clear that there is a basic necessity for a permanent organization of this kind. The last meeting of this body, more or less as it is here today, was as the Provisional Executive Committee. That meeting was held at my home on January 13 and I think most of you received the Minutes of that meeting and though we can't officially adopt those minutes here today because we meet as a different body. If there are any objections please tell the temporary secretary at the end of the meeting.

As to the actual status of this body today since that meeting that I have mentioned, we have gone through the laborious task of incorporating and it took sometime to get incorporation papers legally accepted at Albany but that has been done and at the beginning of lunch today we had a special meeting of the incorporators:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

CORLISS LAMONT
Dr. HARRY GRUNDFEST
WILLIAM MORRIS JR.,
Rev. WILLIAM HOWARD MELISH
GEORGE MARSHALL (who sent a Waiver).

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

As the incorporators of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., a new organization, we adopted today the by-laws which some of you saw at the last meeting of the provisional executive committee and we also elected the first members of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated. I will read the names of those elected:

CORLISS LAMONT
 FRED N. MYERS
 THEODORE BAYER
 ALICE BARROWS
 And several members who sent in Waivers but could not attend.

VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON
 GEORGE MARSHALL
 MAX YERGEN
 DOROTHY DOUGLAS

These persons therefore constituted the membership of our National Council at present.

At the end of this meeting we will elect a few more who did not send in waivers and whom we cannot elect at this time or could not have elected earlier:

Rev. W. RUSSEL BOWIE
 Dr. LEO D'VIDOFF
 EARL HANSON
 Dr. HENRY E. SIGERIST
 THOMAS L. HARRIS.

At the moment therefore we are meeting as the membership of the National Council and due to legal technicalities, we cannot until the end of the meeting elect our permanent officers and elect these other members of the Council that I mentioned. At the end of the meeting we elect ourselves, all present here, as members of the Board of Directors of the organization and then as Directors we elect the officers.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

REPORT BY THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY ALICE BARROWS

I want to say that we were very sorry in the first place to have such a long wait between executive committee meetings. Hereafter we propose all executive committee meetings should occur on the second Tuesday of each month which will give us a chance to make a report as of the end of the month. It was understood that we would not meet until the Articles of Incorporation. It takes time to do these things. I hope you will feel at the end of this report that we have used that time effectively for the organization.

In the first place I think you have before you the list of sponsors. In asking people to become members of this organization, we find we had exactly the same experience as when we asked them for the Congress, that is, instead of simply saying "Yes I will be a member, etc." "I consider this one of the most important organizations that we could have at the present time." LEOPOLD STOKOFSKI wrote "Thanks for asking me" and so it went all the way through this list of sponsors. We have at present seventy-five sponsors.

I want to divide my report into two parts. First, to report to this organization on the accomplishments since the last meeting on the projects that were authorized at that time, and second, to report on the proposed new projects for your consideration and approval. Also, Mr. MARSHALL has asked me to give a financial report to you.

Before taking up the report on the projects, I would like to make this brief statement; that in the past two months when most of our time has had to be spent in organizing, etc., with absolutely no public statement of the organization, with no selling of it in any way, with no publicity, we have received in the past eight weeks, 267 requests for information, 60 for exhibits and posters, 62 for speakers, 10 for motion pictures, 135 for literature and we have sold 3,000 copies of the proceedings, exclusive of the WALLACE speech (16,000 copies of the Congress edition and 6,000 copies of the cheap edition; total 10,600).

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I think that I will send around to you an analysis of those requests. They come from every type of organization and individual. With regard to the exhibits, it is so far schools, colleges, libraries. With regard to the literature, it is from individuals and organizations of all kinds in all parts of the country. With regard to speakers, it ranges from Rotary Clubs, schools, etc., so that the demand already with no selling program shows the eagerness, the "news hunger" for this type of thing. I will now report briefly on the projects that were authorized. We now have a bibliography prepared by the American-Russian Institute, which will be in the press this week as a separate brochure. We have a list of films available and have made arrangements with the ~~FRANCO~~ Films for distributing them. That will also with the list of exhibits be a separate pamphlet. We also have the list of speakers that are available. Those will be three separate pamphlets. All will go into an envelope showing services available. We are a Service organization. In addition, we have someone in the advertising field who is preparing the brochure which gives the program and purpose, the list of our educational activities department, and also the specific campaigns that we are considering. That also will be in the press this coming week. We also have underway a general pamphlet on the Soviet Union being prepared by Mr. Richard ~~Boyer~~ in cooperation with a prominent layout man. Miss ROSE ~~MAURER~~ is planning one on Women and Children.

1. ~~AMERICAN~~ SOVIET WAR EXHIBIT:

With regard to the War Exhibit, you will remember that we had planned a War Exhibit and the Soviet Embassy has made available two large boxes containing trophies captured from the Germans, uniforms, boots, iron crosses that were to be given to the soldiers when they entered Moscow; also identification books; also a complete list of samples of the Soviet uniforms - the Army, Navy and Air Force. That material we now discover everyone has been trying to get. The War Department (The Quartermaster) asked to see them if they can get ideas. They took notes on them. They found things that the Soviet Union has done to take care of the officers. For instance, the boots are so arranged that there is an additional half sole; when it wears out they put in another sole. That is now an official memorandum to the War Department. They gave me an idea. If the War Department is so interested in this, why not make it an American-Soviet War Exhibit. In other words, with this general scheme, Two Allies, One War. One Peace, and I think it is perfectly possible to get from the ~~OWI~~ (Office of War Information) material showing that our aims and resources are mutual. So I took this up with the OWI and they are most anxious to do this to assist us and it means that we have to get a top person to say that it should be done. I am seeing Mr. TAYLOR of the ~~Metropolitan Museum~~ on Monday to see if we can secure the Metropolitan Museum. They will put it up jointly so our name could be used. The plan now is that before the exhibit we will have a dinner at the Astor. People will be asked to come and look at the exhibit. Mr. MORRIS has asked Mr. NORMAN ~~CORBIN~~ to put on a broadcast for us. Then at the Dinner raise funds for sending it round the country. There is a very cheap process, the gelatin process, to have 20 exhibits go simultaneously. (Explained the gelatin process). That is the plan immediately. I am going to see Mr. ~~BATT~~ if the OWI is not interested. In any case, that material is available to us.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

I think that I should say before I go into the rest of this that we have had a windfall in the last three weeks in the National Council, and that is, that someone came to us who in my opinion has extraordinary organizing ability and also the ability to make campaigns pay for themselves, and more than pay for themselves. I am referring to Mr. S. M. ~~LEVIN~~, who has offered to help us.

2. ARTISTS COMPETITION FOR DRAWING OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP INSIGNIA.

The first thing we are thinking of is an Artists Competition for the drawing of an Insignia that will express American-Soviet Friendship. The idea is that we will have 250 artists making this drawing, which then can be used on our letterhead, on our publications and also pins made which then can be sold. When those drawings have been made we will have an exhibit with proper publicity and everyone will be invited to vote which is the best one. That will be sent to the Soviet Union and will also be used as the official insignia.

3. TOKENS OF FRIENDSHIP.

This is ~~MAXINE WOOD~~'s contribution. A number of people suggested we ought to do something about helping to rebuild Stalingrad. Miss WOOD suggested that we suggest to different cities that they send different tokens of friendship. For instance, Detroit to Leningrad; an auto production worker grasping the hand of a Soviet auto production worker. The writers to determine for each city what they will get to send to the Soviet Union. It does not necessarily have to be just cities. Prominent writers can autograph first edition with a message and that goes to the library, or the women and children can get a collection of toys to go to the museum of toys in Moscow, and also for children in devastated areas. It would be interesting if the Metropolitan Museum would prepare a book which would outline for the stage, etc., innumerable projects that are possible.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

4. ~~POST CARD CAMPAIGN.~~

What we need is to get actual feeling of personal contact. So we send out postcards to our local councils and some are addressed to Red Army soldiers, artists, etc. and anyone can write a message and sign their names. They can be sent to the Embassy to the Soviet Union and that particular person can send a reply. That should be done with the Special Interest Groups.

5. ESSAY CONTESTS.

The Essay Contest by the Youth Division that is going to hold its first meeting in the YMCA in ten days. The best essay by Youth in ways of building American-Soviet Friendship.

I believe this organization has an opportunity to do the most outstanding work for Soviet Union-American Friendship. This can be done so that it will not be an expense.

SAM LEVIN.

There is so much to say that I won't touch on the organization as a whole. I would like to give all my impressions since I came into the organization. Naturally like everyone here, I think this could be a tremendously important organization but I believe that it has a tremendous possibility to do very significant work in this field. The time is ripe and I think it has all the necessary means with which to do it. However, I see the organization in this sense: Our purpose is to involve great masses of people and not to develop an almost intellectual approach into this organization. We want to reach everybody. We must therefore develop activities in which everyone can participate, not only speakers and documentary films, and other activities of that kind, but that we have with those activities, a manifold number of activities in which people are interested and touch their imaginations. You reach them; you make them respond. There are so many activities that we can initiate. It is a question which to support first. I think that some of the activities, specifically that Miss B. PRO'S suggested, are very good. For instance, take the pin. Now if we just sell a pin it becomes just another symbol. Everyone has a pin and we should have a pin too. To me a pin has other virtues. We have already given it to a group of artists. They have accepted it as a project of theirs. They are submitting suggestions for the best ideas. Thus we have already interested a thousand artists. If we get 200 symbols and put them in a room, which we can get free, we invite the public and we let them choose which is the best symbol. Now there are 5,000 people who come. The people have decided which is the best symbol. We have then interested a few thousand more people in the selection of the symbol and have made them think what is the best symbol or the best way of developing American-Soviet Union Friendship. We then make the pin. As an ultimate aim we would like to see one million people wear a pin which suggests American Soviet Union Friendship. If they did nothing else, that would be evidence of support to our organization.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

How would we make it financially independent? If we got a pin and sold it for five or ten cents and it costs us three cents or one cent, maybe we would sell it for five cents; if we sell the 1,000 pins it would be a profit so that the project would be self-supporting.

The Essay Contest is also something that I can see great possibilities in. If we can invite the Youth to the Essay Contest. Now a child in high school becomes interested. The first thing he will go to his parents and his teacher or his friends and thereby he starts to stimulate them on the best way of developing American Soviet Union Friendship.

Then my purpose is again, how are we going to make it self-sustaining. Even though the Council is not a fund-raising organization, in order to have it continue, we must to a certain extent be sure that our activities are self-sustaining. We don't want to be in a position that we have to go to individuals to keep going. I believe that is not necessary if our activities are geared intelligently.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The Essay Contest - The thought is that we would charge ten cents. Everyone who sent in (an Essay) only would pay a dime. But the prize would be a trip to the Soviet Union. That gives a young person something to shoot for. Let us assume that we get 10,000 essays; we get $1,000. If the Soviet Union agreed to defray the expenses of this trip, then we would have a thousand dollars. If not, the trip would cost $400 or $500 and the balance would go to defray expenses.

~~FILM FESTIVAL~~: An appealing and interesting thing I was just reading a pamphlet that was received from the Embassy in Washington, which illustrates the Film Festival which the Soviet Union had in August, 1942 on ~~American-Soviet Union~~ films. We were thinking of reciprocating by having a Film Festival of American Soviet Union films that would be launched in New York and Hollywood. We would have one Saturday fixed. There would be panel discussion at which we would invite leading people in the film industry and also we were hoping to get from the Soviet Union one or two individuals prominent in the Soviet Union film industry. Then there would be discussion of relative merit, etc. Let us say on Sunday night, there would be a gathering invited to a showing of the latest Soviet Union film. We would have speakers to talk on film and panel discussions, etc. The important thing is that I believe that this organization has possibilities of doing what no other organization has ever been able to do before. We could not do it three or five years ago but we can do it today. If we get down to business we can do a terrific job.

CERTIFICATE AWARD TO ORGANIZATION OR INDIVIDUAL FOR SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION TO AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

What I think is important is to give this organization life. To give it prestige. To make it part of the activity of all the people, and I was thinking of one thing we could do. For instance, I would like the organization to prepare a diploma or certificate and we would give this certificate to any individual or organization that did an outstanding job in helping to create better American Soviet friendship. In other words, for instance ~~STAVINSON~~, who translated ~~Counter-Attack~~ and we think it helped American Soviet Union friendship, we award him the certificate. I think people would respond to that. Remember that in the months to come we hope to be an organization to represent thousands of people. If we give that certificate to a person it is the voice of thousands of people. It gives publicity, prestige and standing.

DISCUSSION

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~1. AMERICAN-SOVIET WAR EXHIBIT

Suggestion that motion to approve article that was released today by HENRY C. CASSIDY, referring to various equipment, photographs, etc.

Motion made by Rev. M'ELISH, seconded by Mr. MORRIS; that the Council approve American-Russian War Exhibit - Carried unanimously.

2. ARTISTS COMPETITION FOR DRAIVING OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP INSIGNIA.

DISCUSSION

Suggestion: Insignia that got the largest number of votes would be accepted.

Suggestion: That there should be a Committee of Artists to decide what insignia is to be included.

Motion made and seconded that the National Council take over the Insignia project from the Provisional Executive Committee.

Carried Unanimously.

3. TOKENS OF FRIENDSHIP:

DISCUSSION

ALICE BARROWS: That I think is one of the most attractive that will involve more people than anything else; that will activize the Councils. Our plan is to have a suggested list of various tokens of friendship that can be carried out by either the individuals or organizations in the city or by different special interest groups. That we should get underway very quickly.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Motion made and seconded approving Tokens of Friendship Project and that it be taken over from the Provisional Executive Committee.

Carried Unanimously.

4. FILM FESTIVAL: ALICE BARROWS: People came to us suggesting that they would like to have a conference with different panels that would be shared in by the 2 leading film people in this country, and then a big meeting at the end. I saw the Soviet Embassy and asked them if it would be possible to get Eisenstein for it and they agreed to make every effort on it. (Hollywood and New York project).

SA L. LAVIN: We were thinking that simultaneously we would involve Local Councils by having a showing of the Film and have local people talk on the film.

Motion made and seconded approving Film Festival Project and that the Council take this over from the Provisional Executive Committee. Carried Unanimously.

5. POST CARD CAMPAIGN:

DISCUSSION

DARR: It would give direct personal connection between the Americans in this country and people - Soviet Union.

ADDRESS BY MR. EDWARD CLARK (Chicago)

I am somewhat disturbed at the character that the Council seems to take at this particular moment. When the organization was getting underway the Chicago Committee, which had then sponsored a meeting, sent in a number of recommendations of Chicagoans who they felt should be on the National Committee. In looking through the list of sponsors I find there are no Chicagoans and no Midwesterners on the list. I do know that there are a number of Chicagoans and Midwesterners who are definitely interested in creating better American Soviet Union relations. I think it is a mistake of setting up organizations in the hope that after the organization is set up, that we will involve these people. I think the time is now at the time we set up the National Council.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Mr. MYERS was present at the Chicago meeting, and he can attest to the enthusiasm of Chicago at that meeting. From that meeting has developed a permanent organization - the Chicago Society for American Soviet Relations. One of the points which are under consideration for this organization is affiliation with the National organization. Professor HARPER before his death felt very strongly on the subject of involving Chicagoans, especially business men whom we were successful in involving in the Executive Committee and on our Local Committee.

I think that Mr. LEVIN sounded a keynote that we can do the job now but we could not have done it three or five years ago, and yet I feel that we are taking a similar approach to the problem now to what we would have done three or five years ago. It is no local situation. It is a national one. As your name implies, it is a National Council and if it is to be a National Council, I think that the place where there is a job to be done is Isolationist Midwest. We have laid the basis. We can capitalize on the work that might be done. I think the National Council is in better position to involve these people. I think that Mr. LEVIN mentioned that this organization must have life, prestige, individual participation. This applies as far as the Midwest is concerned. We have looked to this Organization, the National organization, to actually assist us in Chicago in developing the organization locally. Since the death of Professor HARPER new problems have been created. We have gone ahead and are now in the process of getting a broad sponsoring group. We find there are many more difficulties than for one local meeting. This is for a permanent organization and those same people whom we were able to involve to sponsor one local meeting are not quite as receptive to go along on a permanent organization. However, if they felt that they were in the company of the names of the sponsor groups, they would have gone ahead. It would have made the job for Chicago that much simpler and easier. I think it is a mistake to assume that we can set up an organization and say that now that we have it set up, we can go ahead and involve them. The proper time to have involved these people is when we were making a National organization out of this. That is the reason why Chicago sent in certain recommendations after the Local met in Chicago. I am disturbed about the local character of the organization that you have set up.

DISCUSSION

A.B. (ALICE BARROWS) explained that this is just partial sponsorship list; told of the coming conference of local councils and committees on March 20th; of the notice that has already been mailed and the forthcoming letter that will be mailed. Suggestion by Mr. CLARKE that the letter to be sent out state that the sponsors as listed are only a basis; that for reasons of expediency, people whom we had on hand, etc.

POST CARD CAMPAIGN (continued)

DISCUSSION

HARRIET MOORE: I was also out in Chicago. There they have a particular Youth problem. They set up a Youth organization in connection with Russian War Relief which was not part of the RWR but broader and when they started the Chicago Society on American-Soviet Relations it came to us and said that their problem was that under RWR they were able to keep these Youth groups (which included every Youth Group, Catholics, etc.) interested because they had a specific job to do and they were afraid that if the program of the new Society should be entirely educational in the sense of sending messages, the thing might fall apart. They were therefore interested in setting up a permanent system of exchange of correspondence. I wrote the Embassy about it and they said it could be arranged. It seems to me that in connection with the Essay Contest, to broaden out, whereby there was continuous progress, simultaneously with the post card campaign. In other words, they need a specific and constant goal, however modest it may be in order to keep these groups together. I do not know whether this is a local situation. This is not anything against the Essay Contest but there you need something plus the Essay Contest.

ALICE BARROWS: What you suggest is in line with our idea. These campaigns are continuous.

HARRIET MOORE: My point is that if it was part of a continuous process of exchange with the Youth of the Soviet Union, it would make it technically easier for the group to stick together.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

SAM LEVIN: I think that Harriet brings up an interesting point. We could modify the Essay Contest a little. Instead of having the Youth write essays just as an essay, we could have them write an essay and have them write their name and address and when we send the Essays to the Soviet Union, we could hope that the Youth in the Soviet Union could write back to a specific youth on his way of building American Soviet friendship.

SUGGESTION: THAT DIFFERENT AGE GROUPS - GRAMMAR, HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE - EACH HAVE A CONTEST OF THEIR OWN.

Motion made and seconded that the Council take over from the Provisional Executive Committee the Post Card Campaign Project. Carried Unanimously.

6. CERTIFICATE AWARD TO ORGANIZATION OR INDIVIDUAL BY NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION TO AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP PROJECT.

DISCUSSION

Mr. MORRIS: I would like to suggest a committee to report back as to how it can be done, I move that the Project be approved by this Committee but that the incoming Chairman designate a Committee to work out ways and means of the project and then report back to the Executive Committee.

Motion made and seconded that the National Council take over the Project, and that a Sub-Committee be designated by the Chair to approve further details. Carried unanimously.

ALICE BARROWS: The point is as I have already mentioned to Mr. CLARK: One of the most fundamental and important parts of this work which we could not undertake until we know where we were going is the organization of local councils and giving them assistance both in regard to problems of organization and activating them on these projects. We therefore propose to hold a Conference in New York City on March 20th for the purpose of discussing their plans and problems and giving them assistance and those that are too far away to come would have a report sent to them.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

7. PAINTING AND POSTER CONTEST:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

SAM LEVIN: I would like to bring up the other Project and that is the Painting and Poster Contest. We might have to get moving prior to the next meeting of the Executive Committee. I would like to bring up for approval the Contest as a project. The project is this. We have spoken to Mr. HUGO GELLERT and he is very much taken up with this suggested idea and offers to get the Artists for Victory to cooperate with us on a Painting Contest, inviting all the Artists of the United States to submit paintings based on the theme of American-Soviet Friendship. These to be submitted and then to be accepted. And the thought was that the paintings would then be sold to the public - 50% to go to the Artists and 50% to the Council Motion made and seconded that the Painting and Poster Project also be included with those that are adopted and that we await Mr. Gellert's proposal before further activity.

Mr. FOLSOM: I would like to move that we also authorize a National Poster Contest as quite distinct from the Exhibition of Paintings on this Theme. The National Poster Contest is under discussion with Artists for Victory, and they would be willing to use their 18,000 mailing list of Artists regarding posters to be submitted. These I would recommend in this motion that there should be no stipulation that it be brought back to this body for another month.

These motions were made and carried.

FINANCIAL REPORT:

Mr. MARSHALL suggests the appointment of the following as a Financial Committee:

SAM LEVIN, Chairman
CORLISS LAMONT
GEORGE MARSHALL
FREDERICK VANDERBILT FIELD
SAM RUBIN
WILLIAM MORRIS, Jr.,
ELIOT BARROWS.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Motion made by Mr. DARR, seconded by Mr. FAIRCHILD, to accept the appointment of Financial Committee, suggested by Mr. MARSHALL - Carried Unanimously.

ALICE BARROWS: Mr. MARSHALL wishes me to report that:

Assets as of February 28, 1943 .....	$9,696.25
Accounts Payable.....	$537.04
Tax on Salaries, etc.,.....	108.24
Deposit on Exhibit.....	12.50
	657.78
	$9,038.47

(Recapitulation - American Council on Soviet Relations.
Congress of American-Soviet Friendship and National Council on Soviet Relations.

Statement of Assets, Liabilities and Surplus as of February 28, 1943).

There has also been pledged $2,000.

We are now operating under three accounts:

American Council on Soviet Relations	$6,137.12
Congress of American - Soviet Friendship	96.70
National Council on Soviet-American Friendship	2,587.42

Motion made and seconded that the report of Mr. MARSHALL be accepted, and that the funds now available for transfer to this Organization be accepted by this Organization. Carried Unanimously.

(BOARD OF DIRECTORS) - EXECUTIVE BOARD:

CORLISS LAMONT: As members of the National Council we now have the privilege of electing ourselves as Directors of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship. Those Directors to constitute the Executive Board. These Directors will be as follows, according to the elections held this afternoon by the Incorporators:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

REPORT BY DR. GRUNDFEST, CHIEFMAN, SCIENCE COMMITTEE:

Foundation has been laid for getting a Science Committee organized, and especially with the excellent response of a number of very prominent scientists who have become sponsors, the Science Committee can be built with these sponsors in mind and with the aid of these sponsors. Possibilities in the use of science as a means for improving friendship and understanding of the Soviet people.

Motion made and seconded to receive Dr. GRUNDFEST's report.
Carried unanimously.

REPORT BY JOHN DARR, CHIEFMAN OF THE YOUTH COMMITTEE:

Working to set up permanent Youth Committee. Met with Youth leaders who worked with the Russian War Relief and talked with them about a Youth Council.

PLANS

Reception for Soviet Students at Columbia to be followed by conference. Money to be raised through Piano recital, jam session, War Trophy Exhibit and Essay Contest.
Also Plan for Sports Contests - Possibility of having Russian Soccer Team.

Motion made and seconded to receive Mr. DARR's Report.
Carried unanimously.

REPORT BY FRANKLIN FOLSON, ON NEW YORK COUNCIL:

In the New York Council we have been trying to develop organization with two thoughts in mind. How can we have an apparatus to distribute material which the National Council can supply..... effective instrument for carrying out campaigns. Have been trying to make contributions by bringing in ideas to the National Council.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

Helped bring into existence Russian American Society which will have bi-monthly scientific publication bringing to the American Doctors the best results of Soviet Research in medicine.

In order to develop apparatus, have been holding:

Theatre Parties, concerts, preview of ~~March~~ of Time.
Rally at ~~Ethical~~ Culture Society, 1300 people attending;
Rev. NELSON conducting meetings in Churches: Films, etc.

Have been trying to consider structures along lines - Youth, Women, Nationalities, Trade Unions, Neighborhood. Each of these Divisions in the next few months will take on professional secretaries to lead the work and correlate the work. Not merely fund-raising. Planning neighborhood conferences designed to draw together leaders of the communities, organizations, informing them of our services. Getting sponsor lists.

PROBLEM OF FORM OF ORGANIZATION - PROPOSAL:

It seems to me that in considering our organization, we have to find a form to conduct educational work. We have to avoid forms that will not help. I have a proposal that we make a very clear stand against becoming a dues paying membership organization. It seems to me that we can more effectively raise funds through other channels than through dues. We will reach out more quickly and with a minimum of waste effort on the part of the central apparatus if we consider ourselves as a broad movement. Membership to be determined by participation and not by payment of money. Payment of money should not be considered.

Motion made and seconded to receive report by FRANKLIN FOLSON.
Carried unanimously.

DISCUSSION

Suggestion that question of dues be worked out between Finance Committee and the New York Council at Monday night meeting.

Suggestion that New York Council and Finance Committee discuss questions further and make recommendations that will be taken up at meeting on March 20th.

NY 100-7518

National Council should be in position to make definite recommendations to the Local Councils.

Motion made and seconded that SAM LEAVIN be made Chairman of the Activities Committee. Carried unanimously.

Motion made and seconded that the Youth Committee, Science Committee and Activities Committee be constituted and the members thereof be appointed by the Chairman. Carried unanimously.

Motion made and seconded that an account be opened at the New York Trust Company, Madison Avenue and 40th Street, Manhattan, and that the Bank be authorized to pay out on checks signed by any two of the following three officers: Chairman, Executive Secretary and Book-keeper. Carried unanimously.

Motion made and seconded that the regular Executive Committee meeting be held at 8:00 P.M. on the evening of the second Tuesday of each month, at a place to be announced by the Executive Secretary. Carried unanimously.

Announcement: Meeting to be held at the home of Mr. CORLISS LAMONT,  New York City, on Wednesday, March 17, at 8:15 P.M.

Motion made and seconded that the Officers be empowered to execute lease for the offices at 232 Madison Avenue, Manhattan. Carried unanimously.

Motion made and seconded that the Board be notified that the following persons will be voted upon for membership by the National Council at the next meeting of the Board. Carried Unanimously.

~~X~~FIFTH SEAL: BY ~~MARK~~ALDANOV

FREDRICK N. MYERS:

The purpose of the Council is to build friendship between our country and the Soviet Union and should certainly take some stand against anti-Soviet propaganda. I have in mind the selection of the Book of the Month Club, "The FIFTH SEAL" by MARK ALDANOV, who has not been in the Soviet Union for 20 years. I do not know how correct it is for the Council to take any steps. As far as the individual members of the Council, I think we should get in touch with SHEPMAN, Head of the ~~X~~BOOK of the MONTH CLUB and also SCRIBNER and make known our feeling.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

This book is going to impair the work this Council will do. Suggest certain members of the Committee get in touch with SHERMAN and express our dislike of the book - also to tell SCRIBNER, also DAVIS of the OWI. Today this book is anti-American propaganda.

DISCUSSION

Suggestion that prominent people of the Committee meet with SHERMAN to take up situation and make every possible effort to see that book is withdrawn. Avoid publicity that would merely advertise the book. To suggest to Book of the Month Club to substitute RUSSIA LAUGHES, or similar work, pro-Soviet.

NOTION: FIFTH SEAL (TO BE FORMULATED FROM THE FOLLOWING)

That the Chairman and Officers of the National Council be authorized and requested to take steps as to them seem most advisable, in consultation with others whom they may choose, to attempt to secure the withdrawal of "Fifth Seal," by MARK ALDANOV, from the Book of the Month Club List.

Include in the motion that our purpose is to judge this book and the publication method of it on the basis of its effect on American Soviet Relations, and that effect be pointed out to the persons concerned.

That the Chairman and a Committee that he selects see the Book of the Month Club and on the basis that we are an organization to create friendship, try to persuade them to withdraw on the basis that the book is dangerous.

That the Chairman read and investigate this book and if he finds that its broad circulation might be detrimental, that they use their best efforts to attempt to secure the withdrawal of this book "FIFTH SEAL" by MARK ALDANOV, from the list, and if they find that it would be detrimental to the American Soviet Friendship, to impress those findings on the Book of the Month Club and ask them to withdraw this book from the list.

The following penciled notation in the handwriting of CORLISS L/MONT appears at the end of the copy of these minutes:

Here is my understanding of this resolution:

That the Chairman and officers of the National Council be authorized and requested to read and investigate "The Fifth Seal" by MARK LDANOV, and if they find that its broad circulation would be detrimental to American-Soviet Friendship, to impress these findings on the Book of the Month Club and ask it to withdraw this book from the list of choices.

Signed Corliss Lamont

Information obtained from the previously-mentioned highly confidential source reflects that in April, May and June, 1943 the subject organization conducted a "Correspondence for Friendship" campaign. This Campaign was publicized in special periodicals as "SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY" and *"IN FACT" and requested individuals to write to the National Council for an envelope containing five correspondence cards so that the messages could be forwarded to anyone of the following persons:

- A Red Army Man
- A Red Navy Man
- A Red Army Nurse
- A Guerrilla Fighter
- A Collective Farmer
- A Soviet Student
- A Steel Worker
- A Denbas Coal Miner
- A woman factory worker or a Soviet School teacher.

As reflected in item number 21 the Local Councils were sent letters of suggestions for promoting the Correspondence Card Campaign. The suggestions include the following:

To arrange for a ceremony with the press present, at which the Mayor and other important City officials would sign a card and send the first greeting from that community to the chairman of the City Soviet of a Soviet City, of similar size and character. This would be followed by press publicity and mass distribution at meetings, theatres and street corners.

1. The minutes of the May 11th meeting were adopted.
2. A motion was passed to include Edwin S. Smith on the ~~Steering~~ Steering Committee.
3. Section 1 of article 4 of the by-laws was amended to read as follows:

Section 1 - The officers, except honorary officers, shall be elected from the Executive Board and shall consist of the following:

Chairmen: Not more than five vice chairmen as the Executive Board may from time to time determine;
Secretary Treasurer: Executive Director;
National Secretary, and such assistant officers as may from time to time be deemed necessary or advisable by the Executive Board.

- "4. A resolution was adopted for the opening of a bank account in the name of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, Inc., with the New York Trust Company of the City of New York.
5. It was decided to take no action at the present time on the proposed amendment to Article 9 of the by-laws. It was the sense of the meeting that no amendment was required to accomplish the objective sought by Mr. Harris in his memorandum to Mr. Smith on the subject of affiliation fees. However, Mr. Smith was asked to report <sup>formally</sup> at the next meeting of the Executive Board on the legal aspects of the proposed amendment to Section 9 and its effect on affiliated organizations. A motion was passed that pending such report by Mr. Smith, Mr. Harris was to be informed that on his present trip he might work out such financial arrangements with local councils as seem to him appropriate, subject to confirmation by the secretary treasurer, Mr. Leavin.
6. Mr. Smith made a report on the current work and future program of the National Council on which there was considerable discussion. Mr. Smith was asked to send to each member of the Executive Board for comment a written statement covering the subject matter of his report.
7. A motion was made that the chairman appoint a committee to consider Mr. Smith's report and to report at the next Executive Board meeting. The chairman appointed a committee for this consisting of Samuel B. Leavin, Alice P. Barrows, Jessica Smith and Edwin S. Smith.
8. A motion was passed to send to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a letter requesting tax exemption under the provisions of Section 101 (6) of the International Revenue Code. The text of the proposed letter was approved by the Board.
9. A motion was passed that the American Council of Soviet Friendship be requested to authorize expenditures for the promotion of the American Soviet War Exhibit, with the understanding that all proceeds from the exhibit should go to the treasury of the New York Council and that all expenditures on behalf of the exhibit (except the cost of dismantling, which is to be paid <sup>for</sup> by the National Council) be assumed by the New York Council beginning June 10th.
10. Upon motion of Mr. Harris it was voted that the chairman appoint a committee to draw up a plan for raising a fund of $150,000 for the National Committee, this committee to be appointed at once with the understanding that Mr. Harris agrees to assume the chairmanship of the committee on his return to New York in six weeks. Mr. Smith announced that the staffs of the New York and National Office had been invited to a cocktail party by the American Russian Institute, Friday, June 18th at 5 o'clock.

The following board members will represent the National Council at the American Soviet medical dinner, Friday evening, June 18th, at the Pennsylvania Hotel: EDWIN S. SMITH, CORLISS LAMONT, JESSICA SMITH, ALICE P. BARROWS, SAMUEL B. LEVIN. Mr. H. SHERMAN, Dr. GRUNDFEST, and Dr. LEO V. DAVIDOFF are to be invited by the New York Council.

In response to Mr. Harris' request for printed material for contact work on the West Coast, it was proposed that we send 2,000 copies of the Pope pamphlet as soon as it is printed.

A motion was made, seconded and carried that the story appearing in "Soviet Russia Today" on the war exhibit be reprinted by the Council for promotional use. It was proposed that additional material on the war exhibit be added to this reprint and that we print 10,000 in pamphlet form for general use in promoting the war exhibit.

Corliss Lamont reported that he had wired to Thomas Harris requesting information about our Religious Committee with a view to applying to the Paddock Fund for a grant for the Council.

Motion was made, seconded and carried to increase the Melish reprint and Mr. Samuel B. Levin offered to take care of the additional cost.

It was proposed that a chairman and a group of sponsors be set up for the Religious Committee and that the Melish reprint be sent to ministers with a covering letter.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Mr. Smith reported that a statement with a covering letter had gone out to about 26 prominent citizens asking for their signatures to the statement on Mission to Moscow film and as soon as the signatures come in, another letter will go out to over 300 names asking them to sign the statement. Mr. Smith also reported on the methods of financing this production.

Mr. Leavin proposed a new money-making project, namely, the mailing of a lithograph of a painting entitled "Battle of Stalingrad" and painted by Mr. David Margolius. After much discussion the following motions were made, seconded and carried:

1. That the Council go ahead with the project.
2. That we engage the services of Mr. Bergman to solicit funds in connection with the mailing of the lithograph which will be accompanied by a letter composed and signed by a representative of the National Board.
3. That the lithograph is to go to a list selected by Mr. Leavin.
4. That any new methods of promotion or solicitation in addition to those already approved in this motion be taken up by Mr. Leavin with the Steering Committee.
5. That the mailing be limited to 1,000 and that the time limit of solicitation expire August 1st. If, during the course of solicitation from the first 1000, it appears that we would like to increase the mailing or the time limit, Mr. Leavin will then take it up with the Steering Committee.
6. The Council understands that Mr. Bayer will furnish free of charge all the prints, envelopes, wrappers, postage and that the Council will supply the letter and a telephone in our office.
7. It is further understood that the Council's share of the gross revenue is 75% and that all checks are made payable to the National Council.

After much discussion of the budget which is approximately $5,000 a month, it was proposed that members of the Steering Committee undertake to visit friends of the Council to raise the necessary funds.

It was reported by Mr. Leavin that after this week the services of Jane Lyon and Donald Kantor would be discontinued.

Following word from Mr. Harris on the organization of the Ministers Committee, the Melish reprint with a covering letter signed by seven ministers was mailed to about 900 ministers.

A motion was seconded and carried that the committee be known as the Religious Committee of the National Council.

The following activities are scheduled for the Religious Committee:

- A) Contest among ministers,
- B) Publication of the Harris Fletcher-book,
- C) Truth about religion in Russia.

A proposal was made to include a ministers' panel at our November 7th meeting.

Miss Barrows announced that a suggestion has been made that pictures of the War Exhibit be made and sent to the Soviet Union where they would be shown in factories.

Miss Barrows suggested that we hold meetings on art, education, literature, etc., with American and Soviet authorities present;

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

"the purpose of these meetings would be to tie up the theme of the subjects, both American and Russian, into the war activities of both countries."

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Miss Barrows reported that over 13,000 people saw the War Exhibit in the past ten days and that the museum would like to keep the exhibit through the middle of September.

A motion was carried to keep the War Exhibit through the middle of September.

Mr. Folson reported on the New York activities in connection with the War Exhibit. He said that at least twelve different activities are now scheduled, many of them fund raising events. Among them are an All Slav Night, a Negro Night, Baltic States, two different Russian evenings, a French evening, Boy Scouts Night, and the School for Democracy Night.

It was suggested that we reproduce records of the Night of Stars meeting in albums and send them to the Soviet Union for entertainment on the Russian front. A motion was seconded and carried that the reprint from Soviet Russia Today on the war exhibit be used as a souvenir program; that we print 10,000 copies, 7,000 of which are to go to the New York Council.

Miss Smith announced that the ~~A.R.I.~~ (American Russian Institute) syllabus is ready and that Soviet Russia Today is ordering 100 copies. The National Council can get them from S.R.T. (Soviet Russia Today) at 75¢ a copy.

Miss Smith announced that a new edition of the Soviet Constitution is in preparation and that Mr. Bob Josephy has been called in to design the cover. The new pamphlet will sell for 10¢ a copy.

A motion was seconded and carried that the National Council order 5,000 copies of the new edition of the Soviet Constitution.

Miss Barrows tendered her resignation.

Motion was seconded and carried that we accept Miss Barrow's resignation. A motion was made expressing the appreciation of the Council for Miss Barrow's work.

After some discussion on the proposed bulletin to be issued monthly by the National Council, Miss Smith offered to raise $150 for the first issue. It is understood that the first bulletin is to be an "experimental issue. It is also understood that the bulletin is to serve as a means of organizing councils and acquainting organizations with the National Council's program and activities.

A motion was seconded and carried to accept the bulletin as outlined by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith reported a conversation he had with Dr. Miller of Chicago about the whole problem in the Chicago area. Out of the discussion came the proposal from Dr. Miller that the Chicago Council would be very happy to have Mr. Harris as the Chicago Executive Director. The Steering Committee considered this proposal a good one because the committee felt the work in that area is of the utmost importance.

A motion was seconded and carried that Mr. Smith send a letter to Mr. Harris informing him of the proposal made by Dr. Miller and that a copy of the letter be sent him.

Miss Golden was authorized to inquire about new equipment for the office, namely, an addressograph machine and a new mimeograph machine. "

Item 43 was obtained which is the "News Letter" of the subject organization for July 1943 which was the first edition of that publication. The following pertinent information appeared in this publication:

" On June 22, 1943 CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the National Council, sent anniversary greetings to Premier Stalin on the second year of their war.

The American Soviet War Exhibit which was launched June 1, 1943 at the Museum of Science and Industry, Rockefeller Center, was discussed.

It was reported that in Canada the Canadian Soviet Friendship had been launched on June 22, 1943.

On June 18, 1943 Dr. VLADIMIR V. ~~LEBENKO~~, representative of the Russian Red Cross, was honored at a celebration at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York City. At the same time the American Soviet Medical Society was formally launched.

" On June 21, 1943 the first batch of "Correspondence for Friendship" cards was delivered by ETHEL ELLIS, director of the campaign, to Captain VLADIMIR N. ~~X~~ZOTO, of the U.S.S.R. Merchant Marine.

It was announced that EDWIN S. SMITH had been appointed Vice Chairman and Executive Director of the National Council. "

The following personal background information was reported:

SMITH was for six years a member of the National Labor Relations Board appointed by President Roosevelt. He also served as a member of the first National Labor Relations Board which administered Section 7A of the NIRA. Previous to his term of office with the Federal Government, SMITH was for three years Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the State of Massachusetts. After leaving government service SMITH was for a year and a half in charge of the CIO campaign to organize the workers in Standard Oil.

The following information concerning the activities of local councils throughout the United States was reported:

On June 22, 1943 the Chicago Council had placed an ad in the Chicago Sun entitled "Let's Be Good Friends with Our Good Neighbors". Mrs. LUCILLE SHARER was reported to be Executive Secretary of the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship, 135 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Philadelphia Council placed a quarter page ad in the Evening Bulletin to combat anti-Soviet propaganda. ELIZABETH P. ~~X~~FRAZIER was chairman and Mr. JOSEPH ~~X~~GOTTLIEB executive secretary of the Philadelphia Council, 1831 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The Los Angeles Council announced the opening of its office at 542 South Broadway, room 812.

The Massachusetts Council held a mass rally on June 27, 1943 at the Arlington Street Church. Bishop O'Connell was reported to be chairman and Professor DINK J. STRUIK sec'y of the Massachusetts Council.

Item 44 was obtained which reports the National Executive Board meeting held August 11, 1943, as follows:

A motion was seconded and carried to adopt the minutes of the previous meeting,

A motion was seconded and carried to accept the progress report of a special committee to prepare an expose of professional anti-Soviet writers which held one meeting and decided to prepare material which would deal with the principal ones of these writers. Mr. Bayer reported that work had begun on assembling this material.

A motion was seconded and carried to accept the progress report from the Special Committee to enlarge the Executive Board which recommended that new members be added from the special affiliated committees that are being formed, such as the Musicians Committee, and that between now and the November congress additional special committees will be formed in connection with which recommendation would be made for additions to the Executive Board from time to time,

A motion was seconded and carried that we accept the request for affiliation with the National Council made by the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship on July 21st.

A motion was seconded and carried that we accept the request for affiliation to the National Council made by the Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship on August 2nd.

The application for affiliation received from the New Jersey League of American Soviet Friendship was discussed. In view of the fact that they request affiliation for a state organization which they do not adequately represent or service, it was decided that a letter be written to Mr. MELNIKO, Executive Secretary, requesting that he come to the office for a special conference before further action is taken on their request.

WILLIAM MORRIS, JR. reported for the Finance Committee. A motion was seconded and carried that the Executive Board consider "themselves a committee of the whole to raise funds to support the Council.

A letter will be sent to each member of the board requesting a list of possible contributors. This letter will be followed up by a personal call by Mr. Morris. The Finance Committee will compile a complete list of donors and make specific assignments for special visits. A kit of literature and significant activities will be prepared for each suggested contributor. Mr. Smith was requested by the board to submit copies of the letter to send to the members of the Executive Board, to Mr. Morris for his comments.

A motion was seconded and carried that we proceed with the plan to request signatures to the statement attacking the Hearst editorial of August 4th to be released under the name of the signatories and in the general name of the Council, and to publish the statement in leaflet form with coupon attached for individual endorsements to the statement.

It was proposed that authorization be given to Mr. Smith to react currently to any editorials, statements or activities of this kind with press releases and letters to our councils without consultation with the Executive Board. Formal motion on this is postponed pending discussion with Corliss Lamont.

A motion was seconded and carried that the Steering Committee be instructed to consider further the proposal for a Book Fair to be held in connection with the November congress.

It was announced that the Chicago Council of American Soviet Friendship had received notification of their tax exemption.

Mr. Smith reported on general plans for a tenth anniversary celebration of American Soviet Friendship to be held during the week of November 6 to 16. They include a national congress in New York consisting of group discussions and a Madison Square Garden meeting; Congress activities in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco similar to those held in New York but on a somewhat smaller scale; meetings in hundreds of localities fully representative of all phases of community life. The theme of all these meetings will be friendship with Russia, now and in the future.

Miss Jessica Smith reported for the Publications Committee. A constitution has been proposed and is now in distribution. 5,000 copies of the Reading List have been distributed and a revised edition is now in press. Pamphlets on Child Care, Nationalities and Theater in Wartime are in manuscript form and the first draft of both the youth and "trade union pamphlets has been submitted. Anna Louise Strong is preparing a pamphlet on "The Soviet Union - A Democracy". The Randall's Island, Toronto and Columbus speeches of Joseph Davies and Arthur Upham Pope's reply to the attacks on "Mission to Moscow" are to be included in a pamphlet. Miss Smith also explained that a cover and format were being designed for use on all basic pamphlets which would be printed up as a pocket library on the U.S.S.R.

A motion was seconded and carried that the report of the Publications Committee be accepted. "

Item 45 was obtained which reports the minutes of the Congress Committee meeting held August 26, 1943, as follows:

"Present:

EDWIN S. SMITH

DR. HARRY GRUNDFEST

Dr. Grundfest gave a brief outline of the proposals discussed by him and Mr. Smith concerning the scientist session to be held in connection with the Congress. He suggested that if the session could not be held at the New Yorker (hotel), that it be held either at the Engineering Club, New York Medical Society or possibly Hunter College. That we secure Dr. Cannon, Dr. Lewis and Dr. Lawrence as honorary chairmen of the scientist panels and that Dr. Cannon be chairman of the over-all panels. Dr. Grundfest suggested that a letter be sent to possible sponsors of the sessions over the names of the three honorary chairmen together with a general outline of the program. Sponsors should be obtained from leading scientific organizations and institutions. Dr. Grundfest will cable to the Soviet Union for papers from leading Soviet scientists.

There will be three panels. The subjects to be covered are:

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

- 1) Engineering, physics and chemistry, electronics.
- 2) Public health and medicine.
- 3) Other sciences such as biology, agriculture.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

These sessions are to be followed by a public session at which prominent speakers will discuss international aspects of science. Dr. Grundfest agreed to send us an outline of the session with the suggested papers and speakers at each session.

The following motions were made, seconded and carried:

- 1) That we accept in principle the plans to be worked out by Dr. Grundfest and Mr. Smith.
- 2) That Dr. Grundfest and Mr. Smith be asked to prepare the necessary letters to obtain the chairman and letters and lists for sponsorship.
- 3) That Dr. Grundfest be asked to prepare an outline for the panels he has in mind and suggested participants.
- 4) That Dr. Grundfest and Mr. Smith appoint a working committee to work on the entire program.
- 5) That Dr. Samuel ~~Kaiser~~ be asked to assist the Council in forwarding this program. Mr. Smith was asked to interview Dr. Kaiser. Mr. Smith explained that the question of whether the medical meetings should be held in conjunction with the scientific sessions or the regular congress events would be discussed with Dr. Cannon, Dr. Sigerist and Dr. Stone.

Luncheon

The central theme for the luncheon should be the need for cooperation between our two nations, now and in the post-war world, and the contribution of the Soviet Union in the war.

Corliss Lamont will introduce the chairman and the content of his speech will give the theme of the luncheon which is collaboration between our two countries.

This theme will also be put forward by Mr. Davies who will serve as chairman if possible.

Mrs. Ogden ~~Reid~~. Alternate principal speakers suggested were ~~Lippman~~ ~~Tickes~~,

The next speaker suggested was a business representative.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NY 100-7518

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"Suggestions were Mr. Bernard ~~Baruch~~; Mr. ~~Schley~~, of the ~~American~~ Russian Chamber of Commerce; Mr. J. Borden ~~Harriman~~; Mr. ~~Hopps~~. The theme would be post-war trade relations between the two countries.

It was suggested that we tentatively eliminate a military analyst or member of the general staff as speakers since it would be more important to have a prominent military speaker at the Garden meeting.

It was suggested that Elmer ~~Davis~~ should speak at our luncheon or take some part in the Congress.

Reverend Melish has undertaken to suggest suitable clergymen. The names of Reverend ~~Melish~~, Sr. and Dr. ~~Tobias~~, who is a negro clergyman, were mentioned.

The luncheon is to start at 12:30. Speeches begin at 1:30 and <sup>end</sup> at 3:00. Panels are to start at 3:30.

A motion was made, seconded and carried that the panel committee be empowered, in line with sentiment expressed, to provide the speakers for all meetings, provide the schedules of space, time for speeches, plans for delegations, etc.

Trade Union Panel

It was suggested that Sidney ~~Hillman~~ be one of the speakers; also a representative of management. Mr. Smith will submit by next week an outline of the Trade Union Panel.

Nationalities

The Nationalities Panel is to consist of two or three principal papers covering the following topics: the accomplishments of the Soviet Union in handling its nationality problems; Dr. Arthur Upham Pope was suggested to make this talk.

A second paper to be read by an anthropologist on racial theories. Speakers suggested were Dr. Ruth ~~Benedict~~, Dr. ~~Alex~~ ~~Hrdlicka~~, , Dr. ~~Ashley~~ ~~Montague~~.

A paper by Rabbi Wise on the Jewish question.

These papers are to be followed by brief talks by prominent Americans representing the border countries including Czech, Pole, Yugoslav, one or two Baltic representatives and German.

- 1) The contribution of American women in the winning of the war. Persons suggested Mrs. Ogden Reid.
- 2) Soviet women in the war. Persons suggested: Ella ~~Winter~~, Anna Louise ~~Strong~~, ~~Petrova~~.
- 3) Women in industry; Mary ~~Anderson~~ of the War Manpower Commission, who will cover trade union and child care.

On the Soviet paper the basic theme should be the role of Soviet women in war and industry, with special attention to child care in the Soviet Union. A Soviet student will talk on her personal experiences as a member of a Soviet family.

It was felt that the problem of Child Care in the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. would be covered in the two major papers. Dean ~~Gilder~~-sleeve was also to be included as a speaker if possible.

It was suggested that the following guests sit on the platform: representative from WACS, WAVES, SPARS, A.W.V.S., Red Cross, Negro, representatives from Y.W.C.A. and representatives from American Theater Wing.

Item 46 was obtained which is a copy of the August 1943 issue of the "News Letter" of the subject organization. The following pertinent items are reported:

" On July 16, 1943 the Musicians Committee of the National Council sponsored a program which consisted in the making of recordings by outstanding American stage and radio artists for an album of entertainment to be shipped to the Russian Army.

The Second Congress of American Soviet Friendship to be held November 16, 1943 was announced.

The National Maritime Union convention held in New York City in July 1943 endorsed the National Council's program.

The formation of a society of Friends of the U.S.S.R. in Costa Rica was announced. Dr. VINCENT ~~X~~ CASTRO was reported to be the chairman.

In its editorial column the local councils were asked to urge its friends to urge the development of unity at home in order to make possible the full Second Front. "

Item 47 was obtained which is a copy of the Council Bulletin, Volume 1, No. 2, dated August 15, 1943, in which the following pertinent matters are discussed:

" The religion and anti-Soviet propaganda program was discussed by Reverend William Howard Holish, chairman of the Religious Committee.

The local councils were urged to take action in regard to the Max ~~X~~ Eastman article which appeared in the ~~X~~ Leaders Digest, July 1943; to arrange for the distribution of the "News Letter" to important local committees; to affiliate themselves with the National Council and to set Item 51 is a copy of the minutes of the Steering Committee of the National Council held November 22, 1943, as follows:

"Present: Corliss Lamont, Edwin S. Smith, Samuel B. Leavin, Jessica Smith, Theodore Bayer, Franklin Folsom, Nan Golden

A motion was seconded and carried to adopt the minutes of the preceeding Steering Committee meeting.

A motion was seconded and carried to accept the application for affiliation from the Paterson, New Jersey and New Orleans Councils.

A motion was seconded and carried to request further information from the Tampa Committee before granting request for affiliation.

There was considerable discussion on the new tasks of the National Council. The sense of this discussion was that the National Council be geared toward greater activity in the field with the department heads working directly with the local councils and with Eva Budd..

Additional divisions to be added to the Council are:

- a) Science Division
- b) Trade Union Division
- c) Education Division
- d) Women's Division

Mr. Smith requested the Steering Committee to consider engaging an assistant who will take over the promotion and public relations

"work of the Council as well as some of the organizational responsibilities, which now take up much of his time. Mr. Smith stated that such an assistant would leave him more time to make important new contacts as well as leave him free to raise large sums of money for the Council.

In endorsing Mr. Smith's proposal for a new assistant, Miss Jessica Smith stated that such an assistant could help in the production of pamphlets and while she will continue to give as much help as heretofore, she has long felt that the pamphlet production should stem directly from the office.

A motion was seconded and carried to grant increases in salary to the following staff members:

May Marcus	$5.00
Elizabeth Hoos	5.00
Rose Schwartzstein	2.50
Hannah Stern	5.00

John Darr	Edwin S. Smith
Franklin Folsom	Jessica Smith
Corliss Baront	Maxine Wood

Mr. Smith reported briefly on the Council's plans for the forthcoming year.

Jessica Smith reported that pamphlets on Soviet Agriculture and Soviet Democracy, both by Anna Louise Strong, were in process of preparation and that the pamphlet on Soviet Agriculture was almost complete. Also in contemplation was a pamphlet on American-Soviet relations.

" John Darr suggested that a pamphlet should be prepared on religion in the Soviet Union. It was decided that Mr. Smith should talk to Mr. Melish on this subject. It was felt that the pamphlet should be factual and not argumentative. Mr. Darr suggested that the actual role of the ministers and the role of the church in Soviet life should be described.

Mr. Leavin reported on suggestions for nation-wide celebrations of Red Army Day.

A motion was seconded and carried that we accept in principle the idea of making Red Army Day the occasion for celebrations throughout the nation.

Mr. Leavin reported on Hannah Dorner's memorandum on the proposed 'picture-book' on the Soviet Union. Copy of the memorandum is attached to the minutes in the files. It was decided that Mr. Leavin should sound out publishers on the suggested book. It was felt that as a guarantee of good faith a publisher should be willing to make an advance, or post some kind of financial guarantee, that the book would be published if the Council furnished the material contemplated. It was also felt that the publishers should guarantee to print a minimum number of books and that the Council should be specifically given complete editorial control of what material was to go into the book.

A motion was seconded and carried that Goddard Lieberson, James N. Rosenberg and Mr. Salocovic be invited to become members of the Executive Board. A motion was seconded and carried that Herman Shumlin be invited to become a member of the Executive Board.

Mr. Leavin gave a brief financial report showing that the unencumbered balance in the treasury as of December 1, 1943 was approximately $5500.00.

A motion was seconded and carried that a letter be sent to organizational delegates to the Congress other than Trade Union delegates requesting a report of what steps their organizations had taken to carry out the proposals of the Congress, including in the mailing to the delegates a list of our publications and a copy of the forthcoming pamphlet on the Madison Square Garden and Luncheon proceedings. The letter to the delegates should also indicate with whom in the National Council local groups contemplating the starting of a Council should get in touch. "

February 23, 1944 was announced as the 26th Anniversary of the Red Army. It was suggested that arrangements be made for dinners and special ceremonies to pay tribute to the success of the Red Army. Because February 22, 1943 is Washington's birthday, it was believed that an effective patriotic American Soviet Friendship program can be developed.

" March 8, 1943 was announced as the day celebrated by the women of the Soviet Union as International Women's Day. The National Women's Committee is planning a meeting on March 6, 1943 at Carnegie Hall, New York to pay tribute to the Soviet women's contribution to the war. It was suggested that similar events be held on a local scale and greetings sent from prominent women in each particular community to the women of the Soviet Union.

It was suggested that the local councils communicate with each other. The Chicago Council is reported to be mailing out to all councils statements, publications and publicity material of general interest.

The Councils marked with an asterisk denote the fact that as of December 1, 1943 they were affiliated with the National Council of American Soviet Friendship headquarters in New York.

The aforementioned Council Bulletin reported that a medical motion picture entitled "Experiments in the Revival of Organisms" demonstrating experiments in the Soviet Institute of Experimental Biology at Moscow, was announced as being available for use by local councils.

It was announced that the American Russian Institute had published a syllabus and a bibliography on the Soviet Union Today.

It was announced that a Yiddish translation of the Constitution of the U.S.S.R. had been published.

It was announced that the Nationalities Division of the Council sponsored a meeting December 19, 1943 at Town Hall, New York in which the true feeling of the Polish people toward the Soviet Union was discussed together with "That is America's Stake in Polish-Soviet Collaboration". It was suggested that the local councils cooperate with Polish groups in their communities to hold similar meetings.

Report of Special Agent WILLIAM F. NORTON, Jr., dated January 31, 1944, at New York, New York.

Through a highly confidential source, the following material was obtained: u 4/17/46 SFSC 10ms 770099

A memorandum dated October 28, 1943, dealing with the establishment of a permanent organization for American-Soviet cooperation. This memorandum reflected that JOSEPH E. DAVIS, as Honorary Chairman of the patrons of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, had no responsibility for any permanent organization. It was planned to form a Committee for American-Soviet cooperation, the main function of which would be to look over the entire field of American-Soviet relations and to make suggestions for the most effective way of furthering American-Soviet cooperation, and understanding. This Committee was to decide the necessity for establishing an entirely new organization and also of naming it. It was proposed to make a definite attempt to

CURRENT ACTIVITY

Confidential Informant   whose identity is known to the Bureau, furnished a letter dated January 26, 1944 on the stationery of the CCASF signed by WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director. Inasmuch as this letter outlines apparent policies and publicity, it is being quoted as follows:

"Dear Friend:

"We hope you will be able to use the enclosed tickets for the showing of THE NORTH STAR, a thrilling portrayal of a Russian village battling against the Germans from behind their lines, this Friday evening, January 28 at the Palace Theater. You will be interested in our striking exhibit in the lobby.

"We have just published our first booklet, 'The Businessman's Stake in American-Soviet Friendship,' by Harland H. Allen. Within the next couple of weeks we expect to publish another booklet, which will list the outstanding men who have consented to join our Speakers Bureau. A copy will be sent you when it appears.

"The Council is constantly expanding its activities in Chicago to make widely available the facts about Russia.

"We hope your interest in American-Soviet friendship as the key to world peace and progress will prompt you to send us a contribution — in view of the great importance of the cause, as substantial as you can possibly make it — towards our 1944 budget. Such contributions are deductible in computing the federal income tax.

"Yours sincerely,

"William Card
Executive Director."

On January 28, 1944, Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, furnished the following information:

Dr. WILLIAM CARD was approached with the request to give a lecture on February 20, 1944. He advised ESTHER NIX of the Abraham Lincoln School, a reported Communist Front, that he is not a member of their Speakers Bureau. He went on to state that he is not going to speak for any other Speakers Bureau except the Speakers Bureau of the CCASF. The organization (referring to the CCASF) is a new organization and it must be made clear to the public that the Chicago Council of the American-Soviet Friendship exists. He also wants it to become well-known to the public that he is the Executive Director of the Council.

b7D

It is noted that Confidential Informants of this office including [redacted] whose identities are known to the Bureau, reported that WILLIAM CARD has been ill for the past few weeks. The Informants report that this accounts for the apparent inactivity of the organization.

PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN - AMERICAN-SOVIET RELATIONS

b7D

With regard to the report by Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, that the Council wishes to make it known to the public, it is noted that the following letter was written by HARLAND H. ALLEN, Acting Chairman, CCASF to the Editorial Departments of both the "Chicago Tribune" on January 25, 1944 and the "Chicago Sun" on January 28, 1944:

"I believe that all Americans who wish to preserve the United Nations as a bulwark for postwar peace would do well to assume a reversal of the present situation before passing judgment on Russia's recent publication of a rumor of a German-British meeting to discuss termination of the war.

"Assume that the United States had been 'expending' 80 per cent of the casualties of the common war and 90 per cent of the property destruction for 2½ years. . . . Assume that meanwhile a substantial anti-American press within our Allied countries had kept up continuous propaganda designed to undermine confidence in us. . . . Assume also that a question of our postwar boundaries with a certain country had arisen and that our chief allies were now offering to mediate as to whether we give up territory populated largely by Americans which had been under the American flag for centuries and had been taken from us by force at the end of the last war.

"Under such circumstances, would the rest of the world be warranted in assuming that we had abandoned all desire for collaboration if our press published as rumor a report from 'usually reliable sources' that high personages from an allied country had had secret peace-feeler meetings with an enemy official? Would world public opinion be warranted in assuming our perfidy to the common cause if we used such a report as prod or pressure on our allies to be more considerate of our historic and ethnic rights in boundary questions and to speed up their participation in the blood-cost of emancipation from Nazi oppression?

"I believe that the answer is plain — that the press of the United States might actually be less moderate than Pravda in the handling of such a report under such circumstances.

"HARLAND H. ALLEN,
Acting Chairman, Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Chicago."

Along with the letter furnished by Confidential Informant [ ] were enclosed two tickets for SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S "North Star" good at the RKO Palace Theatre, Randolph and La Salle Streets on January 28, 1944. On the back of these tickets was stamped "Distributed by Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 135 South La Salle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois."

Source of Information A advised that he attended the Palace Theatre on Friday, January 28, 1944. A small display stand on the left side of the theatre in the entrance lobby was maintained by the CCASF on that evening. Early in the evening, about 7:30 p.m., it was attended by two people. The display consisted of about fifteen books in one row surrounded by ten or twelve sets of pamphlets. At approximately 10:30 p.m., the time Source A left the theatre, it was noted that practically all of the books and pamphlets still remained in the display. There appeared to be small interest in the display of the Council inasmuch as no people were noted at the display desk either around 7:20 to 7:30 p.m. or at approximately 10:30 p.m. At the time Source A left the theatre at approximately 10:30 p.m., only one person was left at the display table. The identities of neither of the people in attendance at the display stand were known to this Source of Information. Inasmuch as it appeared that no particular seating facilities were given to those people entering on the tickets given out by the CCASF and also due to the fact that on this same day, the Chicago Committee for Russian War Relief were giving out similar tickets, Source A was unable to ascertain the extent of the people attending the movie on complimentary tickets of the CCASF.

The tickets furnished by [ ] together with the Letter are being placed in the 1-A Serial of instant file.

Special Agent WILLIAM L. RYAN of the Chicago Field Division, advised that while visiting the Observatory of the Board of Trade Building in Chicago, Illinois, he had found two pamphlets distributed by the CCASF. One is entitled, "America and Russia" by CORLISS LAMONT and the other is an open letter to the American People on American-Soviet Friendship with an introduction by CORLISS LAMONT. These pamphlets have been previously mentioned in reports concerning this organization. The two pamphlets found by Special Agent RYAN will be filed in the 1-A Serial of this file.

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, made available a pamphlet issued by the National Council for American-Soviet Friendship, listing the following educational services:

b7D

- 1 - Exhibits. This section was described as numerous photographic exhibits on many phases of Soviet life. Previous reports indicate that such a service has already been initiated in the New York Field Division and it is noted that this pamphlet indicates it is the plan of the Council to send these exhibits all over the United States.
- 2 - Films. Informants have also reported that the Council has been used by such organizations as the IWO for the obtaining of various films. Their pamphlets list a wide variety of features and shorts, both 16 and 35 millimeter, silent and sound.
- 3 - Pamphlets and Books. This is described as a reading list selected according to importance, popularity, price, and availability. It also advises that they have in preparation a series of pamphlets under the Council's imprint. It is here noted that one of the new pamphlets has recently been issued by the Chicago Council and another is contemplated. Copies of these pamphlets will be obtained by this Field Division in the near future.

In regard to the reading list of pamphlets and books, the following books and pamphlets were noted by Source of Information A on display at the previously mentioned display stand at the RKO Palace Theatre, Chicago, Illinois on January 28, 1944. These books are also listed in a pamphlet entitled, "Know the U.S.S.R." which was made available for inspection by Confidential Informant [ ] Under the caption "A-Basic General Information" were listed the following:

72219

Chicago File No. 100-3810

"Soviet Power" and "The Communist Sixth of the World" by the Rev. HELWETT JOHNSON, the Dean of Canterbury.

"Constitution of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic" published by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in 1943.

"Land of the Soviets" by NICHOLAS MICHAILOV

Under the caption "B-On Soviet Foreign Policy" were listed:

"Mission to Moscow" by JOSEPH E. DAVIES

Under the caption "C-The Soviet People at War" were listed:

"Russia's Fighting Forces" by Capt. SERGEI N. KOURNAKOFF

"Mother Russia" by MAURICE HINDUS.

In the same pamphlet issued by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is listed the previously mentioned educational services and a list of special activities in which they desire all their chapters to participate as follows:

1. American-Soviet War Exhibit
2. Tokens of Friendship - these are described as tokens of friendship to be sent to people of corresponding Soviet Communities by communities in the United States.
3. Correspondence - it is noted that this program has already been undertaken by the CCASF as previously reported and they have initiated a program of sending post cards to Red Army Soldiers or workers in the USSR.
4. Friendship Pin
5. Essay Contest

Inasmuch as this list of educational aims and activities is planned by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, the activities of the Chicago Council will be closely watched in order to obtain information concerning their participation in these activities.

Honorable Adolf A. Berle, Jr.
Assistant Secretary of State Department of State
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Berle:

This Bureau has been advised of information concerning a series of celebrations to be held under the sponsorship of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., during the week beginning February 21, 1944, in New York City. These celebrations are in honor of the twenty-sixth anniversary of "Red Army Day."

It is reported that there will be a "Salute to the Red Army Dinner" at the Hotel Commodore February 21, 1944. Speakers scheduled for this dinner are Major General James Ulio, United States Army; Lieutenant General Rudenko, Russian Army; Colonel Kenneth MacKessack, British Military Attache; Major General A. H. Gatehouse, British Army, D.S.O., M.C.; Max Werner; Dr. Walter B. Cannon and Franchot Tene.

It is further reported that there will be an exhibit of Soviet war posters and a meeting in tribute to Soviet artists at the Vanderbilt Galleries in New York City on February 23, 1944. There the speakers will be Paul Manship, Arthur Upham Pope, and Leonid Malov.

On February 27, 1944, there will be an affair sponsored by the Nationalities Groups Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship at the Majestic Theatre. In this instance the speakers are to be Senator James E. Murray, Captain Belevkov of the Soviet Embassy, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Ladue, United States Army, the Honorable Harel Hugel, Consul General of the Czechoslovakian Republic, Professor Ignace Zlotowski, Zlatko Balokovic and Edwin S. Smith.

According to the reports, there will also be special window displays which have been arranged for in eight New York City department stores. Arrangements also include feature stories to be placed with the United Press Features, North American Newspaper Alliance and the NEA Service, Inc. It is also said that war plant ceremonies are scheduled for the Moray Machine Shops and the Sperry Gyroscope Company. Nine neighborhood mass meetings are also planned in the metropolitan area and arrangements are said to have been made for curtain speeches at Broadway shows, as well as the playing of the new Soviet national anthem by orchestras at New York hotels. It is said that the American Theater Wing has set aside February 23, 1944, for a nationwide series of Red Army programs in various Stage Door Canteens.

As additional details are received, they will be brought to your attention.

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-
SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.
INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

The following information regarding the mass meeting held by the San Francisco Council of American-Soviet Friendship on February 22, 1944, is forwarded in response to your teletype request of February 22.

Confidential Informant   advised this office on February 1, 1944, that JERRY FEINGOLD, a former member of the Communist Party known to be sympathetic with the Party at present, called HERBERT RESNER, Communist Party attorney and member of the Southside Club of the Communist Party in San Francisco in an effort to make arrangements for a meeting in the celebration of GEORGE WASHINGTON's birthday and the 26th anniversary of the Red Army on February 22, 1944. FEINGOLD, representing the Russian-American Society, advised RESNER that the Society would do all the work of sending out letters, distributing posters and otherwise obtaining publicity and only desired the name of the Council of Soviet-American Friendship for sponsorship purposes. RESNER, who is the San Francisco Chairman of the Council, advised that such was the only arrangement that could be accepted by his group in view of the fact that the Council is newly organized and has only one employee. However, RESNER advised FEINGOLD that he would endeavor to secure the services of the Attorney General of California, ROBERT KENNY, as a speaker. (C) (U)

b7D

Posters were distributed in streetcars and in local shops and the joint meeting of the two organizations was extensively advertised throughout the city. The meeting was held in the Scottish Rite Auditorium in San Francisco with an attendance of approximately 1,000, almost entirely composed of Russian and Jewish elements. The stage had a large picture of a Red Army soldier in the background with the flags of the various united nations massed across the stage. At the left hand corner of the stage was a large picture of GEORGE WASHINGTON and at the right hand corner a large picture of Marshal STALIN.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 p.m. by VICTOR ARNAUTOFF, President of the Russian-American Society and a member of the Northside Club of the San Francisco County Communist Party. After a few introductory remarks the meeting was turned over to HERBERT RESNER as Chairman of the American-Soviet Friendship Council, who acted as

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

SAC, New York

Chairman for the evening. RESNER is a member of the Southside Club of the San Francisco Communist Party.

A color guard from the U. S. Army and ~~from a~~ Soviet ship which was in port brought the American and Soviet flags to the platform. The Star Spangled Banner and the Internationale were sung, and Professor HOLLAND ROBERTS of Stanford University was introduced as the featured speaker of the evening. Dr. ROBERTS made a twenty minute address, pointing out the fact that the Soviet Union and the United States have common interests and no interests at dispute, and gave a lengthy purported historical documentation of the assistance rendered the United States by the Soviet Union from the time of the Revolutionary War until the present. ROBERTS also pointed out the necessity for everyone present educating his friends regarding the necessity for cooperation with the Soviet Union and concluded with a reminder that the Soviet Union was the only major nation of the world with whom the United States had never been at war.

Representatives of the British, Norwegian, Greek and Swedish Consulates were then introduced and the Soviet Vice Consul in San Francisco, GREGORY KHEIFETS, was presented to the crowd. None of the foregoing made a speech, however.

JACOB LOMAKIN, Soviet Consul General in San Francisco, then made a fifteen minute address in Russian hailing the Red Army and presenting facts and figures regarding its achievements during the last year. LOMAKIN also called for unity to stamp out Fascism in the world today. His speech was translated into English by LYDIA VARNAUTOFF, the wife of the President of the Russian-American Society and a member of the Northside Club of the Communist Party.

The meeting was then turned over to TOM BOYLAN, organizer of the Seamen's Section of the San Francisco County Communist Party, who serves as a patrolman for the National Maritime Union in this port. BOYLAN praised the NMU non-strike policy and claimed that the organization was a true Democracy with no racial prejudices whatsoever. He then violently denounced the Fascists in the United States and stated that peace would be brought to the world much sooner if the United States would exterminate such individuals as MARTIN DIES, HERBERT HOOVER and Colonel ROBERT MC CORMICK in a move such as was made by Soviet Russia in clearing its country of internal Fascism. BOYLAN then requested donations from the audience to support the work of the Council of American-Soviet Friendship and the Russian-American Society and approximately $700 was collected. BOYLAN is frequently called upon for making collection speeches and is considered to be an expert in this line by the Communist Party of San Francisco.

The Chairman, HERBERT RESNER, then read a telegram to be sent to Marshal STALIN congratulating the Red Army in the name of 1,000 San Franciscans. The sending of this telegram was approved by a show of hands.

After a short speech by MOISE BOXER of the Russian-American Society urging the purchase of War Bonds so that a hospital plan could be sent to Russia in the name of the Russian American Society.

The entertainment program of the evening was presented. This consisted of four songs by the Jewish folk chorus in Russian and in Jewish and several vaudeville skits put on by the Fourth Army Air Corps. No known Communists other than already mentioned were noticed in the audience, although the PEOPLE'S WORLD, San Francisco equivalent of the DAILY WORKER, enjoyed a considerable sale at the door of the Auditorium. Literature which was distributed included the announcement of a preview of a motion picture "Experiments in the Revival of Organisms", which is to be shown at the YWCA auditorium in San Francisco on Sunday evening, February 27, 1944.

The San Francisco Field Division will continue to follow the activities of the San Francisco Council of American-Soviet Friendship and will include the foregoing information in the next report on this group.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

Detroit Chapter sponsored American-Soviet Friendship Rally November 14, 1943, attended by 5000 persons. Main speaker was Congressman JOHN MAINE COFFEE who pointed out the racial discriminations and the mistakes of capitalism in this country and stated we have much to learn from the examples set by Russia. Rally was directed by MARY PIRINSKY, then Executive Secretary of Detroit Chapter, who was guided by local COMMUNIST PARTY functionaries. Expense money borrowed from Wayne County CIO Council. PIRINSKY resigned as Executive Secretary due to poor health. Her successor will probably be MIRIAM WELLINGTON, former YOUNG COMMUNIST LEAGUE member. Names of officers and board members set out. Organization has permanent quarters in Fox Theatre Building, Detroit.

organization at 928 Fox Theatre Building. This invitation was extended by MRS. MINNA AGINS who advised Informant T-1 that she would be received at the office by MRS. GEORGE PIRINSKY who was employed full time.

b7D

The name on the office door of the organization at that time was "American-Soviet Friendship Rally," and the letterhead of the organization pointed out that its purpose was to "commemorate the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations and the twenty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic."

Informant T-1 stated that MARY PIRINSKY was in full charge of the office and was being paid as an executive of the organization. Informant also noted that MARY PIRINSKY'S husband, GEORGE PIRINSKY, is active in the organization and is also on a committee, "Salute to Our Soviet Ally." The office space in the Fox Theatre Building consists of one room with a partition in the middle. Assisting MARY PIRINSKY was SALLY TOULOFF who is MRS. AGINS' niece and who is in Detroit for the duration. Her home is in New York City. The officers of the "Salute to Our Soviet Ally" group were as follows:

ABNER W. LARNED, Chairman
JUDGE PATRICK O'BRIEN, Vice Chairman
AARON ROSENBERG, Committee Member
(ROSENBERG is head of all Jewish organizations in Detroit)
GEORGE PIRINSKY, Committee Member

COMMUNIST PARTY INFLUENCE

From a confidential source a photograph of Check Number 281 of the COMMUNIST PARTY dated March 31, 1942, over the signature of PAT TOOMEY, Michigan State Secretary, disclosed that the Party had paid to the AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS $6.37. From the same source there was received a photograph of another check from the COMMUNIST PARTY drawn to the AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS on December 7, 1942, Check Number 292, in the amount of $48.00.

Bureau Confidential Informant [REDACTED] attended a meeting of Branch 4, Section 8 of the COMMUNIST PARTY held at 6551 Central Avenue, Detroit, on September 3, 1942. At this meeting the pamphlet, "The Trade Unions of Our Soviet Ally," by CLIFFORD T. McAVOY, published by AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS in New York City was sold to the members.

b7D

From a highly confidential source in Washington, D. C. it was learned that GEORGE ADDES, Secretary-Treasurer of the United Automobile Workers, had requested an "Information Bulletin" from the NATIONAL COUNCIL of AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and that the list of those making this request including ADDES' name was transmitted by EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director and the Counsel to the Press Division of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C., on September 16, 1943.

(De 100-2891)

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] on September 28, 1943, reported that PAT TOOHEY, Michigan State Secretary of the COMMUNIST PARTY, and MARY PIRINSKY, Executive Secretary of the Detroit Chapter, Subject Organization, discussed plans for a rally which was to be held on November 14, 1943. TOOHEY inquired as to whether the "call" had gone out and was advised that it had and that a letter for a meeting had been sent to various organizations and church people. PIRINSKY stated that several people had called her and had agreed to be sponsors, including FRANK X. MARTEL. GEORGE PIRINSKI was also present at this conference and advised TOOHEY that she (referring to MARY) had talked with JOHN ANDERSON and FRED SWEET who had advised that the United Automobile Workers people were tied up with the national convention of that union, but that GEORGE PIRINSKY had talked with PAT QUINN who had agreed to attend a meeting which was to be held in Room 601 of the YWCA.

TOOHEY wanted a report as to the members in the trade union field who would be circularized, and MARY PIRINSKY replied that they were the top leaders of the UAW, part of the UAW Locals, and the main people of the trade unions who were on the CIVIL RIGHTS FEDERATION list. She stated that the letter had gone also to the fur workers, the rubber workers, and to about ten AF of L people. She stated that she had some more of the signed letters, and TOOHEY suggested that SAM (probably SAM MINGROM, Regional Director of the INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' ORDER) should get JOHNNIE ISAACS to give him some names in AF of L for the purpose of sending letters to those individuals inasmuch as JOHNNIE is in charge of the AF of L work. TOOHEY further suggested that they send a letter to CHRIS ALSTON and to one ZUCKERMAN of ILG who had endorsed the previous conference. TOOHEY further stated that HICKS would be able to furnish the names of some teamsters and carpenters who would be very good and that MARY should check with the Russian War Relief office for names of their good workers in the AF of L. MARY stated that the UAW people failed to hold a meeting about October 15 so that they would be in on the ground floor and that she thought such a meeting should be called.

MARY stated that she had sent copies to BUCKLEY of Local 742 UAW, TAPPES (SHELTON TAPPES, Recording Secretary for Ford Local 600, UAW), GRANT (WILLIAM G. GRANT of Ford Local 600), and LLEWELLYN (PERCY LLEWELLYN, formerly president of Ford Local 600).

TOOHEY wanted to know if "that girl" was here. MARY said that she was out of town until Wednesday and would be here Thursday and Friday. It is believed that they were referring to EVE BUDD of the field staff of Subject Organization who works out of New York City contacting the organization's branches throughout the country. MARY reported that everything was shaping well and that her only concern was the proposition for donations which could be made in advance. TOOHEY stated that they should fix a time to raise that question at the first meeting Friday and could have it underwritten to some extent. As will be pointed out later, the rally was "underwritten" to the extent of $1000.00 loaned from the Wayne County CIO Council. MARY PIRINSKY wanted someone to contact R. J. THOMAS, President of the United Automobile Workers who was at that time at the Buffalo Convention of the UAW, and PAT suggested that the girl who is believed to be EVE BUDD could handle that problem because she is in the national office.

TOOHEY specifically pointed out that MARY should depend a whole lot on SAM MILGROM and JACK RASKIN, the latter being the Communist Executive Secretary of the Michigan CIVIL RIGHTS FEDERATION. TOOHEY directed that before the general meeting which MARY intended to call, they should hold a little caucus meeting with RASKIN, MILGROM, GEORGE and MARY PIRINSKY.

Following this conference Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on October 15, 1943, JACK RASKIN was invited to sit in on a committee meeting to be held in Room 900 of the Hofmann Building, Detroit, which is the local headquarters of the Michigan Committee of the AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS, directed by MARY'S husband, GEORGE PIRINSKY. The same Informant also reported that PAT TOOHEY was present at a similar meeting at the same place on October 30.

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on October 22, 1943, ANN BEISWINGER, District Organizer for the COMMUNIST PARTY of Michigan, dictated a note to an individual identified only as RUTH in which she requested RUTH to organize something extremely important and to get between ten and fifteen girls and report to MARY PIRINSKY at the Council office in the Fox Theatre Building.

b7D

On October 15, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau advised that an unknown individual requested THOMAS A. DOMBROWSKI, Communist "Daily Worker" representative in this district and English-page editor of the Communist inclined Polish newspaper, "GLOS LUDOWY," to inform WLADISLAW KUCHARSKI, the editor of "Glos Ludowy," that the AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP COMMITTEE was having a luncheon at the YMCA on the following Monday at 12:30 p.m.

On November 5, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, attended a meeting of club presidents of the COMMUNIST PARTY at COMMUNIST PARTY headquarters. During the discussion it was stated that MARY PIRINSKY had indicated the ticket sale for the coming rally on November 14 was very small and that they feared the worst. Following this announcement ANN BEISWINGER directed that the clubs were to sell at least 1000 tickets to this rally.

(De 100-2891)

On November 6, 1943, [ ] advised that GEORGE PIRINSKY had been contacting various people and requesting that they pledge $5.00 each to guarantee the loan of $1000.00 from the Wayne County CIO Council to the COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. At that time he announced that he had obtained the guarantee of DR. U. T. OSOWSKI, President of the Michigan Committee of the AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS, but that he felt that "some of our people should be approached." THOMAS X. DOMBROWSKI volunteered to pledge $5.00 for himself, for HENRY PODOLSKI (alien Communist and employee of "Glos Ludowy"), and for WLADISLAW KUCHARSKI, editor of "Glos Ludowy."

b7D

On November 6, 1943, Informant [ ] reported that GEORGE PIRINSKY, in order to guarantee the loan of $1000.00 from the Wayne County Council to Subject Organization, was attempting to get twenty people to pledge $5.00 each to meet any deficit which might arise. PIRINSKY made the statement to TOM DOMBROWSKI that the rally was proceeding well but they were still trying to locate an outstanding speaker. The ticket sale was reported as slow, with the AF of L doing better than the CIO. PIRINSKY stated that in his opinion "our people" had been falling down on the job. DOMBROWSKI agreed to announce the rally at a meeting which he planned to attend that evening.

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau furnished a copy of a mimeographed letter sent by ANN BEISWENGER on November 9, 1943, addressed "Dear Comrades," in which she pointed out that "it has come to our attention that the advance ticket sales for the American-Soviet Friendship Rally to be held Sunday, November 14, at 2:30 p.m. has been very negligible, thus endangering the success of this very important rally."

b7D

"We urge you to do everything humanly possible by way of ticket sales and distribution of publicity materials to help ensure a successful rally in keeping with the importance of this occasion."

On November 9, 1943, Informant [ ] advised that JACK RASKIN volunteered his help to MARY PIRINSKY and that she agreed that she needed his help, especially on the matter of publicity for the rally.

b7D

Following the rally, which as will be pointed out later in this report, was a huge success from the Communist standpoint, Informant [ ] on November 15, 1943, reported that BARNET CRUMP, member of the State Committee of the COMMUNIST PARTY, discussed with ANN BEISWENGER the rally held the previous day at which time they both agreed that the absence of a ticket line outside the rally "as there would have been in the old days" showed real progress.

b7D

Informant [ ] on November 17, 1943, was present during a conversation between DAVID McKELVEY WHITE, District Educational Director,

(De 100-2891)

District 7, COMMUNIST PARTY, and MARY PIRINSKY, at which time he stated that he wanted to be the first to congratulate her on the attendance at the rally. MARY wanted to account for all money for tickets sold and mentioned that heavy expenses had been incurred. WHITE advised that he was instructed to tell her to attend a meeting the following afternoon at 2:00 o'clock for the purpose of reporting. Someone from the East was scheduled to be present, and this was one of the purposes of the meeting. MARY was instructed to contact KATIE LEE, receptionist at COMMUNIST PARTY headquarters, the following day in order to find out the meeting place; and it was learned at that time that the meeting was scheduled at the home of NAT GANLEY, member of the COMMUNIST PARTY Buro and Committee of five in the Michigan District, at [redacted] MARY pointed out that she had to pay the internal revenue tax, at which time WHITE remarked he did not know just when the money would be ready, thereby inferring that the COMMUNIST PARTY was handling the receipts from the rally. WHITE and PIRINSKY both seemed well satisfied with the results of the rally and expressed their relief. WHITE then asked whether she knew a man named FARRELL. MARY indicated that she knew a Reverend KIRK O'FARRELL. WHITE indicated that he thought it would be a good idea to try to draw this individual in more, especially in the follow-up work such as that which MARY was going to do. WHITE planned to see O'FARRELL himself and suggest to him that he should do whatever he can in this direction.

On December 2, 1943, Confidential Informant T-2 exhibited a canceled check of the INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' ORDER dated November 26, 1943, Check Number 2248, signed by SAM MILGROM and payable to the American-Soviet Friendship Rally Committee in the amount of $103.50. This check was endorsed by MARY PIRINSKY as Executive Secretary of the Rally Committee.

On December 17, 1943, JERRY BOYD, District "Daily Worker" Director, advised Confidential Informant [redacted] that ROBERT LAKE is very liberal and had been working very closely with the Communists on the rally of the DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

On January 19, 1944, Informant [redacted] advised that JACK PASKIN was invited to attend an executive board meeting to be held in the Fox Theatre Building offices that afternoon at which a regional director whose name was not disclosed to Informant was to be present.

b7D

On October 9, 1943, Confidential Informant [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau stated that MRS. MINNA AGINS and MRS. OSWALD GRUZHIT of Meadow Lane, Grosse Pointe, Michigan, were very active in the organization and were both extreme leftists. MRS. GRUZHIT'S husband is a physician who is associated with Park Davis and Company in Detroit. Informant described MRS. AGINS as highly emotional, very pro-Russian, and stated that she had relatives in Russia about whom she cries all the time. She stated that she had lived in Russia, speaks the language, and regards it as her homeland. She has strong sentimental attachments and believes that America should follow the Russian experiment. She is a close follower of JACK and MILDRED RASKIN, both of whom are known Communists. She has stated to Informant that she and her friends were good friends of AL KAHN, editor of "The Hour," and that she is also very active in Russian war relief work.

ORGANIZATIONAL ACTIVITIES

On October 12, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, furnished a letter dated September 25 on the letterhead of the Initiating Committee for "Salute to Our Soviet Ally," 928 Fox Building, Detroit. This letter points out that November 7 and 18 have special significance for the people of America, the first date being the twenty-sixth anniversary of Russian independence, and the second marking a decade of friendly relations "between our country and our brave Soviet ally." The letter also stated that it was felt that it would be a fitting tribute to the magnificent contributions of "our Soviet ally" to mark these two important November dates with a "salute to our Soviet ally," and that this letter was an invitation to the recipient as an outstanding leader of this community to attend a preliminary meeting to be held Friday, October 1, at 8:00 p.m., in Room 601 of the Y.M.C.A., 2230 Witherell Street, to consider the means and methods of organizing such an observance and to thereby make a vital contribution to understanding and friendship. A card was inclosed with the letter, asking the recipient to agree to serve as a sponsor if for any reason they could not attend this meeting. The letter was signed by the following individuals in their official capacities:

b7D

ABNER E. LARNED, Chairman
Reverend FRANCIS B. CREAMER, Christian Church
C. PAUL QUINN, President, Wayne County CIO Council
GEORGE PIRINSKY, Executive Secretary, Michigan
Slav Congress
MRS. MINNA AGINS, Secretary, Detroit Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that he received a copy of the above letter and that he attended this meeting on October 1 at the Y.M.C.A. At this meeting there was distributed a piece of literature entitled "Call to the Congress of the American-Soviet Friendship, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, November 6, 7, 8, at the Hotel New Yorker, Madison

b7D

(De 100-2891)

Square Gardens, New York." A mass meeting was scheduled for Madison Square Gardens on November 8, at 7:30 p.m. Informant  recognized the following individuals who were present at this meeting:

b7D

MRS. MINNA AGINS
GEORGE PIRINSKY
PATRICK V. McNAMARA
EVE BUDD
JUDGE PATRICK O'BRIEN
REVEREND MERRILL O. BATES
JACK RASKIN
GLOSTER CURRENT MIRIAM WELLINGTON
MARTHA FARKAS GLICHER
LEIGHTON DINGLEY
DON THURBER
DR. JACOB AGINS

At this meeting MRS. AGINS spoke frequently, and the discussion was led generally by MARY PIRINSKY. MRS. AGINS made the statement that the Council would lend everything, including its secretary, its office, and its finances to the "Salute to Our Soviet Ally" program. There was a large sum of money pledged at this meeting. Announcement was made that there was to be a function at the Masonic Temple on November 14, which function was not further described but which date is now known to correspond to that on which the rally was held. EVE BUDD announced that they were trying to get an exhibit for Detroit, possibly on captured German war material, although no specific mention of the type of exhibit was made.

On October 8, 1943, a letter headed "DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, 928 Fox Theatre Building, telephone Cadillac 2702," over the signature of MINNA AGINS as Executive Secretary, announced the opening of an office at 928 Fox Theatre and also pointed out that MRS. MARY PIRINSKY, "an executive board member, has taken on the full-time responsibility, acting as the secretary for the organization.

"The Council is cooperating with other organizations and a large group of fraternal and civic leaders in undertaking the formulation of a city-wide rally on November 14 in the large auditorium of the Masonic Temple. This American-Soviet Friendship Rally will commemorate the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. The observance will be held throughout the country by the people of our land as a token of friendship and desire for post-war collaboration with our heroic and powerful ally....

"The rally will be held on Sunday, November 14, at 2:30; admission 50¢. As a friend of speedy victory and stable peace, and as one who recognizes how essential American-Soviet collaboration is to both, we ask you to consider the special committees and to call our office and advise Mrs. Pirinsky on which Committee you would like to serve:

Program	Publicity	Finance."
Contact and Arrangements	Speakers Bureau

The letter concluded with the statement that the Council planned to have lectures on the third Friday of each month to be held at the Scarab Club at 217 Farnsworth Street.

A copy of the above letter was also received by Confidential Informant T-1, and in addition T-1 received a letter, this time on the printed stationery of the American-Soviet Friendship Rally, dated October 12, 1943, in which an invitation was extended to attend the next meeting of the Full Arrangements Committee on Monday afternoon, October 18, in Room 601 of the YWCA. This letter was apparently directed to leaders of various organizations inasmuch as it pointed out that "in order that your organization might be represented, could you appoint someone to be present at the October 18 meeting?" (In the event the recipient could not personally be present.)

On October 18, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] advised that GEORGE PIRINSKY had informed KUCHARSKI, previously identified, that the following individuals had joined in sponsoring the rally for American-Soviet friendship:

b7D

MARY SKRZYCKI of Hamtramck,
Michigan
GEORGE C. SADOWSKI, United States
Congressman from Michigan
WALTER REUTHER, Vice President of the United Automobile
Workers of America
GEORGE ADDES, Secretary-Treasurer of the UAW
R. J. THOMAS, President of the UAW

On October 29, 1943, Informant T-1 advised Special Agent EDMUND C. WELTON of the date and place of the rally, adding that as part of the program the organization intended to present a play entitled "My Brother Lives in Stalingrad."

On November 3, 1943, the organization issued a press release announcing the tentative program of the rally and announcing that

(De 100-2891)

MAJOR PAVEL N. ASEEV, Soviet Military Attache in Washington, would bring greetings of the Red Army and that Congressman JOHN M. COFFEE of Tacoma, Washington, principal speaker of the celebration, would talk on the need for cementing closer friendship in war and peace with the Russian people. There was also announced presentation of the dramatic sketch mentioned above by the Detroit Chapter of American Federation of Radio Artists. Continuing, the release pointed out that "united labor support of the rally was guaranteed when both the Wayne County Federation of Labor and the CIO Council endorsed the meeting and joined actively in its preparations. Frank X. Martel, President of the Wayne County Federation of Labor and a representative of the CIO, will bring greetings of Detroit labor to the rally."

An additional release pointed out that Congressman COFFEE was Chairman of the Liberal Bloc of the House of Representatives and had been one of the outstanding supporters of President ROOSEVELT'S measures for winning the war. COFFEE has introduced in the House various resolutions designed to promote better relations between the USA and USSR." Additional sponsors were listed as JOHN W. GIBSON, President of Michigan CIO Council; RICHARD T. FRANKENSTEIN, Vice President of UAW; and JOSEPH D. TWYMAN, President of Ford Local 600, UAW.

The "Detroit News" on November 7, 1943, in an article by PHILIP A. ADLER, played up the rally scheduled for November 14 and printed a long list of sponsors consisting mainly of clergymen. This list is not being set out at this time inasmuch as most of the individuals will be mentioned under the heading "Officers and Board Members" later in this report. The article concluded with the statement that "Detroit's nationality groups have responded to the appeal and will cooperate with the Committee. American-Soviet friendship will be celebrated throughout the week at neighborhood gatherings of the Polish, Ukrainian, Rumanian, Yugoslavian, Czechoslovakian and other nationality groups.

Confidential Informant T-1 furnished a blank letterhead of the Greater Detroit and Wayne County Industrial Union Council, which Informant had received from the Council office in the Fox Theatre building and upon which a letter had been mimeographed at the Soviet Friendship office in the Fox Theatre Building. Informant, however, was unable to secure a copy of the message.

On November 7, 1943, the "Detroit Free Press" newspaper announced the rally, and on November 14, 1943, the same paper repeated its announcement in slightly different form.

On November 9, 1943, GEORGE PIRINSKY, in the presence of Informant , ordered 10,000 leaflets printed from "Glos Ludowy" for the

b7D

(De 100-2891)

American-Soviet Friendship Rally held on November 16, 1943. The same Informant advised that MARY PIRINSKY received a bill for $266.00 for this material.

The American Soviet Friendship Rally followed its previous invitations by letter with a printed postal postmarked on November 9, 1943, urging the attendance, over the printed signature of ABNER E. LARNED as Chairman.

On November 9, 1943, "The Worker" announced the rally of November 14, pointing out that Governor HARRY F. KELLY of Michigan had proclaimed that week "American-Soviet Friendship Week," and had called "upon the citizens to participate in the tenth anniversary events and to pay proper tribute to the devotion, determination, and self-sacrifice of the people of the Soviet Union and their continuing brilliant feats of arms in our common cause."

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished a copy of a letter dated November 9, 1943, on the letterhead of the American-Soviet Friendship Rally, which letter Informant received from the headquarters of the COMMUNIST PARTY at 2419 Grand River Avenue. This letter points out that "you have taken tickets for the American-Soviet Friendship Rally... We hope you have accented the responsibility of these tickets...and that you have sold them so that our speakers Sunday will be greeted with a full house as the occasion demands." The letter concluded with instructions for disposal and accounting for the money and a plea to continue efforts to sell sufficient tickets in order to have a sell-out attendance.

b7D

On November 10, 1943, Confidential Informant [ ] furnished information to the effect that JACK RASKIN had arranged for a Liberator bomber to be used to distribute leaflets for the rally over the city of Detroit and had planned to have photographs taken of OCD's and WAC's. In this connection [ ] on October 29 had advised that RASKIN received advice from DAVID McKELVEY WHITE regarding civil air regulations in connection with dropping campaign literature from an airplane. At this time WHITE, who is a civilian airplane pilot, advised RASKIN that it was illegal to drop anything out of a plane, but that exceptions might be made with joint Army and civil authority. He pointed out, however, that such authority had been obtained to advertise the November 14 rally.

b7D

On January 22, 1944, Confidential Informant [ ] further reported that JACK RASKIN was irritated because $1000.00 which had been raised at an unspecified dinner had been turned over to the COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP rather than to the CIVIL RIGHTS FEDERATION, which had apparently been expecting to receive this money. RASKIN was careful to explain that in his opinion this money was turned over to the Council rather than the Federation through the influence of MAURICE SUGAR, alleged Communist Counsel for the United Automobile Workers of America, who was in turn influenced by his wife, JANE MAYER, who is on the Executive Board of the DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

(De 100-2891)

THE NOVEMBER 14, 1943, RALLY

This rally was attended by several informants of the Detroit Field Division, and their reports are being set out separately with the elimination of duplication.

Report of Informant T-3:

This rally was attended by more than 5000 persons who were estimated to be 80% Jewish and to include 100 Negroes. At the entrance there were eight persons selling Communist literature, the "Daily Worker," "Soviet Power," "Soviet Russia Today," and "Clos Ludowy." One of the sellers was a well-known Hamtramck Communist, MIKE DOBROWOLSKI. There were also three or four members of the Socialist Party passing out literature, and they were quite antagonistic in their remarks. Opposing salesmen would shout insulting remarks at their opponents, and at one time a slugging match was only averted by the timely approach of a policeman. Inside the hall with the various speakers on the stage were three choirs--the Nolan Choir, colored, the Jewish Liberty Singers, and the Ukrainian United Artists. There were three flags on the stage--the American flag, the Red Cross flag in the middle, and the Russian flag to the left, "but the American flag was placed about three feet to the rear of the Russian flag."

The chairman of the meeting was ABNER LARNED, who stated that PAT QUINN, GEORGE PIRINSKY, and one other man came to him and asked him to be chairman of this affair. He stated that QUINN and PIRINSKY assured him that there would not be any work to it, as they would make all the arrangements, invite all the speakers, et cetera, but just wanted him to act as toastmaster. LARNED then said that he was astounded to see PAT QUINN present that day, inasmuch as he did not attend a single one of the meetings. Informant received the impression that by the middle of the program LARNED was disgusted. PAT QUINN excused his absence from previous meetings by explaining that he had been attending the CIO convention in New York. He praised the Soviet Union for "saving the necks of both England and the United States." He pleaded for unity and tolerance among the working peoples. He stated that in the CIO convention the reactionaries in the labor groups, some of whom were from Michigan, tried to defeat a meeting of labor organizations from other parts of the labor world in their attempt to hold a convention in London the following year, but that "I fought on the winning side, and with the aid of our great labor leader, PHIL MURRAY, we will be represented."

The representatives of the United States Army and Navy next followed with short addresses in which they paid tribute to Russia "but at the same time praised our war efforts and took their hats off to none."

The next speaker was Congressman JOHN MAINE COFFEE. He praised Russia, said that their form of government must have something, for the Russian people would not have made the sacrifices that they did. He talked about the disunity apparent in this country, about the rise of anti-Semitism and discrimination against the Negro. "Russia does not discriminate against the Jew. They live in harmony with the Arab, Jew, Negro, and Mongolian and many other races. Russia has no trouble with corporations such as the United States Steel Company which sold defective plates to the government. They have no Anaconda Copper Company to sell defective wire to their government. They have no American Aluminum Company who sold scrap airplane engines to their government." He then explained why Russia could not let us have bases to carry on a war against Japan and said that Russia was helping us by keeping half a million Japanese on the Siberian front. He pointed out that at present the United States Government has 16,000 civil suits in our Federal courts to recover money from various firms who received this money fraudulently.

Informant T-3 recognized the following individuals whom he knew to be Communists:

NICHOLAS FITCHENA
THOMAS WRYZYKOWSKI
STELLA WRYZYKOWSKI
ANTIP KOSHEVOY
MARIE BILINSKI
STANLEY NOMAKOWSKI
WILMA KOMALSKI
ANTHONY DUSHINSKY
PHILLIP PHILCHOOK
OLGA PNIENSKI
MARY PIRINSKY
STANLEY STAWSKI
ADAM KUJTOWSKI

Report of Informant [ ]

~~Confidential Informant~~ [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, reported as follows:

b7D

Approaching the Temple on his way to the rally, Informant saw ~~TOM ANDERSEN~~ selling "Sunday Worker" and ~~EMANUEL MANNING~~ selling a magazine, "The Soviet Power." ~~SIS CUNNINGHAM~~ and ~~TIMOTHY SHAY~~ were selling the "Sunday Worker" and "The Soviet Power."

Informant stated that the following persons whose names did not appear on the program were in evidence on the stage at the rally: the consuls of the following countries: England, Panama, Netherlands, Mexico, and Cuba (?). Five young people entered the stage to give greetings to the youth of Russia. Although their names were unknown, they represented the following youth groups:

THE DETROIT YOUTH COUNCIL
THE AMERICAN BOY SCOUTS
THE AMERICAN YOUTH FOR DEMOCRACY
THE COUNCIL FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN
THE GIRL SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The program opened with the singing of the national anthems of United States and Russia, the latter of which, according to Informant, was more forcefully responded to. Informant recalled that PAT QUINN, mentioned above, stated that it is his opinion that the Moscow Conference was but the first step to closer understanding between American and Russian peoples. Informant quoted Representative COFFEE as making the statement that a day has already been set when our troops and those of our allies will invade France.

Informant concluded with the statement that most of the crowd would shout loudly any time a remark was made about Russia, no matter what its significance, and that many of them had bought flags which were being sold outside of the auditorium, which flags were in pairs—one American flag and one Russian flag. He stated that when they would cheer or stamp as they did for the Russian Major, they would grab for the Russian flag and wave it violently, leaving the American flag on their chairs.

Report of Informant T-4:

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that the opening invocation was delivered in Russian by Father N. N. METROPOLSKI of Saint Peter and Paul Orthodox Church. Visitors present on the stage were introduced as follows: MR. H. HAYES, Consul General of Great Britain; MR. ARISTINO, Consul for Mexico; MR. WILLIAM G. BRYANT, Consul of the Netherlands; MR. JAMES ROSENBERG, Consul of Panama; DR. FRANCIS G. GALLEY, Director of Christ Church, Detroit, the Chairman of Russian War Relief; MR. BARR, Consul of Cuba; Honorable PATRICK H. O'BRIEN, Judge of Probate Court, Detroit; Professor EDWARD W. MCFARLAND, Wayne University Economics Department; DR. W. T. OSOWSKI, President of the Michigan Slav Congress; MRS. MINNA AGINS, President of the Detroit Council of AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP; MR. P. V. McNAMARA, Vice President of the Detroit-Wayne County Federation of Labor; Colonel S. D. RINGSDORF brought the greetings of the United States Army. H. B. DAVIS, Executive Officer of the Naval School of the Detroit Naval Armory, appeared for Captain M. R. WORTLEY. FRANK X. MARTEL made the statement that "whether or not we agree with the present form of government in Russia, it is what the Russian people want; that is their business."

Major PAVEL N. ASEEV stated that the invaded countries must recover full right of freedom and independence. He pointed out that the German fascists on the eastern front had lost more than four million officers and men during the past year. He then spoke for a few minutes in Russian.

The main speaker, Congressman COFFEE, went back to the time of the American revolution, at which time the Russians under the czars were friendly to the United States. He pointed out how Alaska was offered to this country by the Russians for the paltry sum of $7,000,000 rather than haggle over a price. From 1914 to 1917 when Germany was then the common enemy, it was Russia again which established the second front at the Battle of Tannenberg. "It was the presence of Russia at the back door of Hitler's Germany which prevented Hitler from invading the British Isles in 1940.... Twenty-six years ago when the Russian Republic was created, the Russians were well aware of the menacing of the safety to the people which was represented by the Germans. Had not the Russians refused to be hoodwinked by the manipulations and hypocrisy of the diplomats of Germany, representing Hitler and his bloody crew, the United Nations of this war might be faced with defeat. General Strong said in a message to Congress a few days ago that without Russia in this war, the chances of the United States to win against Germany was as 1 to 4.... Yes, the Russian heads are bloody, but they are unbowed."

(De 100-2891)

Referring to Communism, COFFEE stated that the Russians have admitted that they have made some errors. He then pointed out that under capitalism we, too, make mistakes. He defended the failure of the Soviet Union to cede bases in Siberia to the United States Government by stating that he recalled Admiral ERNEST R. KING, Chief of Naval Operations, had remarked to MR. COFFEE more than a year ago that the United Nations did not want Russia to cede the air bases in Siberia because they did not want the Japanese to march in and engage the Russian armies. He then stated that he had been advocating a second front for more than two years and that it is coming, "the date has been set. It is inevitable."

"...The Russians have been engaging three hundred divisions of the German armies, and we have been engaging a relatively few."

Referring to the formidability of the Russian army, MR. COFFEE stated: "There must be something of note in that form of government to compel all these millions of youths to endure the excruciating weariness to fight day in and day out, night in and night out, against the marching robots who call themselves Germans.... Even the most callous and reactionary and conservative American citizen is beginning to wonder 'what is it in this form of government that they have in Russia.'"

He then explained, "We have a lot to learn. And I don't want anybody to construe my remarks as undermining my respect for Uncle Sam. I want you to understand that I admire our form of government, except a minority of citizens in our midst who don't exemplify by their conduct and attitude in the United States that they believe in our form of government in the United States."

Following MR. COFFEE'S address, a dramatic sketch, "My Brother Lives in Stalingrad," was presented. The actors in this play were HARRY GOLDSTINE, narrator; PATRICIA O'FARRELL, an American woman; JAN KAPTE, a Russian woman; and EUGENE HOLISTER, sound effects.

A closing invocation was given by Reverend JOHN MILES, (Negro) of the People's Church.

Report of Informant T-5:

Confidential Informant T-5, in addition to the information contained under Informants T-3 and T-4, reported that he observed JACK HASKIN, previously identified, and MARY CUMMINS, former President of the West Side Branch of the YOUNG COMMUNIST LEAGUE, in attendance. Informant T-5 also stated that throughout the meeting MARY PIRINSKY constantly whispered to Chairman LARNED and Major ASEEV and that at one point in the meeting LARNED introduced MARY PIRINSKY, stating that she had deserved credit for the organization of the meeting and that she had translated Major ASEEV'S Russian speech to LARNED.

(De 100-2891)

Printed programs and other literature were secured by Informant T-5 at the meeting.

OFFICERS AND BOARD MEMBERS OF THE DETROIT COUNCIL OF
AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

Informant  advised that on January 10, 1944, a mimeographed letter was prepared over the signature of MARY PIRINSKY, Executive Secretary, in which it was stated that a meeting was held on November 29 which elected a "Continuations Committee" which had met several times with the Executive Board of the DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and which has worked out an organizational structure and suggested program for an enlarged DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. An invitation was extended in this letter to a meeting on Friday, January 14, in the Games Room of the Lucy Thurman YWCA, 569 East Canfield Avenue. This meeting was called for the purpose of taking up the organization of a conference and a "tribute to the Red Army" on the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Red Army this February. "Nationality and boundary questions, which occupy the attention of the entire world, will be the subject of the conference."

b7D

(De 100-2891)

On January 10, 1944, Informant [ ] reported that DAVID McKELVEY WHITE and ADELINE KOHL, the latter of whom was formerly State Secretary of the YOUNG COMMUNIST LEAGUE of Michigan and who is presently full-time paid organizer for the successor organization, the AMERICAN YOUTH FOR DEMOCRACY, were discussing what was apparently an attempt by KOHL to obtain a replacement for MARY PIRINSKY. She remarked that two women whom she did not identify had turned down the job flatly.

b7D

On January 13, 1944, the same Informant reported that MARY PIRINSKY was having a conference with DAVE WHITE, at which time PIRINSKY stated that she has interviewed a number of persons and all have declined. She further stated that they have been looking for an office girl for the DETROIT COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, but without success.

On February 12, 1944, Confidential Informant [ ] advised Special Agent L. BYRON LOCKHART that MARY PIRINSKY'S health had failed and that she had been forced to go to Florida to recuperate; and that he had been informed that a successor for MARY PIRINSKY had been sought very actively. The most logical successor in [ ] opinion was MIRIAM WELLINGTON who had been active in CIVIL RIGHTS FEDERATION matters and who was observed by Agents of this office as she left the YOUNG COMMUNIST LEAGUE state convention at Detroit on July 11, 1943. Informant [ ] pointed out that WELLINGTON had sought his advice on whether or not to accept this position, had stated that it had been unqualifiedly offered to her, and that he had suggested that she accept and was of the opinion that she had either accepted or would accept in the immediate future.

b7D

Subsequent to the dictation of the foregoing material, it was learned from MRS. PICHE, manager of the apartment at [ ] where MARY PIRINSKY resides, that MARY PIRINSKY had been away for several weeks but had returned to Detroit, although she had not resumed any form of employment.

UNDEVELOPED LEADS

THE DETROIT FIELD DIVISION

At Ann Arbor, Michigan:

Will ascertain the extent of activities of Subject Organization which was formerly headed in that area by Professor STANLEY D. DODGE of the University of Michigan, but which, as shown by a highly confidential source on January 28, 1944, is apparently headed by Professor JOHN SHEPARD who was addressed as Chairman of the Ann Arbor Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Will recontact Detective JOSEPH LIEBHERR of the Special Investigation Squad for the Second District, Michigan State Police, Ann Arbor, for further information regarding STANLEY D. DODGE which Detective LIEBHERR stated in his report of August 25, 1942, Michigan State Police Complaint Number 24-10639, he was going to obtain.

At Detroit, Michigan:

Will maintain contact with informants in an effort to determine the activities of Subject Organization.

(Further information regarding MRS. MINNA AGINS and MRS. OSWALD GRUZHIT will be developed separately in their individual investigative files, and any information bearing upon their activities in connection with this organization will be reported in reports on this organization.)

~~BY SPECIAL MESSENGER~~

Major General Clayton Bissell
Assistant Chief of Staff
G-2, War Department
Washington, D. C.

Dear General Bissell:

This Bureau has been advised of information concerning a series of celebrations to be held under the sponsorship of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., during the week beginning February 21, 1944, in New York City. These celebrations are in honor of the twenty-sixth anniversary of "Red Army Day."

It is reported that there will be a "Salute to the Red Army Dinner" at the Hotel Commodore February 21, 1944. Speakers scheduled for this dinner are Major General James Ullo, United States Army; Lieutenant General Rudenko, Russian Army; Colonel Kenneth Mackessack, British Military Attache; Major General A. H. Gathouse, British Army, D.S.O., M.C.; Max Verner; Dr. Walter B. Cannon and Franchot Tone.

It is further reported that there will be an exhibit of Soviet war posters and a meeting in tribute to Soviet artists at the Vanderbilt Galleries in New York City on February 23, 1944. There the speakers will be Paul Massing, Arthur Upham Pope, and Leonid Malov.

On February 27, 1944, there will be an affair sponsored by the Nationalities Groups Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship at the Majestic Theatre. In this instance the speakers are to be Senator James E. Murray, Captain Balokov of the Soviet Embassy, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Ladue, United States Army, the Honorable Marek Hudec, Consul General of the Czechoslovakian Republic, Professor Ignace Zlotowski, Zlatko Balokovic and Edwin S. Smith.

According to the reports, there will also be special window displays which have been arranged for in eight New York City department stores. Arrangements also include feature stories to be placed with the United Press Features, North American Newspaper Alliance and the NEA Service, Inc. It is also said that war plant ceremonies are scheduled for the Morey Machine Shops and the Sperry Gyroscope Company. Nine neighborhood mass meetings are also planned in the metropolitan area and arrangements are said to have been made for curtain speeches at Broadway shows, as well as the playing of the new Soviet national anthem by orchestras at New York hotels. It is said that the American Theater Ring has set aside February 23, 1944, for a nationwide series of Red Army programs in various Stage Door Canteens.

As additional details are received, they will be brought to your attention.

Sincerely yours,

John Edgar Hoover

JAMES F. HURD, Assistant Corporation Advisor, Secretary of State's office, Capitol Building, advised that his files did not disclose any record of incorporation for the National Council of Soviet Friendship in the cities of Akron, Canton, Lima, Youngstown, and Toledo, Ohio. He did advise that his records disclosed that in Volume 488, page 346, the Cleveland Council of American Soviet Friendship, Inc., was granted a charter on December 2, 1943. This charter was granted for a corporation which was to be a non-profit organization. These records contain the following information:

This corporation was incorporated under the name of the CLEVELAND COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC., for the purposes of:

A.: To strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, through the promotion of better understanding between them.

B.: To educate the American people to the need for and the value of such better understanding and friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as essential to Victory in the present war against the Axis powers, and to the establishment of world-wide Democracy and enduring Peace.

C.: To act as a clearing house for such educational information.

Your Part in a Great Event

This is a meeting of a special kind. It will be a stirring tribute to the women of our Soviet ally, to whose courage and self-sacrifice we owe so much. And to American women it will be both a tribute for the great part they are playing in the war, and a call to still greater action.

The audience is as vital a part of this meeting as the program. We are counting on you to help us make this occasion, the first of its kind, an unforgettable one, out of which will come new strength and unity for the complete and final victory of the United Nations.

Will you, then, help us make sure of the success of this event not only by coming yourself, but by distributing tickets to your friends and to the fellow-members, men and women, of your club, church, union or other organization. We shall be glad to let you have blocs of tickets or boxes. Please fill out the order blank, call in person, or telephone the Committee of Women, MUrray Hill 3-2080.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
232 Madison Avenue
New York 16, N. Y.

Murray Hill 3-2082

COMMITTEE OF WOMEN

Muriel Draper, Secretary

D R A F T   P R O G R A M

The Committee of Women is being organized for the following main purposes:

1. To enlist the widest possible interest and cooperation among women in furthering the general purpose of the organization, which is:
"To promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of war and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace."

2. To publicize as widely as possible both peacetime and wartime achievements of Soviet women through an educational program about the Soviet program of child care, the experiences of Soviet women in the many new fields of work they have entered, and their heroic exploits in the war.

3. To promote in every possible way fruitful interchange between the women of the two countries in matters in which they can be mutually helpful, so that the women of Soviet Russia may also come to know better the women of America, and so that the friendship between the two may be strengthened by ties having a practical basis in matters of everyday life as well as by their broader common interests in problems of war and peace.

An organization of Soviet women already exists which is prepared to further such interchange. This is the Soviet Women's Anti-Fascist Committee, which came into existence soon after the Nazi invasion of the U.S.S.R. and whose officers have already repeatedly shown their willingness to cooperate fully in facilitating such interchange.

4. To help bring about even greater participation of American women in our own war effort, through acquainting them more fully with the innumerable ways the women of our Allies are helping. The war effort is also furthered through participation in this work, which is an important factor in implementing the great decisions recently made by President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

P R O J E C T S   O F   T H E   C O M M I T T E E

A. Through correspondence with Soviet women and consultation with representatives of the U.S.S.R. in America, we have learned that the Soviet women are eager to learn everything possible both about American methods of child care and about American methods of housekeeping. Such information will have special value in connection with the immense problems of reconstruction of the devastated areas which they already face. They would like both informational material and samples of our equipment. We are therefore planning to assemble and send to the U.S.S.R. the following materials and exhibits:

1. Books on infant and child care, and care of mother during pregnancy.
2. A model set of nursery equipment for home use.
3. A model set of day nursery equipment.
4. A selection of children's toys for different age groups.
5. A selection of children's books.

ENCLOSURE

100-146964-181

6. A model set of kitchen equipment (beginning with small useful utensils, and later on when transportation facilities permit, an entire model kitchen).
7. A model set of household equipment (i.e. vacuum cleaners, etc.).
8. Models and patterns of women's work-clothes and of the most practical types of day clothes (this can later be expanded on a more varied scale including accessories, cosmetics, etc.).

~~In each of the above projects, we will consult~~ by experts in the respective fields, and we will receive in return from the Soviet Union corresponding exhibits of equipment in ordinary use.

B. The Committee is planning a series of pamphlets on the life of the Soviet woman - her relation to her family, her work, her government, and her daily problems and pleasures. The first of these is "Soviet Children and Their Care" by Rose Maurer. It is a comprehensive work on Soviet child care from the prenatal period through school, with emphasis on wartime adaptation, admirably illustrated. We are hoping this pamphlet will have a wide circulation. It can be purchased for 10¢ a copy, and is $6.50 for one hundred. Other works of this kind will be published as the material becomes available.

C. Carnegie Hall Meeting - March 6th

We are already making plans for a meeting on this date in tribute to the work of American and Soviet women in the present crisis. We have chosen this date for the meeting because on March 8th the Soviet women celebrate Women's Day with nationwide meetings spurring the women of their country to still greater efforts for victory. Messages cabled from our meeting will give them an added sense of the unity of purpose of American women with them in the war effort. Leading American women and men will speak, and a dramatic presentation will portray the part played by the women of the United Nations in the war. It is hoped that a delegation of Soviet women will be here for the meeting.

It is proposed that similar meetings be held in different parts of the country.

D. A National Committee of Women

Preliminary steps in the directions outlined are already being taken by a provisional committee of women who came together following the panel on Women and Child Care in the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. held at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship in New York, at which time it was decided to form a permanent committee. The provisional committee now plans to expand its work to a national basis, enlisting representative women in many fields throughout the country who may participate in this work either through the formation of women's committees connected with local councils, or by direct affiliation with the national committee.

Comments and suggestions on our preliminary program are welcome. Let us know how you can participate.

DETAILS:

AT NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA

This investigation is being reopened in this Field Division in view of the reorganization of local council of subject organization, as announced in local newspapers as set forth hereafter.

November 15, 1943 issue of the Times Picayune, New Orleans, carried an article reflecting that formation of a New Orleans Council of American-Soviet Friendship was announced on Sunday, November 14, 1943 by ROBERT D. FEILDS, sponsor of National Organization and chairman of the executive committee of the new local group. Other members of the executive committee were listed as MAURICE H. CROSBY, vice chairman; URBANE O. HENNING, vice chairman; THEODORE S. BEHRE, treasurer; Miss EUGENIE CHAVANNE, secretary; Miss ELIZABETH RAYMOND and Mrs. JACK KAMAICO.

It is noted that of the above group, three were formerly active with the New Orleans Committee of the American Council on Soviet Relations, predecessor to subject organization: ROBERT D. FEILDS was chairman, THEODORE S. BEHRE was treasurer, and Mrs. JACK (EMMA) KAMAICO. Of these three, EMMA KAMAICO is a known Communist Party member and subject of a separate security investigation of this office. FEILDS and BEHRE have been established as Communist sympathizers by separate investigation conducted by this office.

The aforementioned newspaper article lists the following persons in New Orleans as sponsors of subject organization: RALPH BOOTHBY, the Reverend THADDEUS B. CLARK, A. W. WENT, Rabbi JULIAN B. WEISBERMAN, Mrs. JOSEPH E. FRIEND, MONTE H. LEHMAN, the Reverend NORMAN A. MAUNZ, Professor LEON RYDER MAXWELL, CHARLES H. MURKIN, FRANK MORTON, The Very Reverend WILLIAM N. S. DR. ALTON SCHNEER, ELMON OGLE, GEORGE W. HAPPELEYA, Miss FLORENCE SYTZ and Miss ELIZABETH WIENER.

A review of the files of this office has been made as to names of the above listed executive committee members and sponsors of subject organization and pertinent information obtained therefrom relative to persons not mentioned in previous reports of this investigation is set forth hereafter. Local addresses set forth were obtained from the New Orleans Telephone Directory for December, 1943 and from the New Orleans City Directory for 1942.

A charter member of the Louisiana League for the Preservation of Constitutional Rights, and associated formerly with the local committee of the North American Committee to aid Spanish Democracy; also listed as a sponsor for the Southern Conference for American Welfare in the April 13, 1940 issue of the Southern News Almanac. She attended a third annual convention of aforementioned organization in Nashville, Tenn. in April 1942. Miss WISNER has been reported to this office as an idealist.

Confidential Informant T-1, who was interviewed by the writer in connection with another investigation, advised in the course of of the conversation that he was not aware of his being listed as a sponsor of the local council of subject organization, in that permission to use his name had not been requested of him by the organization. He advised that he had been associated with the organization as formerly organized, and he believed he was considered as an officer on one of its many committees. He advised that in connection with the activities of that organization, he had been requested to use his influence to obtain permission from the City of New Orleans for the use of the Municipal Auditorium for a public meeting for the purpose of having a lecture on February 9, 1943 of MAX YERGAN, which he declined upon being informed that YERGAN was a negro and that the local committee of the subject organization was desirous of holding mixed-color meeting.

T-1 characterized one of the representatives of the committee who contacted him on this matter as a "Times Square rabble rouser". With respects to this woman, he stated that from her vigorous argument in behalf of racial equality, he gathered that she must be a Communist. Informant stated that he could not recall this woman's name; however, the general description given by him to the writer tended to indicate that this woman was ELIZABETH COUSINS ROGERS, with aliases, a former organizing secretary of the local committee of the American Council on Soviet Relations. Informant expressed the opinion that the majority of the listed sponsors were probably in the same position as he was so far as their knowledge as to their sponsorship of the local council of subject organization was concerned.

It is noted that announcement was also made of the formation of the local council of subject organization in the New Orleans States of November 15, 1943, the Pilot (official publication NMU) of November 19, 1943, and in the New Orleans News Digest (official CIO publication) of November 22, 1943. The announcement carried in the New Orleans States indicated that MAURICE H. CROSBY, vice chairman, and Mrs. E. SCOTT BARR, would speak in behalf of the local council over radio station WNOE.

Confidential Informant T-2 advised that a fifteen minute program dealing with the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the American Soviet Diplomatic Relations was broadcast from radio station WNOE at 7:45 P.M., November 15, 1943. This broadcast was sponsored by the American-Soviet Friendship Council and the time used by the organization was free.

Confidential Informant T-3 advised that ELIZABETH COUSINS ROGERS, organizing secretary for the local council, American Council on Soviet Relations, predecessor to subject organization, advised her that the local council was discontinued because there was a clash of personality on the part of its original officers. ROGERS advised informant that this difficulty had been taken care of in the reorganization of this present group under its new name and intimated that she, ROGERS, was associated with the council inasmuch as she said "We are in a position to furnish photo exhibits, movies and literature on Soviet Russia to any interested group.

Confidential Informant T-4 advised Special Agent ALBERT J. FLETTRICH and the writer on January 4, 1944 that subject organization was not very active. Informant stated that plans had been made to publicly announce all sponsored activity by the organization and, further, that in her opinion the organization was not to be composed of mass membership but to be composed rather of a small select group of representative persons of various groups, trade union, professional, business, religious, and educational, who are sincerely interested in the improvement of relations between Soviet Russia and the United States. Informant stated that she understood that these persons were expected to be in a position to furnish information and materials to other interested persons within their respective groups.

Application forms for requesting information of, and for making contributions to, the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship were placed for public distribution at the local office of the National Maritime Union.

Confidential Informant T-5 forwarded one of these forms to the national office of subject organization and was furnished the following listed literature. No information was obtained, however, relative to local organization.

1. New pamphlets on the Soviet Union (list of same).
2. Know the U. S. S. R. (listed readings on Soviet Russia)
3. National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. (purpose, program, etc.)
4. Hear About the U. S. S. R. (listed speakers on Soviet Union).
5. See the Soviet Union in Exhibits and Films. (listed photographic exhibits and motion pictures).
6. Congress of American-Soviet Friendship. (Program of).

The foregoing literature was transferred from the national offices of the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship by a letter of acknowledgement signed by "NAN FOLDEN, Assistant to the Executive Director". Said literature is being made a part of New Orleans file for possible future reference.

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent William Francis Norton, Jr., made at New York, New York, and dated February 15, 1944, regarding the above-entitled matter. This report contains a lead for the Saint Louis Field Division to report the tenth anniversary celebration of the diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia held in Saint Louis, at which Professor Ralph Barton Perry was the principal speaker.

Reference is also made to the report of Special Agent A. Glenwood Gilliland made at Saint Louis and dated November 23, 1943, which completely reports the results of the American-Soviet Friendship Rally held at Sheldon Memorial in Saint Louis on November 21, 1943. Four copies of this report were furnished to the New York Office.

As no further investigation remains in the Saint Louis Field Division regarding this matter, the case is being referred upon completion to the office of origin.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS: W. EARL HALL, Editor of "Mason City Globe-Gazette," delivered a highly laudatory speech over Radio Station W.H.O., Des Moines, Ia., on evening of 11/13/43, in which he indicated that he had shifted from a position of antagonism toward Communism to one indicating that Russia is fighting the war for civilization. HALL a former Iowa State American Legion Commander, presently a member of the Iowa State Board of Education and prominent Iowa citizen. Major FRANK MILES, Ia. DETAILS: AT DES MOINES, IOWA

A clipping taken from the "Des Moines Register" dated November 16, 1943, reflects a speech delivered by W. EARL HALL, Managing Editor of the "Mason City, Iowa, Globe-Gazette," given over the Radio Station W.H.O., on the evening of November 13, 1943.

In this speech, portions of which are in the newspaper release, it is indicated that he made a plea that Americans be ready to work with the Russians in the establishment of world peace after the war. HALL identified himself as a "former hater and baiter of Russia," and remarked "Confession may be good for my soul." This speech, which was given over the radio station on the tenth anniversary of the opening of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Republic, contained the remark "I thank God every day that Russia is on our side. I thank God that this nation in which I once could see no good is fighting with us rather than against us."

As to the date diplomatic relations were opened with Russia, HALL continued "I remember it well. It made me hopping mad. For a dozen years or more I had hated and baited Russia. I wasn't in any mood to believe that anything good possibly could come out of Russia. I just didn't like them and I was determined never to let myself like them." He also assailed the isolationists and warned that they will try "to wreck plans for effective peace." In reviewing his past opinions about Russia, HALL stated, "While it didn't do me any good, or them any harm, I derived a lot of satisfaction out of hating the Russians." He advised that for six or seven years he found many things to support his deep-seated hatred, including the pre-war Russian agreement with HITLER and the attack on Finland.

The news article continues by stating, "Then, HALL said, HITLER attacked Russia and I knew the pact between Germany and Russia was a Russian bid for time to prepare for the war which STALIN knew was inevitable. It remained for the Russians to prove for all time that a Nazi blitzkrieg is not something irresistible. HITLER is on his way out. To whom shall we— to whom must we—give the credit? The world knows it is Communistic Russia."

HALL said that he believes after the war Russia may demand egress to a warm-water sea; that she will call for extending her sphere of influence, if not her territorial boundaries, to include the Baltic states, to that part of Poland to which historically she lays claim, and to Bessarabia, and HALL includes, "and in all this Russia will be doing exactly what America would do if she were set down in Europe's cockpit." He also stated, "When this comes to pass, our isolationists are going to shout to high heaven. They'll do this with the intent to wreck plans for an effective organization to preserve the world's peace. Now, well in advance of the event, would be a good time for all of us to resolve not to be taken in by the ruse. There's the hope of peace up the path of intelligent world collaboration. Another war stands at the far end of the isolation blind alley."

HALL said that Russia and America are traditional friends, and that for his own part he is willing to believe that the recent voluntary discontinuance by Russia of the Comintern—the third international organization—constituted recognition by JOSEPH STALIN and his associates that world revolution is neither good nor practicable.

DM 100-1747

HALL said, "It can be said with confidence that the achievements of the Moscow conference are constructive beyond the fairest hopes of any who are qualified to judge them. The fundamental question before all men of good will now is how they can best defend and most effectively develop the actual institutions which were founded at this conference." He added that the "one brightest star of hope" for future collaboration contained in the historic Moscow agreement resides in the paragraph calling for early establishment of an international organization based on principles of sovereign equality for all to maintain international peace and security.

He continued by stating that no one can deny the fact that Russia will play a role in peace comparable to her role in the war and urged Americans to take a realistic view. He said, "Getting along with Russia has everything to recommend it." HALL scoffed at the idea that Russia is not "playing fair" by remaining aloof in the Pacific, asserting that in light of the Moscow Conference none need fear that Russia will make a separate peace. He closed by stating, "Despite my own background of hostility toward Russia and all things Russian, I am ready to take Russia's promise at full value."

The "Iowa Official Register" for 1943-44 reflects the following biographical information concerning Mr. HALL:

"Born on a farm near Jefferson, Iowa, April 7, 1897. Graduated from the Jefferson High School in 1914. Holds a B.A. degree from the State University of Iowa. Was a member of the editorial staff of the Milwaukee Journal before assuming the managing editorship of the Mason City Globe-Gazette in 1920. Married in 1920 to Miss Ruth Reeves. Three children, Reeves, Marjery June, and Nancy Lou. In 1932 Mr. Hall was commander of the Iowa department of the American Legion and was president of the Iowa State Safety Council from 1935 to 1940. Appointed to the board of education by Governor Kraschel in 1937. Reappointed by Governor Hickenlooper, 1943."

Agent interviewed Major FRANK MILES of the Iowa State Selective Service Headquarters, who advised that he is a friend of long-standing of Mr. HALL, and stated that he knew him very well. He advised that Mr. HALL was born and reared in Jefferson, Iowa, more or less in poverty; that he was a good athlete and had gone to the University of Iowa, where he had achieved considerable success. He advised that upon leaving the University of Iowa, he had gone to Madison, Wisconsin, where he worked for a newspaper, and after a few years came to Mason City, Iowa, where he became associated with the "Globe-Gazette," of which he is now the Editor.

Major MILES advised that Mr. HALL entered the Armed Forces in September of 1918 and was discharged in December of 1918; that in the years since HALL has been very prominent in American Legion affairs; and at one time was the American Legion Commander for the Department of Iowa. He advised that HALL is a zealot and an extremist. He advised that Mr. HALL started out originally as a rock-ribbed reactionary Republican, and that he was influenced along this line considerably by the now Brigadier-General HANFORD McNIDER, who is serving in the Pacific theater of war. He advised that at the time the America First Committee was obtaining prominence, one of the leaders of which was HANFORD McNIDER, HALL broke away from the McNIDER influence, and he began to shift to the liberal view of politics and economics. He advised that HALL a number of years ago had become interested in safety work, and had achieved national prominence in this line, receiving several awards for his activities.

More recently HALL became a member of a group of newspapermen who made a flying trip through South America for the purpose of becoming experts on South American affairs. Major MILES stated upon HALL's return he noticed a liberalization of attitude and ideas on the part of HALL and that it was about this time HALL definitely broke away from the theory of isolationism. About this time HALL began to take the position that Russia was more or less fighting the battle for civilization, and he rapidly veered toward Russia when HITLER declared war and began his march into that country.

Major MILES advised that he heard the broadcast above referred to, and he had written HALL a letter and had received a reply that HALL would get together with him sometime and discuss his change of position in regard to Russia. Major MILES advised that on several occasions he has endeavored to get HALL into a conversation for the purpose of having him explain the statements which he made in his talk, but that apparently HALL refuses to commit himself or say anything further in regard to this matter. Major MILES advised that he considers HALL a good American citizen. He stated that he is absolutely above a bribe; that it would be impossible to buy his support for any proposition in which he did not believe; that he, MILES, does not believe that HALL would knowingly sell out this country to any group of foreign ideas, such as Communism.

Major MILES stated, however, that HALL might unknowingly be hoodwinked by the successes of the Russian Government and the Russian Army, and act as an innocent tool in spreading some of the propaganda that is heard over the radio and is in newspapers concerning the great work which the Russian Army is doing on the Eastern Front. Major MILES advised that the position taken by HALL is probably due to the fact that when he embarks upon an undertaking or lends his support to a program he goes to the extreme in his support and sometimes his actions are liable to become his normal sense.

It was Major MILES' opinion that Mr. HALL was not a dangerous individual in this regard in his support of Russia if he were aware that the United States was not endangered by such a position. He stated, however, that if Mr. HALL was unknowingly giving his support he would be the type of individual who might be dangerous because of the extreme position he would take in any program.

PROPOSED FOR ADOPTION

by the TRADE UNION PANEL of the CONGRESS OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

Meeting in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, Sunday, November 7, 1943

(1) That the delegates and guests at the Trade Union Panel support in their communities of the program of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and help to bring its activities to the favorable attention of their fellow workers and friends.

(2) The launching of a campaign by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to stimulate correspondence between the trade unions of the United States and corresponding Soviet trade unions as a means of cementing friendly relations and furthering cooperation between the labor movements of both countries for the purpose of intensifying the war effort and working towards a just and lasting peace.

(3) That those in attendance at the panel support the request already made by numerous members of trade unions that there be created within the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship a trade union division whose purpose would be to facilitate the correspondence project between American and Soviet unions described above, to promote the distribution and sale of literature of particular interest to trade unionists in the field of American-Soviet relations, such as the pamphlet "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union", and to initiate from time to time special projects with the aim of bringing about closer understanding and cooperation between the American and the Soviet trade unions.

Dear Sir:

Transmitted herewith are the original and three copies of a four page log representing a conference between ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and SAMUEL LEVIN, Treasurer of the N.C.A.S.F. This conference took place on March 7, 1944 according to Confidential Informant [REDACTED]

It is believed that the THOMPSON and GAILMORE mentioned in the log may be identified as DOROTHY THOMPSON and WILLIAM GAILMORE, radio comentator.

It should be noted that the contents of this log refer to the women's rally held on March 6, 1944 at Carnegie Hall, which rally was sponsored by subject organization.

RE: NATIONAL MARITIME UNION OF AMERICA
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Dear Sir:

During the period ending February 26, confidential informant [REDACTED] furnished considerable information of value.

b7D

For example on February 25, 1944 the informant advised that MELLE DAVIS, of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship informed ED HARRISON, of the NYU "Pilot" that the National Council of American Soviet Friendship is holding a meeting on March 6, 1944 dedicated to the Women for Victory, a joint tribute to the American and Soviet women in the war. She requested that the "Pilot" publish a picture of Soviet women on ships.

On the same day the informant advised that AGNES DOE, of the NYU Womens Auxiliary, ordered 25 tickets for the meeting of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship to be held March 6, 1944.

It should be noted that the services of confidential informant [REDACTED] were temporarily discontinued on February 26, 1944 but in view of the type of information furnished by this informant in the past, it is contemplated that his services will be reinstated as soon as possible.

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent WILLIAM FRANCIS NORTON, Jr., in the above-captioned matter, dated February 15, 1944, in which leads are set out for the New Haven Field Division to report on the 10th Anniversary celebration of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia held between November 5 and December 5, 1943 at Bridgeport, Hartford, and New Haven, Connecticut.

This is to advise that the above-named leads were covered by the report of Special Agent LOREN D. Re: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN - SOVIET FRIENDSHIP,
INCORPORATED; INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent WILLIAM FRANCIS NORTON, Jr., dated February 15, 1944 at New York, in instant case.

In the above report a lead is set out for the San Juan Field Division to "report on the Society of Friends of U.S.S.R., and its possible connection with the subject organization. Dr. VICENTE CASTRO GERVANTES is the president of the society, and ADOLFO HERRERA GARCIA is the Secretary." In the 9th paragraph on Page 88 of the report, it is pointed out that Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on October 12, 1943, ADOLFO HERRERA GARCIA, Secretary of the Comite de Amigos de la Union Sovietica, San Jose, Costa Rica, requested propaganda material for subject organization.

It appears that the Society of Friends of the U.S.S.R. (Comite de Amigos de la Union Sovietica) is established rather in San Jose, Costa Rica, than in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The indices of the San Juan Field Division were negative with respect to the English and Spanish titles of the Society of Friends of the U.S.S.R. and with respect to the names of the officers.

In view of the above information, no investigation is being conducted at the San Juan Field Division, and this case is being referred upon completion to the office of origin.

Clear
 Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt
 The Whitehouse
 Washington, D. C.

My dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

72199

I was very sorry indeed that it was not possible to see you while I was in Washington this week, and I am wondering whether there is any possibility of your being in New York in the near future so that I might see you here rather than postponing it until my next trip to Washington.

There are a number of things that I would appreciate an opportunity of talking over with you. One of the things most on my mind at the present is the Women's Meeting on March 6th, which I hope you are considering favorably, as we want to make this one of the most outstanding affairs of the coming year, and we feel that it is essential to the success of the occasion to have your participation.

As I wrote before, and Mrs. Draper has explained in more detail, the council and its Committee of Women now in the process of formation, want this meeting to be an effective contribution to the understanding between our country and the Soviet Union by creating closer bonds between the women of the two countries. As you know, on several occasions the Soviet Women have held meetings from which they have sent short wave broadcasts and greetings to the women of America, so that we feel that in the Spirit of Moscow Pacts, it is appropriate to make some response. Since they always hold meetings on March 8th in celebration of Women's Day, we felt that by holding our meetings on March 6th, part of the proceeding could be recorded and broadcast to their country in Moscow.

We also have in mind inviting one or more representative of Soviet Women to come to our country as our guests at that time, and understand there is a real possibility this might be arranged.

We have thought of inviting someone like VALENTINA GRIZODUBOVA, the leading aviator and chairman of the Women's Anti-Fascist Committee and one or two outstanding women in other fields. We would also, naturally, invite Mrs. GROMIKO, to be a guest of honor at the meeting. So you can see there are many reasons which make it most desirable to have you with us on this occasion, so that it will be a real expression of American Soviet cooperation and friendship.

There are, of course, many ways in which fruitful interchange can be carried on between the women of the two countries, as is true of any other groups. The professional committee has already heard from the Russian Women about many ways in which they are helping in establishing further interchange and that they are especially interested in getting all the material possible on American child methods, so the committee hopes to work out some method that may be helpful in connection with the problem of the Restoration of day nurseries and other child care institutions in the devastated areas. Naturally this will be worked out in such a way as not to duplicate the kind of work being undertaken by existing relief agencies. The work of our committee would be rather in the nature of exchanging information, sending symbols of types of equipment they might find useful and so on.

We are planning the meeting well in advance so that there will be time to make arrangements for possible guests from the Soviet Union and because we also hope to have something rather special in the way of a dramatic presentation of the part played by the Women of the United Nations in the war. That is why we are most anxious to know as soon as possible whether you will save this date for us so that we may go ahead with our arrangements. I do hope you will be able to arrange it.

Sincerely yours,

EDWIN S. SMITH
Executive Director

Dear Mr. President:

February 23rd is the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Red Army. It has occurred to us that you might feel it appropriate on that occasion to present to the Soviet people a token symbolic of this country's friendship and admiration for their heroic struggle in the war. We have in mind something akin to the presentation of the famous "Sword of Stalingrad."

The fact that the siege of Leningrad, undoubtedly the most protracted in all history, has been recently lifted, would seem to make the presentation of a memorial which does special honor to the heroic defenders of Leningrad, a most appropriate one.

Respectfully yours,

EDWIN S. SMITH
Executive Director

AMERICAN COUNCIL ON SOVIET RELATIONS

In addition to the information set out in the report of Special Agent WARREN E. WOOD at Little Rock, Arkansas, dated March 16, 1942, copies of which were furnished the New York Field Division, entitled WALTER MOOBY PURVIS, Internal Security-C, concerning a meeting sponsored by PURVIS at Little Rock, February 12, 1942 at which THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the American Council on Soviet Relations spoke, the following information was obtained from Source of Information A:

PURVIS correspondence with the American Council on Soviet Relations, 112 East 192nd Street, New York City, reflected a letter dated January 3, 1942 from PURVIS to the Council mentioning that "D. ZINI has handed me your mimeographed letter of December 13, 1941" enclosing information concerning the eighth anniversary of the Council.

This letter indicated that ZINI, who is acting secretary of the Communist Party in Little Rock, had instigated PURVIS' correspondence. In this letter PURVIS said he was sending in one dollar, his contribution toward the maintenance of efforts of the Council to break down the world of ignorance and misunderstanding built by the enemies of mankind about the U. S. S. R. Further correspondence of PURVIS with EDITH KONDELL of the Council reflected THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the Council would welcome the opportunity of speaking at a regular meeting that might be arranged in Little Rock or at a meeting of a small group of people in a private home.

In a letter of January 13, 1942, PURVIS stated "I hope to handle the publicity in such a manner as to avoid irritating anyone and arousing suspicion. You know we are in the 'Bible Belt' where it is easy to arouse prejudice that might impair our chances of getting the truth before our people."

Miss KONDELL wrote January 23, 1942 that HARRIS would be in Little Rock approximately Monday, February 9, 1942 and said, "I am sure he would welcome the opportunity of talking informally with small groups of people, perhaps in private homes if you would like to have one or two such gatherings." PURVIS wrote February 2, 1942 that he had been out of the state since January 20 and would confer further with some of his friends about this matter. In this letter, he stated, "I judge from your letter of January 23

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP,
Inc., Formerly known as: American Council on 100-615

HARRIS prefers a small group in his first appearance in this city, rather than to address a open public meeting." He requested that she advise by wire or letter to reach him on or before 5:00 P. M., Friday, February 6, and he would have arrangements made for such a meeting.

Miss KONDELL wired February 3, 1942 that HARRIS would address an open public meeting, and, or, small groups at PURVIS' convenience, and that the meetings could be in Little Rock February 9, and, or, February 12.

Pencilled notes, apparently written by PURVIS, were as follows: "2-4-42, 7:30 to 10:00 P. M., Office Conference, self, WALTER M. PURVIS, AUSTIN L. PIETY, [redacted] Phone 9874, IRA NEWMAN, [redacted] Phone 32755, business 3-2185."

b7c

It was agreed that he would make such arrangements for an auditorium and would have HARRIS to speak to a Little Rock audience if he considered advisable and in accordance with correspondence with the American Council on Soviet Relations."

PURVIS wrote February 5, 1942 that he had made arrangements for HARRIS to address an open public meeting in the County Court House, 7:30 P. M., Thursday, February 12. He planned to charge twenty-five cents admission and to give each person a copy of "The Soviet Power". He requested her to have the International Publishers at 381 Fourth Avenue, New York City, ship five hundred copies of "The Soviet Power". He said he planned to send notices to all ministers, teachers and professional men in this community.

His file reflected a list of the membership of the Temple Mans' Lecture Forum for the years 1938-1939.

Miss KONDELL wired by Western Union February 7, 1942, "HARRIS accepts February 12th date. I am sending books Express today."

PURVIS acknowledged the wire and enclosed newspaper releases for the Sunday, February 8th issue of the Arkansas Gazette and Democrat, Little Rock newspapers. In his letter, he mentioned assistance furnished him by liberal minded friends.

The file reflected that HARRIS was in Fort Smith, Arkansas on the evening of Wednesday, February 11 and wired February 12, 1942 from Fort Smith that he was arriving by bus on that date at 2:45 P. M.

The file also included notes of PURVIS March 4, 1942 that he had advised Agent WOOD concerning persons who attended the meeting, that he had been told that Mrs. ED CORNISH was in the audience, and that a

Mr. NATIONS was called out of the audience by WALTER PURVIS to see two negroes who were in the hall and who later paid twenty-five cents each to hear Dr. HARRIS speak.

It is noted that DOMENICO ZINI is acting Secretary of the Communist Party in Little Rock, AUSTIN LeGRAND PIETY was Secretary of the Communist Party in Little Rock prior to entering the United States Army and IRA NEWMAN is a known Communist.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.

On January 6, 1944, [ ] advised that PURVIS had invited him to attend a meeting of the Council to be held in Parlor B at the Marion Hotel in the latter part of November, 1943. He later read that PURVIS was Chairman, IRA NEWMAN was Vice-Chairman, and Mrs. BERNICE NEWMAN, wife of IRA NEWMAN, was Secretary-Treasurer of the Council in Little Rock.

b7D

A clipping of the Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock Newspaper, under date of December 5, 1943, reflects that a nucleus for a Little Rock branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. meeting at the Hotel Marion, December 2, 1943, heard Miss SYLVIA ENGEL of New York, Field Representative, explain the purpose of the organization, which drew twenty-five thousand persons to Madison Square Garden in New York recently to celebrate the anniversary of the creation of the Red Army. The article reflects about twenty-five persons heard Miss ENGEL endeavor to add Little Rock to the thirty-five community organizations now in existence, and verified the appointment of the committee as named above. When asked if the organization were not in reality a cover-up for Communist propaganda, the paper reported Miss ENGEL denied any such implications. She said, "Our organization is not political; it is educational. We feel it is necessary that the people of America understand our Allies, the Russians, in order to establish a world-wide democracy and an enduring peace." Miss ENGEL also indicated that next month the Congress of American Soviet Friendship plans a nation wide celebration of the establishment ten years ago of diplomatic relationship between the United States and Russia. Mrs. NEWMAN was reported as saying that it is hoped that Little Rock, Arkansas will be able to take part in the celebration.

Investigation concerning the NEWMANS has indicated that Mrs. NEWMAN plans a trip to New York City about the time scheduled for the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship.

A clipping of the Arkansas Democrat, Little Rock, dated December 12, 1943, reflects permanent officers of this group were to be elected at a meeting to be held at 7:30 P. M., Thursday, December 16, 1943; that preliminary organization was made and PURVIS named temporary Chairman at a earlier meeting; that efforts would be made to later organize similar chapters over the state and to combine into a federated group and that the organization of the chapter at Little Rock followed a recent visit to Little Rock by Miss SYLVIA ENGEL of New York, Field Representative of the Council.

Investigation by Special Agent BURTON J. PACIORETTY reflects SYLVIA ENGEL registered with a man at the Marion Hotel, registering as Mr. and Mrs. JOHN O. CRANE of [redacted] New York City, on November 29, 1943, that they proceeded to the Hotel Parks at Hot Springs, Arkansas and returned to the Marion Hotel where they stayed December 2nd and 3rd. Assistant Manager GRANTHAM of the Hotel advised that although Miss ENGEL used her married name when registering, that she gave the name SYLVIA ENGEL to the desk clerk in order that she could receive calls under that name.

b7C

PURVIS arranged for meetings to be held in Parlor B at the Marion Hotel, indicating he expected about twenty-five persons. In addition to the meeting of December 2nd, meetings were scheduled for December 9, 23, and January 6. However, Mr. GRANTHAM did not believe that any people showed up for these later scheduled meetings. Records of the Hotel reflected the Cranes were in Room 576 on the first visit and 430 on the second visit, and that on December 2nd, a telephone call was made to Little Rock 4-6491, listed to WALTER M. PURVIS, [redacted] and on December 3rd, to Little Rock 3-2755, listed to IRA NEWMAN, [redacted]

b6
b7C

The following wires were sent according to the Hotel records:

November 29th to the Hotel Parks, Hot Springs, Arkansas: "Arriving Tuesday noon instead of this evening." Signed, JOHN O. CRANE.

December 2nd to FRANCESCA CRANE, [redacted]
[redacted] New York City: "Spending Friday night at Peabody Hotel, Memphis, and hope to be home late Saturday so that we may go out together Sunday afternoon. Love and kisses always. Papa."

b6
b7C

Investigation by Special Agent EDWARD D. DEVINE at Hot Springs, Arkansas is as follows:

Mr. ARTHUR CAMERON, Manager of the Parks Hotel at Hot Springs, advised that Miss ENGEL and CRANE arrived at the hotel at 1:10 P.M. on November 30, 1943 and stayed two nights, leaving during the day of December 2nd for the Marion Hotel in Little Rock. They registered as in Little Rock and were in Room 308. Mr. CAMERON spoke to them and recalls them, but states as far as he knows, they had no callers, meetings, or anything out of the ordinary.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP,
Inc., Formerly known as: American Council on 100-615

Only one telephone call was made and that was to the Sevier Bath House on December 2nd. Mr. CLARK, Assistant Manager, said that the reservation for the CRANES was placed in a few days advance by a man who he thinks is an attorney in Hot Springs, who might have been W. G. BOWIE, formerly prosecutor in Hot Springs. CLARK could add nothing further.

Investigation concerning contact at the Bath House and concerning wires at the Western Union office was negative.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

One copy of this report is being sent to the Memphis Field Division for information, inasmuch as SYLVIA ENGEL, also known as Mrs. JOHN O. CRANE, probably stayed at the Peabody Hotel in Memphis, December 3, 1943.

SOURCE OF INFORMATION A: Search of the office of attorney WALTER M. PURVIS 206 Reigler Building, Little Rock, Arkansas, October 15, 1943 by Special Agents DONALD C. FRANKEL, OLIN L. BROWDER, and the writer. Attorney HENRY C. REIGLER, Custodian of the Reigler Building, cooperated in this matter.

A subsequent search of this office, January 14, 1944 obtained no additional information.

The Yardbird dated October 23, 1943 carried an article captioned "WHITEY COMES HOME" which related that WHITEY (BERNARD GOODFRIEND) known-Communist, a merchant seaman, formerly of Local 43, IUMSWA, visited the Union and expressed his admiration for the Soviet Armies. According to the article, it was GOODFRIEND'S opinion that Local 43 should support American-Soviet Friendship Week as a demonstration of its support to the President and the United States Army in recognition of the ten ye ars of American-Soviet Friendship.

The Yardbird under date of November 13, 1943 urged that this rally be supported by "every honest American to back up our President and the United Nations." In continuing, the article set forth:

"Scrolls will be offered to the workers to sign as a gesture of friendship to our heroic Ally, the Soviet Union, encouraging them to continue their crushing offensive and annihilate the Nazis. Every worker will consider it a privilege to give personal regards to the brilliant Russian Army."

It was also set forth that tickets could be obtained at the Union Home.

A petition signed by the following members of Local 43, IUMSWA, was also made available to this office:

CHARLES KASTAN, known Communist
NOVAH HICKS, known Communist
THEODORE GOLDFARB, known Communist
JOHN DELLA MONICA, known Communist
A. (B.) ROSEN, known Communist
N. A. GORDON, known Communist

Confidential Informant T-1 made available to the writer his copy of "Literature" published by the Literature Department of the National Committee, Communist Party, U.S.A., containing an article, which set that great mass meetings throughout the United States celebrated the tenth anniversary of the American-Soviet Friendship and in many cities mayors officially proclaimed American-Soviet Friendship Week.

In continuing the article brought out the fact that many examples are coming to fore of initiative and resourcefulness in spreading a wider knowledge of the Soviet Union and its leaders. In conclusion the article related that in Baltimore on November 14 through 21 was officially designated as ASF Week. Comrade HARRY MANN (Educational Director) had given personal example of what could be done by selling 175 copies of the famous "Nickel Dean" (Dean of Canterbury) on street cars carrying workers to the shipyards.

It was revealed from a highly reliable and confidential source that when FLORENCE SCHWARTZ, known Communist and Secretary to JAMES DRURY, NMU Port Agent, applied for membership in the Fourth District Leadership Training Class of the Communist Party, she listed her affiliation with ASF as an organization of which she was a member. It was noteworthy to mention the above in view of the fact that it is apparently considered an organization in which the party is interested.

ORGANIZATION ACTIVITIES:

Confidential Informant T-2 related that a woman unknown to him, visited EVELYN SCHNEIDER at Communist Party Headquarters on February 22 and discussed a press release regarding greetings to the Red Army on its twenty-sixth anniversary. SCHNEIDER informed the woman that neither SELMA O'HAR, wife of SINCE O'HAR, or ESTHER LOGAN, Literature Director, was available and referred her to MRS. ELVA LANNON, wife of AD LANNON, Secretary of the Communist Party, U.S.A.

Informant was present when BEATRICE AVNETT, wife of I. DUKE AVNETT, contacted ELVA LANNON at her home and informed her that FLORENCE SCHWARTZ had referred her to MRS. LANNON as a measure in assisting the Baltimore Council of ASF in contacting certain people to ask them if the Council could use their names in an advertisement in the Baltimore Sun on February 23, 1944. MRS. AVNETT added that two hundred greetings had been mailed to individuals for their signatures but only twenty-five had responded.

100-2275

MRS. AVNETT then gave MRS. LANNON a list of names to contact on behalf of ASF and advised her to represent herself to these individuals as an interested Party in ASF. MRS. AVNETT advised that she could not personally contact CLARK ELLIS, Baltimore Builders and Trade Unions, nor HARRY COHEN for obvious reasons though she did not make known the reasons referred to. MRS. LANNON indicated it would be better if she did not leave her name in contacting these individuals in view of her party relations. MRS. AVNETT revealed at this time that DR. J. W. BARENBURG, known Communist, had always contributed to Russian War Relief and all other Party projects in the amount of fifty to one hundred dollars.

According to informant, the following names were left by MRS. AVNETT for MRS. LANNON'S use:

DR. ADOLPH MEYER
~~RABBI MORRIS LAZARON~~
~~REV. DON FRANK FENN~~
~~REV. GUTHERIE SPEARS~~
~~REV. BRUCE McDONALD~~
~~HARRY COHEN~~
~~CLARK ELLIS~~
DR. J. W. BARENBURG

Subsequently, informant accompanied MRS. LANNON when she visited DR. BARENBURG, at which time he made it known that he would like to join the organization and asked to be admitted to membership. He could not appear as a signer to the ad in view of business affiliations.

According to informant, MRS. AVNETT again visited MRS. LANNON, at which time she made it known that RABBI MORRIS LAZARON and SIDNEY HOLLANDER had given WILLIAM C. COCHRAN a verbal lashing concerning the ad as it was originally drawn in view of the fact that it had compared military leaders in the United States to those in the Soviet Union.

Informant was present when JAMES BRANCA, Secretary of the Communist Party of Washington, D. C., visited AL LANNON, Secretary of the Communist Party U.S.A., District No. 4 and discussed prospects of having an American-Soviet Friendship Red Army Day. It was made known by LANNON at this time that the Party in Baltimore would forego their functions in view of the fact that the Baltimore Council of ASF was publishing greetings to the Army on that date.

The Baltimore Sun dated February 23, 1944 carried an article set forth as follows:

"GREETINGS TO THE RED ARMY ON ITS 26TH ANNIVERSARY

February 23, 1944

To Marshal Joseph Stalin,
Chief of the Red Army:

In hailing the great achievements of the Red Army in this war for the national liberation of all democratic peoples under your brilliant leadership, we Americans are happy to be reminded that the occasion almost coincides with the birthday of another great leader--named by history 'The Father of his Country'--George Washington.

In celebrating his birthday, we recall his great leadership in our War of National Independence, and how he--leading a peoples army against great forces of tyranny and oppression--today still stands as an inspiration to the American people and the peoples of the world fighting a war of national liberation on a global scale.

It is therefore with pride in the historical traditions of our country and its founder that we, citizens of Baltimore, greet the Red Army of the Soviet Union on its anniversary, confident that--in carrying on in the spirit of your own great tradition--we will find the twentieth century continuation of our own.

In this confidence, and in the spirit of the decisions at Teheran and Moscow, we are sure that the Red Army, under the inspiration of its founder, Lenin, and your leadership, and our own Army, with inspiration in the tradition of George Washington, will together with our allies crush the fascist enemies of civilization and democracy, and that the future celebration of Washington's Birthday and Red Army Anniversaries will be held in a world of lasting peace, security and freedom.

December 28, 1941, from THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, to CORLISS LAMONT, National Chairman, American-Soviet Friendship Committee. In this letter HARRIS set out a list of contacts in the United States for LAMONT on his nationwide speaking tour in behalf of American-Soviet Friendship. In the bottom portion of the last page of this letter appears the following handwritten notation: "JAN de GRAAF, [redacted] Beacon 2903, Portland, Oregon."

b7C

Subsequently CORLISS LAMONT was in Portland, Oregon, from January 18, 1942, to January 20, 1942, where he delivered Soviet Friendship speeches. One of his sponsors was JOSEPH CHERNIS, leading Communist Party functionary. During this period, LAMONT was known to have been in contact with PEGGY and JAN de GRAAF, husband and wife, [redacted], Portland, Oregon. Information is reflected in the Portland indices that PEGGY de GRAAFF is very wealthy and is one of the heirs of the Macey Department Store fortune, New York City, and is the possible source of a $300 yearly contribution to the Oregon State Communist Party. Various sources reflect that she is a personal friend of CORLISS LAMONT. She has in the past been identified with United Spanish Aid Society, Society For Social and Economic Research, and was during June, 1943, identified with sponsorship of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee.

Confidential Informant [redacted] advised the Portland Office that FRANK RICHARD STOVALL, Multnomah County Executive Secretary, Communist Party, had on June 8, 1943, attempted to locate PEGGY de GRAAFF and her husband JAN de GRAAFF.

Confidential Informants [redacted] reported to the writer that during the latter part of June, 1943, JAMES A. MURPHY, Executive Secretary, Oregon State Communist Party, and RICHARD STOVALL had decided to contact MARTHA BALMER, then employed at Russian War Relief Headquarters, 804 S. W. Alder Street. (Confidential Informant [redacted] has advised the writer that subject MARTHA BALMER has been employed at Russian War Relief Warehouse during summer months of 1943 when she is not teaching school. Informant has advised that MARTHA BALMER is a member and a literature director of West Side Victory Club, Communist Party.) The purpose of the foregoing visit by STOVALL and MURPHY was not known to Confidential Informants [redacted] but STOVALL arranged to call BALMER on Saturday, June 26, 1943, at the Russian War Relief Headquarters. Subsequently, informants advised as of June 30, 1943, that MARTHA BALMER was at the Communist Party Victory Bookstore, at which time BALMER advised MILDRED SEFTON, wife of LAURENCE R. SEFTON, manager of Russian War Relief Warehouse, (both of these latter individuals are known Communist Party members of the West Side Branch) that "they" were dividing "the classes" into groups. One group would study Russian. BALMER would like to have the group interview LAURENCE R. SEFTON on the subject of Russian War Relief, Port of Portland, etc.

b7D

Confidential Informant [redacted] furnished information to the writer that MARTHA BALMER tried to contact JAMES A. MURPHY on August 4, 1943, concerning the founding of a new American-Soviet Group here in Portland, Oregon. Subsequently, informant advised that MARTHA BALMER had discussed this matter with JAMES A.

b7D

MURPHY on August 18, 1943, at this time outlining to him that she had talked with a Mrs. HELD and a Mr. REECE about the American-Soviet Friendship meeting. Mr. REECE had said "we" could hold the meeting at his place. Rev. REED is also interested along with others, but Mr. HARRIS (THOMAS L. HARRIS) is not sure he can come up to the meeting and wanted to postpone it until the latter part of September, 1943. MARTHA BALMER advised MURPHY that she would be teaching school at that time and Mr. REECE would be gone also. MURPHY advised her to wire HARRIS cancelling the meeting, stating that if HARRIS can't be here when he said he would there is no object in having the meeting if there is no one here to take his place. BALMER, according to informant, advised MURPHY that she would wire HARRIS to that effect.

The identity of Rev. REED, aforementioned, is believed to refer to J. W. REED, Pastor of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church, who is variously mentioned in the Portland Field Office as one of the sponsors of the American Peace Mobilization Group in August and September, 1940, in Portland, Oregon. Rev. REED at this time represented the Portland Council for Peace. The meetings were held on August 4, 1940, at Shattuck School, 1914 S. W. Park Avenue, at 1:00 P.M., this date. The meeting was attended by Rev. J. W. REED, along with various well known Communist Party members who appeared as sponsors and attendants. Among those attendants at a later meeting held on September 14, 1940, at Shattuck School, was believed to be MARTHA BALMER, whose automobile was identified in that vicinity. The Rev. J. W. REED appears in the Portland Field Office indices in connection with National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, and he is noted to be presently President of the local Fellowship for Reconciliation Organization, which organization came involved in considerable difficulty with patriotic groups when they attempted to decorate Japanese graves on August 14, 1943. The Mr. REECE, aforementioned, may be identical with WALTER REECE, who is reported as strongly Communistic and subscriber to the West Coast Communist Party publication "People's World."

Confidential Informant T-1 made available to the writer the following telegrams sent by MARTHA HELEN BALMER to THOMAS L. HARRIS, [redacted] West Los Angeles, California: (1) (dated August 10, 1943, at 9:33 P.M., Portland, Oregon) "DEAR MR. HARRIS PLEASE LET ME KNOW IMMEDIATELY BY WIRE IF POSSIBLE JUST WHAT DAY BETWEEN AUGUST SEVENTEEN AND TWENTY-THIRD YOU COULD PLAN TO BE IN PORTLAND TO TALK AT A MEETING FOR THE PURPOSE OF POSSIBLY ORGANIZING A COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP IN THIS CITY. (signed) MARTHA H. BALMER, [redacted]" (2) (dated August 11, 1943, at 9:22 P.M., Portland, Oregon) "DEAR MR. HARRIS IN ACCORDANCE WITH YOUR WISHES HAVE DECIDED TO HAVE THE PROPOSED MEETING WEDNESDAY AUGUST TWENTY-FIFTH AT EIGHT PM. THANK YOU AND BEST WISHES FOR YOUR TRANSPORTATION. (Signed) MARTHA H. BALMER;" (3) (dated August 18, 1943, at 10:37 A.M., Portland, Oregon) "MEETING CANCELLED. (signed) MARTHA H. BALMER." Confidential Informant T-2 advised that during the months of August, 1943, there was one telephone toll charge against the telephone Cherry 1315, listed to MARY J. [redacted]

b7c

BALMER (mother of MARTHA H. BALMER), [redacted] This was a call on August 8, 1943, to telephone number 5934, Gresham, Oregon, placed by Mrs. PEGGY de GRAAFF. Telephone number 5934 is noted to be the Oregon Bulb Farms, JOHN de GRAAFF, owner.

New York, New York, September 2, 1943, 10:00 P.M.

Confidential Informant [redacted] furnished SA MAX L. GREENSTREET a letter dated September 29, 1943, directed to MARTHA BALMER from SYLVIA COLBERT, Field Division National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, New York City. Miss COLBERT referred to MARTHA BALMER's letter to the Council on September 25, 1943. COLBERT's letter stated, "We regret very much that neither you or other members of the original committee in Portland are in a position to initiate any activity in that city around the Tenth Anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. At your suggestion we are writing to LOIS P. MYERS, and we hope she will be able to cooperate with us on this important project. We shall certainly let you know if her response is favorable."

b7D

It is pointed out that LOIS P. MYERS is not identified in the Portland indices but may be identical with a LOIS P. MYERS, staff writer, Oregon Journal Newspaper, Portland, Oregon, who edits the column entitled "Mr. Fixit."

Subsequently, Confidential Informant [redacted] furnished a letter directed to MARTHA BALMER from THOMAS L. HARRIS, Executive Secretary of the Council, which is being set forth as follows:

b7D

"October 7, 1943

"Miss Martha Balmer

[redacted]
Portland, Oregon

b6
b7C

"Dear Miss Balmer:

"November 16 is the Tenth Anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. Victories of the United Nations in Italy and on the Russian Front give special significance to this Tenth Anniversary of American Soviet friendship. Demonstrations of friendship on this occasion are all the more necessary because anti-Soviet prejudice is being used to delay victory and to imperial peace after victory.

"Hitler's political blitzkreig to divide the United Nations must be stopped by overwhelming demonstrations of popular support for our Government's declared policy of unconditional surrender and of close military and political cooperation with the Soviet Union.

"For these reasons, the National Council of American Soviet Friendship is planning a nationwide series of meetings to be held during November in connection with our national congress in New York on November 6, 7, and 8. The purpose of these meetings is to enlist the widest possible community participation. Can you arrange such a meeting at any time during November, preferably near November 16th?

"Among the speakers almost certainly available for Portland are: ANNA LOUISE STRONG, whose new book is coming out with great national publicity on November 12 (she would probably be available at any time during November); General VICTOR YAKHONTOFF who expects to be in California during the period of November 17 through December 5; Mr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, who is available except for November 16 through 24; or ALBERT RHYS WILLIAMS. The cost of bringing these speakers would be approximately $50 plus rail expenses, except for Mr. HARRIS, who would be willing to waive a fixed sum in favor of 25% of the collection if he were permitted to make one at the meeting.

"In view of the brief time remaining, I urge that you give immediate consideration to this letter and send this office a telegram stating your choice of speakers in order of preference and also giving a choice of dates. The wider latitude you can give this office on both points the better.

"Cordially

/s/ "THOMAS L. HARRIS"

Confidential Informant ☐ furnished also a letter from the Council signed by CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman, dated October 15, 1943, directed to a "Mr. MYERS." This letter is in the nature of a form letter and appeals for contributions to aid American-Soviet friendship. Informant ☐ also furnished a telegram dated October 18, 1943, at Los Angeles, California, and directed to ESTHER MURPHY, Victory Bookstore, Portland, Oregon, which set forth as follows:

b7D

PD #100-1839

"UNLESS NOTIFIED BY RETURN WIRE CONFIRMING LECTURE AND OUR TERMS MUST CANCEL. (signed) CARL WINTER." Informant [ ] advised that the telegram referred to a speech by ANNA LOUISE STRONG in connection with the American-Soviet Friendship. These arrangements were being worked closely by ESTHER MURPHY, manager of the Victory Bookstore, and MARTHA BALMER. It is to be noted that ESTHER MURPHY is a leading Communist Party functionary in the State of Oregon and the wife of JAMES A. MURPHY, Executive Secretary.

b7D

Information was made available to the Portland Field Office regarding a form letter on the stationery of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., under date of October 8, 1943, directed to the office of Mayor EARL RILEY, Portland, Oregon. This letter was signed by CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman, and asked that a proclamation be made to celebrate November 16, 1943, in Portland, Oregon, as the Tenth Anniversary of diplomatic relations between the United States of America and the Soviet Union.

For guidance in this report, it is pointed out that MARTHA HELEN BALMER was married to THOMAS VINCENT FOLEY on December 30, 1943, at San Francisco, California. Hereinafter she will be referred to in this report as MARTHA BALMER FOLEY.

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished to the writer on August 31, 1943, information contained in a handwritten memorandum prepared by a Communist Party functionary, which bore the name of National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. It further contained a notation of the name of CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman, THOMAS HARRIS, Secretary, together with the name of MARTHA and another notation "hold for further action." MARTHA is believed identical with MARTHA BALMER.

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished SA MAX L. GREENSTREET with information contained in a telegram dated October 18, 1943, directed to ESTHER MURPHY, Victory Bookstore, by THOMAS L. HARRIS, Los Angeles, California. It read as follows: "SUGGEST YOU WIRE ANNA STRONG, [ ] MENLO PARK, CALIFORNIA, OR TELEPHONE HER AT MENLO PARK 25630." Informant [ ] also furnished a telegram dated October 19, 1943, directed to ESTHER MURPHY from ANNA LOUISE STRONG, which read as follows: "STRENGTH LIMITED--CAN YOU ARRANGE PLANE PRIORITY--LECTURE FEE--WRITING."

Concerning the above wire received from ANNA LOUISE STRONG, Confidential Informant [ ] advised as follows. On October 19, 1943, JAMES A. MURPHY, Executive Secretary, Communist Party, advised ESTHER MURPHY, that the Communist Party in Portland could not afford a plane trip for ANNA LOUISE STRONG just for the purpose of making a speech. He said he would purchase a round trip railroad ticket for her from San Francisco to Portland and return. Informant [ ] further advised that ESTHER MURPHY on October 22, 1943, had received two letters from

b7D

ANNA STRONG. The first one advised that she had been ill with a nervous breakdown and had decided to cancel the Portland, Seattle and Vancouver, Washington, speaking engagements; that the Boilermakers Union in Vancouver, Washington, had requested her appearance. The second letter stated that unless the meeting in Portland would be large enough to justify the strength that she expend that she would not appear as she was skeptical of Portland. Confidential Informant [ ] further advised that ESTHER MURPHY received a wire from ANNA STRONG on October 27, 1943, stating that she would reserve the 12th to the 14th of November, 1943, for her appearance in Portland, but that any date through November 19 could be arranged. ANNA STRONG desired to have the Portland section contact a COONEY HUDSON (phonetic), who resided either on [ ] [ ] Vancouver, Washington, in order to arrange the date for her speaking engagement at Vancouver. ESTHER MURPHY was instructed by JAMES A. MURPHY to let ANNA STRONG handle her own Vancouver appearance; that if she appeared in Portland her meeting should be held one day prior to the Seattle meeting.

b7D

According to Confidential Informant [ ] ESTHER MURPHY on October 30, 1943, received a letter from ANNA STRONG instructing her to arrange for both the Portland and Seattle, Washington, appearances. ESTHER MURPHY later advised her husband JAMES A. MURPHY that all arrangements had been made for the ANNA STRONG appearance; that she was to appear in Seattle on November 12, 1943; Vancouver, Washington, on November 14 and 15, 1943; and in Portland, Oregon, on November 18, 1943. ESTHER MURPHY stated that the Frontier Bookstore through MARION CAMOZZI was to be in charge of the Seattle appearance of ANNA STRONG; that these meetings are to be called the People's Victory Forum for American Soviet Friendship. Informant further noted that JAMES A. MURPHY had indicated that ANNA STRONG would appear over radio station KWJJ in Portland, Oregon, for a thirty minute broadcast. Subsequently, according to Confidential Informants [ ] ESTHER MURPHY received a wire from ANNA STRONG on November 3, 1943, cancelling the whole affair because of doctor's orders. Informant also advised that ESTHER MURPHY considered VICTOR YAKHONTOFF or THOMAS L. HARRIS as speakers of national prominence to substitute for the ANNA STRONG appearance, but it was later decided to call the meeting off. Informant [ ] noted also that ESTHER MURPHY on November 4, 1943, received a letter from Canada wherein the writer, who was unnamed, expressed a desire to have ANNA LOUISE STRONG appear in Canada the latter part of November as the Boilermakers Union have had a new building and a suitable hall available. The writer further stated that the Moscow conference and the recent Red Army victories should do much in helping ANNA STRONG gain her health.

MAJOR GENERAL VICTOR A. YAKHONTOFF

An article appeared in the Sunday Oregonian Newspaper, Portland, Oregon, dated November 7, 1943, setting forth the following information:

"RUSSIAN TO SPEAK--VICTOR A. YAKHONTOFF, an officer of the general staff with the Tenth Russian Army during World War I and a former military attache to the Imperial Russian Embassy in Japan, will speak November 16 at 8:00 P.M., in Benson Polytechnic School."

It was ascertained that the aforementioned speech was sponsored by the Finnish Branch, International Workers Order Lodge 3839, Portland, Oregon. JOHN J. RINNE, representative of this IWO Lodge, when making application for the auditorium with the Benson High School authorities, advised that the lecture was to be on Soviet-American Friendship and no admission was to be charged. The meeting opened at approximately 8:15 P.M. and closed at approximately 10:15 P.M., which period was consumed almost entirely by the speech of General YAKHONTOFF. There were forty-one persons in attendance, nineteen of whom were women. A large majority of persons present were believed to be of Finnish extraction and IWO Lodge members. The writer and SA GEORGE L. KROLL noted that HAMISH S. MacKAY occupied the speaker's rostrum with General YAKHONTOFF. It is to be noted that HAMISH S. MacKAY is a member of the Tigard, Oregon, Finnish IWO Lodge and a known Communist Party member, West Side Victory Club, Portland, Oregon. Toward the end of the speech, WILLIAM J. PENNOCK, known Communist Party member from Seattle, Washington, was identified by the writer in connection with posing certain questions to General YAKHONTOFF, which questions belittled the Fascist attitude of certain newspapers. PENNOCK subsequently attempted to obtain from the audience signers to an anti-poll tax petition sponsored by the National Committee to Abolish the Poll Tax (of which he is Western Organizer), which Committee maintains an anti-poll tax lobby in Congress. The writer also recognized present at this meeting NADIA M. OSIPOVICH, who stood and asked General YAKHONTOFF, "Why did the United Nations not jointly declare war on Finland as they are fighting Soviet Russia, who is an ally." OSIPOVICH is identified in the Portland Field Office indices as being suspected of Communist Party affiliations, and is a naturalized U. S. citizen of Russian extraction, who is presently employed as a translator for the local Government Purchasing Commission of the Soviet Union. YAKHONTOFF confined himself to advocating Soviet-American friendship and made numerous graphic references to the mighty contributions of the Red Army in the present conflict, telling the audience that it was their mission to counteract the "growing tide of hatred growing in the United States today against Soviet Russia."

THOMAS L. HARRIS

The following article appeared in the Sunday edition of the Oregonian Newspaper, February 6, 1944: "Russian Film Scheduled--The sensational Russian film, 'Experiments in Revival of Dead Organisms,' will be shown in Portland by THOMAS L. HARRIS, national secretary for the council of American-soviet friendship, between March 1 and 5. The picture which is being presented for the first time on the coast during a tour of major cities, February 24 to March 10, was previewed at a recent showing before the American Medical Society in New York."

Confidential Informant [ ] subsequently reported that ESTHER MURPHY, manager, Communist Party Victory Bookstore, expressed wonderment to JAMES A. MURPHY as to who had inserted the foregoing article in the newspaper as apparently the proposed trip of THOMAS L. HARRIS was unknown to local Communist Party functionaries. b7D

Subsequently, newspaper publicity was set forth announcing the showing of the Russian film entitled "Experiments in the Revival of Animal Organisms," which film was shown on March 3, 1944, at the Reed College Chapel by THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Publicity was also given the showing of this same film on Saturday evening at 8:00 P.M., March 4, 1944, in the Tyrolean Room, Benson Hotel, Portland, Oregon. It was noted that the showing of the film was stated to be under the auspices of the Provisional Committee for the Portland Council of American-Soviet Friendship. THOMAS L. HARRIS is to describe the work of the council and answer questions from the audience. Confidential Informant [ ] furnished to SA GEORGE L. KROLL and SA MILTON O. RIEPE information to the effect that ESTHER MURPHY on February 23, 1944, negotiated the Benson Hotel to secure as a donation the use of the hotel's Tyrolean Room for a meeting of a group interested in American-Soviet friendship. At this time ESTHER MURPHY urged HENRY/ESTERLY, Communist Party member, to secure a movie projector to show the Russian scientific medical film. b7D

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that the informant had received a mimeographed letter dated February 28, 1944, enclosed in an envelope postmarked March 2, 1944, at Portland, Oregon. This letter invited the recipient to the viewing of the aforementioned Russian film on March 4, 1944, at the Benson Hotel. It set forth that the meeting is being held under the auspices of the Provisional Committee of the Portland Council of American-Soviet Friendship. THOMAS L. HARRIS, National Secretary, it was noted, would be present to describe the work of the Council and answer questions from the audience. With this letter was enclosed a brochure on aims and purposes of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This letter was signed MARTHA H. BALMER, Secretary. The foregoing letter and brochure are being retained in subject's file, properly identified, for future reference.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised SA MAX L. GREENSTREET on March 6, 1944, that MARTHA BALMER FOLEY and ESTHER MURPHY were dinner guests of THOMAS L. HARRIS at the Oyster Loaf Restaurant on the evening of March 3, 1944. At this dinner HARRIS allegedly instructed that he wanted some Communist Party representatives in the local American-Soviet Friendship Committee, stating that money was no obstacle. HARRIS allegedly wanted MARTHA BALMER FOLEY to be the secretary, stating that the secretary sometimes receives as high as $500 per month. Confidential Informant [ ] stated that information had been received concerning the meeting and the showing of the Russian medical film on the evening of March 4, 1944, at the Benson Hotel. There were approximately 125 persons b7D present at this meeting, which started at 8:30 P.M. Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS, local physician and surgeon with offices in the Medical Arts Building, acted as chairman and introduced the guest speaker, THOMAS L. HARRIS. HARRIS proceeded to explain the pictures on Soviet medical data; and after the showing of the picture, discussed at some length Russia and how Russia was winning the war. He talked generally on how superior in all ways Russia was to the United States, and it was noted that the meeting lasted until 10:30 P.M. The following Communist Party members were noted at this meeting: REX DENNISON, MORRIS and FLORENCE GOODMAN, ESTHER MURPHY, SYLVIA KATZ, SAM COEHN, JOE CHERNIS, ELEANOR McMICKLE, AYD, WILLIAM H. JONES, MARTHA BALMER, JULIA JONES, CARL SAMBER, RUTH STOVALL, MARY JAME BAIRD, AYD, JAMES HUGHES, ROSE PAYNE. Informant further advised that Communist Party sympathizers Dr. RALPH I. SHADDUCK and Rev. FRITZ and Rev. RICHARD M. STEINER, both Unitarian ministers, were present. MARTHA BALMER assisted Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS as temporary secretary. MARTHA BALMER seemed to be well acquainted with Rev. FRITZ and Rev. STEINER. At the close of the meeting approximately $60 was collected and turned over to THOMAS L. HARRIS as contribution. HARRIS suggested that the money was to be used to meet his personal expenses with the remainder to be turned over to the new Portland Committee for Soviet Friendship. Informant further advised that a negro man from Vancouver, Washington, was in the company of WILLIAM H. JONES and JULIA JONES, Communist Party members from Vancouver, Washington. Towards the close of the meeting, this negro asked THOMAS L. HARRIS about racial discrimination in the Soviet Union. HARRIS advised him that there was none.

Confidential Informant T-5 was in attendance at this meeting and advised that Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS in his introduction pointed out to the audience that this was a very important experiment, showing the advancement of Russian culture and scientific knowledge, stating that in the United States when such experiments are conducted by scientific people they are done in secret by the Duponts, the aluminum corporations, and other capitalist groups who deprive the people from benefits of such advancements. Informant T-5 noted that THOMAS L. HARRIS came to the meeting with a Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM de GRAAFF, who assisted him in bringing his equipment to the show. It is to be noted that WILLIAM de GRAAFF is the father of JAN de GRAAFF. JAN and PEGGY de GRAAFF were not at the meeting, according to informant, in view of the fact they had a previous dinner engagement which they could not break. Informant noted that Mrs. ROSE PAYNE was introduced to Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM de GRAAFF and THOMAS L. HARRIS by MARTHA BALMER FOLEY, and Mrs. PAYNE at this time gave a $10 check to HARRIS. It is to be noted that Mrs. ROSE PAYNE is a Communist Party key figure and wife of EARL ELWOOD PAYNE, Administrative Secretary, Oregon State Communist Party, newly arrived in Portland, Oregon. Mrs. ROSE PAYNE was observed seated in a group including ABRAHAM and NADIA OSIPOVICH. Informant noted that these people all seemed to know one another. Three local doctors were noted present by informant, namely Dr. STEINBERG, Dr. BOOTH, and Dr. GOLDMAN. One other Russian woman was noted to be present, namely Mrs. N. TOKARAV, [REDACTED] This latter individual did not seem to be with any particular group. Two men believed to be Russian employees of the Government Purchasing Commission of the Soviet Union, whose names are unknown, were observed in the audience by themselves. Informants specifically noticed that THOMAS L. HARRIS' speech contained a note of threat in connection with the United States' negotiation of friendship with the Soviet Union. Informant advised that HARRIS stated at one time, "Russia cannot trust her safety to a speculation as to what the United States will do after or before the next election.....She has no sentimental interest in the United States, but is interested solely in the safety of the Soviet Union..... Our interest in Soviet friendship has been made clear by our leaders.....If the United States does not maintain friendship, we will have thousands of bread lines after the War and will lose two hundred million Soviet customers." HARRIS promised that there would be a local committee formed, stating that he wanted labor leaders, lawyers, bankers, businessmen, doctors, and people who are interested in the mutual benefit of both countries to join the membership. He said that special materials were put out by the National Council which would interest each one of the professional groups aforementioned. He seemed to give special emphasis to the fact that he wished lawyers to join the committee so as they could explain its functions to other people. Prior to the beginning of the meeting, informant noted Rev. RICHARD M. STEINER, Unitarian minister, together with another minister talking to THOMAS L. HARRIS and Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS. ELLIS was overheard to ask Rev. STEINER, "What is your denomination?" When STEINER replied that he was Unitarian, HARRIS was alleged to remark, "Oh, wouldn't you know it." According to informant, this remark apparently offended Rev. STEINER who left the meeting and did not return for the medical film show. It was the informant's opinion that the meeting did not go over with a greater majority of the audience and informant described THOMAS L. HARRIS as a very ineffective speaker.

Confidential Informant T/5 advised that the following pamphlets concerning the Soviet Union were on a table for sale at this meeting: "Soviet Children and their Care" by ROSE SAURER; "A Family of Nations, the Soviet Union," published by National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc.; "The Tenth Anniversary of American-Soviet Relations," containing addresses by Secretary ICKES, Ambassador GROMYKO, DONALD NELSON, and others; "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union," by EDWIN S. SMITH; "America and Russia," by CORLISS LAMONT. All of the foregoing pamphlets bore the stamp "Victory Bookstore, 316 S. W. Broadway, Portland, Oregon." It is pointed out that the Victory Bookstore is operated by ESTHER MURPHY, key figure, Communist Party, and is the official Communist Party bookstore for Portland, Oregon.

Confidential Informant   furnished the following report on the aforementioned meeting:

b7D

"1. It was observed that there were approximately 125 persons in attendance at this meeting, including five members of the military personnel;

a major, branch unknown, of the Ninth Service Command; a captain in the Medical Corps, Ninth Service Command; a lieutenant in the Medical Corps, Ninth Service Command; a T/5, Signal Corps, of the Ninth Service Command; and a private in the Signal Corps, of the Trail Blazer Division, evidently Camp Adair. The following names were obtained during the course of the meeting of representatives of the Council: The main speaker, Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, Doctors ELLIS, STEINBERG and BOOTH, the latter three being physicians. There was one Negro in attendance, name unknown. The majority of the audience appeared to be of Jewish descent.

"2. The meeting was opened by Doctor ELLIS, who introduced the main speaker of the evening, Dr. THOMAS L. HARRIS, secretary of the National Council. Doctor HARRIS opened the meeting by outlining, first, three great discrepancies in the American philosophy toward the Soviet, the first of which was the philosophy that the Soviet war production is very inefficient. The speaker pointed out that the film about to be shown will show great evidence of Soviet scientific development. Secondly, that Soviet progress in the war gives evidence of her efficient war production, because of the fact that Soviet home production was sufficient to turn the Germans back from Moscow and save Leningrad before any Lend-Lease equipment reached her. The speaker stated that about 25% of the total war material in the Soviet at the present time is Lend-Lease, and almost all of that is radio equipment. The speaker concluded that these figures give definite proof that the Soviet is far from inefficient.

"The second great discrepancy the speaker mentioned, was the American feeling that the Soviet has territorial ambitions. The speaker stated that the Soviet is only interested in keeping Germany in her place; that it is only a natural philosophy, resulting from the fact that the Germans have invaded the Soviet twice in 25 years, and have penetrated deep enough that if the invasions had taken place in America, they would have penetrated from the West Coast as far as St. Louis. The speaker emphasized that the Soviet has absolutely no territorial ambitions.

"As a third discrepancy, the speaker pointed out that the Soviet is not seeking, as some people would lead you to believe, to spread its political theories world wide. The speaker emphasized that it is to the advantage of both nations to maintain friendship in the post-war world. The speaker cited, as an example, that in the event that the United States and the Soviet could not get along, both nations would suffer through lack of trade; for example, the Soviets, who formerly raised Ukrainian wheat for exportation only are now capable of using all Ukrainian wheat entirely for their own consumption, and furthermore, if the United States' and Soviet's relations are strained, it will only lead to a third world war. In this connection, the speaker added that the Soviet philosophy is very admirable in many traits, and those of us who are interested in making the United States a constantly advancing nation should recognize, and incorporate into our scheme, the better things we observe about other nations. The speaker pointed out that the picture to be shown this evening is an example of the result of the USSR's achievement of giving to the people the accomplishments of science, adding that had this same development been made in the United States, the rights to it would have been bought out by some large company, such as Standard Oil, and it would have been hidden away indefinitely rather than given to the people.

"3. The picture was shown, which was made in 1940 in the Soviet, of developments in medical science during 1939. The film was primarily one of medical interest emphasizing the progress that Soviet science has made. The main theme of the picture was to demonstrate that isolated organisms of an animal body could be kept alive, and, when replaced in the body, the animal could be restored to life.

"4. Following the picture, Doctor HARRIS called for discussion, both on the scientific aspects of the picture, and also on any questions which the members would care to ask about the Soviet. In answer to the question as to the practical aspects of the film shown, Doctor HARRIS stated that although there is no practical application of the methods demonstrated in the film, that there is definite probability that it may turn into something. He compared it to the atom smasher, and stated that the country that controls the power of the atom smasher could rule the rest of the world, and in the event the Soviet developed it, the United States would want her as a friend; similarly, if the United States developed it first, the Soviet would want the United States as a friend, and concluded with the statement, 'Let's be friends with Russia.' (Round of applause.) Doctor HARRIS explained the nature and the purpose of the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship, stated that it had been requested through popular demand that a Council be organized in Portland. The speaker stated that they wanted a small group of about 40 persons, which would be a thoroughly representative body, or cross section of the community. The speaker emphasized that he wanted representative people of all fields, medical, legal and others, and gave special emphasis to representatives of the American Bar Association, as he put it, 'to speak for the Council and give its doctrine to the various organizations.' In answer to a question as to whether they wanted individuals as such, or representatives of other organizations, Doctor HARRIS replied that they would prefer representatives of other organizations.

Army advised.

"Reference to the Communist Party was brought in, in answer to a question asked as to what steps the Soviet has taken to control liquor and venereal diseases. In addition to the restrictions placed by the government itself, and a joking reference made by the speaker to the fact that taxes from liquor go directly to the temperance cause, he stated that the Communist Party itself does not tolerate immoral conduct, or excessive drinking, and anyone found guilty of such activities would be dismissed from the Party. He stated that great moral pressure is placed upon the people through the Communist Party, in addition to actual positive steps taken by the government, with a net result that both of these great problems have been decreased tremendously. In this connection, the speaker added that he was very much surprised on his trip to the Soviet in 1936 that the family unit in the Soviet was very strong; that he had met several women, and knew that it was a common thing, who already had four or five children and yet wanted more, and the speaker added that he considered this to be a much stronger unit than we have in the United States.

"A question was raised as to what steps the Soviet is taking to assist in the Jewish refugee problem. The speaker stated that the Soviet has already taken in more Jewish refugees than has the United States or any other country, however, at the present time, due to the fact that the Soviet has approximately 35,000,000 refugees of her own to take care of, further assistance to Jewish refugees is hardly possible.

"The Negro in attendance asked the speaker, Doctor HARRIS, whether or not there was any racial discrimination in the Soviet. He pointed out, as an example; that in the Caucasus there is a settlement of Negroes, a rather large settlement, who are descendants of house slaves freed over a hundred years ago, even before the serfs were freed; that they lived in complete contentment; and that there was absolutely no racial discrimination against them. In connection with this, the speaker cited an example when he was on the train between Moscow and Rostov, he accidentally said the word 'lyid' which, the speaker explained, is the equivalent of our English word 'kyke.' At that point, the speaker stated, he noticed a Soviet policeman sitting across from him, who immediately got up, wrote out a ticket, and was going to fine him $15.00 on the spot for using a word denoting racial discrimination. The speaker stated that he explained to the policeman that he was very sorry, but that his Russian was very bad, and that he was an American, and then went on to say, 'For the first time in my life, I was ashamed of being an American.' Then the cop tore up the ticket and said, 'You Americans haven't learned that yet.'

"5. The general attitude of the audience indicated that they were primarily interested in the political aspects, rather than the medical. Doctor HARRIS stated that he was a professor of history, a former rector of the Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, and, while interested in the medical aspects of the film, was much more interested in it as documentary evidence of the Soviet's scientific progress and development. Reference jokingly made to President ROOSEVELT and to that obscure magazine, 'The Congressional Record,' were enthusiastically applauded by the audience. In connection with reference to 'The Congressional Record,' the speaker stated that a translation of the same into Russian gave evidence to the Soviet of the indecision of the United States, and only made them more confused as to what this country will do after the Presidential election in 1944.

"It was suggested by one attendant at the meeting that steps be taken at once, during this meeting, to organize the Portland Council, however, no further steps were taken, other than circulating pieces of paper to be signed by members of the audience, giving their name, address and occupation, to indicate they were interested in the movement."

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished a pamphlet entitled "The Tenth Anniversary of Soviet Relations," which pamphlet was offered for sale at this meeting and contained on the back side the rubber stamped notation "Victory Bookstore, 316 S. W. Broadway, Portland, Oregon." This pamphlet, properly identified, is being retained in subject file for future reference.

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished to SA FRANCIS D. O'BRIEN information concerning an individual believed to be JOSEPH CHERNIS, who talked with EARL PAYNE, administrative secretary, Communist Party, concerning the American-Soviet Friendship Committee being formed in Portland, Oregon. This man stated he would like to organize a Communist group in this committee, signifying he could approach this group if he was connected with them in some way. CHERNIS also was advised by PAYNE at that time that there was no local committee for the Soviet-American Friendship Committee. Subsequently, this informant advised Agent O'BRIEN on March 7, 1944, that EARL PAYNE had allegedly told EDDY ALEXANDER, 12th District educational director, that MARTHA BALMER FOLEY had taken over temporary secretaryship of the American-Soviet Friendship Committee. PAYNE remarked at this time that the recent film shown here on restoration of life by scientists was not particularly successful as most people who attended are interested in the business side of it. Informant also advised Agent O'BRIEN on March 10, 1944, that ESTHER MURPHY, EDDY ALEXANDER, and EARL PAYNE had discussed the American-Soviet Friendship Committee, at which time ESTHER MURPHY allegedly said that she had on that date talked with THOMAS L. HARRIS concerning the showing of the Russian film in Seattle, Washington. HARRIS advised ESTHER MURPHY that the Portland showing was much better handled, ESTHER MURPHY then discussed the placing of key people in the Friendship Committee and discussing the basis of their organization. Subsequently, Informant [ ] advised Agent O'BRIEN that EDDY ALEXANDER and EARL PAYNE were together on the following afternoon, March 11, 1944, with the "Soviet Friendship girl." This meeting was for the purpose of discussing the various matters in connection with the organization of the local committee.

b7D

SA GEORGE L. KROLL and SA JOHN E. HOLMES conducted a surveillance of EDDY ALEXANDER and EARL PAYNE from 1:40 P.M. on March 11, 1944, until approximately 2:45 P.M. PAYNE and ALEXANDER were observed to have entered Hilaire's Restaurant, Broadway and Washington Streets, at approximately 1:40 P.M., in company with a well dressed, dark haired young woman. These three individuals subsequently returned to Communist Party Headquarters, 204 Postal Building. At approximately 2:45 P.M., the writer had occasion to observe the young woman in the presence of PAYNE and ALEXANDER during this period and noted that she was MARTHA BALMER FOLEY.

Confidential Informant [ ] furnished information to SA FRANCIS D. O'BRIEN on March 13, 1944, that ESTHER MURPHY had advised EDDY ALEXANDER that she had an appointment in Vancouver, Washington, on the afternoon of March 14, 1944, regarding the Soviet Friendship matter. b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] advised SA HOWARD W. JENNINGS and SA MAX L. GREENSTREET that THOMAS I. HARRIS was reported to the informant to have been in the Victory Bookstore on March 7, 1944, discussing the Soviet Friendship Committee with ESTHER MURPHY. At this time HARRIS stated that Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS would be the permanent chairman and that MARTHA BALMER FOLEY will be the permanent secretary of the Portland Soviet Friendship Committee. He allegedly cautioned ESTHER MURPHY to watch MARTHA BALMER FOLEY carefully and to make sure that she did not show anyone the Soviet Friendship correspondence. HARRIS said that specific individuals should be recruited into the Committee and not organizations. THOMAS I. HARRIS had just returned from Seattle, Washington, on the occasion of this visit. ESTHER MURPHY furnished information that there were two local sponsors presently lined up by the local Soviet Friendship Committee. These sponsors were identified as a Mr. JAN E. BAUER residing at the Mallory Hotel, Portland, Oregon, who allegedly has told ESTHER MURPHY that he is a member of the Communist Party. He is a lecturer and told ESTHER MURPHY allegedly that he will be a sponsor for the local committee. ESTHER MURPHY also furnished information that LAURENCE SEFTON, manager of Russian War Relief Warehouse, is to be another sponsor for the local committee. 2

HARLAND ALLEN

Confidential Informant T-5 furnished information that a Mr. HARLAND ALLEN, an economist, writer, and lecturer, from Chicago, Illinois, made a speech before the City Club of Portland at 12:10 P.M. on February 18, 1944. At this time the local City Club bulletin was furnished to the writer under date of February 18, 1944, which contained notes on postwar Russo-American markets. These notes set forth statistical information, the economic status of Russia, and why it was important that the United States could seek economic collaboration. The speech delivered by HARLAND ALLEN was entitled "The Businessmen's Stake in American-Soviet Friendship." It was Informant T-5's opinion that ALLEN's speech was strongly flavored, showing favoritism toward Russia, and informant further noted that ALLEN seemed to be anti-British. Informant noticed specifically that ALLEN stated, "If there is going to be trouble after the present war, it will be between Britain and the United States over world trade and not between the United States and the USSR."

Subsequently, Confidential Informant T-4 advised that HARLAND ALLEN had been greatly interested in getting his bearings on the shipping industry in Portland, Oregon, and viewing the shipbuilding also. Subsequently ALLEN furnished to informant a number of copies of a pamphlet on Soviet-American friendship, suggesting that he pass them around to some of his friends. This pamphlet is entitled "The Businessmen's Stake in American-Soviet Friendship," written by HARLAND H. ALLEN. It was noted that further copies in quantity lots could be obtained at the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 135 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois. It was informant's believe that HARLAND ALLEN may have some connection with Soviet propaganda.

In the March 11, 1944, issue of the Oregonian Newspaper, there was noted information of a debate concerning a lasting alliance with Russia. This debate was discussed before the Lions and Optimist Clubs by MARIAN HERZOG and MARGARET ALLER, University of Washington students from Seattle, Washington. It was noted that WADE KNISELEY, coach of the discussion squad and special instructor at the University of Washington, accompanied HERZOG and ALLER. For what further significance it may be, there was also noted an article entitled "U.S., U.S.S.R. Deemed Alike," which appeared in the March 14, 1944, issue of the Oregonian Newspaper. This article concerned a press statement by ALFRED MIROVITCH, pianist and lecturer on Russia, who was in Portland on March 12, 1944, to conduct conferences with Portland teachers of music. It was noted that MIROVITCH has made nine tours of the world in his musical profession, but for the past several years has devoted at least half his time to creating a better understanding between the U.S.S.R. and the United States. He spoke very favorably of Soviet-American friendship, and pointing out numerous advantages under the Soviet Union.

THE PORTLAND FIELD DIVISION

AT PORTLAND, OREGON:

Will continue to follow and report the activities of Dr. ROBERT H. ELLIS, chairman, and MARTHA BALMER FOLEY, secretary, Portland Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The extent of Communist infiltration and control of this local committee, together with their methods of gaining recruits to the committee as well as secure funds for carrying on its work, should be reported in particular.

Will make a discreet contact at the Oregonian Newspaper to ascertain the identity of the individual placing the announcement of February 6, 1944, concerning the visit of THOMAS L. HARRIS, national secretary. It is to be noted that this visit was apparently unknown to local Communist Party members who had previously been in close touch with THOMAS L. HARRIS.

THE SEATTLE FIELD DIVISION

Copies of this report are being furnished to the Seattle Field Division in view of the various mention of persons connected with American-Soviet Friendship in the Seattle Field Office territory.

THE CHICAGO FIELD DIVISION

Copies of this report are being furnished to the Chicago Field Office for their information and guidance in connection with possible propaganda activities of HARLAND H. ALLEN connected with HARLAND ALLEN's associates, 10 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois. It is believed advisable for the Chicago Field Office to furnish the Portland Field Office a brief summary of any information connecting ALLEN with the Soviet Friendship group in view of the fact that he has made important contacts in this area.

PITTSBURGH COUNCIL

72176

Pittsburgh, Pa.,

March 17, 1944.

There was held on Monday, March 6th, a meeting of the Pittsburgh Council of American Soviet Friendship at Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Pageant began at 8:15 P. M. and showed the work of the Soviet women in the shops, Hospitals and the Army; this was completed at 9:15 P. M. and then the main speaker of the evening Ella Winters, writer, and world traveler gave a talk.

Dr. Marion Hathway, presented speaker Winters and said that she was at one time a member of the British Labor Party in England and also secretary to Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and this was at the Peace Conference in France in the year 1919.

Ella Winters then said that she traveled in the Soviet Union in the years 1930 and 1931 and the people of the Soviet Union were loyal to their country and form of Government which she said was the peoples government. She said they were loyal in the face of great odds and even when they were raped during the occupancy of the city of Stalingrad and now they are to become mothers to German fathers, and still they were loyal, for Stalin had banned all abortions and the children would be reared as Russian subjects.

She said that co-education has been banned in the Soviet Union because when boys would reach the age of 16 years, they would be sent to military schools and the girls taught home economics.

She went on to say there were 139 nationalities in the Soviet Union and yet there was no discrimination with these many and varied nationalities. At one time she said the land of Russians had all prostitutes paged and they were issued Yellow Tickets to travel from town to town to play but Stalin had put a stop to this, liberated these poor and ignorant women and gave them jobs and new health. She said there were 80,000,000 women in that country working in war plants and on farms and they were interested in winning the war and helping their men at the front; she said they were the backbone of the Red Armies and an example of what her sex could do if properly organized.

Dr. Hathway called for a question and answer period and a Russian woman asked if she might speak and informed Ella Winters that she was in error when she said the Jews and prostitutes had to have Yellow Tickets to travel from town to town, that her mother was not a prostitute and she traveled from town to town and graduated from the University of Moscow. At this point, there was a wrangle and it was some time until order was restored.

When order was finally restored, Ella Winters took the floor and apologized for her remark and mistake.

Dr. Hathway then said that the hour was getting late and the meeting would stand adjourned; this was at 10:30 P. M. and there were about 200 people present.

The following named persons were among those present.

✓ Russian War Relief sponsored the official opening of the Bridgeport Russian War Relief Program which highlighted an impressive ceremony held in celebration of the 26th anniversary of the Red Army on January 30, 1944.

The program which opened at 2:30 in the Klein Memorial had Captain OREST SHEVTSOV, famed Russian artillery commander as guest of honor and recipient of gifts from more than 40 representatives of Bridgeport organizations.

LEIGH DANENBERG, Bridgeport Russian War Relief Committee Chairman, told the audience that the organizations contributing gifts represented a cross-section of Bridgeport's population with more than 40 representatives of labor unions, churches, clubs, Lodges, and nationality groups taking part.

It will be noted that LEIGH DANENBERG, Publisher of the Bridgeport "Sunday Herald", which paper is known to follow the Communist Party line and to be pro-Russian, attended the meeting of subject organization called by Dr. CORLISS LAMONT on Saturday, December 5, 1942 in New York City. This information is reflected in reference report.

At this same celebration HOWARD HAAG, General Secretary of the YMCA at Bridgeport, made his presentation speech in Russian. IRVING MITCHELL, Vice-President of the NAACP presented gifts from his own organization and from the Intercollegiate Club as well. EDWARD C. O'BRIEN, President of the City Industrial Union Council, presented gifts from the five international unions in the Council. PETER BERNARD presented gifts from the Bridgeport Central Labor Union and other A.F. of L. Locals. Also represented at this celebration were the American Slav Congress of Connecticut, headed by BEN PUTENS, known member of the Communist Party at Hartford, Connecticut; the Bridgeport Teachers Association, headed by FRANK R. KENNEL, known member of the Communist Party at Bridgeport; the Executive Board of the City Industrial Union Council; the Mothers' Club of St. John the Baptist Russian Greek Catholic Cathedral; and various representatives from all the nationality groups of the International Workers' Order Lodges.

Other Communist Party members who were present and took an active part in this program included Mr. and Mrs. ALEXANDER KARPIN of Bridgeport, LEON FLEISCHER of Bridgeport, JACK ZIERAN of Bridgeport, and Mrs. RUTH E. KENNEL, also of Bridgeport.

Captain SHEVTSOV was the main guest of honor and offered his thanks for this celebration in Russian.

The "Bridgeport Sunday Herald", February 20, 1944 edition reflects an article showing that the Bridgeport Branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., in cooperation with the YMCA will offer a course of six lectures on the history of Russia, as was announced by HOWARD HAAG, General Secretary. LEIGH DANENBERG is Chairman of the Sponsoring Committee.

NH 100-1904

This same paper carried an article on February 27, 1944 which reflects further information concerning these lectures, which is as follows :

A course on the history of Russian people will be given on six Monday evenings starting March 6 under the joint sponsorship of the Bridgeport Chapter on Relations with Soviet Russia and the Bridgeport YMCA. VLADIMIR D. KAZAKEVICH, specialist on Russian economics and history, and for several years a teacher at Columbia University and the American Institute of Banking, will conduct the course. An outline of the subjects to be covered and the dates on which each will be given is as follows:

- March 6 - Dawn of Russian History: The Kiev State.
- March 13 - Russia Re-emerges with the Rise of Moscow.
- March 20 - Rise and Fall of the Empire.
- March 27 - Industrialization of the Country.
- April 3 - Rural Russia, Old and New.
- April 10 - The Soviet Federation and the War.

HOMER B. OGLE, Young Men's Secretary at the YMCA, is in direct charge of the course for which a registration fee of $2.00 is being charged.

Professor KAZAKEVICH, who was born in Russia and who as recently as 1936 has been a visitor in his native land, has just completed a survey course on Soviet economy as a part of a study program on Contemporary Civilization given at Cornell University. He served for some time as financial reporter for the Journal of Commerce and wrote a column in Russian for the Russian language newspaper "Russky Golos". He is the grandson of one of the founders of Vladivostok. Members of the sponsoring committee are LEIGH DANENBERG, Chairman; HOWARD L. HAAG, Vice-Chairman; W. PARKER SEELEY, Executive Secretary; and JOHN SHENTON, Treasurer.

NH 100-1904

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that subject organization to his knowledge has no permanent office or set-up in Bridgeport and that its activities have seemed to merge with the local organization of Russian War Relief. The only Party member who has been active in the organization is AGNES ROBERTSON MEYERS, who this informant believes to have attended a meeting of subject organization held in New York City in November of last year. This informant stated that he had no knowledge of the election of any officers in Bridgeport to the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship nor to any local chapter of this organization, but from all indications LEIGH DANENBERG, Chairman of the Russian War Relief is the ostensible leader of subject organization in Bridgeport.

b7D

Confidential Informant T-1 stated that he has received no correspondence from subject organization in Bridgeport and that it was not organized here as far as he knew nor has it ever been brought to his attention that any prominent citizens in Bridgeport have been contacted to sponsor this organization.

New Haven Activities

Confidential Informant [ ] reported on December 19, 1943 that ROSE DWORSKI, known member of the Communist Party in New Haven, had told BENJAMIN KEEN, also a member of the Communist Party at New Haven, that she would need $125 to cover various expenses incurred by the local chapter of subject organization. KEEN stated that he had $75 from LOUIS KATKO, also a member of the Communist Party at New Haven, and that KATKO may have another $5 or $10 donation and that one DAVID STAHL, member of the professional branch of the Communist Party at Hamden, Connecticut, had $30 to turn in.

b7D

KEEN told this informant that he had drawn up three letters for the different types of people or organizations to which they are to be sent and that he has given these to DAVID STAHL, who in turn is to submit the letters to one HAMILTON and it was hoped that HAMILTON would approve the letters and permit his name to be used as a signer. These letters called for the organization of a chapter of subject organization which would be set up soon, possibly in New Haven, Connecticut.

On November 12, 1943 Confidential Informant T-2 advised that ROSE DWORSKI was Secretary and Treasurer of the New Haven chapter of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., of 87 Orange Street, New Haven.

Confidential Informant [ ] was contacted and advised that the organization will probably have its headquarters in Hartford, Connecticut, rather than New

b7D

NH 100-1904

Haven and that to date there has been no formation of a permanent chapter of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in New Haven and no officers have been elected but that ROSE DWORSKI, who had formerly acted as Secretary and Treasurer of the organization is the one who will probably be responsible for the activities of this organization in New Haven. He further stated that the organization has not of recent date engaged in any outstanding activities but is working more in conjunction with Russian War Relief.

Confidential Informant T-3 advised Special Agent JAMES J. COLEMAN on January 27, 1944 that Dr. EMILY MILLER PIERSON, known member of the Communist Party of Cromwell, Connecticut, made a statement that she was a director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., and that all directors were assessed $100 by the organization and that she had paid her assessment. This informant further stated that EMILY PIERSON issued her personal check dated November 8, 1943 in the amount of $100, payable to the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., which check was drawn on the Middletown Branch of the Hartford, Connecticut Trust Company. The check was endorsed by Stanford "National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., 232 Madison Avenue, New York City."

On October 27, 1943 EMILY PIERSON issued another check to the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship in the amount of $1.65 which was endorsed by the payee and also by "National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc."

Confidential Informants [ ] were contacted for information on EMILY PIERSON'S being a director of subject organization which they were unable to confirm.

b7D

On February 17, 1944 the New Haven Journal Courier carried an article entitled, "Civitan Club Hears Dunbar on Russia". This article reflected that Professor CARL O. DUNBAR, Director of the Peabody Museum of New Haven, who visited Russia in 1937, addressed the Civitan Club at its weekly luncheon meeting on February 16, 1944 on the subject of "Russia", presenting some behind the scenes views of his experience. He spoke on the importance of having a better understanding of the Russians and said that they are so busy developing the country that they have no time to be bothersome to others. He spoke of the 5-year plans for the industrial development and the wonderful strides made previous to the war and also of the development of mineral wealth and he sees Russia as a big strong industrial nation of Europe. He further stated that the Government has paid big dividends to the people and the people are solidly united behind it and that the trend of the Government is away from Communism and more towards State Socialism. He said that forbearance and tolerance were needed in dealing with the Russians and that it was his belief that the Russians were very sincere.

Hartford Activities

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent EUGENE F. ENDICOTT on March 11, 1944.

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that he was present at the office of the Communist Party, 635 Main Street, Hartford, Connecticut, on February 4, 1944, at which time ROY LEIB, Secretary of the Communist Party at Hartford, and NORA BRESHNAN, former Secretary of Russian War Relief at Hartford, discussed the formation of a Council of Soviet-American Friendship in Connecticut. It is noted that NORA BRESHNAN is Literature Director of the West Hartford Branch and a member of the City Council of the Communist Party at Hartford.

According to the informant, NORA BRESHNAN stated that she had discussed the Council with ANDREW ONDA, State Secretary of the Communist Party in Connecticut, and had agreed with him that as long as there was a need for the formation of a Council and there was not anyone to take it over, she would assume the leadership of it. She stated that she had been to New York and had talked with officers of Russian War Relief, who announced a change in policy which should enable Russian War Relief and the Council to iron out the difficulties over crossing each other's paths. She stated that it was specifically announced that schools and other organizations wanting information regarding Soviet Russia would be advised to contact the Council, and the Russian War Relief would supply no more exhibits. She stated that one point which constantly caused friction between the Russian War Relief and the Council was the fact that the Council would go into a district and attempt to use the Russian War Relief Committee which was already set up.

NORA BRESHNAN stated that in her opinion this was a logical development, since people interested in Russian War Relief would also become more interested in the broader, more political aspects of the question.

The informant also stated that ROY LEIB asked what kind of a budget would be necessary to get the Council started. NORA BRESHNAN reported that ANDREW ONDA indicated that there could be a loan from the Communist Party for a while to get it started and that she had thought of subscription membership to raise money. LEIB stated, according to the informant, that he was confident that the money could be raised. He said that in the position of Director of the Council, Miss BRESHNAN would be able to run things that the Party now wants to but cannot and that she could speak before large organizations in town as an expert on Soviet-American relations. He further stated that there was room for a program of that type and he would like to have facts and figures on the whole thing on paper.

NORA BRESHNAN said that in view of her break with the Russian War Relief in Hartford, she might not be the proper one to head this Council. LEIB made the statement that in his opinion the Council should not be aimed at the nationality groups and there should not be more than one or two representatives of Russian War Relief on it. He said that the main job of the Soviet-American Council would be in the American community rather than the nationality groups.

Confidential Informant T-5 reported that he attended a conference at the office of the Communist Party at Hartford on February 24, 1944, at which time ANDREW ONDA, ROY LEIB, AND NORA BRESHNAN held a further discussion on subject organization. ONDA stated that BRESHNAN was to be Secretary of the Soviet-American Friendship Committee and should begin to make contacts in Hartford in that capacity. He told LEIB that he would have to help Miss BRESHNAN by assigning two or three people to work with her. He stated that there was still a possibility of opening a full-time office in New Haven and if NORA BRESHNAN did not want to take the full-time job, there was a woman in New Haven who had experience in this field in New York who might do it.

The informant stated that in reply to BRESHNAN'S question as to where the funds for the new undertaking would come from, ONDA stated that the Communist Party would have to help finance it. He reported that the Party was in a position to invest $200 for her to operate it on a full-time basis if that was determined to be the best way to operate but that the Party did not want to invest $200 and have the Committee fail to operate.

The informant reported that after some discussion, it was decided to begin operation of the Soviet-American Council on a part-time basis in Hartford. ONDA stated that as soon as it was started in Hartford, he would get BARNEY ASHER (phonetic) in Stamford and the women in New Haven to assist and would see that material was distributed immediately.

LEIB reported that there were several contacts in Hartford who might give money, and he advised NORA BRESHNAN to contact plants and large businesses in the Hartford area.

ENCLOSURE 100-146964-200

February 8, 1944

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

February 23rd is the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Red Army. It has occurred to us that you might feel it appropriate on that occasion to present to the Soviet people a token symbolic of this country's friendship and admiration for their heroic struggle in the war. We have in mind something akin to the presentation of the famous "Sword of Stalingrad".

The fact that the siege of Leningrad, undoubtedly the most protracted in all history, has been recently lifted, would seem to make the presentation of a memorial which does special honor to the heroic defenders of Leningrad a most appropriate one.

Respectfully yours,

Edwin S. Smith
Executive Director

December 4, 1943

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt
The White House
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

I was very sorry indeed that it was not possible to see you while I was in Washington this week, and I am wondering whether there is any possibility of your being in New York in the near future so that I might see you here rather than postponing it until my next trip to Washington,

There are a number of things that I would appreciate an opportunity of talking over with you. One of the things most on my mind at present is the women's meeting of March 6th, which I hope you are considering favorably, as we want to make this one of the most outstanding affairs of the coming year, and we feel that it is essential to the success of the occasion to have your participation.

As I wrote you before, and as Mrs. Draper has explained in more detail, the Council and its Committee of Women now in process of formation, want this meeting to be an effective contribution to the understanding between our country and the Soviet Union by creating closer bonds between the women of the two countries. As you know, on several occasions the Soviet women have held meetings from which they have sent shortwave broadcasts and greetings to the women of America, so that we feel that in the spirit of the Moscow Pacts, it is appropriate to make some response. Since they always hold meetings on March 8th in celebration of Women's Day, we felt that by holding our meeting on March 6th part of the proceedings could be recorded and broadcast to their meeting in Moscow.

We also have in mind inviting one or more representative Soviet women to come to our country as our guests at that time, and understand there is a real possibility this might be arranged. We had thought of inviting someone like Valentina Grizodubova, the leading aviator and chairman of the Women's Anti-Fascist Committee, and one or two outstanding women in other fields. We would also, naturally, invite Mrs. Gromyko to be a guest of honor at the meeting. So you can see there are many reasons which make it most desirable to have you with us on this occasion, so that it will be a real expression of American-Soviet cooperation and friendship.

There are of course many ways in which fruitful interchange can be worked out between the women of the two countries, as is true of many other groups. Our provisional committee has already heard from the Russian women that they are anxious to help in establishing further interchange, and that they are especially interested in getting all the material possible on American child care methods, so the committee hopes to work out some method that may be helpful in connection with the problem of the restoration of day nurseries and other child care institutions in the devastated areas. Naturally this will be worked out in such a way as not to duplicate the kind of work being undertaken by existing relief agencies. The work of our committee would be rather in the nature of exchanging information, sending samples of types of equipment they might find useful and so on.

We are planning the meeting well in advance so that there will be time to make arrangements for possible guests from the Soviet Union and because we also hope to have something rather special in the way of a dramatic presentation of the part played by the women of the United Nations in the war. That is why we are most anxious to know as soon as possible whether you will save this date for us, so that we may go ahead with our arrangements. I do hope you will be able to arrange it.

Sincerely yours,

Edwin S. Smith
Executive Director

ONE DAY IN SOVIET RUSSIA

55 Minutes

Rental, $25.00—School Rate, $15.00

Written and narrated by Quentin Reynolds, former American correspondent in Moscow. Filmed simultaneously on one day by 97 topnotch cameramen over the vast areas of the Republics that make up the USSR, it presents a stirring report of Russian life, economy, agriculture, transportation, sports and military maneuvers.

FRONT LINE HOSPITAL

8 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

The work of nurses, orderlies, doctors and others in the frontline hospitals of Soviet Russia, where an unusually high percentage of wounded recover to return to combat. Inspirational for professional and volunteer medical workers in our own country.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD

10 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

A fascinating pre-war study of the child welfare services that are guaranteed by the Soviet Constitution. Several of the vast network of nurseries are seen, including a day nursery operated in conjunction with the Azerbaidzham Knitting Mill.

FOLK DANCES

9 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

Three authentic folk dances by the State Ensemble of the Folk Dance: MOLDAVENTZ (Moldavian Dance); KRIZHACHECK (Byelo-Russian); KAZAKI (Azerbaidzham).

GOLDEN MOUNTAINS

8 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

---

SHORTS

---

THE RED ARMY

20 Minutes

Rental, $4.00

A detailed picture of the men and materiel of the Soviet Army, Navy and Air Force in maneuvers and action. It also portrays the occupational, educational, and recreational aspects of Red Army life.

UNDER SIEGE

9 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

The epic defense of Tula, southern anchor of Moscow's defense line, is portrayed in this film by official cameramen who worked under the enemy's guns. It emphasizes the impressive part played by the civilian population in halting the Nazi advance.

HEROIC SEVASTOPOL

9 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

The last stages of the memorable defense of this historic city by the Red Army, Marines and Air Force supported by the civilian population. Filmed before the loss of this Black Sea base it shows the effects of the ruthless Nazi attack and the brave defenders on the job to the last.

ALL FOR VICTORY

10 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

Showing how the Russians are carrying out their pledge of "All for Victory!" in all fields of military and civilian life—in huge metallurgical plants, oil industries, agriculture, Red Cross work, etc.

SOVIET WOMEN AT WAR

8 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

Women drive tractors and harvester combines, run factories, street cars, busses, work as welders, smiths, mechanics, fight fires and incendiary bombs, give their blood, and nurse the wounded at the front.

CHILDREN AT WAR

10 Minutes

Rental, $2.00

This film of an exhibition in Russia shows the organized steps taken to protect and care for children in wartime, the high morale of the children and stirring anecdotes of the loyal and ingenious ways children have of helping the grownups fight the invading fascists.

THIS IS THE ENEMY!

71 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

By far the most powerful film on the subject of the People's War against Hitler. Although it depicts the Axis military forces in all their brutality, it by no means leaves the impression that the fascist war machine is unconquerable. On the contrary, the episodes in Poland, the Ukraine, Jugo-Slavia and Russia portray the vast military, guerrilla and civilian opposition to fascism and demonstrate the high morale which makes this possible. The direction, scenario and musical score are by outstanding members of the Russian film and musical world.

RED TANKS

65 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

A timely and inspiring story of the iron men of Russia's armored divisions and the breath-taking exploits of Soviet tank raiders behind the Nazi lines. It includes "Song of the Soviet Tankmen".

THE GREAT BEGINNING

95 Minutes

Rental, $20.00

A modern drama of the new woman of Russia. This is the story of a self-educated peasant woman who becomes a leader of the farm collectivization movement and eventually a member of the highest government body.

SOVIET FRONTIERS ON THE DANUBE

95 Minutes

Rental, $20.00

An impressive documentary film showing the economic, political and social changes wrought in the lives of 4,000,000 Bessarabians, Moldavians and Jews when the Red Army occupied and reorganized the provinces of Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina on the Danube. Made before the Nazi armies entered this area in 1941. (This feature is accompanied by FOLK DANCES and RED ARMY shorts).

SPRING SONG

78 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

Scenario by the late Eugene Petrov, who died in action at Sevastopol, and G. Munblit. This comedy, enriched by the music of classical composers and of the contemporary composer, D. Kabalevsky, illustrates the Soviet policy of preserving and utilizing the arts in wartime. Highly recommended by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

TANYA

75 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

Vigorous comedy-drama with music by the famous composer, I. Dunayevsky. The story is of a peasant girl who makes a remarkable record of increased production under the dual stimulus of the "more production movement" and her love for a textile engineer. Features Lubov Orlova, beautiful singing star.

VOLGA VOLGA

100 Minutes

Rental, $20.00

A gay, tuneful musical comedy based on the competition between exponents of classical and popular musicians. Reminiscent of Will Rogers' STEAM-BOAT 'ROUND THE BEND, and W. C. Fields' MISSISSIPPI. Score by I. Dunayevsky.

A MUSICAL STORY

80 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

Charming, song-embroidered comedy of a Leningrad taxi driver whose pursuit of opera fame estranges him from his fiancée. It features Sergei Lemeshev of the Moscow State Opera and Zoya Fyodorova, heroine of "Girl from Leningrad".

---

HISTORICAL FEATURES

---

ALEXANDER NEVSKY

91 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

This is a great film about a great people's movement. In the Thirteenth Century an invading army of German Knights disguised as "crusaders" began their campaign to seize the rich lands to their east. They were stopped by a united Russian people, armed with love for their country and led by Alexander, known as Nevsky for his defeat of the Swedes on the Neva. Sergei Eisenstein has given breadth and richness to this epic film and Sergei Prokofiev has composed a masterpiece of film music to accompany it. The photography is by Edward Tisse.

PETER THE GREAT

95 Minutes

Rental, $15.00

A detailed panorama of Russia at the time of Peter I, the Czar who opposed his own Nobility to bring Europe to Russia. The color of actual life as well as the pressure of new social conflicts can be sensed in this production. Simonov plays the part of Peter, and Tarassova, Peter's wife.

GENERAL SUVOROV

90 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

A film, directed by V. I. Pudovkin, featuring N. P. Cherkasov, of the Central Theatre of the Red Army. A page from the past which is extremely relevant to the present.

YOUTH OF MAXIM

80 Minutes

Rental, $15.00

First of a series of the adventures of a youth in the Russian revolutionary movement from 1905 to 1917. This film has, as The New York Times wrote, "All the brilliant qualities of the Soviet screen at its best." The musical score is by Dmitri Shostakovich.

RETURN OF MAXIM

104 Minutes

Rental, $15.00

The boy grows up in this second of the "Maxim" series. The setting is St. Petersburg on the eve of World War I. Score by Shostakovich. "Remarkable . . . tremendously exciting . . . Chirkov superb . . . magnificently uproarious."—N. Y. Herald Tribune.

UNIVERSITY OF LIFE

100 Minutes

Rental, $20.00

This third film in the series on the life of Maxim Gorky deals with the author as a young man, obsessed with a desire for knowledge and a deeper understanding of the world around him. Brilliantly directed by Mark Donskoi.

CHAPAYEV

100 Minutes

Rental, $15.00

One of the most famous of Soviet films. It has truth and humor in its characterizations. The story is told with sweep and power. The theme of discipline to fight off invaders makes it of current interest. It is directed by the Vasiliev brothers and stars Boris Babochkin as Chapayev.

SHORS

90 Minutes

Rental, $25.00

The film deals dramatically with the death and destruction brought to the Ukraine by the German army of intervention during the Russian Civil War and the resistance by the partisan army under the leadership of Shors. It is considered the greatest of Dovzhenko's films.

WE ARE FROM KRONSTADT

93 Minutes

Rental, $15.00

This epic of the Red Navy is set in the period of its baptism of fire in the attempt of the foreign interventionists to seize Petrograd in 1919. The scenario is by the sailor-playwright, Vsevolod Vishnevsky and the film is directed by Yefim Dzigan. The score is by N. Krovko.

ROAD TO LIFE

100 Minutes

Rental, $10.00

This internationally known classic of the Soviet screen deals with the wild boys of the road—youngsters orphaned by the World War and the Civil War in Soviet Russia—who were reclaimed and made into useful, happy citizens by Soviet society. It has been described by the noted Hollywood director, King Vidor, as one of the world's great films. Also silent version.

When You Want A Speaker

The charges made by speakers vary. Please state the amount your organization can afford to pay. Specific information should also be given on the size, date, time of meeting and the preferred topic.

Since wartime conditions affect many of our speakers' schedules, we should appreciate notice of your requirements as far in advance of the date of the event as possible (at least three to four weeks). Organizations will often secure speedier service if they also indicate in order of preference four or five acceptable speakers chosen from the available list.

Fees range from $10 to $200 plus expenses. Some of the speakers included in this list require only their expenses. In such cases, however, the Speakers Bureau makes a service charge of $5.00.

We Can Serve Your Organization Too

The Speakers Bureau supplies forums, churches, colleges, trade unions, luncheon clubs and other organizations with informed speakers on the Soviet Union.

Organizations that have already made use of our Speakers Bureau include:

The Washington Field Office has advised of information obtained from a highly confidential and reliable source to the effect that on March 22, 1944, Edwin Smith, of the subject organization, was in contact with Vladimir Basykin of the Soviet Embassy.

At this time, according to the source, Smith informed Basykin that there were approximately 4,000 books in the warehouse of Simon and Schuster, which, he stated, were collected from publishers. Smith is said to have inquired as to their disposition and was advised that they should be packed for shipment overseas and forwarded to the Consulate General (of the Soviet Union) in San Francisco, California.

b7E

It is desired that you consider the advisability of discreetly ascertaining from someone connected with Simon and Schuster, who is reliable, the nature of the 4,000 books, as well as persons responsible for collecting and forwarding them to the Soviet Union. In the event that you have already an established reliable source in this company, the contact should be made. However, if this is not the case, the matter is left entirely to your discretion.

Attention: Mr. Philip Tolgenuth

Dear Mr. Price:

This is to request that Special Watch Instructions be issued in connection with communications between Walter B. Cannon, Honorary Chairman of the Science Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, and V. Komarov, President of the Academy of Science of the U.S.S.R., Moscow.

Submission slip number NY-362272 furnished by your office reflects that Cannon wrote Komarov and stated that Cannon's Committee desired to be of use in whatever way it could in furnishing journals and other scientific material to Soviet scientists. Cannon further requested that the addressee send regularly information concerning the special needs of Soviet scientists and lists of Soviet scientists who would like to receive information from specific American scientists.

In view of this submission, it is requested that this Special Watch Instruction should be to the effect that any communications between Cannon or his Committee and Komarov be described fully in submissions made by your office and a complete description of documents, writings, et cetera be included therein so that this Bureau may be cognizant of the type of material being transmitted. MEMORANDUM FOR MR. LADD

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
INTERNAL SECURITY (R)

The Bureau has been furnished with a postal intercept by the Office of Censorship which concerns a letter written by Walter B. Cannon as Honorary Chairman of the Science Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship to V. Komanov as President of the Academy of Science of the U.S.S.R., Moscow.

In this letter Cannon has stated that his committee desires to be of use in what ways it can in furnishing journals and other scientific material to Soviet scientists. Furthermore in the letter Cannon requested that the addressee send regularly information concerning the special needs of Soviet scientists and lists of Soviet scientists who would like to receive information from specific American scientists.

The content of this letter indicates that possibly information of a confidential nature or information pertinent to the national security of this country might be transmitted to Russia through the apparatus of the subject organization. It is also possible that there may be violations of either the Espionage statutes or censorship regulations if such a practice is put into effect.

ACTION:

It is suggested that special watch instructions be issued in connection with the listing of the subject organization with the Office of Censorship. These instructions should generally be to the effect that any communications between Cannon or his committee and Komanov be examined and a complete description of documents, writings, etc. be afforded to the Bureau by Censorship.

Respectfully,

J. F. Buckley

Title: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC., formerly known as: American Council on Soviet Relations			Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - C 27228

SUMMARY: General summary report from THOMAS L. HARRIS to National Office of Council reflects Los Angeles and Denver have only two well-established councils on West Coast. Activities and weaknesses of councils in San Francisco, Oakland, Salt Lake City also described in this report. Los Angeles Council passed resolution to become incorporated under California law 12/27/43 and designated officers named to hold posts until annual election in March, 1944. Since 6/10/43 Los Angeles Council claims to have furnished speakers to approximately 90 public meetings reaching approximately 12 to 13,000 people. It also sponsored public meeting 1/31/44 at which JOHN HOWARD LAMSON, Communist, was one of three speakers and also sponsored Red Army Day program at Hollywood Canteen 2/23/44 with some Communists on the program. Council also collaborated on NBC one-hour broadcast 2/12/44 to Soviet Union and return. Council presently interested in organizing a Library of Information in Hollywood as outlet for WGC to be self-sustaining from research fees. Personnel of various committees of the local Council set out and Communist affiliation described. Local Council desires maximum of 100 members; a budget for local Council set at over $1000 per month.

2. Los Angeles Council: (S) u

The Nominating Committee for the Los Angeles Council held its original meeting on July 20, 1943 at Headquarters, Room 812, Broadway Arcade Building, 542 South Broadway, Los Angeles. According to Source A Present at this meeting as members of this committee were the following: (Those reported to be Communist Party members have a "C" after their names) (S) u

ERNEST DAWSON - C
 A. J. GROEBSTEIN
 THOMAS L. HARRIS
 HELEN LEONARD - C
 HERBERT ROSENFELD
 Mrs. RUTH RYAN - C
 PAULINE SWANSON - C
 ALVIN WILDER (S) u

This committee drew up a list of names and presented those names on August 3, 1943 for consideration as members of the Executive Board of the Council. (S) u

THOMAS L. HARRIS, though not a known Communist, is a frequent associate of Communists and was recently observed by the writer in a half-hour conversation with MAX SILVER, County Organizational Secretary of the Communist Party. HARRIS is also a frequent visitor to the Russian Consulate and has appeared on with Communist speakers and before clubs which have been reported to be with the Communist Party. The list of the Nominating Committee's file is being retained in the Los Angeles file of instant case. It is no (S) u out herein in view of the fact that some were not approached apparently and the final selection took the form of the Executive Committee which was set out in reference report of the writer on pages 25 to 30. It was noted, however, that the Nominating Committee's selection of people for membership on the Executive Committee was broken down into the following: Business; Radio; Academic; Teachers; Medical; Professional; Social; Nationalities; Hollywood; Women's Groups; Youth; Church and Unions. Church nominees were to be filled by Mr. HARRIS at his discretion after investigation. Union nominations were to include one CIO representative and one AF of L representative to be assigned to the Council by their Unions. It was ascertained from this source that of the original Executive Committee appointed, the following resigned: (S) u

HARRY HOIJER
HERBERT T. ROSENFELD
CAREY McWILLIAMS
ALVIN WILDER
ST LEE CHEN

(S) u

These were replaced on December 13, 1943 by the Executive Board with the following people: (S) u

FLOYD GOVINGTON - Negro official of the Urban League, who is not known as an actual Communist Party member but who has participated on various occasions with Communist organizations.
Mrs. FANLA BERNSTEIN - (One FANYA BERNSTEIN is listed in the Communist publication "Two Decades of Progress" as being a Communist Party member, Brooklyn Branch).
FRANK PETERSON
JOHN B. HUGHES - Radio commentator.

On December 27, 1943 at a meeting of the Executive Board according to Source A, a resolution was passed that the Los Angeles Council become incorporated under the California State laws, CLORE WARNE, a member of the Council, being instructed to proceed with incorporation. This resolution stated that the following officers were to serve in the capacity described until the annual meeting in March, 1944: (S) u

Chairman - T. PERCEVAL GERSON
First Vice-Chairman - PAULINE SWANSON - C
Second Vice-Chairman - ROBERT L. PATTERSON
Recording Secretary - GWEN BRISTOW
Treasurer - ERNEST LAWSON - C
Executive Director and Executive Secretary - THOMAS I. HARRIS

[ Summary of Activities of Various Councils on West Coast covering period June 10 to December 7, 1943: ] (x) u

The following report from THOMAS L. HARRIS, who is Executive Director of the Los Angeles Council, in addition to being a West Coast organizer and National Executive Secretary of the National Council of instant organization, which report was made to the National Council, was obtained from Source A on March 22, 1943 upon interview by Special Agents FRANK H. TOWNSEND and the writer (x) u (2)

"General Summary:

On June 1st there was a small provisional committee at Los Angeles without office or funds; in Oakland County there was a volunteer secretary with some funds at her disposal as the result of a successful meeting the preceding November; in San Francisco, Seattle and Portland there were individuals in correspondence with the office but not even rudimentary organization. (2) u

On December 7th there is a fully organized Council at Los Angeles with one volunteer full time and three paid persons, an office, an active Executive Committee, a balance of $4,000, a monthly budget of $1,028, and an active mailing list of over 500. In Denver, as the result of a successful meeting, the Executive Committee is being enlarged, an office is being rented downtown and the treasury has a few hundred dollars. However, only Los Angeles and Denver can be considered as really well established. (2) u

San Francisco has rather an inactive provisional that for reasons given below has not accomplished much in this period except to have two radio programs. In Salt Lake City there is a rudimentary committee, that has put on one good meeting. In San Diego, Seattle, Bakersfield, Portland, and Tucson, there have been small meetings in the name of the Council or else contacts in regular correspondence with me at Los Angeles. (2) u

I have twice visited San Francisco and Oakland, but the results are disappointing. I have not visited Seattle and Portland, which have suffered from that fact as also from the last minute cancellation by Miss STRONG of her engagements there; in San Diego, Bakersfield and Salt Lake City modest beginnings have been made. (2) u

Travel under the unexpectedly difficult conditions of wartime is a major (2) u difficulty in contacting distant cities. Also my field of concentration has been Los Angeles. The stronger Los Angeles becomes, the more profitable and possible it is to give attention to other cities in the Coast and Mountain States. (S) u

Detailed Report on CitiesSan FranciscoOrganizational Status

A weak provisional committee with a volunteer secretary until a very short time ago.

Financial Status

An empty treasury.

Activities

Two local radio programs in November.

Difficulties

In July and again early in September I made visits to San Francisco with little success, partly because my September visit covered Labor Day and I was also indisposed, but more because of the following special circumstances:

- (a) The November meeting last year involved a financial loss of two thousand dollars to the organizers, thus making them reluctant to undertake anything new.
- (b) The American Russian Institute has long been established in Frisco and has involved most of those that normally would give initial leadership in the formation of a Council. Indeed at first the institute was unwilling to see any attempt made at forming a Council and though this point of view has changed the fact remains that many likely prospects for the Council are already involved in the Institute.
- (c) Dr. LEBEDENKO was twice unavoidably compelled to cancel his visit for which Frisco had made somewhat elaborate plans.

In view of the above difficulties I do not believe it will be possible to organize a Council successfully in San Francisco until a prominent speaker or event can be guaranteed.

Oakland (Alameda County)Organizational and Financial Status

Unsatisfactory.

~~SECRET~~

~~SECRET~~

A year ago they had a financially profitable meeting but apparently with no organizational follow up. An inexperienced volunteer secretary invited me up to speak in July, but only one person attended. In September I met with three active and interested people who felt something could be done. I understand there was a meeting in Oakland in November, but I have been unable to get any report from the volunteer secretary. Basically the prospects are good especially now that the extreme pressure of war work seems to be relaxing. (S) u

[Salt Lake City] (S) u

The Rev. RAYMOND COPE and Judge WOLF (addresses in National Office files) have both expressed interest in the Council and willingness to use speakers coming through. Bishop MOULTON is interested and his name has some prestige value but he will give no time. COPE is forming a provisional committee but it will be somewhat limited I think, to distribution of literature and the use of speakers. (S) u

I visited Salt Lake City at the end of September and had two small but good meetings in influential groups. November 29th DEKKER and I visited Salt Lake again where I spoke to 300 people in the Unitarian Church. The meeting was well advertised and well attended and received good publicity in spite of the fact that the main paper was on strike. (S) u

Salt Lake City is a very reactionary town under Mormon influence but the prospects for developing the distribution of literature and use of speakers are good. (S) u

[Denver]

[Organizational Status] (S) u

The Executive Committee is being enlarged and reorganized as the result of successful meeting on December 2nd. (S) u

I strongly supported Mrs. ULMER'S contention that the Executive Committee should have good labor representation which some of the middle class sponsors had disapproved. The moving spirits are Mrs. ULMER, wife of a well-known physician, Rev. WASER of the First Congregational Church, I. WEINER, treasurer, the owner of the Paramount movie, Mr. BINNA of the CEO Council, and Mr. FELLERS of a big dairy concern with connections with the Democratic party. (S) u

Before leaving I conducted an organizational meeting at which it was agreed that (S) u

- (a) A down town office should be established.
- (b) The Executive Committee should include two representatives of labor, a representative from Boulder and another from Colorado Springs; both nearby university towns, Rabbi FRIEDMAN to represent the Jewish community.

A good part of the time was spent in clearing up misunderstandings regarding the National Council. Two of the sponsors rather strenuously pressed the point of radicalism, wishing to exclude those who had "changed their minds about the war on June 22nd" and objecting to affiliation with the National on the grounds that Mr. LAMONT was chairman and that the Executive Committee "included Communists". This line of attack had been developed quite vigorously by word of mouth during the preparations for the Mass Meeting and is reputed to have derived from Dr. CHERRINGTON, the new chancellor of the university. To these criticisms I replied, first, that an organization sponsored for more than a year by such figures as PEPPER, DAVIES, ICKES, BATT should be good enough for any American not wedded to the HEARST COUGHLIN line; second, that an inquiry into past political positions and present political affiliations was essentially divisive, and that the Council's position was one of unity between all Americans who recognized the importance of American Soviet Friendship for victory and peace. The minority element was very persistent but was put on the defensive and overruled. Although the Denver Council is as broad as any, indeed I doubt whether it includes any very active people, we must expect some trouble from "liberal" quarters. I suggested to Mrs. ULMER that they recommend one or two outstanding Coloradans to the National for election to sponsorship or some other notice. Our present Colorado names and some of our contacts in the National office lists are by no means helpful. (S) u

I also suggested that Boulder and Colorado Springs be included in Denver's general sphere of interest. Both are small university or college towns that have arranged good meetings (S) u

Financial Status (S) u

After all expenses are paid, Denver will have several hundred dollars in the treasury, and good prospects for a steady, if small income. (S) u

Activities

At the end of September, Mrs. ULMER arranged for me to address the following: First Congregational Church, Grace Forum, Colorado College at Boulder, Citizens for Victory (Denver), State Teachers College (Greeley) and other smaller meetings, as well as a radio broadcast over the Mountain network. (S) u

ALBERT DEKKER, the radio actor and I have just returned from Denver where, in addition to the Mass Meeting of 2,500, DEKKER addressed the American Legion, the Cactus Club, a mass meeting in the High School at Boulder and a radio program. (S) u

In the same period I made one radio address, over a different station from DEKKER, and I addressed (at Colorado Springs) the AAUW (250 persons), a meeting called by the ministerial association in the Christian Church (125), in Denver I spoke to the assembly of the Colorado Womens College (450) besides conducting two classes, also I addressed 1300 high school students at Denver South

High School, the Denver City Club (150 business and professional men) and at Boulder I was the principal speaker at a mass meeting of 328 in the High School

~~SECRET~~ (S) u

The mass meeting was well run. Attendance 2500. BATT was the principal speaker with DEKKER and myself supporting. The Mayor, the Army, the AF of L, the CIO and GUSTAFSON participated as did local musical talent. All the street cars carried large placards announcing the meeting, and the publicity in the press was good. In view of the strong isolationist sentiment in Denver and the influence of GERALD K. SMITH, I consider the Denver council had not only a good, but an important meeting. (S) u

Future Activities

Before leaving I discussed with the Committee a program for the immediate future. It was decided

- (a) To purchase at least $50 worth of literature from the National for free distribution among those who had as individuals or as organization participated
- (b) To set up a sub-committee to arrange a monthly meeting comparable to those arranged by Citizens for Victory and aimed chiefly at academic and middle class interests
- (c) To set up a sub-committee under Mr. BINNA of the CIO to develop a program of interest to trade unionists
- (d) In view of Denver's strategic position as an educational center to plan a Seminar for early in the Spring.

(S) u

(I am glad to note that proposals c and d are in line with the suggestions of the latest Bulletin).

Los Angeles

Organizational Status

(S) u

Los Angeles has an Executive Committee of 25 comprising a physician, a lawyer, two movie writers, three business men (one retired), a radio commentator, a representative of the CIO, two negroes, the owner of a Rare Books store, a representative of the inter-racial committee and of the child welfare committee. It is defective in not having a minister or a representative of Jewish groups. Only a small number have been active in this kind of work before. (S) u

The Executive Committee has adopted a constitution and by-laws modeled on those of New York, and is proceeding to elect members of the Council (up to 100 people interested in the Council's work, of some public standing). (S) u

The Executive Committee has established the following sub-committees (S) u

An Administrative Committee to act as a steering committee with direct oversight over the office and responsibility for financial control. (S) u

- 27240
- A Publicity Committee that will also act as a publication committee.
  - A Committee on Functions to plan some large function approximately every two months.
  - A Neighborhood Committee.
  - A Trade Union Committee

~~SECRET~~

(X) u

The Officers are: DR. PERCEVAL GERSON, Chairman, ERNEST DAWSON, Treasurer, PAULINE SWANSON, Secretary, and THOMAS L. HARRIS, Executive Director. (X) u

The Executive Committee meets monthly, and the Administrative Committee meets fortnightly. (X) u

The Los Angeles Council has an office of three rooms in a central building in downtown Los Angeles. (X) u

The Staff consists of -

PAULINE SWANSON. (unpaid)
THOMAS L. HARRIS, Executive Director
EDITH BROOKS, Secretary
HELEN THORMIN (part time) stenographer
HELEN LEONARD, as Chairman of the Administrative Committee, devotes much of her time to work in the office. (X) u

Financial Status.

Bank Balance as of December 6th, $3,263.31.

The L. A. Council operates on a monthly budget approved by the Executive Committee of $1028.00.

We have an active file of over 500 persons most of whom are contributors. Of the profit on the November 16th meeting, $1,500 was set aside as a special fund to finance the next big project, but the remainder, allowing for no increase in our ordinary income, should relieve the Los Angeles Council from any financial anxieties for at least another four months. (X) u

The Los Angeles Council advanced the monies necessary to finance the visit of DEKKER and HARRIS to Denver and Salt Lake City, repayment from these two places will cover expenses plus one weeks salary for Mr. HARRIS. (X) u

Activities

Public Meetings. The L. A. Council has provided speakers for 74 public meetings since June 10th (exclusive of its own meetings). The total of persons reached is between 11 and 12 thousand. Among the organizations addressed are Rotary, Kiwanis, and other service clubs, the Foreign Trade Association, Russian War Relief, the Harvard Club, the Adventurers Club, the Newman Club, the CIO. Council, the Democratic Luncheon Club (S) u

Radio Programs. One national broadcast featuring EDWARD G. ROBINSON and Mme. KALATOZOV. (S) u

Two Pacific Coast broadcasts. (S) u

Six local broadcasts, exclusive of the many commentators that advertised the meeting of November 16th. (S) u

The Mocambo Party. A reception for Mr. and Mrs. KALATOZOV, which in spite of such defects as expense, produced good publicity and contacts that have been extremely valuable. (S) u

November 16th Meeting. (See full report). Attendance over 5500. Publicity excellent. Sponsorship and local participation good. (S) u

December 4th. Jointly with Phi Beta Kappa a seminar on Slavic Affairs at Occidental College. (S) u

Broadly speaking the activities of the Los Angeles Council up to date have been planned with a view to making the Council's name and program known in a large widely dispersed community, and to raising the funds necessary to conduct a well balanced program. Both these objectives have been reached with a fair degree of success. (S) u Proposed Activities.

- (a) The Council has adopted the policy of giving considerable quantities of the National literature to persons and organizations that seem likely to become channels of distribution. This is done not only as a means of advertising the Council but to secure a real source of education.
- (b) A seminar on Child Care in conjunction with the Child Welfare Committee is projected for March.
- (c) A general seminar on the S.U. is projected for early spring.
- (d) During the Christmas season when meetings are out of the question, two radio programs are scheduled.
- (e) The Trade Union Committee under Mr. DAVILA of the CIO has been asked to prepare a program for unions. "

Current Activities

According to Source A, THOMAS L. HARRIS told the Executive Committee of the Los Angeles Council on January 24, 1944 the Council had furnished speakers at 14 meetings in the past month which covered 3000 people; 1500 pieces of literature had been sent out which HARRIS expected would bring in $750 in contributions and in membership fees. However, the major features of the Council's program since December, 1943, have been the following: (S) u

1. Lecture held January 31, 1943 at the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room. (S) u
2. One-hour broadcast on February 12, 1943 over NBC in honor of Soviet women, thirty minutes of which program was devoted to Hollywood people speaking to the Soviet Union and the other thirty minutes of which was a return program from the Soviet Union. The local Council collaborated but did not officially sponsor this broadcast. (S) u
3. February 23, 1943 the Local Council sponsored a Red Army Day celebration at the Hollywood Canteen. (S) u

The writer attended the meeting at the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room on Monday, January 31, 1944 at 8:00 p.m. Admission at the door was 66¢ including tax and no collection was taken up. The meeting was attended by approximately 50 people although chairs were set up for at least 200. Chairman was Dr. GEORGE MARTIN DAY, Professor at Occidental College, who is more fully described in reference report of the writer. He introduced RICHARD ATKINSON, a man about 50 years old, six feet tall with gray hair who made a good appearance. ATKINSON said he had traveled in the Soviet Union and his speech justified Russian policy towards Poland, Finland and Germany on the grounds of expediency. He did not talk on the Russian ideology. He made the following points: (S) u

1. The German-Russian Pact was a necessity because the rest of the world would not listen to STALIN'S plea of security. (S) u
2. The Polish question. He stated that the part of POLAND which was in dispute presently should go to Russia because an election in that part of Poland had settled this question and anyhow 11,000,000 of the 13,000,000 people in that section were Russians and Russia had the best claim ethnologically. (S) u
3. The Bessarabian question. ATKINSON stated that even the United States did not recognize the Bulgarian grab of (S) u of this country in World War I; that it had been the subject of much dispute and it wished to side with Russia.

~~SECRET~~

4. The Finnish question. ATKINSON stated that Russia wanted to buy bases in Finland but that Finland was opposed to this and so she took them "right or wrong" for her own protection.

In conclusion, ATKINSON stated that the next few months anti-Soviet propaganda would be on the increase and there would be much talk that the United States would have to fight Russia after the war with Germany was over. This, he claimed to be false but a part of the propaganda being used against Russia whom he described as a "strong ally of the United States".

ATKINSON'S speech appeared to the writer to be that of a practical realist who believes that Russia and the United States as allies are probably the strongest team in the world.

THOMAS L. HARRIS was the next speaker on the program, his speech being "Soviet Policy Since Teheran". He praised the results of the Teheran Conference, stating that it was still great despite certain incidents which had tended toward disruption since that time. He cited these disruptive incidents as:

1. The Polish question which he stated was not really a question because it had been decided by the peaceful vote of the Poles before the war and also the Curzon Line was the real dividing line of Russia and Poland. He stated that Russia's policy toward Poland had been one of realism which was essential during this war.
2. The Pravda incident. He stated that perhaps a little fear did the Allies good since there are still some figures who are looking for a separate peace.. He stated that the Russian-American Alliance was stronger now than ever and probably the Pravda incident had helped to strengthen this alliance and that inside Germany the allegations of the Pravda article (which stated in essence that Britain was feeling out Germany on peace negotiations) would have the effect of encouraging the German people to desire a peace not only with England but with Russia too and hence lower their morale.

In closing, HARRIS demanded the immediate opening of a second front in Europe, stating that the United States was busying a sizeable number of German Divisions in Italy, but "certainly not a tremendous number". He said that some people in the U.S. State Department would rather deal with Germany, DARLAN, MIKHAILOVITCH rather than DE GAULLE and TITO but that recently the people had found out who were really battling the Nazis (meaning TITO, etc.) HARRIS declared that the United States needed Russia in war and in peace as an ally. ~~A~~

JOHN HOWARD LAWSON was the final speaker, his subject being "Teheran and the Presidential Campaign. LAWSON is a reported Communist leader of the Northwest Section. He said that historical development was necessary to understand the relation of the Teheran Conference to the Presidential election. He said that anyone against the Allies is consciously or unconsciously a Facist and that there is no choice just as there is no choice between Facism and Democracy. He cited material which he stated was from the official records of the State Department entitled: "Russia - 1919" which showed how HERBERT HOOVER and WILLIAM C. BULLITT, whom he said "helped turn Paris over to the Nazis in World War II", tried to defeat Russia in every move in World War I by denying her trade when the Russians solicited trade through a representative who had deposited money in the United States banks in advance for shipments of goods to Russia. ~~X~~

LAWSON did not come out for any particular candidate nor for any particular political party but it was clear that he was against the HOOVER regime from his statements. He said explicitly that if HOOVER and his crowd of reactionaries were returned to power the same thing may happen as did in 1919. ~~X~~

At this meeting the writer recognized PAULINE SWANSON, GWEN BRISTOW and Mr. and Mrs. JAY CORNEY. In the rear of the room was a literature stand and HARRIS specifically mentioned one book entitled: "Outline of Russia" which he stated was current to the Teheran Conference. DAY also mentioned this book, stating it was the best he knew on the subject. The local Council's organization was explained to those present and membership of each was solicited. No collection was taken up. The original notes of the writer will be retained as an exhibit in instant file. Of the sixty people in attendance the majority were women. The crowd appeared to be about 90% Jewish. ~~X~~

On February 12, 1944 there was a one-hour broadcast over the National Broadcasting network in honor of the women of Soviet Russia, this being Women's Day in the U.S.S.R. The first thirty minutes of the program broadcast from the United States to the Soviet Union consisted of short addresses and various individuals who entertained. ORSON WELLES was master of ceremonies, OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND spoke and YEHUDI MENUHIN rendered a selection on the violin. Others were also featured. The broadcast emanated from the studios at NBC, Hollywood, although part of the program was picked up in New York. The next thirty minutes of the program were to come from Russia. However, due to alleged sun spots the program was not received in the United States. The announcement at the beginning and end of the program reflected that the Hollywood Writers Mobilization in conjunction with the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, sponsored the program. However, according to Confidential Source ~~A~~ WILLIAM MORRIS, JR., actor's agent, who has offices in New York and Hollywood, was in constant communication with THOMAS L. HARRIS in Los Angeles concerning the broadcast. This source advised that MORRIS sent many telegrams to HARRIS concerning the persons who were handling this program on the Hollywood end. In a telegram to MORRIS in New York dated ~~7~~ ~~CH~~ ~~SECRET~~

~~SECRET~~

January 27, 1944 HARRIS advised that CAL KUHL and SAM MOORE were handling the Los Angeles end of the program for production as representatives of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization. MOORE, it is to be noted, is an official of the Radio Actors Guild and a member of the Northwest Section Branch D (radio) of the Los Angeles County Communist Party and KUHL was one of those. According to Source A, who was asked for a loan to finance the huge rally held by the local Council on November 16, 1943. (S) (U)

Source A further advised that THOMAS L. HARRIS at the Executive meeting of the Council on January 24, 1944 had announced the broadcast and told the Executive Committee that the Office of War Information was to send this hour's broadcast short wave to the armed forces of the United Nations all over the world. (S) (U)

It was further revealed by Source B that THOMAS L. HARRIS was a frequent visitor at the Vice-Consulate of the U.S.S.R., North Vermont, Los Angeles, concerning this broadcast. Special Agent MERLE TEAGARDEN further observed HARRIS in the NBC Studio present at instant broadcast. (S) (U)

The celebration in honor of Red Army Day was held February 23, 1944 at the Hollywood Canteen. The People's World, reported West Coast Communist news organ, carried a story to this effect on February 17, 1944 which stated that a festive Russian Party at which 2000 American soldiers would be served with characteristic Piroshki and Russian tea and would see a show of Hollywood talent which was to be presented by the Los Angeles Council of American-Soviet friendship.

According to Confidential Source A, the following committee of the local Council was in charge of the affair: EDWINA HAMMOND aka EDWINA POMERANCE, wife of M. W. (BILL) POMERANCE, Chairman; BELLA REYNOLDS aka BELLA LEWITZSKY; PAULINE SWANSON; VIRGINIA DRUCKER; PATSY MOORE; TANA TUTTLE; EUGENIE WISHEN. Of the above named, REYNOLDS, SWANSON and TUTTLE are members of Branch S (Russian Group's Northwest Section) and HAMMOND, MOORE and DRUCKER are also reported Party members. (S) (U)

The celebration at the Hollywood Canteen was covered by [redacted] who reported that there were two shows in the evening, one at 8:15 which lasted until approximately 9:45, the second beginning at 10:30 and ending at 11:30 p.m. LEON BELASCO, described in the People's World on February 29, 1944 as a Russian-born stage and screen star, and ALAN MOWBRAY, described in the same People's World as a veteran British actor, acted as masters of ceremony during the evening. The first show was opened by JACQUE PRESSE with the Star Spangled Banner. PRESSE, according to Confidential Source C, is active in the Musician's Congress and an Associate of Communists among the musicians in the Northwest Section. ADIA KUZNETZOFF then sang the "Song of the United Nations" composed by SHOSTAKOVICH, noted Russian composer. THOMAS L. HARRIS then delivered an address on the Red Army, gave great praise to Russia and was the only one, according to [redacted] who mentioned the Los Angeles Council in announcing that they were the sponsors of this affair. HARRIS introduced RUSSIAN sailors from a ship in port and then introduced V. V. PASTOEV, Vice-Consul of the U.S.S.R. in Los Angeles, and a [redacted] (S) (U) couple of other Russian Naval officers. IRENE MANNING, motion picture actress and singer, who starred in "The Desert Song" then sang Russian songs. JANE MILLER gave a Russian dance and the Revelers, from the Trocadero, gave a Russian dance. AKIM TAMIROFF and another exchanged a few jokes and talked some in Russian. NICK BOLIN and his Russian balalaika also played. BETTE DAVIS, motion picture actress then cut a huge cake, flanked by three Russian and three American members of the armed forces (of both U.S.S.R. and the United States). The cake, according to a photograph in the possession of the Los Angeles office, was a four-tiered cake bearing the following inscription: "To Our Gallant Russia for her 26th Anniversary - Hollywood Canteen". The photograph shows BETTE DAVIS flanked by two Russian naval officers, the chef at the Hollywood Canteen, and V. V. PASTOEV, Vice-Consul of the U.S.S.R. at Los Angeles. ~~Q~~

The second show, which was MC'd by ALAN MOWBRAY, featured GERALDINE FITZGERALD, motion picture actress; FRANK TUTTLE, who introduced ALAN LADD, who read CONSTANTIN SIMINOV'S poem, "Wait For Me" to a special musical accompaniment by JACQUE PRESSE. This poem is described by TUTTLE as a Russian poem used to stir up the morale of the Russian soldiers. LADD, according to motion picture magazines which the writer has read, is allegedly the protege of TUTTLE and was given his original chance in motion pictures by TUTTLE. TUTTLE has been reported to be a member of Branch A, Group Three, Northwest Section, Los Angeles County Communist Party. ~~Q~~

Following LADD, a Russian male singer was featured, then ROBERT CUMMINGS, a civilian pilot trainee. DOOLY WILSON, negro, then sang three songs. WILSON also participated in the local Council's rally held November 16, 1943 at the Shrine Auditorium. He is a motion picture actor who played in the picture "Casablanca". ELEANOR VERDUGO who was in the motion picture "For Whom The Bell Tolls", then gave a dance. LEE BARRIE, also in motion pictures, sang. She is also known as Mrs. FRANK TARLOFF and is reported to be a member of the Communist Party, Northwest Section, Branch F (Actors). EARL ROBINSON, composer, then sang a few numbers. ROBINSON, the composer of "Ballad For Americans" is reported to be a member of the Communist Party, Northwest Section. He was transferred from the Cultural Section of New York to Los Angeles within the past year. SKINNAY JENNIS and his Santa Ana Army Band were also featured. ~~Q~~ advised that the Hollywood Canteen was filled to capacity for both shows and also during the entire evening. It should be noted that with few exceptions service men only are admitted to the Hollywood Canteen and civilians are not allowed inside with the exception of hostesses who volunteer their time and other help. Only 500 service men are allowed in the frame building at one time and they are allowed to stay in only a period of time so that others outside may come in. This informant advised that the entire program appeared to be one of propaganda dotting on the theme that Russian life is good and enjoyable and that the Russians, their country and their life, is just like the American way of life. It was all done very subtly and there was no mention of any particular controversial issues or no praise paid to STALIN personally or to the Russian way of life by comparison. The People's World in its article dated February 29, 1944 stated "Warm friendship and interest were expressed by the service men toward the Russian visitors. Soldiers, sailors and officers were constantly surrounded by boys plying them with questions and asking for their signatures. A large scroll extending greetings to the Red Army to be forwarded to the Soviet Union was signed by hundreds of soldiers".

Confidential Source A advised that letters of thanks for assistance rendered the Council in sponsoring the affair at the Hollywood Canteen were sent to the following people: Those reported to the Los Angeles office as Communists have the letter "C" after their name: (a) 4

FANNY COLE - C - who had charge of obtaining the Piroshki.

This source advised that a letter had been written to Lt. Colonel JAMES ROOSEVELT dated January 11, 1944 saying that Federal Judge J. F. T. O'CONNOR had suggested writing him asking him to speak on instant program. However, an answer dated February 10, 1944 by ROOSEVELT advised that he could not appear because he would be out of the country on that date. (a) 4

The Los Angeles Council, according to Source A, is also interested in the formation of the Library of Information. This source advised that they were planning to form a special committee composed of distinguished academic and movie representatives to take the Library of Information over as a project and that the Screen Writers Guild and the Hollywood Writers Mobilization were apparently interested in this type of project. A memorandum prepared by the Council according to Source A, stated that the American-Russian Institute of San Francisco would lend their aid and that the VOKS representative was anxious to have an outlet in Hollywood which would be this Library of Information. Such a project would require, according to the Council's plan, one regular office room plus reader's rooms, a secretary's room and a stack room. The following estimate on a budget was set up by the Council pursuant to this project: Secretary's salary - $300 per month; rent, $100 per month; miscellaneous expenses $100; a total of $500 per month. The memorandum according to Source A, concluded that there were good prospects of getting $750 to $1000 through solicitations and that the rest could be borrowed. (a) 4

The Council contends that after two or three months the monthly budget could be met by fees which could be charged to people who use the library for research. (S) 4

Concerning the miscellaneous activities of the Council, the People's World on February 23, 1944 stated that the Council would pay tribute to Red Army Anniversary by having a representative speak on Sunday, February 27th at the Downtown Forum, 223-3/4 South Spring Street at 7:30 p.m. Admission was to be free. The Downtown Forum has been reported to be completely under Communist control. X

The People's World dated March 9, 1944 reflects that DOROTHY SCHULER, representing the Council will speak on Soviet Women and Children on Sunday, March 12th at 7:30 p.m. at the Downtown Forum. X

Of further interest is a People's World article dated February 7, 1944 reflecting that THOMAS L. HARRIS would appear before numerous civic organizations, union groups and service clubs in San Francisco and cities of the Northwest during a speaking tour February 24th to March 10th and that he would show the first print to be shown on the West Coast of the spectacular Soviet scientific film "Experiments in Revival of Dead Organisms". X

By letter dated January 13, 1944 the New York office advised that ALVIN MENDELKIN HEIN made a contribution to the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship by a check dated November 8, 1943 drawn on the Bank of America, Sunset-Clark Branch, Hollywood, California in the amount of $50. (S) 4

Source A further advised that the local Council is making plans for an exhibit of American-Soviet culture to be held in April or May, 1944. Tentative plans call for three sections to the exhibit, one relating to Art, one to Science, and one to Literature. These are to be shown and developed as functions of the Soviet Society. There has also been some discussion concerning a radio program in the form of a round table discussion. Source A advised that PAULINE TOWNSEND was getting SAM MOORE'S advice on how it should be run. There has been no publicity in the local press, however, of either of these latter two functions of the local Council and it appears that they are still in the formative stage. (S) 4

One copy of the brochure describing the aims and purposes of the Council and giving its officers is being transmitted herewith to the Bureau; one copy to the New York office, and one is being retained as an exhibit in instant file.

Friends and Neighbors Who Said So?

1. "Current developments in Russia and in other theaters of war point unmistakably to the ultimate and decisive triumph over the forces of evil and oppression."
2. "The future welfare of mankind depends largely on the friendship of four nations — America, Britain, China, Russia."
3. "Without Russia as our friend in the post-war years, never will a man or woman in this great audience see a peaceful or a stable world."
4. "I came away convinced that there will be found no two peoples anywhere in the world better qualified to win each other's respect and admiration and friendship than the Russians and Americans."

LOS ANGELES COUNCIL

OF

AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

542 S. BROADWAY

LOS ANGELES 13, CALIF.

What The Council Is

● The Council is an organization of American citizens of different religious, political, and economic views but united in the conviction that friendship between the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. is not only to the best interests of America but essential for enduring peace.

● The Los Angeles Council of American-Soviet Friendship is affiliated with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., among whose sponsors are the Hon. William L. Batt, Hon. John M. Coffee, Hon. Joseph E. Davies, Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, the Right Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, the Hon. Claude D. Pepper, Raymond Gram Swing, and other distinguished Americans.

● The program of the Los Angeles Council, as defined in its Articles of Incorporation, is:

1. To aid and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and to promote better understanding between them.

2. To promote through education a better understanding of the Soviet peoples and their institutions, thus implementing our government's policy of friendly cooperation with the Soviet Government in war and in peace.

3. To act as coordinator for and of organizations, groups and individuals subscribing to the above purposes, and to arrange for the affiliation of such groups.

The United States Senate Says:

“RESOLVED: That the United States, acting through its constitutional processes, join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority with power to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world.

“That the Senate recognizes the necessity of there being established at the earliest practicable date a general international organization based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, and open to membership by all such states, large and small, for the maintenance of international peace and security.

“That, pursuant to the Constitution of the United States, any treaty made to effect the purposes of this resolution on behalf of the government of the United States with any other nation or any association of nations, shall be made only by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur.”— (This incorporates some of the main points of the Moscow Declaration.)

CONNALLY RESOLUTION PASSED BY SENATE ON NOVEMBER 5TH, 1943.

What You Can Do

INFORM . . .

5:15 PM

FOLLARD of the Washington Post asked OREKHOV if there were anything new on the KRAVCHENKO case. OREKHOV replied he had nothing to say.

b7D

5:25 PM

FEDOSEEV told KISSELEV that he obtained the visas and extended the passports for the KLARINS, and that he has arranged to have GRACHEVA take them up to New York. She is leaving this evening. KISSELEV thanked him and added that he would tell ZUBILIN that he (FEDOSEEV) has taken care of everything. In Russian.

7:26 PM

GROMYKO asked SLIOUSARENKO if he could come over. SLIOUSARENKO SAID no, that his wife was not home yet, and would probably not arrive until 8:30 or 9. The Ambassador then asked him to get in touch with REPIN or MATVEEVA. SLIOUSARENKO said he thought MATVEEVA would be down this evening. GROMYKO asked SLIOUSARENKO to find out and let him know. In Russian.

4/15/44

9:33 AM

SAVELIEV told GRITSUNOV to inform the people there (at ☐) that there would be a party at the SPC (Park Rd.) at 8 pm. this evening, including a lecture on the works of MAYAKOVSKY. In Russian.

b6
b7C

10:00 AM

Unidentified woman from SPC asked FEDOSEEV when he obtained the visa for PETUKHOV. FEDOSEEV replied that he received the visa on March 23, that PETUKHOV came to pick up his passport on the 24th, and he thought that PETUKHOV left Washington on the same day. FEDOSEEV then asked the woman when CHERKASSOV and ZAYARNY were leaving. She replied on the 22nd. In that case, FEDOSEEV pointed out, they should stop for their passports not later than the 21st, and bring with them their State Dept. cards, ration books, etc. As for PISKANOV and POPOV, they still have time. However, FEDOSEEV added, they too can come on the 21st for their visas. FEDOSEEV also asked if VOLZHENSKY was leaving tomorrow for Canada. If so, his visa is ready, and he should stop for his passport before 1 pm. today. In Russian.

10:05 AM

KISSELEV told YEGORICHEV that a Lt. BLAKESLEY(ph) called him re the Soviet staff officers who are expected to arrive at La Guardia airport some time today. So far nothing is known about the exact time of arrival. After discussing the question at some length, KISSELEV and YEGORICHEV agreed that they would simply ask the airport authorities to get in touch with KISSELEV or Lt. BLAKESLEY, and then plans can be made. YEGORICHEV also said that he would have no objections if the men wanted to stay a couple of days in New York to see the city. Then KISSELEV can send them to Washington and YEGORICHEV will plan their work for them. In Russian.

- 10:20 AM ANZORENA, Mexican Embassy, asked for ZUBILIN and was told ZUBILIN was out of town. He then talked to FEDOTOV, told him Mrs. QUINTANILLA was arriving in Washington this morning and would leave for Great Falls Monday. ANZORENA wanted to know if they should take money or make any sort of payments for their transportation while here, etc. FEDOTOV said he would inquire and call back.
- 10:27 AM Prof. LEBEDENKO asked BAZYKIN if he could meet with EDWIN SMITH, POPOV and himself Wednesday am (April 19) to discuss the matter of exchange of books and scientific material between the USSR and this country. BAZYKIN said he was going to Philadelphia later in the day (12 noon) but could see them in the morning. In the course of the conversation, LEBEDENKO mentioned that Profs. SMOROGINOV and SOLOVIEV were arriving in Washington on Monday, and would be staying at the Statler. In Russian.
- 11:15 AM ☐ Dr. MARSALKA, in Pittsburgh, to BAZYKIN. BAZYKIN told him the news was bad, that he was unable to find anyone who could go to Pittsburgh on April 29th. MARSALKA asked if the chances would be better if they postponed the affair until May 6th. BAZYKIN said he could not promise anything. Would the Consulate in New York have someone they could send? BAZYKIN said he knew nothing about that, but MARSALKA could call them and find out. BAZYKIN pointed out that they receive so many requests and are so understaffed, that they simply have to refuse everyone. In Russian.
- 11:23 AM BOHLEN, State Dept., asked for ZUBILIN, who was not in. He then told BAZYKIN that the Dept. of Justice had just finished telling him that the Embassy's car had been found. BAZYKIN thanked him, and said they already had the car back.
- 12:10 PM FEDOTOV asked his wife whom he could contact in the Aviation Division of the SPC. She gave him the following names: PISKANOV, KRAMARENKO, DORONIN, PAVETKOV. In Russian.
- 12:15 PM FEDOTOV asked Colonel PISKANOV if ZUBILIN had talked to him about Mrs. QUINTANILLA and her trip to Moscow. PISKANOV said he knew nothing about it. However, as far as payments are concerned, they would have nothing to pay here in the U.S. In Russian.

☐ SUMMARY(Continued)

- 12:17 PM KUBANKOV told Dr. SELANOVA that Mrs. KUBANKOVA would not come to work today, because of a bad cold. In Russian.
- 12:27 PM ANZORENA to FEDOTOV regarding Mrs. QUINTANILLA's passport. FEDOTOV said the passport would have to be signed by the Ambassador, in the absence of ZUBILIN. However, the Ambassador is out and will not return until this evening. There is a chance that ZUBILIN may return early this afternoon, but in any case, FEDOTOV will see what can be done about obtaining the visas by Monday morning.
- 1:00 PM FEDOTOV told ANZORENA he did not know when ZUBILIN would return. Consequently the passport would have to be signed by the Ambassador. ANZORENA said that in the meantime he had learned that Mrs. QUINTANILLA could not leave until about 1 pm. Monday so there would be plenty of time.
- 1:05 PM TAMARA BERDNIKOVA asked REPIN when she was coming to New York. REPIN replied on the 22nd. TAMARA will come to Washington the following weekend. REPIN then asked if GRACHEVA arrived; TAMARA said GRACHEVA was right there, but was talking on another phone at the moment. In Russian.
- 3:40 PM BELOV informed BAZYKIN, at home, that a telegram had arrived for him from "VOKS". It contained a greeting to PAUL ROBESON. In Russian.
- 3:42 PM BAZYKIN asked OREKHOV to have Mrs. SHIRMANOV copy the message in the telegram on to another telegram blank, address it to ROBESON and sign it with his (BAZYKIN's) name. BAZYKIN said the greeting to ROBESON would have to be sent out today; otherwise it would be too late. OREKHOV was very reluctant to ask SHIRMANOV to do this, but finally consented to consent to comply with BAZYKIN's request. In Russian.

DETAILS:

At NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA:

Confidential Informant T-1 made available a copy of a letter dated February 16, 1944 addressed to him as sponsor of subject organization from ROBERT D. FEILD, chairman. This letter purported to be a report of the activities of the local council of subject organization and is set forth in its entirety as follows:

New Orleans 18, Louisiana
February 16, 1944

Mr. _____

"I am writing to report on the activities of the New Orleans Council of American-Soviet Friendship -- and to seek your advice.

"I am happy to say that the Council is becoming well established in New Orleans and shows every promise of gaining both in strength and in its power to influence the community. There are now about one hundred participating members of the Council whose activities are devoted either to Youth, Women's Trade Union, Religious or Professional Groups. These groups meet periodically, on the average of once every two weeks, either for formal discussion on some aspect of the Soviet Union or to plan for disseminating information through those channels which would seem to be most profitable. Since the policy of the Council is one of absolute non-discrimination we are developing splendid cooperation amongst Negroes in the community, who participate freely in all work that is going forward. We propose in the near future to summarize our activities by means of a quarterly report which we will forward you in due course.

"The one problem to which we have as yet found no solution is that of raising sufficient funds to establish an office of our own with the services of an Executive Secretary. So far our expenses have been met by pledges over a six month period from the Executive and other active members of the Council. By this means we have been able to operate with comparative efficiency, but as our work progresses it is becoming more and more impossible either to coordinate the activities of the various groups or to attend to the developing mass of correspondence between them and the National office or other local Councils.

"In order to cope with this problem, which obviously was foreseen from the outset, we established a Finance Committee to investigate ways and means of raising the necessary funds, estimated at about $2500.00 per annum. So far we have failed in our objective.

"I have delayed writing to those who expressed their willingness to sponsor the organization, since I made it clear when I asked for your cooperation that you would have no further obligation to the Council beyond the strengthening of our prestige in the community by the use of your name. Even now my primary purpose is rather to ask for your advice than to solicit financial aid! We are in no sense of the word discouraged, but we do need suggestions as to how we may best set about overcoming our present handicaps. It is in this respect that I am asking your advice and I would indeed be grateful if you could envisage some program or help us to evolve some technique by means of which we may lay a more permanent foundation for our organization. At present its very success may be said to threaten its own survival, since without any machinery for attending to the growing demands upon our services we may be forced to discourage active interest where it is most needed. We are simply unable to function efficiently within the financial limitations imposed upon us.

"There can be no doubt that we in America are in the near future going to face a period where our friendship with the Soviet Union is going to be assailed from all directions and the understanding of our shared responsibilities challenged as never before. Friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union is essential to world peace. Our Council is dedicated to this ideal while at the same time realizing that cooperation between these two great peoples must inevitably make easier the ultimate realization of brotherhood throughout the world.

"This is no time to weaken!

"Very sincerely,

"(signed) R. D. FEILD

"ROBERT D. FEILD, Chairman
Executive Committee of the New Orleans Council of American-Soviet Friendship."

Special Agents R. E. BRUSE and the writer were present at the control room, Radio Station WNOE, St. Charles Hotel, on February 23, 1944 at 5:30 P.M., at which time the broadcast previously mentioned herein was made. The broadcast consisted of a fifteen minute program presented in its entirety by students of Tulane University, with the exception of BUDDY RODRIGUE, child of about ten years of age, and ostensibly members of the Youth Committee, subject organization.

Narrator ~~ARTHUR~~ MEISEL opened the program with the following:

"The Youth Committee of the New Orleans Council of American-Soviet Friendship welcomes this opportunity to extend greetings to all those who have willingly cooperated with them. Today, February 23, is Red Army Day. All over, American people are celebrating this occasion. The play this evening is the tribute young New Orleans is paying to our gallant Russian allies."

The program following was entitled "Story of a People". This story consisted of a short narration dealing with the rise of Hitler and the formation of the German Army, the invasions of Czechoslovakia, Norway, Holland, Belgium, France and Russia in June 22, 1941. Narrator spoke of Hitler's intention to destroy the Soviet Union and of Hitler's inability to bring about such destruction. He attributed the failure on the part of Hitler to the strength of the Red Army, stating, "This army in war or peace is not an army of soldiers who are nothing more than fighters. The Red Army is the Russian people".

The foregoing narration was interrupted from time to time by various members of the cast with remarks in keeping with the theme. The story was concluded with "Russian soldiers, America salutes you."

Following the presentation of the play, a statement was made by ARTHUR MEISEL that the purpose of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to winning the war and to securing an enduring peace. MEISEL also announced that persons interested in the local council's activity should communicate with ROBERT D. FEILD, chairman, at [REDACTED]. The names of the persons taking part in this program are set forth hereafter:

Miss ~~ELSA~~ PERDOMO.
Mr. ~~RENE~~ LEHMANN.
Mr. ~~NORMAN~~ KARCHNER.
Miss ~~BARBARA~~ WEDEMAYER.
Mr. ARTHUR MEISEL.
Mr. ~~JORGE~~ GASFEAZORO.
Mr. ~~ADRIAN C.~~ BENJAMIN, JR.
BUDDY RODRIGUE.

It is noted that Mrs. EMMA KAMAICO did not take part in presentation of the program. However, she was present during the entire proceedings.

The original radio script of the foregoing broadcast, as well as a full recording of same was obtained by agents. Both are being made part of the file for possible future reference.

Confidential Informant [REDACTED] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on April 13, 1944 made available to Special Agent BASIL G. L. PETTIT a copy of a pamphlet obtained from the literature rack, National Maritime Union hall. This pamphlet bore the name and address of the national office of subject organization and was entitled "Stop Hearst's Seditious Attack on our Soviet Ally". The pamphlet alleges: "the defeatist, reactionary and undemocratic forces in this country of which Hearst is a spokesman seek to divide us from the Soviet Union in order that fascism shall emerge at least semi-intact from the war as a future menace to democracy. In other words they are against unconditional surrender and for a negotiated peace." The pamphlet further urges that individuals and organizations take the following action (1) "write letters to the Hearst or other papers in your community which attack the Soviet Union and seek to divide us from our ally, condemning their tactics;" (2) "cease to patronize such papers"; (3) "write letters to the win-the-war papers criticizing the anti-Soviet utterances of the defeatist press;" (4) most important of all, write to Attorney General BIDDLE yourself and also persuade organizations to which you may be affiliated to pass resolutions to send to Attorney General BIDDLE and to the President urging that Hearst be prosecuted for sedition." The aforementioned pamphlet is being made a part of the file.

A highly confidential source who had access to the literature maintained at the Communist Party office, 417 Godchaux Building as of February 25, 1944, made available a ten-cent copy of a pamphlet entitled "Constitution of the U.S.S.R." It is noted that this pamphlet was prepared by the National Office of subject organization. The pamphlet is being made a part of the file.

N.O. 100-3091

On April 5, 1944, ~~Confidential Informant~~ [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that ~~EMANUEL~~ LEVIN, Communist Party District Organizer, in a conversation with a woman thought to be MARY ~~BANCROFT~~, asked her what she knew about the New Orleans Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This woman informed LEVIN that she did not know much about the organization but advised, however, that she thought six or eight persons got together periodically and discussed affairs dealing with Soviet Russia. Informant was of the impression that LEVIN was not informed of the activities of the organization.

POLICY

Source A was present at a conference in which HERBERT RESNER, LUCILLE BURLIAN and OLETA O'CONNOR YATES, Executive Secretary of the San Francisco Communist Party, discussed the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. Source A recalls that THOMAS HARRIS, National Organizer for the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC. had hoped to have a meeting with YATES, BURLIAN and RESNER during the time he was in town at the end of February, 1944. Source A recalled that RESNER remarked that Mrs. LOUIS BLOCH is to have a tea for HARRIS upon his return, at which time he will be able to meet wealthy and important people in San Francisco. ~~C~~ (U)

RESNER spoke of another meeting of people close to the Communist Party from various fields who can be used in the Council either permanently or occasionally and who can sit in at the meetings and give advice from the different fields, such as Negro, racial minorities, educational, ministerial, and professional. RESNER recalled that HARRIS wanted at the second meeting people who would not be afraid to be present at a meeting attended by OLETA O'CONNOR YATES. At this meeting RESNER indicated the problem of involving in the work of the council more and more people, particularly people who are close to the Party or in the Party who can give time to the Council. ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that RESNER had hoped to obtain the services of a Negro minister in the Fillmore District to serve on the Executive Committee of the Council. RESNER is recalled to have hoped to obtain the services of JOSEPH JAMES, prominent Negro leader, who is presently engaged in the local Negro discrimination in the Boilermakers Union in San Francisco. Source A recalled that several other Communists were mentioned for positions in the Executive Committee. One KAY McTERNAN was suggested as a representative of the educational field, but Source A recalled that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES stated that KAY McTERNAN was busy at the California Labor School as a representative of the Jewish race. Source A recalled that Rabbi BURSTEIN was considered the best representative, although one SOL WHITE, a rabbi, was mentioned by RESNER. ~~C~~ (U)

OLETA O'CONNOR YATES is recalled by Source A to have stated that BURSTEIN would be a good choice, but may be reluctant to meet with the "Party people". ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that a Dr. CHARLES A. ERTOLA, an Italian dentist with offices at 253 Columbus Avenue, was suggested as a representa- ~~C~~ (U) tive of a minority group inasmuch as Dr. ERTOLA is head of the Italian-American Legion. ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES suggested that RESNER contact one HELEN DREYFUS to serve. Source A also was reminded that RESNER had stated that he would prefer to see ELEANOR SAWYER, who is presently working for the People's World, work for the subject organization. Source A advised that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES stated that she would get in touch with JOHN PITTMAN of the People's World to see if that couldn't be arranged. ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that RESNER considered that work among the businessmen of San Francisco who are looking forward to postwar trade with Russia is a field for the subject organization. ~~C~~ (U)

In connection with the publicity, Source A recalled that LUCILLE BURMAN stated that QUINN had indicated he would help the subject organization. Source A recalled that those who were finally selected to meet with THOMAS HARRIS upon his return from Seattle in March, 1944 consisted of ESTELLE CAEN, GUS GAYNOR, ELEANOR SAWYER, RABBI BURSTEIN, JOE LYNCH, DR. CHARLES A. ERTOLA, and a Negro minister. Source A recalled that RESNER stated that "we want to lay out a program of action and have each of these people assume responsibilities and discharge them and really keep the Council going". ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that LUCILLE BURMAN brought up the financial question and that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES stated that there were a great number of people in the Professional Branch of the Communist Party who are not doing anything and Source A further recalled that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES stated that she would ask the branch organizers for suggestions. ~~C~~ (U)

As a matter of interest, Source A recalled that HERBERT RESNER stated, "I hope that we in our earlier visits don't invite an attack and investigation by HEARST because we are so closely involved with this Communist thing now that it really is a red plot." Source A further recalled that OLETA O'CONNOR YATES instructed LUCILLE BURMAN not to associate herself too closely with the Communist Party's activities because of her work in the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. Source A advised that this conference took place on March 1, 1944 at Communist Party Headquarters, 121 Haight Street, San Francisco. ~~C~~ (U)

Source A recalled that on March 6, 1944, OLETA O'CONNOR YATES had advised DAVID JENKINS, Communist Party functionary, that she wanted to discuss with him a top committee for the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. She advised JENKINS that the national office feels that there should be an educator on this committee and that the committee should be composed of persons "not too left wing". The informant was unable ~~C~~ (U)

[redacted] to advise if OLETA O'CONNOR YATES was referring to the National Headquarters of the Communist Party when she spoke of the national office. Source A advised that this information also had been obtained at the Communist Party Headquarters in San Francisco. ~~C~~ (U)

On March 30, 1944, the writer called at the office of the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and under suitable pretext learned from Miss ALTHEYA YOUNGMAN, who was then on duty, that the San Francisco Council has been organized to create friendship and understanding between the United States and Russia. Miss YOUNGMAN advised that she did not know much about the organization--that she was merely volunteering her services for Miss BURMAN that day; but that as far as she knew, the purposes of the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP were educational and not political.

[redacted] Miss YOUNGMAN advised the writer that she resided at [redacted] Berkeley, California. A subsequent check of the indices of the San Francisco Field Division regarding this individual was made with negative results.

b7C

Miss YOUNGMAN advised that the literature on display in subject organization's office was either for free distribution or for sale. It was noted that Miss YOUNGMAN was eager to promote the organization of other Councils in other cities. As the writer had advised her that he was from out of town, Miss YOUNGMAN several times referred to the importance of having such an organization as the subject organization in each large city in the United States.

During the time the writer was in the subject organization's office, a period of approximately one hour and a half, it was noted that the telephone rang just once and from the conversation, it was apparent that this call was more social than business. Also, during this period the afternoon mail was delivered, which was noted by the writer to consist of one item--an ordinary sized envelope addressed by a duplicating machine from the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C.

PAMPHLETS

As noted elsewhere in this report, subject organization had for sale or free distribution approximately fifty different pamphlets. The writer noted pamphlets on subjects ranging from one entitled "Soviet Children and Their Care" to pulp paper pamphlets printed in Russia consisting of crudely written extravagant accounts of daring Soviet airmen. The following pamphlets were obtained by the writer and will be briefly described:

February 3, 1944 issue of "The Witness"

This pamphlet is published by the Episcopal Church Publishing Company at Chicago, Illinois. The issue mentioned carries as its lead story an article entitled, "Roman Catholic Priests Talk on Border Disputes." This article concludes that white Russians will never consent to be severed from the Soviet Union. This pamphlet is entirely devoted to the church in Soviet Russia.

"Soviet Children and Their Care"

This pamphlet, costing ten cents, was written by ROSE MAURER. It was published in New York by the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. It consists of 48 pages handsomely printed on smooth paper and illustrated by photographs that obviously were taken in Russia although no credit is shown for these photographs. The topics in this pamphlet cover the Russian government's interest in children from before birth to a short item on family life as an important factor in the Soviet scheme.

"We Will Join Hands with Russia" on Polish-Soviet Relations.

This pamphlet is a publication of the Nationalities Division of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP and consists of speeches made at a meeting on December 19, 1943 at New York City under the auspices of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. The speakers consisted of Prof. OSCAR LANGE, REV. FR. STANISLAW ORLEANSKI, LEO KRZYCKI, U.S. Senator JAMES M. TUNNELL, and CORLISS LAMONT.

A single folded sheet entitled "Some Facts About the Russian-Poland Border Question", which consists of a reprint from the January 9, 1944 San Francisco Council. This material consists of an article by CARROLL BINDER, foreign editor of the Chicago Daily News. This article was put out by the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

"Soviet War Cartoons"

This pamphlet, consisting of approximately 26 pages, was published by the American-Russian Institute in San Francisco. After an introduction by ALEXANDER KAUN, there are examples of Russian cartoon art. The subject of the cartoonists' efforts entirely is the German government and prominent German leaders. This pamphlet is priced at 25¢.

Another pamphlet entitled "A Family of Nations," consisting of 32 pages of explanatory prose and illustrations in which the various nationalities in the Soviet Union are emphasized as united against Hitler. This pamphlet was published by the Nationalities Division of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC. in New York City. This pamphlet is priced at ten cents. It is well illustrated and published on high-quality paper.

"The Spirit of the Soviet Union"

The above is a pamphlet consisting of 18 pages published by the American Russian Institute, 101 Post Street, San Francisco. It is profusely illustrated with pictures originating in Russia although no credit is shown. This pamphlet explains the spirit of the Soviet people in the war. The cost of this pamphlet was five cents.

"Fellow Students to Battle" is the title of a 35-page pulp paper pamphlet in which speeches by Soviet students are printed. It is highly inspirational and obviously is delivered as an affirmation of faith on the part of the Soviet students during the war. Fervent appeals were noted to students throughout the world to combat Hitler and to eradicate the German menace. The inside cover of this pamphlet contains the words, "Printed in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics".

A 44-page pamphlet entitled "Ram Them" was obtained. This pamphlet, printed in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, consisted of several highly colored stories of Soviet airmen's experiences in combat with the Germans. The climax of each of the tales related in this pamphlet consists of the final victory by a Soviet airman over a German plane when the Soviet airman directed his plane into the plane of his adversary. Noted in these stories are American idioms, which prompt the conclusion that this pamphlet is not a translation, but an obvious attempt to write propaganda directed solely at the United States.

Mr. THOMAS V. MacWILLIAM,  San Francisco, California, has agreed to be placed on the mailing list of the subject organization so that the writer may be apprised of the public activities and publications of the subject organization. In acknowledging Mr. MacWILLIAM's request to receive advice of the public meetings of the subject organization, LUCILLE BURIAN, the Executive Secretary of the subject organization, forwarded to Mr. MacWILLIAM a listing of twelve pamphlets on the Soviet Union which are on sale at the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. This listing, as well as the pamphlets obtained by the writer, is being retained in the files of the San Francisco Field Division.

ACTIVITIES

In the People's World, West Coast Communist Party newspaper for December 14, 1943, a story appeared advising of the letters of greeting commemorating the anniversary of friendly and diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia, which letters were written by the following individuals at the instigation of the subject organization. This article stated that the letters were forwarded to the Russian Ambassador for transmittal to the Soviet Union. Excerpts of letters were noted in this article and the following individuals were shown to have expressed their feelings in these letters:

JUDGE T. AIN MICHELSEN
EDWARD L. PARTONS, retired bishop of California
ROBERT L. KENNY, Attorney General,
State of California
RABBI IRVING FREDERICK REICHERT
DR. S. J. HURWITT
REV. PAUL LITTLE
ALBERT BRILLIANT, Manager, Local 42,
Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America
CHARLES M. DENNIS, Director of music in public schools
PAUL SCHNUR, Secretary, San Francisco
CIO Council
JOSEPH S. THOMPSON

It is noted that these individuals for the most part also appear as sponsors of the subject organization.

In the People's World for February 5, 1944 and in several subsequent issues, an ad appeared advising of the celebration at the Scottish Rite Auditorium on February 22, 1944 of George Washington's Birthday and the Red Army's 26th anniversary. This celebration was noted to be under the auspices of the Russian American Society, Inc., and the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

In the People's World for February 19, a list of the speakers were JACOB LOMAKIN, Consul General, USSR, at San Francisco, and Professor HOLLAND ROBERTS, Stanford University. This ad advised that a color-guard consisting of United States and Soviet soldiers and sailors and representatives of the CIO and AFL would be present. Special Agent JOHN J. BIGLIN attended this meeting and advised that approximately 1,000 individuals attended this meeting, most of whom were elderly people who were able to understand Russian inasmuch as LOMAKIN's speech was given in Russian. Approximately 180 reserved seats in the front of the auditorium were occupied by Russian sailors and Special Agent BIGLIN advised that Russian literature was distributed at the door. Just proceeding the opening of the meeting, a 3 x 4 feet drawing of JOSEF STALIN was placed on the right side of the stage and this drawing's appearance on the stage created a round of applause. United Nations' flags decorated the stage and the colorguard brought to the stage the United States and the Russian flags, after which the American and Russian national anthems were sung.

Agent BIGLIN advised that HERBERT RESNER was introduced as chairman for the evening and that RESNER introduced several United Nations Consular officials, who were seated on the stage around the speakers' rostrum. The first speaker was Professor ROBERTS, who was referred to by RESNER as a long-time friend of the Soviet Union and at a time when it was not so easy to be a friend of the Soviet Union. Special Agent BIGLIN advised that ROBERTS' speech was based on the intertwining histories of the United States and Russia based on a mutual desire for peace and collaboration. ROBERTS characterized the purchase of Alaska by the United States from Russia as a virtual gift to the United States and a token of friendship from Russia to the United States. ROBERTS also advised that Russian explorers had covered the West Coast of the United States and at one time California might well have been claimed by Russia.

JACOB LOMAKIN, Consul General, delivered a twenty-five minute speech in Russian, which was translated by Mrs. VICTOR ARNAUTOFF. This speech had as its theme the victories of the Red Army and the defeat of Hitler. A collection was taken during the meeting, which Agent BIGLIN estimated totaled approximately $300 contributed in bills and checks prior to a collection of coins by plate. The collection was taken for the benefit of the sponsoring organizations.

A review of the San Francisco papers subsequent to this event failed to show that the meeting received any publicity in the paper.

On February 27, 1944, at the Y.W.C.A., 620 Sutter Street, the subject organization presented the Russian movie entitled, "Experiments in the Revival of Organisms". Mr. SIDNEY ROGER, identified elsewhere in this report, was the chairman of this meeting.

GENERAL

A mail cover has been placed on subject organization's address and the results therefrom will be reported in a subsequent report.

The writer contacted Mr. A. F. GRADWOHL, postal employee at the Rincon Annex, regarding the subject organization. Mr. GRADWOHL advised that the subject organization had not obtained a permit for the mailing of second-class matter; but that on February 23, 1944, LUCILLE BURIAN obtained for the subject organization a pre-cancel permit. Mr. GRADLOHL advised that this permit entitles the subject organization to deposit pre-canceled mail at the post office in quantities, which must be over 200 items mailed at any one time.

Source B advised that on December 6, 1943, HERBERT RESNER contacted GREGORY KHEIFETS, Vice Consul of the Russian Consulate in San Francisco. This informant advised that after arranging for the Council to provide some films to show to a group, RESNER advised KHEIFETS that LUCILLE BURIAN is going to take over the work of the San Francisco Council. Informant advised that RESNER brought up the name of LUCILLE BURIAN to KHEIFETS so that KHEIFETS would recognize her when she later gets in touch with the Russian Consul. (U)

This source advised later that BURIAN had contacted KHEIFETS and advised him of a display at the City of Paris, which contained literature from most of the Allied Nations, and that in this display is a pamphlet regarding Poland which presents the Polish-Russian border problem in the wrong light. Informant advised that BURIAN told KHEIFETS that she had some pamphlets written by Poles, which pamphlets presented the problem in the correct light. Informant recalled that KHEIFETS asked BURIAN to call him back after she had seen the pamphlets and to advise him what she found. (U)

Source C advised that LOUISE BRANSTEN in a discussion with an unknown individual had mentioned that LUCILLE BURIAN is "lost" with her group and cannot get any help. Informant recalled that the San Francisco Council, according to LOUISE BRANSTEN, has had trouble with Russian War Relief because of overlapping activities and that LUCILLE BURIAN had become despondent about the subject organization's prospects. This informant recalled that LOUISE BRANSTEN had remarked that THOMAS HARRIS had explained that the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP is concerned with the business people and trade unions and that the Council should put out a newspaper. (U)

Source D advised that the General Board of Trustees of Local 6 (I.L.U) is donating $25.00 a week for eight months to the SAN FRANCISCO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. This informant advised that this money had been donated in response to a letter written by HERBERT RESNER. (U)

Source B advised that on December 8, 1943, GREGORY KHEIFETS of the Russian Consulate offered HERBERT RESNER some posters, books, pamphlets and magazines for window dressing and decorating the office of the subject organization. Source B advised that KHEIFETS stated that these items could be obtained from the Consulate or from the American-Russian Institute. (U)

Source E advised that on March 13, 1944, LOUISE BRANSTEN had mentioned that the subject organization is "doing a good political job that we can't do". According to informant, it was obvious that BRANSTEN believed that the American-Russian Institute could not do anything political. Informant was unable to advise what specifically prompted LOUISE BRANSTEN to consider the subject organization's job as political. ~~(S)~~ (U)

A check of the subject organization at the San Francisco Retailers Credit Association by Special Agent STEVE M. KENNEDY was made with negative results on April 5, 1944.

Atty. Heffernan Speaks On Russian Constitution

An appeal to the public in behalf of the Youngstown Council of American-Soviet Friendship for more friendly relations between the United States and Russia as a means of establishing world-wide peace, was made by Attorney Joseph L. Heffernan before more than 200 persons Tuesday night in the Youngstown College auditorium.

Speaking on "The Constitution of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics," Heffernan explained that Russia must have looked toward the United States before drawing up a constitution because of the similarity of the two. "The constitution of Russia is fine," he said, "but it is not the masterpiece which our constitution is."

Leda Cossack Hartwell, executive secretary of the council, spoke briefly on a motion picture made during pioneer experiments in the Soviet Institute of Experimental Biology in Moscow.

Ford P. Agey, president of the council, had charge of the program. Invocation was by Rev. Virgil Havens. Mary Jane McFarland sang, accompanied by Lester McFarland.

PURPOSE

The Youngstown Council of American-Soviet Friendship was formed to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.

In conformity with the military and political events which are daily drawing the two countries more closely together the Council seeks to implement and strengthen American-Soviet relations by

1. Furnishing reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life,
2. Promoting interchange of information between professional and other groups in the U.S.A. and corresponding groups in the U.S.S.R., and
3. Combating anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

THE NEXT MEETING

"Religion in Russia" is the topic which will be discussed at the next meeting of the Youngstown Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The meeting will be held on Friday May 26 at 8:00 P.M. in the auditorium of the First Christian Church. The speaker will be Rev. Eugene C. Beach.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS: General YAKHONTOFF lectured at regular convocation of students and faculty 12/16/43 at Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, on U. S.-Russian relationship. Was engaged by the convocation committee through subject organization. Lecture was not planned by committee in commemoration of tenth anniversary of U. S. recognition of the Soviet Government. Speech was not of controversial nature. Dr. VERNON VAN DYKE, Political Science Professor, Depauw University, at the request of the university president, gave short lecture on Russian policies and relations with other allies in latter part of October, 1943 at regular convocation of students and faculty. VAN DYKE has good reputation and character. Speech not in commemoration of tenth anniversary of U. S. recognition of Soviet Russia.

REFERENCE: Report of Special Agent WILLIAM FRANCIS NORTON, JR., dated 2/15/44, at New York, New York.

DETAILS: AT GREENCASTLE, INDIANA

Dean A. J. DIRKS, Depauw University, advised that Dr. VERNON VAN DYKE has been a professor in the political science department in the school for the past seven years. VAN DYKE was born and raised at Winona Lake, Indiana, and DIRKS has known him personally since he was a boy. VAN DYKE graduated from Manchester College and received his P.H.D. at Chicago University. DIRKS considered him one of the finest and one of the most brilliant young men on the faculty and recommends him and his family as being of excellent reputation and character. He added that VAN DYKE is an authority in the field of international relations and has spent some time in Geneva, Switzerland, and has traveled extensively in other countries in Europe. He has never, at any time, exhibited radical tendencies or sympathies toward Communism.

DIRKS advised that VAN DYKE has made several lectures at the College but that he does not recall him ever having talked on Russia or Communism. DIRKS was unable to recall that VAN DYKE had given a speech during November or December of 1943. He searched the records concerning speakers at the regular convocations of the student body during November and December but was unable to find any record of VAN DYKE's having given a talk at that time.

Dr. VERNON VAN DYKE, Professor, Depauw University, advised that he has no knowledge or information concerning subject organization although he may have received pamphlets and literature from this organization. He stated that, being in the political science department, he receives such literature from various organizations. He recalled that in the fall of 1943 his department received some literature from an organization in New York, which may have been identical with subject organization. Among these pamphlets was one which mentioned the anniversary of the United States recognition of Soviet Russia. The article was by CORLISS LAMONT and requested that the different schools throughout the country make an effort to commemorate in some way this occasion.

VAN DYKE advised that he was asked by the head of his department whether he desired to give a lecture during November or December of 1943 in commemoration. He declined to do this, but stated that around the middle of October, the President of the college, Dr. WILDMAN, requested him to give an address before the regular student convocation. He stated that he had picked the subject of Russia-American relations because it seemed to him to be very appropriate. Due to the President's request, in the latter part of October he gave a fifteen-minute lecture on the subject dealing with American and Russian problems and how they must come to a better understanding in order to solve post war problems. He advised that he had touched on nothing controversial at all and that it had no connection with the tenth anniversary of the United States recognition of Soviet Russia, nor was it made at the request of subject organization.

The following investigation was conducted by the writer on March 1, 1944, at Terre Haute, Indiana:

Dr. HAZEL PFENNIG, Professor of English, Indiana State Teachers College, advised that she was the Chairman of the Convocation Committee of the school and that it is the duty of this committee to secure speakers and arrange the convocation programs for the student body and the faculty. At the beginning of the school year, they planned to have a speaker who would be in a position to give a talk on each of the allied countries and their activities in the war. As they had already had a speaker on England and a Chinese who had given the Chinese side of the war, the committee decided to have someone give a talk on Russia.

IPLS

The committee had heard of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, so they sent to this organization to secure the name of a speaker who would be available. This organization advised that General YAKHONTOFF, a speaker who was registered with the organization, would be able to appear there on December 16, 1943. Dr. PFENNIG advised that the committee had no special reason for having General YAKHONTOFF for a speaker at that specific time and none of them had even thought of the fact that the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations were being celebrated during this period.

General YAKHONTOFF arrived in Terre Haute on the day he was to speak, December 16, 1943. He spoke at the regular convocation of the student body at 10:00 AM in the College Hall on the campus, and left at noon after the talk. Dr. PFENNIG carried on a conversation with him at which time he advised that he had been on a speaking tour throughout the country. He said he had taught for several years at Williams College and was presently with the School of Social Research at New York City.

She advised that YAKHONTOFF was an interesting speaker, the main point in his talk being that America and Russia should try to understand each other and work for closer harmony. He pointed out what contributions the Russians had made to the Allied war effort in material and in the enormous losses that country had suffered in man power. Also he quoted at great length from newspaper articles which he carried with him, concerning Russian successes on the battle front, and of how the Russian government was living up to her commitments to the other Allies. YAKHONTOFF did not go into a discussion of politics, nor did he even mention the Communist Party in this country. Dr. PFENNIG advised that this talk which lasted one hour and was heard only by the faculty and the students was generally accepted without comment. The only criticism which she heard was that YAKHONTOFF had failed to give the United States enough credit for the lend lease materials which were being sent to Russia.

A search was made of the morgue of the school paper and of the Terre Haute Tribune and Star, local papers, for any articles which might have been written covering the speech. However, none were found.

Confidential Informant  of the New Haven Field Division advised that a regular meeting of the Hamden Professional Branch of the Communist Party was held on November 2, 1943. At this meeting Alice Hickerson spoke on the subject organization and stated that it is a very "delicate one". She referred to it as a ghost organization in which the Party would not become openly active until after the war when the need for Russian War Relief is over.

celebration at the Hollywood Canteen. The committee in charge was composed of seven people and of these the Chairman and five others have been reported to be Communist Party members. The celebration at the Canteen, to which only members of the United States Armed Forces are admitted, consisted of two shows. Among the speakers were THOMAS L. HARRIS, Executive Director of the local council; V. V. PASTOEY, Vice Consul of the U. S. S. R. in Los Angeles, and FRANK TUTTLE, the latter of whom is a reported Communist motion picture director. Various motion picture people performed, among them LEE BARBIE and EARL ROBINSON, both of whom are reported Communist Party members of the Northwest Section. The entire program stressed the great likeness of the United States and the U. S. S. R., and the great likeness among its peoples. According to an informant it was plain Russian propaganda.

The Los Angeles Council also sponsored a showing of the Soviet scientific film entitled, "Experiments in the Revival of Dead Organisms". The committee in charge of this film is headed by Dr. MURRY ABOWITZ, reported Communist, and Dr. FRANCIS POTTINGER, reported Communist Party line follower.

The Council has also furnished speakers to various organizations and though no figure is available for the past quarter, it has been established that since June 10, 1943, the Los Angeles Council claims to have furnished speakers to approximately ninety public meetings, reaching approximately twelve to thirteen thousand people.

On January 31, 1944, the Council sponsored a forum at the Hollywood - Roosevelt Hotel, at which JOHN HOWARD LAWSON, screen writer and reported leader of the motion picture industry's Communists, and THOMAS L. HARRIS were the principal speakers.

On February 12, 1944, there was a one hour broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's network in honor of the women of Soviet Russia, in celebration of Women's Day in the U. S. S. R. Although the local council did not officially sponsor this broadcast, it has been established that there were several communications between WILLIAM MOORE, JR. in New York and THOMAS L. HARRIS in Los Angeles concerning the persons who were handling the program, indicating a collaboration on the part of the local council. It is noted that CAL KUHL and SAM MOORE were reported by HARRIS to be handling the Los Angeles end of the program as representatives of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization. MOORE is a reported Communist in the Northwest Section. He is the writer of radio program entitled, "The Great Gildersleeve", and also an official of the Radio Writers Guild. This broadcast, according to HARRIS, was sent short-wave to the armed forces of the United Nations all over the world.

The Council is presently laying plans for a Russian-American Exhibit scheduled to be held in May, 1944, in Los Angeles and also attempting to form a Soviet Library in the Hollywood area, which will be an outlet for VOKS.

MEMBERSHIP

The Los Angeles Council is composed of an Executive Committee of twenty-five people and is proceeding to elect members of the Council, which membership will be limited to 100 people. Approximately fifty members have been elected to date, making a total of seventy-five actual members. Sympathizers with the movement will undoubtedly increase this number.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

As of assistance to this Bureau in conducting its investigation of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, it is deemed advisable to establish a technical surveillance on the Organization's Chicago headquarters, 135 South LaSalle Street, Room 1120, telephone Andover 1878.

You recall I previously advised you of the background of this Organization in the request for the authorization to establish a technical surveillance on the offices of the national headquarters of this Organization in New York City. This was authorized by you.

Briefly, the Organization is actively engaged in propagandizing on a wide spread basis the Soviet Union. To do this it distributes large quantities of literature, stages mass meetings and provides other propaganda media such as Soviet films for other organizations. It is known that executive officers of this Organization seek advice and receive instructions from national functionaries of the Communist Party, such as Steve Nelson, Roy Hudson, and Alexander Trachtenberg. A highly confidential and most reliable source has also advised that at least three of its officials, Edwin S. Smith, Executive Director, Thomas L. Harris, National Secretary and Alice Prentiss Barrows, Activities Director, seek the advice and assistance of officials of the Soviet Government in this country. This same informant has indicated that these persons receive instructions from various diplomatic representatives of Russia.

The Chicago branch is under the direction of Dr. William Martin Card, who is a member of the faculty of the Chicago City Teachers College. He is reliably reported to be one of the chief Communist apologists in the teachers' circle in Chicago. He is presently teaching one of the main courses in the Abraham Lincoln School, a Communist front in Chicago. Behind the scene of the Chicago branch, it is reliably reported, such Communist functionaries, as Jack Kling, Educational Director of District 8 of the Communist Party, are active. It is further known that the Chicago branch has been in contact with such Communist and front groups as the Abraham Lincoln School, Chicago; the American Russian Music Corporation, Chicago; the International Workers Order, Chicago; the Modern Book Shop, Chicago; and the Embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in the United States.

In view of the foregoing information and inasmuch as a technical surveillance on the Chicago offices of this Organization would undoubtedly produce vital information relative to the Communist and Russian propaganda in this country, I recommend you authorize the establishment of this surveillance.

Respectfully,

INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Attention of Supervisor LISH WHITSON

Dear Sir:

During the course of investigation of the case entitled, "NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INCORPORATED, INTERNAL SECURITY - C" in the Portland Field Office information has been received concerning a lecture delivered by THOMAS L. HARRIS, Secretary of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated.

During this lecture which also consisted in the showing of a Russian scientific film entitled, "Experiments in the Revival of Animal Organisms" THOMAS L. HARRIS made many statements as to why the United States should seek Soviet friendship and in one of his statements he advised that the Russians were very well advanced scientifically as evidenced by the foregoing film and stated that the United States would certainly wish to become a friend of Soviet Russia if Russia succeeded in solving the mystery of the atom smasher for whoever first develops the atom smasher will rule the world. Informant at this meeting interpreted some of HARRIS' statements including this one as implied threats.

The foregoing information is being submitted for whatever significance or value it may have in view of previous indications that THOMAS L. HARRIS is closely associated with GREGORI KHEIFETS and other known suspects in the subject case. (S) (U)

The following information has been furnished to the Bureau by an unknown outside source under date of April 26, 1944, Youngstown, Ohio:

YOUNGSTOWN COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

About 150-155 persons attended the movie staged by this organization at the auditorium of the Youngstown College, Wednesday evening, April 25th. The movie is a Soviet film entitled "Life Is Restored To Dead Animals." Ford Agay, local humane society attorney, was chairman. Attorney Joseph Heffernan discussed the difference between the Soviet and U. S. Constitution and stated that the U. S. Constitution is a masterpiece compared to the Soviet Constitution which he stated is very complicated. Attorney Leda Cossack Hartwell stated that she was Russian born and her family had to flee Russia to China and from there to the United States. This was before the revolution. Rev. Eugene Beach, 1st Christian Church, could not be present and Rev. Virgil Havens gave the invocation. The movie was interesting and educational.

The meeting was attended by Mrs. Bert Prints, Mrs. Nate Hartwell, the Wilkoffs, Dr. Sam Sedwitz, who explained the movie, Clarence Robinson, wife and daughter, Louis Love, Hannah and Ben Blumenthal, Morris Bean and wife, Sol Jagoda, Friedman, Selinger (Jewish Center) and several score persons who can be seen at any Communist meeting. The meeting attracted but few persons outside of Communist circles and friends of those sponsoring the affair.

Local committee officials expressed keen disappointment at the very small attendance as the affair was well advertised for the past few weeks and the committee expected at least an attendance of one thousand persons. Mrs. Hartwell took up a "free-will" collection which amounted to about $15.00 which will not meet the expenses of the affair.

It appears that but few persons are interested in the program of the Council and those natives engaged in its work who are able to read the signs will now ease themselves out of this organization. The meeting was a "flop"

The foregoing is submitted for your information and appropriate consideration with respect to the captioned organization. In the event any of the above material is incorporated in an investigative report or submitted to an outside agency it should be appropriately paraphrased.

① NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

The following information is submitted for your appropriate attention and consideration in connection with your investigation of the subject organization. It has been obtained by the Washington Field Division from a most confidential and reliable source:

On May 4, 1944, Beatrice Heiman of Tass News Agency asked Fedotov of the Russian Embassy to see a Mr. Sherman who is Chairman of the Science Committee of the "American-Soviet Council". She stated that Sherman wanted to work out an exchange agreement whereby scientific literature could be exchanged with Russia. Fedotov said that this was a matter which Vladimir Bazykin should handle but since Bazykin was leaving for Chicago that same afternoon he, Fedotov, would see Sherman.

On the same date Edwin Smith of the subject organization asked Bazykin when they could get together. Bazykin said he was leaving for Chicago on the afternoon of May 4 and would make a stop in New York on the following Monday, where he would contact Smith. Smith said he had just received a cable from Moscow stating that a Soviet Anti-Fascist Conference was scheduled for May 22 in Moscow. Smith said he would like to get various youth organizations in America to send greetings to the affair, but the problem faced him as how to get the messages to Russia. Bazykin suggested Smith send them to the Embassy and some means would be found to convey the greetings. Smith added that he had had several greetings from trade unions for the USSR for the May Day Celebration. Bazykin suggested that these also be sent to the Embassy.

On May 4, 1944, a Miss Pearce (phonetic) of the Music Committee of the subject organization told Vladimir Bazykin that a very distressing situation had arisen — that Mr. Smith (it is not known if this is Edwin Smith) had decided to resign and was planning to make a farewell speech on the next morning. She stated that they had already started their organization and had involved a lot of people, and that it would be a scandal to have it all fall through at that time. Bazykin said he would be in New York City on Monday and would try to arrange a meeting with Miss Pearce, suggesting that she consult the Consulate Monday afternoon at about 7:00 p.m. at which time they could make definite arrangements.

The foregoing is submitted with the instructions that in the event any of the information is incorporated in an investigative report it be most carefully paraphrased so as to guard the identity of the informant. This also applies to any distribution that might be made of it to any outside agency.

HYMAN KRIVOFF, and Dr. and Mrs. BORIS KAPLAN, all of whom are Russians, and who have been extremely active in all pro-Russian activities in this country, according to the Informant. ~~(S)~~ (U)

This source further stated that while KRIVOFF and the KAPLANs were not known to be definitely members of the Communist Party, they were known to be leaders in the Communist Party movement at New Bedford, and to look very favorably upon the policies of the Communist Party. ~~(S)~~ (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 also stated that HYMAN KRIVOFF and Dr. and Mrs. BORIS KAPLAN were the leaders of this organization. She is of the opinion that the other members heading the Central Committee merely loaned their names to the organization for publicity purposes. This Informant did not believe that any of the persons active in the above Massachusetts Branch of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP are Communistically inclined other than the above individuals. ~~(S)~~ (U)

A search of the files of the STANDARD TIMES at New Bedford, Mass., on April 24, 1944 revealed no further information concerning this group.

~~(S)~~ (U)
Confidential Informant T-2 advised that ANN PROSTEN, who was formerly closely associated with the Communist Party, according to his information, is now employed in the Publicity Department of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

Confidential Informant [redacted] advised that EVA LINSKEY was working on November 14, 1943 at the Communist Party Headquarters, which was then Room 546, Little Building, Boston, Massachusetts. The Informant added that she and her father, [redacted]

The "DAILY WORKER", in its issue of November 25, 1943, included an article which stated that under the joint auspices of the Springfield Central Labor Union, A.F. of L., and the WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF THE CIO, EDWIN SMITH, Secretary of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, delivered a talk on November 17, 1943 on the "TRADE UNIONS AND THE SOVIET UNIONS." In this address, SMITH emphasized need of international trade union unity.

The BACK BAY LEDGER, Boston, Mass., in its issue of December 16, 1943, contained an article which announced that CORLISS LEMONT, who spoke at the Community Church of Boston, at Jordan Hall December 19, 1943, is Chairman of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

The minutes referred to above reflected that Professor STRUIK, Secretary-Treasurer, made a report on the fighting on the Russian Front and upon the modifications recently adopted in the status of the republics making up the USSR. ~~(S)~~ (U)

It was noted in these minutes that Professor HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW DANA stated the Russian Embassy is sending very fine material to their organization. He raised the question of securing books in the Russian language. ~~(S)~~ (U)

The announcement was made at this Council meeting that the Trade Union Committee had held several speaking engagements and that a meeting was being planned for the future with EDWIN SMITH as the speaker. ~~(S)~~ (U)

It was indicated that later in the program Professor STRUIK reported on the mistakes in the book of American History by JOHN D. HICKS. According to the above council minutes, the Russian War Relief and the Council would work together on plans for a dinner to be held February 24, in the Georgian Room of the Hotel Statler in Boston, Mass. It was planned that this dinner which would be held in honor of the Red Army, would have Dr. CABOT and Bishop OXNAM as co-chairmen. ~~(S)~~ (U)

A report was made by a Miss CORT on a meeting of apparently a committee of the MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, at Westminster House. This meeting had to do with the Russian drama and a study of that subject. ~~(S)~~ (U)

[Confidential Informant T-3 also furnished this office with a mimeographed pamphlet called "BULLETIN", Volume II, No. 1, dated February, 1944, with an address in the letterhead of 20 Newbury St., Boston, Mass. At the top was carried the name "MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. This bulletin also made an announcement concerning the Red Army Tribute Dinner, to be held February 24, 1944, commemorating the 26th anniversary of the Red Army, U.S.S.R. ~~(S)~~ (U)

It was announced in this Bulletin that a luncheon meeting of the Trade Union Advisory Committee was held January 4, 1944, at which definite projects were developed to develop understanding and cooperation between American and Soviet labor; The widest possible distribution of EDWIN SMITH's pamphlet "ORGANIZED LABOR IN THE SOVIET UNION" was urged.

Included also was information that speakers were being scheduled for the meeting of the Board of Agents, Building Trades Council; a Shop Stewards Meeting, UERMW.; Iron Workers Local #7, Bakery and Confectionery Workers Local #348, Cambridge, Mass.; Textile Workers Union, Lawrence, Mass.; and the Boston Central Labor Union. This particular item concluded with a statement that the Co-chairmen of the Trade Union Advisory Committee are ERNEST A. JOHNSON, Secretary-Treasurer, Building Trades Council, AFL, and RICHARD LINSLEY, International Representative, UERMW., CIO.

This paper continued with news that a Youth Section meeting in Westminster House, on January 14, 1944, was organized for the study of the Soviet Union. It was explained that the Youth Section includes young people in colleges, schools, and offices.

According to this issue of the Bulletin, an Architects' Committee of the MCASF has been started.

The following books were recommended in the Review Section of this Bulletin:

"THE BALTIC RIDDLE" by GREGORY MEIKSINS

"NO QUARTER" by KONSTANTIN SIMONOV

"A PAGEANT OF YOUTH" (with no author given)

The following pamphlets were listed:

"MY RUSSIAN TRAVEL DIARY" by Major HOOPER,

"USA... U.S.S.R.", containing addresses at the Second Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held in New York City, November 6-8.

The last page of this Bulletin was an order blank listing the following pamphlets for sale by the Massachusetts Council of American-Soviet Friendship:

[In addition to the above material, Confidential Informant T-3] turned over to this office a small folder which he had received through the mail, entitled "FACTS YOU WILL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP". Under the headline of "WHY (Our Purpose)" it was stated that the M.C.A.S.F. was formed to promote better understanding and stronger friendly relations between the people of the United States and the Soviet Union as being essential to the winning of the War, and the establishing of world democracy and peace.

It was further stated that this was one of the many such councils throughout the United States affiliated with the NCASF, and that some of the councils are set up in Canada and in England.

Under the headline of "WHAT? (Our Program)" there was a paragraph which stated that in carrying out the above purpose, the program will include first the meeting of the need of Americans for reliable information about the Soviet Union; second, translating that information to the widest possible audience; third, counteracting anti-Soviet propaganda aimed not only against the Soviet Union but dividing the United Nations.

This folder, in addition, listed the following educational features for the membership of the M.C.A.S.F.:

1. Library
2. Speaker's Bureau
3. Publications
4. Films
5. Exhibits
6. Study and Language Groups

Under this last Educational Feature, there was the statement that groups for study of the Soviet Union and for the study of the Russian language are being formed by individuals and clubs (indicating such sponsorship in outside groups).

~~SECRET~~ (U)
Confidential Informant T-3 stated that he had received a circular letter on March 24, 1944 from the M.C.A.S.F. which consisted of an appeal for financial support in order that the bulletin, at the present time mimeographed, could be issued as a regular printed pamphlet.

~~SECRET~~ (U)
[Confidential Informant T-3 stated] that because of his connection with the M.C.A.S.F., he was the recipient of a pamphlet entitled, "ARE YOU READY FOR WORLD WAR III?" by WAVERLY ROOT. This pamphlet

With reference to the dinner sponsored by the MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF RUSSIAN WAR RELIEF, INC., and MASS. COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, honoring the Red Army on its 26th Anniversary, the Boston Sunday HERALD in the issue of February 26, 1944, stated that this event would have EDGAR SNOW, Foreign Correspondent and author of "RED STAR OVER CHINA", as the principal speaker. At this dinner, scheduled for February 24, 1944, Mr. SNOW will speak on "I SAW THE RED ARMY."

The Boston HERALD, in its issue of February 24, 1944 reflected that DIRK J. STRUIK, Executive Director of the M.C.A.S.F., had written to the Editor, of the HERALD, stating that the Soviet Union signed the Atlantic Charter, February 24, 1941 at a convention of representatives of Allied Nations in St. James Palace, London. This letter to the editor by STRUIK was in answer to an editorial letter by the Right Reverend Monsignor FULTON J. SHEEN, in which Monsignor SHEEN had expressed his concern that the Soviet Union had not signed the Atlantic Charter.

[Confidential Informant] [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised this office on February 17, 1944 that he had last attended a meeting of the local M.C.A.S.F. on February 3, 1944, and that regular meetings had been scheduled for the first Thursday of every month. At this meeting, he stated, there had been quite a bit of discussion in regard to relations between the MCASF Committee and the Russian War Relief organization, and that it appeared to him that the R.W.R. group was rather fearful of being too closely connected with the National American-Soviet Friendship Organization. He stated that apparently hard feelings existed between the leaders of the two organizations. (S) (U) b7D

At this meeting on February 3, 1944 there was a round table discussion regarding the attitude of the United States newspapers on recent Russian political news. At this same meeting, a financial talk took place revealing that there were only .600 left in the treasury and that the owner of the property at 20 Newbury St. was now demanding $50 a month rent for the premises, instead of the former amount of $35 a month. (S) (U)

The following pieces of literature were placed on sale at this meeting:

"THE SOVIET UNION TODAY", published by the American-Russian Institute of New York, in 1938. This book carried a small advertisement pointing out that a handbook on Soviet drama had been written by H.W.L. DANA.

"THE DAILY WORKER--HEIR TO THE GREAT TRADITION"
A booklet by MORRIS U. SCHAPPES

"BEHIND THE POLISH-SOVIET BREAK", a booklet by ALTER BRODY

"A TALK ABOUT THE COMMUNIST PARTY", a booklet
by EARL BROWDER.

"SOVIET RUSSIA VS. NAZI GERMANY", by CORLISS LAMONT

[Confidential Informant] [redacted] also advised that this Council was instrumental in distributing films covering Russian activities in the present war, among the schools in this area, and that these films as of February 22, 1944 were in the Newton, Mass. School District. (S) (U) b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] advised this office that on April 5, 1944 he was present at the office of the A.Y.D., Little Building, Boston, Mass., and noticed that DON BOLLEN was speaking to an unidentified group of girls. The Informant was able to join the group and to overhear BOLLEN state that he was on the American-Soviet Friendship Council and that he held a position as Secretary of the Youth Group of that Council. BOLLEN made the further statement that he enjoyed the recent motion picture "SONG OF RUSSIA", advising that he enjoyed the picture very much in view of the fact that he had been to Russia himself. He gave no date, indicating when this trip was made, nor was the nature of the journey to Russia divulged. (U)

The Boston HERALD-TRAVELER in its issue of May 3, 1944 carried a picture and clipping which consisted of a photograph of Miss ELIZ * ABETH BOUDREAU, Assistant to the Director of the Boston Public Library, Miss KATHERINE NEWBOLD of the Junior League, and Professor HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW DANA, chairman of the Library Committee of the Massachusetts Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The cut line below the picture further pointed out that the occasion of the photograph was "The RUSSIAN BOOK WEEK EXHIBIT" held in the Children's Room at the Boston Public Library during the week of May 3, 1944.

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent DUDLEY S. HORTH on March 21, 28, and April 7, 1944.

The Maine Council of American Soviet Friendship has held two meetings at Portland, Maine. The first was held on March 20, 1944, at the Community House of the Chestnut Street Methodist Church. The speaker was Professor DIRK J. STRUIK of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Only seventeen persons attended this meeting because of inclement weather. Inasmuch as the writer had advance information that this meeting would be held, arrangements were made with the managing editor of the PORTLAND PRESS HERALD to have the reporter who covered the meeting obtain information in addition to that which normally would be gathered by a reporter for a news story. The meeting was covered for the newspaper by Mrs. MARJORIE WHITNEY, [REDACTED] Portland, Maine.

She obtained the names of all persons present in a normal procedure for a reporter. On this occasion, she used them in her news story which appeared on the morning of March 21, 1944. Those who attended the meeting were Mrs. ARTHUR S. PETTINGILL, Mrs. DAVID S. ARONSON, Mrs. MAUD WOOD PARK, ARTHUR C. JOHNSON, ROBERT F. SKILLINGS, O. B. PLUMER, and the Reverend FRED W. KNICKREHN, pastor of the Chestnut Street Methodist Church. Mrs. PETTINGILL is a minister and the mother of Mrs. MIRIAM P. JONES of Gorham, Maine, a known Communist. Mrs. ARONSON and Mrs. PARK live on Cape Elizabeth near Portland. They are characterized as being women interested in good causes. Mr. JOHNSON was the organizer of the meeting and is the organizer of the Council as has been previously reported. Mr. SKILLINGS lives at the Eastland Hotel and works for the City of Portland as an accountant. He is a native of Portland and is regarded as a conservative individual. Mr. PLUMER is not known. The Reverend Mr. KNICKREHN has permitted his name to be associated with other liberal activities and is known to have visited the offices of the YARD BIRD, official publication of Local 50 of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO, and to have remarked that it is good to have a few Communists in an organization.

The first meeting of the Council was to have been an organization meeting but this was postponed until the following Monday because of light attendance.

Mrs. WHITNEY said that copies of the "No. 1 U. S. S. R.", a pamphlet on the sponsorship of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, were distributed at the first meeting. She said Mrs. ARONSON gave $3 to cover the cost of the pamphlets to Professor STRUIK. Professor STRUIK's principal assertion in his talk, according to Mrs. WHITNEY was as follows:

"American-Soviet friendship is worth fighting for. It is not a question of a few who are interested in Socialism or a few who happened to be born in Russia. It is an important patriotic duty of every American citizen to work for this cause to bring about the establishment of a permanent world order based on justice. It is one of the most important factors in winning the war and the peace to follow. A great possibility of another world war stands before us if we do not find a way of understanding with the USSR."

The clipping of the article which appeared in the PRESS HERALD was obtained and is being retained in the Boston file of this case.

Mrs. WHITNEY also covered the organization meeting held at the same place, March 27, 1944. She obtained a copy of the three-page speech read by JOHNSON. It is being retained in the Boston file of this case.

In the opening paragraph, JOHNSON said, "It is my firm conviction that aside from winning the war, the most important and necessary task facing the American people is the building and maintaining friendly relations between ourselves and the people of the Soviet Union, and, largely as a result, the maintenance of friendly diplomatic relations with our government."

Later in his address, he stated: "When honest and capable writers thoroughly equipped with the facts and a thoroughly understanding of the Soviet System and the true aims of the Bolsheviks prepared and had put on the market books presenting their honest and true picture of affairs in Soviet Russia, they were met for the most part with stony silence and by the same agency that ballyhooed anti-Soviet literature to the skies while at the same time, editorial columns were filled with scurrilous attacks on the Soviet Union, and radio and platform speakers filled the air with their outpourings of hate and malice."

"From now on, however, the story is going to be different. Whereas formerly, attempts to combat anti-Soviet propaganda were at a great disadvantage as already indicated, now we have the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and a number of their affiliated councils of which the Maine Council will be one."

Mrs. WHITNEY advised that she was impressed by JOHNSON at first, but the more he talked, the more he seemed to her to be a man in his dotage because his thoughts would wander off and it was only while reading that he was coherent. She said that he gave her his address as 11 Dean Street, Portland, and that the City Directory indicates he formerly worked at the South Portland Shipbuilding Corporation, now a part of the New England Shipbuilding Corporation. (The writer ascertained at the New England Shipbuilding Corporation that JOHNSON was never on the firm's pay roll.)

It was proposed at the March 27 meeting to send a message of congratulations and to establish further contact with the Black Sea Shipbuilding Center of Nikolaev. This proposal was advanced by SHELDON S. JONES of Gorham, Maine, a known Communist. His idea, according to Mrs. WHITNEY was to draw up a message and seek to have it endorsed by the Portland City Council and other civic organizations as a community expression of good will from one shipbuilding center to another and to send it through the facilities of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Incorporated, in New York. The message would then be followed by further communications with the Russian city so the people of Portland, particularly shipyard workers, could discuss their common activities and problems. The council voted to have JONES and GEORGE CLARK, a known Communist and a shipyard worker, draw up the initial congratulatory message.

A temporary executive committee of five was appointed to handle council matters until the organization has enough members to elect permanent officers. The committee named is composed of JOHNSON, Mrs. ETHEL R. STOPOL, FRANCIS L. O'BRIEN, ROBERT F. SKILLINGS, and RAYMOND H. GAILLEY. Mrs. STOPOL is the wife of SIMON A. STOPOL, a known Communist. O'BRIEN and GAILLEY are also Communists.

Mrs. WHITNEY stated that JOHNSON selected Mrs. PETTINGILL and O'BRIEN to choose five to act on the temporary executive committee. O'BRIEN did not choose himself but picked Mrs. PARK who declined.

27/96

Somebody else whom Mrs. WHITNEY could not recall suggested that Mrs. O'BRIEN be a member of the committee which was to meet the following week. The meeting was attended by seventeen persons, according to Mrs. WHITNEY. In addition to those already named, there were Mrs. JONES (wife of SHELDON S. JONES), Mrs. O'BRIEN (wife of FRANCIS M. O'BRIEN), Mrs. MARION L. FLETCHER, [REDACTED] Portland; Mrs. CAROLINE L. GORDON, 167 Brackett Street; MARION MAXWELL, [REDACTED] and ELEANOR MAYO, [REDACTED]. Mrs. WHITNEY said that Mrs. GORDON and Mrs. MAXWELL were old ladies, the type that one associates with "do good" organizations.

Mrs. WHITNEY advised that the group discussed procuring desk space for the organization in the local office and formulating plans to raise funds through a meeting at which Soviet movies would be shown and a prominent person would speak. She also said that interest was expressed in getting members in the shipyards. Someone spoke of obtaining a hall in order to have a midnight show for workers on the second shift at the shipyard. It was announced at the gathering, according to Mrs. WHITNEY, that contributions had been received from Mrs. SUMNER SEWELL, wife of the governor of the State, and Professor BIXLER of Colby College, and President SILLS of Bowdoin College.

Mrs. WHITNEY also advised that she obtained from JOHNSON names of persons who have been contacted by him to be sponsors and who have expressed an interest in the organization. These included JAMES BARLOW, City Manager, HERMAN R. LIBBY, and GEORGE A. HARRISON, members of the City Council; the Reverend G. ERNEST LYNCH, pastor of the First Parish Church; the Reverend NORMAN O. GODDARD, pastor of the Church of the New Jerusalem; the Reverend WALLACE W. ANDERSON, pastor of the State Street Church; C. EDWIN SMITH, City Clerk; HARRISON LYSETH, Superintendent of Schools; C. W. SIMBEL, financial secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Reverend ELWIN L. WILSON, district superintendent of the Methodist Church; Dr. BENJAMIN ZOLOV and UDELL BRAMSON, lawyer.

A clipping of the story concerning the second meeting of the Council as it appeared in the Portland PRESS HERALD for March 28, 1944, is being retained in the Boston file of this case. Mrs. WHITNEY was contacted later to ascertain whether she attempted to obtain a story on the meeting of the executive committee and she said she had not.

DETAILS:

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on October 18, 1943 the subject organization requested Marshal JOSEPH STALIN to send greetings to be read at the Tenth Anniversary of American Soviet Diplomatic Relations on November 8, 1943. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on October 27, 1943 the Society of Cultural Relations, Moscow, USSR, informed the subject organization that the Sov-Architects were unable to personally participate in the Council Congress. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on October 21, 1943 the subject organization requested ILYA EHRENBURG, VOXS to send greetings to be read at the Tenth Anniversary of American Soviet Diplomatic Relations on November 8, 1943. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 stated that on March 20, 1943 the subject organization requested Mr. ALEXANDRO KARCELLO of El Popular, 26 Rosales, Mexico City, Mexico to participate in its correspondence for friendship campaign. (U)

Confidential Informant T-1 said that on October 12, 1943 the Comito de Amigos de La Union Sovietica (Committee of Friends of the Soviet Union) by its secretary ADOLFO HERRERA GARCIA, San Jose, Costa Rica requested propaganda material of the subject organization. (U)

Confidential Informant T-2 advised that on November 2, 1943 PAULINE KONER, a dancer of [redacted] New York City, contacted the Russian Consulate at New York City as chairman of a subcommittee in the National Council. This informant stated Miss KONER has also spent two years in Russia. (S) (U)

b7C

On the same date, EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the National Council, contacted the Soviet Consulate at New York City and advised that the ambassadors' reception which was to be held in Washington, D. C. might interfere with the meeting which was to be held by the trade unions. It appeared that several trade union representatives who were to attend this meeting had been invited to attend the ambassadors' reception. (S) (U)

Sergei KISSELEV, according to this informant, reported that the only representatives of the trade unions who were to attend the ambassadors' reception were SHERMAN, ARON, MILLS, BENNETT, THOMAS and SHITNEY. (all names phonetic). (S) (U)

This informant said that on November 3, 1944 EDWIN S. SMITH contacted EUGENE KISSELEV at the Soviet Consulate, New York City, and inquired if any news had been received by him concerning the matter they had discussed. KISSELEV stated that he had not received any word from the ambassador. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant T-2 stated that EUGENE KISSELEV, consl at the Soviet Consulate in New York City, contacted Miss POSTNOVA, who is believed to be a Russian student studying in New York City. He advised her that she was to give a ten minute speech before a meeting sponsored by the Women's Exposition of the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship. (S) (U)

This informant further advised that on November 23, 1943 an individual by the name of HECHER (phonetic) contacted Mr. OURAEVSKY of the Soviet Consulate in New York City, and he inquired as to what organization he should work with as he wished to solicit funds and material for the Soviet citizens. OURAEVSKY stated that the National Committee for Soviet American Friendship was doing a great deal of work at the present time, but that they were not collecting any funds or other material for the Soviet Union. He said, however, that they had another task, to spread the knowledge of the Soviet Union, to publish books about Soviet life, etc. (S) (U)

Confidential Informant T-3 advised that on November 30, 1943 the subject organization by LILLIAN KAY, secretary to EDWIN S. SMITH, corresponded with the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C. and furnished VLADIMIR I. BAZYKIN with a copy of a report on the cultural committees of the subject organization, which report was dated November 22, 1943. (S) (U)

2. Photo album committee to collect autographed photos, with biographies of leading American dancers. To be presented in ceremony here, then sent to dancers in the Soviet Union. Chairman: Daniel Wagrin
3. Dance slipper committee - to collect dance shoes (reconditioned because new ones are difficult to get and too expensive for dancers to buy). Also to be included in presentation ceremony before being sent to Soviet dancers.
4. Dance literature Committee - collect American dance programs, reviews, etc. to send to Soviet dancers
Chairman: Pauline Koner
5. Dance Performance Committee - Evening of dance performed by America's outstanding dancers - probably to take place at the Metropolitan Opera House during week of Red Army Anniversary, if possible. Movies to be made of the performance to send to entertain Red Army men at the front.
Committee members: Kitty Doner, Gluck Sandor, Dr. Wolf

Architects Committee:

Formal executive committee now being formed.

Temporary Secretary: Antonin Raymond

Organizing Committee: Hermann Field, Simon Beienes, etc.

At an exhibit of 'Historic Buildings in Russia destroyed during war' and dinner, arranged by the provisional architects committee and sponsored by the American Institute of Architects and Architectural League, both organizations expressed approval of the formation of an architects committee. Later it was agreed that a Russian section of the Foreign Relations Committee of the A.I.A. would be desirable and that steps in that direction would be taken...

Projects:

1. Exhibit now being held at the League to remain on view until Nov. 28th.
2. Travelling exhibit on Soviet City Planning and Housing — exhibit material supplied by 'Life' and Council and assembled by Architects Committee.
3. Exchange of technical information and data on architecture.
4. Student exchange
5. American Russian Architectural Congress (for next fall)
6. Proposed publication of booklet on 'Architecture and Planning in the USSR' under imprint of the Architects Committee — booklet to be sold in connection with touring exhibit and through efforts of East and West Coast architects committees. (A West coast branch of the committee is already in formation, contact having been made through Tom Harris, with Mrs. Schindler.) Funds to cover cost of booklet will be raised by the Architects committee, with the understanding that money will be repaid from the proceeds of the sale of the booklet.

Theater Committee

A temporary organizing committee has been formed by members of the theatrical profession as a result of the meeting held by the New York Council on October 26th at the Hotel Edison. Hester Sondergaard, Howard de-Silva, Martin Lofson, Paul Mann and others are members of the temporary committee.

Projects Promoted

1. Rebuilding of Vahtangov Theatre in Moscow or building of a new theatre in Stalingrad to replace one of those destroyed. (Funds to be raised through benefit performances, with actors contributing their salaries and managers contributing their profits.).
2. Promotion of sale of Professor Dana's booklet on 'Soviet Drama in Wartime'.
3. Collection and presentation of theatrical supplies (make-up, wigs, lights)
4. Exhibit 'Soviet Theatre' at Museum of Modern Art, running concurrently with showing, in Museum theatre, of Soviet films. This will be planned for week of Red Army anniversary.
5. Lecture series on Soviet Theatre - lectures to be given by authorities on Soviet drama, such as Lee Simonson, Dana Nora Houghton, Lee Strassburg, Gassner, Clurman, Gorlick, etc.
6. Promoting of production of important Soviet plays by members of the profession - with understanding that we will get preview benefit performance.
7. Special evening devoted to important scenes from famous Russian or Soviet plays.
8. Theatre Tag Day organized by the theatrical profession - collections to be made by actors and actresses, with possible between curtain speeches.
9. Correspondence between theatre companies of our two countries - to be followed by individual correspondence between actors, who will give analysis of their parts in a production, etc.
10. Promotion of the publication of Soviet theatrical material in Theatre publications, such as the establishment of a regular monthly page of column on the Soviet Theatre.
11. Publication of a book on Soviet Drama comprised heretofore unpublished writings of Stanislavsky, Vahtangov, Meyerhold, etc. in English.

(Theatre Arts to publish it and proceeds from sale to go to fund for rebuilding Soviet Theatre).

General plans for coordinating work of all Cultural Committees

1. Cultural Panel for next fall
2. Presentation of gifts collected by all cultural committees, to take place at the Soviet Consulate, if possible, in a dramatic ceremony. At this event spokesman for each of the committees will talk on the projected plans of each of their committees, thus this occasion will serve as a medium for 'launching' their projects."

Confidential Informant E-4 advised that on December 23, 1943 a conference took place between ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, Director of Publications of the Communist Party, U.S.A., and SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, Treasurer of subject organization, concerning the financial problems of the Jefferson School of Social Science. They also discussed the reception held on December 22, 1943 at the Soviet Consulate in New York City by the Cultural Committees of the National Council at which certain gift presentations (U) were made. LEAVIN said that the purpose of the affair was the organization of various cultural programs of the subject organization and their tie-up with the respective arts in the Soviet Union. TRACHTENBERG expressed his disapproval of the affair and the fact that he was not invited to the reception. (S)(M)(C)(U)

Confidential Informant T-5 advised that on January 24, 1944 EDWIN S. SMITH was in contact with VLADIMIR I. HAZKIN of the Soviet Embassy. This informant stated that SMITH referred to a celebration which was to be sponsored by the subject organization on February 21, 1944 in honor of the Red Army. The dinner was to take place at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, and between 1,500 and 1,700 persons were expected to attend. SMITH contemplated the attendance of officials of the Soviet Union presently in the United States. (S)(M)(C)(U)

Confidential Informant T-4 stated that on February 4, 1944 SAMUEL B. LEAVIN and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG had a conference relative to the Red Army Day Dinner planned for February 21, 1944. TRACHTENBERG criticized the manner in which the preparations were being handled. He commented on the failure to abolish the New York Council and the fact that their efforts were being wasted on small local meetings instead of something worthwhile. (S)(M)(C)(U)

Confidential Informant T-4 said that on February 8, 1944 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG contacted SAMUEL B. LEAVIN concerning the plans for the Red Army dinner on February 21, 1944. LEAVIN indicated that they were seeking 1,000 reservations for the dinner. He stated also that the lieutenant general who is the head of the Soviet Purchasing Commission would attend. (LEAVIN was referring to Lieutenant General LEONID G. KRUDENKO). (S)(M)(C)(U)

TRACHTENBERG said that the National Council should have concentrated on the Red Army Day Dinner and the Women's Meeting - the latter was to be held March 6, 1944 at Carnegie Hall instead of the Nationality Meeting held February 27, 1944 at the Majestic Theater, New York City. (S)(M)(C)(U)

They conferred on the plan to eliminate the New York Council entirely and save some $10,000 a year. They also suggested that EVELYN BUDD, the field organizer for the National Council, work through the mail and eliminate her travelling. With reference to the five committees of the National Council who initiate only one or two major activities a year, the thought was expressed to eliminate the committee heads and have the National Council initiate the major projects these committees would organize during the year. The plan was to eliminate the thirteen people from these committees and replace them with a staff of three expert people. Under this (S)(M)(C)(U) arrangement, the National Council would have control of everything that happened. (S)(u)

Confidential Informant T-6 said that on February 14, 1944 MURIEL DRAPER, secretary of the National Council's Committee of Women, conferred with TERRY PENMAN RIGGS of the National Maritime Union, concerning the March 6, 1944 meeting of the Committee of Women at Carnegie Hall. Miss DRAPER was soliciting support for the meeting and said that DOROTHY THOMPSON, BESSIE BEATTY would be there. OLLIE KOVAR, would possibly fly in from the West Coast. Miss DRAPER wanted the Women's Auxiliary of the National Maritime Union to assist in the sale and purchase of tickets. (u)

This informant advised that on February 15, 1944 MURIEL DRAPER advised TERRY PENMAN RIGGS that she wished to come over to the National Maritime Union office and talk to TERRY, ALICE and AGNES concerning the matter at Carnegie Hall on March 6, 1944 for the Committee of Women. MISS DRAPER stated that she would be there on the following day and would ask for AGNES DOE (phonetic). (u)

Confidential Informant T-4 said that on February 16, 1944 LOUIS LERMAN, Executive Secretary of the Jefferson School of Social Science, conferred with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, and they discussed the 'Red Army Testimonial Dinner' scheduled for February 21, 1944. LERMAN stated that they had received greetings from Generals PERSHING, MARSHALL and EISENHOWER, BURGESS MEREDITH and FRANCHOT TONE, actors, were to put on a skit. They expected 1,000 thousand people to attend. No publicity had been given out on the following, but TRACHTENBERG had contacted Communist Party headquarters to pressure the DAILY WORKER into carrying a story of the dinner. (S)(u)

This informant advised that on February 17, 1944 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG conferred with SAMUEL B. LEAVIN who advised that the Council had obtained ROSE SAMPTON of the Metropolitan Opera to sing Russian songs. BURGESS MEREDITH would read telegrams from the generals, and FRANCHOT TONE would read the script. TRACHTENBERG gave instructions for publicity to be published regarding Lieutenant General LEONID G. RUDENKO and Major General A. H. GATEHOUSE. (S)(u)

TRACHTENBERG said that this dinner was to be a national celebration, and he wished publicized the names of the other cities where celebrations were to be held together with the publicity regarding the name of a boat. It is believed he was referring to the launching of the victory ship, "USSR VICTORY" at Wilmington, California. The purpose of the publicity was to build up the generals and the national character of the celebration. (S)(u)

Confidential Informant T-4 stated that on February 18, 1944 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG conferred with SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, and they discussed the fact that R. E. GILMOR, president and general manager of Sperry Gyroscope Company, Inc., Manhattan Bridge Plaza, Brooklyn, New York, would make a gift of a gyroscope to Lieutenant General Rudenko at the Red Army dinner just prior to RUDEKNO's speech. GILMOR was also scheduled to give a check. They mentioned nine department stores in which Red Army displays were exhibited. (u)

Confidential Informant T-7 furnished a letter dated February 5, 1944 signed by ELIZABETH MOOS, secretary of the Nationalities Division of the National Council, that the working committee of the Nationalities Division would meet on February 10, 1944. (u)

The DAILY WORKER issue of February 21, 1944 reported that Lieutenant General LEONID G. RUDEKNO, a hero of the battle of Stalingrad, would make his first public appearance at a dinner meeting celebrating the 26th anniversary of the Red Army. (u)

On the evening of February 21, 1944, Special Agent Russell E. White and the writer attended the "Dinner in tribute to the Red Army on the Occasion of the Twentysixth Anniversary of Red Army Day" held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City. CORLISS HAMONT was the chairman of the meeting, and he announced that MAX FERNER, who was scheduled to speak, was ill. Captain SERGEY KOURNAKOFF analyzed the military tactics of the Soviet Army. Professor L. C. DUNN, chairman of the Science Committee of the National Council, read a prepared speech of Dr. WALTER B. CANNON, who was unable to attend. The gist of his speech was that shellshock was a rare phenomenon in the Red Army because the Russian soldiers' fighting spirit; because the Russian troops had high morale and because they knew that they would be thoroughly cared for if wounded. (u)

FRANCHOT TONE spoke next and read a script praising the qualities of the Russian soldiers. ROSE HAMPTON of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, sang several Russian songs. Then Captain BURGESS MEREDITH read messages from American leaders such as General George Marshall, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark, General John J. Pershing and Sergeant Alvin York. Captain MEREDITH prefaced his readings with the remark that when he was in Hollywood he was always fearful of being identified with some group which was aiding certain peoples, but which was in fact a communist front. He said that there was one front he did not mind being identified with, and that is the Soviet Front. (u)

Major General JAMES A. ULIO, Adjutant General of the U. S. Army, read a prepared speech paralleling the situation of Washington's Continental Army with that of the Russians. WILLIAM S. GAILMOR made a collection speech the results of which were announced to be $10,000. WILLIAM REYWOOD, professor at Queens College, Flushing, New York, sang several songs in Russian. Lieutenant General Chi-Chih Kuo, Assistant Military Attache of the Chinese Army, spoke next and eulogized the Russian soldier. Major General A. H. GATEHOUSE, former commander of the Tenth Armored Division of the British Eighth Army in Africa, paid tribute to the Red Army, its soldiers and officers, (u)

Lieutenant General LEONID G. RUDEMKO spoke in Russian and as was indicated by the numerous times his speech was interrupted by applause, the main part of the audience understood his speech. EDWIN S. SMITH, Executive Director of the National Council, then read a translation of RUDEMKO's speech in English. RUDEMKO discussed the efforts of the allied nations and closed his speech by praising "our glorious allies, the United States and Great Britain". China was honored as an ally by omission in his speech. (u)

A press release of the dinner meeting was obtained together with copies of speeches by the following: Major General James A. ULIO, Dr. Walter B. Cannon, Lieutenant Colonel Chi-Chih Kuo, Major General A. H. Gatehouse and Sergeant Alvin York. (u)

Copies of messages from the following were obtained: Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark, Philip Murray, General John J. Pershing, General George Marshall, General Dwight Eisenhower, Leopold Stokowski, Jacob S. Potofsky, Serge Koussevitsky. (u)

A copy of a seating list for the dinner meeting was obtained. It was noted that the following were named therein: Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Russian and Jewish sections of the International Workers Order, Russian War Relief, the National Maritime Union, the American Russian Institute, the Joint Anti-Fascist Committee, the Ambijan Committee, the International Workers Order, the International Fur and Leather Workers Union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, educational director of the Communist Party, U.S.A. considered to be a key figure of the Communist Party in New York City; GRACE HUTCHINS, Treasurer of the Labor Research Association and who is considered to be a key figure of the Communist Party in New York City; ARTHUR HELLER, President of the International Publishers, Inc. who is considered to be a key figure of the Communist Party in the New York Field Division; FREDERICK V. (u)

In the February 22, 1944, issues of the New York TIMES and HERALD TRIBUNE were reports of the Red Army Dinner held at the Hotel Commodore. In the February 22, 1944 issue of the DAILY WORKER was set forth a complete publicity coverage of the Red Army Dinner as presented in the National Council's press releases. (u)

On February 23, 1944, the DAILY WORKER carried photographs of Major ~~J~~AMES ~~G~~ATEHOUSE, Lieutenant General ~~R~~UDENKO, Major General ~~V~~ULIO and Lieutenant Colonel ~~X~~UO together with the text of ~~R~~UDENKO's speech made at the Red Army Dinner. In the same issue of the DAILY WORKER was a copy of ~~P~~HILIP ~~M~~URRAY's message to the persons in attendance at the Red Army Dinner. (u)

On February 25, 1944, the Bureau was advised by teletype of the activities at the dinner meeting held on February 21, 1944. (u)

In the February 26, 1944 issue of the DAILY WORKER appeared a photograph and caption stating that the ~~M~~OREY MACHINE CORPORATION, Astoria, Long Island, New York, celebrated Red Army Day on February 22, 1944 under the sponsorship of the National Council. (u) account of the various tributes to the Red Army held throughout the United States. In New York, the National Council celebrated Red Army Day on February 21, 1944. In Cleveland, Ohio, Mayor FRANK J. LAUSCHE proclaimed February 23, 1944 as Red Army Day. Special programs and exhibits were held in Cleveland, Ohio. On February 27, 1944, a city-wide mass meeting was scheduled at Klein Memorial Auditorium, Bridgeport, Connecticut with Captain ~~SHEISOV~~ as guest of honor, (u)

On February 21, 1944, Confidential Informant T-8 furnished a copy of an announcement for a Red Army celebration at Manhattan Plaza, February 23, 1944, at 8:00 P.M. under the sponsorship of Mrs. GUSTAV ~~HARTMAN~~. The following were listed as speakers: Dr. HARRY F. ~~WARD~~, Captain ~~SERGEI KOURNAKOFF~~, Congressman ~~SAMUEL DICKSTEIN~~, Dr. ~~ANNETTE T. RUBINSTEIN~~. The following entertainment was planned: Soviet Front line films, a dramatic presentation and songs by the ~~Ukrainian~~ Leontovich Chorus. (u)

Confidential Informant T-9 stated that the following was the program of the Artist Committee of the National Council of which PAUL MANSHIP is chairman. This program was held on February 23, 1944 at the Vanderbilt Galleries, 215 West 57th Street, New York City. (u)

Confidential Informant T-8 stated that the following occurred at the art exhibit held at the Vanderbilt Gallery of Fine Arts, 215 West 57th Street, New York City on February 23, 1944 at 8:30 P.M. (u)

"The gallery consists of three enormous rooms used for exhibition purposes and a fourth room for exhibiting and lecturing. One room was devoted entirely to posters sent from the U.S.S.R. made by Soviet artists at the front lines. They were rather magnificent pieces of art work. A table was set up in the corner for the sale and distribution of Soviet literature, books of cartoons, etc. The rest of the exhibit comprised works of art by members of the art students league of which I shall not go into detail. (u)

"The meeting started at about 9:30 and Paul Manship, artist and sculptor was the chairman. He spoke briefly of the need for cementing relationship with the Soviet Union through the medium of art and culture. The plan to exchange the art work of children in both countries was outlined and the great need for the collection of funds for art supplies to be sent to the USSR was strongly emphasized. Art must be kept alive at all costs. (u)

~~SECRET~~

"Dr. ARTHUR POPE, director of the Persian Museum and biographer of Litvinoff was the next speaker. He highlighted the importance of art and culture through this world crisis. Russia's losses have been acute, monuments of art that are irreplaceable destroyed and the magnificent stand at Stalingrad, one of the greatest cultural centers in the world, was made largely through the fierce need of the artists to preserve their most cherished possessions, the people could not and would not let this city of beauty be taken by the German fiends. He related a few stories of parallel meaning - during 1848 and 1828 when the Russians were having their periods of destruction and famine, rugs of overwhelming value to the art world were woven and preserved to be handed down to successive generations as proof of the survival of art through the darkest days of time. (u)

"Next, Dr. LOUIS GORANIN, Yugoslavian partisan and musician, played some of his native music on an accordion, several Russian folk songs and one of his own compositions. (u)

"ARTHUR ELMER, stage and radio comedian, was the next speaker. He did several imitations and monologues that were faintly amusing. His sole contribution was much rather dull comedy. He introduced Crockett Johnson, the cartoon illustrator of Barnaby, appearing in P.M. His contribution was a series of blown-up sketches of his comic characters, which he autographed to be sent to the USSR. (u)

"JOHNSON WALKER, financial secretary of the Council, made a brief report and a plea for funds to be collected by ushers at the meeting. (u)

"PHILIP EVERGOOD, artist, read his speech lauding the valor of the Red Army and the artistic and cultural contribution made to the world by the artists of Russia. The U. S. and USSR will lead the world in reconstruction. Further appeal for funds for art supplies for Russian students whose pictorial canvases of the war, are documents of great worth. (u)

"VLADIMIR PADWA, concert pianist, was presented next. He is a Russian citizen, born in Estonia. Came to this country recently and made his debut at Town Hall. He is a member of the first piano quartet and a composer of note. He played parts of Shostakovitch and Prokofieff, one of his own compositions and the National Anthem and the new Russian National Anthem. (u)

"The ushers scurried around and collected funds from the audience. It was impossible not to contribute. The meeting broke up, and we were asked to buy as many pictures as possible, pledge as much time as possible to the National Council, give them publicity and attend further meetings." (u)

This informant furnished copies of a catalogue of the exhibition for the Veterans Scholarship Fund and a forty page booklet published by the American Russian Institute, 101 Post Street, San Francisco, California entitled, "Soviet Culture in Wartime". (U)

On February 24, 1944, Confidential Informant T-10 advised that on February 1, 1944 JERRY FEINGOLD, a former member of the Communist Party, known to be sympathetic with the Party at present, called HERBERT RESNER, Communist Party attorney and member of the Southside Club of the Communist Party in San Francisco in an effort to make arrangements for a meeting in the celebration of George Washington's birthday and the 26th anniversary of the Red Army on February 22, 1944. FEINGOLD, representing the Russian American Society, advised RESNER that the Society would do all the work of sending out letters, distributing posters and otherwise obtaining publicity and only desired the name of the Council of Soviet-American Friendship for sponsorship purposes. RESNER, who is the San Francisco Chairman of the Council, advised that such was the only arrangement that could be accepted by his group in view of the fact that the Council is newly organized and has only one employee. However, RESNER advised FEINGOLD that he would endeavor to secure the services of the Attorney General of California, ROBERT KENNY, as a speaker. (U) - (U)

Posters were distributed in streetcars and in local shops and the joint meeting of the two organizations was extensively advertised throughout the city. The meeting was held in the Scottish Rite Auditorium in San Francisco with an attendance of approximately 1,000, almost entirely composed of Russian and Jewish elements. The stage had a large picture of a Red Army soldier in the background with the flags of the various united nations massed across the stage. At the left hand corner of the stage was a large picture of George Washington and at the right hand corner a large picture of Marshal Stalin. (U)

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 p.m. by VICTOR ARNAUTOFF, President of the Russian-American Society and a member of the Northside Club of the San Francisco County Communist Party. After a few introductory remarks, the meeting was turned over to HERBERT RESNER as Chairman of the American-Soviet Friendship Council, who acted as Chairman for the evening. RESNER is a member of the Southside Club of the San Francisco Communist Party. (U)

A color guard from the U. S. Army and from a Soviet ship which was in port brought the American and Soviet flags to the platform. The Star Spangled Banner and the Internationale were sung, and Professor HOLLAND ROBERTS of Stanford University was introduced as the featured speaker of the evening. Dr. ROBERTS made a twenty minute address, pointing out the (U) fact that the Soviet Union and the United States have common interests and no interests at dispute, and gave a lengthy purported historical documentation of the assistance rendered the United States by the Soviet Union from the time of the Revolutionary War until the present. 'ROBERTS' also pointed out the necessity for everyone present educating his friends regarding the necessity for cooperation with the Soviet Union and concluded with a reminder that the Soviet Union was the only major nation of the world with whom the United States had never been at war. (u)

Representatives of the British, Norwegian, Greek and Swedish Consulates were then introduced and the Soviet Vice Consul in San Francisco, GREGORY KEBIFETS, was presented to the crowd. None of the foregoing made a speech, however. (u)

JACOB LOMAKIN, Soviet Consul General in San Francisco, then made a fifteen minute address in Russian hailing the Red Army and presenting facts and figures regarding its achievements during the last year. LOMAKIN also called for units to stamp out Fascism in the world today. His speech was translated into English by LYDIA ARNAUTOFF, the wife of the President of the Russian-American Society and a member of the Northside Club of the Communist Party. (u)

The meeting was then turned over to TOL BOYLAN, organizer of the Seamen's Section of the San Francisco County Communist Party, who serves as a patrolman for the National Maritime Union in this port. BOYLAN praised the NMU non-strike policy and claimed that the organization was a true Democracy with no racial prejudices whatsoever. He then violently denounced the Fascists in the United States and stated that peace would be brought to the world much sooner if the United States would exterminate such individuals as MARTIN DIES, HERBERT HOOVER and Colonel ROBERT MC CORMICK in a move such as was made by Soviet Russia in clearing its country of internal Fascism. BOYLAN then requested donations from the audience to support the work of the Council of American-Soviet Friendship and the Russian-American Society and approximately $700 was collected. BOYLAN is frequently called upon for making collection speeches and is considered to be an expert in this line by the Communist Party of San Francisco. (u)

The chairman, HERBERT RESNER, then read a telegram to be sent to Marshal Stalin congratulating the Red Army in the name of 1,000 San Franciscans. The sending of this telegram was approved by a show of hands. (u)

After a short speech by MOISE BOXER of the Russian-American Society urging the purchase of War Bonds so that a hospital plan could be sent to Russia in the name of the Russian-American Society. (u)

The entertainment program of the evening was presented. This consisted of four songs by the Jewish folk chorus in Russian and in Jewish and several vaudeville skits put on by the Fourth Army Air Corps. No known communists other than already mentioned were noticed in the audience, although the ~~PEOPLE'S WORLD~~, San Francisco equivalent of the ~~DAILY WORKER~~, enjoyed a considerable sale at the door of the Auditorium. Literature which was distributed included the announcement of a preview of a motion picture "Experiments in the Revival of organisms", which is to be shown at the YVOA auditorium in San Francisco on Sunday evening, February 27, 1944. (u)

In the February 17, 1944 issue of the ~~VILLAGER~~ appeared a notice that the ~~Greenwich Village Committee of the American-Soviet Friendship~~ announced a meeting "In salute to the 'Red Army'" to be held at Grace Church on February 27, 1944. Reverend LOUIS W. ~~PITT~~ was to preside at the meeting. The speakers were scheduled to be: Captain SERGEI A. ~~KOURNAXOFF~~, Reverend WILLIAM HOWARD ~~MELISH~~; Reverend GUY EMERY ~~SHIPLER~~ and JOHANNES ~~STEEL~~. The Grace Church Choir under the direction of VINCENT ~~MITCHELL~~ was to sing selections from Russian composers. (u)

Miss DOROTHY ~~CHERTAK~~ was chairman of the arrangements and publicity for the Grace Church meeting and prepared the following program for the meeting, part of which was broadcast over Station WMMT. The following names were listed on the program: (u)

Rev. Louis W. Pitt, D.D., presiding
 Alexander ~~Kinnis~~, basso, Metropolitan Opera Co.
 Capt. Sergei N. Kournakoff, military analyst, author of "Russia's Fighting Forces"
 Rev. William Howard Melish, Rector, Church of the Holy Trinity (Brooklyn)
 Rev. Guy Emery Shippler, Editor, "The Churchman"
 Johannes Steel, news commentator of Station WMMT
 Grace Church Choir, under direction of Vincent Mitchell, organist; selections from Russian composers

Confidential Informant T-11 through a highly confidential source furnished a script of the radio broadcast. This reflected that Reverend GUY EMERY SHIPLER, Episcopal minister and editor of "The Churchman", discussed the false propaganda against Russia being circulated throughout the United States. He claimed that one of the most powerful anti-Russian organizations has been the Roman Catholic Church. He stated this had been done skillfully by the leaders of the Catholic Church such as Monsignor Sheehan and Father Joseph ~~Thorning~~. He stated that those who condemn Russia align themselves with "every anti-Semitic, Fascist organization in America" and support the Nazi enemy. (u)

"The rally was given under the auspices of the Greenwich Village Committee of American-Soviet Friendship and was held at Grace Church on Broadway at 11th St. It was due to start at 8:15 but when I arrived at 8:20 the place was already packed full and many hundreds of people were being turned away for lack of seats. Inside there were plenty of people standing, and I should judge altogether there must have been an attendance of 1,500. (u)

"The rector of the church, LEWIS PITT, presided. Starting off the affair was the Star Spangled Banner followed by the new Russian national anthem. The Grace Church Choir then sang a Russian hymn and following this PITT introduced the two major speakers of the evening. (This part of the meeting was broadcast.) (u)

"The first speaker was the Reverend Guy Shipler of the Episcopal Church who according to PITT has just returned from a trip to England where he was the guest of the Archbishop of York and had an opportunity to talk to many different classes of British people. Shipler talked about the acceptance of false propaganda and the fact that for years Americans and British too have been fed a consistent dose of anti-Russian propaganda which has been swallowed whole. He said that in fact over here in the United States we were still being fed it and accepting it. He warned against this and said that no country in the world had suffered so long and so extensively at the hands of makers of lies than Soviet Russia. In Britain now however, he said there is genuine respect and admiration for Russia and its people and the British people one and all are sincere and frank in their expression of this admiration and are ashamed that they ever were foolish enough to believe the false propaganda about Russia. This does not mean that they are willing to change over to the Russian type of government, but simply that they have opened their eyes to the true state of affairs and are determined to make a better world along with the Russian people. He spoke of his visit with the Archbishop of York who had been to Soviet Russia as a representative of the Church of England to the Russian Church. He quoted the Archbishop as saying that no one would ever be able to convince him that the Christian people of Russia were not interested in religion or were not deeply sincere. Shipler said that Americans can well learn from the changed attitude of Great Britain toward Russia and should stamp out those in this country who are promoting falsehoods about Russia. He said one of the greatest offenders in this respect is the (u)

"Roman Catholic Church which is so definitely anti-Russian. He mentioned particularly two Catholic priests who apparently have made public speeches to this effect - as far back as the Spanish Civil War which Shipler called the first battle for democracy. Father Sheehan and Father Shroney were the two mentioned bitterly by Shipler. He added that no doubt immediately following his denunciation of the church and these two men he would be accused of intolerance, causing disunity and of being a communist. He ended by saying that 'condemn Russia and you line yourself up with every anti-Semitic fascist organization in America and give support to the curse of nazism.' (u)

"He was followed by Captain Sergei Kournakoff, a former captain in the Russian Army during the last world war who is now a well known lecturer and writer for the magazine 'Soviet Russia Today'. He opened by saying that Grace Church itself was standing today because of the heroic stand of the Red Army against the hordes of Nazis for 32 long months. He went back over the Russian army's history and its glorious deeds for centuries until the last war when because of weak rulers and careless preparation, the army was defeated by Germany despite its heroic struggle. Out of the ashes of this beaten but nevertheless heroic army rose the present day Red Army which from June 22, 1941 has had to withstand terrific attacks by German forces. He then went on to paint a word picture of the average Red Army man who is 'very much like all of you'. He is intensely democratic in beliefs and spirit and wishes no more than his share; he would never force his political or other beliefs on anyone not wanting them; he reads avidly of the great writers - Russian and English and American; he fights well because he wants a future that will be worth while; he is not afraid to die because he loves life; he is not morbid, nor gloomy nor depressed as many people think of Russians; he has been taught that unity of freedom loving people can rid the world of the hated nazis and that is what he is fighting to do along side of the United Nations; he is no isolationist and believes that Teheran is the cornerstone of the future peace of the world and is willing to fight to the death to see it carried out; he admires Americans most of all peoples and appreciates the many gestures of friendship made by the American people. He ended with a salute to the gallant Red Army, a staunch friend of the United States and of all the American people. (u)

"It had been announced that a reproduction of a Gilbert Stuart painting of Washington was to be presented to Commander Pontsorny of the Red Navy by the Greenwich Village Committee, but this also was apparently to be later in the evening." (u)

Confidential Informant T-12 furnished a report concerning a Red Army rally held in the Majestic Theater on February 27, 1944: (u)

"A rally at the Majestic Theatre was held under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The chairman for this meeting was Edwin S. Smith. There were about 2,000 people present. The rally was opened with the singing of the National Anthem, which was followed by the new Soviet hymn. Sitting on the stage were the following speakers: ZLATKO BALOKOVIC of the American-Slav Congress; Lt. Col. Ralph S. Ladue, United States Army; Hon. KAREL HUDEC, Consul General, Czechoslovak Republic; Professor IGNAZ ZLOTOWSKI, Professor of Physics, Vassar College; Hon. JAMES D. MURRAY, U. S. Senator from Montana; Captain E. BELIKOV, Embassy of the U.S.S.R. and DR. ANNETTE RUBENSTEIN. (u)

The principal address was delivered by the Hon. JAMES E. MURRAY, who traced back through the last twenty years to show that he was the first to come to the aid of the Soviet Union. He pointed out that he (u)

The meeting was a subsequent meeting to one held at the Hotel Commodore on 21 February 1944 to pay tribute to the Red Army and at which time, according to Fairchild, $10,000 was raised for the American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. Another meeting of its kind is scheduled to be held at Manhattan Plaza, 66 East Fourth Street, New York City, on February 23rd under the auspices of the East Side Committee of American-Soviet Friendship. (u)

The entire meeting was devoted to the achievement and offensive of the Red Army. Judge Rivers briefly spoke of a study he has made dealing with the "Emotional Dynamics of the Russian People". Magidoff's lengthy address dealt with the sacrifices of the Russian people; Russian women's role in the war; distorted facts about the Soviet Union; the culture of the Russian people, and how they "Love Life". Stewart paid tribute to the Soviet Union and terminated his speech with an appeal for money. Isaacs spoke of the necessary defeat of Fascism at home as well as abroad; and of the possibility and necessity of an international organization for peace. Zournakoff talked about the Russian offensive and paid tribute to the Red Navy. He assured the audience that with the coming invasion the defeat of Germany is inevitable. (u)

During the meeting Fairchild read two messages of tribute to the Red Army, one from General Eisenhower and the other from Lieutenant General Mark Clark. Fairchild also announced two future meetings to be held, one at the Majestic Theatre, 245 West 44th Street, entitled, "A Salute to the Red Army", and the other, "Women for Victory" at Carnegie Hall on March 6, 1944. (u)

A representative of the Russian War Relief made an appeal for individuals to assist with a "kit" campaign. She stated that they are endeavoring to enlist three million people who will canvass with kits for soaps, candy, canned goods and other articles that will be sent to those in need in Russia. (u)

(u)

"On February 22nd, 1944, a dinner sponsored by this organization took place in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Commodore, New York City, and was attended by approximately 1200 people. Major General JAMES A. JULIO, Adjutant General of the United States Army, Major General A. H. GATEHOUSE of the British Army, Lt. General LEONID G. HUDENKO of the Red Army, and Lt. Colonel Chi-Chih Kuo, Assistant Military attache of the Chinese Embassy, were the principal speakers and messages commemorating the anniversary of the birth of the Red Army from General George G. Marshall, General John J. Pershing and General Dwight W. Eisenhower were read to the audience. On the same day, the West Side Committee of the sponsoring organization held a meeting, attended by approximately 800 persons, at the Pythian Temple, 135 West 70th Street, New York City, who were addressed by New York City Councilman STANLEY M. ISAACS, New York City Justice FRANCIS E. RIVERS, and other. On 23 February 1944, approximately 700 persons attended a meeting of the East Side Committee of the sponsoring organization at Manhattan Plaza, 66 East 4th Street, New York City, which presented Lt. Colonel FREDERICK J. HATCH, Personnel Division, Second Service Command, who appeared as the representative of Major General THOMAS A. TERRY, Commanding General, Second Service Command, and read a short message in tribute to the Red Army; Dr. ANNETTE E. RUBINSTEIN, principal of the Robert Louis Stevenson School; Dr. HARRY F. WARD, Union Theological Seminary and others. On 27 February 1944, a large audience participated in a meeting dedicated to the Red Army at the Majestic Theatre, 245 West 44th Street, New York City. Speakers included U. S. Senator JAMES E. MURRAY, Democrat, Montana; Lt. Colonel RALPH E. LADUE, U. S. Army; EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director of the sponsoring committee; ZLATKO BALOKOVIC, chairman of the American-Slav Congress of Greater New York; KAREL HUDEC, Czechoslovakian Consul General for New York City and others. Grace Church, Broadway and 10th Street, New York City, was the scene of another tribute to the Red Army, sponsored by the Greenwich Village Committee of the Council for American-Soviet Friendship, on 27 February. The Rev. Dr. LOUIS W. PITT, rector of Grace Church, read a message from Rev. William T. Manning, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York. Other speakers at this meeting included Rev. WILLIAM H. "CORLISS LAMONT, chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, was master-of-ceremonies at the dinner held at the Commodore Hotel on February 22nd, 1944. In his opening address, he criticized the newspaper columnists for their attitude toward Soviet Russia and their criticisms of the recent extension by the Soviet Union of political autonomy to the individual states of the USSR. He expressed the belief that the United States and the Soviet Union would cooperate in the preservation of world peace. Major General ULIO read a prepared address, in the course of which he compared the situation of the Red Army at Stalingrad with that of the Army of George Washington at Valley Forge and stated, 'Washington, were he alive today, would, like all America, join in saluting the Red Army.' Lt. Colonel Chi-Chih Kuo, assistant military attache of the Chinese Embassy, represented his nation in a eulogy to the Russian soldier, and Major General A. H. Gatehouse, former commander of the 10th Armored Division of the British 8th Army, gave a very forceful extemporaneous address in which he praised the valor of the Russian soldiers and their generals. Lt. General Leonid G. Rudenko, Deputy Chief of the Soviet Air Force, delivered an address in Russian. From the applause which greeted many of his statements, it was obvious that many members of the audience understood the Russian language. At the conclusion of his address, it was translated into English. L. C. DUNN, professor of zoology at Columbia University, read an address which had been prepared by Dr. WALTER B. CANNON, professor emeritus of physiology at Harvard University. FRANCHOT-TONE, the motion picture actor, read telegrams of congratulation from General Marshall, General Eisenhower, General Pershing, and Lt. General Mark W. Clark, commanding the American 5th Army in Italy, as well as a long message from Sgt. Alvin York of World War I fame. During the course of the program, an appeal was made for contributions for the promotion of the activities of the sponsoring organization. It was later announced that over $10,000 had been subscribed. Announcements of the contributions subscribed by the guests revealed that there were groups of trade unionists present at the dinner. "A meeting sponsored by the East Side Committee of the National Council for American-Soviet Friendship at the Manhattan Plaza, 66 East 4 Street, New York City on February 23, 1944, presented as its principal speaker, Dr. HARRY F. WARD, Union Theological Seminary. Dr. WARD delivered an address, praising not only the achievements of the Red Army but the Soviet system of government, as well. He attacked the other 'so-called liberals' for 'sniping' at Soviet Russia. He defended the Russian war aims and Russian claims to the Baltic states and Bessarabia. Dr. WARD stated that he would have preferred the Red Army to have occupied Italy instead of the British and American Armies, and that in such event, there would have been a 'people's vote' in Italy. His address was enthusiastically received by the audience. Dr. ANNETTE T. RUBINSTEIN, principal of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, spoke in similar vein, and was lavish in her praise of Soviet Russia. While the audience responded enthusiastically to her praise of Soviet Russia, it manifested less enthusiasm in its response to her request for contributions. Dr. SERGEI N. KOURNAKOFF discussed the military tactics of the Red Army and translated an address delivered by an unidentified captain in the Red Army, acknowledging the tributes which were being paid to the Soviet Armies. Lt. Colonel FREDERICK J. HATCH, Personnel Division, Second Service Command, spoke briefly as the representative of Major General TERRY, Second Service Command. Mrs. GUSTAVE HARTMAN acted as chairman of the meeting. A Military Police detachment constituted a color guard for the United States flag, and three men wearing sweaters identifying them as members of the Maritime Union, C.I.O. served as a color guard for the Soviet flag. (u)

"In his address at the meeting held at the Majestic Theatre on February 27th, 1944, United States Senator MURRAY stated that the United States and Russia would emerge from the war as the most powerful military nations in the world and that, together with other peace-loving nations, they must so arrange the future of the world as to end wars forever. He stated that enemies within the United States were trying to create confusion in the minds of the people by circulating false rumors about Russia's plans to desert the United Nations at some critical stage in the war. He contended that there is only one menace in the world today - that is Hitlerism - and that we must not be distracted from our course. Other speakers at the meeting included EDWIN S. The next speaker was Miss JESSICA SMITH, of New York City, Editor of the 'SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY', who claimed she lived in Russia five years to prepare her for her present work. She spoke about the victory of the Red Army, and the unity and devotion of the Soviet people in their hardships while fighting the Germans and praised the women of Russia and their fighters. (u)

Presiding Chairman Miller introduced Colonel Bernard Lentz, Commanding Officer of Fort Slocum, who was on the speakers platform. Colonel Lentz did not make a speech, but presented to MICHAEL OURAEVSKY, Secretary of the Russian Consulate in New York, a copy of WALT WHITMAN's "Leaves of Grass". This book was for the Central Red Army Club of Moscow and was inscribed "From the citizens of Westchester". Mr. OURAEVSKY made a brief acceptance speech, and stated that the Russians appreciated the help given by the United States. (u)

A colored singer sang four songs. He was from a New York City night club. (u)

The next speaker was Mr. WILLIAM GATTIMOR, a newspaper columnist and radio commentator of New York City, who spoke on present and post-war foreign policy. He attacked William Randolph Hearst for Hearst's plea on behalf of Finland. (u)

The final speaker was one MARTIN WOLFSON, an actor who appeared in "Counsellor at Law", "Counter Attack", and other plays, from New York City. He read a letter which was said to have been written by a Red Army Captain to his wife, which was written as he was to go to certain death protecting the wounded during a retreat. (u)

Mr. ROWLAND J. MILLER in conclusion stated they had not yet organized a Westchester council of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., and requested all those who might be so interested to fill out the small card, which would be passed to all present. (u)

"The Committee of Women is being organized for the following main purposes: (u)

1. To enlist the widest possible interest and cooperation among women in furthering the general purpose of the organization, which is: (u)

'To promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of war and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.'

2. To publicize as widely as possible both peacetime and wartime achievements of Soviet women through an educational program about the Soviet program of child care, the experiences of Soviet women in the many new fields of work they have entered, and their heroic exploits in the war. (u)

3. To promote in every possible way fruitful interchange between the women of the two countries in matters in which they can be mutually helpful, so that the women of Soviet Russia may also come to know better the women of America, and so that the friendship between the two may be strengthened by ties having a practical basis in matters of everyday life as well as by their broader common interests in problems of war and peace. "An organization of Soviet women already exists which is prepared to further such interchange. This is the Soviet Women's Anti-Fascist Committee, which came into existence soon after the Nazi invasion of the U.S.S.R. and whose officers have already repeatedly shown their willingness to cooperate fully in facilitating such interchange. (u)

To help bring about even greater participation of American women in our own war effort, through acquainting them more fully with the innumerable ways the women of our Allies are helping. The war effort is also furthered through participation in this work, which is an important factor in implementing the great decisions recently made by President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. (u)

PROJECTS OF THE COMMITTEE

A. Through correspondence with Soviet women and consultation with representatives of the U.S.S.R. in America, we have learned that the Soviet women are eager to learn everything possible both about American methods of child care and about American methods of housekeeping. Such information will have special value in connection with the immense problems of reconstruction of the devastated areas which they already face. They would like both informational material and samples of our equipment. We are therefore planning to assemble and send to the USSR the following materials and exhibits: (u)

1. Books on infant and child care, and care of mother during pregnancy.
2. A model set of day nursery equipment.
3. A model set of nursery equipment for home use.
4. A selection of children's toys for different age groups
5. A selection of children's books
6. A model set of kitchen equipment (beginning with small useful utensils, and later on when transportation facilities permit, an entire model kitchen)
7. A model set of household equipment (i.e. vacuum cleaners, etc.)
8. Models and patterns of women's work-clothes and of the most practical types of day clothes (this can later be expanded on a more varied scale including accessories, cosmetics, etc.)

In each of the above projects, the selection will be done by experts in the respective fields, and we will receive in return from the Soviet Union corresponding exhibits of equipment in ordinary use. (u)

~~SECRET~~
 "B. The Committee is planning a series of pamphlets on the life of the Soviet woman - her relation to her family, her work, her government, and her daily problems and pleasures. The first of these is 'Soviet Children and Their Care' by ROSE MAURER. It is a comprehensive work on Soviet child care from the prenatal period through school, with emphasis on wartime adaptation, admirable illustrated. We are hoping this pamphlet will have a wide circulation. It can be purchased for 10¢ a copy, and is $6.50 for one hundred. Other works of this kind will be published as the material become available. (u)

C. Carnegie Hall Meeting - March 6th

We are already making plans for a meeting on this date in tribute to the work of American and Soviet women in the present crisis. We have chosen this date for the meeting because on March 8th the Soviet women celebrate Women's Day with nationwide meetings spurring the women of their country to still greater efforts for victory. Messages cabled from our meeting will give them an added sense of the unity of purpose of American women with them in the war effort. Leading American women and men will speak, and a dramatic presentation will portray the part played by the women of the United Nations in the war. It is hoped that a delegation of Soviet women will be here for the meeting. (u)

It is proposed that similar meetings be held in different parts of the country. (u)

D. A National Committee of Women

Preliminary steps in the directions outlined are already being taken by a provisional committee of women who came together following the panel on Women and Child Care in the USSR and the USA held at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship in New York, at which time it was decided to form a permanent committee. The provisional committee now plans to expand its work to a national basis, enlisting representative women in many fields throughout the country who may participate in this work either through the formation of women's committees connected with local councils, or by direct affiliation with the national committee. (u)

Comments and suggestions on our preliminary program are welcome. Let us know how you can participate. (u)

On March 6, 1944, Confidential Informant T-4 advised that SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, treasurer of subject organization, and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, educational director of the Communist Party, U.S.A., held a conference in which they discussed the following things. LEAVIN advised that the Carnegie Hall had been sold out for the meeting on that night, and that of the 2,800 seats available, there would be anywhere from about 200 seats empty to standing room. He characterized the program as one that would probably be dull, not enough of general interest and cultural matter, but heavy with political speeches. Once the meeting was over, there was nothing definite planned on the program. He stated that MILTON KAUFMAN was worried about the Council, and LEAVIN was worried about the fact that the Council did not allow a period of two or three months to elapse without any programs. He was of the opinion that if they were going to spend $25,000 over a period of three or four months they should do something for it. The attitude was that the members of the Council would make a decision and come to an understanding before meeting with TRACHTENBERG except that KAUFMAN and EDWIN SMITH seemed to be insisting on a June meeting, which LEAVIN was trying to avoid. LEAVIN was of the opinion that the organization had to think in terms of the future, and that they could not permit two or three months to pass by and not be productive. He was of the belief that if the women's meeting was good it would be gratifying to them, and they expect to make about $15,000 net profit on the whole series of meetings being held. (S)(C)(U)

On March 10, 1944, Confidential Informant A, whose identity is known to the Bureau, furnished the following report of the Women for Victory meeting. (U)

"On March 6th, 1944, a 'Women for Victory' meeting was held at Carnegie Hall, New York, under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship Committee of Women. The audience filled the Hall to its capacity and several members of the armed forces were observed among the crowd. (U)

"Among those who appeared on the program were Mme. ANDREI GROMYKO, wife of the Soviet Ambassador; DOROTHY THOMPSON and JESSICA SMITH, editor of Soviet Russia. The national anthems of the United States and of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics were sung by the Furriers Joint Council Chorus and a dramatic presentation, 'I am Not Alone', by SANDRA MICHAEL, of the life of Zoya Kosmodemianskaya, Russian heroine, was enacted. PAUL DRAPER presented a new dance allegedly specially created for the occasion and representatives of the Waves, Marine Corps, Spars (U)

"Red Cross and the Womens Voluntary Service along with NAC Lieut. Eunice Hatchett, returned from Bataan and Corregidor, and presently at Governors Island, New York, were present on the stage. (u)

"Tribute was paid to the American and Soviet women by each speaker who addressed the audience. It may be significant to note that every instance tremendous consideration was given the Soviet Women for their contributions to the Russian war effort and congratulatory telegrams were received from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. Henry Wallace, Mrs. George Mayer, Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Helen Keller and several others. Cablograms from Moscow to the American women were also read to the audience. (u)

"At the close of the meeting Mrs. Andrei Gromyko, wife of the Soviet Ambassador, brought greetings from Soviet women and presented awards in the name of Soviet women to American women who have made outstanding contributions to the war effort in industry, civilian defense and the auxiliary forces." (u)

In the March 13, 1944 issue of the DAILY WORKER appeared a report that 6,000 soldiers and sailors have hailed the Red Army in a rally held at Flamingo Park, Army Stadium, Miami, Florida. (u)

On March 13, 1944, Confidential Informant T-4 advised that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG conferred with an unidentified woman, and they discussed the budget, expenses and contributions of the subject organization. They appeared to be apprehensive of a financial collapse in the subject organization because of an apparent failure on the part of those working with the National Council to produce. (u)

On March 17, 1944, Confidential Informant T-13 advised that EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director of the National Council, conferred with ROY HUDSON, national committee member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., and made arrangements for SMITH and MILTON, believed to be MILTON KAUFMAN of the National Council, to meet with HUDSON. (u)

On March 24, 1944, Confidential Informant T-4 advised that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG conferred with CORLISS LAMONT at which time TRACHTENBERG made an appointment for a luncheon engagement with LAMONT at Child's Restaurant, 59th Street between Fifth and Madison Avenue, New York City. (u)

MORE ON RUSSIA BOOK WEEK May 1-6

"Following the March 15 Council Bulletin on cooperation with the American Library Association, a kit of unmounted photographs, mimeographed information on BOOKS AND LIBRARIES IN THE SOVIET UNION, a feature story and a sample letter to bookshops were sent to you. You will also receive the April A.L.A. Bulletin containing an article by OLGA PETERSON listing Council services and publications.

"Professor JOHN T. FREDERICK's weekly program OF MEN AND BOOKS on the CBS network will be devoted to books on Russia, Saturday, May 6, 2 P.M., Eastern War Time, 1 P.M., Central War Time, 12 noon Mountain War Time and 11 A.M., Pacific War Time. Publicize his broadcast in letters, releases or bulletins on Russia Book Week.

"Many librarians have already formulated plans and ordered material from this office for exhibits around Russia Book Week. It is important to contact librarians and other interested groups well in advance. Please let us know what you are planning and what further materials we can provide.

"CLEVELAND PIONEERS IN LITERATURE DISTRIBUTION

"9,500 pamphlets have been sold by the Cleveland Council since November. Seven CIO local unions alone bought 523 literature packets totaling 2,500 pamphlets, in an intensive two-week campaign. The following letter was sent to presidents and secretaries of CIO locals:

"In view of the participation of the CIO in the coming International Labor Conference in London, we feel certain that interest in the trade unions of the Soviet Union has been heightened.

"We have made up a packet of pamphlets of particular interest to trade unionists which we are proposing to distribute to officers, board members, shop stewards and others of the CIO locals. These include,

*Organized Labor in the Soviet Union by Edwin S. Smith	10¢
*Proceedings of the Trade Union Panel of the Congress	10¢
The Constitution of the U.S.S.R.	10¢
*Soviet Russia and the Post War World	5¢
U.S.A. - U.S.S.R.	10¢

NY 100-7518

"This packet will be available to your local for 35¢. We hope that it will be possible for a representative of our organization to be at your local's executive or membership meeting to discuss this distribution."

"Engagements for Council speakers were then arranged by phone. A five minute prepared speech was presented at membership and executive board meetings. Cleveland hopes to cover 30 locals during the course of one month. The Cleveland campaign indicates tremendous possibilities in the trade union field. A.F. of L., as well as CIO locals and all other membership organizations, can be approached in the same manner."

"The National office is preparing a sample 5 minute speech for trade unions and will cooperate with you in planning other material."

NATIONAL ARCHITECTS COMMITTEE FORMED

"An Architects Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has been formed with the following officers:

"SOVIET NATIONAL ANTHEM"

A Keynote recording of the new Soviet National Anthem, sung by PAUL ROBESON, is now available at your local music shops. The United Nations Song by DMITRI SHOSTAKOVICH, also sung by PAUL ROBESON, is on the other side. You should have at least one record in the office for use on your own programs, and for loan to other groups. Price $1.05. Sheet music is available either through this office or Am-Rus Music Corp. Price: 35¢.

"TAX EXEMPTION"

We wish to remind you again that contributions to the National Council are deductible from the income tax. (Letter from Treasury Department of July 13, 1943). This exemption does not cover our local affiliates. You must therefore make your own application for exemption. Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Los Angeles have requested and received it. If you have not yet done so, have your attorney communicate with the National office for detailed instructions. Tax exemption is a tremendous asset in fund-raising.

Confidential Informant T-9 furnished a copy of a French text message by JEAN PENOIR dated February 25, 1944 which was part of the recorded greetings for the "Annual Women's Day of the Soviet Union" sent from Hollywood, California. The translation of this message is as follows: (u)

"Russian Women, I offer you my best wishes. Although they come from the United States of America, these wishes are those of a Frenchman, one among so many, who does not forget that in Red Square, there lies beside Lenin a tricolor flag, the standard of the Paris Commune.

"Young girls of Russia, you were born like all young girls in the world to stroll with your lovers 'neath the cherry trees in bloom, when spring transforms your orchards and makes of them a poem.

"Mothers of Russia, you were born for the rapture of feeling baby hands stray carelessly over your face, and to watch in their un-anxious eyes the reflection of the dappled skies of your great homeland.

"But you have been obliged to struggle for these birthrights:

"Against tyranny, as did our Frenchwomen in 1789 .....

"And now against the bloody invader, as did Jeanne d'Arc.

"Victory is there, at the tip of your machine gun, your riveter, your plow, your darning needle; it lies at the end of your hopes and heroism.

"And in your outstanding generosity, you are willing to share this victory with my sisters, with your sisters in France.

"To the end that they, too, may know again the joy of cherry trees in bloom, of sweet lovers and trusting children, and of dappled skies above the harvests of a liberated world."

On April 3, 1944, Confidential Informant T-14 furnished a stenographic copy of the Public Health Panel of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held November 7, 1943. This informant also furnished a copy of a talk entitled "Russian Medicine Organized for War" given at the Medical Panel of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship by Dr. HUGH CABOT. This informant furnished a mimeographed copy of a message entitled "The Soviet Scientist Anti-Fascist Committee is sending you the Soviet Scientist Message of Protest Against German Atrocities."

Confidential Informant T-14 furnished a copy of a letter dated March 15, 1944, which contains a copy of the Minutes of the Science Committee meeting of the National Council on December 16, 1943 and on March 8, 1944.

"Minutes of Science Committee meeting, Thursday, Dec. 16, 1943

4:30 P.M.

Office of the National Council

PRESIDENT:

Mr. Bayer, Dr. Dunbar, Dr. Dunn, Dr. Gelfan, Dr. Grundfest, ✓
✓ Dr. Mudd, Mr. Smith, Dr. Waksman.

"Mr. Smith opened the meeting with a reading of the list of those people who had accepted membership on the Committee as follows: Dr. Harry Grundfest; Dr. Carl O. Dunbar; Dr. Michael Feldelberger; Prof. L. C. Dunn, Dr. Selma Waksman; Dr. Dobzhansky, Dr. George B. Peggam; Dr. D. A. MacInnes; Prof. Stuart Mudd; Prof. Oscar K. Rice; Sir Eubert Wilkins; Dr. V. M. Stanley; Dr. Austin W. Curtis; Dr. Charles E. Kellogg. u

"Mr. Smith read a communication from 'Science' re their intention to publish certain of the speeches made at the Science Sessions of the Congress. Mr. Smith also reported that the American-Soviet Medical Society was publishing the papers of the Medicine and Public Health session. It was the opinion of the Committee that the publication of certain papers in 'Science' would be helpful in arousing interest in the Congress and that the Council should proceed with the publication of an attractive but modest booklet which will contain all the papers presented at both the medical and science panels, with an appropriate foreword by Dr. Cannon. It was also agreed that the Council should place a 1/4 page advertisement in 'Science' on the booklet when it is ready for distribution. There was discussion on the advisability of including additional papers, on Physics and Mathematics and it was agreed that this might be done at a later date, in a more pretentious book on Soviet Science, perhaps with a contribution by Dr. Gordon. Dr. Grundfest indicated that Science Service would be interested in this type of publication. After extensive discussion on how the booklet would be promoted, and what editorial work would be necessary for its preparation, Dr. Gelfan volunteered to assist Mr. Smith on the editorial work involved. It was suggested that we use uniform style sheets to be sent to the authors of the respective papers in advance, to facilitate editorial work on the book.

"Mr. Smith read a report from the 'Soviet Scientists' Anti-Fascist Committee addressed to the American Association of Scientific Workers (copy attached to minutes in file). This paper requested American scientists to protest the destruction of scientific institutions in the U.S.S.R. by the Nazi Army.

"That we communicate with Dr. Cannon and request him, as honorary chairman of the Science Committee, to communicate with the National Academy of Science and the American Association for the Advancement of Science and request them to make formal protest against these Nazi acts. In the case of the A.A.A.S., the letter would request that copies of the communication be sent to all the affiliated societies. Further that a statement from the Science Committee, including copy of the letters from Dr. Cannon, be forwarded to the Science editor of the New York Times and other metropolitan newspapers. A similar statement to be sent to local secretaries of scientific associations as well as national associations and also the American Medical Association.

"Mr. Smith read a portion of a communication addressed to Dr. Maksman dealing with British plans for a Russian-English Scientific Dictionary. It was agreed that Sir John Russell should be written to in the name of the Committee offering the cooperation of American scientists in sending whatever glossaries they can obtain to assist in the compilation of such a dictionary. It was suggested that a notice of this request be printed in 'Science' to encourage American scientists to send such glossaries.

"Mr. Smith read a communication from Dr. Flynn, editor of 'Biological Abstracts' which stressed the need for abstracts from Soviet scientific journals for use in translation in this country. (Copy of letter attached to minutes in the files). After considerable discussion it was agreed that the Science Committee communicate with VOKS expressing this Committee's desire to obtain copies of all scientific journals from the Soviet Union beginning with the outbreak of the European war and regularly hereafter upon publication, in order that articles in these journals may be abstracted by American scientific bodies. The Committee is to request these publications both through VOKS and the Soviet Academy of Science. The Committee is to offer to supply what American journals it can in exchange.

"Mr. Smith was requested by the Committee to invite Mr. Bazykin to the next Committee meeting. (Mr. Bazykin is the First Secretary of the Embassy of the U.S.S.R.)

~~SECRET~~

NY 100-7518

"After some discussion it was agreed that the Committee communicate with U.N.R.R.A., stressing the need for some provision in its program to reconstruct scientific institutions demolished by the Nazi invaders in the U.S.S.R.

"The suggestion was made that through VOKS we try to establish direct personal communication between American and Soviet scientists with a view to exchange of papers and information.

"Mr. Smith stressed the need for a permanent secretary to conduct the affairs of the Science Committee. He reported that the National Council has no available funds for this purpose and asked the opinion of the Science Committee on how such service could be subsidized. Dr. Mudd suggested that we contact Dr. Alan Gregg of the Rockefeller Foundation; Dr. Frank Fremont Smith of the Mason Foundation; Dr. Barry Hood of Commonwealth Fund; Henry L. Mow of the Guggenheim Fund; Dr. Daill of the Johnson and Johnson Research Foundation; to request an appropriation specifically for the work of the Science Committee. Dr. Mudd agreed to assist in the preparation of such a formal request.

"It was suggested that we send out a general press release on the proposed activities of the Science Committee.

"Mr. Smith requested that the present members of the Science Committee submit names of science people who might be interested in joining the Committee. It was agreed that we request Dr. Cannon to write Prof. Ross G. Harrison of the National Research Council and Dr. Jewett inviting them to join the Committee.

"It was agreed that the minutes of this meeting be sent to all members of the Science Committee.

"Dr. Mudd proposed that we invite Mr. Laurence Saunders of the U. S. Saunders Publishing Co. in Philadelphia to become a member of the Science Committee. Mr. Smith reported that an invitation would be sent.

"It was suggested that the Science Committee work for the idea of the United States establishing a Scientific Mission in the Soviet Union similar to the ones already established by the Australians, New Zealanders and British. The general feeling was that a little pressure on the proper government authorities would result in the establishment of such a government sponsored mission. Dr. Ross Harrison it was felt, could be interested in such a project.

"The meeting adjourned at 6:30 P.M.

 "Minutes of the Meeting of the Science Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship held at the office of the National Council, 232 Madison Avenue, on Wednesday, March 8th, at 4:30 P.M.

"The following members were present:

Dr. Walter B. Cannon
 Prof. Stuart Mudd
 Prof. L. C. Dunn
 Dr. A. E. Mirsky
 Prof. Ignaze Zlotowski
 Dr. Samuel Gelfan

 Prof. S. Hefschetz
 Dr. Mervin E. Oakes
 Dr. T. Dobzhansky
 Dr. Carl O. Dunbar
 Dr. Michael Heidelberger
 Dr. Philip R. White

"There was a discussion of a meeting to be held in Washington at the office of Watson Davis of Science Service for the purpose of determining what was the present status as far as government officials are concerned of receipt of scientific information from the Soviet Union and what uses are made of the information received and the possibilities of more general use.

"Mr. Smith reported on his recent talk with Mr. Davis and Mr. Davis's recommendation that the first meeting should be confined to technical people such as librarians and representatives of governmental agencies such as the OWI and OSS which have to do with foreign publications. In addition to the group whose names had been suggested to Mr. Smith by Mr. Davis, suggestions were made that at this first meeting Dr. Flynn of Biological Abstracts should be included and also the librarian of the Geological Survey. Mention was also made of having present representatives of Chemistry and Mathematics.

"It was suggested that after the first meeting of technical persons in the library and publications field there should be a second meeting of a broader character including heads of scientific organizations such as the National Academy, American Association for the Advancement of Science, etc., to help formulate further the program of dissemination of information about Soviet science.

"Dr. Cannon reported on his intention to see Dr. Baird Hastings of the Office of Scientific Research and Development who has just returned from the Soviet Union, as soon as possible.

"There was discussion of the desirability of a scientific representative in our Embassy in Moscow and a Soviet scientific represen"tative at its Embassy in Washington. It was decided that both of these ideas should be pursued in appropriate ways after further conversations with interested parties.

"Dr. Flynn brought up the incompleteness of the lists we now have of Soviet scientific organizations. The fact was mentioned that only four sets of the proceedings of the National Academy of Science were sent to the Soviet Union.

"There was discussion of the need for a delegation from such an agency as YOKS to come to this country to find out what the Science Committee and similar committees are doing. It was also suggested that a representative of the National Academy might go to the Soviet Union, or better still, a representative from the Science Committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. It was recognized that the last named suggestion was not feasible at this time because of lack of funds.

"There was considerable discussion of the form of permanent organization which the Committee might take. There was opposition to the idea of 'sponsors'. It was finally decided that there should be a broad general committee, perhaps as large as 100, of scientists all over the country. The members of the committee should be called to meetings probably not more than once every two months, with the recognition, of course, that only those in the neighborhood of New York would attend. In addition it was felt that the Chairman should appoint a working committee of persons in New York to carry on the supervision of the committee's activities between meetings of the general committee. No final disposition was made of the problem of including scientists outside the large general committee as members or by some other designation.

"It was felt that the ultimate form of organization should include breaking down the general committee into sub-committees representing the various branches of science.

"Everyone present who had not already done so was asked to send in names for additions to the committee. Chairman Dunn then stated that all of these names would be submitted to all of the members to see whether there was objection to any of the names, otherwise they would be asked to become members of the committee.

"Dr. Oakes stated that he represented the Association which high school teachers of science belonged although himself a college teacher. He felt that high school teachers should have additional representation on the committee and agreed to submit names.

~~SECRET~~

"Mr. Smith suggested in this general connection that the Science Committee assist the Educational Division of the Council in the preparation of material on Soviet science for use in public schools. The Committee was agreeable to furnishing such assistance and the means of doing this will be discussed by Dr. Dunn and Mr. Smith.

"There was discussion of obtaining financial support for the Committee from a Fund or Foundation. Dr. Dunn felt that this should be done only when our program is actually functioning more specifically. Also the suggestion was made of the possibility of getting funds from government sources. Mr. Smith pointed out that the only likelihood of receiving such funds would be from war agencies and that it would be best to seek for private assistance since we intended to be a permanent organization and would not want to lose that support after the war. There was agreement on this point.

"With further reference to obtaining funds it was decided that members of the committee should talk to Baird Hastings and Wilder Penfield for advice and that after the program is functioning we should approach Dr. Gregg of the Rockefeller Foundation and also the Macy Foundation.

"Dr. Flynn reported that the Union of Biological Societies had gone on record as cooperating with the Science Committee of the Council.

"Mr. Smith reported on the fact that Mr. Eric Johnston, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was going to Moscow and suggested that a letter directed to Dr. Komorov, President of the Soviet Academy of Science should be sent through Mr. Johnston giving greetings, referring to the part which scientists in both the Soviet Union and the United States would play in industrial reconstruction and reconversion and again requesting cooperation in the program of interchange of scientific information. This suggestion was adopted.

"The meeting adjourned at 6:30 P.M. "

Confidential Informant T-4 said that on March 7, 1944 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and SAMUEL B. LEAVIN, Treasurer of the National Council, held a conference at which time they discussed the Women for Victory rally held the previous evening at Carnegie Hall. (S)(C) (U)

TRACHTENBERG was of the opinion that DOROTHY THOMPSON did a good job, but that the other speakers were not so good. LEAVIN stated that he got a bad reaction to the meeting from the people at the meeting. WILLIAM S. GAILMOR was believed to have made a fair collection speech, resulting in collecting about $1,900. (S)(C) (U)

Confidential Informant T-4 said that on March 23, 1944 ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and THEODORE BAYER of the magazine SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY held a conference concerning the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. (S)(C) (U)

Confidential Informant T-16 by report dated March 22, 1944 furnished the following report of the Italian-American rally for American Soviet Friendship held March 19, 1944 at the lower Westside Children's Center, New York City. (U)

"Speakers: Edwin S. Smith, Bella Visono/Dodd, Louis J. Kapozzoli, Giuseppe/Berti, Hans Jacob Place: Lower West Side Children's Center, New York City
Date: March 19, 1944
Attendance: About 150

"Soviet Russian recognition of the Badoglio Government was the main topic of interest at an Italian-American Rally held by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Edwin S. Smith, director of the National Council, opened his address with an explanation of the purpose of the Council. He then advised his listeners to take a cautious attitude toward Soviet recognition of Badoglio, the apparent purposes of which he said were to secure more effective military aid from Badoglio and to strengthen the post-war position of Italy. The foreign policy of the Soviet Union could still be characterized by the words 'collective security', he maintained, and one could have faith in its ultimate aims. (U)

"Bella V. Dodd, New York State legislative representative of the Teachers' Union, spoke of Soviet recognition of Badoglio as a step toward eliminating the inferiority complex of the Italian people and warned against a 'reactionary offensive' to prevent implementation of the Teheran decisions. She herself had had a Catholic upbringing, Miss Dodd said, but this did not keep her from disapproving the New York (U)

 "State Assembly's resolution criticizing IZVESTIA for its attack on the Vatican. (u)

"Congressman Louis J. Canozzoli of New York, while praising the valor of the Russian Army, stressed the importance of aid given Russia through Lend-Lease and pointed to the need for mutual collaboration. He deplored both IZVESTIA's attack on the Vatican and the New York State Assembly's protest against IZVESTIA. (u)

"The Principal Address was made by Giuseppe Berti, an editor of L'UNITA DEL POPOLO, who, speaking in Italian, discussed the Soviet Union's decision to exchange diplomatic representatives with the Italian Government. He interpreted the Soviet move as signifying recognition of the Italian nation rather than of Badoglio and declared that its purpose was to weaken the Marshal, not strengthen him. Soviet Russia now had a toehold from which to help Italy attain the democracy refused it by the Anglo-Americans, the speaker explained. The next move was up to England and the United States, which could easily overthrow Badoglio if they wanted to. Construing statements made by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull as tacit reproofs to Churchill, Berti said that Russia and the United States would make a democratic Italy in spite of Churchill. This would prove to 'my dear friend' Colonel Randolph Pacciardi that Russia was not unconcerned with the fate of Italy. (u)

"Criticism of Churchill and Britain was deplored by Hans Jacob, former German-language broadcaster for the Council for Democracy over WRUL now with station WEVD. Admiration for Russia did not necessarily involve admiration for Communism, he said. Jacob voiced agreement with Berti's interpretation of the Soviet recognition of Badoglio and pleaded for increasing unity among the allies. (u)

"New York State Assemblyman John J. Tamula and August Bolland, vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who were scheduled to speak, sent telegrams regretting their inability to appear. (u)

Confidential Informant T-12 by report dated March 20, 1944 advised that the National Council had directed all local councils to contact theater managers in their localities where theaters were showing the picture, "North Star", the purpose of this contact being to ask for permission to sell literature in the lobby of the theater. This plan is believed to have been quite successful and there are hundreds of booths in the principal cities of the United States. (u)

"Captain SERGEI N. KOURNAKOFF is a Russian whose family has been identified with Russia's fighting forces for several centuries. His maternal ancestor was one of the Tartar Chieftains who settled down in Russia in the 13th Century. His paternal great-great-grandfather lead a regiment of Cossacks to Italy and Switzerland under Suverev. The family coat of arms carries an Italian city, NOVI, and a Swiss river, the Miotta. Next to it is the Cross of St. George which his great grandfather won at the Battle of Borodino. Another great-grandfather as a young naval officer defended the Famous Fifth Bastion during the siege of Sevastopol. His father's father fought in the Russo-Turkish War. His father served Russia as a cavalry and general staff officer.

"Captain KOURNAKOFF himself fought in the Russian Imperial Army as a cavalry subaltern in the first World War. After that he fought the Red Army for almost three years from the Donetz Basin to the arid sands of Central Asia near the Afghan border.

"He knows war. He has paid dearly with defeat and exile for a knowledge of the fighting qualities of the Red Army. At the time of the civil war, he knew only that his side was losing. After the war, he made it his business to understand why this had happened. He studied the Red Army, following its battles, reading its books, newspapers and learning its developments day by day for almost twenty years.

"He is the author of 'Savage Squadrons' and 'Russia's Fighting Forces'. Writer of both technical and popular articles on the Red Army. His analyses have proved astoundingly accurate.

"Topics: 'The Red Army', 'Russia in the War' and several related military subjects. " announced that the National Council for British Soviet Unity had been formed in February 1942 in England and discussed its activities. It was further reported that 100 representatives of Boy Scout and Girl Scout clubs from the five boroughs of New York City met August 20, 1943 at the American Soviet War Exhibit and sent a cable of greetings to the Soviet Union.

There was also set forth the text of a cable sent by the Soviet composers to the Musicians Committee of the National Council.

It was reported that on August 13, 1943 Dr. V. V. ~~LEBEDENKO~~ had spoken on medicine and surgery at the Russian Front at Chicago, Illinois. Four Soviet students attending Columbia University were guests of honor at a series of events held August 27-28-29, 1943 under the auspices of the Philadelphia Council. On August 2, 1943, Captain ~~SERGEI KOURNAKOFF~~ spoke before the Jacksonville Rotary Club at Jacksonville, Florida. Thirty-two students at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, addressed a letter to the people of the U.S.S.R. It was reported that Dr. ~~ALES HRDLIKA~~, who was a sponsor of the National Council, had died.

The Council Bulletin of August 1943, Volume 1, Number 1, was obtained. It announced that this bulletin would be a semi-monthly feature of the Council replacing the news letter.

It reported the nation-wide tour of Professor ~~SOLOMON MICHOELS~~ and Lieutenant Colonel ~~ITZIK PEFER~~. Professor ~~MICHOELS~~ was described as a people's artist of the Soviet Union and founder and director of the Moscow art theater. Colonel ~~PEFER~~ was described as a noted Russian poet. Receptions for these individuals were held in Boston, Milwaukee and New York City.

The members of the National Council were requested to protest the article by ~~MAX EASTMAN~~ which appeared in the ~~READERS DIGEST~~. It was reported that ~~SAUL MILLS~~, secretary-treasurer of the Greater New York Industrial Union Council, had sent a letter to all ~~CIO~~ unions affiliated with the Council to distribute the pamphlet circulated by the National Council entitled, ~~"Open Letter to the American People"~~. It was announced that the National Council had published a new edition of the constitution of the U.S.S.R.

With relation to the campaign against the ~~"Mission to Moscow"~~ film, the members of the National Council were urged to further their efforts to arrange for the exhibition of this picture.

A list of local councils as of August 1943 was set forth in this bulletin.

A copy of the September 1, 1943 Council Bulletin, Volume 1, Number 3 was obtained in which it was indicated that that issue of the Council Bulletin was a special congress issue and discussed the national congress to be held in New York City on November 6-8, 1943. In conjunction with the national congress, certain suggestions were made as to local activities to be conducted by the local councils.

Copies of the January 15, 1944 issue of the Council Bulletin, Volume 1, Number 7, were obtained which reflected that Red Army Day would be celebrated February 23, 1944. It was suggested that the mayor of the cities in which local councils were located be urged to issue a proclamation setting aside the week of February 21 as Red Army week.

Plans for the meeting to be held by the Committee of Women of the National Council were discussed. This meeting was scheduled for March 6, 1944 at Carnegie Hall in celebration of Women for Victory. Arrangements were also made by the Committee of Women to send recorded messages of sympathy and unity from the American Women to the Soviet Union. It was announced that the National Council had established a literature division under the direction of Miss SYLVIA COLBERT. It was suggested that the local councils set up a literature committee to cooperate with the literature division of the National Council. The local councils were furnished with a list of suggestions for the promotion of literature such as sending review copies of new pamphlets to local newspapers with a brief news release or a review interestingly written; that all libraries should have a copy of each pamphlet; that copies of the pamphlet should be mailed to organizations with an order blank suggested that they purchase copies in quantity for their members.

It was suggested that they arrange forum discussions based on the material contained in the pamphlets published by the Council. They were advised that plans were being formulated for a radio interview in New York City with Professor DANA, author of "Drama in Wartime Russia".

It was suggested that the local councils keep themselves advised as to important conventions, conferences and lodge meetings and obtain permission for a book and pamphlet exhibit on these occasions.

It was suggested that in view of the fact that orientation courses on the Soviet Union are being undertaken in many army camps that contact be had with the officers in charge to open up a channel of distribution of council literature.

The local councils were advised that they would be notified of all contacts made in their localities by the Exhibits Division, Speakers Bureau, etc. It was urged that the book, "My Native Land" by LOUIS ADAMIC should be promoted by the local councils in view of the fact that "It is at present the only book giving the true story of Czechoslovakia."

Local councils were advised that the following were new publications printed by the National Council:

- "We will join hands with Russia" - (On Polish Soviet relations)
- "Proceedings of the Trade Union Panel"
- "Proceedings of the Nationalities Panel"
- "Proceedings of the Education and Youth Panel"

The Council Bulletin for February 1 and 15, 1944, Volume 1, Number 8, was obtained. The following activities for councils and committees with relation to planned meetings of the Red Army Day were set forth for New York:

A salute to the Red Army Day dinner sponsored by the National Council and held at the Hotel Commodore, Feb. 21, 1944.

A tribute by the Nationalities group of New York on the occasion of the 26th anniversary of the Red Army sponsored by the Nationalities Division of the National Council at the Majestic Theater, February 27, 1944.

An exhibit of Soviet war posters and a meeting in tribute to Soviet artists sponsored by the Artists Committee of the National Council and held at the Vanderbilt Galleries, Feb. 23.

Nine neighborhood mass meetings were said to have been organized in Westchester, the East Side, Greenwich Village, the West Side, Parkchester, Bronx, Borough Park, Brooklyn, Manhattan and Brighton Beaches, New York.

The following Red Army Day meetings were planned throughout the nation:

Mass meetings on Feb. 25, 26, 27, 1944 with Professor VLADIMIR KAZAKEVICH under the sponsorship of the Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami Councils respectively:

NY 100-7518

The Massachusetts Council was sponsoring a dinner on February 24, 1944 in conjunction with Russian War Relief at the Copley Plaza with EDGAR SNOW as principal speaker:

The New Brunswick Council sponsored a mass meeting for Feb. 21, 1944 with Professor VLADIMIR KAZAKEVICH as speaker:

The Los Angeles Council had arranged a tribute to the Red Army program at the Hollywood Canteen on February 23, 1944.

The San Francisco Council was sponsoring a mass meeting on February 22, 1944 in conjunction with the Russian American Society.

The Lakewood, New Jersey Council was organizing a meeting on February 24, 1944 at the Lakewood Theater in conjunction with a film entitled, "We are coming back". The speaker for the evening was Dr. HARRY WARD.

The Springfield Council had arranged for a display of Red Army songs in all music stores.

The Philadelphia Council on February 21, 1944 had arranged a program in tribute to the Red Army at the auditorium of Gimbel's Department Store in conjunction with the LIFE magazine United Nations display in the windows.

The North and South Side Committees of the Chicago Council were scheduled to arrange neighborhood meetings.

The Madison Council was reported to be planning a radio program, and the Tucson Council on February 23 was sponsoring the showing of Soviet films.

It was reported that the American Theater Wing had set aside February 23, 1944 for Red Army Day programs in all stage door canteens throughout the country.

It was reported that stars of the following Broadway shows had agreed to read a text as a curtain speech during the week of Feb. 21, 1944: "Three's a Family"; "Cherry Orchard"; "Harriett"; "Mexican Hayride"; "Angel Street"; "Connecticut Yankee"; "Decision"; "Rattle and Shake Inn". Moving picture houses were also being approached on the same proposition.

Also obtained was a Christmas card showing the Soviet Cavalry with the greeting, "May the Armies of the United Nations Bring Victory and Enduring Peace in 1944", New York Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., which was signed by GERTRUDE ROBBINS.

Also obtained was a mimeographed copy of a notice to all staff members concerning the Red Army celebration held at the Hotel Commodore on February 21, 1944. They were advised that the following list was to be used: the five thousand names of the New York Council, 1,700 names of 'SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY' and the Cultural Committee. At that time it was planned to secure the assistance of a cigarette company such as Philip Morris and to obtain a promotion tie-up with radio time and advertising and setting forth appropriate slogans, such as "Back up your friendship with smokes for the Red Army".

The following promotion activities were presented to the staff members: two dramatic scripts, a publicity kit relative to the Red Army and a publicity schedule and material for radio commentators and language stations; a Hollywood radio show, the enlisting of the U.S. Treasury Department in the sale of bonds to pay tribute to the Red Army, the enlisting of assistance of the American Theater Wing for special Red Army Day celebrations at stage door canteens, a letter to a selected list of national advertisers working for a Red Army advertising club, a theater committee to arrange for curtain speeches, the possibility of using the facilities of a track meet at Madison Square Garden, New York for advertising purposes, a celebration at City Hall, New York City, with the Mayor and an Army Corps Guard and Army Band.

By letter dated January 6, 1944, LEONA SARON of the Speakers Bureau signed a form letter setting forth the possibility of obtaining the services of ROSE MAURER at a fee of $35 for each speaking engagement. Included with this letter were the following biographical notes concerning Miss MAURER.

"Former editor of 'Russia At War' and the 'American Review on the Soviet Union'. Lived in Russia from mid 1935 to mid 1937 gathering material for books and articles. There was obtained a copy of a memorandum from EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director of the National Council, to the following persons, who were believed to be members of the staff of the National Council, relative to the Red Army Day dinner and Women's Day meeting in February and March, 1944:

Katherine Morton, Lillian Kay, Miriam Gevirtzman, Sonia Kramer, Nan Golden, Hannah Stern, Noelle Davis, Florence Gordon, Syd Hirschaut, Sylvia Colbert, Leona Saron, Eve Budd, Doris Burk, Shiro, Belle Shekanover, Rose Schwartzstein, May Markus, Ethel Ellis, Elizabeth Moos, Gertrude Robbins, Bertha Korenman, Mary Stein, Sylvia Engel, Muriel Draper, Hannah Dorner

NOELLE DAVIS of the Publicity Department by a memorandum dated January 14, 1944 furnished the councils with publicity for Red Army Day celebrations. The following items were included:

- 1- A statement on Red Army Day which defined the significance and purposes of the celebration.
- 2- The local councils were advised that in the March 1943 issue of 'SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY' there was contained valuable background material on the Red Army. Their attention was directed particularly to page 14 of that issue in which the biographies of outstanding Soviet generals are set forth. Feature stores on the Red Army have been prepared to be furnished to the local newspapers.

- 3- The local councils were urged to enlist the aid of the department stores in setting forth a window display relative to the Red Army.
- 4- The local councils were advised that the Embassy of the U.S.S.R. in Washington, D. C. publishes an information bulletin which appears three times a week. This gives considerable information on every phase of life and the war effort of the Soviet Union.
- 5- The councils were urged to enlist the cooperation of all professional publicity advertising and newspaper individuals in their community who are interested in the Soviet Union. It was also suggested that a small advisory committee be set up for this purpose if no person had been placed in full charge of publicity.

Also obtained was a copy of the minutes of the steering committee meeting held January 20, 1944, which is set forth as follows:

"Present: Corliss Lamont, Edwin S. Smith, Jessica Smith, Theodore Bayer, Nan Golden.

MSC To adopt the minutes of the previous meeting.

MSC That Mr. Smith write to Mr. Schuster thanking him for his interest in the Picture Book project and advising him that for the time being the Council will not pursue the project.

MSC That Mr. Lamont write to Prof. Simmons requesting him to draw up a statement which will include the essence of previous statements written by Mr. Lamont and Prof. Fairchild.

Mr. Lamont informed the Steering Committee that he had been looking for a house to be shared by the National Council "and the American Russian Institute. After some discussion, Mr. Lamont was asked to write a letter to the American Russian Institute inviting them to share a house with the Council and to arrange a meeting to discuss this.

MSC To suggest to the National Board that Professor Fairchild be invited to become a vice-president of the National Board.

MSC That the Steering Committee approve the statement of amalgamation prepared by a committee of the New York Council and recommend it for adoption and that this action should be communicated to Prof. Fairchild.

Mr. Smith read a letter which had been sent to the New York Times Letter Column and the reply which he received from the editor. After some discussion, it was decided that Mr. Smith should re-write the letter and send it to the Tribune. Mr. Smith was instructed to reply to Mr. Lyman's letter.

Miss Golden reported that many requests for the use of our lists are made and asked that the Steering Committee determine a policy in meeting these requests.

It was the sense of the discussion that each request be considered as it comes up and that in the case of the Survey Graphic we ask them to submit samples of their enclosures. If these are approved, Miss Golden is to request the Survey Graphic to send stamped envelopes and enclosures to the lettership and that we charge a fee for the services involved.

Mr. Smith was instructed to order 100 copies of Mr. Hazard's brief on the Constitution."

~~DEFERRED RECORD~~

REFERENCE: Report of Special Agent WILLIAM FRANCIS NORTON, Jr., dated 2-15-44, at New York.

DETAILS: The Minneapolis Council of the above-captioned organization will hereinafter be referred to as the Minneapolis Council.

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that a room was reserved for November 18, 1943 at the Andrews Hotel, Minneapolis, Minnesota, for a meeting of the Minneapolis Council by a Mrs. STONE. Mrs. STONE is undoubtedly identical with Mrs. PAULINE STONE, 1737 E Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota, wife of ALLAN S. STONE, research director of the Amhurst H. Wilder Charities of St. Paul and connected with the Minneapolis Council, he being the Secretary. On February 15, 1944 room M-3 was reserved at the Andrews Hotel in Minneapolis in the name of KORNEY, Geneva 2322 for the Minneapolis Council. Geneva 2322 is listed to LEONARD KORNEY, 425 Queen Avenue North, Minneapolis. KORNEY is possibly identical with Mrs. BEULAH KORNEY, wife of LEONARD KORNEY, at the latter address, who is District Secretary of the IWO and CP member of District #9 in Minneapolis.

Confidential Informant T-2 advised that his records disclosed that the Minneapolis Council held various meetings from time to time in the Citizens Aid Building, 404 South 8th Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota, as follows:

On 6-30-43: Room #3 was reserved from 8 to 9:30 P.M. in the name of the Minneapolis Council, by Miss MALBIN, Aldrich 5822, [redacted] North, Minneapolis. ---Miss MALBIN is not known to the St. Paul Field Division, and it was ascertained by the reporting agent that Aldrich 5822 is listed in the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. directory of Minneapolis to ARTHUR X NORDBY, [redacted] North, Minneapolis. It was ascertained by reporting agent that the party who answered the telephone at Aldrich 5822 was not familiar with Miss MALBIN at that address. 1943 Minneapolis City Directory lists at [redacted] N X BARRY.

b7C

On 7-19-43: Room #3 was reserved in the name of Mrs. MASEY for the Minneapolis Council. ---Mrs. MASEY is not known to the St. Paul Field Division.

On 8-30-43: The lecture room was reserved for the hours 8 to 9:30 for the Minneapolis Council by a Mrs. STONE. She is possibly identical with Mrs. PAULINE STONE previously referred to.

Confidential Informant T-3 on March 28, 1944 furnished the reporting agent with a letter which was pieced together and is being set forth in order to show additional information regarding the meeting held at the Andrews Hotel, November 18, 1943, report of which has been previously written up by the St. Paul Field Division.

"The week of Nov. 6 to 16th has been set aside by the Nat'l Council of Amer. Sov. Friendship to mark both the anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic, (2) and the tenth anniversary of Am. Sov. diplomatic relations.

100-1881 - St. Paul

"All over the country regional councils will hold meetings to increase American understanding of our Soviet ally and to express the determination of all sections of one people to weld our nations into an indissoluble unity. Without such unity there can be no peaceful and stable world. In cementing Am. S. friendship - - - help to create the foundation - - - affording friendship of all - - - peoples. Only thus can - - - long struggle for freedom be - - - from the realm of war and bloodshed to that of peaceful construction.

"The Mpls. Council of American Sov. Friendship was formed to help us all reach that goal.

"On Nov. 18 we will present Judge EDWARD P. TOTTEN who will discuss 'American Sov. Rel.' at the Andrews Hotel at 8 P.M. Admission will be 35¢.

"The conclusions of the Moscow Parley are so far reaching that we feel no other topic is so timely or of such broad interest and we urge not only that you be with us and that you bring your friends.

/s/ MARY J. SHAW
PAULINE STONE"

On the bottom of this letter there appears the written name of ANN STARKS. She is known to the St. Paul Field Division in that under date of May 14, 1942 she was known to have been the Minneapolis Secretary of the American Council of Soviet Relations and at the present time is active in the Minneapolis Council.

Reference report reflects that exhibit #9 was obtained from a highly confidential source and is a signed copy of a resolution to form a Council of American-Soviet Friendship, and received from EDWARD P. TOTTEN. EDWARD P. TOTTEN, wa, Judge EDWARD P. TOTTEN, [redacted] Minneapolis, was born on April 24, 1876 in Cavendish, Suffolk, England; is naturalized U. S. citizen; is a retired attorney; and was former Judge in Bowman, N. D. from 1916 to 1918. He is the Vice President of the National Council of American Soviet Relations. Attended CP rally on May 9, 1943 in Minneapolis where EARL BROWDER, General Secretary of the CP, spoke. TOTTEN was active in all functions of the Minneapolis Council in rallying groups for meetings, arranging for speakers and places of the meetings.

Exhibit #55 in reference report, which is a copy of the Council Bulletin, Vol. 1, Nos. 4 and 5, dated December 1st and 15th, 1943 in which is noted the following:

"Minneapolis Council of American-Soviet Friendship, St. Paul 8, Minnesota, Mrs. PAULINE STONE, Secretary."

The identity of Mrs. PAULINE STONE has been previously set forth.

Also listed in the latter exhibit was the name of Dr. MARY SHAW, 1000 University Avenue Southeast, Minneapolis 14, Minnesota, Chairman, Minneapolis Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Dr. MARY SHAW is identical with MARY JOSEPHINE SHAW whose present address is [redacted] Minneapolis, Minnesota, age 52, born Waukeo, Iowa, on August 4, 1891; member of DAILY WORKER Press Club, and assigned #1791D; is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at the University of Minnesota, and divorced wife of Capt. ERNEST E. SHAW, U. S. Army #0-494292; signer of petition of Minnesota Student League for Democracy commending Minneapolis City Council for refusing use of Minneapolis Auditorium to GERALD L. K. SMITH, American First Party leader, on March 23, 1944.

The mail cover placed on MARY JOSEPHINE SHAW at her present address reflects she is in receipt of various letters from the National Headquarters of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, 232 Madison Avenue, New York 16, New York.

On April 21, 1944, [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, stated that Mrs. PAULINE STONE advised that the Soviet film of .16 mm with sound track was being obtained from New York City, possibly from Brandon Films, New York, and would be shown at various times in Minneapolis during the last week of April and the first week of May, 1944. A Mrs. WEISSNER, not known to the St. Paul Field Office, would be in charge.

b7D

[redacted] on February 19, 1944 made available an envelope directed to EVELYN MURRAY, care of [redacted] Minneapolis, postmarked February 11, 1944 at Minneapolis, Minnesota. Envelope contained a letter dated February 9, 1944 from the Minneapolis Council, addressed "Dear Friend", and signed by "PAULINE STONE". This letter advised that Mr. HARLAND ALLEN, Chairman of the Chicago Council would speak at the open meeting of the Minneapolis Council at the Andrews Hotel, Minneapolis, Tuesday, February 15, 1944. Allen's subject was to be "The business man's stake in American-Soviet Friendship". ALLEN was identified as an economist, business consultant, and investment broker. Members and friends of the Minneapolis Council were invited. The above is being made a part of the files of instant case in the St. Paul Field Division.

100-1881 - St. Paul

A highly confidential source on February 19, 1944, furnished the St. Paul Field Division with a mimeographed booklet of 15 pages entitled "Ten Years of American-Soviet Friendship" issued by Education Department, New York State Communist Party. The following pertinent parts of this exhibit are being set forth:

"INTRODUCTION"

"Ten years ago, diplomatic relations were for the first time established between the United States and the Soviet Union. The sixteen year separation between the American and Soviet peoples was thus brought to a close; and the foundation was laid for joint action in the future. Today, that joint action has developed into their partnership in the United Nations.

"Ten years ago, the Hitler regime came to power in Germany. At once preparations got under way for launching Germany on a career of aggression. Today, the Nazi plan of world domination has embroiled the peoples of the entire world.

"It is against the background of this decade of Axis aggression that the ten year American-Soviet friendship must be evaluated."

* * * *

"THE RECORD OF AMERICAN-SOVIET DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS"

"I. The Wall is Broken"

"The establishment of diplomatic relations between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. took place by the following steps:

- "1. President Roosevelt in office since March 4, 1933, addressed a note on October 10th of that year to President Kalinin. In that note he said:

"Since the beginning of my administration I have contemplated the desirability of an effort to end the present abnormal relations between the 125,000,000 people of the U. S. and the 160,000,000 people of Russia.

"It is most regrettable that these great peoples, between whom a happy tradition of friendship existed for more than a century to their mutual advantage, should now be without a practical method of communicating directly with each other.

- "2. On October 17th, one week later, the following reply was sent by President Kalinin:

"I will permit myself to express the opinion that the abnormal situation which you rightly point out in your message has an unfavorable effect, not only on the interests of the two interested States, but also on the general international situation, by increasing the elements of disquiet, complicating the process of consolidating world peace, and encouraging the forces aiming at the breaking of the peace.

- "3. On November 7th, 1933, the sixteenth anniversary of the October Revolution, Maxim Litvinoff, Commissar of Foreign Affairs, arrived in the United States to open negotiations. In a press interview the following day he said:

"The opinions expressed all over the world on the messages which have passed between our Presidents have shown the hopes raised among all the friends of peace, and the fears felt by the adversaries of peace, at the very thought of the establishment of solid friendly relations between the peoples of the two greatest republics of the world.

"What we have to do now is only, so to speak, to legalize and to give an official expression to that reciprocal gravitation of two nations which had no conflicts in the past and cannot anticipate them in the future.

"4.

On November 16, after several exchanges of messages on concrete questions between President Roosevelt and Foreign Commissar Litvinoff, diplomatic relations were established between the U. S. and the U.S.S.R. Simultaneous statements by both Roosevelt and Litvinoff included the following:

"I trust that the relations now established between our peoples may forever remain normal and friendly; and that our nations henceforth may cooperate for their mutual benefit and for the preservation of the peace of the world."

"III. Collective Action in Peace.

"3. A similar warning was forthcoming from the Soviet Union. Stalin said in November, 1936:

"It is necessary to bear in mind that fascism is not only a specific internal state regime, but that it represents at the same time preparation for aggression, preparation for war against other states."

"IV. The Goals to Fight For.

"2. Even in the midst of its greatest military successes, therefore, Stalin was still able to describe the Red Army, on its 25th anniversary in February, 1943, as an army of peace:

"The Red Army is an army of defense, of peace and friendship among the peoples of all countries. It was created not for the conquest of foreign countries, but for the defense of the frontiers of the Soviet Country. The Red Army has always treated with respect the rights and independence of all nations."

* * * * *

b) (1939)

"The foreign policy of the Soviet Union is clear and explicit:

"1. We stand for peace and the strengthening of business relations with all countries. That is our position; and we shall adhere to this position as long as these countries maintain like relations with the Soviet Union, and as long as they make no attempt to trespass on the interests of our country.

"2. We stand for peaceful, close and friendly relations with all the neighboring countries which have common frontiers with the U.S.S.R. That is our position; and we shall adhere to this position as long as these countries maintain like relations with the Soviet Union, and as long as they make no attempt to trespass, directly or indirectly, on the integrity and inviolability of the frontiers of the Soviet state.

"3. We stand for the support of nations which are the victims of aggression and are fighting for the independence of their country.

"4. We are not afraid of the threats of aggressors, and are ready to deal two blows for every blow delivered by instigators of war who attempt to violate the Soviet borders."

[redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on April 21, 1944, advised that ROBERT J. KELLY, State Administrative Secretary, C. P., advised the Comrades at CP headquarters, 15 North 9th Street, Minneapolis, that there would be a mobilization meeting of recruiters on Sunday, April 23, 1944, at which time there would be selected a Captain for each of the 13 Wards in Minneapolis who would lead the other Comrades in the recruiting of new members. KELLY stated that letters would also be sent out to all members of the IWO (International Workers Order) contacts, all students in the CIO school (Abraham Lincoln School), names of people on the American-Soviet committee, and RWR (Russian War Relief).

b7D

Confidential Informant T-4 advised that on April 27, 1944, EVELYN MURRAY (NEW MASSES Agent in Minnesota) mentioned to JULIUS BUTWIN that a Mrs. WEISSNER and a Mrs. PAULINE STONE would leave some Council of American-Soviet Friendship material with him to be later picked up.

On April 28, 1944, [redacted] stated that Mrs. PAULINE STONE advised EVELYN MURRAY that she was in possession of a few National Council of American-Soviet Friendship brochures which set out the purpose and progress of the organization, and that the cover of the brochure was cream colored. She mentioned a few of the better known sponsors which she read off to MURRAY from the back cover, as follows:

DETAILS:

A. MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIPI. Organizational Material

The Milwaukee Police Department furnished a photostatic copy of the Articles of Incorporation of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP obtained at the office of the Recorder of Deeds for Milwaukee County. The original of these articles was likewise examined by Special Agent CALVIN B. HOWARD at the office of the Corporation Clerk of the Secretary of State at Madison, Wisconsin. The information hereinafter set forth was confirmed by both these sources.

The articles were granted to the organization on November 26, 1943. The purpose of the corporation as set forth in the first article is to "strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic through: 1) facilitating factual education regarding the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic; 2) acting as a clearing house for such educational information; 3) whatever other means may be available." Article Two provides that the name of the corporation shall be the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, and that its location shall be in Milwaukee, Milwaukee County, Wisconsin. The Third Article provides that the corporation shall be non-stock, and that no dividends or pecuniary profits shall be declared or paid to the members thereof, and upon dissolution of the organization the assets of the corporation shall be given to one or more known non-profit organizations or agencies as may be determined by the officers in such time.

The Articles likewise contain the provisions for the election of members and officers, and provide that the total number of members is not to exceed thirty. The incorporators are JOHN LEWIS, 5416 West Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, F. W. GOLDSMITH, 629 E. Day Avenue, Milwaukee, WILLIAM SELL, 3305 W. Wells Street, Milwaukee. It will be noted that WILLIAM SELL has been identified as a member of the Communist Party, and that JOHN LEWIS and F. W. GOLDSMITH, have on various occasions been associated with Communist Party activities. The photostatic copy of the Articles of Incorporation has been placed in the 1-A jacket of instant file.

Officers of the Corporation, as listed on fliers advertising the SIR BERNARD PARES RALLY, hereinafter discussed, and on the letterhead of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL, are as follows: President, REVEREND JOHN LEWIS; Vice-President, DR. FRANK McBAKER; Second Vice-President, F. W. GOLDSMITH; Secretary, WILLIAM SELL; Treasurer, DR. HENRY ALPERT. REVEREND JOHN LEWIS is listed as Chairman of the Executive Board and ALICE MOORE HEDRICKSON is listed as Executive Director.

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that the Subject organization has occupied its present offices at 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue since November of 1942. The Informant stated that the original arrangements for the lease were made by CHARLES FRIED, a local Attorney, since deceased. He advised that there is no written lease, but that the Council is supposed to pay $25.00 a month rent on a month to month basis. The Informant advised that the payments are made both by check and by cash at irregular intervals. The Informant stated that he did not know by whom such checks were drawn, but that he would endeavor to obtain this information the next time a rent payment was made.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on February 9, 1944 he was present at the offices of the WISCONSIN STATE CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL LEGISLATION, Leading Communist Party front organization of Wisconsin, when WILLIAM SELL, Secretary of the Subject organization, conferred with JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND, Executive Secretary of the WISCONSIN STATE CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL LEGISLATION. At this time SELL is reported to have told NORDSTRAND that he wanted to get out of the Subject organization as it was too far in debt. He advised that the organization's debt at that time amounted to some $2,000.00, and that he personally had $160.00 invested. He stated that the organization had lost several hundred dollars on the ORSON WELLES meeting, which was poorly managed financially, and that the organization owed SCHMIDT PRINTERS $300.00. After some discussion SELL told NORDSTRAND that he would stay in the organization if it could be arranged that he would not have to take on more financial responsibility. The Informant advised that on February 15, 1944 SELL returned to W.S.C.S.L. offices, where he advised ALICE HENDRICKSON that he was angry concerning her handling of the Subject organization. The Informant stated that on this occasion JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND again argued with the Subject and did her best to keep him from withdrawing.

II. Sir Bernard Pares Rally

Exhibit B-1 is a flier advertising a lecture on "Russia and World Peace" given by SIR BERNARD PARES, under the auspices of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. The flier announces that the Rally is scheduled to be held at Grand Avenue Congregational Church, 2133 West Wisconsin Avenue, on February 10. It is stated that SIR BERNARD PARES will clarify the following questions: "Where is Russia's Place in a Lasting Peace?--Will Russia become a Foreign Market for the United States?--What is the Significance of the Teheran Conference?--What makes the Russian Army Strong?--What of Future Borders?" This exhibit was obtained from Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on February 11, 1944.

Exhibit M-1 is a duplicate of the Exhibit B-1, furnished February 13, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau.

Confidential Informant [ ], whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on January 22, 1944 ALICE HENDRICKSON ordered five thousand tickets in the following form: "Forum, SIR BERNARD PARES, authority on Soviet Union, Grand Avenue Congregational Church, 2133 W. Wisconsin Avenue, auspices of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP". The cost of the tickets was reported to be $13.75. A ticket as furnished by the Informant has been marked Exhibit M-2.

On February 6, 1944 the Milwaukee Journal carried an article entitled Russia, Peace Will be Topic--SIR BERNARD to Talk. This article sets forth that SIR BERNARD PARES will speak on Russia and World Peace on the night of February 10th under the auspices of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. The article continues with background information concerning SIR BERNARD PARES.

The Milwaukee Journal and the Milwaukee Sentinel for February 11, 1944 both carried accounts of the PARES Rally. The Journal Account carried a picture of SIR BERNARD PARES, with REVEREND FRANK SHELDON, Pastor of the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, who is also one of the Executive Board of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL. The Sentinel account carried a picture of SIR BERNARD PARES with REVEREND JOHN LEWIS, one of the incorporators of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL. The resume of SIR BERNARD's speech as contained in the newspaper articles is not being set out inasmuch as a more complete account has been obtained from other informants.

By letter dated February 14, 1944 JOSEPH T. KLUCHESKY, Chief of Police, Milwaukee Police Department, furnished the following account of SIR BERNARD PARES RALLY as obtained by Acting Detective ADRIAN MERSHOW:

"In accordance with existing arrangements between this Department and the local F.B.I. Office, the investigator attended a lecture at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, 2133 West Wisconsin Avenue, on Thursday evening, February 10, 1944. The lecture was given by SIR BERNARD PARES, a noted British historian and professor who is now a Visiting Professor at the University of Wisconsin. The lecture was sponsored by the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

"REVEREND JOHN LEWIS, Pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church and Chairman of the previously mentioned Council, was the first speaker of the evening. He talked briefly on the work of the Council. In this connection he stated that the aim of the Council is to bring about a better understanding between the people of American and those of Russia. He then stated that he knew SIR BERNARD PARES so well and thought so much of him, that were he to introduce him, he (REVEREND LEWIS) would use a lot of time telling the audience all about him. He then introduced DR. FRANK SHELDON, Pastor of Grand Avenue Congregational Church. He praised DR. SHELDON for being a broad minded and intelligent man. DR. SHELDON then spoke very briefly about the need for intelligent and clear thinking by the people of all nations throughout the world in regard to relations with Russia. DR. SHELDON then introduced the main speaker of the evening, SIR BERNARD PARES, who talked for about an hour. A considerable portion of his talk was devoted to the Russian and Polish boundary dispute. He talked about Polish history, dealing with the centuries from the late nine hundreds down to the present time. He described the Alliance of America, England, and Russia as the greatest and luckiest alliance in the world. He praised STALIN and called him a genius. He also said of STALIN, 'He is an aloof peasant of genius who has made a wonderful forecast of the future. STALIN will be very chary of world entanglements, but he understands that he must take his part in the preservation of world peace. This peace will be essential to STALIN when he goes on with his favorite task of developing the untold wealth of Siberia.'

SIR BERNARD said that STALIN is the only man who can recover for the Poles the city of Warsaw and the now disputed territory. He went on to say that a great many people believe that Great Britain made a guarantee to Poland that the boundary lines of 1921 would be re-established after the war. He said that Britain had never made such a pledge or guarantee. Britain guaranteed that Poland will be an independent state after the war. SIR BERNARD went on to say that racial discrimination and especially discrimination against the Jews has disappeared in Russia.

"The attendance at the lecture was about 350 persons. A large table was set up near the entrance of the church. 'The People's Book Shop', 722 West Wisconsin Avenue, had a large display of literature and books regarding Russia on this table. Several pieces of literature and several books were sold in the audience by young women who passed up and down the aisles selling the literature. The meeting ended about 10:15 P.M. Attached is a pamphlet which was passed out at the meeting. This pamphlet describes the pictures that are to be shown at the Pabst Theatre between now and June 1, 1944. Each pamphlet contains a 'rider' which advertises the constitution of the U.S.S.R. Also attached are two newspaper clippings dated February 11, 1944, regarding the above described conference, one taken from the 'Milwaukee Journal' and the other from the 'Milwaukee Sentinel'".

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent GEROLD R. FITZGERALD, who attended the meeting at the Grand Avenue Congregational Church on February 10, 1944:

This is to advise that Agent on the night of 2/10/44 attended a meeting in the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, at which SIR BERNARD PARES, an authority on Russian history, was the principal speaker. The Agent estimates that approximately 400 persons attended this meeting and that it was conducted in typical Communist Party fashion.

The admission charge was 50¢ and immediately opposite the entrance to the meeting room there was placed the usual table containing various exhibits of Communist Party literature with ALICE WARD attempting to solicit the sale to all who entered. The principal books on display were "Secret of Soviet Strength", and "Russia", by SIR BERNARD PARES.

Prior to the start of the meeting several individuals were active in soliciting sales of the various literature by walking up and down the aisles asking those in attendance to purchase their literature. The book "Russia" was put out in a 25¢ handy edition and seemed to sell quite readily. Among those selling literature the writer recognized ESTHER EISENSCHER and MARY KEITH.

The first speaker was the Reverend JOHN LEWIS, who gave a brief introductory statement in which he said that he was not going to introduce the speaker because if he did his words of praise would be so extensive that he would deprive the audience of the pleasure of hearing the man they came to hear.

DR. FRANK SHELDON, Pastor of the Grand Avenue Congregational Church, spoke briefly pointing out the need for friendly relations between all of the united nations and especially with Russia. DR. SHELDON introduced the principal speaker of the evening, SIR BERNARD PARES, who was a rather fragile old man who apparently was well versed in the internal political strife of the Slav people of Europe.

He stated in his talk that he desired to make clear the present dispute between Russia and Poland and stated that in order to do so he would have to go back to history and trace the early development of each of these nations. He then proceeded to jump back into the early stages of history, starting along in the 9th and 10th centuries, pointing out that Russia derived its religion from Constantinople and consequently became orthodox in its religious thinking while Poland, on the other hand, derived its religion from Catholic sources with the result that the Catholic religion predominates in Poland. He then traced the gradual development of these two nations showing how the religious differences arose time and time again in the settlement of religious questions.

He stated that the territory presently in dispute between Poland and Russia, that section which Russia took possession of when Germany invaded Poland, is in reality a distinct group of individuals whom he referred to as the White Russians. He stated that Russia has always considered this section as legally a portion of Russia as it originally was, and that it was necessary for Russia's internal security to possess this strip of land. The speaker pointed out that Russia foresaw the difficulties with Germany and that as soon as Germany played its cards Russia immediately took the necessary precautions of protecting its border against the invasion of Germany.

In the latter part of the Subject's talk he accepted questions from the floor, one of which brought up the question as to whether or not Russia would eventually negotiate a settlement of this disputed territory. PARES avoided a direct answer but pointed out that prior to the time that Russia had taken over this strip of land it had been composed of large Polish estates owned by the more wealthy land owners of Poland, that after this section was annexed by Russia it was communized into cooperative farms and the large estates taken from the former land gentry. He further intimated that it was quite unlikely that Russia would undo her work in the communizing of this area.

In this respect PARES was asked questions regarding the feelings of the British toward the Polish government in exile in England and Polish representatives in Moscow. PARES again avoided a direct answer but stated that Russia is the only other country who can recover Warsaw for the Poles, yet the Polish government in exile makes dogmatic demands for certain territories and agreements without the means of having them carried out and without taking into consideration the difficulties behind the granting of their requests.

In the course of the questions PARES was asked for information in regard to Russia's imperialistic aims. PARES, in the course of answering the inquiry, praised STALIN as a genius and stating that he is "an aloof peasant of genius who has made a wonderful forecast of the future" adding that he will be very "ohary" of world entanglements although he understands that he must take part in the preservation of world peace. PARES stated that following the war STALIN will be busy for many years developing the untold natural resources of wealth in Siberia, a project contemplated by Hitler.

He was also asked questions in regard to the current accusations on the part of Russia toward England's separate peace agreement with Germany. PARES described this accusation as ridiculous because England will never forget the bombings that Germany rained upon her cities in the early stages of the war. PARES stated that he went through the bombings as did the members of the English government who will sit at any peace table. He stated, however, that England resented tremendously the accusations and that it hurt.

PARES was asked the question as to what type of agreement Russia might coincide to in bringing about settlement of the present strained relations between the Polish government in exile and the Russian government. PARES stated that Poland originally owned territory which is now controlled by the Germans and which was more or less loaned to a group of German Prussians many years ago but never returned to Poland. It is Russia's suggestion that Poland now reclaim that piece of land which Germany had forced away from Poland to compensate Poland for the loss of land which Russia now has under its dominance.

The individual whom the writer believed to be MARY KEITH was very active in the sale of literature prior to the start of the meeting, and her description is being set forth:

Name:	MARY KEITH
Color:	White
Sex:	Female
Age:	27
Height:	5' 6"
Weight:	About 135
Eyes:	Blue
Hair:	Very light brown
Complexion:	Light
Facial Features:	Rather thin face with prominent long type nose
Build:	Slender

There was another lady active in the sale of literature whom the Agent did not recognize and she is described as follows:

Age:	35
Color:	White
Height:	5' 2"
Weight:	145
Eyes:	Brown
Hair:	Dark Brown
Build:	Stocky
Complexion:	Rather Dark
Facial Features:	Round full face with rather close set eyes. Her facial features were very Irish in appearance

The Agent also noticed another lady who seemed to assume a number of executive details of the meeting whom the Agent had not seen before at any meeting. The following description of this individual is set forth:

Sex:	Female
Color:	White
Height:	5' 11"
Weight:	165
Age:	38
Build:	Stocky and robust
Facial features:	Round full face
Complexion:	Fair
Hair:	Brown
Eyes:	Blue

Confidential Informant   advised that on February 11, 1944 JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAED commented favorably on the PARKS Rally and on the Milwaukee Journal write-up thereof.

b7D

The following background information concerning SIR BERNARD PARKS was obtained from the backs of Exhibits B-1 and M-1, and from the newspaper accounts of the Rally at which he was the principal speaker.

SIR BERNARD is apparently an Englishman, having attended Trinity College at Cambridge University, where it is stated he became interested in Russia. In 1906 he was reportedly an observer and honorary usher in the Russian Duma when that Parliamentary body first assembled. It was stated that he was intimate with ROMAN DOMONSKI, a Polish diplomat, and with PIASUDSKI, a Polish Premier. Prior to the first World War he was reported to have attempted to settle the dispute between Poland and Russia by bringing a delegation of Polish and Russian leaders to England to confer with the King. Later he reportedly instituted the first Polish courses of study in England and became editor of the "Russian Review". He was reportedly now one of the editors of the "Slavnik Review".

In 1914 SIR BERNARD was appointed by SIR EDWARD GRAY as a war correspondent on the Russian Front, "travelling everywhere with the Third Russian Army until 1917". SIR BERNARD was the Director of the School of Slavonic and East European studies in the University of London from 1932 to 1939. Prior to that he was a Professor of Russian History, Language, and Literature at the University of Liverpool. He was reportedly attached to the Embassy in Petrograd in 1917.

SIR BERNARD is reportedly conducting a lecture course at the University of Wisconsin at Madison on Russian History, and her status in the post war world, having given a similar course last year at Cornell University. SIR BERNARD is listed as being the author of the following books: "Russia and Reform", Chapters on Russia in the Cambridge Modern History, "Day by Day with the Russian Army", "A History of Russia", "My Russian Memoirs", "Moscow Admits a Critic", "The Fall of Russian Monarchy", and "Russia".

Articles from the Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin student newspaper, indicate that SIR BERNARD has been active at the University of Wisconsin as a speaker on Russian History.

III. Motion Pictures

Exhibit B-2 is a mimeographed flier put out by Subject organization announcing the film CHAPAYEV on Sunday, December 19th, at 8:00 P.M. at the Council Assembly Rooms, 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue. CHAPAYEV is described as an outstanding early Soviet film, being a story of CHAPAYEV, the heroic leader of the Red Army. The flier states that this film is a MUST for all students of modern History and lovers of fine films, and that "for those who admire and marvel at the strength and courage of the Red Army it is an illuminating document". This exhibit was furnished December 24, 1943 by Confidential Informant [redacted]

Exhibit M-3 furnished January 19, 1944 is a duplicate of Exhibit B-2.

Exhibit B-2, furnished January 7, 1944 by Confidential Informant [redacted] is a flier announcing that the film "LENIN IN OCTOBER" will be presented by the Subject organization at its offices at 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue on Sunday, January 2, 1944, at 8:00 P.M. The flier quotes laudatory reviews of this film from the New York Times, New York World Telegram, and Life Magazine. b7D Exhibit M-4, furnished January 19, 1944 by Confidential Informant [redacted] is a duplicate of B-3.

Exhibit M-5, furnished February 13, 1944 by Confidential Informant [redacted] is a flier announcing that the Subject organization is presenting the Russian Film PETER THE GREAT at its headquarters on January 16, 1944. The flier describes this film as one of the greatest motion pictures of our time, and quotes laudatory statements from the Hollywood Spectator and New York World Telegram.

Exhibit B-4 furnished February 5, 1944 by Confidential Informant [redacted] is a flier announcing that the Subject organization is presenting the Russian Film "The Youth of Maxim" at its headquarters on January 30, 1944. This film was described as the first of the series of the famous MAXIM pictures of the adventures of a youth in the Russian revolutionary movement. It is stated that this film is a MUST for all who want to understand the building of the new Soviet Union.

Exhibit M-6, furnished February 13, 1944 by Confidential Informant [redacted] is a duplicate of B-4. It will be noted that both these latter exhibits contain a notice at the bottom announcing that the Council will present Soviet first run pictures at the Pabst Theatre starting February 12th and 13th, 1944. It is stated that general admission will be $.65, including tax, and that season tickets will be $3.00, including tax. b7D

B. At Pabst Theatre

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on December 26, 1943 he was present at the headquarters of Communist Party, District 18, when ALICE HENDRICKSON discussed with NED SPARKS, Executive Secretary of Communist Party, District 18, a proposed motion picture series. On this occasion SPARKS told her to go ahead and not to pay any attention to the members of the Board of the Milwaukee Council because "they've never done anything anyway". SPARKS said this in answer to HENDRICKSON's statement that she had already been criticized by the Board for taking things into her own hands too much. HENDRICKSON told SPARKS of the proposed schedules of dates and prices, all of which were not obtained by the Informant. SPARKS urged her to get Soviet films as distinguished from anti-Fascist pictures. On this occasion the Informant advised HENDRICKSON and SPARKS discussed the members of the Executive Board of the Milwaukee Council, and it was apparent from the conversation that none of them were very highly regarded by SPARKS.

b7D

On January 4, 1944 Confidential Informant [ ] advised that he was present at the offices of the WISCONSIN STATE CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL LEGISLATION when ALICE HENDRICKSON told JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND and ELIZABETH BLAIR, Milwaukee County Chairmen of Communist Party, District 18, that she, HENDRICKSON, wanted to start a movie program at the Pabst Theatre. She advised that she was considering starting the films on January 20th or 23rd. ELIZABETH BLAIR pointed out to HENDRICKSON, according to the Informant, that this would interfere with a meeting being planned by the Communist Party for LOU BUDENZ, of National Headquarters, and JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND told HENDRICKSON to let her movie plans go until February.

b7D

On February 12, 1944 Confidential Informant [ ] advised that JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND and NED SPARKS had, at the headquarters of Communist Party, District 18, discussed HENDRICKSON's handling of the Russian Movies at the Pabst Theatre. It was stated that the Council was from $1,500 to $2,000 in debt on these movies. On this occasion the Informant reported that SPARKS criticized HENDRICKSON severely, and likewise criticized NORDSTRAND for letting HENDRICKSON get so far out of hand on this matter. This Informant advised that on February 16, 1944 he was present at Party Headquarters when ALICE HENDRICKSON conferred with NED SPARKS about the Russian Movies. HENDRICKSON is reported to have said that the Council was $1,500.00 in debt on the movies, but that their position had improved slightly.

On this occasion SPARKS criticized HENDRICKSON personally concerning her handling of the Russian Movies. The Informant further reported that HENDRICKSON and SPARKS had discussed the problem of a speaker at a Rally to be held at the Pabst Theatre which they called "A United Nations Thing", and which the Informant believed to be the proposed Red Army Day Celebration.

The Informant reported that on February 17, 1944 NED SPARKS had noticed ALICE HENDRICKSON's advertising in the local newspapers, and had criticized it as all wrong, inasmuch as it stressed the closing date rather than the opening date.

It will be noted that special festivities in connection with Red Army Day were planned for the opening date, and that SPARKS is reported to have said that HENDRICKSON must be afraid that people will come for the speeches.

Exhibit M-7, furnished April 9, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ] is a mimeographed letter dated February 19, 1944, signed by the Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This letter announces that the Council is showing "The City That Stopped Hitler - Heroic Stalingrad", at the Pabst Theatre from February 24 to 27. The letter continues "On Thursday evening, February 24, our Council has arranged a special program for the opening night in commemoration of Washington's birthday, and the 26th birthday of the Red Army as follows: dramatic musical presentation, American Anthem, New Soviet Anthem (mid-west premier), Red Army songs and the songs of 1776 by DIANNA GAYLEN WORKSHOP SINGERS; greetings--MAYOR JOHN L. BOHN; 'America and Russia in 1776-1861 and Today', by DR. WILLIAM CAED, Executive Director, Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship; first Milwaukee showing 'City That Stopped Hitler - Heroic Stalingrad'". The letter contains a P.S., calling attention to "Our American-Soviet War Display in Gimbles Department Store Window on Plankinton Avenue, commemorating this celebration".

b7D

Enclosed with this letter is a flier advertising "The City That Stopped Hitler", and a second feature, "Katusha". It also announces the Red Army Day Celebration on February 24.

By letter dated March 27, 1944 JOSEPH T. KLUCHESEY, Chief of the Milwaukee Police Department, advised that an investigator from his office had interviewed ALICE HENDRICKSON at the offices of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL in connection with the probation following her arrest in December, which has already been reported. The following pertinent portion of this report is quoted:

"The investigator and MRS. HENDRICKSON discussed the various movies that have been shown at the Pabst Theatre during recent weeks. She was led to believe that the investigator had attended the first showing on Saturday, February 12, 1944, of the picture, 'We Will Come Back.' Mention was made of the fact that the attendance at the afternoon showing was quite small. She stated that the first showing did not draw as well as had been expected, but that subsequent showings drew a much better attendance.

"She stated further that the picture entitled, 'The City That Stopped Hitler, Heroic Stalingrad,' was quite well received also. She stated that two new pictures, 'Lad From Our Town', and 'Leningrad Music Hall', will be shown at the Pabst Theatre on March 24th, 25th, and 26th. She extended the investigator an invitation to attend, saying, 'If you like musicals, I am sure that you will like these two pictures.' She mentioned that the picture, 'Lad From Our Town', is a Russian language film, but that it has English sub-titles."

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on March 2, 1944 he was present at the WISCONSIN STATE CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL LEGISLATION offices when ALICE HENDRICKSON conferred with JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND. The conversation at this time indicated that 2,500 people had attended the last show at the Pabst Theatre, and that HENDRICKSON hoped to get 5,000 at the coming show. HENDRICKSON discussed with NORDSTRAND on this occasion.

b7D

The Informant advised that at this time NORDSTRAND recommended that HENDRICKSON check with Warners but the Informant could not advise as to the subject matter of this check.

This Informant advised that on March 1, 1944 NORDSTRAND and HENDRICKSON had conferred concerning the changing of the date of the movies schedules for March 25 to March 27, 1944. HENDRICKSON told NORDSTRAND that 139 season tickets had been sold and NORDSTRAND pointed out to her that she should notify season ticket holders of the change of dates. HENDRICKSON is reported to have told NORDSTRAND that 1,000 people attended one of the Sunday shows.

Exhibit B-5, furnished March 24, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ] is a flier announcing that the Artkino film "Led From Our Town" would be shown at the Pabst Theatre on March 24, 25, and 26, presented by the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. A companion feature is announced as "Leningrad Music Hall", with added features "Invasion of Europe," a "World in Action" Film, and the first showing of the "Czech Army in Action".

Exhibit B-6, furnished March 24, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ] is a mimeographed letter headed MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, and signed by ALICE HENDRICKSON, Secretary, announcing that the aforementioned films will be shown at the Pabst Theatre March 24 through 26.

b7D

Exhibits M-8 and M-9, furnished April 9, 1944, by Confidential Informant [ ] are duplicates of Exhibits B-5 and B-6.

On March 26, 1944 Special Agents WESLEY P. GLENNE, FRANK M. FUDALI, and the writer, attended the evening showing of "Led From Our Town", and "Leningrad Music Hall", at the Pabst Theatre. It was noted that the theatre was filled on this occasion. The only person identified by Agents was ALICE HENDRICKSON, who sold literature from a stand in the lobby of the theatre.

Confidential Informant [ ] on April 27, 1944, furnished Exhibit B-7, which is a flier announcing that the film "Three Russian Girls" will be shown at the Pabst Theatre for a full week starting April 19, 1944. As an added attraction the "World in Action" film "Russia's Foreign Policy" is announced.

b7D

Exhibit M-10, furnished April 30, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ], is a mimeographed letter on the letter-head of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL, signed by ALICE HENDRICKSON, Executive Director. This letter announces that the films "Three Russian Girls", and "Russia's Foreign Policy" will be shown for one week at the Pabst Theatre, starting April 19. The letter stated "because it is important that Hollywood be encouraged to continue making such progressive films, we want to make this program a major success. We need your help and ask your support. We enclose a small number of tickets, which we hope you will oversubscribe." Enclosed with the letter were ten tickets to these movies which have been delivered to this office by the Informant, and have been marked Exhibits M-10-A, M-10-B, M-10-C, M-10-D, M-10-E, M-10-F, M-10-G, M-10-H, M-10-I, M-10-J. Also enclosed with this letter was a duplicate of Exhibit B-7, and a special flier on the film "Russia's Foreign Policy", which has been marked Exhibit M-11.

On May 6, 1944 the writer attended the showing of "Ukraine in Flames", and "Tanka", at the Pabst Theatre, both of which were distributed by Artkino. Also shown was a short entitled "No Exceptions", made by Twentieth Century Fox, under the auspices of the War Council of the Motion Picture Industry. It was noted that on this occasion the lower floor of the theatre was only a little over half full, an estimated 300 persons having been present. Literature on this occasion was sold at the stand in the lobby by an unidentified girl of the following description:

Age:	28
Height:	5' 4"
Weight:	115
Hair:	Dark Brown, nearly black
Eyes:	Brown
Build:	Slender
Complexion:	Medium sallow, small mark on right chin

Exhibit M-12 is a flier obtained by Special Agent GEROULD R. FITZGERALD at the SIR BERNARD PARES RALLY, announcing the schedule of Russian movies to be shown at the Pabst. The flier is mainly concerned with advertising the first picture, "We Will Come Back", which was shown February 12 and 13, 1944.

IV. Red Army Day

The Milwaukee Journal for February 23, 1944 carried an article captioned "Milwaukee Unit sends Telegram To Soviet Army". This article sets forth that the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP on February 23 sent a telegram to the Red Army, offering congratulations on its 26th anniversary. The message is quoted as saying "The people of Milwaukee are thrilled and inspired by the tremendous victories won on all fronts by the Red Army, and look forward to victory in 1944 through the joint efforts of Anglo-American and Red Armies." The article also announces that the Red Army Anniversary and the birthday of George Washington will be celebrated in connection with the opening of the documentary film "The City That Stopped Hitler", at the Pabst Theatre. The article announces that DR. WILLIAM CARD, Executive Director of the CHICAGO COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, will speak on "American and Russian Relations in 1776 and Today", and that greetings will be expressed by Mayor BOHN.

Confidential Informant   advised that on February 24, 1944 JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND telephoned to DELORNE BURZGANSKI, who is the stenographer at the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL offices, and told her to get 100 fliers concerning the celebration of Red Army Day at the Pabst Theatre to a meeting of the MIDLAND COOPERATIVE CONFERENCE which was then being held in Milwaukee at the Pfister

Hotel. Further information concerning the celebration at the Pabst has already been reported, in section 3-B of this report, in connection with the showing of the film "The City That Stopped Hitler - Heroic Stalingrad".

V. Literature

On December 31, 1943 JOSEPH T. KLUGHESKY, Chief of Police of the Milwaukee Police Department, furnished this office with a report of an interview had by Acting Detective ADRIAN MERSHOW with ALICE HENDRICKSON at the office of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL, in connection with her being on probation as a consequence of her arrest. On this occasion, the report states, when the investigator got up to leave the office MRS. HENDRICKSON accompanied him from her office into the large reading room - - -. She indicated certain books which she had previously mentioned as being good books for one to read. Among these were "Mission to Moscow", and "We're in This With the Russians". She pointed to the book "The Land Of The Soviets", saying "this is a wonderful book for children to read". There were stacks of literature about Russia, and on one table there were about 500 copies of the Constitution of the U.S.S.R. She offered the investigator a copy, and the officer accepted. She was asked whether or not she ever lends any of the books, and she replied that it is a lending library, and the investigator could borrow any of the books there - - -.

Exhibit M-13 is an order blank directed to the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP with spaces provided for the ordering of copies of the Constitution of the U.S.S.R. Above the Order Blank is contained advertising material for this literature. This exhibit was obtained by Special Agent GEROULD R. FITZGERALD at the SIR BERNARD PARES RALLY February 10, 1944.

Exhibit M-14, furnished January 19, 1944 by Confidential Informant [ ] consists of four mimeographed sheets. It starts: "The American Council of Soviet Relations, 211 E. Wisconsin Avenue, is building up a library on Russian affairs so that its members may avail themselves of the opportunity to gain an intelligent understanding of our Soviet allies." There follows a list of seven pamphlets. The outline continues that "in addition to the Council pamphlets, bulletins from the Soviet Embassy and from the American Russian Institute are received regularly at our office." It states that also on reference are numbers of additional information pamphlets, and reprints of popular magazine articles. The pamphlet "U.S.S.R. at War, 50 Questions, 50 Answers", published by the AMERICAN RUSSIAN INSTITUTE is recommended. The Constitution of the U.S.S.R., and "Soviet Russia Today", a monthly magazine, on Russian theories, are listed as being obtainable at the Council Offices. There follows a list of 24 books under the following general headings: Basic General Information, Soviet Foreign Policy, Soviet People At War. The outline continues with "Notes on Books about the U.S.S.R." in which the following are discussed: "Secret of Soviet Power", "Soviet Communism: A New Civilization", "The Truth About Soviet Russia", "Russia's Fighting Forces", and "The Great Offensive".

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on December 15, 1943 ALICE HENDRICKSON telephoned the WISCONSIN STATE CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL LEGISLATION and stated that she wanted 100 copies of the "Secret of Soviet Strength". The Informant reported that NADA HENDSON, Communist Party member who was at that time assisting in the office work of the W.S.C.S.L., suggested that ALICE get someone from the Peoples' Book Shop, local Communist Party literature outlet, to bring these copies to the office of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL.

b7D

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that he was present on December 17, 1943 when ESTHER KISENSCHER, stenographer at the Headquarters of the Communist Party, District 18, told JOE SCHECTMAN, who works at the Peoples' Book Shop, to drop off a box of the "Secret of Soviet Strength" for ALICE HENDRICKSON at the COUNCIL Offices.

Confidential Informant 3-2 advised that on or about January 15, 1944 the Peoples' Book Shop received a check in the sum of $17.43 from the COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

As an indication of the use to which the Party puts the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL, Confidential Informant [ ] advised that on March 3, 1944 JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND telephoned DELORES BURZANSKI at the COUNCIL Offices, asking for two copies of a leaflet giving all Fascist atrocities listed in the "Moscow Conference". NORDSTRAND wanted this material for an article she had to write.

b7D

As has been noted above, Special Agents WESLEY P. GLENN, FRANK M. FUDALI, and the writer, identified ALICE HENDRICKSON selling literature at the Pabst Theatre in connection with the movies being shown March 26. It was noted that the Constitution of the U.S.S.R., pamphlets on Russian Art, Dancing, and Literature, and the novel "Rainbow" were featured most prominently.

On the occasion of the writer's visit to the Pabst Theatre on May 6, 1944 the unidentified girl above described who was in charge of the literature stand stressed literature showing that the Soviet Union had successfully brought together the various nationalities which make it up into one united country. The girl featured especially a 10¢ pamphlet entitled "A Family of Nations, The Soviet Union", a publication of the nationalities division of the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INCORPORATED. The sales girl advised the writer that this pamphlet epitomized all the other literature on the table. A copy of this pamphlet was obtained and is being marked Exhibit M-15.

VI. Miscellaneous

Exhibit M-16 is a mimeographed letter on the letter-head of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL, furnished December 29, 1943 by Confidential Informant [ ]. This letter is in the nature of a Christmas greeting which calls attention to the fact that the Moscow, Cairo and Teheran Conferences have built a firm foundation for early victory, the establishment of an enduring peace, and a world where the four freedoms are realized. The letter is signed by the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

b7D

On February 10, 1944 in its letters to the editor column the Milwaukee Journal published a letter from MRS. CARL SCHLAEFFER, congratulating the Journal on the "sanity of your editorials concerning Russia". The letter states "This statement has been needed desperately in this community where several newspapers are widely read that carry the impression we are at war with Russia. These papers must give great comfort to Hitler and the Fascist cause". MRS. CARL SCHLAEFFER is believed to be identical with HELEN S. SCHLAEFFER, one of the Executive Board of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL.

Confidential Informant [ ] advised that he was present at the W.S.C.S.L. offices on December 6, 1943, when ALICE HENDRICKSON and JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND discussed an educational program which HENDRICKSON was supposed to inaugurate through the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. This program was to be based on a discussion of the Moscow Conference, and was to show why Russia should get Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia. The Informant advised that NORDSTRAND and HENDRICKSON arrived at no conclusion concerning this program. On this occasion the Informant stated HENDRICKSON also discussed with NORDSTRAND the political development of MR. F. W. GOLDSMITH, who, it will be recalled, is one of the incorporators of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL. HENDRICKSON stated that both GOLDSMITH and his wife helped with the COUNCIL's work. NORDSTRAND considered GOLDSMITH's remark that HERBERT HOOVER is a Fifth Columnist as an indication of GOLDSMITH's development.

On December 20, 1943 Confidential Informant [ ] advised that ALICE HENDRICKSON had requested JOSEPHINE NORDSTRAND to go over a letter with her asking people to join in sponsoring the work of the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL. The Informant advised that on February 16, 1944 NORDSTRAND had told him that one YOLANDA MAJKOWSKI was going to introduce a red baiting resolution at a united nations committee meeting to expel the MILWAUKEE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP from that Committee. NORDSTRAND commented that HENDRICKSON was a little worried about this.

B. Activities outside of Milwaukee

By letter dated February 23, 1944 the New York Field Division advised that a radio program was being planned for the celebration of Red Army Day under the auspices of the MADISON COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP. The CAPITOL TIMES, Madison newspaper, for April 30, 1944, and the DAILY CARDINAL, University of Wisconsin student paper for May 2, 1944 carried identical articles announcing that LIEUTENANT COMMANDER CHARLES S. SEELY, U. S. Navy, retired, would be the principal speaker at a meeting of the MADISON COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP at 8:00 P.M. May 6 at the auditorium of the Unitarian Church in Madison. The articles state that SEELY will review his most recent book, "Russia and Her Battle For Liberation". The articles further state that as part of the program first prize winners in the essay contest recently conducted by the Council in Madison High Schools, will receive a War Bond, and that recent popular books on the U.S.S.R. will go to other prize winners. Both articles set forth a list of the sponsors of the MADISON COUNCIL. Inasmuch as these have already been reported, they are not being repeated here.

THE CAPITOL TIMES for May 8, 1944 reported that the proposed meeting was held, and that approximately 45 persons were in attendance. The following pertinent portions of SEELY's address as reported by the TIMES are set forth:

"Friendly relations with Russia are necessary for peace as well as victory - - -. It cannot be emphasized too strongly or too often that a strong Russia presents no danger to American democracy. The contrary is true. That is, a strong Russia not only will help keep the world at peace, but will also provide a market for our goods, and we must have such a market - - -. After the Hitler system moves down we should withdraw our forces and go about our business of defeating Japan. Lets let Europe take its course".

SEELY continued explaining that he was speaking as a private citizen, and stating that he had visited Russia. He continued:

"Since it is clear that the war in Europe was caused by a desire of certain well-entrenched interests to prevent the spread of the Russian Social and Economic System, it is obvious that Europe's troubles will not end when Hitler is put down. This is where the Council for American-Soviet Friendship comes in. We must do our very best to prevent a misunderstanding between Russia and the United States from developing. I feel certain that if enough Americans know the truth about Russia no trouble will develop between Russia and the United States. - - -. We must convince enough Americans that even if the Red Flag goes up in Rumania we must not get excited about it".

The article states that SEELY was introduced by EDWARD M. DOAN, Acting Chairman of the MADISON COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, who presented prizes to winners in the essay contest recently conducted by the Council in local High Schools.

Confidential Informant [ ] on December 31, 1943, advised that he had seen a letter dated November 19, 1943 from ERNIE KOSKI, Communist Party Branch Organizer at Phelps, Wisconsin, to NED SPARKS, stating that he was enclosing a clipping announcing the meeting of the "AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP", which was being held at Phelps the following Sunday. KOSKI asked that this clipping be shown to ALICE (presumably HENDRICKSON).

b7D

By letter dated April 21, 1944 the Chicago Field Division advised that Confidential Informant [ ] advised that Russian films obtained through the International Workers Order Office in Chicago, were to be shown at the State Teachers College, believed by the Informant to be at Whitewater, Wisconsin, between the dates of April 17, 1944 and April 27, 1944.

According to the Informant, in connection with this showing there was to be a Russian Festivity sponsored by the CHICAGO COUNCIL FOR AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP.

Sir Bernard Pares

SIR BERNARD PARES has made a lifetime study of the Slavic peoples, their languages, histories and national rights. Today, when Russia's place among the United Nations calls for expert understanding he is looked to as the world's greatest authority on the subject.

Sir Bernard first became interested in the Russians in his student days in Trinity College, at Cambridge University. In 1890 the "Russian Bear" was viewed by politicians in England as a menace to the peace of Europe. Travelers, traders and seamen, however, who went to Russia brought back tales of the Russian people as vigorous, friendly and interesting. Sir Bernard decided to visit Russia and find out the truth for himself.

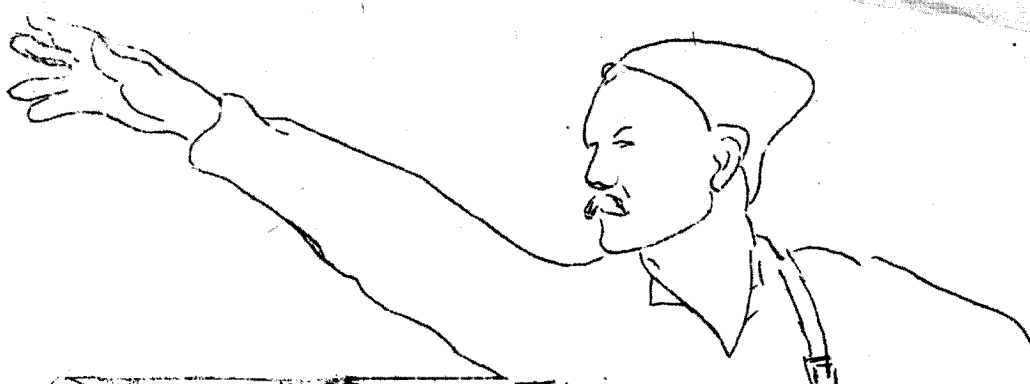

Now, for 50 years, he has been "finding out", living among the peoples of Russia, Poland and other Slavic countries, speaking their languages, taking part in their political disputes and witnessing their wars. In 1906 he was an observer and honorary usher in the Russian duma when that parliamentary body first assembled. He intimately knew Roman Dmowski, Poland's most brilliant diplomat before the first World War, and Pilsudski. In trying in that day to settle the border dispute between Poland and Russia he brought a delegation of Polish and Russian leaders to England to confer with the king. Later Sir Bernard instituted the first Polish courses of study in England, and edited the Russian Review. He is now one of the editors of the Slavonic Review.

In 1914 Sir Bernard was appointed by Sir Edward Grey as the official war correspondent on the Russian front, traveling everywhere with the third Russian army until 1917.

Sir Bernard was the director of the School of Slavonic and East European Studies in the University of London from 1922 to 1939. Prior to that he was professor of Russian History, Language and Literature, University of Liverpool. He was attached to the British ambassador in Petrograd in 1917. At present Sir Bernard is conducting a lecture course at the University of Wisconsin at Madison on Russia's history and her status in the post war world. Last year he gave similar courses at Cornell University.

As an author and historian, Sir Bernard has long been known to American. Among his publications are: "Russia and Reform", 1907; Chapters on Russia in the Cambridge Modern History, 1910; "Day by Day with the Russian Army", 1915; "A History of Russia", 1926; "My Russian Memoirs", 1931; "Moscow Admits a Critic", 1936; "The Fall of Russian Monarchy", 1939 and "Russia", 1940. The latter has been reissued (1943) in the popular 25c Penguin series.

Sir Bernard is a finished lecturer of wide experience. During his radio appearance recently on the Town Meeting of the Air he showed deft ability at handling questions from his audience. He considers himself first of all a student, has entered into student life at Madison and says that the professor should always remain the student. He married in 1901 and has five children, the initials of whose first names spell P-A-R-E-S.

The Milwaukee Council of American-Soviet Friendship presents --

- c h a p a y e v -

Third of its series of Russian Film Classics this coming Sunday, December 19th at 8:00 P.M. at the Council Assembly Rooms, 221 E. Wisconsin Avenue.

"CHAPAYEV" is an outstanding early Soviet Film. It is the story of the heroic leader, Chapayev, of the Red Army. It is an historical account of the early crisis period of the Soviet Union, the period of intervention and counter-revolution of the white armies of 1919.

If the shabby, badly equipped soldiers of the early Red Army had not won out, Russia would have been cut to pieces. Germany and Poland wanted the Ukraine; Japan - Siberia; Finland - the Leningrad area and the other intervening states wanted territory and control over resources. What this would have meant to the present United Nations today we leave to your imagination.

This is the story of a Soviet hero and the beginning of the Red Army -- so beautifully filmed that it is in permanent film libraries of the world and is shown repeatedly in film festivals. It is a MUST for all students of modern history and lovers of fine films. For all those who admire and marvel at the strength and courage of the Red Army it is an illuminating document.

As a special feature, we will show a one-reel short on the building of Magnitogorsk and Stalinsk in the great industrial Ural area. This is a magnificent story of the industrial development of Russia and is part of our permanent film library which is available for community use. We especially invite program chairmen to be present.

We are proud to present these films and invite you to come and bring your friends.

Lenin in October

Directed by Mickhail Romn
Starring Boris V. Shchukin
SUNDAY - JANUARY 2, 1944
8:00 P.M.

****

This is the biographical film of the "Father of Modern Russia" - Lenin. It is the first picture ever made about Lenin as a character, and one of the most popular films ever released by the Soviet studios. It was awarded the highest Soviet honor, the Order of Lenin. In the role of Lenin, Boris V. Shchukin, one of the greatest actors of the country, scores the greatest triumph of his distinguished career.

"Good history, good biography, and above all, good cinema."

NEW YORK TIMES

"Seldom, if ever, have the Russians given us a film at once as human, lovable, and exciting as their memorable "Lenin in October."

NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM

In its special issue on the U.S.S.R. of March 29, 1943 LIFE says -

"Lenin was that rarest of men, an absolutely unselfconscious and unselfish man who had a passionate respect for ideas, but even more respect for deeds. He had mastered the trick of complete concentration. He had a fantastic capacity for work and was scrupulous and thorough about the smallest, as well as the biggest, duties of his life. He was a normal, well-balanced man who was dedicated to rescuing 140,000,000 people from a brutal and incompetent tyranny. He did what he set out to do.....and gave the world the biggest new political fact of our era, the federal Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

This is the first of a series of the famous "Maxim" pictures of the adventures of a youth in the Russian revolutionary movement from 1905 to 1917. "THE YOUTH OF MAXIM" has, as the New York Times wrote, "All the brilliant qualities of the Soviet screen at its best." A splendid drama with a tender love story, the film is further distinguished by the musical score written by Dimitri Shostakovich, one of the Big Five in modern music. Fast, amusing, fascinating, "THE YOUTH OF MAXIM" is a must for all who want to understand the building of the new Soviet Union.

"Stirring, vivid . . . terrific drama . . . a very notable contribution to the cinema."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

"Has the power and greatness of simplicity . . . As Maxim, Boris Chirkov is nothing short of superb."

Dear Friend:

Our Council is again proud to present to the Milwaukee public a double-feature bill - the new Russian film, "LAD FROM OUR TOWN" and "LENINGRAD MUSIC HALL", March 24, 25, and 26 at the Pabst Theatre.

"LAD FROM OUR TOWN", based on a play by the famous Russian playwright, Konstantin Simonov, now war correspondent for the North American Newspaper Alliance, is a beautiful wartime romance and musical drama which deals with the twin emotions of love and friendship, showing how both of these relationships are intensified by the ordeal of battle. The song, "Wait for Me" written by Simonov, is featured in this film, and suggests thoughts of home and of loved ones, just as strictly G.I. in the Red Army as they are in our own.

For brilliant entertainment, we wish to call your attention to our second feature, "LENINGRAD MUSIC HALL" with Russia's most famous stars of song, dance and music, starring Sergei Lemeshhev, called the "Greatest Tenor since Caruso" and featuring the world famous Leningrad Ballet. Music of Tschaikowsky, Beethoven, and Verdi provides a rare treat to music lovers.

Besides the above mentioned, we are showing the powerful World in Action shorts "Invasion of Europe" and "Czech Army in Action."

Film runs continuously from 1:00 to 11:00 P.M. on Friday and Saturday and from 5:00 to 11:00 P.M. Sunday. Price of admission is 65¢ including tax. A special students admission ticket of 35¢ including tax is available at our office to both high school and music students.

We invite you and your friends to enjoy exceptionally fine music, drama and entertainment, this coming weekend.

Sincerely yours

Alice Hendrickson, Sec'y

DETAILS:

BRIDGEPORT ACTIVITIES

The following information concerning subject organization was received from confidential informant [redacted]. This informant advised that RUTH KENNELL, member of the Professional Branch of the CP at Bridgeport, is very active in the local chapter of subject organization. RUTH KENNELL told this informant that HOWARD HAAG, the Executive Secretary of the YMCA, at Bridgeport was instrumental in procuring Professor VLADIMIR KAZKEVITCH to give a series of lectures on Russian History in Bridgeport. She also stated that HAAG plans to start a Russian language course at the YMCA and that Mrs. GITA MATZKEVITCH, office secretary of RWR, teaches the Russian language at the Bridgeport Junior College. Mrs. Matzkevitch is a reported member of the Professional Branch of the CP at Bridgeport.

This informant advised that the local chapter at Bridgeport continues to work "hand in hand" with RWR. At a meeting of RWR on 2/27/44 at the Klein Memorial Hall, Bridgeport, XENIA ORLOFF, reported member of the CP at Bridgeport, had a literature table at which pamphlets on a Russian course were distributed. A copy of the pamphlets was sent to Miss WHITE of the national office of Russian War Relief.

FRANK KENNELL, member of the Professional Branch of the CP at Bridgeport, advised [ ] that the Bridgeport Council should urge the nomination of JASPAR McLEVY, Bridgeport Socialist Mayor for Governor of Connecticut on the Democratic Party ticket and that ODELL SHEPARD and Mrs. CHASE G. WOODHOUSE of the Bridgeport Council should propose this to the Mayor. KENNELL also discussed this with ARTHUR WEISS, Attorney and reported member of the Professional Branch of the CP at Bridgeport, but Weiss doubted the propriety of subject organization's sponsoring such a proposal.

b7D

KENNELL told [ ] that he had received an outline study "The Soviet Union Today" from the National Council and that it would be good material for a Russian History course. KENNELL gave this material to a Mr. OGLE who is also active in the local chapter at Bridgeport.

Mrs. GITA MATZKEVITCH advised this informant that RWR held meetings every Monday night at the headquarters, 59 Cannon Street, but that their meetings were temporarily dispensed with so that the members of RWR could attend the lectures of Professor VLADIMIR KAZKEVITCH.

On April 1, 1944 confidential informant [ ] was at the office of Mr. W. PARKER SEELEY who is the Executive Secretary of the Bridgeport chapter of subject organization at which time FRANK KENNELL was also present. KENNELL informed SEELEY that his wife RUTH KENNELL was returning to Bridgeport from a visit to Texas and would resume her activity in the Council. SEELEY stated that he had much material on the national council for her to be used in connection with Russian Book Week. SEELEY also stated he would distribute some of this literature to XENIA ORLOFF who is also active in the Bridgeport local chapter. SEELEY also had many Russian pictures and articles that he wanted RUTH KENNELL and others in the council to distribute throughout the city. In this connection SEELEY stressed that public libraries, schools, clubs etc. should be contacted in connection with this material he had for Russian Book Week.

FRANK KENNEL indicated on 4/9/44 to the informant that he, LEIGH DANNENBERG, and W. PARKER SEELEY may be interested in formulating the so-called Springfield Plan in Bridgeport. The purpose should be the propagation of ideas combating the growth of anti-Semitism and race prejudice. He also indicated that he may solicit the help of subject organization in putting this plan into effect.

On April 10, 1944 [ ] advised that while he was at the office of W. PARKER SEELEY, RUTH KENNEL appeared there, at which time SEELEY stated that he had been keeping all the material for the Council which he had received through the mail at his office since he had become secretary. SEELEY stated that he was unable to do all the work himself, as he was too busy otherwise and needed someone else to distribute the material which he had to the various schools at Bridgeport. Mrs. KENNEL stated that most of the members at Bridgeport were members in name only and when it came to doing any work, they failed to show an interest. She further stated that most of the workers are concentrating their activity more in RWR and do not have time to devote to the national council nor to assist SEELEY. RUTH KENNEL indicated that she was interested in getting the material distributed and would bring this point up at the next meeting of the council. RUTH KENNEL indicated that she would attend the lecture by Professor VLADIMIR KAZKEVITCH held on this date at the YMCA and that the topic of his lecture this night would be "Where Do We Go From Here?" SEELEY stated that he would not be able to attend all the lectures but thought that they had been well received. He stated that there were at least 40 or 50 in attendance at each meeting. Mrs. KENNEL stated that she was in favor of the YMCA's undertaking a Russian language course and that this language course would be a good follow-up on Katzkevitch's lectures. Mrs. Kennel stated that she did not believe they could do much on the Russian Book Week from May 1 to May 6th but that there would be a large United Nations exhibit soon at Read's Department store in Bridgeport. Included among this exhibit was much material concerning the Soviet Union. KENNEL & SEELEY discussed the fact that they should get more members into this organization and also to stimulate more interest in the community in the activities of the subject organization.

On April 14, 1944 RUTH KENNEL informed W. PARKER SEELEY that she was finishing a book which she had written entitled "Factory Train to Soviet Asia." In the course of the conversation, she also stated that she intended to attend the "Salute to Russia" program on 4/24/44 and that she would like to obtain from SEELEY a list of Russian literature which she was contemplating distributing at this meeting. She stated particularly that she would like to get "A General Information Handbook on the Soviet Union" and another pamphlet written by CARLOS LAMONT. KENNEL indicated that one Madam HAWES was interested in the local council and may possibly become active therein.

[ ] stated that ROSE FLEISCHER, member of the professional branch of the CP at Bridgeport, had informed him that the pamphlet "Soviet Constitution" would be a good article to distribute at the "Salute to Russia" meeting. ROSE FLEISCHER stated that she would bring some copies to this meeting and distribute them there. [ ] stated that while he was at the home of RUTH KENNEL on April 17, 1944 he engaged in a conversation with Mrs. Kennell and XENIA ORLOFF concerning the NCASF which both Kennell and Orloff consider more important than RWR. Kennell stated that the Bridgeport Council is now affiliated with the national council at New York.

b7D

RUTH KENNEL indicated that she wanted XENIA ORLOFF to take complete charge of the Bridgeport Council and ORLOFF expressed a desire to devote full time to the Council's work and stated that she would accept $20 per week in payment for her services. RUTH stated that the approval for an office and payment of a worker would have to go through LEIGH DANNENBERG's office, although W. PARKER SEELEY had indicated his approval of such a worker. They both agreed that the important thing at the present time was to open channels through which "the wonderful literature" could be distributed.

RUTH KENNEL thinks that the Council can obtain funds to pay a full-time worker through W. PARKER SEELEY and LEIGH DANNENBERG. They further discussed the Council's strong aggressiveness and RUTH stated that she could not understand the conflict between the Bridgeport Council and RWR in that the Council is political and should direct RWR's activities. XENIA ORLOFF stated that she was going to New York on April 18, 1944 and would stop at the Council's office to get copies of "Land of the Soviets" by STEWART which RUTH KENNEL stated was very "unpropaganda" in its approach.

On 4/18/44 informant stated that he had contacted RUTH KENNEL who advised that one Mr. PITT, a representative from a New York film company had asked RUTH whom he should see regarding the film "No Greater Love" and he also wanted to know if there was a local council of the American-Soviet Friendship which might sponsor this film. RUTH asked [ ] if he did not agree that the following whose names she had given to Mr. PITT were the most logical ones to contact for showing this film:

b7D

100-1904

LEIGH DANNENBERG, chairman, NCASF;
LEO MILLER, movie editor, Bridgeport Sunday Herald; HENRY JOHNSON, member of the CP at Bridgeport and organizer for the CIO;
NEIL MCGILLICUDDY, member of the CP at Bridgeport and
organizer for the CIO;
JACOB FOX, manager, Steel Drum Company, President
Jewish IWO;
PETER HARDY, secretary of the Polish IWO and active in the PWR.

On May 4, 1944 confidential informant T-1 advised Special Agent RICHARD M. McMAHON that he had attended the lectures given by Professor VLADIMIR KAZKEVITCH at Bridgeport and he stated that the subject matter of the lectures was presented in an interesting and accurate fashion. He described Professor Kazkevitch as a very subtle Russian propagandist and stated although the professor never once advocated Communism, his lectures were presented in such a manner as to indicate that he believed in Communism. T-1 pointed out that Professor Kazkevitch stressed the serious evils that existed in Russia prior to the revolution and that the trend of his lectures was that socialism under a Communist form of Government was the only type of Government and economic philosophy that could bring Russia away from the evil conditions which existed there prior to the revolution. T-1 stated that at no time during the lectures did Professor Kazkevitch make any derogatory remarks concerning the Communist form of Government or concerning Joseph Stalin. T-1 indicated that although the lectures were historically accurate, he considered them Communist propaganda, because none of the evils of Communism was discussed. T-1 advised that he believed a number of members of the Communist Party in Bridgeport attended these lectures. He stated that on April 24, 1944 a tea was held at the Bridgeport YMCA under the auspices of the Bridgeport branch of the National Council in honor of the completion of these lectures. T-1 stated that Mrs. RUTH KENNEL was hostess at this tea and that XENIA ORLOFF and GITA MATZKEVITCH were also hostesses. T-1 stated that in his opinion all of the above-mentioned women were members of the CP or CP sympathizers.

[ ] stated that XENIA ORLOFF had informed him that she had received word from Professor Kazkevitch that he was bringing Miss EVE BUDD, national field director of subject organization, to the meeting on 4/24/44 and that she had suggested a council luncheon on 4/25/44. Miss Budd also advised SEELEY by letter that the Council would hold a meeting the following Tuesday.

b7D

RUTH KENNEL indicated her approval of this Council meeting following the tea and stated that she thought Miss BUDD wanted to give the Executive Committee of the Council a "pep talk" and to discuss the future program of the Council at Bridgeport. KENNEL also stated that Miss Budd favored hiring a full-time organizer and that was the only way the Council could really get things done. This informant pointed out that RUTH KENNEL is responsible for newspaper publicity given to the council in that she writes up all the articles, but Mrs. Kennell strongly objects to the use of her name in connection with FWR and the Council.

At the "Salute to Russia" meeting on 4/24/44 ROSE FLEISCHER and RUTH KENNEL arranged for the literature table and subsequently handled the distribution of various Russian literature at this meeting. LEIGH DANNENBERG and W. PARKER SEELEY also brought literature to this meeting. At the literature table there was a sign stating that all literature could be obtained at FWR headquarters, 59 Cannon Street, Bridgeport. The money for this affair was taken out of the collection for Professor Kazkevitch's lectures, the charge being two dollars per person to attend those lectures.

Following the tea on 4/25/44 RUTH KENNEL advised [ ] that sixty were present and that it was not as successful as it might have been because KAZKEVITCH talked too much and the Council did not get a chance to get in their "licks" as they had intended and which the meeting was really intended for.

b7D

A clipping from the Bridgeport "Sunday Herald" dated 4/30/44 captioned "Eva Budd is Highlight of Salute to Russia Program" reflects that EVA BUDD of the American-Soviet Friendship highly praised the local chapter for its work in connection with the Russian lectures given at the YMCA. Miss Budd said that the recent lectures sponsored by the Bridgeport Council form an excellent start to the work of promoting American-Soviet relations. This article set out the officials of subject organization as follows:

LEIGH DANNENBERG, chairman;
HOWARD L. HAAG, Vice chairman;
W. PARKER SEELEY, executive secretary;
JOHN SHENTON, treasurer.

Following the program tea was served by Mrs. RUTH KENNEL, Mrs. BENJAMIN HART, Miss XENIA ORLOFF, Mrs. GITA MATZKEVITCH and Mrs. LILLIAN LEFFER. This article also showed a picture of EVE BUDD along with others in attendance at this meeting.

100-1904

An article from the "Bridgeport Telegram" dated 4/30/44 setting out the facts of the above-mentioned meeting reflects that in addition to those named as being in attendance were Mrs. LUTHER HEIDGER, Dr. EUGENE KALMAN..

Another clipping from the Bridgeport Herald dated 4/30/44 captioned "Russian Books to be Exhibited at Library" reflects that the Bridgeport Council of American-Soviet Friendship in observance of Russian Book Week, May 1-6, will place on exhibit at the Burroughs Public Library several Soviet books. Included in the exhibit are a number of photographs of libraries in the Soviet Union, including the Lenin State Library in Moscow, the largest library in the world. Photographs of the subway libraries which furnish reading material to citizens in bomb shelters during air raids also will be on exhibit.

[ ] stated that ALEXIS ZAVERUHA, President of the Russian IWO Lodge and reported CP member at Bridgeport, had asked him and RUTH KENNEL about the showing of the picture "No Greater Love Than This" at the IWO Lodge meeting. RUTH KENNEL stated that she would like to see LEIGH DANNENBERG but her opinion was that it would be better to show the picture for the June 22 celebration of the Invasion of Russia.

b7D

On 4/30/44 DANNENBERG expressed his disapproval to [ ] of showing of the movie and stated that Russian films must be spaced to be effective and that all the resources of the council and RWR should be concentrated on making the June 22 celebration a huge success.

OFFICERS - BRIDGEPORT

The following list of officers of subject organization was obtained from Confidential Informant [ ]

LEIGH DANNENBERG, chairman;
HOWARD L. HAAG, vice chairman;
W. PARKER SEELEY, executive secretary;
JOHN SHENTON, treasurer.

b7D

NEW HAVEN ACTIVITIES

The following information was received from confidential informant [ ] This informant stated that he was at the home of BETTY & BENJAMIN KEEN, members of the Professional Branch of the CP at New Haven on March 7, 1944 when ROSE DWORSKI contacted them relative to a meeting of the New Haven chapter of the NCASF and that ROSE DWORSKI thought that PAUL BLOOM, New Haven City Secretary of the CP should do more work with the Council, but to date he has not done much and no one has taken any initiative. BETTY KEEN said she would attempt to get PAUL BLOOM to attend the Council's meeting on March 13, 1944.

This informant reported on 3/12/44 that BEN KEEN stated that he had not seen PAUL BLOOM relative to the above-mentioned meeting. KEEN said that he had asked DAVID LESTER, member of the Professional Branch of the CP at New Haven about the meeting but that LESTER seemed rather negative about it. KEEN stated that the meeting would be held at his home on March 13, 1944 and stated that Party member LOUIS KOPKO had given him $27 for the New Haven chapter and that he would assist in sending out literature. KEEN stated that ROSE DWORSKI wanted the Council "straightened out", that is, the liquidation of outstanding questions. DAVID LESTER told this informant that he would bring the matter about his contact with New York relative to the film the national council was trying to obtain at this meeting.

On March 22, 1944 ROSE DWORSKI advised [ ] that Miss EVE BUDD had contacted her relative to having two exhibits on the United Nations Exhibit at some local store in New Haven. ROSE stated that the Shartenberg Department store in New Haven had agreed to take the exhibit. DAVID GOLDBERG known member of the CP in New Haven, was assisting ROSE DWORSKI in arranging for this exhibit. BENJAMIN KEEN told this informant on the same date that he would see Party member FRANCES FELDMAN relative to her selling the council's literature.

[ ] reported that ROSE DWORSKI is presently in California and that the New Haven chapter of subject organization had practically ceased its activities since she had left. [ ] stated that ROSE DWORSKI was the main figure in the New Haven chapter.

[ ] advised that the New Haven chapter frequently sends literature to members of RWR and that in sending the literature, the local council uses the RWR mailing list. [ ] advised that FRANCES FELDMAN had informed him that RWR in New Haven is closely affiliated with the National Council but that FELDMAN feels that RWR does not wish this to be known.

b7D

[ ] also reported that the New Haven Chapter formerly had an office in Room 306, 87 Orange Street in New Haven but that no one in the New Haven chapter is employed full-time to work there and that the office is there maintained for the files of the local chapter and for keeping literature, etc.

The following information was obtained by the Washington Field Division from a most highly confidential and reliable source. It is being submitted to you for your information and appropriate consideration. By way of explanation, Basykin is Vladimir Basykin, First Secretary of the Russian Embassy, while Kheifets is Gregory Kheifets, Soviet Vice Consul at San Francisco.

The information was reported as follows:

"Basykin contacted Kheifets, San Francisco, and asked if the material for the catalogue was ready because it is almost time for it to go to the printers. Kheifets said he would not hold it up. Kheifets added he did not receive the material (not identified) which Basykin sent him. Basykin promised to look into this. Basykin said he has received several requests from organizations who asked how they could send printed matter to the USSR. Kheifets suggested the requests be directed to New York as in the past and then be cleared through the San Francisco office. Kheifets added that if need be, the material be directed to his office."

The above took place on May 15, 1944. It is entirely possible that the material referred to by Kheifets and Basykin is that in which the subject organization is interested.

In the event any additional information is developed by you along the lines set out above involving the subject organization, it should, of course, be incorporated in future investigative reports concerning the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship Incorporated.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
INTERNAL SECURITY - R

The following information concerning Dr. William Card of the Chicago branch of the subject organization and a contact made by him with Vladimir Bazykin, First Secretary of the Russian Embassy, has been furnished by the Washington Field Division. It was obtained from a most confidential and reliable source.

On May 24, 1944, Dr. William Card of Chicago asked Bazykin if it had been arranged for Lieutenant General Leonid Rudenko (head of Soviet Purchasing Commission) to come to Chicago on June 21, 1944, to attend a dinner sponsored by the businessmen of Chicago. Bazykin said there was a possibility for Rudenko to take part in an affair sponsored by Russian War Relief in Chicago and if the businessmen's dinner date could be set close to that of the affair of Russian War Relief, then there would be a possibility for Rudenko to attend both affairs. Bazykin promised to send a wire to Card in a day or two.

The foregoing is submitted for your information and appropriate consideration with respect to the subject organization. Any action taken with regard to the foregoing information must, of course, be done in a most discreet manner. In addition, should any of the foregoing information be incorporated in any communication emanating from your office, it should be paraphrased most carefully so that under no circumstances will the identity of the informant be revealed.

Confidential Informant T1 advised that on October 23, 1943 ROSE WORTIS, a member of the New York State Communist Party spoke with SAM BROWN, a member of the Industrial Section of the Communist Party in New York City and advised BROWN that on October 25, 1943 the first meeting of the Meeting Committee of the Bakers who had been transferred to Manhattan would be held. WORTIS advised BROWN that at this meeting he should discuss the Soviet Friendship Congress and to have all the Locals in New York participate. Also, that the secretary of the State Council might send out a letter to all locals saying that their conference is endorsed by WILLIAM GREEN and that all other locals are participating. Further, that they were urged to send delegates from all over the state. (C) (U)

On October 29, 1943 Confidential Informant T2 furnished a booklet published by the American Council on Soviet Relations in 1942 entitled, "The Trade Unions of Our Soviet Ally". The author of this pamphlet is CLIFFORD T. McAVOY, legislative representative of the Greater New York Industrial Union Council, CIO. He was also former vice chairman of the American Council of Soviet Relations. This pamphlet is being retained in the files of the New York Field Division. (U)

Confidential Informant T3 advised that on November 4, 1943 a conference took place between JOHN WILLIAMSON, member of the political and national committees, Communist Party, U.S.A. and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, director of publications, Communist Party, U.S.A. during the course of which they discussed the fact that a sub-committee had been set up to work out a memorandum on the Workers School set up in the Communist Party. The members of this sub-committee were SAM LEVIN, treasurer of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship; HOWARD SELSAN of the School for Democracy and TRACHTENBERG. (C) (U)

Confidential Informant T1 reported that on November 16, 1943 a conference was had by ROSE WORTIS of the New York State headquarters of the Communist Party and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG of International Publishers, Inc. in which they discussed a trade union panel to be instituted in connection with the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, as regards a labor division of this organization. (U) (C)

Confidential Informant A, whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised that on Thursday, November 18, 1943 from 8:30 PM to 11:00 PM the Upper West Side Council of American Soviet Friendship sponsored a program at their headquarters, 201 West 72nd Street, New York City, Room 210, to introduce MISS OLYMPIADA SOKOLOKA-SONIT, Soviet exchange student at Columbia University, who spoke on education in the Soviet Union and DR. TREADWELL SMITH, instructor and traveler, who has spent several years in (C) (U) the Soviet Union and discussed "The Meaning of the Moscow Conference". MISS ROSE NAMY, soprano, sang several Russian ballads. There were approximately three hundred persons in attendance. (u)

TREADWELL SMITH, in a lengthy lecture, made several points, some of which are as follows: (u)

Today the general attitude of Americans towards the Soviet Union is more friendly, the reason for such a change being that "Americans have discovered that the Soviet union is devoted to democracy as much as we ourselves." Friends of the Soviet union must know the truth about the Soviet union, in order that they will not be misled by the distorted facts about the Soviet union found in the news articles. The question of the Polish border and the Russian invasion of Poland was not a deal with Germany to split up Poland. In the summer of 1931, Polish soldiers were given license to rob and burn Ukrainian villages. Russia retaliated but did not cross the Polish border until every Polish authority had left the territory and in face of the Russian army, the Germans retreated. Monopoly in the United States was assailed as the soil from which Fascism grows. It is not believed that the Moscow pact was written in America but that Russia, with its outstanding ability to devise simple methods to meet the needs of the masses, contributed greatly to the formation of the Moscow pact. Two points of significance in the Moscow pact are the freedom of religion in Italy and the punishment of Fascist leaders for their crimes. Freedom of religion is one of the greatest threats to Fascism. At this meeting, also, various pamphlets of the NCASF and the American Russian Institute were distributed. (u)

Confidential Informant T4 advised that on November 25, 1943 a conference took place between EDWIN S. SMITH, executive secretary of the NCASF and ROY HUDSON, secretary of the political committee, Communist Party, U.S.A., and discussed the authority SMITH had from the Steering Committee to employ an assistant who could supervise work and handle publicity. LYLE DOWLING, international representative of United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, CIO, was suggested for the job but because JULIUS EMSPACK, secretary treasurer of the aforementioned CIO union did not recommend him, he was not selected for the job. (C)

Confidential Informant T5 advised that MRS. RITA OAKS (phonetic) of the National Council for American Soviet Friendship of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, contacted MIKHAIL OURAEUSKI, secretary at the Soviet Consulate in New York City, and stated that their council in Philadelphia would have a preview of a picture entitled, "The Battle of Russia" which had been recently released by the government. The preview was scheduled for December 12, 1943 and the Council wished a speaker from the Soviet Consulate to say (S) a few words at the meeting. Six hundred people were expected in attendance, and they hoped to arouse enough interest to begin to spread the truth through the school system. (U) ~~(S)~~

This informant stated that OURAEUSKI advised that ADA TRONOVA, a Soviet student presently in the United States, would probably be sent by the Consulate to speak. (U) ~~(S)~~

The Philadelphia Field Office was advised of this matter by letter from the New York Office dated December 8, 1943. (U) 4)

~~(C)~~ (U) The Bureau, by letter dated November 20, 1943, advised that Confidential Informant T6 had advised that EDWIN SMITH, executive secretary of instant organization, made arrangements with Censorship for the wrapping and ~~selling~~ <sup>recycling</sup> of approximately 15,000 cards destined for the Soviet Union. It is believed that these cards are undoubtedly distributed by the instant organization for persons in this country to fill in with personal greetings and messages for citizens of the Soviet Union. These cards were delivered by the instant organization to the New York Postal Censorship station for pre-censorship and the handling of them was thereafter left in the hands of the New York Postal Censorship station. It was also stated by this informant that SMITH was introduced to Censorship by some member of Congress. It was later reported that SENATOR CLAUDE D. PEPPER of Florida, assisted SMITH in making arrangements with Censorship. (U) 4)

The Newark Field Office, by letter dated November 30, 1943, forwarded to the New York Field Division an envelope obtained by [redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, containing literature of the NCASF which was distributed at the National Convention of the CIO held in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This envelope contained a booklet entitled, "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union" by EDWIN S. SMITH; one registration blank for the Congress of "American-Soviet Friendship" one open letter dated November 1, 1943, over the signature of EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director, written on the stationery of the subject organization and announcing the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship to be held in New York City on November 6th, 7th and 8th, 1943 and a pamphlet entitled, "Call to the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship." (U) ~~(S)~~ b7D

On December 9, 1943 Confidential Informant T3 advised that one GABRETH (phonetic) had a conference with V. J. JEROME, editor of the "Communist" whereat they discussed the American-Soviet Friendship rally to be held on the 19th of December and in which GABRETH requested assistance. (U) ~~(S)~~

In the December 10th issue of the Daily Worker appeared the following:

"POLISH PRIEST TO URGE SOVIET TIE of friendly Polish Soviet relations as essential to enduring world peace at a meeting to be held Sunday, December 19, at 7:30 PM at Town Hall, 123 West 43rd Street, Manhattan. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, will have among its speakers: Professor OSCAR LANGE of the University of Chicago; the Reverend Father S. ORLEMANSKI, famous Polish priest and founder of the Kosciuszki Legions; LEO KRZYCKI, chairman of the Slav Congress; JULIAN YUWIM, prominent Polish poet and CORLISS LAMONT, chairman of the National Council who will preside at the meeting." (u)

The Bureau was advised of this meeting by teletype dated December 11, 1943. (u)

[On December 15, 1943 Confidential Informant T7] advised that two unknown men had a conversation in which they discussed the Russian Polish Friendship group meeting to be held at Town Hall December 19, 1943, in which one man suggested that the National Maritime Union send fifteen strong armed men to the meeting just in case the Polish Fascist groups might try to cause trouble. (u)

On November 27, 1943 Confidential Informant T1 advised that a conference was had between ESTHER POSNER of the NCASF and MAE COLLINS, alias ZIMMERMAN, secretary to GILL GREEN of the New York State headquarters of the Communist Party, relative to the name of the chairman and International Workers Order speaker of a funeral service for JACOB GOLOS, director of the World Tourists, Inc. (C)

On December 7, 1943 Confidential Informant T1 advised that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and TED BAYER of "Soviet Russia Today" discussed the program of the meeting to be held on December 19, 1943 at Town Hall, New York. (C)

On December 10, 1943 Confidential Informant T1 advised that WILLIAM A. BERTSON, formerly of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees AFL, and ROSE WORTIS discussed the possibility of having REBECCA BEHRMAN (phonetic) wife of HERE HARRIS, work for the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. (u)

The New York Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc. announced by mail a theatre party selling tickets to a play to be presented December 25, 1943 at 8:40 PM in the Forrest Theatre, 230 West 49th Street, New York City. The play to be presented is the current Broadway production of "Listen, Professor" with SAMMY DIGGES, which is the American adaptation by PEGGY PHILLIPS of ALEXANDER AFINOGENOV'S "Mashenka". "An American adaptation of a Russian play is being presented on Broadway for the first time in a year. This is an occasion towards which New York theatre goers look with interest. ....The author, ALEXANDER AFTINOGENOV, described by BROOKS ATKINSON as the GEORGE S. KAUFMAN of the Russian Theatre, was killed during the siege of Moscow in an air raid....PEGGY PHILIPS has given the play a sympathetic adaptation. We wish "Listen, Professor" success and hope it will increase the understanding and friendliness of Americans for their Soviet ally. We plan to see it and we hope you will.

[Confidential Informant T8] advised that on the evening of December 19, 1943, a meeting was held under the auspices of the NCASF at Town Hall, New York. The topic was "The truth about Polish-Soviet relations". The speakers were SENATOR JAMES M. TUNNELL of Delaware; Professor OSCAR LANGE, University of Chicago and formerly of the University of Cracow; LEO KRZYCKI, chairman of the American Slav Congress and vice president of the Amalgamated clothing Workers of America; the Reverend STANISLAW ORLIANSKI, Polish Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Virgin, Springfield, Massachusetts and the founder of the Kosciuszki Legion. (u)

SENATOR TUNNELL declared the isolations were hampering the war and that the future of every nation was bound up with the policy of collaboration with the United Nations. (u)

PROFESSOR LANGE stated that American-Soviet and British-Soviet friendship was necessary to safeguard Poland's national independence. Also, that Poland's freedom would be permanent only if granted by an international system of collected security, and that this collected security is dependent upon the alliance of the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and China. (u)

KRZYCKI said there was no road back to Poland of the pre-war days because the Atlantic charter and the declaration adopted at Moscow and Teheran granted the inalienable rights of the people to determine their own destination. He warned against organized propaganda by Polish anti-Soviet and anti-Roosevelt administration forces. (u)

FATHER ORLIANSKI stated that Poland would join hands with Russia to destroy Hitlerism and bring peace and prosperity to the Polish nation for centuries to come. He criticized the Catholic Bishops in Washington DC who indicated they were suspicious of Moscow. (u)

[Confidential Informant T9] reported that at 201 West 72nd Street, New York City, the NCASF held a dinner meeting on the evening of December 19, 1943 at 6:00 PM. The dining room was rented from the American-Russian Committee and two hundred people were present, including CORLISS LAMONT, chairman of the NCASF; WILLIAM GAILMORE, radio commentator, and MOE SHERMAN. The following Communists were present: REGINA WILSON, CHARLOTTE HOENIG and ANNETTE RUBENSTEIN. There were no speeches made except a collection speech made by MOE SHERMAN which resulted in obtaining three hundred dollars. (U)

The general objective of the meeting, according to this informant, was to impress the individuals present that the Council had much work and needed assistance. At about 11:00 PM some two hundred people arrived from the Town Hall meeting previously referred to. (U)

The following entertainment was given: dancing by TANIA TIMASHEVA, E. DRAGAN and JACK O'BRIEN of the Metropolitan Ballet; songs by MARIA FAN FILIPPO of the Metropolitan Opera and Russian character songs by RHEA CORGAT. WALTER HASTINGS gave a reading entitled: "Last Days of Svestapol". (U)

The files of the New York Office were searched for information concerning the Pioneer Negroes of America, Inc. and GEORGE A. WESTON and GEORGE E. WESTON, with negative results. (U)

TITLE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC., formerly known as American Council on Soviet Relations			CHARACTER OF CASE INTERNAL SECURITY - R

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

Local organization for American-Soviet Friendship was organized in Newark, N. J., on 10/20/42. During the period from 7/1/42 to 10/20/42, fifty persons residing in N. J., from the northern boundary to the Trenton area, were contacted and discussions held. Generally reaction was favorable to the Soviet Union, most persons seeing the need for close collaboration and education of the public to achieve that understanding of the Soviet Union leading to such collaboration. Some promised active support; a lesser percentage, passive support. Ends in view were to fight the war to the utter destruction of Fascism; to win and preserve a real peace. The initial task was to provide for a sympathetic understanding of the Soviet Union to be attained through meetings, addressed by speakers who would discuss the Soviet Union, by the sale and distribution of literature on the Soviet Union, and by placing groups in the United States in direct communication with kindred groups in the Soviet Union; for the immediate opening of a Western Front; for severance of diplomatic relations with Hannerheim Finland, Vichy France, and Franco Spain. It was organized in Paterson, N. J., in December, 1942. ABRAHAM WELANKO, an alternate member of the State Committee of the Communist Party, has been the leading worker in the State of New Jersey, and is secretary of the Newark unit. He has made periodic reports to the Communist Party of the State of New Jersey with regard to the progress of the organization. The Party is not satisfied with his work in this organization. Contacts were made with clergymen, teachers, lawyers, doctors, businessmen, a newspaper publisher, and people of all creeds and political beliefs. Tenth anniversary celebrations of American-Soviet Relations were held in Paterson, N. J., on 11/11/43; in New Brunswick, N. J., on 11/16/43; in Camden, N. J., on 11/16/43; in Newark, N. J., on 11/23/43; and in Trenton, N. J., on 12/5/43. Trenton adopted Kiev as its twin city. Literature was sold by the proprietor of the Communist book shop in Newark, N. J. Party members attended the celebrations and a number of Communists are identified with the movement all over the State. The Communist Party has contributed money to the organization.

ORGANIZATION

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on October 8, 1942, folder was issued at Newark, New Jersey, worded as follows: (S) (U)

Dear Friend:

"You are invited to attend a meeting to be held Tuesday, October 20, 1942, at 8:30 p.m. in the Spanish Room of the Hotel Douglas, 15 Hill Street, Newark, N. J.

"The purpose of the meeting is to form an organization to cement the friendly relations now existing between the United States and the Soviet Union to the following ends: (U) (S)

"1. To fight the war to the utter destruction of Fascism as quickly as possible;

"2. To win and preserve a real peace.

"The initial tasks to be undertaken will provide:

"1. For a sympathetic understanding of the Soviet Union, to be attained through meetings addressed by speakers discussing the Soviet Union, for the sale and distribution of literature on the Soviet Union, and by placing groups in the United States in direct communication with kindred groups in the Soviet Union.

- "2. For support of President Roosevelt in the immediate opening at a Western Front in Europe.
- "3. For severance of diplomatic relations with Mannerheim Finland, Vichy France, and Franco Spain.

"Sincerely yours,

"Rev. Chester E. Hodgson
Mrs. Nathaniel L. Foster
Henry A. Schwedes
Mrs. Louis J. Van Orden
Dr. Rabbi Joachim Prinz
Josephine Truslow Adams
Acting Committee

"Abraham Welanko
Acting Secretary."

Confidential Informant T-2 furnished a copy of a report to the League for American-Soviet Friendship, dated October 20, 1942, signed by ABRAHAM WELANKO, which set out the purposes of the organization in the State of New Jersey. The report, a copy of which is being retained in the files of the Newark Field Office, is as follows: (u)

"On November 7th, the Soviet Union will celebrate its 25th birthday. It is interesting to compare briefly the present situation with that of 25 years ago. Then the Soviet Union emerged victorious from its struggle with the corrupt, cruel and decadent Czarist dictatorship. Today, the Soviet Union is engaged in a life and death struggle with another dictatorship--the dictatorship of Fascism. Fascism not only exhibits the revolting characteristics of past tyrannies intensified in form, but spells the loss of liberty for the people, in fact slavery for all but a favored few. Twenty-five years ago the Soviet Union began what was commonly referred to as an experiment in a new economic and political system. Today the results of that experiment are evidenced in the united resistance of the Soviet people to the onslaught of the Fascist invaders. The high morale of the Soviet citizens has been commented upon so often, it would be trite to add to what has already been said so well. Twenty-five years ago the Red Army just beginning to take form, displayed in embryo what in maturity we are witnessing today. Today the Red Army is heroically defending not only the existence of the (u)

Soviet Union, but is standing as a bulwark between the freedom now enjoyed by the peoples of Great Britain and the United States, and the degradation and slavery that would be our lot under a victorious fascism. The Red Army has removed the Blitz from Blitzkrieg and has shattered the myth of Nazi invincibility. It has astounded those honest people, misled by our press and radio, and confounded the bitter, die-hard enemies of the Soviet Union. As Davies pointed out, to recognize the achievements of the Soviet Union does not mean to advocate the adoption of their economic and political systems in our country. I recommend that we here tonight pass a resolution congratulating the Soviet Union on its 25th birthday and commending it on its resistance to the Fascist attack. (S)(u)

"You have been infited to form an organization that will exert its influence to cement the friendly relations now existing between that country and the United States. These relations have been crystallized in the Roosevelt-Molotov Pact of June 11th. The continued maintenance of such friendly relations is indispensable to achieve the utter destruction of fascism, to win and preserve the peace. Our proposed organization can make a valuable contribution towards implementing the Roosevelt-Molotov pact and the subsequent pronouncements of various of our government officials about the peace and the after war period. For over 150 years the interests of our country and the Russia of the Czars and its successor, the Soviet Union, never came into conflict. The Roosevelt-Molotov Pact is an admission that today these interests coincide and especially so for the destruction of Fascism. The proposed organization is necessary to expose the remnants of Munichism, appeasers and adherents of a negotiated peace who now seek to create dis-unity between the Soviet Union and the United States. These forces at various times intimate the Soviet Union is about to conclude a separate peace with Hitler, or warn of the imminent collapse of the Red Army with the consequent capture by the Fascists of our lend-lease shipments to the Soviet Union, by impeding deliveries of lend-lease aid to the Soviet Union, and most important of all, by their obstructive tactics designed to prevent the fulfillment of the Roosevelt-Molotov Pact, and the subsequent Churchill-Roosevelt statement with regard to the opening of a Western Front in Europe in 1942 and a diversion of Nazi military strength from the Soviet Union. (S)(u)

"Today the Red Army fights alone against the bulk of the Nazi army, against Finns, Rumanians, Italians, Hungarians, Slovaks, some divisions composed of the scum of Spain and France. Goering admitted several weeks ago that practically the entire Fascist air-force was concentrated in the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union is pitting its strength against the entire industrial production of all Europe. The fascists again are fighting a one front war with substantial (S)(u) superiority in everything but skill and morale. The danger in this situation is not that the Red Army will collapse but that its offensive strength will be sapped permitting Hitler to divert some 1 and 1/2 million troops to Western Europe and again fight a one front war against British and American troops. Compare the losses our armies may sustain in a present two front war as against a future one front war. (X) (u)

"Let us face the issues frankly. We are fighting to destroy Fascism. We are fighting a People's War which will result in the freedom of those people now enslaved by Fascism and the preservation of the freedom we now enjoy. Unfortunately we can not fight a war to victory unless we actually fight--take the offensive. And in assuming the offensive, losses can not be avoided. And the offensive must concentrate on the core of the strength of the German, Italian, Japanese Axis. That core is to be found in Germany. And in passing, let us disabuse ourselves of the absurd notion that the opening of the Western Front in Europe will help only the Soviet Union. Of course it would help the Soviet Union, but in addition we are helped by preserving the striking power of the Red Army. We are helped when by diverting a 1/2 million or more troops from the Soviet Union to Western Europe, the United Nations can immediately wage a two front offensive, Hitler's nightmare which will ensure the destruction of Fascist military strength in the shortest possible time with the least losses to us. We are helped by encouraging the anti-fascist forces throughout all of Europe to rise up in revolt against their Fascist masters. (X) (u)

"In the light of the foregoing, the following questions naturally arise: (1) is the Soviet Union really the crucial front? (2) is the opening of a Western Front possible now? (3) what forces are delaying it? (4) why are these forces opposed to the opening of a Western Front in Europe? (X) (u)

"As to questions 1 and 2:

On Sept. 2, 1942, Lt. Gen. Stillwell stated, as reported in the N. Y. Times: 'Plenty is boiling, but nothing is decided. All depends on a second front in Europe.' And remember that Gen. Stillwell commands the United Nation's armies fighting Japan in China. (X) (u)

"On Aug. 15, 1942, Lt. Gen. McNaughton told us: '(Allied armies) will have to cross the English channel.' (X) (u)

"On Aug. 13, Maj. Gen. Clark broadcast over the British radio: 'We are here to take the offensive.' (X) (u)

"On Aug. 15, Lt. Gen. Eisenhower warned us 'Time is short.' How much shorter is it now? (X) (u)

"And as to our men in the overseas army, 'Yank', U. S. Army paper in Great Britain asks 'When do we fight?' (u)

"Capt. H. W. Underwood, prof. of Naval Science at the University of Texas, in a recent issue of the University's daily paper said: 'any second front, using whatever force we can muster in 1942, would be of immense value. Even if we lost such a campaign we could still accomplish a threefold purpose: (1) to increase the strain on German resources (2) to bring them to the realization that they again face the thing they most dread, a two front war, and (3) direct aid to Russia by diverting strong German forces away from the Russian front. This would also stop Hitler from taking the offensive in any area outside of Russia.'

"The second front in Europe and the continuous air raids on industrial Germany---are necessary to defeat the U boat campaign in the Atlantic. Here, too, only the offensive can give us victory.' (u)

"Last May and July Gen. Somervell and Donald Nelson, told us supplies were available for a Western Front. On July 2, Churchill disclosed that in 1 year: 950,000 troops were sent to the Near East via the Cape of Good Hope, a trip of 12,000 miles; also 4,500 tanks, 6,500 planes, 100,000 vehicles and 5,000 artillery pieces. Yet some try to tell us how impossible it is to make the 25-75 mile channel trip. c "On June 21, Jas. Reston, in the N. Y. Times, added this fact: 'British alone have enough materials and troops for a full invasion.' (u)

"Kluckhohn, never pro-Soviet, reported in the N. Y. Times of May 27th: 'Shipping for the 2nd front is available.' (u)

"In addition, there are statements to the same effect by Averill Harriman, and Curran, Pres. of the National Maritime Union, whose men sail the ships and many of whom lost their lives so doing. As a last resort, shipping engaged in civilian trade can always be temporarily diverted to the demands necessitated in the opening up of a Western Front. (u)

"At Dunkirk, Great Britain took off 300,000 or more troops. True the equipment was lost. But today an invasion is not a route. The combined might of Great Britain and the United States exercised in unison with the Red Army presents a drastically different picture. Today we rule the air over France and Germany. This was proved before Dieppe and at Dieppe. The Scheduled 9 hour stay at Dieppe also proved the possibility of landing additional troops and equipment. (u)

"Which brings us to questions three and four--what forces are delaying the opening of the second front in Europe and why. They are the same forces who in the past were most responsible for a policy of hostility to or non-cooperation with the Soviet Union. They are the Munichers, appeasers, adherents of a negotiated peace. Some are definitely pro-fascist. They are the Hoovers, Tafts, Wheelers, Coughlins, our own Hartley from the 10th Congressional District, to name only a few individuals. They are the Chicago Tribune, the N. Y. Daily News, the Hearst press, to name only a few newspapers. The entry of the United States into the war with the treacherous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor did not convert these people. For a short time they remained silent or paid lip service to a win the war effort. Today they again are assuming the offensive: witness the emergence of the blatant Silver Charlie with his new League of the Little Flower and slogan: Democracy and Majoritarianism are opposed to Christianity and Authoritarianism. Witness the recent attacks of Coughlinites on a Jewish center in the scrap collection campaign, their attack on a rally selling war bonds, assaults on air-raid wardens in the performance of their duties in the Bronx; read the snide attacks in the appeaser press on our war program - abroad and at home -of insinuations about our allies Great Britain and the Soviet Union, not as constructive criticism, but to breed suspicion and distrust in an effort to create disunity among the United Nations, and also among the people at home. (u)

"What is the significance of these attacks? These forces hate the Soviet Union. They prefer a victorious fascism than a victory over fascism in collaboration with the Soviet Union. Observe what happened to the French people when a similar policy was pursued. Many of these forces are pro-fascist and would not be at all averse to the development of our own brand of fascism. By delaying the opening of the Western Front in Europe they hope for the following developments: the offensive strength of the Red Army destroyed; the fascist armies holding a strong defensive line deep in the Soviet Union enabling them to divert 100-200 divisions to Western Europe. This would mean a one front war for Great Britain and the United States, tremendously costly in men and materials. It would mean a long war, increased privations and sacrifices at home. Such a situation would offer a golden opportunity to the appeasers and adherents of a negotiated peace--a super Munich at the expense of the Soviet Union. If the people of our country are deceived by these tactics, Munich will be repeated but with a direct threat to our own national existence. Such a deal would give Hitler the breathing spell he desperately needs to reorganize his armies, consolidate his gains and replenish his fast diminishing reserves for an all out attack on Great Britain and then in conjunction with Japan, on our own country. The present delay in the opening of the Western Front in Europe means that these dangerous forces still exert a powerful (u) influence. The immediate opening of such a front would administer a decisive defeat to these forces, make the war a real People's war, result in smaller losses and ensure the annihilation of Fascism within the shortest possible time. X(u)

"Labor, speaking through the A.F. of L. and C.I.O. and the R.R. Brotherhoods, has been outspoken in demanding the immediate opening of the Western Front. We, as members of that strata of the population loosely referred to as the middle class, or white collar and professional groups, should likewise pass a resolution tonight supporting the President in an immediate opening of the Western Front. X(u)

"As to Mannerheim Finland, Vichy France and Franco Spain. X(u)

"Mannerheim Finland provides the Fascist armies with soldiers fighting before Moscow and stalingrad. Finland is used as an airplane base for attacks on U. S. convoys to Murmansk, destroying our ships, killing our sailors and preventing lend-lease aid from reaching our ally- the Soviet Union. Finland is occupied and ruled by Hitler's armies. Mannerheim received decorations from Hitler and is called an ally by Hitler. Finland is actually at war with the United Nations. X(u)

"Vichy France is another Hitler puppet. Petain and Laval are his stooges. Vichy France has extolled Hitler's New Order, hopes for a Fascist Victory over the United Nations, including the United States, sends the scum of France into the Fascist armies to fight in the Soviet Union; sends slave labor into Germany to produce for the Fascist armies, and devotes the entire French agricultural and industrial economy to the needs of its Fascist master. Vichy France is actually at war with the United Nations. X(u)

"Franco-Spain is the creation of Hitler and Mussolini. It is ruled by the Gestapo. German and Italian armies are in Spain. Franco is striving to make Spain a part of Hitler's New Order, but is being resisted by those same anti-fascists, who for almost three years magnificently fought against the Fascist armies. Spain is used as a purchasing agent by Hitler, getting much needed supplies from the United States and South America. These supplies are shipped first to Spain and then transhipped to Germany or wherever the Fascist bosses direct. Her ports and islands are available as submarine bases whenever Hitler decides to use them. Spanish divisions are fighting in the Soviet Union. And whenever Hitler so decides, Franco will participate more openly in the war. Franco-Spain is actually at war with the United Nations. X(u)

"In the meantime the diplomatic representatives of all three countries have every opportunity to obtain military and naval information X(u) of great value to the Fascist leaders. We must be naive indeed to assume that they are not taking advantage of this golden opportunity to act as spies of Hitler officially accredited to the United States. The lessons of appeasement in the past seem never to have been learned or were soon forgotten. We are, in fact, at war with all three Fascist puppets, much more so than with Rumania against whom we declared war. I recommend that a resolution be passed urging the severance of diplomatic relations with all three puppets. X(u)

"IT IS OUR JOB TO CLARIFY THESE ISSUES FOR THE PEOPLE, MAKING FOR INCREASING UNITY IN FIGHTING THIS WAR AS A REAL PEOPLE'S WAR. X(u)

"The organization to be formed tonight can also make its contribution to the winning and preservation of a peace in the light of the principles contained in the Atlantic Charter, the speeches of Vice President Wallace and Under-Secretary of State Welles. The Soviet Union has accepted these principles and is accepted as an ally in the peace negotiations and the after war period. This implies cooperation with the Soviet Union. But we may safely assume that forces now hostile to the Soviet Union will in the main continue to distort the role of the Soviet Union, will misrepresent and malign the Soviet Union. X(u)

"Our organization can counter these forces by bringing to the people of New Jersey a true picture of the Soviet Union. This will contribute to a sympathetic and better understanding of the Soviet Union, facilitating cooperation with that country in the future. This can be done in the following manner: members of this organization who are also members of other organizations or have contact with other organizations can arrange for meetings devoted to a discussion of the Soviet Union. Our organization will send speakers to such meetings. Meetings can be arranged by our own organization. In addition, we can provide for the sale and distribution of literature related to the Soviet Union. Furthermore, we can put groups in this state in direct communication with kindred groups in the Soviet Union, facilitating a direct and more intimate discussion of matters that are of common interest. During the war, this phase of our activity will be limited to some extent. X(u)

"The activities outlined above will be carried on in New Jersey. Obviously, New Jersey alone can not exert an effective influence on the people of the remaining 47 states. Therefore, our work must be done so efficiently and effectively that it must lead to the formation of similar organizations in the other states. It may reasonably be expected that such developments would then lead to the formation of a National organization to which we would all be affiliated. This may X(u) sound like a huge task. It very definitely is but nevertheless it is one that can be accomplished if we really make up our minds to do the job. (u)

"ABRAHAM WELANKO"

Confidential Informant T-3 advised that a report on the League for American-Soviet Friendship dated January 11, 1943, reflected the following: (u)

No trade union contacts had been made to that date. This appears to have resulted from the decision that to develop the middle class, professional, and white collar groups was primary, and to contact trade unions was secondary. (u)

Quite some difficulty was encountered in the contact work, inasmuch as it was undertaken during the summer and several visits had to be made in order to make a personal contact. (u)

The discussion had with the individuals contacted was along the lines of the need to develop American-Soviet friendship on the basis of the perspectives previously set forth, and an effort was made to obtain the reactions of the individuals contacted to determine the probabilities of the success of the organization. (u)

No list of sponsors was submitted to the contacts, and the original intention was to obtain their support on the basis of the issues involved rather than because of the approval of some individuals. (u)

The contacts included clergymen, teachers, lawyers, doctors, businessmen, and an Italian newspaper publisher; people of all creeds and political beliefs. Both whites and negroes were contacted, with special emphasis being placed on both who were affiliated with other organizations. Names of persons to be contacted were also obtained from "New Masses" and "Soviet Russia Today." (u)

During the period from July 1, 1942, to October 20, 1942, fifty contacts were listed and discussions held. These contacts lived in New Jersey, from the northern boundary to the Trenton area. (u)

Except as noted below, the general reaction was favorable to the Soviet Union, persons seeing the need for close collaboration and education of the people to achieve that understanding of the Soviet Union leading to such collaboration. Some promised active support; a lesser percentage, passive support. (u)

The attitude of certain specific individuals is as follows: (X)(u)

X LICHTENBERGER (Rev. ARTHUR C.), Dean of Newark, New Jersey Episcopal Diocese, promised a limited amount of active support; X

HODGSON (Rev. CHESTER E.), Clergyman, promised a limited amount of active support; X

X ADAMS (Rev. FREDERIC M.), Dean of Trenton, New Jersey, Episcopal Diocese, promised active support and heads the local committee in Trenton, New Jersey; X

X SCHWEDES (HENRY A.), Secretary of the Board of Education of Irvington, New Jersey, promised a limited amount of active support; X

One X BOARDMAN and X PELOW, representing Republican and Catholic factors respectively, promised limited activity on the Trenton, New Jersey, committee; X

X JOSEPHSON, LOUIS, city attorney of Trenton, New Jersey, promised limited activity; X

X WIMBERLY, a Negro lawyer of Trenton, New Jersey, promised limited activity; X (X)(u)

X ROTH, BERNARD, a Newark, New Jersey, insurance man, promised active support; X

One X FRIEDMAN, a Newark, New Jersey, lawyer, promised limited activity; X

One X GOODMAN, a Newark, New Jersey, lawyer, promised limited activity; X

One X MAINIERO, an Italian publisher at Trenton, New Jersey, promised active support; X

Dr. X DOWD, a Newark, New Jersey, psychiatrist, opposed the organization because he is Catholic and he stated that the organization was too Communistic; X

One X HUGHES, a Trenton, New Jersey, teacher, opposed the organization; X

One WEINGAST, a Newark, New Jersey, teacher, hedged, fearing red-baiting; X

MINTON, a prominent corporation attorney of Newark, New Jersey, hedged; X (u)

Rabbi PRINZ of Newark, New Jersey, was very enthusiastic. X

The organizational meeting was held on October 20, 1942. Two hundred invitations were mailed, but only 20 individuals attended. One sent a telegram explaining his inability to attend; six were unable to attend because of a large meeting at the temple on the same night; six were unable to attend because of a death in the SCHWEDES family; one wrote explaining his inability to attend, but he stated he would be somewhat active. (u)

The report was read and adopted, and the name agreed upon was the League for American-Soviet Friendship. A resolution congratulating the Soviet Union on its 25th anniversary was sent to Ambassador Litvinoff. A resolution urging support of President Roosevelt on the immediate opening of a Western Front in Europe was sent to Cordell Hull and the President, as well as a resolution urging severance of diplomatic relations with Mannerheim Finland, Vichy France, and Franco Spain. X (u)

Reverend CHESTER E. HODGSON was elected acting chairman until someone of more influence would be obtained. ABRAHAM WELANKO was elected secretary and treasurer. The executive committee elected was composed of the following: JOSEPHINE TRUSLOW ADAMS; Mrs. NATHANIEL L. FOSTER; HENRY A. SCHWEDES; Mrs. KATHERINE VAN ORDEN; Rabbi JOACHIM PRINZ; one SAFARIS (probably JACOB K. SAFARIS), a businessman; one FRIEDMAN, a lawyer; Miss CLEAVER (possibly Miss GRAHME CLEAVER), an authoress of Plainfield, New Jersey; Reverend BALL (probably Reverend ARCHIE BALL), of Hackensack, New Jersey; LICHTENBERGER, a professor; WILLIAM H. E. JOHNSON, of Penzer College; Miss HISLOP (probably MARIAN HISLOP). ABRAHAM WELANKO was authorized to add names at his discretion. X (u)

It was noted that no negroes attended the organizational meeting. X (u)

After October 21, 1942, renewed contact work was carried on throughout the State to obtain additional individual support and to set up local committees. (u)

At Trenton, New Jersey, a committee was set up through ADAMS (Reverend FREDERIC M.), BOARDMAN (THOMAS), PELOW (EDWARD H.), RAUCH (JAMES), and one STRASSBURGER. A mass meeting was set tentatively for January 26 or February 9, 1943, with STEFFANSSON as speaker, either at ADAMS' church hall or at the Contemporary Club. An exhibit of literature with regard to the X (u)

Soviet Union in a library was discussed, as was an exhibit of literature and pictures of the Soviet Union in the State Museum. Broadcasts on local radio stations were also planned. (u)

A Paterson committee was set up under Reverend FRANK HUFF who was very enthusiastic. Reverend SHUTE (OLIN Y.), president of the Ministers' Association; Reverend VAN DYKE; and EDGERSON, a Catholic librarian, were also on the committee. HENRY MARELLI, described as a member of the Republican triumvirate of Passaic County, was also on the committee. There were a member of the Free French Fighting Forces and two Rabbis who were enthusiastic. (u)

A week of activities in Paterson, New Jersey, under the auspices of the League was planned. A meeting for January 28, 1943, at the Temple Emanuel at Paterson, New Jersey, with KARAKEVICH as speaker was planned. A meeting was planned by Reverend B. K. APELIAN in his church at Radburn, New Jersey, although the date was not fixed. (u)

At Princeton, New Jersey, Dean GAUSS and Dean EISENHART agreed to support the organization on a nation-wide basis. Professor GREENE, reported to be one of the most influential factors on the campus, did likewise. ALBERT EINSTEIN felt the League was very good. FRANK ALLOTTE agreed the League was necessary, but he did not pledge his support. Mrs. LOWE, translator for Thomas Menn, advised she would head a committee if University contacts could be used, which depended, of course, on the existence of a national organization. She was very enthusiastic. (u)

The League was discussed with several other members of the faculty at Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey, and all were in favor. (u)

An Elizabeth, New Jersey, committee was set up through Reverend ROSS, a prominent minister, and one FELLER, a Catholic Assemblyman and lawyer. Judge WALDMAN, Jewish, and Secretary STEVENS of the YMCA, as well as Judge SAUER, were also on the committee. (u)

At the time the report from which this information was obtained was prepared, it was noted that no formal committee had been set up in Newark, New Jersey. On January 19, 1943, Professor WILLIAM H. E. JOHNSON, who has been previously listed as a member of the executive committee of the League, was scheduled to speak at the Masonic Lodge with respect to American-Soviet relations. (u)

At Plainfield, New Jersey, while some good contacts existed, the League had no success in setting up a local committee. (u)

No attempt was made to set up a committee in Jersey City, New Jersey, at that time. (u)

At Hackensack, New Jersey, Reverend ARCHIE BALL and Reverend MORSE were eager to establish a local committee, but they met with resistance. Reverend MORSE addressed a women's church society on the Soviet Union and Reverend BALL did likewise to a business organization. (u)

The financial statement in this report is as follows:

Receipts

Dues (@ $1.00)	$29.00
Contributions	25.60
Literature profits	.60
Subsidy	25.00
TOTAL		$80.20

Disbursements

Fares, postage, telephone calls, printing, and stationery	$75.59
TOTAL		$75.59

BALANCE . . . . . $ 4.61

A note was made with regard to this report that the membership dues paid do not represent those active and passive in the League. It was felt that at least another 20 or 25, then more or less active, could be contacted for the $1.00 dues. No specific drive was made to collect dues. (u)

On September 23, 1943, Confidential Informant T-4 advised that at a meeting of the Essex County Bureau of the Communist Party, which the informant attended, ABE WELANKO spoke about his efforts in behalf of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. He advised he had attended a dinner at the Hotel Hildebrecht in Trenton, New Jersey, arranged by Dean ADAMS of the Episcopal Diocese, at which FAIRCHILD of New York was the principal speaker. He stated that ADAMS had bought two or three hundred copies of "Soviet Russia" which he distributed, the cost being borne by himself. It was stated that unfortunately ADAMS was not very well and could not be counted on for much effective work in the League. (u)

It was noted that much material exists in Trenton, New Jersey, but the persons to do the work are lacking. (u)

In Paterson, New Jersey, WELANKO attended an organizational meeting which was attended by 15 or 20 members of the middle class, including a librarian, the President of the Ministers' Association, Rabbis, other ministers, and a member of the Free French Fighting Forces. He concluded, however, that nothing had been accomplished in Paterson, New Jersey. (u)

WELANKO continued that a meeting was held in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and the individuals who attended included an assemblyman and a former judge. JOE MARZELL, a Communist Party comrade, was active in behalf of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship prior to his induction into the United States Army, WELANKO reported. At this meeting in Elizabeth, New Jersey, an agreement was made as to the program that should be carried out, but no work was done. ~~X~~u

Later, WELANKO reported, he attended another meeting in Elizabeth, New Jersey, at which there were new comrades assigned to do the local work, and it was concluded that the Party has some very fine contacts in Elizabeth, New Jersey, which can be used to carry out the program. ~~X~~u

Certain work toward the improvement of American-Soviet relations was started in New Brunswick, New Jersey, upon the initiative of persons there. WELANKO attended to tie in this work with the League for American-Soviet Friendship. ~~X~~u

WELANKO reported that he maintained contact with comrades in Elizabeth, New Jersey, in order to continue the good work started by a YMCA official, but the results were not very heartening. ~~X~~u

In Hackensack, New Jersey, he contacted Reverend ARCHIE BALL, whom he described as very progressive. He stated that BALL wanted to help very much in the work for improving American-Soviet relations, but because of a personal reason he would not be able to do very much. ~~X~~u

WELANKO felt there had been a decided lack of progress among the middle-class groups, with no promise of immediate pick-up in these activities within these groups. ~~X~~u

WELANKO reported that, in view of the above-mentioned lack of progress in the middle-class groups, he decided to develop activities among trade unions, and the program which he intended to submit to them for endorsement included adopting a resolution endorsing the immediate opening of a second front; a resolution endorsing trade union initiative; and a resolution that each union adopt a trade union in Russia. ~~X~~u

WELANKO reported that Professor WILLIAM H. E. JOHNSON spoke to a meeting held at the Masonic Lodge in Newark, New Jersey, on the Soviet-Union. The lodge itself purchased about $12 or $15 worth of literature which was distributed among the people at the meeting. ~~X~~u

Through STEVENS, secretary of the YMCA in Elizabeth, New Jersey, WELANKO arranged for a speaker at the Young Adults Forum. ~~X~~u

A meeting was held in the church of WILLIAM MORSE in Hackensack, New Jersey, and ARCHIE BALL address a Rotary Club meeting there in connection with the work of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. (X) u

WELANKO continued that an exhibit on Soviet literature was on display at the Irvington, New Jersey, library, and also that on September 21, 1943, a similar exhibit was shown at the Bloomfield, New Jersey, library. It was reported that the mayor made a statement to the press when the exhibit was opened, commending the library on its efforts and urging the people to attend the exhibit to learn more about the Soviet Union. The National Council in New York furnished pictures of the Soviet armies which were exhibited in addition to the literature on the Soviet Union. The exhibit had previously received the endorsement of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America legislative committee in Bloomfield, New Jersey. (X) u

In addition to this, WELANKO reported, the Newark Museum had planned to hold an exhibit which was then at Radio City in New York, New York. Mayor VINCENT J. MURPHY was scheduled to attend, and WELANKO himself was making an attempt to raise money to cover the expense of moving the exhibit to Newark, New Jersey, from Radio City in New York, New York. (X) u

The State Museum at Trenton, New Jersey, held an exhibit which ran for several weeks. (X) u

WELANKO further reported that Reverend NORMAN D. WELFINGER of Montclair, New Jersey, ran a forum in his church on the Soviet Union. (X) u

WELANKO then summarized the results of his activities by stating that the organization is not exacting and efficient enough, and he said there have not been enough Party people entering into the work. There is adequate sympathy for American-Soviet friendship among the middle-class people, according to WELANKO, and this must be developed. (X) u

WELANKO then discussed certain problems which will face the League in the future. He stated that there had been some delay in allowing the convoys of the Soviet Union to enter into North Africa, saying that obstacles had been placed in their way by Great Britain. He felt that there is need for discussions about the United States-Great Britain alliance, particularly a post-war alliance which he felt could be directed against no one but the Soviet Union. He stated, according to the informant, that the relations between the United States and the Soviet Union were becoming issues. He felt that the only important event in the relations between this country and Russia was the announcement of unconditional surrender made by Italy to the United States, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union. (X) u

According to the informant, WELANKO was angry because the Party had participated in only a half-hearted manner in the work of the League for (X) u

American-Soviet Friendship, and he wanted advice from the Buro meeting as to whether comrades would be assigned to work in the League, and whether there would be a renewed attempt to create a working committee which, he felt, should be composed of comrades in the Party. He stated also that he had, in the two weeks prior to his report, contacted a number of comrades throughout New Jersey, in Trenton, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Paterson, and Newark, and emphasized to them the importance of holding meetings on November 16, commemorating the anniversary of the recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States. (X) u

At this meeting of the Essex County Buro of the Communist Party, SOPHIE FEINSTEIN spoke and described a program whereby children from the first grade through high school were being encouraged to write letters to children in the Soviet Union in the interests of American-Soviet friendship. (X) u

At this point, BILL NORMAN, state secretary of the Communist Party, suggested that the executive committee of the League for American-Soviet Friendship, which is lead by WELANKO, should do the following: (X) u

1. Plan and execute mass meetings in schools, churches, and organizations on November 16, 1943, the aim of which should be to promote friendship between the United States and Russia, as well as to drive home Russia's plea for a Second Front; and (X) u
2. Penetrate the labor unions, particularly the American Federation of Labor, sending them extensive literature for an educational program.

These efforts should be followed up by personal contact with union leaders. (X) u

At this point MAX STEINBERG, state executive secretary of the Communist Party, spoke, pointing out that more effort should be made toward all Jewish-American organizations and that contacts should be made among known Party persons. (X) u

MARTHA STONE, Essex County secretary of the Communist Party, then stated she felt an effort should be made to consolidate all the persons of the State who were interested in the program of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. She criticized the efforts of WELANKO, and stated that the work of the Council had failed up to that time because he gave up too easily. She stated she did not feel the labor unions were ready at this time to be brought into this work, but she felt that their possible (X) u contribution to the work should be kept in mind, as an alternate goal. (u)

FRIEDA NORMAN, wife of BILL NORMAN, also criticized WELANKO because he had failed to make any mention of contacts among the American Federation of Labor locals. In all of this organizational work WELANKO has been the leading figure. (u)

WELANKO is an attorney who, according to Confidential Informant T-5, [redacted] (u)

Confidential Informant T-6 advised that, during the Communist Party membership drive in the spring of 1943, ABRAHAM WELANKO was responsible for recruiting several individuals. (u)

Confidential Informant T-7 advised that WELANKO has been in frequent contact and has held conferences with leading members of the Communist Party in the State of New Jersey from time to time. (u)

According to the informant, on April 1, 1942, WELANKO conferred with one JANET, whose last name was not known to the informant, regarding a meeting which was to be held in Paterson, New Jersey. He requested JANET to send a letter to SOPHIE FEINSTEIN, Paterson, New Jersey, advising her that a speaker was to be sent to a meeting. SOPHIE FEINSTEIN is known to be Passaic County secretary of the Communist Party. (u)

Moreover, on the same day, WELANKO questioned JANET regarding the number of persons who attended a meeting of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. (u)

On June 24, 1943, YETTA RAKOFF, an official of the Young Communist League, conferred with ABRAHAM WELANKO regarding the campaign for American-Soviet friendship. She wanted him to speak at a meeting of the stewards of Local #437, United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America. She felt that he might be able to interest the group in adopting a similar local union in Soviet Russia for the purpose of sending them postcards, and further to cement trade union friendship between the two countries. WELANKO pointed out that the Greater Newark Industrial Council had endorsed the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and he intended to circularize all unions on the activities of the Council.

Confidential Informant T-8 advised that on October 15, 1943, WELANKO spoke with an individual at the state headquarters of the Communist Party regarding a meeting which was held under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. At this time WELANKO mentioned that (u) he was "going to work on" MAURY MAVERICK and VITO MARCANTONIO regarding the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

This information on ABRAHAM WELANKO was secured by a review of the Newark files.

CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY

The Camden, New Jersey "Courier Post" of Friday, November 5, 1943, reflected that a proclamation hailing the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations and naming November 16 a special day of commemoration was issued by Mayor BRUNNER in connection with the nation-wide celebration under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and affiliated councils. The proclamation called for the people of Camden, New Jersey, to participate in the tenth anniversary of the renewed friendship between the United States and Russia by appropriate exercises in the public schools of the city, its churches and synagogues, its public meeting places and its homes.

In his statement to the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Mayor BRUNNER declared he wished to convey "the solemn and hopeful greetings of the men and women of this typical American city who, by their daily labors and sacrifices of their kin in the armed forces, are contributing to the realization of the aims of our own and allied spokesmen today in Moscow."

The Camden, New Jersey, "Courier Post" for November 13, 1943, reflected that the affair was being sponsored by the Russian War Relief Committee of Camden, New Jersey, in conjunction with the Committee of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc.

The Camden, New Jersey, "Courier Post" for November 10, 1943, reflected that RALPH WESCOTT, chairman, stated: "Celebration of the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between this country and the USSR should be supported by every American, not only as a tribute to what the Russian people are doing to defeat our common enemy, but to help build unity between our two nations, which is essential to the winning of this war."

(w)
[Confidential Informant T-10] advised that he had attended the meeting commemorating the 10th anniversary of American-Soviet relations on November 16, 1943, at Elks Hall in Camden, New Jersey. The rally was held under the joint chairmanship of Mayor GEORGE E. BRUNNER of Camden, New Jersey, and Mr. RALPH W. WESCOTT, Register of Deeds of Camden, New Jersey, and chairman of Russian War Relief for Camden County, New Jersey. It was called to order by Mr. WESCOTT at 8:30 p.m. The meeting had been originally called for 8:15 p.m., and during the 15-minute interlude popular recorded music was played.

Commissioner E. GEORGE AARON of the City of Camden, New Jersey, read the proclamation of Mayor BRUNNER who did not attend the meeting.

The main speaker of the evening, WILLIAM S. GAILMOR, was introduced by Mr. WESCOTT as an eminent radio commentator and authority on Eastern affairs. GAILMOR, aside from praising the resumption of American-Soviet relationship and calling for continued collaboration between the two countries in world affairs, stated that he had been to Russia and had studied the people there, along with their system of government. He said there is no discrimination of races in that country and stated, "We must come up to their standards soon or we are doomed in this country." He made quite a point, when referring to the absence of racial discrimination in Russia, of the fact that PAUL ROBESON, the Negro singer, had educated his own son in Russia instead of in the United States.

The informant described GAILMOR as the "bombastic type" and he stated that GAILMOR had a strong appeal to what the informant called "the codfish intelligentsia of the foreign element." The informant stated that the speaker seemed to attempt to exalt himself and the Russian people at the same time, and received great applause when he mentioned progress made by the Russian army and stated that Russia is saving the world.

At one point in the program the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by a girl. This was followed by the "Nationale," sung in Russian. Informant advised the "Nationale" received far more applause than the "Star Spangled Banner."

Commissioner AARON, again introduced to the audience, stated that he did not know where he was born and that his birthplace was either Russia or Lithuania. He praised Russia and its war effort, and he stated he was proud of the fact that he could trace his birth to that part of the world.

Mr. WESCOTT then introduced Mrs. GERTRUDE SILVERBERG, [redacted] Camden, New Jersey. He stated that she had asked for permission to say a few words.

Mrs. SILVERBERG spoke for five minutes, and she said that she represented the American Youth for Democracy, an organization recently formed in Camden, New Jersey. This organization, she said, was composed of young people interested in democracy. It is vitally important, she said, that young persons become members of American Youth for Democracy, because "we are working for a great cause." She appealed for members in the AYD and asked that any persons who were interested see her after the meeting.

It was reported that Mrs. SILVERBERG seemed to be well known to the audience and she was seen talking to many individuals after the meeting.

Mrs. SILVERBERG spoke highly of the Russian war effort, praised the diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia, and called for a continuation of this relationship.

FRANK E. EVANS, president of the South Jersey Industrial Union Council, was introduced, and he spoke much as the others, praising Russia for their "democratic principles" and stressing particularly that labor in the United States must work together to forestall being "taken over by capitalists." He stated that he could "handle my labor group." He spoke of the impending threat to labor in the United States and he stated, "Unless labor works for the furtherance of the American-Soviet Friendship in the United States and against Fascism here as represented by the money interests, we will not be safe in our homes."

Mr. EVANS called for continued collaboration with Russia and he praised the Red Army above that of the combined United Nations.

LEON B. SCHACHTER, Business Manager of the Meat and Cannery Workers Union, Local #56, Camden, New Jersey, spoke briefly, for he brought only greetings and admonished some of his members present for not paying their dues and keeping behind the labor movement.

HARRY DIETH, recently elected Democratic Assemblyman from Camden County and presently employed at New York Ship, Local #1, Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, spoke next. He received a tremendous ovation, greater than that for anyone else who spoke.

DIETH thanked the audience for the votes given him and called upon them to contribute to Russian War Relief. He praised the Red Army. He also spoke of the racial discrimination in this country, and stated that Russia had solved the problem by recognizing all groups, referring to "the great society of comrades set up in Russia."

The informant advised that the impression he received all through the rally was that none of the speakers would have gotten anywhere with an all-American audience. He felt there was too much rabble rousing and soap-box oratory. He advised the word "Communism" was not mentioned all evening.

The informant stated he estimated the audience was composed of between 350 and 400 persons, broken down to 65 per cent men and 35 per cent women. There were only seven or eight colored persons present. The meeting end about 10:30 p.m.

The informant advised that on the way out of the meeting he heard SYLVAN I. SELIGMAN, executive secretary of the Tenth Anniversary Committee, who is also connected with Russian War Relief in Camden, New Jersey, say: "Do not take this too seriously. This is just the way they do things."

Informant stated someone told SELIGMAN he felt there should have been more praise for the part the United States is playing in the war, and there was too much emphasis placed on Russia and not enough on the United States. To this SELIGMAN stated, "Just don't take it too seriously."

Before the meeting disbanded, the moving picture, "Siege of Leningrad" was shown.

Following the meeting there was considerable conversation in small groups.

The informant felt there was definitely a Communistic tinge to the meeting.

This opinion was also shared by Confidential Informant T-11, who also attended the meeting, and he stated, "I am not alarmed at that, however, because these Communists soon grow out of the idea when they grow older. I am not concerned about Communism here at all."

Confidential Informant T-12 advised that he did not approve of his name being included as a sponsor of the group, and he understood the group was controlled by Communists.

Confidential Informant T-11 advised that Mr. RALPH W. WESCOTT first came into contact with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in connection with his work as chairman of Russian War Relief in Camden County. He stated WESCOTT is only a front for the Soviet friendship group and the Russian War Relief and the main work is being done by THEODORE PLOTNICK, treasurer of the Tenth Anniversary Committee of American-Soviet Friendship, who is also connected with Russian War Relief, and SYLVAN I. SELIGMAN, [redacted] Camden, New Jersey, who is executive secretary of the Tenth Anniversary Committee of American-Soviet Friendship and is connected with Russian War Relief. Both Confidential Informant T-11 and T-12 advised that they believed both THEODORE PLOTNICK and SYLVAN I. SELIGMAN are Communists, or at least adhere to the Communist Party philosophy.

According to Special Agent ROBERT E. WICK of the Newark Field Division, SYLVAN I. SELIGMAN, [redacted] Camden, New Jersey;

Nk 100-5336

THEODORE PLOTNICK, a lawyer residing at [redacted] Camden, New Jersey; and PHILIP ZINMAN, residing at 6325 Browning Road, Pennsauken Township, New Jersey, maintain an office at 519 Market Street, Camden, New Jersey. This office is under the name of "PHILIP ZINMAN and Company - PHILIP and JULIUS A. ZINMAN - Property Management Appraisers, Realty Development, Mortgages and Insurance."

b6
b7c

JULIUS ZINMAN is alleged to be a Communist and is a friend of WILLIAM SILVERBERG. He signed the lease for the Communist Party at the Communist Party headquarters, 5 Hudson Place, Camden, New Jersey. SILVERBERG is the husband of GERTRUDE SILVERBERG who spoke on behalf of American Youth for Democracy at the November 16 meeting of the American-Soviet Friendship group in Camden, New Jersey.

Confidential Informant T-11<sup>(u)</sup> advised that on November 15, 1943, EDWIN S. SMITH, vice-chairman and executive director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, 232 Madison Avenue, New York, New York, wired SELIGMAN as follows:

"Suggest your Tenth Anniversary meeting send a telegram or letter President Roosevelt congratulating him on his wise leadership establishing diplomatic relations with Soviet Union. That historic act has contributed immensely to fact that Soviet Union is now allied with Great Britain and ourselves in war against Hitler and also to agreements reached in Moscow conference which hold so much promise for speedy end of war and establishment of foundation for enduring peace."

The informant advised that no message was sent to the President in this regard.

Confidential Informant T-11<sup>(u)</sup> advised that under date of November 17, 1943, EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., wrote as follows:

"NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.

"Dear _____

"Reports received to date from various Tenth Anniversary celebrations indicate tremendous city-wide support and interest, and we hope your meeting was the outstanding success the occasion warrants. The National Congress in New York was an overwhelming success.

"The National Congress in New York and the 56 meetings throughout the country are providing significant expression of the support of the American people for the decisions of the recent Moscow Conference and their desire to strengthen American-Soviet relations for victory and a lasting peace.

"The agreements arrived at in Moscow by the United States, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union also open up new opportunities for increasing friendship and understanding among the peoples of the world. The final guarantee behind all pacts and treaties between governments must always be the understanding and good will of the respective peoples concerned.

"The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was organized last year for the purpose of promoting American-Soviet Friendship by carrying on a broad program of educational work regarding our Soviet Ally. This program has never been more important. The opportunity for achieving our purpose has never been greater.

"It is for this reason that we hope your meeting will not be the end -- but only the beginning of the important work of promoting American-Soviet friendship in your city. We hope the splendid work started by the Special Tenth Anniversary American-Soviet Friendship Committee may continue under the auspices of a Local Council of American Soviet Friendship.

"We are enclosing herewith our general brochure and a short mimeographed form on 'How to Organize a Local Council.' We hope your Committee will meet at an early date and discuss the establishment of a Local Council. We will be glad to be of assistance to you and would like to hear from you as to any help or information you may require.

"May we also at this time express our appreciation for the splendid cooperation we have received from you in making this Tenth Anniversary Celebration a truly nation-wide and significant event.

"Sincerely yours,
/s/ Edwin S. Smith

"NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

232 Madison Avenue

New York City

MU 3-2082

"July, 1943

"ORGANIZE A COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP IN YOUR CITY

"The heroic struggles and victories of the Red Army and the sacrifices of the Russian people have awakened in the American people great admiration and sympathy for and interest in the Soviet Union. Americans realize the necessity for the closest ties with the Russian people in order to achieve a speedy victory over the Axis and to insure enduring peace.

"Through the organization of a Council of American-Soviet Friendship in your city, you can help further American-Soviet Friendship and collaboration.

"ORGANIZATION OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL

"The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship was organized on January 1, 1943, to continue the work of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship and the American Council on Soviet Relations.

"PURPOSE: To promote the better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential for winning the war and establishing an enduring peace.

"PROGRAM: To meet the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life.

To give the American people an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally.

To take specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

"STRUCTURE: A National Council consisting of not more than 250 people representing local councils, special interest committees and representatives of cooperating organizations.

An executive Board elected by the Council and responsible for the policy and program.

An Executive Director appointed by the Executive Committee in charge of carrying out the policy and program recommended by the Executive Board.

"METHOD OF WORK

"The Council believes it can most successfully promote its program of reaching large masses of the people by working through existing organizations. It offers organizations its educational services for meetings of their membership; it distributes literature by selling it to organizations for distribution to their membership; it enlists the support of these organizations for mass meetings, campaigns, etc.; it seeks to have these organizations take specific action against any manifestations of anti-Soviet propaganda as well as action in favor of such things as will promote friendship with the Soviet Union.

"LOCAL COUNCILS

"The National Council seeks to organize local councils in cities throughout the country which will in turn service local organizations in carrying on the activities of the National Council on a local scale.

"HOW TO ORGANIZE A LOCAL COUNCIL

- "1. Have two or three well known and important individuals issue an invitation to a luncheon, dinner or evening meeting, to about 25 leaders of organizations and prominent individuals whom you wish to interest as members of your Executive Committee and sponsors. (enclose brochure with invitation)
- "2. At this meeting have a speaker on the purpose and program of the National Council and discussion on the need for such an organization in your city.
- "3. Elect a provisional committee consisting of a temporary chairman, temporary secretary and four or five others to bring in recommendations for a full executive committee, sponsors, and immediate program.
- "4. Hold a second meeting in the immediate future for election of your Executive Committee and planning immediate activity.

"PREREQUISITES FOR A WELL FUNCTIONING LOCAL COUNCIL

- "a. Printed stationery with officers, address, and telephone number.
- "b. Office and at least a part time secretary in all larger cities.
- "c. An active Executive Committee with representation on it from trade unions, church, youth, nationalities, professional and civic organizations which will serve as a link to the community you wish to reach.
- "d. Special committees whose chairmen should be members of the Executive Committee on Youth, Religion, Trade Unions, Nationalities, etc. whose function will be to interest organizations in these fields in the work of the Council, recommend programs for promoting American-Soviet friendship applicable to those organizations, and provide for an exchange of information between them and similar organizations in the Soviet Union, through the National Committee organized for that purpose.

- "e. Special committee whose chairman should be a member of the Executive Committee, on Educational Services - to secure exhibits, films, speakers and literature, and promote their use.
- "f. Finance Committee, responsible for estimating a budget for the organization and planning fund-raising activities and seeking contributions to meet that budget.

"FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION, REQUEST A COPY OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONFERENCE OF LOCAL COUNCILS HELD IN NEW YORK CITY, MARCH 20 and 21, 1943."

A copy of the mimeographed form, "How to Organize a Local Council," is being retained in the Newark Field Office.

The "Newark Star Ledger" for November 6, 1943, carried an article which reflected that, in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, Mayor VINCENT J. MURPHY issued a proclamation which was to be read at a meeting sponsored by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in New York City.

Mayor MURPHY, according to this article, praised the Russian people for their magnificent battle against the invaders and he called the attention of the people to the "significance of these diplomatic relations." He expressed the hope that these renewed relations will be a direct incentive toward the furtherance of the war effort on the home front as our fighting allies are carrying on at the battle front.

Reverend CHESTER E. HODGSON, chairman of the New Jersey League for American-Soviet Friendship, according to the "Daily Worker" of November 22, 1943, issued a statement with regard to the tenth anniversary meeting scheduled at Newark, New Jersey, in which he said: "The celebration of the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between this country and the Soviet Union should be supported by everyone, not only in tribute to what the Russian people are doing to defeat our common enemy, but to help build unity between our two nations, which is essential to the winning of the war and the peace to come."

On November 23, 1943, Special Agents P. C. LOVRIEN and GEORGE D. Chairman of the League
REV. CHESTER E. HODGSON

ABRAHAM WELANKO, Secretary
342 Union Avenue, Irvington, N. J.

The meeting was attended by approximately 300 people. It began at 8:30 p.m. and NAT GELERNTER lead the audience in the singing of the national anthems of both the United States and the Soviet Union. JOEL GROSS acted as chairman.

Mr. GROSS made a few preliminary remarks about the progress of the Soviet Union which he described as the greatest progress in the world. He advised the State Department was to blame for not recognizing Russia before it did and he said this Government even obstructed Russia in its progress. Once in his talk he referred to the United States and Russia as "our great countries." He stated that "this is a people's war" and he often referred to himself and the audience as "we, the common people."

SAM LEVENSON of Brooklyn, New York, made a few humorous remarks and jokes about Communists. He said he presumed the whole audience was "class conscious and progressive" and said he knew this must be a progressive meeting, because every time a progressive meeting is held the temperature outside will drop a few degrees and a lot of people won't come. LEVENSON attacked MARTIN DIES.

THOMAS CHRISTENSON, member of the Executive Board of the National Maritime Union, appeared in place of FRED N. ("Blackie") MYER, vice-president of the National Maritime Union. He read an address and paid tribute to Russia's work in this war and to the Soviet labor unions. He stated that the workers all over the world have a lot in common and must organize. He stated that there will be held in London, England, next year a conference of labor from all over the world, and the Soviet Union will be represented there.

CHRISTENSON described the United States and Russia as the two great democracies in the world today. He described the Hearst-McCormack press as the biggest enemy labor has at the present time.

CHARLES SREIBER, member of the Merchant Marine, made a speech and stated he had just returned from a trip to Russia. He advised that he had enjoyed the greatest hospitality in the Soviet Union that he had ever experienced.

SREIBER said the United States and Russia are basically alike, and that the workers of both countries should join together in closer friendship than they have in the past. He advised he talked to a number of Russian seamen and he feels their problems are the same as those of United States seamen.

ARTHUR UPHAM POPE, described as author of "Recent Biography of Litvinoff," chairman of committee for National Morale, director of Iranian Institute, vice-chairman of National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, made the main speech of the evening in which he referred to the inherent greatness of Russia. He stated Russia saved us from Germany and that Russia would be the greatest nation on the European continent. He defended Russia in its war against Finland and praised the Red Army.

It was noted by the agents attending that WILLIAM REICH, manager of the Modern Book Store, local Communist book shop, distributed literature on the Soviet Union at the door. Among the literature passed to the crowd was a pamphlet on America and Russia by CORLISS LAMONT.

The "Newark News" for November 24, 1943, in an article on the tenth anniversary meeting, stated that CHRISTENSON, when speaking of "discrimination of race, color, and creed" in this country, pointed out that Russia "allows no such practice." He stated that the National Maritime Union with its 50,000 members is an excellent example of how groups can work together amicably. He declared: "Speaking in behalf of the 50,000 NMU members, I can assure you that without complete cooperation with the Soviet Union, we will not have the kind of post-war world we hope to have when this bitter war is over."

The article continued that, when referring to Russian strength, SREIBER, the seaman, told of an instance in Sicily. Several German prisoners were being questioned by American officers. When asked what they thought of the American artillery, they answered: "It's terrific; almost as good as the Russian."

Professor POPE, according to the article, stated in regard to the recent Moscow conference: "If we understand this pact and if we have the courage and endurance to stick to our ideals, we shall have kept faith with those who lie in Flanders Field and those who litter the battlefields of this war. For 25 years we have been wrong about Russia. We can't afford to be mistaken any more."

The article reflected that LARRY DAVIS was in charge of arrangements.

On October 20, 1943, Confidential Informant T-13 advised that WILLIAM NORMAN, secretary of the Communist Party in the State of New Jersey, wanted to secure some delegates from the American Federation of Labor to the American-Soviet Friendship convention in New York City. He designated ABE WELANKO to contact the unions in this matter. (u)

Confidential Informant T-14 advised that MARTHA STONE, together with ABE WELANKO and KITTY HECK, planned a meeting of the League for American-Soviet Friendship which was held on November 23, 1943, and they included the name of "BLACKIE" MYER because they felt he would be an attraction. The informant also advised that on November 9, 1943, an order for 1,000 tickets for the American-Soviet friendship rally to be held on November 23, 1943, was made to JACOB JAMES, who, according to the files of the Newark Field Division, does a large amount of the printing work for the Communist Party in the State of New Jersey. (u)

Confidential Informant T-15 advised that, although 400 tickets were sold in advance by the Communist Party of New Jersey for the American-Soviet friendship meeting, the meeting was felt by the Communists to be a complete failure. Informant advised that WELANKO was angry because the Party members did not show up at the meeting and that he is considering getting out of the League work entirely. (u)

Confidential Informant T-15 also advised that the Communist Party had a committee prior to the November 23, 1943, meeting, covering fraternal organizations and key individuals, and one SIDNEY LOCKER had a committee working among labor organizations in an attempt to stimulate interest in the friendship group. (u)

Confidential Informant T-1 advised that on the financial statement for November, 1942, the Communist Party listed under disbursements an expenditure of $8.31 for the American-Soviet Council, and on the financial statement for December of 1942 the Party listed under disbursements $9.60 for "S. U. Friendship." (u)

"Dear Friends:

I enclose clippings from the local press, and a copy of our Committee's letter to 200 New Brunswick organizations, which also appeared on the editorial page (this clipping not enclosed) as a letter to the editor by the chairman of our committee.

"The composition of this committee is very broad. The Simon Baumrind mentioned in the article is the business agent of the ILGWU, but is on the committee in an individual capacity--it might be better not to mention his name, because his natl office might exert pressure to get him to resign! The Dr. Hans Heymann is a professor of economics at Rutgers University now, formerly at a Germany University. You will find a page devoted to him (praising him) in Lenin's Imperialism, pages 94-95, Vol. XIX, Collected Works! The Rev. Hill is a negro minister. John J. Vertitis, a member as an individual, is secretary of the New Brunswick local of the Painters Union, AF of L. Russell E. Watson, Jr. is a prominent local lawyer, who had been chairman of Russian War Relief here before. Identity of other prominent people is given in the article, or on the letterhead. The chairman, Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, is vice-president of New Brunswick Theological Seminary--was active on Spain. Doktorich is president of Local 824, UAW, with about 1800 members in New Brunswick, at Mack Plant there. the professors are from Rutgers, unofficially of course. Please be careful in all cases not to seem to involve organizations as participating where only the individuals are--so far--to avoid red-baiters grabbing at false issues.

"It is important to note that besides the particular meeting, our committee sends speakers to local organizations, and has already done so to some. This cooperation of labor, the negro people, the middle classes, and some reds (not officially representing the C. P., but known as such to those participating) is unprecedented, here.

"A copy of this letter, and material is simultaneously being sent to the state office of the C.P. of N. J. If and when City Commissioners come thru, etc., we will send you further material." (u)

(The bottom of the above-quoted letter was torn off, so that it could not be determined what signature, if any, was at the bottom of same.)

Confidential Informant T-2 also furnished a form letter on the letterhead of the "Committee on Better Russian-American Understanding - New Brunswick, N. J.," which is as follows: (u)

"Dear Sir:

"A committee for better Russian-American understanding has been formed in New Brunswick. Its members are drawn from labor, business and the professions. The common thought which unites us is that victory over the Axis now and the future peace of the world require friendly relations between our country and Russia.

"In the past Hitler's game has been to keep apart the western democracies and Russia by cultivating the lack of information and abundance of misinformation about Russia, which caused us so grossly to underestimate the value of that country as an ally. (u)

"The job our committee undertakes is to counteract these divisive tactics of the Axis by circulating facts about Russia and Russian-American relations in our own community--we hope with your help. Needless to say this undertaking no more implies desire for communism than does the cooperation of Roosevelt and Churchill with the government of Russia in the effective prosecution of the war.

"We are starting with a free public meeting at Roosevelt Junior High School, Monday, March 8th, 8 P. M. Arthur Upham Pope, chairman of the National Committee on Morale, and an authority on Russia, will speak.

"This is what we would like your organization to do:

"1.--Have one of your members come to the next meeting of the arrangements committee, Thursday, February 18th, 8:30 P. M., at the Y. W. C. A., 56 Bayard Street.

"2.--Spread news of this meeting among your members.

"3.--Avail yourself, if interested in Russian-American relations, of Special Agent WILLIAM A. CALHOUN of the Newark Field Division attended a meeting held by the New Brunswick, New Jersey, Council of American-

Soviet Friendship on November 16, 1943, at the Roosevelt Junior High School in New Brunswick, New Jersey. This meeting was attended by approximately 500 people. Dr. HOFFMAN of the Union Theological Seminary was chairman of the meeting, with ROBERT CLOTHIER, president of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, as honorary chairman.

The meeting opened with the singing of the national anthems of both the United States and the Soviet Union.

The first speaker on the program was Miss ELIZABETH HUGHES of the New Jersey College for Women, New Brunswick, New Jersey, who gave a report on a meeting of the Congress of American-Soviet Relations which had recently been held in New York City. According to this report, the Congress stressed the need for the education of American people to the Soviet way of life. Particular stress was laid upon disbursing of the idea in the United States of red-baiting, and various other prejudices which have arisen in connection with Russia. According to Miss HUGHES, the education of the American people along these lines was the only solution to this problem.

The principal speaker on the program was ELMER RICE, an author and playwright from New York City. He gave an address entitled, "Ten Years of American-Russian Relations." In this address RICE traced the history of the Russian people and the history of the United States relations with Russia, advising that he had visited Russia in 1932 for a period of ten weeks. On this visit he had dispelled the idea in his mind that had been pictured by the American press; that is, that Russia was a dark and backward country. He stated that he had found from first-hand knowledge that Russian economic life was very progressive.

RICE stated in his talk that he was not a Communist nor a believer in Communism, and that while he was in Russia, the people over there were constantly apologizing for the manners of the American Communists.

RICE's speech was followed by an open forum, at which time members of the audience were allowed to ask questions on Russia.

The forum was followed by various Russian folk songs and dances.

The last address of the evening was given by a Dr. MELLISH of the Holiest Episcopal Trinity Church, Brooklyn, New York. During this address the speaker urged greater cooperation with the Soviet Union and he discussed religion in Russia today.

At the conclusion of the meeting the chairman, Dr. HOFFMAN, displayed to the audience a lengthy resolution to be sent to the President of the United States and to the Secretary of State, CORDELL HULL. HOFFMAN stated that, due to the lateness of the hour, the resolution would not be read, but that generally it urged greater cooperation between the United States and Russia. He requested that all the members of the audience favoring the adoption of the resolution and the transmitting of it to the President and the Secretary of State signify by standing. The entire audience stood.

There was maintained outside of the auditorium a table from which various pamphlets were sold, among which were the "Soviet Constitution," "Russia Today," and "Soviet Power." At the exit there were several young girls passing out pamphlets entitled, "America and Russia," by CORLISS LAMONT, and "Organized Labor in the Soviet Union," by EDWIN S. SMITH. Copies of these two pamphlets are being maintained as exhibits in the files in this office.

It is to be noted that one of the individuals selling literature was ROSE KARSHMER who is the subject of investigation by the Newark Field Division.

It was ascertained that MAURICE AARON of New Brunswick, New Jersey, was a member of the executive committee of the New Brunswick Council of American-Soviet Friendship and was active in organizing the present meeting.

Confidential Informant T-16<sup>7</sup> advised that MAURICE AARON attempted to get the Jewish Community Club, which was scheduled to hold a meeting with MAX LERNER as speaker on November 16, 1943, to get together with the local organization for American-Soviet Friendship, but the Jewish Community Club refused. They gave the reason for their refusal as the fact that Communist Party which was connected with the American-Soviet Friendship Committee was political in nature, while they were educational. Later AARON furnished this information to ABRAHAM WELANKO, according to the informant. ~~SECRET~~ (U)

It is noted that Dr. MILTON J. HOFFMAN, listed as chairman of the Committee on Better Russian-American Understanding in New Brunswick, New Jersey, was also chairman of the tenth anniversary celebration meeting held on November 10, 1943, at the Roosevelt Junior High School in New Brunswick, New Jersey.

PATERSON, NEW JERSEY

The "Paterson Morning Call" for December 28, 1942, carried the following article, headed "American-Soviet Friendship Group Will Be Formed:"

Nk 100-5336

(Byline) "Paterson Unit To Be Organized At Meeting To Be Held Tomorrow Night."

- - - - -

"In an effort to build, on a firm and lasting foundation, American-Soviet friendship which is so essential to winning the war and to the establishment of a just peace when victory is won, a group of Paterson citizens will meet at the Women's Club, 364 Broadway, at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

"This will be the organizational meeting of the Paterson group. Other such committees have been formed in cities throughout the country and it is the committee's expressed hope that Paterson will take its place in the American-Soviet friendship program with the other communities.

"Abe Wylanko, an attorney of Newark, who has played a major part in the organization of such a committee in Newark, will be the principal speaker.

"The Rev. Frank Huff, pastor of the Central Reformed Church, is temporary chairman of the preliminary committee for American-Soviet Friendship.

"Preliminary sponsors were announced as Harry Albert, executive director of the Y.M.H.A.; Henry Marelli, attorney; Dr. J. Roemer; Albert Smith; former Assemblyman William Evans; Henry Fairhurst; Philip Diamond; Jonas Zweig; Leo Etzkorn; Rabbi Max Haisin; Irving Abramson, president of the State C.I.O.; Rev. Charles L. Tarter, pastor of St. Augustine Presbyterian Church; Miss Nell Doremus, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A.; Rev. Olin Y. Shute, pastory of the Embury Methodist Church, and Dr. William Rottersman."

"Confidential Informant T-17<sup>2</sup> advised that on September 22, 1943, a meeting of 12 people was held, including HENRY MARELLI; one CAMPBELL, who is probably HARRY CAMPBELL; Reverend FRANK HUFF; HY ZIMMEL; Dr. and Mrs. DAVID SHAPIRO; N. BLOKKER; Dr. JACOB ROEMER; HARRY ALBERT; one ADOLF; and LEO ETZKORN from the library. A committee was organized and a rally was planned for November 11, 1943, at the Eastside High School in Paterson, New Jersey. They wanted to get about 1,500 or 1,600 people there. (u)

HENRY MARELLI was elected permanent chairman of the Paterson, New Jersey, branch of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

[Confidential Informant T-17] further advised that ABRAHAM WELANKO met with SOPHIE FEINSTEIN, Passaic County secretary of the Communist Party and discussed plans for the meeting. (S)(u)

[Confidential Informant T-18] advised that the American-Soviet friendship group in Paterson, New Jersey, planned to have JOHANNES STEELE for their speaker on November 11, 1943, for which they were to pay $100. (S)(u)

[Confidential Informant T-19] advised that the persons planning the meeting for the celebration on November 11, 1943, were in constant contact with SOPHIE FEINSTEIN in working out plans for the meeting. (S)(u)

[Confidential Informant T-18] advised further that ESTHER LINGLE, formerly connected with the Paterson office of the Communist Party and, according to the files of this office, presently employed in a clerical capacity at the state headquarters of the Communist Party in Newark, New Jersey, mailed out a number of letters to persons for ABRAHAM WELANKO. (S)(u)

The "Paterson Evening News" for November 11, 1943, reflected that Mayor WILLIAM P. FURREY on that day issued a proclamation urging public cooperation with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship rally in Eastside High School in Paterson, New Jersey. The proclamation was as follows:

"Whereas, it is ten years since the United States recognized the government of the Soviet Union, and

"Whereas the Soviet Union, as an ally of our country and the other United Nations is waging a magnificent struggle against our common enemy, Nazi Germany, and

"Whereas agreements already made, and other agreements in prospect, between representatives of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet area of the greatest importance to the establishment of enduring peace after the war and for just and stable international arrangements in the post-war world, and

"Whereas, under the auspices of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship country-wide meetings and other events, of which a meeting in Eastside High School, Paterson, on November 11th will be one, are being planned to commemorate the tenth anniversary of diplomatic relations between U.S.A. and U.S.S.R., and to strengthen the ties of friendship and understanding between ourselves and our Soviet ally,

Therefore, the citizens of Paterson, as a tribute to Russia, for her wonderful contribution to the war effort of the United Nations, are urged to participate in our local observance of our nation's recognition of the government of the Soviet Union, by attending the meeting at Eastside High School, on the evening of November 11th, beginning at 8:15 o'clock, and our schools are requested to hold, during the course of the week, exercises appropriate to the observance.

"William P. Furrey

"Attest:
Walter S. Morris."

Mayor FURREY was said in the article to be honorary chairman of the meeting.

The "Paterson Morning Call" for November 12, 1943, reflected that JOHANNES STEELE spoke to an audience of approximately 1,000 people at the Eastside High School in Paterson, New Jersey, on the previous night at a rally sponsored by the Paterson Council of American-Soviet Relations to commemorate the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet relations. STEELE stated that there was no logical reason why Russia, America, and Britain should not stand together for the future peace and prosperity of the nations of the world after the war. The only reasons we shall hear against such a union, according to the speaker, will be to motivate but selfish interests. He felt that the Soviet Union is the key to lasting peace.

In discussing the achievements of the Moscow conference, STEELE said that America should be prepared to support the Russian program for post-war re-alliance in Europe, "because she's going to take what she wants anyhow." He felt that for strategic and historic reasons Russia was absolutely justified in its plans to change the map of Europe according to the pronouncements.

At the outset of his remarks, STEELE said that those in America, who, for the past 20 years, had been telling the people about the horrors of Russia's mode of living under Communist Party rule, are now in the unhappy position of refuting their own propaganda by the facts on Russia's performance in the war. He scoffed at the red-baiters by declaring them to have been motivated by a "newspaper circulation problem."

STEELE stressed the large number of casualties which the Russians had borne and said that they would save the United States and Great Britain. He regarded as a sad commentary on the vaunted strength of this republic the fear that some Americans have for the Communist Party in this country. "If this great republic, this great democracy of ours were so shallow and so weak that we have anything to fear from a handful of Communists, then we ought to give up," he said, adding, "If that handful is a danger to us, then I should say we haven't accomplished much during the last 150 years."

One of the participants on the program was the Most Reverend BENJAMIN, Metropolitan of the Aleutian Islands and North America and Patriarchal exarch in America of the Russian Orthodox Church, attired in the robes of his ecclesiastical office. Archbishop BENJAMIN told the audience about the practice of religion in Russia before and since the Red Revolution. He put down as utter fallacy and propaganda the wide-spread belief that freedom of religion has not existed in Russia since the Union of Soviets came into being. "I beg you to understand," he said with fervor, "that Russians still have the same faith and believe in the same God. We ask from you only that you have faith in us too."

HENRY MARELLI, chairman of the meeting, paid tribute to the leaders of Russia and stated that he saw in the Soviet Union a development of the same kind of democracy that America enjoys. Admitting that the Soviet leaders in the beginning committed errors of undemocratic flavor, he stated that that beginning does not contrast too badly with the mistakes of America in its founding days. In that connection he referred to the acceptance of slavery, the restriction of the right to vote, and the religious intolerance of many states, notable among which was New Jersey.

Minister FOUNTAIN address an appeal to the audience for the support of the Community War Chest.

Chairman MARELLI read to the meeting greetings from high Government officials.

A program of entertainment was provided by the Radisch Russian Folk Dance Company and by THOMAS GLAZER, singer of American folk songs. Miss MARY KENNEDY opened the meeting by singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

(Confidential Informant T-20) advised that he attended a meeting of subject organization on November 11, 1943, at the Eastside High School in Paterson, New Jersey, and he stated that, while the newspaper accounts carried the attendance as around $1,000, there were not many more than 500 present. He stated that the newspaper account set out above is a very accurate account of the meeting otherwise.

This informant advised that the talks, to him, did not appear to be sympathetic to Communism, and that the leading citizens of the City of Paterson, New Jersey, were present. He felt that the whole meeting had a constructive effect on American-Soviet relations. He stated that, while the talks emphasized Russia, he felt that this was only natural, in view of the fact that emphasis was on our better relations with that country.

(Confidential Informant T-20) further advised that he had discussed the meeting with a number of his friends, and all of them felt that the meeting did not give a Communistic appearance.

TRENTON, NEW JERSEY

The "Trenton Evening Times" of Trenton, New Jersey, on November 26, 1943, carried an article which reflected that Mayor ANDREW J. DUCH, by proclamation, had adopted Kiev as the twin city of Trenton, New Jersey, and named Sunday, December 5, 1943, as "Kiev Day."

The Trenton Council for American-Soviet Friendship had planned a great mass meeting for the afternoon of December 5, 1943, to celebrate the freeing of Kiev, the ancient capital of the Ukraine, and the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet diplomatic relations. JOHANNES STEELE, a well-known writer and lecturer, according to the paper, had accepted the Council's invitation to give the main address of the evening. It was planned to adopt a resolution, addressed to the people of Kiev, to be sent to the authorities of that city in the name of those present.

The "Trenton Evening Times" for December 2, 1943, reflected that the Chinese Relief Society, through its president, Mrs. MARY G. ROEBLING, sent the Trenton Council for American-Soviet Friendship a telegram of greeting for Kiev.

On December 5, 1943, Special Agent VIRGIL W. COOPRIDER of the Newark Field Division attended a meeting sponsored by the Trenton Council for American-Soviet Friendship at the War Memorial Building in Trenton, New Jersey, at 4:00 p.m., at which time Kiev was adopted as Trenton's twin city. Approximately 900 people were in attendance.

In the lobby of the building there were two tables containing a large amount of literature concerning Russia. There were pamphlets and books which were sold, the prices being five cents and up.

The meeting was opened by EDWARD H. PELOW, JR., who was chairman, and the principal speaker was JOHANNES STEELE, described as author and newspaperman. His introductory remarks were to the effect that he was glad to see so many representatives of labor and trade unions, and especially so many fellow members of the CIO.

Following STEELE's speech, the chairman read some of the telegrams sent by various local trade unions which contained greetings to the people of Kiev.

The "Trenton Evening Times" for December 6, 1943, carried an article which reflected that cablegrams containing greetings and extensions of friendship were sent to the Russian city of Kiev by a dozen trade unions and local organizations. JOHANNES STEELE, it reported, in the principal address of the meeting, had declared that Russia paid a terrific price in holding off the Nazi armies. "She has killed off 6,000,000 Nazis," STEELE is reported to have said, "but in so doing she has lost 9,000,000 of her Red Army and at least 13,000,000 of her civilian population. When the time comes for us to open a Second Front in Western Europe, this will mean we will have 6,000,000 less Germans to kill off and we will lose 9,000,000 less soldiers. How can we term this in terms of lend-lease,"

STEELE assailed the isolationists and other individuals whom he described as mischief makers in attempting to break down the American-Soviet friendship. Recently, he said, he talked with Secretary of State HULL who told him that the two countries have tremendous things in common which should be encouraged.

G. C. MOURAEVSKY, Consul for the Soviet Government in New York City, was a guest of honor. Prior to the meeting there was a reception at the United Nations headquarters, 123 Academy Street, Trenton, New Jersey.

PFC JOHN CREIGHTON MURRAY of Camp Kilmer, a talented violinist, played four selections and Corporal EARL LINK of Fort Dix, a baritone, sang a group of solos.

JERSEY CITY, NEW JERSEY

Confidential Informant T-7<sup>7</sup> advised that the Communist Party considered a Russian War Relief meeting held in Jersey City, New Jersey, in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza, to be a combined meeting of the friendship group and the war relief. The informant said that there were approximately 750 people present, and that the Communist Party considered this to be a very good meeting. (X) (u)

The "Jersey Observer" for November 10, 1943, reflected that the publicity given to this meeting described it merely as a meeting for Russian War Relief; however, for the completion of the report, the substance of this article is set forth:

It reflected that the Jersey City, New Jersey, committee for Russian War Relief held a rally on the night of November 9, 1943, in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza, Jersey City, New Jersey, in celebration of the first anniversary of the committee's formation. JOHN DREWEN was rally chairman, it was reported.

The principal speaker of the evening was FRED MYERS, national executive director of Russian War Relief.

There was also a talk by Judge Robert V. Kinkead, in which Russia's brave fight was praised and the necessity of our helping that ally through the Russian war relief was stressed.

Mr. MYERS reported that during 1943 the Russian War Relief shipped to the Soviet Union over $16,000,000' worth of goods from the American people.

There was also a talk by Commissioner ARTHUR POTTERTON who represented Mayor HAGUE. According to Commissioner POTTERTON, the work of the Russian War Relief is an indication of the good work that can be done among peoples in this world and of the cooperation that we may expect among nations joined in the common cause of making this a better world in which to live.

Another speaker was Reverend MICHAEL DZIAMA of the Church of St. Peter and Paul. He said that he is encouraged by the spirit of cooperation that is apparent in the world and that is exemplified well in Jersey City, New Jersey.

The entertainment was furnished by EFIM VITIS, who sang Russian folk songs and army hymns. Another entertainer was BERNARD HERNI, satirist.

The evening's program concluded with the showing of a moving picture, "Our Russian Front."

HOFFMAN, Dr. MILTON J.

This individual, listed as chairman of the New Brunswick, New Jersey, "COMMITTEE ON BETTER RUSSIAN-AMERICAN UNDERSTANDING," is professor in the Theological Seminary at Rutgers University. A police report states that he has been teaching at Rutgers in New Brunswick for a number of years.

On several occasions when known Communists were arrested for their activities in New Brunswick, New Jersey, HOFFMAN has always appeared in court and pleaded their cause. He is reported to believe in Communist teachings and to have expressed himself in that manner, and he is looked upon as a Communist.

The following clipping, a copy of which is being retained in the files of this office, was taken from the "Daily Home News" of New Brunswick, New Jersey, dated April 14, 1943:

"Readers' Opinions

"To the Editor:

"I appreciate greatly your kindness in offering space for an explanation which I feel is due the readers of the Home News. As you know, I happen to be the chairman of the committee on Better Russian-American Understanding. The question has been raised, both inside and outside our committee as to why the emphasis should be placed on Russia rather than on the United Nations as such. This question is not without significance, for as a committee we have debated it pro and con for hours. We have reached the decision to adhere to our original name, and that for various reasons.

"No one who looks realistically at the present world situation can fail to realize that Russia occupies the key position, both in the war and in the peace. Leaders in England, no less than our own representatives in Washington, are keenly aware of this fact. It is also apparent that there is no little concern about what Russia will do to the world after the Axis powers have been defeated. There is no use in shutting our eyes to the fact that there are thousands of intelligent people in this country, well-meaning citizens, who are desperately afraid of Communistic propaganda, and still more afraid of Russia in terms of what she might conceivably do in the way of reviving international Communistic ambitions now temporarily laid aside.

"Our committee is keenly aware of all this. It is because of this awareness that we feel that the major emphasis must be placed on Russia, for it is only as we seek to understand that country, at the same time cherishing the hope that Russia will try to understand us, that there can be any real basis of peace.

"If, as some people assert, Russia is hypocritically laying aside for the time being her animosity towards so-called capitalistic countries, only to go on the war path again the moment Germany is beaten, we shall gain absolutely nothing by continuing to encourage suspicion and intrigue against Russia. Such a policy will then play directly into Russia's hands. If, on the other hand, as I believe is the case, Russia is sincerely devoted to peace and has little or no interest in the economic ideologies of other countries, our mutual friendship will be of inestimable value to the world.

"At our very first meeting last December, when our present name was adopted, we talked of far more inclusive plans than just Russia. As a matter of fact, we then talked about a mass meeting where our relations with China would be discussed, that to be followed by a meeting on India, and perhaps another on the Dutch East Indies, hoping in the meantime to promote one or more meetings directly concerned with Russia.

"Let us frankly acknowledge that on our committee there are those who have the conviction that Communism offers the only solution for lasting world peace. On the other hand, there are those who greatly admire all that Russia is doing, but feel just as strongly that Communism is alien to the American temper and spirit. It does seem rather tragic that it is almost impossible to think of a committee like ours without at the same time having it suggested that this committee is secretly trying to put over Communistic propaganda. This is absolutely untrue.

"We kept our original name for the simple reason that we feel convinced that the future peace of the world will depend more upon amicable relations with Russia and her full cooperation in the maintenance of peace than on any other factor. It is obvious that a committee on better British-American understanding or Chinese-American understanding would be out of place, for it would suggest at once a measure of misunderstanding which does not exist. That such misunderstanding as regards Russia does exist needs no argument. It is in hope that something of this misunderstanding can be cleared up that the New Brunswick committee on better Russian-American relations hopes to continue to operate.

"DR. MILTON J. HOFFMAN"

Case originated at NEW YORK, N. Y.

File No. 100-2169 alp

Made at  BOSTON, MASS.	Date made  1-31-44	Period 12-28, 31-43 1-14, 23, 25, 27-44	Report made by  RICHARD T. HRADSKY
Title: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, formerly known as American Council on Soviet Relations			Character:  INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Synopsis:

The following is a report on the Massachusetts Branch of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, which is known in Boston as the Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship.

Indications of individuals resident in territory of the Boston Field Division in activities of the American Council on Soviet relations, predecessor of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, were noted in 1941. List of speakers, to counteract anti-Soviet propaganda and to organize a council on a national scale set out. Program of activities of the Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship traced. Executive Board members and sponsors reported, together with information concerning past activities of each. Information secured reflecting real or contemplated establishment of local councils in New Bedford, Springfield, and Lynn, Mass., and in Portland, Maine. Communist Party interest in the success of a mass meeting held in Symphony Hall, Boston, Mass., on November 14, 1943, commemorating the 15th anniversary of Soviet recognition by the United States noted, as well as activities of prominent Communist Party functionaries in the State Council. Subject organization's headquarters at 20 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass., and regular meetings are held on the first Thursday of each month at headquarters. Minutes of the December meeting secured, together with members in attendance at said meeting. First issue of organization's bulletin obtained.

Reference: Report of Special Agent RICHARD T. HRADSKY, dated 12-8-43 at Boston, Mass.

Details: This report treats of a Massachusetts branch of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, which is known in Boston as the Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship, with offices at 20 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass. The establishment and growth of such organization and participation of residents of the Boston Field Division is traced from 1941, when notice of same was first taken. The letters MCASTF are used herein as a contraction for Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship.

The participation in the American Council on Soviet Relations, forerunner of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, of individuals resident in the territory of the Boston Field Division was noted in June, 1941, when the issue of the Daily Worker dated June 29, 1941, reflected that THOMAS L. HARRIS, author and former advisor on religion at Harvard University, Cambridge, was a speaker at a rally on June 2, 1941, at Madison Square Garden, NYC, which was sponsored by the American Council on Soviet Relations, 112 East 19th Street, NYC. It was later learned that HARRIS was national secretary of this organization.

The succeeding issues of the Daily Worker reflected that DIRK J. STRUIK, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge; Dr. WALTER B. CANNON, Harvard University; and ALICE STONE BLACKWELL, Cambridge, Mass., veteran suffragist leader, were also affiliated with the American Council on Soviet Relations.

(u) [initials]

From Confidential Informant T-1 there was obtained a letter dated September 2, 1941, written on the stationery of the American Council on Soviet Relations and addressed to informant, which purported to show the future purposes of the American Council. The content of the letter was to the effect that the American Council on Soviet Relations expected to hold a conference in the late fall on the topic of "American Soviet Relations." According to the letter, "the purpose of this conference is to mobilize public opinion on behalf of full aid to the Soviet Union; to counteract anti-Soviet propaganda by a program of education; to organize the council on a national scale. Plans for this conference are still too tentative for public announcement, but it is not too soon for every group and individual interested in giving aid to the Soviet Union to begin work with the prospect of a national conference in mind.

"The first step in preparation for a conference is to arrange a public meeting for sometime between September 15th and October 15th. Local Councils which have recently organized successful meetings for Corliss Lamont should have no difficulty in arranging another within the next five or six weeks for the speakers listed on the enclosed schedule.

Even in cities where there is no local Council, interested individuals should not find it difficult to secure Local sponsorship by individuals or by some friendly organization, e. g. A.P.M., for one of the Council speakers. The meeting should be on as broad a basis as possible, preferably, but not necessarily, under the auspices of the American Council on Soviet Relations. (As a minimum, one speaker should be announced as speaking on behalf of the Council.)

Please inform the office, Room 805, 112 East 19th Street, as soon as possible when you expect to hold the meeting, giving a choice of dates, under whose auspices, on what topic, and for how large an audience.

If you are able to arrange meetings in neighboring suburbs or cities, within a radius of one hundred miles, there will be no extra charge, except transportation for speakers marked with an asterisk. But by arranging other local meetings you can materially reduce the cost of your own, and greatly increase the Council's effectiveness.

Please get in touch with us as soon as possible as we are arranging a number of tours of speakers.

/s/ THOMAS L. HARRIS"

The program mentioned in the above letter was a speakers schedule which listed the following speakers, with an estimated cost of each to subscribing councils.

S P E A K E R S     S C H E D U L E

These speakers, though not all on the regular American Council on Soviet Relations list, can, on occasion, be reached on a special basis through the National Office. In most cases, however, the cost would be $200 plus, the size of the meeting would have to be in the thousands, and the sponsorship a very broad one.

- 5) Speakers marked with asterisk may be obtained for fees up to $40 and in most instances would be willing to stay a few days (rest of paragraph not all legible)

No organizational activity relating to subject organization was apparent until from the same source it was learned that on October 23, 1942, the faculty and students in leading American universities had joined in signing a book entitled "Book of American Soviet Friendship," sponsored by the American Council on Soviet Relations, which expressed admiration for the Russian Army and leadership and pledged "undying gratitude of the democracies for Soviet sacrifices." The Daily Worker published an illustration of this book on October 18, 1942, explaining that a campaign was in progress to secure signatures to these books through unions and organizations at the price of 10¢ per signature to cover costs of the campaign and that these would be mounted and presented to Soviet officials on November 8, 1942, in connection with the celebration of the 25th Anniversary of the Soviet Union. Action was urged "to secure names of friends, shopmates, schoolmates, and fraternal brothers and sisters to this historic greeting to our fighting ally."

Harvard University and Wellesley College were mentioned as participants in this signature campaign. A circular titled "Salute To Our Russian Ally on her 25th Anniversary" was recovered, which reflected that a meeting under the auspices of the Lynn Committee for American Soviet Relations was held on November 27, 1942, at the Lynn Women's Clubhouse, 4 Nahant Street, Lynn. The principal address was made by Professor SAMUEL CROSS of Harvard University. A partial list of sponsors was noted at the foot of this circular, who were as follows:

Rev. Garfield Morgan
 Rev. William W. Rose
 Rev. Alfred W. Haywood
 Rev. Chester H. Howe
 Rabbi I. Harburg
 Rep. George J. O'Shea
 Mr. Ernest Chandler

Mr. George E. Nihan
 Dr. George W. Haywood
 Miss Louise S. Earle
 Mr. John Ingram
 Mrs. Lawrence M. Johnson
 Miss B. Bartlett
 Dr. J. D. Constantinides

A check was made of the indices of the Boston Field Division on the above-mentioned names, with negative results.

The Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship, 20 Newbury Street, Boston, was formed in April, 1943, with the announced purpose of promoting a better understanding and to strengthen "friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union." The formation of this council was announced by the Daily Worker, Communist Party newspaper, under date of April 16, 1943. The article reflected that the Chairman of the Council was Bishop G. BROMLEY OXNAM; Vice-Chairman, Professor HUGH W. BABB; Secretary-Treasurer, DIRK J. STRUIK. Other members comprising the Executive Board and sponsoring body were set out in the aforementioned Daily Worker article, but said names were listed in reference report and are not being listed at this point, but a brief reflecting the past activities of these individuals in the Boston Field Division is being included and is as follows:

Bishop G. BROMLEY OXNAM Bishop, Methodist Church, Boston; Mass. Honorary Chairman of Civil Liberties Committee for Racial Unity, 1943. Member of Committee of One Thousand. (The Committee of One Thousand is an organization formed October 6, 1943, to urge special consideration for the views of Soviet Russia and the reconstitution of the governments of Central and Eastern Europe.)

Professor HUGH W. BABB: Professor at Boston University, College of Business Administration.

Professor DIRK J. STRUIK: Professor of Mathematics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, editor of "Science and Society," a Marxist publication under strong Communist Party influence; president of MIT Chapter Teachers Union, AF of L, wrote article published in "New Masses", Communist Party publication on U.S. - USSR relations, and signed an open letter calling for cooperation with the Soviet Union. Has been active in movements to quash the Bridges case, opposed the Oklahoma Syndicalism Laws, and advocates discontinuance of the Dies Committee; is a member of the North American Spanish Aid Committee, and member of the National Committee of the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom, 519 West 21st Street, New York City.

ALEXANDER BRIN, editor of the Jewish Advocate in Boston. Was Vice-Chairman of the Emergency Work Conference to Free Anti-Fascist refugees in North Africa; and is the Chairman of a Committee of the Joint anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, 7 Water Street, Boston, Mass. Member of North American Spanish Aid Committee, and was Chairman of the Reception Committee for ITZIK FEFFER and Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS, Russian-Jewish leaders who visited Boston in July, 1943.

Professor HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW DANA: A key figure in the Boston Field Division, reportedly purchased $20,000 of Soviet bonds in 1935. Lecturer on Soviet Drama. Engaged in Pacifist activities until July, 1941, but now advocates lend-lease to Russia. Has been affiliated with the League for Democratic Control, Workers Educational Institute, Boston Trade Union College, Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, Friends of Soviet Russia, League for Industrial Democracy, World Congress Against War, American League Against War and Fascism, Committee for Defense of Political Prisoners, North American Spanish Aid Committee, American Peace Mobilization, International Workers Order, and Russian War Relief. DANA is a frequent contact of Communist Party officials in Boston and is alleged to have been released from Columbia University for radical activities and barred from England when traveling on a visit to Soviet Russia in 1932.

Dr. ALBERT C. DIFFENBACH: Minister, Unitarian Church, Lynn, Mass., reported to be a subscriber to the Communist Weekly Publication "Analyst". Member of Massachusetts Citizens Committee for Racial Unity, and signed a letter to AF of L President WILLIAM GREEN, pressing for international labor unity published in the Daily Worker, October 11, 1943.

SIDNEY S. GRANT, legal representative of the Communist Party in Massachusetts, and for the Massachusetts State CIO, reported member of Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts, in 1941. Prominently mentioned in Communist activities at Boston Field Division.

AT NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

On May 21, 1943, organization of a New Bedford, Mass. branch of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship was announced in the New Bedford Standard Times, with ROBERT C. SALTMAIR of New Bedford as Chairman; Mrs. CURTIS C. TRIPP, vice chairman, and Mrs. ARTHUR GOLDYS, secretary. The announcement stated that "Anti-Soviet propaganda, much of it encouraged and set in motion by Nazi agents, is being counter-attacked in constructive fashion in many centers by the Council's movement."

A program was published of a rally to give the new organization impetus, to take place at the New Bedford High School, on June 22, 1943, at which meeting the chief speaker would be General VICTOR A. YAKKONTOFF, assistant secretary of war in the Kerensky Cabinet which followed the Russian revolution. The announcement of the New Bedford Unit of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship also stated that a correspondence campaign was being introduced by HYLIN KRIVOFF to New Bedford groups. Red, white, and blue cards with the Statue of Liberty and the symbolic Russian worker with the red star printed thereon and providing five lines for a brief, friendly message and a slot for a monetary contribution were being distributed among organizations. Beneath the slot was printed "I have also contributed money to help build American Soviet Friendship in the U.S." A postscript, "Please write me as soon as you can" completed the card. Half the money obtained was to be forwarded to the National Council in New York City, and half was to remain with the New Bedford Council, and the cards bearing messages to a recipient of Russian War Relief in Russia were to be mailed to the Soviet. Users of the cards were to fill in a blank space with the words: "A mill worker, a mechanic, a teacher," or whatever occupation he was interested in and the card would be delivered to a person in that classification in Russia. It was further mentioned that a Miss EVE BUDD, National Field Director of the National Council would visit New Bedford in the near future and that Mayor LaGUARDIA of New York City launched the nationwide "Correspondence for Friendship" campaign of the council by sending the first card to V. P. PRONIN, Chairman of the Moscow Soviet.

A partial list of the New Bedford Committee included the following individuals and the result of a search of the Boston Field Office indices reflected the information set out regarding each,

Mr. and Mrs. ARTHUR L. BOUVIER, members of Russian War Relief in New Bedford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. BREWER, publisher of the New Bedford Standard Times newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. JAMES A. COLLINS.

Mr. and Mrs. JOSEPH P. DUCHAINE. JOSEPH DUCHAINE reported member of the Executive Committee of Russian War Relief in New Bedford, Mass.

Rev. and Mrs. DUNCAN HOWLETT, negative.

Dr. and Mrs. BORIS CAPLAN. BORIS CAPLAN reported a member of the North American Spanish Aid Committee and Mrs. CAPLAN a member of Russian War Relief in New Bedford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. HYMAN KRIVOFF, member of the Executive Committee, Russian War Relief, New Bedford, Mass.

Mrs. MARY S. LEARY, negative.

Miss MINNA LITTMANN, negative.

Mr. and Mrs. ALEXANDER G. NIKITIN. Mr. NIKITIN is a Russian-born artist and painter and is active in Russian War Relief in New Bedford, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. NIKITIN are formerly of Blagoweschenk, Siberia, and Harbin, Manchuria. Became residents of the United States in 1935, after extensive travel in China. Mr. NIKITIN is chief designer at the Normandy Print Works.

Mrs. HELEN PRESCOTT, negative.

Dr. and Mrs. CURTIS G. TRIPP, members of the Executive Committee, Russian War Relief, New Bedford, Mass.

Rabbi BERNARD H. ZISKIND, negative.

ROBERT SALTMARSH, negative.

Mrs. ARTHUR GOLDYS, negative.

Indications that a representative of the New Bedford unit attended the Congress of American Soviet Friendship in New York City in November, 1943, were noted when the New Bedford Standard Times published a letter received from a reader, H. KRIVOFF, on November 24, 1943, who described his reactions while attending the Congress and reviewed its program.

The Boston Herald newspaper on June 28, 1943, reported that a meeting of the MCASF, attended by about 600 persons many garbed in colorful costumes of the Slavic states, was held in New England Mutual Hall, 225 Clarendon Street, Boston, at which Sir ELLSWORTH FLAVELLE, Toronto, Canada, Chairman of the newly formed council of Canadian Soviet Friendship, spoke. The meeting commemorated the second anniversary of Hitler's attack on the Soviet Union. FLAVELLE stated that he expected the Canadian Council would promote the continued friendly relations between Canada and the United States in that his council would work with similar organizations in this country. (Sir ELLSWORTH is a well-known banker and philanthropist and, according to the article, was heading a Canadian provisional committee of the council then in process of forming a permanent council to be representative of all Canada. A picture of Lady FLAVELLE, together with Sr. ELLSWORTH and HUGH W. BABB, vice chairman of the MCASF, is in the Boston file.)

Others in attendance and as speakers at this meetings were Bishop G. BROMLEY OXNAM, chairman; EDWARD S. SMITH, Executive Director of the National Council; HUGH P. ARVIN of the National Maritime Union; Professor LEWIS C. KARPINSKI, president of history of Science and Society; and RICHARD LINSLEY, international representative of UE. (LINSLEY is a key figure in the Boston Field Division.)

VILJALMUR STEFANSSON, Arctic explorer, and B. GEBERT, president of the Polish section of the International Workers Order were scheduled to appear, but did not.

Confidential Informant O reported that the speakers shared the stage at this meeting with four WACs, five members of the U.S. Coast Guard of whom four were negroes, and a group of Russian seamen, members of the Soviet Union Mercantile Marine. The meeting opened with the playing of the National Anthem and the Internationale, and later Russian music was played by NICHOLAS SLONIMSKY, pianist. About $518.00 was collected from the audience. A digest of the speeches follows:

Professor LOUIS C. KARPINSKI of the University of Michigan declared that "the polish reactionary workers who go to church and learn nothing" precipitated the Detroit race riots in order to hinder production of lend-lease material for the Soviet Union. He asserted he saw two zoot-suited youths in a Polish church in Detroit. Asking for Federal intervention in that city, he called the Detroit Police corrupt and inefficient and complained that he had been forbidden to speak on Copernicus in the Copernicus High School there. KARPINSKI further declared that only liberal Poles attended the University of Michigan.

Turning to international matters, KARPINSKI accused the Polish Government of responsibility for that country's break with Russia, asserting that it was wrong to make accusations against an ally. Boundary questions between Russia and Poland, and Russia and the Baltic States will disappear when the masses in the countries affected are given educational opportunities, he predicted.

EDWIN S. SMITH, executive director, National Council of American Soviet Friendship, said the Boston City Council had hindered the war effort by its effort to prevent the showing of the motion picture "Mission to Moscow." He described the work of the Council in arranging for lectures, films, and exhibits and publishing material designed to bring closer together the American and Russian peoples. Nearly 600 American physicians have been brought together by the Friends of Soviet Medicine in New York, he said.

(u) ~~SECRET~~
 HUGH W. BABB, professor at the Boston University College of Business Administration, argued for the opening of a second front in a manner which would meet the strategic requirements of the Soviet High Command. He said nothing of relating the second front to American strategy.

From Confidential Informant T-1 was also obtained a letter dated April 6, 1943, which was received by T-1 from the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, 232 Madison Avenue, New York City, explaining about the widespread interest of the American people in the Soviet Union. The letter related as follows:

"When the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship and its great Madison Square Garden Meeting was planned, there was little realization of how widespread was the interest of the American people in the Soviet Union. After the Congress, there came from every part of the United States and from every level of American life requests for information about the Soviet people and their magnificent part in our common war;

To meet this demand, the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship has recently been organized. I am enclosing a brochure which outlines our program and activities. As you will see from this brochure, our program is two-fold: To furnish information about our Russian Ally and to initiate activities in which great numbers of Americans can participate in promoting friendship between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

The National Council is not a dues-paying membership organization. We plan to bring our program to existing organizations and make it possible for them to cooperate with us in furthering American-Soviet friendship. To this end, we have departments on trade unions, youth, nationalities, women, religious and professional groups that are prepared to work with organizations and individuals in these fields, both in furnishing information and in enabling them to take part in our activities.

We shall write you more in detail in the near future in connection with the activities listed in the brochure. In the meantime, won't you let us know if there is any service that we can give you in connection with our exhibits, films, speakers, and pamphlets?"

The brochure referred to in the above letter under block heading, sets forth the purpose, program, and educational services contemplated in furtherance of the development of the National Council and is as follows:

PURPOSE

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., was formed: To promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union as essential to the winning of the war, and the establishment of world-wide democracy and enduring peace.

PROGRAM

The program of the National Council is designed to carry out the above purpose (1) by meeting the demand of the American people for reliable information on all aspects of Soviet life, (2) by giving them an opportunity to express their admiration and friendship for our Russian Ally, and (3) by taking specific action against anti-Soviet propaganda aimed at dividing the United Nations.

1. EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

To organizations or individuals the National Council can furnish the following:

Exhibits: Numerous photographic exhibits on many phases of Soviet life.

Films: A wide variety of features and shorts, both 16 and 35 mm., silent and sound.

Pamphlets and Books: A reading list selected according to importance, popular price and availability. In preparation: A series of pamphlets under the Council's imprint.

Speakers: Authoritative speakers available through a speakers' Bureau.

2. SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

American-Soviet War Exhibit: Trophies captured from the Nazis by the Red Army, superb new photographs, cartoons, posters and other graphic material from the war fronts, both American and Soviet, dramatically presented, make this a different exhibit. Opening in New York in the spring, it will be toured throughout the country.

Tokens of Friendship: The people of American communities are invited to send tokens of friendship to people of corresponding Soviet communities. For example, Detroit might select Stalingrad. Different groups in that city - youth, trade unions, professionals, etc.- could send trade unions, professionals, etc.-could send useful or artistic tokens of friendship to similar groups in the city of adoption. It is imperative that the National Council, which will take charge of forwarding the tokens, be consulted about any proposed token before work on the project is begun.

Correspondence:

The National Council has prepared attractive postcards which American citizens may use for initiating correspondence with Soviet citizens. The National Council will forward these messages to individuals in the Soviet Union,

Friendship Pin:

Artists throughout the country have been invited to compete for the best design for an insignia symbolizing American-Soviet friendship. The winning design will be made into a pin, available to everyone.

Essay Contest: "Why is American-Soviet Friendship Important to the United States and how can it be maintained and strengthened?" Contest open to the young people of America. Prize: A free post war trip to the Soviet Union, or its cash equivalent.

3. HOW YOU CAN TAKE PART

Any individual or any organization interested in promoting American-Soviet friendship may participate in this program.

The National Council will assist in establishing councils in all the chief cities of the United States. These local councils, which are not dues-paying membership organizations, will be representative of various sections of the community and will bring the Council's program to existing organizations.

The National Council will set up special interest committees for trade unions, youth, women, nationalities, religious groups, professional groups, etc., which will cooperate with similar committees in councils throughout the country.

On the reverse side of the brochure is listed the officers and sponsors of the National Council, but it is believed unnecessary to set them out in this report, inasmuch as the New York Field Office has probably obtained this information.

On July 17, 1943, the Boston Globe newspaper reported that two representatives of a fighting ally - Russia - would be guests of honor at a reception to be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, Mass., under the sponsorship of the NCASF. The reception was held in honor of Professor SOLOMON MICHOELS and Lt. Colonel ITZIK FEFFER, both of Moscow, who were making a tour of the principal cities of the United States. Hostesses were listed as Mrs. CHARLES A. COOLIDGE, Mrs. HENRY K. SHERRILL, Mrs. HOWARD MURFORD JONES, Mrs. JOHN R. NICFOLS, Mrs. ROSE MORWOOD, Mrs. FANNIE BOWDITCH KATZ, Mrs. HUGH W. BABB, Mrs. WILLIAM H. CARY, Mrs. KARL T. COMPTON, Miss LUCY FRANKLIN, and Mrs. J. B. GORDON. Professor MICHOELS is people's artist of the Soviet Union and founder and director of the Moscow Jewish Art Theater, and Lt. Col. FEFFER is a noted Russian poet whose work has been translated into many languages.

The Washington Field Division advised the Boston Field Office on October 2, 1943, that information had been received that a list of persons who had requested the information bulletin of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C. had been received by it and that the list contained the name of Professor WILLIAM ERNEST HOCKING, Madison, New Hampshire, and Dr. SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY, Boston Symphony Orchester, Symphony Hall, Boston, Mass..

On October 29, 1943, Professor DIRK J. STRUIK, secretary treasurer of the MCA-SF, Boston, Mass., contributed a lengthy article to the People's Forum, a feature of a Boston newspaper, the Boston Traveler, in which readers may give their views and opinions on public questions. The article purported to answer criticisms leveled at the USSR and dealt first with the sowing of propaganda by the Axis in an attempt to rupture relations between the United Nations. Excerpts from this article reflect the views apparently held by the MCA-SF and answers to the criticisms are being set out:

"Now that the Axis is suffering defeat after defeat its propaganda is working constantly to sow discord between the United Nations and to prepare the road for a negotiated peace, which would only lead to even more wars in the future. The center of this propaganda is hatred of the Soviet Union.

The Fascist forces know that the most dangerous thing which can happen to them is the close collaboration of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

The direct attacks on the U.S.S.R. at present are aimed mostly at the following objectives:

The first insinuation is that the U.S.S.R. provoked this war by signing a non-aggression pact (by no means a mutual assistance pact) with the Nazis. As late as the spring of 1939 the U.S.S.R. worked towards an alliance with Great Britain, France, and China to stop fascism. Only when it learned that even at this late date the appeasers were offering a huge loan to Hitler, which could hardly be used except to attack the Soviet Union, did the U.S.S.R. accept Hitler's offer to sign a non-aggression pact. This pact, which gave the U.S.S.R. a breathing spell, allowed it to build a force sufficiently strong to stop the German invasion.

Another charge is that the U.S.S.R. will overrun Germany - or that it will not overrun it, but will come to an understanding with Hitler. Both possibilities seem to be regarded as equally criminal. The charge is that the U.S.S.R. has continually said that it will accept an unconditional surrender from any Fascist government, with the punishment of all guilty of Nazi crimes.

There is no doubt that the Soviet armies will press forward as fast and as far as they can till the armed power of the Nazis is entirely broken, which is exactly the war aim as expressed by President ROOSEVELT and Prime Minister Churchill.

"A third charge is that the U.S.S.R., by not giving us the use of its Siberian bases, is unnecessarily prolonging the war and causing the death of thousands of American boys. The facts are that the U.S.S.R. is bearing the brunt of the war against Germany, our common enemy, and that diversion of its forces in a second front war against Japan and Germany might cause the defeat of the United Nations in this war.

A fourth charge is that the U.S.S.R. does not want to apply the Atlantic Charter to the Baltic peoples. The facts are that no country has a better record in applying the principles of the Atlantic Charter to its own peoples than the U.S.S.R. Its policy with respect to the self determination of the many peoples within its own border has gained the admiration of all who have seen this policy in action.

A criticism offered by many people is that the U.S.S.R. does not show proper 'frankness' and 'confidence' in dealing with us. Let such people look back over the output in late years of some of our American newspapers, of some of our radio commentators, etc., or let them read some of the anti-Soviet pamphlets that are still being circulated by the millions in this country.

In the U.S.S.R. there is no such activity carried on against the U.S.A., neither in the press, nor on the radio, or anywhere else. We must conclude that the Russians may need to be shown clearly that they can trust us. This places the task of American-Soviet friendship clearly up to us.

AT PORTLAND, MAINE

On November 5, 1943, the Portland Press Herald, Portland, Maine newspaper, published a lengthy article which had been received as a letter from an individual named ARTHUR C. JOHNSON, a resident of Portland, Maine. The article treated of the contemplated Second Congress of American Soviet Friendship, which was scheduled for Madison Square Garden, New York City, on November 6, 7, and 8, 1943. The entire program of the Congress, including the speakers assigned to read panel discussions, as well as to give principal speeches, was discussed. The content of the article is not being herein set out due to its length and the probability that the program and its participants were secured and appropriate consideration given by the New York Field Division.

Inquiry at Portland, Maine, was made concerning ARTHUR C. JOHNSON by Special Agent DUDLEY S. HORTH, Boston, Mass. and Mr. DUNCAN OLIPHANT, editor of the Portland Press Herald, Portland, Maine, advised that JOHNSON is an elderly man and that he has known him for many years. He described JOHNSON as pro-Russian and probably pro-Communist, but did not believe he was a Communist Party member.

Confidential Informant G advised the Boston Field Division on September 20, 1943, that JOHNSON wrote a letter to the same newspaper which appeared in the September 11, 1943, edition under the caption "Soviet Constitution." The letter was in answer to a letter previously sent by "Free Thinker" of South Windham, Maine, who had recently discussed the Soviet Union. JOHNSON quoted articles 125, 134, and 139 of the Soviet Constitution for the benefit of "Free Thinker" who, he claimed is wrong in some of his assertions in regard to the Soviet nation. JOHNSON summed up his lengthy pro-Russian letter with a paragraph aimed at "Free Thinker," advising him not to indulge in any more loose and irresponsible talk about the Soviet Union, suggesting that Free Thinker purchase a copy of the Soviet Constitution and read it carefully.

(Additional investigation will be conducted concerning JOHNSON's activities with the Maine Council of American Soviet Friendship.)

DUNCAN OLIPHANT also advised Special Agent DUDLEY S. HORTH that Miss ELIZABETH MAYER of Boston, a girl of Italian descent, came to Portland, having been sent by Mrs. BEULAH BURHOE, formerly of Portland and now of New York City, to organize the Maine Council of Soviet Friendship. Mrs. BURHOE, according to OLIPHANT, is field agent for the Russian War Relief. Miss MAYER stayed at OLIPHANT's home and contacted a number of persons in Portland, but so far as Mr. OLIPHANT knows, the only person who accepted the idea with any enthusiasm was JOHNSON. The persons she saw are of the so-called "better class" in Portland, according to OLIPHANT, who said that he does not feel that Miss MAYER is a Communist, but believes that Mrs. BURHOE may be. He stated that he has watched the activities of Communists in Portland, Maine, especially when they became involved in organizations which they might use as fronts, and that this might be one of them if it gets under way.

The following information was received from Confidential Informant ☐
☐ TS-1: (u) (u)

On October 15, 1943, ANN BURLAK contacted H. W. L. DANA of Cambridge, Massachusetts, inviting him to attend a meeting which the Communist Party of Massachusetts was sponsoring at Symphony Hall on October 24. (u) (u)

1943, the principal speaker being WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. DANA advised BURLAK that there was then staying at his house Captain KOURNIKOFF. KOURNIKOFF was then in this area speaking on behalf of the Russian War Relief. DANA advised that he was attempting to get in touch with LESLIE ARNOLD, who is the proprietor of the Progressive Book Shop, and Professor D. J. STRUIK and others, and that DANA was attempting to secure the services of JOSEPH SALERNO and KOURNIKOFF as speakers at the meeting of the above organization on November 14. (C) (u)

ANN BURLAK, H. W. L. DANA, LESLIE ARNOLD, and D. J. STRUIK are all key figures in the Boston Field Division. (C) (u)

On October 19, 1943, LESLIE ARNOLD contacted ANN BURLAK, advising that the Council had arranged to have one ROCKWELL KENT, PAUL ROBESON, and Senator MURRAY from Montana. ARNOLD desired to secure the services of KENT as a speaker at a private meeting to be held in the Progressive Book Shop the day following his appearance for the above Council which BURLAK thought was a good idea. (C) (u)

Informant advised that the Communist Party of Massachusetts has been given 600 tickets to sell for this meeting. FANNIE HARTMAN and ANN BURLAK have issued instructions to their various branches that they should place some person in the branch in charge of ticket sales. (C) (u)

JAMES COULTER, Chief of Police, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company, Fore River, Massachusetts, advised this office on November 3, 1943, of the above mass meeting which was being held November 14 at 8:00 p.m. at Symphony Hall, Boston. He also advised that this organization has offices at 20 Newbury Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

The November 14 meeting referred to above, which was in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the recognition of Soviet Russia by the U.S. Government was held as scheduled and was reported in reference report.

AT SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Evidence of a Springfield Council of American Soviet Friendship was received from Confidential Informant G on November 24, 1943, when it was reported that the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet Relations was celebrated in the Springfield Technical High School, Springfield, Mass. with a mass meeting sponsored by the Springfield Council of American Soviet Friendship.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The main speaker, EDWIN S. SMITH, vice-chairman and executive director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, called for a second front as evidence of our sincere friendship towards Russia. Accenting the common stake of Russia and the United States in post-war arrangements, he blasted the red-baiting Hearst-Patterson-McCormick forces, citing the Moscow agreements as the final answer to them. Sketching the history of Russia in the present conflict, he drew particular attention to her role in the League of Nations.

RAYMOND T. KING was the presiding officer. Other speakers included Bishop WILLIAM APPLETON/LAWRENCE of the Springfield Episcopal Diocese, Reverend WILLIAM E. McCORMACK of First Church, Dr. WILLIAM N. DEBERRY of the Dunbar Community League, Rabbi Samuel Price, and Dr. GARRY DENHOUGH.

Among the sponsors of the Springfield meeting were Mrs. HILLER C. WELLMAN, who, on February 14, 1937, sponsored a meeting of the American League against War and Fascism; CHARLES MAKEY, music teacher, Bowdoin Street, Springfield; Mrs. CHARLES HATCH, whose husband is head claim adjuster for the Aetna Insurance Company, Florida Street, Springfield; JULIUS ELTZER, and wife, local real estate operators; NATE HARVEY, Springfield lawyer.

Two resolutions were passed at this meeting: the first, greeting and congratulating the Soviet Union and the Red Army; the second, commending the spirit of ROOSEVELT in American-Russo relations.

Apparently present on invitation, a group of fifteen to twenty colored soldiers were observed wearing Air Corps shoulder patches and attached presumably to Westover or Bradley Field. A colored lieutenant was also present, escorting a female companion.

Contributions were invited, and a considerable sum of money was donated in response with individuals giving substantial gifts.

The following literature was distributed at the Springfield meeting:

- X ORGANIZED LABOR IN THE SOVIET UNION.....EDWIN S. SMITH
- THE SOVIET POWER.....HEWLETT JOHNSON, Dean of Canterbury
- THE MAGAZINE, SOVIET RUSSIA TODAY.....
- X CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.S.R.....
- X AMERICA AND RUSSIA.....

- SIOB HEARST'S SEDITIOUS ATTACK ON OUR SOVIET ALLY - Pamphlet
- SOVIET RUSSIA AND THE POST WAR WORLD.....CORLISS LAMONT
- ANNOUNCING THE AMERICAN-SOVIET MEDICAL SOCIETY - Pamphlet
- RELIGION AND ANTI-SOVIET PROPAGANDA.....WILLIAM HOWARD STOLISE
reprinted from the Churchman, June 15, 1943

The Boston Herald newspaper dated 12-2-43 reported that CORLISS LAMONT, Chairman of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, addressed the congregation of the Community Church in Jordan Hall, 30 Cainsboro Street, Boston, Mass., on December 1, 1943, stating that Russia has a broader conception of democracy than the United States in that it actually conforms to racial and economic principles, declaring the outcome of the recent Moscow conference as one of the greatest things to be thankful for. He also warned of animosity and misunderstanding existing between America and Russia. Even in Boston, he said, there are many people "Out to Get the Soviet Union at Any Cost." The Community Church has DONALD LOTHROP, a key figure in the Boston Field Division, as its leader.

LAMONT also appeared before the Phillips Exeter Academy Forum, Exeter, New Hampshire, on December 13, 1943, and stated that America and the Soviet Union must cooperate in their post war aims to help build a system of collective security to maintain international stability. The future belongs to no one country or continent. It belongs to those who talk loosely and boastfully of the post war world of the twenty-first Century. It is not going to be the American Century, or the British Century, or the Russian Century. There was a man named HITLER who thought it would be the German Century. Our twentieth century will be the Century of the United Peoples of the Earth marching forward together in peace and progress and in freedom.

Confidential Informant G reported that copies of booklets published by the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, New York City, were appearing in Boston. One booklet of 48 pages entitled, "Drama in Wartime Russia" by HENRY W. DSWORTH LONGFELLOW DANA, was distributed at a meeting of the Four Freedoms Fellowship of Brookline. (This organization currently under investigation at the Boston Field Division.)

(C) The booklet, according to Confidential Informant G, informs at the outset of the contribution that the Russian theater has made to the strengthening of the civilian and military morale of the Russian people and is devoted to telling the leaders of the experiences that actors have had while performing for the soldiers in the front lines. It describes the Soviet Theater as a weapon which is mobilizing the minds of men and points out that the Soviet drama of today is shaping the minds of the Russian soldiers and the civilians for what they are facing today and will be confronted with tomorrow. These plays cover three fields of thought: 1. Those dealing with the early invasions of Russia and with the menace of Fascist and Nazi aggression--plays produced before the German attack; 2. Those covering the actual invasion, dealing with the united spirit of the Russian people in defense of their country; 3. Those telling of the allies of Russia, of other invaded countries, and of the goals of the war of liberation.

It is so written as to arouse the sympathy and admiration of the reader for the greatness of the Russian people of today.

Another illustrated booklet entitled, "A Family of Nations - the Soviet Union" is an historical accounting of the new Russia under the Soviet Union, in which people of all nationalities live together in complete equality, whereas under the rule of the TSAR, the non-Russian nationalities were kept in darkness and ignorance. The booklet tells its story by the following chapter headings:

A Family of Nations: A short review of the peoples making up the Soviet Union of today.

Peace and Freedom: This chapter relates that one of the first acts of the young Soviet Republic was to issue the Declaration of the Rights of the Nations of Russia to Self-Determination.

A Modern Nation in the Orient, Uzbekistan: A description is given of the changes in the lives of the six million Uzbeks since the rule of the Tsar, when ninety per cent were illiterate and girls were auctioned off for marriage like cattle. Today it is stated that there are more high school and college students in Uzbekistan than in Sweden, though Sweden had an eighty-year start in compulsory elementary education.

A New Nation is Born, Yakutia: Again the story is repeated of how the Soviet Union brought culture and a new standard of living to the people of this country.

An Ancient Nation Reborn, Armenia: A repetition of the previous chapter telling of the suffering and persecution the Armenians underwent before joining the Soviet Union.

Where All Discrimination Ends: This chapter speaks of the Jewish culture that exists in Russia, and of the bravery of Jewish fighters in the Red Army.

One of the Newest Soviet Republics, Estonia: Estonia was given her independence by the Soviet government after the revolution. Fascist governments then came into power and her industries, built to use Russian raw materials, were cut off from their source of supply and also from their markets, and deep poverty resulted. Her population dropped from 48,000 in 1914 to 23,000 in 1939. As a result of a treaty of mutual assistance with the Estonian government after Russia was attacked the Estonian dictatorship sabotaged this treaty with the Soviet Union and the people of Estonia forced their government to resign. The newly elected government established itself as a Soviet Government, and applied for admission to the Soviet Union.

Fighting Side by Side, Negroes: A vivid description is given of the equality which the Negroes have in the Soviet Union. Negro soldiers fought side by side with the many nationalities of the Caucasus when HITLER's soldiers marched into the Caucasus.

Constitutional Guarantees in the Soviet Union: "The people of a nationality are free when they have a right to make the laws under which they live. This basic right is guaranteed to the people of every nationality in the Soviet Union. It is the unbreakable thread that binds together the family of Soviet nations in complete equality."

Education the Cornerstone of Freedom: Throughout the Soviet Union education is compulsory. Each nationality is instructed in its native language, as well as Russian. It is stated that in the Soviet Union as a whole, books, magazines, and newspapers are published in one hundred and twelve different languages.

Another booklet of 48 pages commemorates the tenth anniversary of American-Soviet relations. It is a selection of the leading addresses delivered at the Madison Square Garden meeting and at the opening of the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship held in New York City, November 6, 7, 8, 1943. The booklet is on sale in Boston at the Progressive Book Shop, 8 Beach Street, Boston, Mass., which is operated by LESLIE ARNOLD, a prominent Communist Party functionary in this vicinity.

(S) (u)

[redacted] (S) (u) stated that the secretary of the meeting at its start was Mrs. CARY and that it was later voted that the secretary's books would not be audited after a brisk exchange of words among those present when the innuendo was made that CARY and STRUIK wanted to run the organization and that CARY wanted the secretary's office to control everything. A roster was passed around to get the signature of all present, and it was then announced that approximately $1800 had been raised at the mass meeting held on November 14, 1943, at Symphony Hall and that the council now had $600 in its treasury. Members were urged to subscribe to the magazine, "New Masses" and all were to strive to get members who are leaders in other organizations. Committees were voted upon and Professor DANA was elected Chairman of the Library Committee, assisted by LESLIE ARNOLD and Dr. SIMMONS, Professor STRUIK was elected chairman of the committee on by-laws, assisted by Professor BABB and Mr. NARMIE. Professor BABB was elected assistant treasurer and was empowered to sign all checks. The election of a permanent treasurer was held in abeyance pending the selection of some well-known banker, financial executive of prominence, or a well-known business man. The treasurer was to be only a figurehead and need not participate in council activities. (S) (u)

b7D

Mr. NARMIE, who was unknown to [redacted] (S) (u) was introduced as trustee of "The Building." Informant advised he did not learn if NARMIE was trustee of the building at 20 Newbury Street, at which headquarters of a council are located, or in some other building, but heard that he is trustee of some building owned by Boston University, which was mentioned as located on Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass. (S) (u)

b7D

Professor ERIC STARBUCK, professor of Modern Languages, Brooks School, 50 Federal Street, Boston, according to informant, was voted secretary of the Massachusetts Council later in the evening, and two additional committees were approved: committee of study groups, and a committee on films, but the chairman of each was not learned. (S) (u)

Following the adjournment of the meeting, informant stated that he spoke with LESLIE ARNOLD, manager of the Progressive Book Shop, a Doctor ROBERT SIMMONS, colored dentist, who has a residence and office at 222 Northampton Street, Boston, and who stated that he was a member (S) (u) of the New England Congress for Equal Opportunities and the Youth for Victory Council; with JOAN LEE TARNOPOL, 33 Kenwood Street, Brookline, Mass., who advised that she was the New England representative for the magazine, "New Masses," visited Russia in 1937, and had a lot of contacts in Boston among writers, authors, and playwrights. She gave informant her business card, which is being placed in the 1-A serial of this file. It is noted that this card was printed by the Century Press, which has been noted to do the bulk of printing for the Communist Party of Massachusetts. (S) (u)

Informant also spoke with TITUS SPARROW, a mulatto, who, according to informant, is an agitator and has written and spoken in behalf of Communism in past years. Informant said that all urged him to join one of the committees where his qualifications and interests would best suit him. Gave him a pamphlet entitled "Stop Hearst's Seditious Attack on our Soviet Ally" which recommended that the following things be done: (1) Write letters to the Hearst or other papers in your community which attack the Soviet Union and seek to divide us from our ally, condemning their tactics; (2) Cease to patronize such papers; (3) Write letters to the "Win the War" papers, criticizing the anti-Soviet utterances of the defeatist press; (4) Most important of all, write to Attorney General BIDDLE yourself and also persuade organizations to which you may be affiliated to pass resolutions to send to Attorney General Biddle and to the President, urging that HEARST be prosecuted for sedition. (S) (u)

"See the Soviet Union in Exhibits and Films" which pamphlet set out the titles of numerous films which are available for public showing, together with the price of each.

"Hear about the USSR," which listed the speakers who are obtainable to address public gatherings.

All these pamphlets are published by the National Council in New York City and their full content is not being set out, as it is believed that they have been obtained by the New York Field Division. All, however, are being retained in the 1-A serial of this file.

[redacted] at a later date, secured a copy of the official minutes of the council meeting for December 2, 1943, which are as follows: (S) (u) b7D

Present: Prof. Struik, Prof. Babb, Rev. Rose, Mrs. Cary, Mr. Suk, Mr. Nunn, Dr. Pavlo, Dr. Simmons, Prof. Dana, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Barbour, Miss Court, Mrs. Shapiro, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Katz, Mr. Swetsoff, Miss Lillian Aarons, Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Whitman, Mr. Starbuck, and Dr. Dieffenbach. (S) (u)

Mrs. Cary read the minutes of the previous council meeting and of the meeting of the executive board. After comments by Prof. Dana, the minutes were accepted. (e) (u)

Mrs. Cary suggests that meetings should first take up reports on activities accomplished for information of all; and then business for active members. Prof. STRUIK opposes division of meetings between existing and prospective members. He said that Council began as a group acting individually on their own responsibility. Now the Council is more organized and handles substantial sums of money, has definite plans ahead, sponsors, and a tentative executive board. The by-laws of the national organization provide for a general council, an executive board, and sponsors. The council includes all active workers. Prof. STRUIK said that at present our executive board has been functioning rather irregularly. He asked for a more definitely chosen and responsible council with an executive board directly responsible to the council. Sponsors should not be required to do any active work for us. All active friends should be asked to join the council, should be listed as members, and should wield the final power in the organization. The council should be able to enlarge itself by voting membership to representatives of other groups, such as labor, youth movements, etc. The executive board should do nothing except by authority of the council. (e) (u)

Prof. DANA suggests that other groups should themselves nominate those whom they wish admitted as members of our council. (e) (u)

Dr. PAVLO moves to appoint a committee of three to draw up by-laws. Prof. BABB suggests that we incorporate. Motion made and seconded to approve the report of Prof. STRUIK; it was so voted. (e) (u)

Dr. PAVLO's motion was renewed to appoint a committee on by-laws. It was seconded and passed. The suggestion was made and accepted that Prof. BABB should appoint the committee. He appointed Prof. STRUIK and Mr. NUNN, and on demand from the house included himself. (e) (u)

Mrs. CARY submitted a list of people constituting the council, and suggested that each present member should have the option of remaining or withdrawing. All members of the executive board are ex officio on the council. Mr. FORD and Mr. HOFFMAN were suggested as sponsors rather than as members of the council. It was moved and seconded that Mr. FORD should be asked to act as sponsor. Motion passed. (e) (u)

Prof. STRUIK suggests that names of prospective members of the council should be given to the executive board for submission at the following meeting. (e) (u)

Committee Reports: Trade Unions--Miss Machanic: Ernest Johnson of the AFL, Arthur Moriarty of the Typographical Union, and Salerno and Linsley of the CIO are ready to sign a letter to be sent out to 500 unions. The letter tells of the meeting at Symphony Hall, of the Moscow conference, and of the need for cooperation by labor. It is suggested that at the next meeting a report be made on speakers secured. The report is accepted. (e) (u)

Library Committee--Prof. Dana: $600 is available for the library. Prof. Dana suggests subscribing to Soviet Russia Today and similar magazines. He suggests also that we get some material printed in the Russian language, and buy a Russian Lexicon. Report accepted. Mr. ARNOLD moves that we arrange a lecture with slides on Russian Drama in Wartime to be given by Prof. DANA. Mr. NUNN suggests that we invite the Odd Fellows who will yield us Wesleyan Hall. It is moved, seconded, and voted that we charge 25¢ admission. (e) (u)

Committee on Publications--Prof. Struik: A bulletin will be issued containing a final statement on the Symphony Hall meeting; lists of new publications; a warning against the anti-Soviet propaganda now prevalent; announcements of Soviet films coming; and notices of coming Russian music. Kits for speakers will be provided containing definite data. Mr. NUNN says newspapers welcome news items about Russia. (e) (u)

Music Committee--Mrs. Cary: Reports attempts to contact Koussevitsky, but he is away. Report accepted. (e) (u)

Exhibitions and Films--Mrs. KATZ: Mrs. KATZ brought in Mr. SWETZOFF and contacted Miss ADLOW, who suggests contacting museums and libraries and preparing programs for schools. Suggests having Jordan's and other stores put Russian displays in windows. Report accepted. (e) (u)

Schools--Mrs. Nichols: Letters sent to heads of schools; some answers received; some services rendered. A meeting will be held to plan traveling exposition for school. (e) (u)

Youth--Miss Cort: American Youth for Democracy has been contacted. Don Bowlan, chairman, promises to use large meeting in February for our council. Miss CORT asks what she can offer to such youth groups. Mrs. WHITMAN suggests a short play on Russia, for 20 minutes, requiring 6 actors. Prof. DANA suggests study groups. Report accepted. (e) (u)

Finance--Dr. PAVLO: Accounts audited to Nov. 1; improvements in methods suggested. Moved and seconded to authorize Dr. PAVLO to sign checks as assistant treasurer, and so voted. Unanimously elected. (e) (u)

100211

Study groups and Speakers Bureau--Mrs. CARY: Speakers group is already functioning. It is suggested to have a class for training new speakers. Study groups are suggested for different aspects of the Soviets: language, daily life, history, etc. (S) (u)

Dr. Dieffenbach suggests that a budget be drawn up to be submitted at the next meeting. Dr. Dieffenbach, Prof. Struik, Dr. Pavlo appointed to draw up the budget. Motion made and seconded that first Thursday of each month be appointed for council meetings. Passed. (S) (u)

Motion made and seconded to adjourn. Passed. After adjournment, December 28th suggested for the lecture by Prof. DANA. (S) (u)

On December 16, 1943, a circular was received by Agent announcing that the MCASF was sponsoring an illustrated lecture by Professor DANA on "Drama of Wartime Russia" in Wesleyan Hall, 581 Boylston Street, on December 28, 1943. This meeting was attended by reporting Agent and approximately 100 persons were in attendance. The meeting was opened by Professor DIRK J. STRUIK, who reiterated the need for building friendly relations between the USA and the USSR and then introduced Professor DANA as having been a resident of Soviet Russia for six years and an expert in his line regarding drama in wartime Russia. DANA then proceeded with an illustrated lecture which proved very interesting and seemed to have a high propaganda appeal.

On December 23, 1943, Agent secured the first issue of the "Bulletin," a mimeographed sheet stamped with the name of the MCASF, 20 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass., KENmore 7188, which was dated December, 1943, Volume 1, No. 1, and the content is as follows:

ECHOES OF OUR NOVEMBER MASS MEETING

TRADE UNION COMMITTEE

We are still hearing enthusiastic echoes of our November 14th mass meeting in Symphony Hall. Judging by the number of late-comers that had to be turned away, by the inspiration of the meeting itself, and by the excellent front-page publicity it received -- as we hear from many sources -- it is considered a very important event. A more tangible echo -- it

A report of good progress on the organization of our trade union committee: Richard Linsley, international representative here of the United Electrical Workers, CIO, states that labor leaders in Massachusetts are showing interest and enthusiasm in its program --- the promotion of international labor unity. A substantial number of netted a little over $3,000 to our baby of a working budget, of which a part was specially earmarked for a Library Fund. The library is already well under way. Books and periodicals are being added as rapidly as our Library Committee can do so.

JESUS H. TOMAS RELEASED

A resolution was sent to the State Department from our November 14th meeting, you may remember, urging that Jesus Hernandez Tomas, former Loyalist Minister of Education in the Spanish Government, be allowed to continue his journey from the USSR to Mexico. He had been detained by U.S. immigration authorities in Seattle, on no stated charges. Mr. TOMAS has since been released and with his family and secretary is now in Mexico continuing his work in the struggle against fascism. The Joint anti-Fascist Refugee Committee has informed us that our action, together with that of many other good Americans, was a great contributing factor.

CIO, AFL and independent union representatives have already become working members of the committee.

MORE COMMITTEE NEWS

Other new committees recently set up are: Music, publications, exhibits and films, youth, schools, library. All persons wishing to take part in the special work of any of these committees are asked to contact our office.

LECTURE ON RUSSIAN DRAMA

Set down 8:00 PM, December 28, on your calendar, for that is the evening of Prof. Dana's lecture on Drama of Wartime Russia, in Wesleyan Hall, 581 Boylston Street, Boston. Prof. Dana has a wide reputation as an authority on the subject. He will illustrate his lecture with slides. Tickets are 25¢ and are available at this office.

development of science and technology. It is not only an individual reading "must" but an excellent book for schools, libraries, churches and trade unions. (Priced 35¢ at our office).

WE ALSO RECOMMEND

To be read in the Council library or purchased at the office:

"THE RUSSIANS"

By Albert Rhys Williams
An excellent source book on the USSR, their people, and why they fight, with much new information on wartime developments not found in the author's earlier book, "The Soviets."

"THE LAST DAYS OF SEVASTOPOL"

By Boris Voyetckhov
A new edition of an heroic story, priced only 60¢.

"SOVIET ASIA"

By Davies and Steiger
Two Canadian newspapermen give a detailed account of the achievements of Siberia, the Central Asiatic republics, etc. One fine chapter deals with the Northeast Passage.

"SOVIET TRADE UNIONS"

By Edwin S. Smith
An accurate report on Soviet trade unions, by the director of our National Council.

"26 YEARS OF THE U.S.S.R."

A special number of the Soviet Embassy Bulletin, with much information not found elsewhere. Copies free at our office.

BEWARE!

From time to time, our Bulletin will warn you of the propaganda campaigns by the defeatist press (Secretary Ickes calls it the "newspaper axis") and by other anti-United Nations forces in our midst. Most of the current attack on the Soviet Union centers around the status of the former Baltic states, the Western Ukraine (occupied by Poland in 1920) and Bessarabia. At the end of the 1st World War, these countries were forcibly taken away from the Soviet Union in order to build an anti-Soviet "cordon sanitaire." Be warned that our defeatists do not mention the discredited "cordon sanitaire" but now invoke the Atlantic Charter, at the same time openly or by implication casting their dark doubts upon the Moscow and Teheran Conferences. This, despite all evidence that the peoples of these border regions have in large majority expressed their desire to be in the Soviet Union. See Alter Brody's article in the December issue of "Soviet Russia Today", (available in our library.)

On January 4, 1944, Confidential Informant T-2 exhibited to Agent a letter dated January 3, 1944 and signed by ANNA CORT and addressed to Mr. DAVE BENNETT, [redacted] Cambridge, Mass., which advised as follows: (e) (u)

b7C

"Dear Mr. Bennett:

We are starting a Youth Group of the Massachusetts Council of American-Soviet Friendship, to reach the younger people in schools, offices, and factories who already want to know more about the Soviet Union but don't know just where or how to find out. Here's what we propose to do:

(u) (e) (u)
"To form small groups that will talk together about all phases of Soviet life and culture, to see Soviet movies, to hear and sing Russian songs, in short, to study and understand our Soviet allies,

"We're getting together Friday evening, January 14th at Westminster House, 185 Bay State Road, to make definite plans for the winter's work. Professor DANA will give us an illustrated talk on Soviet wartime drama.

"What particular sort of activity would you like most to see started that night? Are you interested in college forums? Would you like to start a neighborhood group to study the Soviet Union? Or what about working on Soviet music?

"This is an especially important point: We are asking just a few people - and you are among them - for specific suggestions of what is most important to do and how to do it. Won't you call me up, (LONGwood 1829 evenings), or call Mrs. CARY (KENmore 7188 during the day), and talk this over?

"We need your help. We are counting on you!

DAVE BENNETT mentioned above, is an active Communist Party member in the Boston District, as is his wife, BARBARA BENNETT, who before the formation of American Youth for Democracy, was chairman of the student section of the Young Communist League, Cambridge. Both are subjects of investigation in the Boston Field Division. (e) (u)

Also received from Confidential Informant T-2 was a pamphlet which was apparently an enclosure for letters emanating from the MCASF, which pamphlet was entitled, "Facts you will Want to Know about the Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship." The content was as follows: (4)

WHY?

(Our Purpose)

The Massachusetts Council of American Soviet Friendship was formed; to promote better understanding and strengthen friendly relations between the people of the United States and the Soviet Union, as essential to the winning of the war and the establishing of world democracy and peace. It is one of many such councils throughout the United States, affiliated with the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. Similar councils are set up in Canada and in England.

WHAT?

(Our Program)

To carry out the above purpose, our program includes: (1) meeting the need of Americans for reliable information about the Soviet Union, (2) circulating that information to the widest possible audience, (3) counteracting anti-Soviet propaganda aimed not only against the Soviet Union, but at dividing the United Nations.

HOW?

Educational Features

A Library A fast growing library of books and periodicals, supplemented by the facilities of our national sources. Thus, practically any existing material on the Soviet Union is available to the general public through our office.

A Speaker's Bureau We supply authoritative speakers, both local and national. Lists available at request.

Publications Our Council publishes pamphlets as the need arises, and serves as a clearing house for other current publications. These are free or priced nominally.

Films A wide variety of features and shorts may be rented through us at nominal cost.

Exhibits Numerous exhibits on many phases of Soviet life have been arranged. Some may be suitable for your organization.

Study and Language Groups Groups for study of the Soviet Union, and for study of the Russian language, are being enthusiastically formed by individuals and clubs. We'll gladly help you start yours.

AND...

(How YOU Can Take Part)

We invite and Welcome You to:

USE our facilities to learn and understand more about the Soviet Union.

JOIN our Council. Choose the special committee whose phase of work interests you most: trade union, youth, schools, music, library, publications, exhibits and films.

INVITE one of our speakers. Plan a stimulating meeting at your home or club.

FORM a study group of friends. Learn sociably while systematically.

VOLUNTEER spare time, a weekly afternoon perhaps, to help in our office.

AND CONTRIBUTE money if you possibly can. Not a subsidized organization, our work depends completely on contributions from the general public.

Included in the pamphlet was a list of the Executive Committee and sponsors of the MCASF which information has been previously reported.

In December, 1943, [ ] TS-1 advised that LESLIE ARNOLD was in charge of the Literature Table at the public meeting held at Symphony Hall November 14, 1943, and that one ETHEL MECHANIC, was employed in the office of the above council, which is located at 20 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass. (S) (u)

b7D

On January 13, 1944, information was received from the New York Field Division advising that a contribution to the National Council of American Soviet Friendship had been made by H. PRIEVOFF of the Nash Reclaiming Company, Inc., "for VASILKOW ASF" by check dated November 8, 1943, drawn on the Merchants National Bank, New Bedford, Mass., in the sum of $25. The contribution was also made by OSCAR COHEN, by check dated November 8, 1943, drawn on the First National Bank of Boston in the sum of $100.

AT LYNN, MASS.

Will endeavor to ascertain through Confidential Informants and appropriate sources if a local council is existant in Lynn, Mass. and secure identity of officers. Will also report activities of the Lynn council, if found existant, determining location of office, time and place of meetings.

AT PORTLAND, MAINE

Will determine if the efforts of ELIZABETH MAYER, who contacted various individuals in Portland, Maine, in October, 1943, in order to interest them in organizing a Maine Council of American Soviet Friendship were successful, and if such organization is existant and functioning in Maine. Particular attention should be given to the activities of ARTHUR C. JOHNSON, who, it was reported, embraced the organizational idea with enthusiasm, to determine if he has other Communist Party affiliations.

Will also endeavor to secure names of officers, time and place of meetings, and location of official headquarters.

AT SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Will determine the identity of the officers of the Springfield Council of American Soviet Friendship and members of the Executive Board; the location of the Springfield Council Headquarters, and time and place of regular meetings. Will report any activity sponsored by the Springfield Council in that vicinity and will report known Communist Party members control or authority in Council and participation in the Council's affairs.

AT NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

Will determine the location of the official headquarters of the New Bedford Council and the identity of the officers of said council.

Will also endeavor to note known Communist Party members control or participation in council affairs, determine the time and place of regular meetings, and report the activity of instant organization in New Bedford,

RE: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN-SOVIET FRIENDSHIP
INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

The Washington Field Division has informed that a highly confidential source advised that on January 24, 1944, Edwin Smith of the subject organization was in contact with Vladimir I. Sazykin of the Soviet Embassy. The informant stated that Smith referred to a celebration which will be sponsored presumably by the captioned organization on February 21, 1944. This celebration, according to the informant, will be in honor of the Red Army. Smith is said to have indicated that the dinner will take place at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, and between 1,500 and 1,700 persons are expected to attend. Smith reportedly contemplates the attendance of officials of the Soviet Union in this country.

In line with your teletype of February 8, 1943, in this matter, arrangements should be made to have an appropriate coverage of this affair.

Very truly yours,

John Edgar Hoover
Director

X SUMMARY

1-23-44

NOTE: GORDIENKO had several conversations with a woman MASHA (pho), who lives at [REDACTED]. He told her he just returned from Canada and asked how she fared in the meantime. She said she has been to the doctors (Dr. HELFGOTT), but has been unable to get rid of it, i.e., remedy her condition. She added the doctor advised her to go to Baltimore where he would take her to the right place to take care of it. She asked GORDIENKO for $50. to help her defray the expenses. He promised to give her $350. at 10 pm. Shortly after this conversation he contacted her again to tell her he just received a telegram from Moscow ordering him to California then on to Russia. He promised to stop to see her for 20 minutes before catching a plane to the west coast. About 20 minutes later GORDIENKO disguises his voice into a falsetto and advises her that GORDIENKO left via plane for the west coast and would send her a telegram and the money. In Russian.

9:41 am

ASSEEV tried to get in touch with Colonel HESS, Czech Legation, was unsuccessful.

10:00 am

FOMIN, N.Y. Consul's Office, to SARAYEV. FOMIN said a girl PATOVA (pho) who was sent here by Col. STUCTIONOV about 2 weeks ago has received orders to leave. FOMIN said he would have to have SARAYEV's authorization before he could give her any money. SARAYEV said he mailed a check for $300. to cover her keep and ticket. He added that it was agreed to give his people not more than $8. per day, but FOMIN admitted he advanced her some money. SARAYEV after a little argument agreed to make-up the necessary difference and promised to send instructions for future reference. In Russian.

11:10 am

EMIL DONNING of Savannah, Georgia identified self as the one who had several meetings down South with BOGDANOV of Amtorg, and asked if he could get in touch with him. NITKA suggested he contact the SPC.

11:15 am

A man asked Mrs. AFANASIEV who replaced Mrs. ROSTARCHUK, where he could get in touch with Mrs. ROSTARCHUK. He was told to contact the SPC, her new employer.

11:50 am

TOM DAVIN contacted TZYGANKOVA and told her he just arrived from N.Y. to spend a day in D.C. and upon a request from LILLIAN and ELEANOR he decided to say hello. TZYGANKOVA replied she would be in N.Y. soon and would see all of them then.

1:55 am

Mr. JENOFISKY, National Secretary of ICOR, said he just arrived from N.Y. and would like to have an audience with an Embassy official. He was told to contact the Embassy later in the day.

11:35 am Mr. BOHLEN at the State Dept. made an appointment with BAZYKIN to see him at 3 pm today. In Russian.

12:45 pm NITKA learned from Mr. PAYNE at the Chicago Northwestern that the Embassy has compartment F, car N-10 on the train for Portland, Oregon, leaving Chicago 8:15 pm February 2nd.

3:50 pm KRAFTZUR of Tass asked if he could see the Ambassador about a letter they received from N.Y. re PRAVDIN's bank account. MATVEEVA told him to come over.

5:52 pm SLIOUSARENKO talked to Mr. BROWN at the State Dept, said he had an urgent note from Ambassador GROMYKO to Secretary HULL, and wanted to know where he (SLIOUSARENKO) should deliver it. He was told to go to room 214.

Sen. Murray at
I 3WIB Rally Feb. 27

The Soviet Union's nationality policy and the greater autonomy granted to the constituent republics of the USSR will be one of the topics discussed by the Honorable James E. Murray, Senator of Montana, at a meeting at the Majestic Theatre, Sunday, Feb. 27, 2:30 P. M., at which was announced by Zlatko Balgkovic, chairman of the Nationalities Division of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

It is reported that considerable interest has been expressed in the to this organization, as well as reports received from sources that the organization was established by the Friends of the Soviet Union, organized in 1921 by the Executive Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., as a propaganda body for the Soviet Union. Other information received indicates that the organization later became known as the Friends of the Soviet Union, which for a time published "Soviet Russia Today," and thereafter after reportedly changing its character to that of the American Council on Soviet Relations. The American Council on Soviet Relations in turn is known to have formed the basis for the subject organization.

Other information is to the effect that functionaries or high officials of the Communist Party are extremely interested in the subject organization and the success of its activities.

The foregoing is submitted for your information and appropriate consideration. Should additional details be made available, they will, of course, be furnished to you promptly. It must be requested that in the event you take any action on this information, it be treated as most confidential so as to protect this Bureau's source.

East Side to Honor Red Army

East Side leaders are sponsoring a meeting celebrating the 26th anniversary of the Red Army on Wednesday evening, Feb. 23, at the Manhattan Plaza, 66 East Fourth St.

The meeting, arranged by the East Side Committee of The Council of American-Soviet Friendship will be addressed by Captain Sergei Kournakoff, military analyst and author of "Russia's Fighting Forces," Congressman Samuel Dickstein, Dr. Harry F. Ward, and Dr. Annette Rubinstein. Soviet front line films and a dramatic presentation in honor of the Red Army are scheduled. A special feature of the meeting will be the presentation to a Red Army man, who is now in New York, of a gift for the Red Army. Mrs. Gustave Hartman will preside.

INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent William F. Norton, Jr., dated February 15, 1944 at New York City. It should be noted that on Page 70 of the referenced report, an omission was made in that the name of ELEANOR ROOSEVELT was suggested as one of the persons together with Mrs. OGDEN REID to discuss the contribution of American women in the war. This was in reference to a women's panel of the National Congress of the subject organization held in November, 1943.

Because of the nature of the information furnished by the informant in the referenced report, this information was deleted from the report furnished to the Bureau and all interested field divisions.

Re: NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN - SOVIET FRIENDSHIP, INC.
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

There is being forwarded one 100 ft. roll of Micro-File film under separate cover. The first 250 exposures consist of practice shots taken in connection with the Quarterly Technical Conference and it is requested that these exposures be developed only. The exposures from approximately 250 to 720 were taken in connection with the above captioned matter and it is requested that these be developed and one enlarged print of each made.

It is known beforehand that all material photographed will be of interest to the above entitled investigation.

FROM: ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG

L: Hello, ALEX?
T: Yeah. Well, how are things going with you there?

L: What on the dinner?
T: Yeah.

L: What do you mean, the Red Army?
T: Yeah.

L: Oh, well, we're pushing hard on reservations. We have so far about 150. I mean, just starting, you know, really as of yesterday, and of course, the drive is to get 800 to 1,000 which is ..... (indistinct) as a minimum.
T: Yeah. You should try for 1,000.

L: Well, we can't get more than twelve hundred.
T: Well, a 1,000, I think will look good.

L: Well, what I mean is the hotel called us. They can't accommodate more than 1200 on account of the conditions. Well, what we're shooting for is 1,000.
T: Well, how many did you send out?

L: Well, we sent out as of Saturday, the batch, a whole batch, which is about 5,000.
T: What kind of a thing is it that you got out? Is it the kind of a thing that brings results, or is it one of those things that you should work under a certain general spirit, you know, and so forth.

L: Well the invitation that we had to get out on Saturday was just a general invitation because we didn't have the necessary speakers to - T: Well even a general invitation can result - it depends on how it's worded, you know.

L: Well, the general invitation was nice. I mean everybody liked it. It's just a question that we couldn't mention any names. Now the response, so far, everybody considers fair, as of Saturday, they only got it Monday and today we got about 22 reservations in the mail, the

ENCLOSURE

L: first mail, and only now we're starting on the telephone and so forth. You see. Now, I think we'll get the 800 to 1,000. We'll push and get that. The thing that I'm worried about is the program. Now, we got the Russian General, that Lieutenant General, so that thing's settled.

T: Yeah, definitely.

L: Definitely.

T: That's the head of the -

L: The head of the Purchasing Commission.

T: Oh, well. That's fine.

L: So that's very representative with HUGHIO (ph) you see.

T: Well, how about shooting out something to the people, even these two people, you know. I mean just -

L: Which two?

T: I mean these two. The War Department and the General.

L: Well, what we were going to do is we were going to wait until today or tomorrow, you see, and then round up everyone that we got. For instance, we have now LOUIS ANAMICK (ph), PAUL MANSHIP, (ph) MAX WERNER (ph) in addition to those, and we were going to send that out as a follow-up. Now in addition to the three, the two generals -

T: Did they suggest inviting the - what do you call it - the military attaches?

L: Yes. That's right. I was just going to say. In addition to the two generals, NED CORLIS (ph) speaking, we invited the attaches of the Chinese and British, and then, of course, we invited a lot of the Soviet officials like BIZIEK and KISALOV (ph), you know, all those people. And then, of course, we're after a few more individuals to whom - we sent a lot out, you know.

T: Well, you have already too many speakers.

L: No, not as speakers, just as guests. You know, to build up the platform a little, you see. Now in terms of the program, we're trying to get either KIPNES (ph) to sing and then another girl to sing the anthems.

T: Well, is KIPNES available?

L: Well, he's going to let us know today, and we're trying to get another girl from the Metropolitan to just open with two anthems, and we're also trying -

T: Well, two anthems? You got a new anthem already?

L: Yeah, sure.

T: Yeah, is it all right? I hadn't heard.

L: Yeah. We have it. We have it on the ..... (indistinct).
T: Well, they have to learn it.

L: Well, the point is they'll have to, see?
T: Is it available in English?

L: Yes, yes. Then we're trying to get as an instrumentalist either MISHA ELMAR (ph) or ..... (indistinct) HOROWITZ, and we're waiting word from them, and then, of course, we got some - we're building up like a movie short that'll take about 10 minutes, the latest shots that KISALOV (ph) told us about, that came from the - just came from the Embassy - shots of the Red Army in action, you know, and building up a program.

T: Well, don't build up too much, you know. You'll have it like last year's; 12:00 o'clock, 12:30. You know you keep on building, you see, and you don't know this is what you did - what you didn't build up already.

L: Now the other thing, of course, the problem is the fitting in the - we've got to move too on the women's meeting at the same time, and there, of course, the D--- problem is the tickets, selling the tickets, but we're trying to get that started as quickly as possible. Fortunately there you have four weeks yet, and you know, usually you sell the bulk of tickets in the last two weeks, you know how it is. People don't buy tickets -

T: I wish they didn't have that nationality meeting. I bet you could sell that meeting to the nationality people pretty good.

L: Well, that's the thing - we shouldn't have -
T: Yeah. Why in H--- do you have to go into so many things? D--- it. I never saw such bum organizers having - when you have such difficulty pulling one, you go ahead and organize a half a dozen.

L: Well, that's the thing.
T: Christmas!

L: You know, you can't do five things.
T: Of course, you can't.

L: You should have concentrated just on the dinner and the women's meeting. Now, of course, the nationality will take away some of it. You know, naturally, people will go there.
T: At the same time.

L: Now, I had one important thing -
T: Those things can be given up - all those other meetings.

L: Yeah. I wish they'd give up the nationality meeting and everybody concentrate on these two, the dinner and the women's meeting.
T: Yeah. That's all we discussed a month ago and it was so agreed, you know - never heard about other meetings. Concentrate on those two meetings and nothing else but - so what's the use of having meetings?

L: Well, I didn't know about the nationality meeting. When ELIZABETH talked to me, I killed - not killed it, but I talked it down and then they went right ahead. You know, you can't do ten things at one time.

T: Of course, you can't.

L: Now, anyway, I had a meeting last night with ED and TED and NEWTON.

T: NEWTON?

L: Uh huh, on the budget, and we have several proposals. Now I have a proposal that would cut about 25,000 and in my opinion .....(indistinct). In fact, I think it's an improvement. Now some of them tie in with yours. I propose to cut out New York entirely.

T: There's 12,000 there.

L: That's 12,000. Well, 10,000. 10,000 leaves ..... (indistinct) still there for the rent.

T: Do you have to pay the rent?

L: Well, we got the place.

T: Well, can't you lease it?

L: Well, that is, that all depends on whether we don't need it. I mean, if we can fit everything in the one national office. If we can do that, and that's what I've been thinking about, that would cut the 12, but I mean that is a question mark; that you got to wait - when you re-organize, you see. But in any case -

T: Better you have it all on one floor, isn't it?

L: That's right. Now in any case, there's 10. Then I propose some other changes. ED told me about your suggestion about EVE, about the field organizer. Well, my suggestion is to keep her on your suggestion, working through the mail and eliminate her traveling. That cuts 2. Then there's about 4 or 5 more I cut on the basis of decreased activities, and other factors which I'll explain. Then there is a big cut of about $10,000 more on the basis of - and I'd like you to think about this. Actually, TED brought the point up last night and it was in line with my planning, and somehow I think it's a good suggestion and that is this: Inasmuch as these various committees, as such, and we have five of them, you know, the cultural and so forth, actually only initiate one or two major activities a year and all the rest of the work is more or less trivial, the thought is to eliminate the committee heads, as such, and to have the organization from time to time itself initiate the very projects, the major projects that these committees would organize during the year. Now if you think of it this way, there are 13 people in these various committees. Now on the other hand, if they were eliminated and you had a staff of three people, three expert people, who would carry out the activities that these committees do, you save 10,000 dollars and what's more, I retraced the activities that all the committees have done in the last six months and this committee of three, in my opinion, would do all the activities that all the committees did. Do you see what I mean?

T: Yeah, yeah.

L: In other words, from the new set up that I think of, and I'm sure that TED does because we're more or less thinking parallel, you know -

T: What does ED say about it?

L: Well, ED has some suggestions on it. I mean his approach is very confused. You know what I mean. He just hasn't, TED has. TED has, I mean ED hasn't.

T: How about MILTON?

L: Well, MILTON is a little too new. I mean you can't say - he doesn't quite - to him it's more - he harps on - what is the organization for? What's its program? What is the most important thing it should do? Well, that's all right because to a certain extent it does clarify your whole approach, but at the moment, it's not concrete. You can't go on saying day after day what are we going to do when you've got to face the problem of cutting your budget.

T: Of course, of course.

L: So that I really think that the proposal that TED and I seem to be following - Of course, our angle was that we're having another meeting to thrash it out among ourselves before we bring it to you, and TED gets a cut of about 27 to 28. Now that's a substantial cut.

T: I should say so. The H---, it's almost a third.

L: Almost a third, and you see what I'm trying to do is to effect a cut that will not hinder your operation, but that would strengthen the organization. In other words, make it more closely knit.

T: That's right.

L: You see. Now another thing that I find after mature reflection. When you have all these committees operating this way, the leadership like ED, of course, there it happens to be exaggerated a bit, even let's say a broader leadership, a leadership that can embrace these activities more than he can, even then could not control the situation as well as he could under the new set up, because there every activity and only major activities are launched by the organization itself. Do you follow me? So that he has, the executive has, control of virtually every activity that goes on, and then what it would simply mean is that the organization instead of finagling around with one little trivial thing after another, would cut out for itself every month or every few weeks a specific task. In other words, like we said, in March, February, we're going to have the Red Army dinner. In April, we're going to have a women's meeting. In May, we're going to have a cultural dinner.

T: Something like that -

L: You know what I mean?

T: Yeah, that's it.

L: Then the organization has control of everything that happened, because it, itself, initiates and carries out the program and then the services take care of themselves, like the literature and all that business and in no way affects the field, and I think that it's tightening up the whole organization at a reduction of 25,000 bucks.

T: Well, that's it. You know, after all, you see ..... (indistinct) of actually organizing the work properly.

L: That's right because curiously enough, ALEX, when you start to analyze the budget and to think about it, it does open a new organizational prospective.

T: Of course, because the budget grew irrespective of the organization, so the conception was to build a budget and then we'll fill in people there, and that kind of - instead of the other way around, the budget should grow as your ramification grows. You see what I mean?

L: That's right. Well, I really think that this is on the right track -

T: Well, when are you going to bring it to a head, that's the point.

L: Well, what we're doing - we're having a meeting on Saturday afternoon, the four of us, to really thrash it out. I mean among ourselves, you know, analyze it and so forth and probably we'll approach you with it next week.

T: Oh, so, we're not going to have a meeting this Saturday?

L: No, because we figure this is more important, and we'll iron the whole thing out and then we will approach you. You know, when we have a unanimous more or less opinion, then we'll give it to you for your opinion.

T: Yeah. Well, are you also asking other people? Are you asking people who work there? What do they think about it?

L: Well, -

T: Not yet?

L: Well, no, I believe in bringing in one or two people who work there, but ED didn't sort of like it, and I didn't want to press it, you know.

T: Well, you'll have to explain to people without consideration, that's all. There's nothing else to do about it.

L: Well, that's the point, you see. I more or less - I don't want to - if he doesn't like it, see. I didn't want to bring anybody else.

T: Yeah, that's true.

L: But once we settle it, then we can introduce one or two on the staff, whose opinion we respect, What they think of it. In other words, when we come to you, we want to come to you on the basis that this is more or less the opinion of the whole organization.

T: Yes.

L: Then you give us your opinion, you see.

T: Yeah, sure.

L: So I think that's the best.

T: Well, I already gave you my opinion. I told you that it has to be cut, that's all, and the only thing is you're the fellows who have to do the cutting, but how about the feeling now, about your deciding to go ahead with the meeting. Is the feeling a little better?

L: Well, the feeling is a little better. Of course, you have a situation that worries me, and that is, there is a tendency to play the women's meeting against the dinner, and that to me is very demoralizing.

T: Well, who's doing that? Why?

L: Look, you know there's a tendency. You can't do that. You got to say to yourself, G--- D--- it, the two of them must be -

T: We agreed that. The main thing was I was afraid if you gave up this thing, there would be a drop in the morale.

L: That's right. There is and would be. The only thing - the thing that I'm trying to eliminate is the feeling that - well, you're going ahead with the dinner, now the meeting is going to suffer.

T: Nonsense! If one will succeed, it'll help the other.

L: Exactly, well that's the point.

T: This thing has to be publicized. The meeting has to be publicized as a meeting. It's a different kind of publicity.

L: Well, that's the problem, ALEX, and I have it, believe me, because the tendency is, you know, you're going - ED now feels - well, if we're putting emphasis now for a week on the dinner, are we ignoring the women's meeting, and he's afraid that the women's meeting may not come through. Well you can't take a negative defeat, you've got to take the approach -

T: Somebody here, a couple of people are working on the women's meeting and so forth, and then later everybody will work on the women's meeting and so forth.

L: That's right. Well, that's what I say. In other words, I said for C----- sake, for ten days let's hammer this G--- D--- dinner out until we got it in shape, and then the whole organization can throw itself on to the women's. You've got to do it, day and night until it's finished. I mean, we've taken these obligations. We can't run away from any that we initiate. Once we say we're going to do it, we got to do it, and if we feel that we can't do it, then let's not initiate it.

T: That's right.

L: Any way, I'll get it to you in a day or two.

T: So things are looking up -

L: A little better.

T: Well you got to get the thousand people. Don't build up too much the program.

L: In other words, your opinion is short and sweet.

T: Short and sweet, but definitely 11:00 o'clock, the thing should be over.

L: Oh, we're figuring by 11:00.

T: Last time, it was 12:30, remember?

L: Alright, yeah. Oh, no 11:00 o'clock.

T: You know you can't start on time - you think you're going to start also. You probably wouldn't start even before 9:00 o'clock. So it's a two-hour program, that's what you should figure, see?

L: All right. One other thing, ALEX. On the other dinner, everything set on that? I mean, that you know the speakers.

T: The speakers, yeah, yeah.

L: Did you get that Trade Union?

T: Yeah, yeah.

L: You got him, good, good. Who is he? Can you tell me, or do you want to wait?

T: Very private, very private, MIKE, MIKE, but very private. Don't tell anybody. He wants it to be very private. Please don't tell -

L: All right, I won't. The speakers are all lined up.

T: See, because you know people talk.

L: Yeah.

T: I understand you're meeting on Wednesday.

L: Yes.

T: Well just tell them about it; it's somebody, but don't give his name.

L: I won't say.

T: ..... (indistinct). There will be a labor meeting, that's all.

L: That is, we think we're getting him.

T: We're not announcing because we don't know who.

L: Yeah, yeah. Let's see now. I may not see you then until Friday night. Right?

T: Yeah, well I'll see about it. Your meeting the -

L: Yeah, I'm meeting at the school Wednesday night.

T: Well, last night they had 600 over there; that is, before last night rather. I think it's going to be all right.

L: Well, look, H---. Don't feel that -

T: They had a fine meeting of the faculty, over 50 people there. Very nice meeting of the faculty.

L: Of the faculty.

T: Good spirit.

L: The question is do you want to give me your opinion or not if, of course, this is something I know you've got to feel at the very night, but if we have cut down the pledged, I mean people who come, what would you shoot for?

T: Well, it all depends on the kind of people you have. I mean if you bill those people that stretched all the codes to give a hundred, you know, that kind of people. You see, it depends upon - you got to use that way.

L: I don't want to underestimate. In other words, when you call for a certain amount, if you get it, you must stop and I don't want to underestimate. I was hoping to fight for 20, but I wonder if that's a little too high.

T: Well, it wouldn't be too high. I think so, but I mean we'll know better, we'll see, we'll see. I'll see you before.

L: Yeah, I'll talk to you before and I'll keep in touch with you tomorrow. After each sale, I'll let you know how we come out on the tickets.

T: That's right.

T: Good-bye.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. LADD

Re: The American Soviet Friendship

Mr. Malley of the New York Field Division called to advise concerning the American Soviet Friendship. He reported that the New York Office has in their possession at the present time photostats of two letters.

These letters are of a routine nature, one being directed to the President in connection with some kind of Red Army service they are going to have, and the other is a letter to Mrs. Roosevelt regarding Mrs. Muriel Draper. Mr. Malley advised he will forward them to the Bureau in the next day or two.

Mr. Malley also advised concerning the Youth Congress that the Bureau desired to have brought up to date. He stated that there is absolutely no possibility to do it safely.

Respectfully,

J. K. Mumford

INTERNAL SECURITY - R

Dear Sir:

Confidential Informant [ ] whose identity is known to the Bureau, advised this Office that a Mrs. AGIN (phonetic) who is connected with the Council of American Soviet Friendship, Detroit, Michigan, Telephone Number UN 2-3600, contacted the Russian Consulate at New York City. She advised the Consulate that they were going to have a meeting on March 8, 1944 and would like to have a Russian woman at the meeting. The meeting will be held in connection with the International Women's Day. The Consulate advised that this information will be forwarded to Mr. KISSELEV, Consul General of the Soviet Consulate, and a letter will be directed to her concerning the matter.
